L. J. Phillips & Co. have sold for James McCreery the seven-story apartment house at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-first Street, 26 by 100. The purchaser, Zelah Van Loan, represents the New York Security and Trust Company.

John N. Golding has sold for George Schieffelin and others the plot at the southwest corner of Sixty-eighth Street and Broadway, 84.9 by 103.7 and irregular.

The Aetna Real Estate and Loan Company has added to its holdings at the southeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-third Street by purchasing from the estate of John Haffer the old building on the east side of Broadway, 91.6 feet south of Thirty-third Street, 27 by 93.11 by 20 by 87. The company now controls a plot 118.6 by 97.7, for which a thirty-story office building has been planned.

It is reported that the Sorrento apartment house, at the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Thirty-first Street, 49.7 by 95, has been sold. The property is owned by Gustav Brackley.

R. Pehlemann & Son have sold for Steers & Mencke the five-story brick apartment house at the southeast corner of Columbus Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street, 46.2 by 100.

The Frank L. Fisher Company has sold for Clarence True, for about $35,000, the five-story seventeen-foot American basement dwelling 307 West Ninety-second Street.

Slawson & Hobbs have sold for Rachel Axelrod the three-story dwelling 164 West Ninety-second Street.

Clarence F. James has sold for Frank E. Wise to a client the five-story single flat 251 West One Hundredth Street, 25 by 100.11.

The same broker, in conjunction with M. E. Curry, has also sold for Sarah C. Curry the three-story dwelling 252 West Seventy-sixth Street, 30 by 102.2; also, for John Shen, the similar property 254 West Seventy-sixth Street, 25 by 102.2.

Julius Levy & Co. have sold for Julius I. Livingston to an investor, for about $65,000, the six-story building at the northwest corner of Avenue D and Ninth Street, 26 by 93, with on "L" on the street, 20 by 44. The same brokers have also sold the two five-story flats 2271 and 2273 Seventh Avenue, 50 ft. to, for about $30,000.

Harris Sokolski & Son have sold for Weil & Mayer and Lcopold Kaufman the two six-story brownstone front apartment houses 923 and 925 Park Avenue, 25 feet north of Eighteth Street, 50 by 100.

Harris Fine has sold the six-story tenement 34 Delancey Street, northwest corner of Forsyth Street, 24.10 by 80.

Charles Galewski has bought, for about $84,000, the three five-story brownstone front double flats 16, 20, and 22 West One Hundred and Thirty-fourth Street.

Plans were filed yesterday for seven-story apartment houses to be erected at the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Eighty-ninth Street and on the north side of One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Street, 283 feet east of Broadway. The former will be built by David Rothschild and the latter by John Caggiano.

Architects Stein, Cohen & Roth submitted plans for the residence to be erected by Louis Fleischmann at 4 West Seventy-seventh Street, facing Manhattan Square, on a plot recently purchased by him through L. J. Phillips & Co. The house will cost $45,000.

W. E. & F. B. Taylor have sold for Henry L. Sprague, 53 West Fifty-third Street, 22 by 60 by 100 feet, a four-story and basement dwelling, to a client, on private terms.

Results at Auction.

Yesterday's offerings in the Trinity Building Salesroom resulted as follows:

By Peter F. Meyer & Co.

437 Sixth Street, north side, 150 feet west of Avenue A, 25 by 90.10, leasehold, five-story brick tenement; foreclosure sale, to George Colyer.....$3,450

69 East One Hundred and Fourth Street, north side, 92.6 feet west of Fourth Avenue, 12.6 by 100.11, three-story brick dwelling; foreclosure sale, to the plaintiff, the City Real Estate Company.... 5,100

211 East Seventeenth Street, north side, 421 feet west of Second Avenue, 15 by 92, four-story brick dwelling; foreclosure sale, to Charles S. Brown..... 11,500

By Charles A. Berrian.

Walton Avenue, as opened, northwest side, south of One Hundred and Sixty-first Street, 25 by 99.2, two-story frame dwelling; foreclosure sale, to the plaintiffs, George W. Peters and another, executors..... 3,300

THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

List of Plans Filed for New Structures and Alterations.

One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Street, north side, 283 feet east of Broadway, for two seven-story brick and stone flats, each 50 by 90; John Caggiano of 508 West One Hundred and Forty-seventh Street, owner and architect; total cost, $160,000.

Mohegan Avenue, east side, 120.5 feet north of One Hundred and Eightieth Street, for a two-story frame shop, 25 by 30; Mary Koch of 620 Courtlandt Avenue, owner; Gustav Schwarz of 554 East One Hundred and Eightieth Street, architect; cost, $500.

Briggs Avenue, south side, 295.4 feet east of the Southern Boulevard, for a two-story frame dwelling, 21 by 56.3; John Selfridge, owner; C. H. Skarry, Fordham Heights, architect; cost, $6,000.

No. 4 West Seventy-seventh Street, for a five-story brick and stone dwelling, 25 by 90; Louis Fleischman of 788 Broadway, owner; Stein, Cohen & Roth of 41 Union Square, architects; cost, $45,000.

Washington Avenue, east side, 531.7 feet south of Westchester Avenue, for a two-and-one-half-story frame dwelling, 20 by 35; William J. Purdy of 806 Caulfield Avenue, owner; W. C. Dickerson of Third Avenue and One Hundred and Forty-ninth Street, architect; cost, $3,000.

Brook Avenue, west side, 100 feet south of One Hundred and Seventy-first Street, for a four-story brick tenement, 62.7 by 28; Eliza Banns of 3,401 Third Avenue, owner; W. C. Dickerson, architect; cost, $12,000.

Fifteenth Street, north side, 187.4 feet west of Avenue B, for a one-story brick weighing house, 9.4 by 15.4; Consolidated Gas Company of 4 Irving Place, owner and architect; cost, $550.

Madison Avenue, northeast corner of Eighty-ninth Street, for a seven-story brick flat, 37 and 38 by 95.8; David Rothschild, owner; G. F. Pelham of 508 Fifth Avenue, architect; cost, $175,000.

Alterations.

No. 331 Fourth Avenue, to a five-story brick shop; Goelet estate, owner; E. G. Treganza of 331 Fourth Avenue, architect; cost, $2,000.

Church Street, southwest corner of Franklin Street, to a five-story brick store and offices; estate of William Watson of 260 Church Street, owner; Thom & Wilson of 111 Fifth Avenue, architects; cost, $500.

Prospect Street, south side, 500 feet east of Main Street, City Island, to a one-story frame boiler house; Westchester Lighting Company, owner; cost, $225.

No. 517 West Nineteenth Street, to a four-story brick bakery; Link estate of 517 West Nineteenth Street, owner; George Hall of 158 Prince Street, architect; cost, $300.

Nos. 10 and 12 West Twenty-second Street, to two four-story and basement brownstone and office buildings; C. & L. N. McCready of 4 East Seventy-fifth Street, owners; Emile W. Granert of 10 West Twenty-second Street, architect; cost, $12,000.

No. 654 Broadway, to a six-story brick office building; C. L. Hasell, owner; W. L. Irving of 35 Sullivan Street; architect; cost, $250.

Third Avenue, west side, Sixty-sixth to Sixty-seventh Streets, to eight five-story brick flats; W. W. Astor of 21 West Twenty-sixth Street, owner; John Downey of 410 West Thirty-fourth Street, architect; cost, $1,000.

Nos. 25 to 29 William Street and 36 to 42 Exchange Place, to a fifteen-story and basement brick and stone office building; John T. Williams, Stamford, Conn., owner and architect; cost, $1,200.

Woodycrest Avenue, west side, 150 feet south of One Hundred and Sixty-eighth Street, to move a two-story frame dwelling from Nelson Avenue, southwest corner of One Hundred and Seventieth Street; S. E. Brown, premises, owner; William Guggoiz of 2,307 Bathgate Avenue, architect; cost, $2,500.

One Hundred and Sixty-second Street, north side, 115 feet east of Jerome Avenue, to a two-and-a-half-story brick and frame hotel; George H. Huber, premises, owner; John E. Kerby, architect; cost, $1,000.

BUILDING STATISTICS FOR 1900.

Department Report Will Show Large Decrease from Last Year's Figures.

The amount involved in projected building operations for the current year, as shown by the records of the Building Department, will disclose a falling off of about 50 per cent. from the figures of 1899. Up to date the plans for new buildings and alterations filed in 1900 represent an outlay of $63,680,994, as against $126,646,698 for the corresponding period in 1899.

Two reasons are given for this decrease. During December, 1899, there was a rush on the part of builders and land owners to get plans on record under the old Building Code, with its less exacting provisions, while during the Spring of this year the high prices of materials caused a general suspension of building operations.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

In the following list "mtg" stands for mortgage and "R S" for revenue stamps. The war revenue law provides that stamps shall be placed on all conveyances at the rate of 50 cents for each $500 of consideration. This "consideration" has been held to mean only the equity above the mortgage, except in the rare cases where the purchaser assumes payment of the mortgage. The amount of the mortgage plus 1,000 times the value of the revenue stamps on the conveyances should therefore show the true consideration:

Friday, Dec. 28.

AMSTERDAM AV, n e corner of 130th St, 24.11x100; Augusta C. Hovet and another to Julia C. Dedrick, (R S $26,) 2-3 part..... $1

AMSTERDAM AV, e s, 24.11 ft n of 130th St, 25x99.1; Julia C. Dedrick to Augusta C. Hovet, ½ part, (R S $5.50, mtg $10,000)..... 1

BATHGATE AV, e s, 26.6 ft n of 181st St, 26.4x100; John J, O'Brien to James McElvaney, (mtg $5,000, R S $7.50)..... 1

BATHGATE AV, e s, 26.6 ft n of 181st St, 26.4x100; James McElvaney to Bernard McManus, (mtg $5,000)..... 1

BOWERY, c s, 43.6 ft n of Broome St, 13.6x72.11x13.6x72.2; Mary A. Ward and another to Mary A. Brady, (R S $10,) ½ part..... 1

BROOK AV, e s, 149.7 ft s of 165th St, 20.6x146.11x25x155.11; George Jauss to Elizabeth Lauter, (R S 50c.)..... 1

BROOME ST, n s, 50.1 ft e of Orchard St, 38.10x87.6; William H. Brady, executor and trustee, to Harris Mandelbaum and another, (R S $15.50,) ½ part..... 1

BROOME ST, n s, 50.1 ft e of Orchard St, 38.10x87.0; Mary A. Ward to Harris Mandelbaum, ½ part, (R S $15.50)..... 1

BROOME ST, 291, s w corner of Eldridge St, 21.10x87.6; Hyman Adelstein and another to Abraham Goodman and another, (R S $14, mtg $25,000)..... 1

CAMBRELING AV, w s, 133.4 ft n of Bayard St, 16.8x87.6; Westchester Homestead and Land Improvement Company to Josephine A. Boles, all liens, (R S 50 cents)..... 1

CANAL ST, s w corner of Washington St, 20x60; also property at Far Rockaway, L. I.; William McQuade to Annie McQuade, (R S $33.50)..... 1

CLINTON ST, 109 and 111, 50x77; William Lane to Samuel E. Jacob, (R S $25, mtg $35,000)..... 1

COLLEGE AV, e s, 406.6 ft n of 180th St, 25x100; Rose A. McCabe to Mary McCabe, (R S $11.50, mtg $14,-750)

THE NEW RUBBER COMBINATION

Will Have a Cash Capital of $10,000,000 —Its Purpose and Scope.

Much interest has been manifested in the International Crude Rubber Company, which was incorporated on Monday to bring about the cessation of the rubber war. Little information was obtainable about it until yesterday, when Charles R. Flint issued the following statement from his office:

The formation of the International Crude Rubber Company is the consummation of efforts that have been made to bring the business of the production and sale of the crude material within modern business methods. The new company will have a cash capital of $10,000,000, whereas the concerns now engaged in the business have a capital of only about $1,000,000 each. The capitalization in all is $30,000,000. Both the United States Rubber Company and the Rubber Goods Manufacturing Company will be stockholders in the new company.

Important advantages and economies can be secured by a large concern with ample capital. Crude rubber is now shipped in cases. If it could be shipped in large quantities in bulk, so that it could control the tonnage of a ship and could be locked up and guarded, it would save the more expensive shipment by cases. Rubber could then be brought to one point in New York where it could be assorted to the requirements of the manufacturers. At present there is not sufficient uniformity of grades in the crude material. Manufacturers have to take it as it comes. With uniform grades they could get better satisfaction as to their various compounds. The present lack of uniformity causes a loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the manufacturers every year.

The manufacture of rubber is divided into two branches. The United States Rubber Company makes rubber boots and shoes, the Rubber Goods Manufacturing Company makes all other kinds of rubber goods. The business of the latter is largely protected by trade marks and patents. There are fourteen companies outside of the United States Rubber Company engaged in the manufacture of rubber boots and shoes. These companies have been considering the idea of uniting under the name and style of the Standard Rubber Shoe Company, for the purpose of securing the economies to be obtained by such consolidation.

It is understood that the Standard Company, which is formed, will also have an interest in the International Crude Rubber Company. Representatives of these outside companies are to meet in this city on Monday next to decide as to the formation of the new company. The plan of consolidation provides that the preferred stock shall be issued only for tangible assets, while the common stock will be issued for good will, trade marks, &c. The manufacturing plants are to be appraised and quick assets are to be guaranteed.

GREATER JERSEY CITY SCHEME.

North Hudson Towns Opposed to It, and Will Defeat It.

The Greater Jersey City Commission, which has for its object the union of all the municipalities of Hudson County under one government, met in the City Hall, Jersey City, and adjourned until Jan. 3, the report of the Committee on Statistics not having been received from the printer.

It is known that when the vote is taken the Commissioners from Hoboken, Union Hill, West Hoboken, Guttenberg, Weehawken, North Bergen, Harrison, and Kearny will cast negative ballots and defeat the proposition. The representatives of the North Hudson towns are willing that they should be united under one government. They are willing, even, to consider a proposition to unite with Hoboken, but they are unalterably opposed to union with Jersey City.

Removing Jersey City Free Library.

The removal of the Free Library of Jersey City from its quarters in Washington Street to the new Public Library Building, on Mercer and Montgomery Streets and Jersey Avenue, began yesterday. As there are 68,000 volumes to be transferred the work will require several days. The Trustees were not able to say yesterday when the building will be formally opened to the public. They hoped, however, to have it open by Thursday.

City Real Estate for Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

ONE FOUR-STORY HOUSE. EVERY IMprovement, thirty-foot frontage; your choice of three, including corner; bakers given; near "L" road, trolleys, and schools; rent of stores pays all expenses; must be seen to be appreciated. OWNER, on premises, 956-958 East 165th St.

LOTS—Bronx bargains; Fremont, Woodycrest, Aqueduct Ave.; Fordham Road; three Woodlawn corners; others. GEORGE PURVIS, 156 Broadway.

BARGAIN. Handsome private dwelling, East 58th St.; price right; little cash needed; might exchange. GEORGE PURVIS, 156 Broadway.

NO. 81 WHITE STREET, NEAR BROADWAY. Business building; submit offers. GURNEE & HOPKINS, No. 134 West 23d St.

24TH WARD.—Several tracts desirably located acreage, for sale or exchange. OWNER, 20 Broad St., Room 1,002.

WEST 94TH ST. Three-story house; 11 rooms; bargain price. OWNER, 142 West 38th St.

Brooklyn Real Estate for Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

FOR SALE OR LEASE, 680 FEET WATER front, foot 39th St. Ferry, South Brooklyn, 200x240; yard and building; 32 feet water, low tide; also, for sale, three flat houses, Clinton Av., near Fulton; bargain. PIERSON & WOLFFE, 35 Nassau St. Tel. 583 Cort.

6 well located corners for SALOONS.
2 desirable corners for BAKERIES.
5 promising corners for DRUG STORES.
4 special corners for GROCERS.
2 extra large corners for DRY GOODS.
JOHN H. BURTIS, Gates Av., cor. Broadway.

FOR SALE OR LEASE, 680 FEET WATER front, foot 39th St. Ferry, South Brooklyn, 200x240; yard and building; 32 feet water, low tide; also, for sale, three flat houses, Clinton Av., near Fulton; bargain. PIERSON & WOLFFE, 35 Nassau St. Tel. 583 Cort.

ONE LEFT—2-FAMILY HOUSE, 2-STORY AND basement, cellar; all improvements; 12 rooms and bath; price $4,000; cash $500, balance $30 quarterly; asphalt street. 1,249 Sterling Place; open; investigate.

Mortgage Loans.

New York and Brooklyn Property.
DIOSSY & CO., 5 COURT SQ., B'KLYN.

BARGAINS.—Three choice lots, Prospect Place, Sterling Place, near Washington Av. GEORGE PURVIS, 156 Broadway, Manhattan.

WHEN YOU WANT A BARGAIN IN BROOKlyn real estate, call and see KETCHAM BROS., 1,565 Broadway.

Country Real Estate for Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

FOR SALE,
A GENTLEMAN'S COUNTRY RESIDENCE

in a refined neighborhood, on the shore at Byram Point, consisting of (22½) acres of high land on the open sound, on the New Haven Railroad, 47) minutes' drive to station, and only (39) minutes from Grand Central Depot, with a Colonial Style house, built of yellow Nova Scotia stone and frame, consisting of (23) rooms, (3) baths handsomely decorated, all the latest improvements, open plumbing of the finest manufactured.

Stable for (6) horses and ample space for carriages.

An excellent Dock and a 50-foot Boathouse, bath houses, beach. The grounds are beautifully laid out. All in the best of order. For other particulars call or address THOMAS N. COOKE, P. O. Building, Greenwich, Conn.

FARM, 120 ACRES, 10 TIMBER; 18-ROOM house, 2 barns; farmhouse; plenty fruit; productive soil; 1 hour from city; cost, $35,000; must sell to close estate; price, $10,000. ATWATER, 156 Broadway.

DAIRY FARM, HOUSE, AND BARN, $2,300; easy terms; 14 acres; house and barn $900; many others. Send for list, BEARDALL, 11 Willoughby St., Brooklyn.

Business Property Wanted.

FACTORY LOFTS WANTED.
We have more calls for lofts than we can supply.
If you have lofts to let send us particulars or manager will call.
Now is the time to act.
CHAS. H. EASTON & CO.
Tel. 795—38. 116 West 42d.

Real Estate Wanted.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display

OWNERS' ECONOMICAL MANAGEMENT assured of property placed in my charge. THEO. ROGERS BRILL, 351 West 59th St.

To Let for Business Purposes.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

STORES, LOFTS, AND OFFICES
TO LET AT LOWEST RATES.
JACOB A. KING, 491 B'WAY—81 E. 125TH ST.

LIGHT OFFICE 12x20, in fireproof building; elevator, heat, telephone, &c. JACOB A. KING, 491 Broadway.

6TH AV., 238.—Large floors, all modern improvements; will alter to suit tenants; ring janitor's bell.

26TH ST., 423 WEST.—Large store, with three rooms and plate-glass front; newly decorated; $18.

40TH ST., 438 AND 440 WEST.—Large stores, with plate-glass fronts; two rooms; decorated; $15.

Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, 368 HICKS ST.—Large store, with dwelling rooms; will decorate to suit; $16.

Real Estate.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

Oldest Strongest Best

TITLE GUARANTEE AND TRUST COMPANY.

EXAMINES AND GUARANTEES

Titles to Real Estate

CAPITAL & SURPLUS - $5,000,000

146 Broadway, New York.
175 Remsen St., Brooklyn.

ALL COUNTRY REAL ESTATE A SPECIALty; bargains and exchanges all directions. PHILLIPS & WELLS, Tribune Building.

New Jersey Property for Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

FOR SALE.—Corner lot, 90x100; best location Palisade Park; $1,000; easy terms.

FOR RENT.—Large 11-room new house, Hackensack, furnished or unfurnished; all improvements; large lot; near stations; might sell. PANGBORN & MARSHALL, 62 Wall St.

SALE, RENT.—Allenhurst, Elberon, Hollywood, Monmouth Beach, Rumson Road; desirable furnished cottages. WILLIAM LANE, Long Branch.

DEMAREST STATION.—Charming Queen Anne house, 8 lots; perfect order; cheap, $4,500. THOMAS PAYNE, 96 Broadway.

Real Estate for Exchange.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display

THOMAS P. PAYNE, 96 BROADWAY, HAS many parcels, large and small, of the finest city and country Properties for sale and exchange. Flats, Tenements, Business Property, Lots, private Dwellings, all sizes and all sections; suburban Houses and Farms; cash buyers for bargains; bargains for cash buyers; money on mortgage at lowest rates. Call or write.

Apartments to Let—Unfurnished.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

THE IOWA,
135 West 104th St.
JUST COMPLETED.

ELECTRIC ELEVATOR & HALL SERVICE. THE FINEST 6 & 7 ROOM APARTMENTS. With all up-to-date modern improvements; every room large, light, and beautifully decorated; large, handsome entrance hall and reception room, richly and tastefully furnished, about 300 feet from 104th St. station; express trains; Broadway and Amsterdam Av. electric cars. For further particulars apply on premises.

PAUL B. PUGH & CO., Builders and Owners.
STABLER & SMITH, AGENTS.
674 COLUMBUS AVE., 93D ST.
TELEPHONE 79 RIVERSIDE.

BACHELOR AP'TS.

112 West 44th St.
2 large light rooms and bath.
ASHFORTH & CO., 1,500 BROADWAY.

BROADWAY, 2,680 to 2,690, COR. 102D ST.—7 BEAUTIFUL ROOMS; BATH; all improvements; hall service; $40.00 to $55.00.

Brooklyn.

ELEGANT APARTMENTS, (new,) 404 and 406 Gold St., between Fulton and Willoughby; right in the gas goods section; 3 rooms and tiled bath; steam heated; hot water supplied; refrigerator; every room has outside window; resident janitor; private block; they just meet the demand for this section; rent $23 to $26. C. H. DENISON.

FIRE INSURANCE AT LOWEST RATES. JACOB A. KING, 81 E. 125TH ST., 491 B'WAY.

BUTLER ST., 173 TO 181, NEAR BOND.—3 handsome large rooms, newly painted; $5 to $8.

City Flats to Let—Unfurnished.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

SINGLE FLATS AT 58 EAST 96TH ST., NEAR Madison Av., $28. SCHNUGG, 78 East 96th St.

4 and 5 rooms at 91st St. and 1st Av.; new houses; $16-18; all improvements; also at 301 to 310 East 92d St.

21 and 23 East 99th St., near 5th Av.—Six rooms and bath; private halls; from $23 to $26; 10 rooms and bath, $40.

4 and 5 rooms and bath, $16-21, at 2 East 119th St., corner 5th Av.

New buildings, s. e. cor. 118th St. and Madison Av., 4 and 5 rooms and baths; hot water supply, &c., $16 to $25.

10TH ST., 524 EAST.—Three-room apartments; hot water, gas, and coal ranges; decorated; $12-$14.

JONES ST., 7, NEAR WEST 4TH ST., 6TH Av.—3-4 room apartments; decorated; $10-$14.50.

124TH ST., 230 WEST.—Large apartment; 6 rooms, bath; newly decorated; price, $16.

1ST AV., 1,083, NEAR 59TH ST.—3 large, light rooms; newly painted; $7.00 to $7.50.

Brooklyn.

ELEGANT CORNER FLAT, 6 ROOMS, $19.00. Ralph and Putnam Avs.; 593 Park Place, near Franklin. $14.60. Janitors.

HICKS ST., 363.—Desirable apartments of two and three rooms; prices, $7 and $8.

City Flats to Let—Furnished.

59 WEST 99TH ST., 1ST FLOOR WEST.—Gentleman with furnished flat will rent 2 or 3 rooms, singly or en suite; couple or gentlemen. Call Sunday or evenings.

Coal and Wood.

THOMAS STOKES,

Coal Dealer. Best grades of house coal, fresh mined; standard weight, lowest prices. Yards, 10th Av. and 52d St., 10th Av. and 54th St., 9th Av. and 34th St. Telephones 244 38th St., 203 Columbus.

STOKES BROS.'

HARLEM COAL YARD.
121st St. and 8th Av. Telephone 131 Harlem. A trial will insure best of service at lowest prices. Superior quality and weight guaranteed.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GUEST & CO.,

COAL AND WOOD.
Yards, 7th Av., cor. 49th St. Telephone, 435 Columbus. 306 West 43d St. Telephone, 2,279 38th St.

When in Need of Coal, Remember

LEONARD BROTHERS,

COAL AND WOOD,
245 WEST 125TH STREET.
Tel., 344 Harlem. Yard and Wharf, Mad. Av., 135th & 136th Sts., (Harlem River.)

BUY YOUR COAL & WOOD AT

THEDFORD'S,

27th St. and 9th Av. Quantity, quality, service. Telephone, 736-18th St.

T. H. Thorn & Co.

Best grade of red and white ash coal. Yard, 2d Ave., cor. 29th St. Tel. 1422 Madison sq.

Dancing.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

T. GEORGE DODWORTH,
NOS. 12 AND 14 EAST 49TH STREET.
Classes and private lessons.
SEASON NOW OPEN.

GEORGE W. WALLACE,
Leslie Rooms, 260 West 85d Street;
Ellerslie Rooms, 80-82 West 126th St.
Class and private tuition. See circular.

MACDONALD'S KNICKERBOCKER SCHOOL for Dancing, 44 East 14th St., Near Broadway. —Private and class lessons daily; send for circular; receptions every Wednesday and Saturday.

PROF. D. C. LESTER.—Dancing and polite deportment. Colonial Hall, 101st St. and Columbus Av. Offices' hours, 2 to 10 P. M.

Clothing.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR LADIES', GENtlemen's, and children's fine discarded Clothing, Jewelry, Furs, Bric-a-Brac, Furniture, Carpets. Mr. or Mrs. NAFTAL, 744 6th Av.

MADAME BLUM.—Absolutely highest prices for ladies' cast-off evening and street costumes; also furs. 759 6th Av.

MRS. COHEN, 629 6TH AV.—Highest prices paid for ladies' street and evening costumes, jewelry, furs.

Machinery.

DYNAMOS AND MOTORS, ALL SIZES IN stock, direct from factory of Triumph Electric Co.; send us postal, we do the rest. CHINNOCK ELECT. CO., 39 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

Lost and Found.

LOST.—STOCK CERTIFICATE, Southern R. R. Preferred; payment stopped; reward. FRANK M. SHARPE, 100 Hanson Place, Brooklyn.

Instruction.

20c. per line $4.50 per line for 30 times.

PRATT INSTITUTE,

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

EVENING CLASS
OF STRENGTH OF MATERIALS.

This class is of great value to architects, draughtsmen, engineers, machinists, and all those engaged in practical construction.

Class opens Jan. 2. Write for particulars.

Pratt Institute.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

DAY and EVENING CLASSES in Sewing, Dressmaking, Millinery, Art Needlework, and Basketry.

Winter term begins Jan. 2d. Applications should be made now.

STENOGRAPHY FOR BEGINNERS.

Complete course of sixty lessons begins Wednesday, January 2, 1901.

EVENING INSTITUTE,

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.
Central Branch, 502 Fulton St., Brooklyn.
Apply at once, or write to Educational Director for particulars.

EXPERT EDUCATION.—Backward youths and unsuccessful for college entrance received by expert tutor (married) of long experience, in his pleasant home, at Morristown, N. J. Success guaranteed. Number limited. Highest recommendation. Entire charge taken of pupils if wished. For circular and terms apply to H. PENN, Morristown, N. J.

SPANISH THOROUGHLY TAUGHT; EXPERIenced teacher; translation; English, Spanish, French. CABALLERO COE, 162 East 84th St.

FRENCH, SPANISH, ITALIAN INSTRUCTION; best method; expert teachers; terms moderate. Prof. J. M. PELLERIN, 207 West 25th.

Instruction—Business Colleges.

Enter now for six months' preparation before vacation.

Students may enter the Packard School at any time. The Packard plan of individual instruction insures the greatest possible progress consistent with individual effort and merit. Call or write.

PACKARD COMMERCIAL SCHOOL,
Fourth Av. and 23d St. 'Phone 10I—18.
DAY AND EVENING SESSIONS.

Musical.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

MRS. CAROLIN'S
MUSICAL BUREAU,
ARTISTS FOR SOCIAL FUNCTIONS.
2 WEST 33D ST.

PAULINE ELLIOTT RYDER.—Violinist for concerts and musicales; highest social, musical references; pupils accepted. Address 43 W. 34th.

PIANO.—Experienced teacher, graduate Berlin Conservatory, desires pupils; best references. Address Miss A., 1,360 3d Av.

MRS. EDWIN DUSTIN RUGGLES, ACCOMpanist for concerts and musicales. Apply to MME. CAROLINE, 2 West 33d St.

MISS EDITH ROBERTS, VIOLINIST, PUPIL of Shradieck. Address Box 1, 132 E. 23d St., for concerts and musicales.

JEANNE AEONE, AUTHORIZED BY FLOrenza d'Arona to teach her method; vocal instruction. 1,219 Madison Av.

GUSTAVE REHN! PIANIST! DESIRES A FEW more pupils; terms moderate; old established. Studio, 1 East 113th St.

RESPIRATORIUM.—Great help to singers for hoarseness. Call and investigate. 132 East 23d St.

HARRIET WARE.—Voice placement and piano teaching. STUDIO, 4 West 92d St.

Hotels and Restaurants.

20c. per line $4.50 per line for 30 times.

The . . .

Berkeley

Berkeley and Boylston Streets,

BOSTON.

The location is most desirable, being in close proximity to the Back Bay Stations of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and Boston & Albany Railroads, central to all places of amusement, and to the shopping district. Electric cars to all parts of the city and suburbs pass the door.

Special attention paid to the cuisine. Restaurant open till midnight.

JOHN A. SHERLOCK.

THE WALDO "ON THE HEIGHTS" 170 HICKS ST. NEAR PIERREPONT BROOKLYN

Newly Furnished and Heated by Steam. Excellent Table. Reasonable Rates. A Delightful Winter Home. WALDO SPRAGUE, Proprietor.

WHERE TO DINE.

TRAVELLERS' INFORMATION CO., 3 Park Place (apply to) 25 Union Sq.

Pompeiian Room, Gilsey House, B'way & 29th New, Original, Unique.

Rector's 44TH ST. AND BROADWAY. Service A LA CARTE.

Dutch Grill & Palm Court, Hotel Navarre, 33th St. & 7th Av. Orchestra. Alc.

Cafe Boulevard, 2D AVE. & 10TH ST. Tdh. Alc. Hungarian Orchestra.

Burns' FAMOUS REST. 45th & 6th Av. Terrapin, Game, Shell Fish. Fine Orchestra.

Dorlon's Oyster House, 6 & 7 East 23d St. Open for breakfast at 8 o'clock.

Hotel Metropole, 42d St., B'way. Rathskeller & Palm Garden. Alc. Music.

Dun Bld'g, Rest. Business Men's Dinner Alc Café. Lunch. B'way & Reade St.

Maryland Kitchen See the Old Year out and the New Year in 254 W. 34th St. Open All Night. Banquet Rooms.

Jack's 43d St. & 6th Av., & 74th & Columbus Noted for shell fish and game.

Wallace's Fifth Av. & 10th St. High-class Chop House & Ladies' Rest.

Ye Olde Tavern, 101 Duane. Quaint surroundings, Vidal & Thompson.

"Hartmann's" Business Men's Lunch. 1 B'way, Mills Bldg, 45 B'way

Cavanagh's 258 W. 23d St. Chops, Steaks, Game, Sea Food. Banquet Rooms.

JACQUIN'S, 54 W. 24th St. Alc. Tdh. (wine)55c.

Rogers' 6 PARK PLACE. A la Carte. Table d'Hote Dinner, 4 to 7, 50c.

Huber's WILHELMINA CAFE, 7 Av. & 116 St. Lunch & Table d'Hote. Alc. all hours.

West End Hotel, 125th St., near 7th Av. Tdh. D., 50c.; Sunday, 75c. MUSIC

J. BECK, French Tdh., (wine,) 50c. 140 Fulton St

Au chat noir.

32 W. 28th St. Business Men's Lunch, (wine,) 50c.

Table d'Hote, (orchestra,) 75c. A la Carte at all Hours.

And at 551 W. Broadway. Table d'Hote, with wine, 50c.

Furs.

FUR GARMENTS REMADE, REDYED, BLENDed into fashionable shapes. Seal Sacques, a specialty; estimates given. THE BARKER-FUR CO., 111 West 39th St.

A. D. WOLF, 31 WEST 125TH ST.—Practical Furrier; Seal Garments Altered and Repaired, a Specialty. Lowest Rates.

Pianos and Organs.

20c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

WEBER PIANOS

"Among all the instruments of the renowned makers, here and abroad, I to-day prefer the Weber because of its sympathethic tone-quality." EMMA CALVE.

"The Weber has given me the greatest satisfaction." JOHANNA GADSKI.

"The quality and tone are exceedingly sympathetic." MILKA TERNINA.

"It is a beautiful instrument." EDOUARD DE RESZKE.

"Perfect for accompanying the voice." ERNST VAN DYCK.

"Your pianos surpass all in excellence, both as to sonority and richness of tone." T. SALIGNAC.

Examine our beautiful Holiday Stock and obtain our prices and terms.

Fifth Avenue, Cor. 16th Street, New York,
605 Fulton Street, Brooklyn.

WISSNER PIANOS

Used by Eminent Artists.

BROOKLYN: COR. FULTON ST. & FLATBUSH AV. NEW YORK: 25 EAST 14TH ST.

Second-Hand Uprights of Good Makers.

$85—$125. Grands, $175—$300.

CALENBERG PIANOS

Are THE BEST in TONE, TOUCH, FINISH and DURABILITY.

Over 16,000 pleased customers is our evidence.

Special Inducements for Holiday Season.

TUNING, REPAIRING, RENTING.
Warerooms, 23 East 14th St.
EASY TERMS. OPEN EVENINGS.
A good Piano for $10 down and $1.50 weekly.

BEFORE DECIDING ON A PIANO IT will be to your interest to consult us and ascertain the great advantages in price, terms, and quality of the Hardman. "A word to the wise is sufficient," If in town call on us, if not, write. Hardman, Peck & Co., Mfrs., 5th Ave. and 19th St.

POPULAR

PEASE PIANOS.

109 WEST 42d ST., JUST WEST OF 6th AV.

Over 64,000 purchasers in the last half century will attest to the durability and fine tone qualities of the PEASE PIANOS. Special factory prices and easy terms. Bargains in used pianos of standard makes, from $125 up. Write for catalogue.

OPEN EVENINGS.

THE PIANOTIST
PIANO PLAYER.

An Ideal Holiday Gift.
The Only Player Awarded Medal at Paris Exposition of 1900.

Plays Any Piano. Any One Can Play It. Easily fitted to any piano. Endorsed by leading musicians. Recitals daily. Cash or Installments. THE PIANOTIST, 503 Fifth Av., Cor. 42d St.

MATHUSHEK & SON and OPERA PIANOS

This is bargain week with us, and we offer our patrons the rarest bargains of the year, including Chickering Grand, Steinway Upright, Decker Brothers', and our own new Holiday Stock at reduced prices; a small cash payment and balance in easy monthly payments. Rents $4 up. P.O.1
MATHUSHEK & SON, B'way, cor. 47th St.
Open evenings.

THE BIG WEST SIDE PIANO HOUSE.

A small cash payment secures for you a fine piano, stool and scarf, delivered free; balance on easy monthly payments. In addition to elegant Holiday Stock, we have Steinway, $150; Chickering, $135, and many other rare bargains; rents, $4 up.
741-743 8TH AVE., NEAR 46TH ST. Open Evenings.

Buy of manufacturer; reliable Connor Pianos; easy terms; renting; exchanging; repairing. Open evenings. 4 East 42d St.

$200 New Piano, stool, and scarf, $7 per month. Call at 1,569 Broadway, corner 47th St.; open evenings.

WINTERROTH PIANOS. CASH, INSTALMENTS, $125 UPWARD. 105 EAST 14TH ST. & 98 5TH AV. Open Evenings

$100.00—THIS MONTH ONLY, HOLIDAY BARgains; Beautiful Upright Piano, Stool, Scarf, 5 years' warrantee, one quarter's lessons free with every Piano; latest improvements. BANKS, 593 Lexington Av., 52d St.; open evenings.

MARSCHEIDER, 19 East 14th St.—Guaranteed high-grade pianos; easy terms; bargains in used pianos; price on every piano. Open evenings.

BARGAINS—New and second-hand upright pianos; fine makes, all improvements, mahogany, walnut, oak, or rosewood cases; fully warranted; $125 up; open evenings. WHITNEY & CO., 112 West 125th St.

EMERSON PIANOS.—Beautiful new designs; several slightly used; at unusually low prices; Steinway Parlor Grand; rare bargain. GEO. W. HERBERT, 10 East 17th St.

STEINWAY UPRIGHT BARGAIN; $150.—High-grade uprights, easy payments; rented, $3 upwards, allowed on purchase. Open evenings. O. W. WUERTZ, 1,514 Third Av., near 86th.

BARGAINS.—Pianos, new and second-hand; Steinway, Chickering, $100 up; rent $3 up; also self-playing pianos. MYLIUS, 12 Union Square, between 14th and 15th.

BEFORE RENTING OR PURCHASING A piano call and examine our stock; rents $3 up; old pianos exchanged. DEWEY & CO., 5 East 14th St.

BARGAINS.—Upright pianos, $100 upward; more value for money than elsewhere guaranteed; square, $20 upward; rented, exchanged; easy payments. CHRISTMAN, 21 East 14th St.

ELEGANT MAHOGANY UPRIGHT PIANO, slightly used, for $175; easy payments if desired; fully guaranteed. W. F. GWAY PIANO CO., 94 5th Av.

$10.00 FIRST PAYMENT. BALANCE EASY installments; elegant new uprights, delivered free. WESER BROS., 524 West 43d St.

STEINWAY, EVERY IMPROVEMENT. BEAUtifully carved, great sacrifice. Elegant Upright only $75. BIDDLE'S, 7 East 14th St.

SQUARE PIANO, $15; PEDAL BASS ORGAN, $20; 50c. weekly installments. TIFFANY PIANO CO., 129 5th Av.

WALTERS PIANOS, 105 WEST 33D ST., NEAR Broadway.—Large assortment, various makes; installments, exchange, repairing, tuning.

BARGAINS IN NEW AND SLIGHTLY USED pianos; easy payments; squares exchanged. WESER BROS., 524 West 43d St.

SPECIAL SALE OF FINE UPRIGHT PIANOS this week; extraordinary bargains for cash. HAHN, 165 W. 23d St.

UPRIGHT, ROSEWOOD CASE, FULL-SIZE, $50; snap. O'REILLY, 100 Franklin Av., near Myrtle Av., Brooklyn.

RENTS $3 TO $5 MONTHLY FOR PIANOS with orchestra and tremolo attachments. WESER BROS., 524 West 43d St.

UPRIGHT, $50; CHICKERING BARGAIN; installments. LOCKHART & CO., 117 East 14th St. and 92 5th Av.

Detective Agencies.

BAYER'S INTERNATIONAL DETECTIVE Agency, licensed and bonded, 320 Broadway, Rooms 717-718; telephone 1631 Franklin; all civil and criminal cases attended to by expert detectives; male or female; former detective Police Department.

Lawyers.

DIVORCE $50 entire expense. Lawyer GEO. ROBINSON, 99 Nassau.

For Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

CREDIT

ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING TO ANYBODY AND EVERYBODY.
MEN'S AND BOYS' SUITS, READY MADE OR TO ORDER; TOP COATS, REEFERS, HATS, SHOES.
LADIES' AND MISSES' TAILOR-MADE SUITS, UNDERWEAR, DRY GOODS, MILLINERY, CAPES, CLOAKS, FURS, WATCHES.
DIAMONDS, ALL KINDS JEWELRY, FURNITURE, CARPETS, ETC.

AARONSON
CREDIT CENTRE

62 BOWERY AND 157 CANAL ST., ONE FLIGHT UP.

Open from 8:30 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. OPEN SATURDAYS FROM 4:30 P. M. TO 11 P. M. ONLY. Sunday, from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M.
BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL.

CREDIT TO ALL.

DIAMONDS AND WATCHES
on small weekly or monthly payments; lowest prices; best quality; goods guaranteed; holiday goods a specialty.
NATIONAL DIAMOND WATCH CO.,
177-179 Broadway. Take elevator.

TYPEWRITERS.—Remingtons, Smith Premiers, and all standard makes rented, kept in repair; stands and ribbons free. Sold 25% to 75% less than manufacturer's prices. No relics of past ages carried in stock. Every machine sold kept in repair for one year free. F. S. WEBSTER CO., 317 Broadway. Telephone, 1,338 Franklin.

EDISON OR COLUMBIA RECORDS, $3.50 PER doz.; New Columbia Phonographs, $1.00, $4.50, $6.00, $10.00; very best made, $20.00; concert machines, $38.00; large records, $75c. each; records and talking machines exchanged. J. McELLYNNE, 202 B'way, Room 4.

DIAMONDS, WATCHES, and JEWELRY.—Cash or credit; reliable goods only, at moderate prices; articles delivered on first payment; will send representative if desired. AMERICAN WATCH AND DIAMOND COMPANY, 19 Maiden Lane; take elevator.

R. V. HURD, LATE WITH WILLIAM MOIR, saves you money on diamonds, watches, and all repairing; old gold, jewelry, gems bought, exchanged or remodeled, 126 West 23d St., bet. 6th and 7th Avs.

CUT THIS OUT! BY PRESENTING THIS ADvertisement at DAVIDOW BROS., 3d Av., cor. 124th St., the leading jewelers of Harlem for fine diamonds, watches, etc., you will receive a handsome souvenir free, starting Dec. 28.

TYPEWRITER, (NEW,) $40; REMODELED Remingtons, Smiths, $25; rentals reduced; repairing, (telephone,) CONSOLIDATED TYPEWRITER EXCHANGE, 241 Broadway.

TYPEWRITERS SOLD AND RENTED; EXpert repairing done. GENERAL TYPEWRITER EXCHANGE, 1 Park Place. 'Phone, 1573 Cortlandt.

TYPEWRITERS. — REMINGTONS, SMITHS, Blickenderfers, Hammonds, Williamses, Jewetts, Franklins, Calligraphs, sold, rented, exchanged, repaired. GORMAN, 79 Nassau St.

CREDIT WATCHES, $1 WEEKLY; DIAMONDS, silver novelties lowest prices; strictly confidential, oil paintings. MANHATTAN DIAMOND CO., 37 Maiden Lane; take elevator.

PHONOGRAPHS, GRAPHOPHONES BOUGHT, exchanged, sold, cash or $1 week; gramophone plates $2.50 dozen. 148 East 58th St.

CHAIRS, FOLDING IRON DIVAN BED, Upright Piano, Furniture, Typewriter, &c., of Doctor's office, 18 East 32d St.

SEWING MACHINES.—Best in the world for the least money; new machines for $10.00 at J. T. COUGHLIN, 544 8th Av., near 37th St.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED, BOUGHT, SOLD; expert repairing. R. & G. TYPEWRITER CO., 202 Broadway. Telephone, 999 Cortlandt.

AT 344 8TH AV. AND 172 WEST 23D ST.—Foot Knitting Co.; stocking retooted; underwear repaired.

Business Opportunities.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

CAN SECURE CONTRACT, 22 MILES TRACtion railroad; also building of power house; wanted, partner or partners with money; good inducements; court investigation. Address SUPT., care Kenny & Co., contractors, 1,232 Southern Boulevard.

RARE INVESTMENT.—Manufacturing stock, new electric lamp, perfect economy, adapted to all currents; will have enormous sales and pay heavy dividends; few $50 shares for sale at $10. Send for particulars at once. THOMAS P. PAYNE, 96 Broadway, New York.

SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY FOR A PARTY with small capital to purchase half interest in a special trade journal. New publicity scheme. An assured success. Address "PUBLICITY," Box 101 Times Office.

CASHIER.—National bank, (out of town,) now organizing, desires a gentleman of highest character as cashier; $5,000 to $10,000 investment in bank's stock necessary. Attorneys, Box 101 Times.

A CHOICE MAGAZINE PUBLISHING OPPORtunity for party with literary tastes wanting safe, promising property; $5,000 upward required; low price. Publishers' Broker, HARRIS, 150 Nassau St.

SEND 35 CENTS FOR SAMPLE FASTEST-selling article; something new; 90% profit. UP TO DATE NOVELTY CO., New Milford, Conn.

INSURANCE AGENTS MAKE BIG MONEY selling my policies; largest commissions paid. JACOB A. KING, 81 East 125th St.

ADVICE FREE.—Patents promptly procured; Investors' Guide FREE. EDGAR TATE & CO., Patent Attorneys, 245 Broadway.

CIGAR STAND.—Prominent office building; low rent; price, $500; easy terms. WINN, 132 Nassau, Room 317.

Groceries, Liquors, &c.

HARRIS'S WINE AND LIQUOR WAREHOUSE, 1,706 MADISON AV., COR. 113TH.—SPECIAL REDUCTIONS, HOLIDAY WINES AND LIQUORS.

NIEDENTHAL & CO., 1,744 MADISON AV., NEAR 114TH ST.—WINES, LIQUORS, AND BEER. SPECIAL PRICES FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

KAHN BROTHERS, WINES AND LIQUORS.—Lowest prices. 2,035 Third Avenue, near 112th. Handsome pocketbooks given away.

FRED LEVY, FAMILY LIQUOR WAREHOUSE, 1,778 Madison Av., near 116th St. Elegant SOUVENIRS FOR HOLIDAYS.

H. SCHWANEWEDE, FANCY GROCERIES, wines, liquors, and cigars, Park Av. and 110th St.; special prices for holidays.

PURE WINES AND LIQUORS AT THE Columbus Wine and Liquor Warehouse. 2,193 3d Av. Present to each purchaser.

FRIEDLAND & CO., TEAS, COFFEES, FANCY CROCKERY, 2,152 3d Av. PRESENTS GIVEN WITH 1 lb. COFFEE or TEA.

FOR FINEST TABLE DELICACIES IN CITY go to B. MEIER, 2,189 Third Avenue, near 119th. DELICATESSEN.

L. A. CUNEO—FINE GROCERIES, TEAS, coffees, and fruits; wines, liquors, and cigars. 26 East 8th St.

Winter Resorts.

30c. per line $4.50 per line for 30 times.

THE LAUREL-IN-THE-PINES.
LAKEWOOD, NEW JERSEY.

Improved in all essentials since last season, with new Palm Room and other attractive features.

DAVID B. PLUMER, Manager.
HORACE PORTER, Associate Manager.

THOMASVILLE, GA.

PINEY WOODS HOTEL

Down in the Pine Forests. Country Club, Golf Links, Quail and Trap Shooting, Bicycle Paths.
HARVEY & WOOD, Hotel Bellevue, Boston. 3 Park Place, New York, Mondays, 10 to 12.

HAMILTON HOTEL, BERMUDA

OPEN DECEMBER TO MAY

Situated on high elevation in the centre of the City of Hamilton, the capital of Bermuda. Send for booklet. A. C. BROOKS, Manager, Hamilton, Bermuda.

TRAVELLERS' INFORMATION CO., 3 PARK PL. Tourists' information gratis.

Dentistry.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH OF CONTINUOUS GUM Highly Improved.—These teeth represent the highest art in dentistry. They restore form and expression to the face. The gums and roof of mouth, without seam or crevice, (all one piece, porcelain on platinum,) are a perfect reproduction of nature, even in color. Dr. DEANE, Dentist, 454 Lexington Av., cor. 45th St., received highest award Columbian Exposition.

SAVE MONE

ACCUSE TWO EMPLOYES OF BOLD ROBBERY

Insurance Company Tells of Alleged Plan to Undermine It.

The Men, It Is Charged, Not Only Stole Records, but Employed Clerks at Its Expense to Help Them.

According to the allegations made by the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society against Morton L. Mortimer and John M. Van Kleeck, who were arrested on Thursday, the accused employes not only stole the records of the society, but employed the society's clerks at the society's expense to carry out their scheme to defraud the society of its business.

Mortimer and Van Kleeck were arraigned before Magistrate Deuel yesterday, and their preliminary hearing set for Thursday. At the suggestion of De Lancey Nicoll, the attorney for the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society, their bail, which was placed at $1,000 each by Magistrate Meade, was doubled. Magistrate Deuel said that the charge against the men was much graver than the warrant indicated. Mortimer and Van Kleeck furnished the additional bail required, William H. Browning of 18 West Fifty-fourth Street being accepted as surety.

Mortimer has been in the employ of the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society for sixteen years. He was at the head of a department and drew a salary of $3,600 a year. Van Kleeck is a cousin of Mortimer's. He has been with the society for several years. As near as the officers of the society can make out, the alleged scheme to defraud the society of its business was hatched several months ago. The charge against the two men, as made by Ralph K. Hubbard, the Assistant Secretary, is that they made arrangements with another insurance company to start an independent agency, and then stole and copied the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society's records in order that they might be in a position to induce policy holders in the Provident to leave it and take out new policies in the company which they were to represent.

Two facts led to the uncovering of the alleged conspiracy. One was the enormous number of test slips which were used in one month. A test slip is a piece of cardboard upon which the names of policy holders and all the facts about them are filled in. During December 9,000 of these slips, it is said, were called for and used by Mortimer. About the time suspicion was aroused on this account a policy holder in the Provident Society came to the officers of the society and informed them, it is claimed, that Mortimer and Van Kleeck had approached him with inducements to get out of the Provident and take out a policy in the company for which they had become the agents. An investigation followed this disclosure, and, according to the officers of the society, it resulted in the discovery that Mortimer had taken from the society's offices nearly all the records of his department.

It also disclosed, the officers say, that Mortimer had had seven of the society's clerks and a stenographer busy for a month copying the address and record of every policy holder in the society for his own use. This force, it is charged, was worked by Mortimer at night, and the society paid each member of the force extra wages and also made each man an allowance for dinners.

On Dec. 19 Mr. Hubbard, having what he believed to be conclusive evidence of Mortimer's guilt, confronted him. According to Mr. Hubbard's statement, Mortimer broke down and agreed to surrender to the society all the records which he had taken. Mr. Hubbard and Mortimer went to Mortimer's room, at 21 West Thirty-second Street, and there they met Van Kleeck. In the room there were found books, lists, records, pamphlets, and memoranda of the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society, which, it is said, Mortimer willingly surrendered. The officers of the society did not believe that Mortimer and Van Kleeck had given up all the records of the society of which they had secured possession, and they, therefore, brought the charge of grand larceny against them and had them arrested.

The officers of the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society say that the business of the society has been in no wise injured by the alleged conspiracy to undermine it, but that if the plan had been successfully carried out, there would have been big money in it. Insurance companies pay from 60 to 80 per cent. of the first premium upon new policies to the person who writes them. For every policy of $150 which Mortimer or Van Kleeck wrote they would, at the 60 per cent. rate, have received $90. They would have been in a position, therefore, to offer policy-holders in the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society good inducements to make a change. They could offer to cut the first premium from $150 to $100, and still make $40. This, it is claimed, was the scheme.

Frederick Stimson, the counsel for the accused men, when seen at his office, 35 Liberty Street, and asked about the charge, said:

"The President of the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society and the Assistant Secretary have charged these two men with theft. That is a very grave charge. If it is true, the young men ought to go to jail. If it is untrue, the men who made it ought to be made to pay a penalty. As far as I can see, they have not a scintilla of evidence to sustain their charge. They had the room of one of these young men searched, and they claim to have found there some original records of the society. I do not know whether they did or not. But even if they did, the fact of the company's records being there can be satisfactorily explained. These young men were on work which necessitated their working over hours, and if they had taken to their rooms some of the books or reports upon which they were working, there would have been nothing unusual about such action. They are charged with making copies of certain reports, which they were called upon to furnish. They did that for their own protection, and it was a perfectly proper proceeding."

TO RENUMBER ALL PIERS.

Dock Board Adopts Resolution Providing for New System.

After more than two years of agitation the Board of Trade and Transportation has at last succeeded in its endeavors to have the piers along the North and East Rivers renumbered, so as to avoid confusion that has existed since the piers were designated as old and new. At a meeting of the Dock Board held yesterday a resolution was adopted authorizing the renumbering of all the piers. The Commissioners decided to commence numbering at the Battery, making the first pier No. 1, and all the piers directly at the foot of streets consecutive numbers, in addition to applying the name of the street.

If a pier at the foot of Barclay Street, for instance, is designated as Barclay Street Pier No. 15, an intervening pier to the northward will be known as Barclay Street Pier No. 15 A, and if another pier comes in between Barclay and Murray Streets it will be known as Barclay Street Pier No. 15 B. The same will apply to piers on the East River. By this arrangement it is believed that strangers and truckmen will have no trouble whatever in locating piers.

NORTHCOTE THANKS AMERICANS.

Governor of Bombay Grateful for Aid Given During the Famine.

William T. Fee, United States Consul at Bombay, according to a letter received in this city, has received from Lord Northcote, Governor of Bombay, an expression of gratitude for assistance, both pecuniary and personal, rendered by Americans in alleviating the distress of sufferers from the famine which has recently blighted India. In his letter to Mr. Fee, Lord Northcote says:

"The people of the United States have borne a very conspicuous part among those who have come to our assistance. American missionaries, philanthropists, and, I may say, American men and women of every class, have come forward, many to give personal help, others pecuniary assistance, in a spirit of kindness and generosity which the people of India will long remember with gratitude.

"May I be permitted, therefore, on behalf of the Presidency, to express to you, and ask you to convey to your countrymen, our warm acknowledgment and sincere gratitude for the repeated acts of charity and kindness which the unhappy sufferers from famine have received from the hands of your humane and generous Nation?"

JUDGMENT AGAINST MISS RIGL.

Actress Long Baffled Process Servers, but Was Cornered at Last.

A judgment for $300 was entered in the City Court yesterday against Emily Rigl, the actress. Back of the entry of the judgment is the story of the difficulty of process servers in reaching the actress.

Miss Rigl came here from France in the sixties as a dancer in "The Black Crook," and about ten years later, after studying English, she became a member of Daly's stock company, with which she played a number of years. She has also been prominent in other companies.

Last Winter she started out with a company of her own to play "The Trickster." An actor named Edwin Mordant was engaged for four weeks at a salary of $100 a week. He received $100, but claimed he did not get the remaining $300. He retained the law firm of Boardman & Boardman to bring the action to recover the money.

First a summons was issued from the Eleventh District Municipal Court, and David Ullmann, a process server, started to find the actress. She was then living at the Marlborough Hotel. On his first trip Ullmann got by the clerks and bell boys, but encountered the actress's maid, and she ordered him away. Ullmann had the summons renewed nine different times, and made all sorts of attempts to get to the actress, but failed. The law firm then discontinued the action and started another in the City Court. The papers were placed in the hands of Charles L. Thatcher, Jr., a clerk in the office. He made two unsuccessful attempts to reach Miss Rigl at the Marlborough. Finally he discovered that Miss Rigl had charge of the art table at the Professional Woman's League bazaar at the Waldorf-Astoria. This was a little over two weeks ago. Thatcher tried to reach the actress at the bazaar, but he failed again. Meanwhile Miss Rigl had moved to 8 East Forty-seventh Street. It was a week ago yesterday that Thatcher succeeded in serving her at her new home. He went to the house, rang the bell, and was met by a colored hall boy, who demanded his card.

"I have no card. I am a messenger from the Waldorf-Astoria," was the answer Thatcher gave.

There was some further parley, and then the law clerk was shown to Miss Rigl's apartments.

"This is for you," he said, as he handed the summons to Miss Rigl.

"What—what will I do with it? I never had one before," said the actress, as she read the summons and complaint.

"Do as you please, as long as you are served," was the reply.

At the time of the service of the summons Miss Rigl was engaged with a number of her friends of the Professional Woman's League dressing dolls for Christmas. She entered no answer to the summons and complaint, and the judgment was taken by default.

GUARDIAN FOR SCOTCH HEIRS.

Court Looks Out for the Interest of Sir William Gordon-Cumming's Children.

In the Supreme Court, in Brooklyn, yesterday, Justice Maddox appointed as a permanent guardian ad litem to the children of Sir William Gordon-Cumming of Altyre, Forres, Elgin County, Scotland, Peter B. Olney. The appointment is only one of the formalities necessary to the administration of the estate of William J. Garner, founder of the firm of Garner & Co., dry goods manufacturers. Mr. Garner was drowned with his wife in 1876, and the business which he started has since become a corporation.

He left three daughters, all of whom are now married and living in Europe. One of them is the wife of Sir William Gordon-Cumming, another is the wife of the Marquis Henry Charles de Breteuil, now living in Paris, and the other, who also lives in Paris, is the wife of Count Leon de Moltke-Huitfeldt. They all have children, and whenever it is necessary to divide the profits of the business left by Garner, in which his grandchildren hold shares, it is necessary to appoint some one in this country to act as their guardian ad litem. Mr. Olney was appointed guardian ad litem for the children of the Marquis de Breteuil and Count Leon de Moltke-Huitfeldt some months ago. His appointment is on the petition of Lawyer Nathaniel Smith, who represents the trustees of the Garner estate.

MAJESTIC HOTEL'S OFFER.

Will Pay $5,000 to Ascertain Who Spread Reports of Smallpox There.

The Directors of the Majestic Hotel Company, after a conference last night, which Copeland Townsend, the manager, also attended, offered a reward of $5,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who spread the false report that there was smallpox in the hotel. These reports have been causing the hotel management much annoyance.

Among the guests of the hotel are Madames Melba and Nordica, and they have complained that some of their friends were afraid to visit them on account of the report of the existence of smallpox in the hotel. But the most serious complaint came from Miss Gertrude May Chase, daughter of George Cotton Chase, who is to be married to Charles M. Gilpin at All Angels' Church on Jan. 16, and whose wedding reception, for which eight hundred invitations have been issued, is to take place at the Majestic.

The report that smallpox existed in the hotel had reached a number of persons who had received Miss Chase's parents' invitations, and they were timorous about attending the reception. Miss Chase went to Manager Townsend and requested that the falsity of the smallpox report be made public. It was this complaint which led the Directors of the hotel company to act.

Persons to whom Manager Townsend refused to lease apartments are suspected of spreading the report.

CHAUFFEUR COMES TO GRIEF.

Pinkerton Detectives Are After Those Who Overcharge Their Fares.

Automobile drivers throughout the city who have been in the habit of overcharging their fares and putting the difference between this charge and the legal rate into their pockets are keeping a wary eye on all passengers now, since it became known that Pinkerton detectives have been employed by several companies to watch for dishonest drivers.

This fact became known yesterday during the trial of Edward J. Barrett, an ex-policeman, employed as a chauffeur by the Electric Vehicle Company and charged by them with the theft of $2.25. The testimony showed that Barrett took Dr. Henry S. Stark of 156 East Seventy-second Street from Sherry's through the Tenderloin, the Bowery, and Chinatown, in an automobile on the night of Nov. 19 last. Barrett charged the doctor $4.75. The next day Dr. Stark complained to the company. Investigation showed that Barrett turned into the company only $2.50.

Barrett was found guilty of larceny and sentenced to thirty days in the city prison. District Attorney Philbin was an interested listener during the trial.

MR. JOHNSON'S SUIT SETTLED.

Action Against R. T. Wilson & Co. Discontinued on Counsel's Motion.

The action of ex-Congressman Tom L. Johnson against the banking firm of R. T. Wilson & Co. was discontinued in the Supreme Court yesterday by consent of all parties. The case grew out of the purchase and consolidation of the Detroit (Mich.) Street Railroads. The banking firm made the original arrangements, and the venture was capitalized at $12,000,000. Some time later Mr. Johnson came into the deal with a one-fifth interest and $10,000 a year salary as President.

Pack & Everett, another firm, had obtained certain franchises for street railways in Detroit, and R. T. Wilson & Co. were making arrangements with this firm for a general consolidation of interests. Meanwhile Mr. Johnson brought his action to prevent R. T. Wilson & Co. disposing of any of the stock to Pack & Everett, and demanding a dissolution of the partnership agreement existing between himself and R. T. Wilson & Co.

Counsel in the action appeared before Justice Leventritt, in the Supreme Court, yesterday and made the motion to have the case discontinued. They declined to discuss the terms of settlement.

We don't say that nothing else will cure a cold, but nothing will cure more or worse colds, or cure them quicker, than JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT.—Adv.

It probably needs only a little brushing and cleaning to make your boy's Winter coat wearable, for a coat has comparatively little wear.

But you can't brush or clean a new pair of knees into trousers or make a whole piece of cloth from a piece with a hole in it.

To puzzled mothers, we offer our sturdy knee trousers, sizes 3 to 16 for $1.25.

For the man trying to brush and clean, we have whole suits.

Some of our high priced sack suits have been brought down to $15.

Ditto overcoats.

ROGERS, PEET & COMPANY,

258 Broadway, cor. Warren, and 7 and 9 Warren St.
569 Broadway, cor. Prince.
1260 Broadway, cor. 32d, and 54 West 33d St.

We fill orders by mail.

HELD CAPTIVE BY CAR DOOR

Brooklyn Elevated Passenger Caught by His Trousers Leg.

RODE TO END OF THE LINE

Meantime the Victim Raged, While the Trainmen Looked On Helpless—Fun for the Passengers.

A peculiar mishap, which caused the victim of it to ride unwillingly from one end of the Lexington Avenue Elevated Line in Brooklyn to the other, worked him into a fine frenzy of rage, and moved his fellow passengers to unfeeling glee, occurred to a man on the road mentioned yesterday. Just as a train was about to pull out of the Bridge Station for East New York, a man jumped aboard through the side doorway of the rear car. The door was slammed to behind him by a station hand.

The passenger, congratulating himself on getting aboard in the nick of time, started for a seat, but to his astonishment, was unable to move a step. He found that when the door had been closed behind him one of the legs of his trousers had been caught. The man tried to release his trousers leg, but the door held it fast. He was in a hurry to keep a business appointment, and wanted to get off at the Bridge Street Station, on Myrtle Avenue. The train was nearing this station, and the passenger called in the conductor.

"What's the trouble?" asked the trainman.

The passenger explained his plight, and the conductor laughed. The other passengers became interested, and they also laughed. This was adding insult to injury, and the door's victim became indignant.

"It's your duty to open that door, and not stand there laughing," he said wrathfully to the conductor. "I want to get off at the next station, and you'll have to work quick."

"I'm sorry, Sir, but I can't open the door," returned the conductor. "It's got a spring lock, and I haven't a key to it."

"But hasn't one of the brakemen got a key?" asked the passenger with wrath deepening.

"No; the only ones that has a key is the station men at the Bridge," explained the conductor.

"But I want to get off at Bridge Street," insisted the man, getting into a frenzy.

Then the passengers began making suggestions to him. "Why don't yer slip later yer trousers?" asked one man with a grin.

There were blushes among the women passengers at this, and two old ladies, apparently fearing that the trapped passenger, in desperation, might act upon the suggestion, hurriedly went into the car ahead.

"Yer'll git ther pants back, man," assured a little Irishman, sitting with a plumber's kit at his feet. "Ther condooctor'll mail 'em ter yer."

The caught passenger, who was almost beside himself with rage and mortification, received the suggestions of his fellow-passengers with looks of deep scorn.

"Conductor," he stormed, "you will have to open that door and release me or I'll make complaint against you."

"I can't help that," returned the conductor, serenely. "I can't let you loose without smashing the door, and that would be the finish of my job."

The passenger fumed and fretted, stormed and threatened.

"How far out does this train go?" he shouted, presently.

"Out to East New York, returning to the bridge by way of Fulton Street."

"Do you mean to say that I will have to ride way out to East New York and back to the bridge again before that door can be opened?" almost screamed the irate passenger.

The conductor conferred with one of the brakemen for a moment and then gave some more cheering information.

"The brakeman, here," he said, "has just reminded me that this car is a lay-up."

"A 'lay-up!'" exclaimed the unhappy passenger, scenting new trouble. "What's that?"

"Why, when we get out to East New York," returned the conductor, unconcernedly, "we drop a car from the train, because the rush time is over, and it is switched into the yards. This is the rear car, and it will be laid up."

"Has any one in the yards got a key to this door?" in great distress of mind, beads of perspiration appearing on his brow.

"Nope," laconically.

The prospect of being laid up in the railroad yards with the car was even worse than that of being taken from one end of the line to the other and back again and the entrapped passenger was driven almost frantic. Relief waited him, however, at the Chauncey Street station, one station short of the end of the line. A station man employed at the bridge was at Chauncey Street waiting for a train to take him down to work when the train on which was the entrapped passenger arrived there. He had his keys with him, and when appealed to quickly unlocked the car door and released the wrathful passenger. The latter did not stop to say anything, but bolted across the platform and boarded a car bound down town.

Funeral of Abby Sage Richardson.

Funeral services over the body of Abby Sage Richardson, who died in Rome, Italy, Dec. 12, were held yesterday morning in her home, 256 West One Hundredth Street. The house was filled with the friends of Mrs. Richardson, some long distinguished in various walks of life. The Twenty-third Psalm and a selection from the New Testament were read by the Rev. Dr. E. C. Bolles of Tufts College, who also made a short address. Later in the day the body was taken to Fresh Pond, L. I., for cremation.

Senor Gomis y Stanley Released.

Alfonse Gomis y Stanley, the Porto Rican who had been detained at the immigrant station since the arrival of the Normandie, was released yesterday. A friend to whom he had a letter of introduction intervened in his behalf and secured his release.

The Tempting Prices

we now offer on fine Overcoats and Suits are with little regard for their money value. There's still plenty of the choice kinds to choose from—but after to-day there's no telling.

Generous Reductions in Big Boys' and Little Boys' Suit Prices.

Men's House Coats and Bath Robes all down in price. Furnishings, Hats, and Shoes.

Hackett, Carhart & Co.

3 BROADWAY Stores: Cor. 13th St. Cor. Canal St. Near Chambers St.
Stores Open This Evening.

BROADWAY AND 11TH STREET.

Ladies' Gloves.

$1.00 per pair.

2-clasp,—Kid and Suède,—extensive range of Street shades,—black and white.

2-clasp, — prix seam, and heavy piqué sewn Street Gloves,

$1.00 per pair.

JAMES McCREERY & CO.,
BROADWAY AND 11TH STREET.

MR. POOL'S ODD DECISION.

Magistrate's Explanation for Discharging a Prisoner After a Plea of Guilty.

Although she pleaded guilty to a charge of burglarious entrance and attempted theft, and admitted that she had twice been convicted of grand larceny, Addie Johnson, a colored girl, was yesterday discharged by Magistrate Pool, sitting in the West Side Police Court.

Mrs. Catherine A. Blood of 39 West Ninety-fifth Street, the complainant, testified that on Wednesday while the family was at luncheon the Johnson girl was found on the second floor of the house. She had opened a basement door, and gone up stairs. A policeman was called, and the girl was arrested. Magistrate Mayo on Wednesday adjourned the case for forty-eight hours, as Mrs. Blood did not know at that time whether any property had been taken.

Policeman Forbel, who made the arrest, stated to the Court at yesterday's hearing that on the way to the station house the girl had confessed that she entered the house to steal, but was discovered before she could carry out her purpose. He also said that the girl had been twice convicted of grand larceny. This she admitted to be true.

The girl, although she had pleaded guilty, amended her story, and said she was searching for a position as servant and had entered the wrong house. In discharging her Magistrate Pool said it had not been proved that any crime had been committed or that the girl had entered the premises with criminal intent, and that the Grand Jury would not consider the case for a moment.

Mrs. Blood left the court room in tears, saying she had appeared against the girl in the interest of justice, and because she believed that one who invaded a private house should be punished. Her lawyer, Charles E. Lansing, said he would bring the matter before the Grand Jury.

After the case had been disposed of Magistrate Pool was asked if the mere fact that a person had pleaded guilty was not sufficient to justify being held. His answer was:

"Why, yes, certainly."

He was then reminded that he had discharged Addie Johnson after she had pleaded guilty.

"Oh, no, I didn't," he said. "Did I?"

Then he called for the papers in the case and at once saw that he had.

"Well, these poor unfortunates often do not know what they are pleading to," was his explanation. "I frequently strike out pleas of guilty when I find this to be the case."

FIREMEN KEPT ON THE RUN.

Small Fires Before Daylight in Business District Involves $20,000 Loss.

There was an epidemic of fires yesterday morning in the wholesale district, and property valued at nearly $20,000 was destroyed between midnight and breakfast time in this district alone. The down-town engine and hook and ladder companies were employed almost constantly for more than six hours.

The epidemic began at 1:45 o'clock, when fire was discovered on the second floor of the building at 34 Great Jones Street, occupied by Julius Welsman, a cap manufacturer. The blaze, the origin of which is not known, was extinguished after a damage of about $2,000.

While the firemen were at work at this fire an alarm was received from Washington Place and Broadway. This fire was discovered by a policeman on the fourth and fifth floors of the building at 4 and 6 West Fourth Street. By the time the firemen arrived the blaze had extended to the woodwork of the other floors. The fourth floor is occupied by Cohen & Levison, dealers in boys' clothing; fifth floor, Norcity Clothing Company; sixth floor, M. Kramer, dealer in plush caps; third floor, F. Dreyfus, artificial flowers; second floor, A. S. Rugge, a maker of linen collars, and the first floor by a restaurant. The damage on the three upper floors was caused by fire, the others being damaged by water. The total loss is $12,000. The origin of the fire could not be ascertained.

Shortly after 3 o'clock the weary firemen were summoned to University Place and Thirteenth Street, this fire having started on the parlor floor of the three-story and basement dwelling at 17 East Thirteenth Street, occupied by Mrs. Dolly Withers. The doors were broken in by the firemen and no one was found in the building. The fire lasted for more than an hour. The loss was $3,000.

Policeman Conboy saw smoke coming from the fifth floor of the building at Greene Street and Washington Place at 6 o'clock in the morning, and once more the firemen were routed out. The building is occupied by J. Goldberg, dealer in cloaks and suits. The fire was caused by an overheated stove. The damage is placed at $2,000.

SCHLEY OBJECTS TO QUARANTINE

Commander of South Atlantic Squadron Does Not Fear Plague.

The steamship Buffon, which arrived Thursday night from Brazil, reported that the bubonic plague was still prevalent in the River Plate region, two new cases, according to The Rio News of Nov. 27, having recently broken out at Rosario. Quarantine regulations were being strictly enforced in Brazil and in other ports south of the River Plate.

Warships were, however, exempted owing to the fact that Rear Admiral Schley, who arrived at Montevideo in November, objected to the quarantine affecting his flagship, the cruiser Chicago, giving as his reason that the Chicago had a good medical staff aboard and was able to show a clean bill of health. There was no sickness on board the Buffon, and after the usual inspection at Quarantine she was released and permitted to proceed to her dock at noon yesterday.

New Cashier for Post Office.

Edward P. Russell of Norwich, N. Y., has been appointed Cashier of the New York City Post Office, to succeed the late Palmer M. Wood.

$10 IRISH FRIEZE OVERCOAT. WORTH $18. BENSON & CO., MISFIT PARLORS, 60 E. 14 ST.

BERNHARDT THEIR GUEST.

Twelfth Night Club Entertain the French Actress and M. Coquelin.

Yesterday was a gala day at the Twelfth Night Club. It was one of the club's regular guest days, but this was a special occasion, for Bernhardt and Coquelin were the invited guests and elaborate preparations had been made. There were many decorations, flowers and a prettily set tea table and three Hungarian musicians sat in a corner, thumbed their instruments, and added to the picturesqueness of the scene and their music to the general festivity.

The reception was from 3 until 6, and Coquelin arrived in good season, but for a long time the divine Sarah did not appear. Coquelin, the only man present, according to the Twelfth Night rules, was lost to view in a crowd of pretty women, while every one who could not get within speaking distance waited about the door for the appearance of the other guest. There were two long ropes of ivy leaves, the club emblem, to make a passage for her to the platform of the clubroom, a big wreath of ivy leaves to give her, and an ivy leaf pin with which she was to be welcomed as an honorary member of the club. Miss Annie Russell had been delegated to bring her, but there were telephone messages and rumors of them, and still Bernhardt did not come.

Miss Cecilia Loftus gave some of her old-time imitations, including one of the divine Sarah. Coquelin gave a recitation, and Fielding Roselle a song. It was after 5 o'clock, and only the very hungriest of the guests had ventured to take a cup of tea, when a genuine message came: "Tell the ladies to wait; I am on the way."

The ivy ropes were hurried into place by lines of pretty actresses, and suddenly there was a flutter of black and white, a while like the passing of a breeze, and Sarah was there. It was Sarah herself, picturesque in her big black hat, her black chinchilla-edged coat thrown back from a beautiful gown of white, with roses and orchids on her breast, looking young, animated, and altogether charming. The club gave her an ovation, made her an honorary member, with an "aye" that was almost a cheer, gave her the ivy wreath, planned the club pin upon her coat, while Bernhardt beamed ecstatically. "I zank you wis all my heart," she said.

Mrs. Alice Fischer Harcourt made the presentations, while Annie Russell stood by as guardian angel, and Mrs. John Drew, Mrs. John Hare, Mrs. Earnest Seton-Thompson, Irene Van Brugh, Elizabeth Jerome, Blanche Bates, Ida Conquest, Minnie Dupree, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Mrs. Fritz Williams, and any number of other women club members and guests passed up to shake hands.

DIVORCE FOR ROBERT GRAVES.

Court Order Gives Wall Paper Manufacturer Custody of His Child.

Justice Lawrence, in the Supreme Court, has approved the report of the referee granting an absolute divorce to Robert Graves, a wall paper manufacturer, from his wife, Charlotte De Grasse Graves. The Court order awards the custody of the only child to Mr. Graves. Mrs. Graves's father is Gen. Isaac S. Catlin, and she is a niece of Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy.

The domestic troubles which led to the divorce began when Mrs. Graves met J. Hamilton Jaffray, Jr., of Yonkers. He called frequently at the Graves home, at Irvington, until warned to keep away.

Mr. Graves sold the Irvington property and came to New York City to live. His wife still met Mr. Jaffray, and the divorce proceedings followed.

In an interview about the time the domestic relations of Mr. and Mrs. Graves became public, Mr. Jaffray proclaimed his willingness to marry Mrs. Graves should the Court set her free from her husband, declaring that she was a woman of whom any man might feel proud.

$20 FULL DRESS COAT AND VEST, WORTH $30. BENSON & CO., MISFIT PARLOR, 60 E. 14 ST.

Amusements.

METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE.
GRAND OPERA SEASON 1900—1901.
Under the Direction of Mr. Maurice Grau.
This afternoon at 2—LA BOHEME, (in Italian.) Mmes. Malba and Occhiolini; MM. Cremonini, Campanari, Glibert, Journet. Conductor, Mancinelli.
To-night, at 8, at Popular Prices—ROMEO ET JULIETTE, (in French.) Mmes. Suzanne Adams, Bridewell; MM. Plancon, Journet, Sizes, and Salexa. Conductor, Flon.
Sun. Ev'g, Dec. 30, at 8:15—Grand Popular Concert. Soloists: Mmes. Tentina and Schumann-Heink; MM. Dippel, Scotti, and Plancon, together with Met. Opera House Orchestra. Conductor, Damrosch.
Mon. Ev'g, Dec. 31, at 7:45—LOHENGRIN, (in German.) Mmes. Nordica and Schumann-Heink; MM. Jean and Ed. de Reszke, Muhlmann, and Bertram. Conductor, Damrosch.
Wed. Ev'g, Jan. 2, at 8—MEFISTOFELE, (in Italian.) Mmes. Marguerite Macintyre and Homer; MM. Cremonini and Plancon. Conductor, Mancinelli.
Fri. Ev'g, Jan. 4, at 8—FAUST, (in French.) Mmes. Melba, Bridewell; MM. Jean and Ed. de Reszke and Scotti. Conductor, Mancinelli.
WEBER PIANOS USED.

BROADWAY Theatre, 41st St. & B'way. Evgs. 8:15. Sat. Mat. 2:15. SUCCESS! SUCCESS! JEFFERSON DE ANGELIS In Klein & Francis' Operatic Comedy, A ROYAL ROGUE. Mat. To-day and New Year's Day.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC. 14th St. & Irving Pl. JAMES O'NEILL LAST DAY. Prices, 25, 50, 75, 1.00. Last Mat. to-day, 2. Ev. 8:15. MONTE CRISTO Nxt.Wk.—The London production QUO VADIS

THE NEW YORK, B'way, 45 St. Ev. 8:15. Mats. To-day & N. Year's. New special vaudeville features Followed by Sydney Rosenfeld's Successful review, The GIDDY THRONG.

BIJOU. B'way & 30th St. Mat. to-day. Ev. 8:20. Ex. Mat New Year's. Madge Smith. MAY IRWIN

HEARN

West Fourteenth Street

AFTERNOON TEA IN RESTAURANT,

temporarily suspended during Holidays,

IS AGAIN RESUMED.

EVERY AFTERNOON, 3 to 5:45, Fragrant Tea, with Cake and Jelly, or Ice Cream with Cake, 5 Cents

TEA FRESH FOR EACH PATRON.

Daintily Served in Individual Tea Sets of Decorated China.

WHILE PRICE IS ABSURD— QUALITY IS THE BEST.

Two Special Glove Offerings

that will interest every lady whose Christmas Gifts did not include a supply of Gloves.

At 68 cents
Ladies' Two-Clasp Fine Kid—Best Shades of Tan, Gray and Mode, also Black and White. All Sizes.

At 98 cents
Ladies' Heavy Kid Gloves, Pique seams; Ladies' Real Mochas, 2 Clasp; Ladies' Evening Suedes, 8-button length. All Sizes.

The above are reliable qualities, and represent values too good to be missed.

Special Attractions in Misses' Department.

ATTRACTION NO. 1.
Girls' Box Coats . . . 4.98
Heavy Pebble Cheviot—Brown, Navy, Cardinal—deep velvet capes with nine rows stitching—and heavy open lace inserting—Sleeves to match—2 to 8 years—true value eight dollars.

ATTRACTION NO. 2.
Misses' Full Length Coats, 6.98
worth Ten and Twelve Dollars.
Handsome Rough Finish Cloth—Oxford Gray, Royal Blue and Red—deep capes—with upper cape of velvet—Stitched velvet collar—large pearl buttons—ages 6 to 12 yrs.

ATTRACTION NO. 3.
Girls' 4.98 Dresses . . 2.98
Pretty checks and Snowflake Homespuns—Solid color waists, Bolero Jacket or yokes and revers, with seven rows of braid—4 to 14 years.

ATTRACTION NO. 4.
Girls' Sample Dresses . . 4.98
Novel and Dressy Styles that usually sell at seven and eight dollars—All Wool Henrietta, Corded Armures and small plaids—desirable colorings and a great variety of fancy waist effects—trim of braid, lace or ruffle of ribbons—6 to 14 years.

Great Reductions in Ladies' Waists.

500 Flannel Waists
Nile, Pink, Lavender, Dark Blue, Tan, Green and other shades—newest trimmings—newest sleeves—
Were 2.69 and 2.98 . . . 1.49
Were 3.49 . . . 1.89

Taffeta Silk Waists
Black, White and bright and medium Colors—full tucked, with and without hemstitchings—Bishop or dress sleeves—
Were 3.98 . . . Now 2.89
Were 6.98 . . . Now 4.49

Men's Dress Shirts—1.29
In every way equal to custom made—Bodies of Utica Nonpareil Muslin (firm, even thread)—Bosoms of extra fine Pure Irish Linen—3-ply Cuffs and Collar bands—open back or open back and front—full laundered—perfect fit!

Ladies' Fancy Aprons.
For Afternoon Teas and Fairs
Swiss and Organdy—elaborate, lace and ribbon trim—fancy pockets—daintiest styles—all fresh and clean—not mussed or tumbled—
NOW REDUCED AS FOLLOWS:
From .98 and $1.25 . . . to 69
From .69 and .79 . . . to 49
From 39 cents . . . to 19

Amusements.

EMPIRE THEATRE. B'way & 40th St. Evgs., 8:20. Matinees, 2:15. LAST MATINEE. LAST NIGHT. JOHN DREW in RICHARD CARVEL. Monday—Empire Co. in Mrs. Dane's Defence.

KNICKERBOCKER. B'way, Cor. 38th St. MAUDE ADAMS LAST MAT. TO-DAY AT 2. TO-NIGHT—LAST TIME. Evs., 8. Mat., 2. L'AIGLON
NEXT WEEK—ADA REHAN IN "SWEET NELL OF OLD DRURY." SEATS NOW ON SALE.

Charles Frohman's CRITERION THEATRE Broadway and 44th St. MATINEE TO-DAY AND NEW YEAR'S. JOHN HARE LAST 13 NIGHTS. THE GAY LORD QUEX.

GARRICK THEATRE, 35th St. and B'way. Evenings at 8:15. Matinees, 2:15. Matinees To-day, New Year's, and Wednesday. WM. H. CRANE as DAVID HARUM

MADISON SQ. THEATRE, 24th St., nr. B'way. Matinees To-day, New Year's, and Wednesday. Broadhurst's latest farce. THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT.

GARDEN THEATRE, 27th st. & Madison Av. SARAH BERNHARDT & M. COQUELIN. LAST MATINEE. HAMLET LAST NIGHT. Dec. 31—E. S. WILLARD in DAVID GARRICK.

DALY'S B'way & 30th, at 8:15. Dan'l Frohman, Mgr. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2. Matinee New Year's. PERFORMANCE BEGINS 8:15. Lady Huntworth's Experiment. By R. C. Carton.

LYCEUM 4th Av. & 23d St. At 8:30. Daniel Frohman, Manager. Matinees Thurs. & Sat., 2:15. EXTRA MATINEE NEW YEAR'S DAY. ANNIE RUSSELL in A ROYAL FAMILY. A ROYAL FAMILY.

MANHATTAN THEATRE, 33d & B'way. To-night 8:15. Mat. To-day. LULU GLASER LAST 2 TIMES. SWEET ANNE PAGE. NEXT MON.—NEW YEAR'S EVE. THE BURGOMASTER. SEATS ON SALE.

CARNEGIE LYCEUM. 57th St. and 7th Av. A DECIDED SUCCESS. "Children's Theatre" FAIRY PLAY. The Forest Ring EVERY AFTERNOON AT 3 O'CLOCK.

Hammerstein's VICTORIA. Mats. To-day & New Year's. 42d St., B'way & 7th Av. Ev. 8:30. Gen. Adm. 50c. Mat. Pcs. 50, 75, 1.00 No smoking or drinking at Mats. Dressler in Miss Prinnt "A Great Big Success."

THE DEWEY E. 14th St. To-morrow MATINEE TO-DAY. PARISIAN WIDOWS. GREAT LIVING PICTURES. Night—Grand Concert, 25c., 50c.

THEATRE REPUBLIC Evs. 8:20. Mats. Wed. and to-day at 2:10. Last Week. The Sprightly Romance of Marsac. Next Monday "In the Palace of the King." VIOLA ALLEN Seats Now on Sale.

CASINO B'way & 39th St. Evs., 8:15. Mats. To-day & New Year's. FLORODORA

Grand Matinee To-day, 2:15. DENMAN THOMPSON THE OLD HOMESTEAD.

MURRAY HILL THEATRE, 42d St. & Lex. Av. Matinee Every Day, 25c. This Week—LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY.

Koster & Bial's 23c Mat. Daily Evenings, 25c, up. Boxes, $1. Kita di Lorenza, Etta Butler, Dolan & Lenharr, Jess Dandy, Holloway Trio, Fred Niblo, 15 others.

Harlem Op. House Mrs. Leslie Carter as Zaza Evgs. 8. Mat. To-day, 2. Nxt Wk—JOHN DREW as RICHARD CARVEL.

Irving Place Theatre. To-day, Mon. & Tues., last 3 times of SCHNEEWITTCHEN. To-night, last time, Der Grosskaufmann.

MENDELSSOHN HALL
SATURDAY AFTERNOON, Jan. 5, at 3 o'clock.
THIRD PIANOFORTE RECITAL
GABRILOWITSCH.
J. P. Rameau (1683-1764.) Gavotte et Variations, F minor.—Beethoven, Sonata, Op. 110, A flat major.—Chopin-Liszt, Chant Polonaise, G flat major, (Nocturne).—Chant Polonaise, G major.—Chopin, Ballade, G minor, Op. 23.—Rubinstein, Polosaise, E flat minor, Op. 118. (Rubinstein's last composition for the piano).—Raff, Rigaudon.—Dvorak, Humoresque, G flat, Op. 101.—Mendelssohn-Liszt, Wedding March and Elfin Dance, from "Midsummer Night's Dream."
Everett Piano Used.

CARNEGIE HALL
Grand Popular Operatic Concert
SE

The New York Times.

SATURDAY BOOK REVIEW.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Copyright, 1900.
THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY.

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1900. SIXTEEN PAGES.

CONTENTS.

Arabia. Page.
A Vast Territory, Little Known, and Yet the Cradle Not of Islam Alone, but of the Hebrew Race 953
Pitt's Love Story.
Lord Rosebery Publishes the Correspondence Between Pitt and Lord Auckland..... 962
Catharine Booth.
The Saintlike Founder of the Salvation Army.. 955
Weddings.
Mrs. Miln's Account of Customs and Ceremonies in Many Lands..... 957
England in Egypt.
A Volume by the Late Henry D. Traill..... 968
Saints and Sinners.
Eugene Field's New Year's Banquet to Them in Chicago 959
London Literary Letter.
By WILLIAM L. ALDEN..... 963
Writing a Book.
A Successful Author Tells of Her Experience with Readers and Publishers..... 956
Autograph Letters.
Mrs. Browning, Kitty Clive, and Coleridge Represented 958
Other Books Reviewed.
"An Englishwoman's Love Letters"..... 957
"Hints for Home Reading"..... 958
"The True Story of Hiawatha"..... 954
"The True Annals of Fairyland"..... 959
"The Pageantry of Life"..... 962
Stevenson's "Father Damien"..... 955
"Edward Barry, South Sea Pearler"..... 962
Helen R. Albee's "Mountain Playmates."..... 966
Huxley and Herbert Spencer 962
Tardy Appreciation of Markham..... 968
Teaching How to Write 960
An Exhaustless Mine 960
Uniliterary Opera Librettos..... 960
Literature in Gaudy Annuals..... 960
Books That Are Books..... 961
Orthoepical Sins in the Pulpit 961
Early Printed Books Sold in England..... 958
American Poetry to be Sold 958
Books and Authors..... 964
Notes and News..... 966
Hints from the Mailbag..... 964
Queries and Answers 966
Topics of the Week..... 953
Books Received..... 967

The New York Times
Saturday Review.
$1 Per Year.

TOPICS OF THE WEEK.

Gen. Russell A. Alger is about to reply to the overwhelming adverse criticism which he inspired while holding the office of Secretary of War during the recent war with Spain. The reply will take the form of an elaborate and detailed account of the war written from the point of view of the Secretary of War. He will tell how the new army was created, how it was fitted out, and how it was dispatched upon its several missions to Cuba, to Porto Rico, and to the Philippines, and he will describe in detail the obstacles which his department encountered and overcame. The book will be published in the late Spring by Harper & Brothers. An important chapter from it forms one of the features of the current number of The North American Review.

An elaborately illustrated history of "The War in South Africa," by Capt. A. T. Mahan, the well-known naval expert, will be published next week by R. H. Russell, with an introduction by Sir John Bourinot, Clerk of the Canadian House of Commons and former President of the Royal Society of the Dominion. Capt. Mahan's text, which is embellished with over four hundred pictures in colors and in black-and-white, treats of the subject from a strategical and tactical point of view, and in the calm, unprejudiced style which has heretofore characterised this critic's naval and military writings. The frontispiece is by Frederic Remington; other color work is by De Thulstrup, Reuterdahl, Hering, Wenzell, and Klepper, while the black-and-whites are by Stevens and Methfessel. Hundreds of photographs in reproduction make up the illustrated feature of the work.

We hear that the redoubtable Major Pond has again been trying to induce the equally redoubtable Mr. Kipling to come over here to lecture. The first attempt was made several years ago. Evidently the Major believes that sufficient time has elapsed for Mr. Kipling to change his mind. He set forth his reasons magnificently in his first letter to Major Pond, a passage of which reads as follows: "There is such a thing as paying a hundred and twenty-five cents for a dollar, and, though I suppose there is money in the lecturing business, it seems to me that the bother the fuss, the being at everybody's beck and call, the night journeys, and so on, make it very dear. I have seen a few men who lived through the fight, but they did not look happy."

In the January number of The Century. Mr. Gosse believes that the head of the author of "Francesca and Paolo" and "Herod," will be saved by the poet's own keen sense of humor; it will not even be turned by the almost universal chorus of praise which has been called forth by his poems.

The January number of The Critic will contain a new poem by George Meredith, entitled "A Reading of Life." It is composed of two parts, "The Vital Choice" and "The Test of Manhood," and is said to be in this poet's usual vein, or, possibly, a little more so. That member of a well-known London publishing house, George M. Smith, begins his memoirs in the same number, deals with the founding of The Cornhill Magazine, and presents much interesting matter, including hitherto unpublished documents and letters.

Prof. Barrett Wendell's "A Literary History of America," published here by Charles Scribner's Sons, is being well received in London, where most of the reviewers frankly thank the Harvard man for his information, and praise his scheme of presentation. Some of them, however, seem to feel that there is something wanting. Just what that something is we were unable to determine, as the omission was usually implied in melancholy generalizations toward the end of the articles rather than indicated by serious criticism, until we came to the following, which, written by one bolder and possibly less responsible than the rest, revealed the shortcoming in its painful entirety: "Apart from the literary value of the work, English publishers would be very grateful if the author would show why a work which sells 5,000 copies in this country should circulate to the extent of 40,000 across the Atlantic, as happened in a recent case; while another book, which was a great success here, fell absolutely flat in America."

Harper & Brothers will publish early in February "The Life of the Emperor Frederick," by Margarethe von Poschinger, edited by Sidney Whitman. Frau von Poschinger is the wife of Heinrich von Poschinger, who compiled the "Conversations with Prince Bismarck," recently published by the Harpers; for many years he was a Privy Councilor in the Reichsamt des Innern. The forthcoming work presents an interesting collection of documents and letters, which, with the comments of the author, gives not only a picture of German politics and Court life, but throws considerable light upon European diplomacy of the time. The letters include several from Field Marshal Count Blumenthal, who died the other day, and who, in the wars of 1866 and 1870 and 1871, served the Crown Prince Frederick as Chief of Staff.

With the death of Mme. Edgar Quinet the other day in Paris, what might be called an unegotistical and unselfish Marie Bashkirtseff passed away. Her father was the Moldavian poet Assaki, and her husband was Quinet, the historian, to whom she was devoted as a wife as long as he lived, and whose memory she has most zealously guarded. She received a pension of 3,000f. from the French Government, and lived in a small flat in the Rue de Tournon, where she wrote "Mémoires d'Exil," "Journal du Siège," "Sentiers de France," and a book on education. The concluding days of her life were devoted to editing Quinet's correspondence with Michelet and to the creation of the Edgar Quinet School for Girls. It is said that Michelet confided to her husband his love letters, which reveal an episode of uncommon dramatic and sensitive interest, and that these epistles were in turn passed on to the widow. Mme. Quinet has undoubtedly left some record of them, and we shall know before long whether they are to be made public, as all of the persons concerned are now dead.

One interesting feature of "Stage Lyrics," by Harry B. Smith, which is being published by R. H. Russell, is the illustrations made by Archie Gunn, Ray Brown, and E. W. Kemble, together with character portraits of the popular players who have appeared in Mr. Smith's operas and musical comedies. Here is Lillian Russell, when she was first winning her way into public favor. Here, too, is Francis Wilson in Napoleonic costume and pose, in "The Little Corporal." Marie Tempest, De Wolf Hopper, Frank Daniels, Edna May, and, in fact, all popular stars in the lighter kind of theatrical entertainment, are represented in these pages, which certainly form an interesting document in American stage history. There are, too, "coon songs" (whose words read much better than they sound from the stage,) and these are illustrated by E. W. Kemble, the Rembrandt of the Afro-American artist type. The lighter songs dealing with the [illegible] flirtations of the middle set, the love songs of [illegible] are [illegible]

ARABIA.

A Vast Territory, Little Known, and Yet the Cradle, Not of Islam Alone, But of the Hebrew Race.*

Written for THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW

By George H. Warner.

One of Mr. Emerson's most unsparing poems, "Hermione," contains some lines that have long been a puzzle to one reader at least, and perhaps to many. Though we still "follow her flying feet" in pursuit of the not idle meaning of the poem, one of its allusions now becomes ours. Emerson borrows, for his own subtle purpose, this daughter of Menelaus and Helen, promised in marriage to Orestes, but by the chance of war becoming another's bride. Orestes is disconsolate:

> On a mound an Arab lay,
> And sung his sweet regrets
> And told his amulets:
> The Summer bird
> His sorrow heard,
> And, when he heaved a sigh profound,
> The sympathetic swallow swept the ground.
> "If it be as they said, she was not fair,
> Beauty's not beautiful to me,
> But sceptred genius, aye inorbed,
> Culminating in her sphere.
> This Hermione absorbed
> The lustre of the land and ocean,
> Hills and islands, cloud and tree,
> In her form and motion."
> * * * * * *
> "Higher, dear swallows! Mind not what I say,
> Ah! heedless how the weak are strong,
> Say, was it just,
> In thee to frame, in me to trust,
> Thou to the Syrian couldst belong."

It is easy enough to understand Orestes a Syrian, but how Arab? Why does the poet use these terms synonymously? Because they are synonymous. Not that both terms are not modern; but that the racial base of the two peoples and the two countries was the same; that is, ethnically the base within historic times was the same. And not only was the ethnic basis the same, but the geographical unity is more apparent, fixed, and indisputable than the ethnic. The historian and the theologian have conspired to separate the column of land that stands at the east end of the Mediterranean—Syria, Judea, Samaria, and Galilee—now all called Palestine in modern maps, from their base, Arabia. But no fact is more evident to the reviewer at this moment than that all Canaan and Phoenicia, and on up to the Orontes, was originally a part of that peninsula now called Arabia—a part of the home of that race which for the want of a less traditional and fabulous name we call the Shemites.

The modern mapmakers have been in the conspiracy to deprive Arabia of either its base or its apex, as we may choose to view it. This view depends upon whether we are coming up from the Southern Ocean or coming from Europe. The modern mapmaker suspends Arabia somewhere in geographical space between Africa and Asia, belonging to neither, and casts it upon a scale of "statute miles" that makes it appear like a miniature appurtenance of a noble Palestine, and then gives it a hue of arid land and desolation in amazing contrast with the milk and honey of its neighbor.

In our atlases Arabia looks like a mail pouch hung up by the side of some railway station, pretty empty, but to be hooked off by the flying historian, and the more rapid essayist whenever it becomes necessary to point a moral or adorn a passage. To most at present this Arabia is mainly the "Cradle of Islam." A pretty old cradle. For long before Mohammed drove out both Jews and Christians from the home of the new reform he began, long before the Phoenician navigated the Mediterranean, long before Israel drove out his degenerate kinsmen from Canaan, long before the Euphrates dwellers felt the pressure of the invader on their lands, Arabia was the cradle of the "Semite."

Let us frame for ourselves an ancient Semitica. Begin at that stern outpost of time and the Moral Law, Sinai, or, rather, the northwest corner of Arabia Petrea, at Suez, about 30 degrees north latitude, run south along the sea incarnadined by the blood of the drowned Pharaoh; along the west shore of that ocean of varied desert, mountain, and garden till Cape Bab el Mandeb is reached at about 13 degrees north, say, a matter of some fifteen hundred miles. Thence run along the Gulf of Aden and the Arabian Sea northeastwardly a matter of twelve hundred miles to about latitude 22 degrees north, at Cape Ras el Had. From this point we must change our course and run northwest along the Gulf of Oman, past Muscat, through the Straits of Ormuz, and thence on, more westerly, through the Persian Gulf as far as Bassora. How far? To about the thirtieth parallel; that is about a thousand miles—that Sinus Persicus laying long considered as to its length and its real position in the ancient world as [illegible] degrees, we have modern, but not yet ancient Arabia. Here is a little pocket in our cartography that contains some 1,000,000 square miles, about four times the size of France, about as large as all the United States east of the Mississippi River!

But this enormous country so fallen out of our ken is not enough for our awakened sense of geography. We have not yet found all of our ancient Semitica. We have not yet included the cone of desert that passing the thirtieth parallel runs nearly as far up as the thirty-fifth parallel, the Syrian desert, which reaches beyond Damascus and divides the western fertile provinces on the Mediterranean from Mesopotamia on the Euphrates. This desert is the silent, unchangeable, immovable, unanswering sphinx of Semitic history. Around the head of this impassable thousand miles of sand and basalt pass all the currents of emigration, and play all the forces of ambition, of war, of commerce, of literature, of art, of love and intrigue, between the Eastern and the Western world for many thousand years. At least, that is what this present reviewer thinks. But let him confess it is not in the text of this book he has before him.

He thinks that it is this desert that divided into two streams the developing Semitic race, one branch following the arable lands along the Red Sea littoral, peopling Canaan, Phoenicia, and Syria, while the other branch emerges from the west side of the Persian Gulf, and at the head of that sea tends eastward, occupying the valley of the Euphrates, surging far north, till it at length flows around the head of the desert and meets its kindred on the shores of the Mediterranean.

What if this desert had not separated this one of the two white races of the world into a divided people, with ever-varying political aspirations, into differing religions? Suppose, instead of war and jealousies, there had been a united Semitica? There would have developed out of it a racial force that might have changed the fate of the world.

And so, again, let us conjecture of an earlier date. Had the desert barrier between Babylonia and Egypt not existed, or had it been overcome so that those two civilizations could have united, there might have resulted a civilization that could have saved the Eastern world those thousands of years of wars and sufferings. And there might, on the contrary, also have been none of that great intellectual development we call Greece and Judea, with its resultant Europe.

But we must come back to our starting point, which was Bassora, at the head of the Persian Gulf. We must complete our map of Semitica. Run eastwardly to the Euphrates, up its valley northwestwardly, as far as Haran, (or modern Aleppo,) in Hittite territory, as a fair average, but constantly varying, boundary; thence leaving Palmyra, or, as the Hebrew said, Tadmor, far to the left, then include Damascus on the left also; thence to the Mediterranean Sea, at what point we may say, the Orontes; thence southward along that sea to the place of beginning. This is not a forced geographical arrangement, but as one may see on any good map a perfectly natural and real geographical fact. See how truly from the Mediterranean this vast block of land proceeds toward the southeast, with no natural barrier, no water division, and there will be no need of any further plea except one, and that is, that we must at once and forever disabuse our minds of that trick of the mapmaker that shows Babylonia away off alone far to the southward, disconnected with anything, while, in fact, Babylon itself lay on a parallel north of Jerusalem, and about in line with Tyre, while Nineveh was not far from the parallel on which Antioch lies, and far north of Damascus. And all this land was a geographical Semitica, by whatever name our mapmakers call it, or what name the ambitious and ever assertive peoples of the territory called themselves.

The author of this very interesting volume does not speculate on the very distant past, but begins his historic Arabia with the birth of Ishmael, which he fixes at 1892 B. C., thus making Abraham the father of Arab history. Looking at history through Arabian eyes discloses the fact that Abraham was only a link in their long patriarchal story, beginning with Adam, who, after the expulsion from Eden, journeyed to Ceylon, thence coming to Arabia. Eve from paradise fell at Jiddah, now the port of Mecca, and after a hundred years of wandering they met Adam at Mecca, where a tabernacle was built by Allah on the site of the present Kaaba. The proof of this is the existence of the white stone in the wall of that shrine, now turned black with the transferred sins of the innumerable pilgrims who have kissed it, and by the tomb of Eve, which now exists at Jiddah.

Our author smiles at these narratives, just as we all kindly smile at traditions not our own by birth or adoption. His chronological table (appendix) has but few dates before our era, but there is one notable one—the visit in 992 of Bilkis, Queen of Sheba, to Solyman (or, as we Puritans spell it, Solomon) the Magnificent. Sheba was what is now the Province of Yemen, away down at the southwest end of Arabia, where the mocha coffee grows.

Readers will find in the table of dates from the beginning of our era materials which would be an excellent guide for a view of Arabian affairs, especially from the birth of Mohammed at Mecca, in 561, and the Hegira, (A. H. 1), 622 A. D. The return from Medina was eight years later, since which Mecca has been the sacred capital of Islam. But Medina, 300 miles away, is still a shrine, Mohammed's tomb being there.

Such has been the splendor of the Arab conquest of all the world which it was then desirable to conquer, that the ordinary historian has neglected to speak of the tribes, the fabric of Arabian society, and of the country itself. This author has performed a great service in giving us an interior and in some cases a minute view of this vast country. Appendix II. gives the reader a table of the three principal divisions—the Anaeze or Bedouin tribes which range up through the Syrian desert, the Ahl Es-Shemmal or northern tribes, as distinguished from the Ahl El-Kibly or southern tribes. These three divisions have numerous sub-divisions, and a study of these will explain why, with the family as well as the tribal affinities and clisms, and the inaccessible desert and mountain regions, Arabia has never really come under Turkish rule, except in a few spots accessible by water. The Arabs exist to-day in a state of partial independence and in complete freedom in the desert oases and mountains.

In Appendix III. the writer has generously given a bibliography which students and librarians will be glad to receive. Under the divisions the geography, manners, and customs, history, Islam, Christianity, and missions, and the language and literature, several hundred authorities are carefully noted, with date of their writing, which shows great research and an acquaintance with European languages and literature of the best scope.

From these sources no doubt the author has been inspired with the value and exceeding interest of his theme, though the most valuable part of his book contains observations made by personal travel and residence in Arabia. He has the good fortune to have made the country and its relations to other countries and to history, exceedingly interesting. Though a young man, he has earned the title of Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of England, and has been in Arabia twelve years. How he came to be there is explained in the book. He, with three or four others, students of divinity in the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick, N. J., in 1888 banded themselves together to become missionaries, and at length fixed upon Arabia as the most dry and needy land within their knowledge for their work. The Dutch Reformed Church finally assumed the responsibility for the work these young men had begun, and the mission is now apparently permanent.

Mr. James S. Dennis, who makes the introduction to this volume, speaks somewhat apologetically, and needlessly begs that the fact that it is the work of a missionary may not prejudice the reader. The book is from the missionary point of view, but it is all the better for that. The author is not a dilettante traveler with a literary end in view. He is in dead earnest about converting these Arabs, (and eventually the whole of Islam,) but lo! literature came to him like the Kingdom of Heaven without observation. The chapter on the "Star Worshippers of Mesopotamia" is extremely interesting and valuable, as it gives the clue to many an ancient idea well worth following.

The chapters on the language and the literature of Arabia, though not intended to be expository, are interesting. He remarks that the Arabs were the earliest masters of rhyme, and that "the Arabic language is distinguished among those who know it for its beauty, and among those who are learning it for its difficulty."

An element of beauty is found in its lexical richness, in its boundless vocabulary, and its wealth of synonyms. Renan tells of a linguist who wrote a book of 500 names for the lion in literature, and another of 200 words for the serpent. Another wrote a supplement to the lexicon, giving the words for honey, and left it incomplete at the eightieth word. A German scholar wrote a book on the words relating to the camel, and finds them to be 5,744 in number. The different terms relating to the sword are over 1,000, and our author says that, judging from its use by the Arabs this appears credible.

The beauty of the Arabic language consists in its purity, in comparison with all other Semitic tongues, and, indeed, with all other languages. This purity is maintained by the Koran, the immutable standard of literature and of law and authority. The language remains what it was in the highest time of its poetic art, before Mohammed, and of its scientific and learned period in the efflorence of learning when Bagdad represented science at the east and Cordova, at the west end of a vast empire. At the latter city it is said the Royal Library contained 400,000 volumes of manuscript.

Of the influence of the Koran, Mr. Zwemer says that "when once the Koran was promulgated, literature and grammar and the sciences all spoke Arabic." The Koran was the unifying factor in religion, sweeping everything before it. It melted all their dialects into one and established a standard for the remotest student.

Of Arabian art our author says little. We know that it was not indigenous, and that upon Asiatic forms the Arab inscribed his Koran. But with nature the case is different. Nature is indigenous! And there is no Arab but knows all there is to see of light, of color, and of form, within the range of his bright, strong eyes. The Arab of Arabia is so enamored of nature, and of calligraphy, his only art, and of the Koran, his only book, that he is practically unchangeable. This is why we think Mr. Zwemer has done well to write a book and convert us, for to convert an Arab seems to us impossible—and hardly worth while. The British will attend to all that, for in the course of the last hundred years the British have occupied, as protector, a large part of the shores of the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf, and are now taking the Red Sea part as a suzerainty of Egypt, and we do not remember to have anywhere read about the exodus of the British from Egypt. We are glad to see that our author finds in all parts of Arabia that British rule is good rule, and tends to safety, to schools, to scientific medicine, and the use of soap and water.

We must not pass over without comment the later chapters, which relate to the missionaries to the Mohammedans, from Raymond Lull, who was stoned to death in 1315, down to Henry Martyn, (1811,) and the men who in Syria have translated the Bible into Arabic and have supplied the Asiatic countries with literature on Christianity.

The most noted names in recent missions to Arabia are those of Ion Keith Falconer of Scotland, son of the Earl of Kintore, who laid down his life in Arabia, and Bishop Thomas Valpy French, the veteran English missionary to India, who at the age of sixty-six opened the mission at Muscat, but died within a few months.

Probably nowhere in the world are missions so difficult and dangerous as in the original Mohammedan territories. It is not only that the Mussulman is more fanatic than all other people, having a religion of his own to propagate, but he has an almost invulnerable position, his race and country being, from his point of view, the parent of both Judaism and its resultant Christianity. Having called the world to pure monotheism, the Mohammedan never mixed his religion with metaphysics, for, while in his intellectual career he studied and taught the science of Aristotle and made practical discoveries in chemistry and the arts of great value, he kept his religion from all admixtures that might make its defense difficult.

But Mr. Zwemer's faith is strong, and he shows how, from his point of view, so different from the Arab's, the Old Testament prophecies and narratives assure him. He shows how full the Old Testament is of allusions to places in Arabia, Kedar, Nabaloth, Sheba, Seba, Midian, and Ephah, and quotes the great missionary chapter of Isaiah, (the sixtieth:) "The multitude of camels shall cover thee, the dromedaries of Midian and Ephah, [Sons of Keturah, Genesis, xxv., 1, 5:] all they from Sheba [South Arabia or Yemen] shall come; they shall bring gold and incense, and they shall show forth the praises of the Lord."

But it is in Ishmael that the promises originally centre:

Ishmael was circumcised, and as a consequence, though the Koran has not a word to say about circumcision, the custom is universal in Arabia, and from there passed to the Moslem world. But the interposition of Mohammed makes the redemption of the promises to Ishmael difficult.

To our author the Koran is defective in many ways, and Mohammedism is simply "Talmudic Judaism," not that of the Old Testament.

Mr. Zwemer thinks that there are about eight millions of Arabs in Arabia, including the lower Euphrates region, virtually Arabia. This estimate is of value, as in the absence of any real census the estimates have run all the way from six to fifteen millions. The appearance, as a trader, of the Arab in Africa and his numbers in Egypt especially have led to a greatly exaggerated idea of his numbers. Many people confound the vast number of distinct peoples professing Islam with the Arab, but this is a mistake. The Turk with little admixture of Arab far outnumbers the Arab, and the Persian about equals it, while it is estimated there are some 50,000,000 Mohammedans in India and 30,000,000 further east.

It is not merely a theoretical view of Islam that makes our author detest it. It is the actual condition of the people of the cities of Arabia that most impresses him. His descriptions of the extortion, the profligacy, and the open sale of immoral privileges in Mecca in the month of the pilgrimage are quoted from both Burckhardt and Burton. The ceremonies are minutely described and the plan of the mosque and of the Kaaba are shown, with an excellent photographic picture of Mecca.

The volume of the annual pilgrimage to Mecca was estimated by Blunt in 1880 at 93,250 persons, 61,750 of whom arrived by sea (through Jiddah) and 31,500 by land. Most of the latter were from the Province of Hejaz, in which Mecca is situated. The pilgrimage is enjoined in the Koran as necessary for salvation unless there are insurmountable obstacles. Nothing shows so well the way the "heavy hurdens" of religion arise and persist than this pilgrimage. When Mohammed made the command the only believers resided about Mecca, within a couple of days' journey at furthest. Now the 175,000,000 Muslim people have to journey from China, Siam, India, and the confines of the west of Africa. The author of the command never dreamed of this, of course, but who can alter it now that it is writ?

There is in this book a fac simile of the paper certificates sold to pilgrims, and a sketch of the plan of the tomb at Medina in which repose the asbes of the prophet and his immediate successors. There is a view also of the tomb of Ezra, on the Tigris, and we only regret that the tomb of the Arab Job is not shown. But the magnificent arch of Ctesiphon near Bagdad is here. Bagdad, for 500 years the capital of the Caliphs, is still a city with over sixty-eight mosques, six churches, and twenty-two synagogues, and a population of 150,000 to 180,000 souls, and a considerable commerce. It would be in the pathway of the Euphrates Valley Railway, so long talked of, but now not soon to be built, the route over Arabia Petraea being likely to take precedence of it as a part of a great European line to India.

Our author's travels in what was once Babylonia are interesting, with descriptions of the date palm tree and its fruit on which everybody lives, with a not very appetising account of the date that is shipped to the United States. Among the documents of most value shown are the map of Arabia Felix of Ptolemy, Niebuhr's map of the Persian Gulf, and an excellent map of Arabia and its surroundings, showing what parts are still held by the Turks, what are British protectorates, and what are independent, as well as that part of Persia which lies on the Persian Gulf.

The reader will gladly turn away from Mecca to the fair region of Sheba to learn that Yemen is a land of fertile valleys and of mountains that rise to 10,000 feet, and among them towns at an elevation of 7,000 to 9,000 feet. The reader will find in the coast fronting the Southern Ocean the Hadramaut, a thousand miles of shore backed with a vast region even yet, after so many thousand years of inquisitive travelers and camels, unexplored. It is the desert that is still the Sphinx, and we suspect it is the desert that is the fountain of that pure air that has kept a race nearly unchanged, physically, for many thousand years—microbes having little chance, they say, in the desert and in the sea. Arabia has a heart of sand and a cuirass of sea, no country not an island so constant a sea line as she, and may yet hold out for centuries against European civilization.

GEORGE H. WARNER.

The True Story of Hiawatha.*

"The Godly Seer: A True Story of Hi-a-wat-ha," has been arranged and collated from old sources, such as the rare Clark's "Onondaga," and the even scarcer Cadwallader Colden's "History of the Five Nations," published in London in 1750, as well as from other old writings.

The little book is exceedingly interesting, both from its subject and the manner of its treatment; "simply an old tale in new dress, and with a new name, and offered to those interested in Indian lore as a promise of better things."

The formation of a bookish club, to be called "The Sachems of the Pipe," and the establishment of a private press for the publication of reprints of Indian legends and myths, came about last Winter through talks over a cheery grate fire in a private house in the Mohawk Valley, but it has been found impossible to issue this their first publication at an earlier date. It may even be, the Chief Sachem announces, their last publication, but even a hasty glance over the present dainty little volume which will be found thoroughly attractive in text, as well as in every detail entering into its making, will lead to a strong desire for other issues.

The little book is bound in a soft cream yellow paper, with title in red, the front cover showing a strong, well-drawn Indian's head in profile, also in red. The book is printed on a good quality of Van Gelder paper, its typography, the effectiveness of its page, and the beauty of its type reflecting the utmost credit upon its printer, the Chief Sachem, Ellis Wordworth. The presswork, however, while not bad, is the weakest feature of an otherwise admirable issue.

The illustrations are unusually good, partaking both of the character of decoration and illustration. These were all especially designed for the book, and consist of black-and-white drawings scattered through the text, of Indian scenes, weapons, ornaments, wigwams, and an original sketch, portraying the conclusion of the present legend, which is as follows:

Hi-a-wat-ha was seen majestically seated in his white canoe, gracefully rising higher and higher above their heads, through the air, until he became entirely lost to the view of the assembled throngs, who witnessed his wonderful ascent in mute and admiring astonishment. * * * The wise man Hi-a-wat-ha, the godlike Ta-oun-ya-wat-ha, retired from their sight, and quietly entered the mysterious regions inhabited only by the favorites of the great and good spirit, Ha-wa-ne-u.

The opening initial letter is very attractive in its design and execution, while, in addition to its black and whites, the text shows marginal illustrations in red or green, which also add greatly to the effectiveness of the volume. The press-mark is most attractive, while blank pages show other interesting designs, such as an Indian drum, a flag showing a tortoise, the badge of one of the Onondaga tribes, and a good colophon. The book also contains a very interesting and appropriate title page.

The text of this old legend will be found thoroughly interesting throughout, its value being increased by references to good notes, filling two pages, including the following, which bears directly upon the interest and value of the present tale:

"Longfellow's famous poem was based on a distortion of the legend of Hi-a-wat-ha, as transposed from the original Iroquois tale. Those desirous of knowing the source of the great poet's inspiration will be interested to learn that 'The Godly Seer' is the true original version, and the scene of Hi-a-wat-ha's sojourn upon earth was placed in Central New York, instead of further West, according to Longfellow."

In the current number of Collier's Weekly, Arthur Lynch, the well-known war correspondent with the Boers, who was also Colonel of the Second Irish Brigade, has an article about the correspondents whom he met in South Africa. The same number also contains an interesting and instructive article on "Some Noted Counterfeiters and Their Outfits," by W. Horman Moran.

*THE GODLY SEER: A TRUE STORY OF HI-A-WAT-HA. Arranged and Collated from Ancient Writings. By Ellis Wordworth. Syracuse, N. Y.: The Iroquois Press. 1900. Edition limited to 227 copies. Pages 44. $1.

CATHARINE BOOTH,

The, Saintlike Founder of the Salvation Army.*

This remarkable woman is the subject of a book of unusual interest written by W. T. Stead of London, well known as the editor of The Review of Reviews, and an accomplished journalist and aggressive philanthropist. In his introduction to the life of Mrs. Booth Mr. Stead remarks that among all the religious teachers who have left the impress of their thoughts and life upon England of to-day, Mrs. Booth is at once the most conspicuous, the most typical, and the most modern. Alone among women, she succeeded in compelling the practical recognition of the apostolic precept, "In Christ, neither bond nor free, male nor female, in the organization of the Christian Church."

Catharine Booth was born in 1829 among the hills of Derbyshire. Her father was a local preacher, her mother an out-and-out Methodist, austere and rigid in the discharge of every duty. But to her daughter she was all tenderness; she was her companion, her confidant, her spiritual directress, her teacher. The Bible was Catharine's earliest lesson book. When only five years old she used to read it aloud to her mother, and, before she was twelve she had read the Sacred Book from cover to cover eight times. At the age of fourteen she had put aside all doctrine which did not harmonize with her innate perceptions of what was right and true. In the same year she was obliged to leave school, owing to a spinal complaint, which compelled her to spend the next years lying on her back. The devouring energy stored up in the frail and ailing body being denied all physical outlet found ample occupation in the study of theology and Church history. Among other religious books she studied was Butler's "Analogy." Among the divines, Wesley, Finney, and Fletcher, Mosheim's and Meander's "Ecclesiastical History" were epitomized. Newton's elaborate exposition of the prophecies of the Bible with its ingenious attempt to fit facts to texts was too much for her, and she brushed them away, remarking that "since so many learned men and able people differed regarding the matter it would be unwise for me to spend my time and efforts in striving to come to any clearer conclusion."

At fifteen she was converted and dedicated herself to her Creator in language so emphatic that it is worth transcribing: "I consecrate myself, this hour, for Thee to live or to die, or to suffer for the salvation of men. I put away from me and abjure all other objects and motives as the end of my existence. I will only engage myself to secondary matters in order to help me carry this, the great primary object of my life, into execution. Thou shalt have every hour, every faculty, every being I possess. Thou shalt have all," &c.

Thus fortified, this marvelous child-woman entered upon a life of forty-six years of unremitting toil and labor in the vineyard of her Master—a life more pregnant and abiding in practical Christian work than that of any woman or man of the century. It would be extremely interesting to recount the work of this mother of Israel during these long years, as well as her domestic life, but we have already occupied so much space that we can only refer those interested in the work of this extraordinary woman to Mr. Stead's life of her. When it is borne in mind that Mrs. Booth was a devoted wife, and mother of eight children, all of whom she reared, in delicate health, having a chronic affection of the spine and a weak heart, to undertake and accomplish all she did, appears almost superhuman; yet her faith and spiritual nature, were so strong, she did it to the end, believing that as her days so would be her strength; and so it was.

It was Catharine Booth who made the Salvation Army the great instrument that it has become of revealing to the world the capacities and resources of her own sex. She and her husband built up out of recruits gathered in the highways and byways of the land, what is to all intents and purposes a vast world-wide church. When she began to preach, the Salvation Army, as a finality, had not been conceived. Thirty years ago it consisted of one man and his wife, without money, without influential friends, without even a place of worship they could call their own. In May, 1886, built up out of the poorest members of the community, it had 15,018 officers, who were attached to 6,231 different "corps" and "outposts." They also had the help of 33,662 local officials, 14,500 bandsmen, and 1,647 others engaged in social work. The total annual circulation of the papers published by the army was 52,000,000 copies, and the weekly attendance at the meetings averaged over 5,500,000. The "social work," homes for women, slum posts, night shelters, food depots, &c., giving accommodations for 11,307. The members of the Salvation Army raise in England a sum of no less than £1,000,000 per annum; the amount raised and expended in the United States, where the army has 312 "corps" and "outposts," is also very large, but not so large in proportion as that of England.

Well may Mr. Stead remark that the work of Catherine Booth and her husband is a miracle of our time, and that no woman of the Victorian era, unless it be the heroine who gives the name to the epoch, has done a work of such far-reaching importance. Mrs. Booth was the founder saint of the Salvation Army.

This is not the opinion of a sentimental philosopher, but of a practical philanthropist, who for nearly twenty years enjoyed the friendship of Mrs. Booth, and kept in touch with her work, not infrequently attending the services of the army.

On one occasion, Canon Liddon of St. Paul's, having expressed his curiosity and interest in the work of this new religious movement, Mr. Stead took the good Canon with him. He relates the following amusing incident connected with the visit, which will bear repeating in this connection, as it shows the feeling and attitude of the "Church" dignitaries toward evangelistic work at that time, and the Canon's hesitancy to appear to countenance it in any manner. Mr. Stead writes:

We took a hansom and drove off eastward. Canon Liddon had no sooner seated himself in the hansom than he began to take off the white collar which is the distinguishing badge of the cleric. "I hope you will not think," said he, pleasantly, "that this savors of a lack of moral courage, but," he added, as he carefully adjusted his black necktie, "people are so troublesome and correspondence is such a burden to me. If I were not to change my collar, I would be recognized, and all next week I should be bothered by good, mistaken people, whose letters I could not ignore, either protesting against my attending a service of the Salvation Army or inquiring if it was true, and if so, why? It is, therefore, only for the avoidance of useless friction that I make this change." At last we reached the spacious and well-lighted hall, and in order to minimize the possibility of being recognized, we took up our seats in a remote corner beneath the gallery. What was our consternation, before we had been seated five minutes, to see a clergyman of the Church of England clambering over the forms to us! When he reached us he said: "Oh, Canon Liddon, I am delighted to see you here!" The meeting was of the ordinary type; there were testimonies, prayers, and lively singing. Among others who testified was a girl in a Salvation Army bonnet and the regulation dress, and a stoker from some steamer in the London docks, whose grimy face did not prevent him from taking part in the service, much to the delight of the Canon, who sighed as he said: "We could not get such men to St. Paul's." When we left, we walked back through the city. Canon Liddon was deeply impressed. He was at first somewhat silent, but after a time he said: "It fills me with shame! I feel guilty when I think of myself! To think of these poor people, with their imperfect grasp of truth! And yet what a contrast between what they do and what we are doing! When I compare all the advantages we enjoy, we who possess the whole body of truth, and see how little use we make of it, how little effect we produce compared with that which was palpable at that meeting, I take shame to myself when I think of it."

To most of us the work of the Salvationists and its power in the world to humanise and Christianize a class of people inhabiting the slums of our large cities, is little understood. The Committee of Fifteen appointed to see what can be done in rescuing our own fair city from its vice and degradation will find in this book of Mr. Stead an inspiration far more practical, more thorough and hopeful, than any we have seen suggested. J. W. H.

Stevenson's "Father Damien"—A New Reprint.*

If it is possible at this late day to find Stevensonians who do not own copies of his "Father Damien," they may be interested in knowing of this very bookish-looking reprint in voluma form of one of the early issues of The Cornhill Booklet. The present edition of "Father Damien: An Open Letter to the Reverend Dr. Hyde of Honolulu," shows the most attractive typography, prettily designed head and tail pieces and initial letters. The paper has an agreeable yellowish tint, while its well-cut type is set solidly, with very little use of leading, the result being a most attractive page and, although the type is small, one remarkably easy to read.

The little book, which is plainly bound in gray cloth, contains Canon Rawnsley's sonnet on Father Damien, a good reproduction of the Edward Clifford portrait of Damien on Japan paper, with a fac simile autograph three-line inscription of the latter's. This is followed by an interesting little introduction by Edwin Osgood Grover, succeeded by extracts from three letters by Stevenson included in the published "Letters," referring to his visit to Molokai—one to his wife, one to Sidney Colvin, and one, most striking of all, to James Payn. The recent death of the latter, revealing his intense sufferings, throws new light upon the personality, the sympathy, and courage of both writer and recipient.

"'There are Molokais everywhere,' said Mr. Dutton, Father Damien's dresser, 'but you are new landed in yours, * * * and I wish you with all my soul the patience and courage which you will require.'"

Of the fineness and value of the letter itself too much cannot be said. It is yet hope best described in the following words taken from the most interesting volume of Stevensoniana ever published: "Robert Louis Stevenson: A Study by A. B., with a Prelude and Postlude by L. I. G.," in a beautiful little privately printed edition, limited to 250 copies, and published by Copeland & Day in 1898.

Both from its very limited issue, and the fact that it was not regularly published, this book has never been widely known, and should be republished at once. The initials are, of course, those of Miss Alice Brown and Miss Louise Imogen Guiney. Of the Father Damien Letter, Miss Brown writes:

"The vivid sketching of the Letter to the Reverend Dr. Hyde. The letter has a double value. In the world rebuking he takes up arms for another, and in the act reveals himself. The letter gives a complete account of it in plastic style. Father Damien, dying, owns it was all true, and, with his last breath, he bade them tell the world that the charges against him were false. Stevenson, in the full flood of his powers, takes up the defense of the dead priest, and in a letter of such force and such eloquence as few men could write, he rebukes the slanderers of the man who had died for his people. Stevenson's letter was the triumph of Father Damien's friends, and the confusion of his enemies."

NOW READY.

HEROD

A Tragedy in Three Acts.

BY

STEPHEN PHILLIPS, Author of "Paola and Francesca."

Crown 8vo, cloth. Price $1.50.

LONDON TIMES: "Here is a notable work of dramatic imagination; dealing greatly with great passions; multi-colored and exquisitely musical."

"A dainty trio of tiny volumes."

The Lover's Library

Size, 5¼ x 3 inches

Bound in Cloth. Price 30 cents net

Bound in Leather. Price 75 cents net

Vol. I. THE LOVE POEMS OF SHELLEY

Vol. II. THE LOVE POEMS OF BROWNING

Vol. III. THE SILENCE OF LOVE

By Edmond Holmes.

The Works of George Borrow

Post 8vo (6x3¾ inches.) Cloth, gilt top, 75 cents net each. Green lambskin, gilt top, $1 net per vol.

Vol. I. LAVENGRO. Vol. II. Romany Rye. Vol. III. The Bible in Spain. Vol. IV. Wild Wales. (Next year.) Vol. V. The Zincali. (Next year.)

Flowers of Parnassus

A SERIES OF FAMOUS POEMS ILLUSTRATED

Demy 16mo. (5⅛x4¼), gilt top
Bound in cloth, 50 cents net;
Bound in leather, 75 cents net.

Vol. I.—GRAY'S ELEGY AND ODE ON A DISTANT PROSPECT OF ETON COLLEGE. With Twelve Illustrations by J. T. Friedenson.

Vol. II.—THE STATUE AND THE BEST. By Robert Browning. With Nine Illustrations by Philip Connard.

Vol. III.—MARPESSA. By Stephen Phillips. With Seven Illustrations by Philip Connard.

Vol. IV.—THE BLESSED DAMOZEL. By Dante Gabriel Rossetti. With Eight Illustrations by Percy Bulcock.

Vol. V.—THE NUT-BROWN MAID. A New Version by F. B. Money-Coutts. With Illustrations by Herbert Cole.

Vol. VI.—LYCIDAS. By John Milton. With Illusirations by A. Hugh Fisher.

Vol. VII.—THE DAY DREAM. By Alfred Tennyson. With Seven Illustrations by Amelia Banerlie.

Vol. VIII.—A BALLADE UPON A WEDDING. By Sir John Suckling. With Illustrations by Herbert Cole.

SEVENTIETH THOUSAND

The Cardinal's Snuff Box

By HENRY HARLAND.

"No story so pure, so charming, so appealing, is to be found in all literature." "It has all the charm that is in love itself." "The author gives us the ineffably sweet story with a wit, a tact, a manner that make one wonder we ever thought of love as a tale that was old and stale."

JOHN LANE, 251 Fifth Ave., New York.

THE SOLDIER AND THE SAILOR.

The American sailor has had the advantage of a picturesque environment. His story has appealed to the imagination. It began with such heroes as Commodore Paul Jones.

The soldier has worked like a pioneer and the eye of the world has been less attracted to him, even when he was engaged in exciting encounters with the Indians. But he has deserved recognition and praise.

Particularly timely are two contrasting and yet comrade books just published by

D. APPLETON AND COMPANY.

THE STORY OF THE SOLDIER.

By General G. A. FORSYTH, U. S. Army (retired). Illustrated by R. F. Zogbaum. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"No romance could be more entertaining."—Philadelphia Item.

"A Tale of thrilling interest."—New York Observer.

"A very complete and vivid picture of the development of the West from a military point of view, with side lights on the civil war."—The Churchman.

COMMODORE PAUL JONES.

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY. 12mo, cloth, with Photogravure Portrait and Maps, $1.50.

"It has the interest of an absorbing romance. It presents all the salient facts in the life of the redoubtable John Paul, and does it in such a way that they will not readily be forgotten."—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

"One of the most fascinating stories that has ever been told concerning a typical personality."—Philadelphia Item.

JUST PUBLISHED.

Ye Gods and Little Fishes

A Travesty on the Argonautic Expedition in Quest of the Golden Fleece.

By JAMES A. HERNE, Jr., author of "Griffith Gaunt," "Shore Acres," &c. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, gilt top. Price $1. Just published. Sent postpaid on receipt of price.

"The entire subject has been most delightfully treated, and on every page one realizes a comic smile or two. The lines ripple along with the charming coolness of a dashing brook, as the characters and events flash before one in pleasing pictures of mirth and folly."

Decorated by clever style by J. L. Gihon, with headings, tail pieces, initials, full cover design, &c., in black and two colors.

The most fascinating, attractive and humorous book of the season.

THE FAMILY EXPENSE BOOK 1901

WRITING A BOOK.

A Successful Author Tells of Her Experiences with Readers and Publishers—Has Never Seen an Editor.

For obvious reasons the writer of these confessions has requested that her name be withheld from the public. Readers may be glad to know, however, that two books by her have been among the distinct successes of the last two years. They were published in New York by one of the oldest houses we have here, and the "huge pile" of her books referred to as seen in a shop window stood not far from the corner of Fifth Avenue and Twenty-third Street.

Having written two small books which have been published by a reputable house and which have been pleasantly received by both press and public, and having just completed a third which I devoutly pray may meet the same fate, I feel that I may henceforth deem myself an author.

I have been considered such for some time among my numerous acquaintances, as I made my literary bow with a short story in a popular magazine some five years ago. Being of the feminine gender, I am usually presented to strangers as "an authoress." It is at these times that I wish I were a man.

The social side of authorship is extremely interesting. At least once a week I am asked how I "came to write." This is difficult, for I do not know. When I say so, my questioner elucidates by asking where I was educated and how I have been trained. Never having been through a "School of Journalism," my answer is not satisfactory.

"You must read a great deal in order to get all those ideas," is frequently said to me. I reply that I do read a great deal, being naturally bookish, but that it is the great object of my life to keep from getting ideas from books. "Plagiarist," to an author, is like the old cry of "Wolf," and when an idea is once assimilated it is difficult indeed to distinguish it from one's own.

I am often asked how long it takes me to write a book. I am ashamed to tell, but sometimes the secret escapes, since I am naturally truthful and find it hard to parry a direct question. The actual time spent in composition is always greeted with astonishment, and I can read the questioner's inference that if I can do so well in so short a time, what might I do if I really worked!

This is always distasteful, so I hasten to add that the composition is a very small part of the real writing of a book, and that authors' moods differ. For my own, I never write until my material is fully arranged in my mind, and I often use notes which I have been making during a period of months. This is seldom convincing, however, so I am gradually learning to smile inscrutably when I am asked this question.

It seems strange to many people that I do not work all the time. If I can write a short story in two hours and be paid $30 for it, I am an idiot indeed if I do not write at least three a day. Ninety dollars a day might easily mount up into a very pleasant annual income.

Still, there are some who understand that an author cannot write all the time, any more than a spider or a silkworm can spin constantly. These people ask me when, where, and how I get my material.

"Getting material" is esteemed a secret process, and I am thought a gay deceiver when I say that I make no special effort to get it—that it comes in the daily living like the morning cream. I am then asked if I rely wholly upon "inspiration." I answer that "inspiration" doubtless has its value as well as hard work, and that the author who would derive all possible benefit from the rare flashes of it must have the same command of technique that a good workman has of his tools.

The majority learn with great surprise that there is more to a book than is self-evident. It was once my happy lot to put this fact into the understanding of a lady from the country.

With infinite pains I told her of the constant study of words, illustrated the fine shades of distinctions between synonyms, spoke of the different ways in which characters and events might be introduced, and of the second subordinate repetition of contrasting themes. She listened in breathless wonder, and then turned to her daughter. "There, Mame," she said, "I told you there was something in it."

There is nothing so pathetic as the widespread literary ambition among people whose future is utterly hopeless. It is sad enough for one who has attained small success to see the heights that are ever beyond him, and it makes one gentle indeed with those who come seeking aid.

One ambitious soul once asked me if I would teach her to write. I replied that I did not know of any way in which it could be taught, but that I would gladly help her all I could. She said she had absolutely no imagination, and asked if that would make any difference. I told her it was certainly an unfortunate circumstance, and advised her to cultivate that quality before she attempted extensive writing. I suppose she is still doing it, for I have not been asked for further assistance.

People often inquire what qualities I deem essential to literary success. Imagination is, of course, the first, observation the second, and ambition, perseverance, and executive ability are indispensable. Beside these, I would place the sense of humor, of proportion, sympathy, insight—indeed, there is nothing admirable in human nature which would come amiss in the writer's equipment.

The necessity of the humorous sense was recently brought home to me most forcibly. A woman brought me the manuscript of a novel, which she asked me to read. She felt that something was wrong with it, but did not know just what it was. She said it needed "a few little touches," she thought, such as my experience had fitted me to give, and she would be grateful indeed if I would revise it. She added that, owing to the connection I had formed with this particular publishing house, it would be an easy matter to get it published, and she generously offered to divide the royalties equally.

I began to read the manuscript. I had not gone far before I discovered that it was indeed rare. My entire family read it—with howls of laughter and with tears streaming over distorted faces, though it was not intended to be a funny book. To this day certain phrases from that novel will upset any one of us, even at a solemn time.

Of course, it was badly written. Characters appeared, talked for a few pages, then vanished, and were never seen again. Long conversations were intruded which had no connection with such plot as there was. Commonplace descriptions of scenery, also useless, were frequent. Many a time the thread of the story was lost. There were no distinguishing traits in any one of the characters—they all talked alike. But the supreme defect was the author's lack of humor. With all seriousness she made her people say and do things which were absolutely ridiculous and not by any means true to life.

I think I must have an unsuspected bit of tact somewhere, for I extricated myself from the situation, and the woman is still my friend. I did not hurt her feelings about her book—nor did I send it to my publishers with a letter of recommendation. I remarked that her central idea was all right, which was true, since it was a love story, but that it had not been properly developed and that she needed to study. She thanked me for my counsel, and said she would rewrite it. I wish it might be printed just as it is, however, for it is indeed a sodden and mirthless world in which we move.

As the editors say on the refusal blanks, I am always glad to read manuscripts. Having written some verse which has landed in respectable places, I am also asked about poetry. Poems written in trochaic tetameter, with the good old rhymes "trees and breeze," "light and night," soldered on at the ends of the lines, are continually brought to me for revision and improvement.

Once I brought out my rhyming dictionary for the benefit of the literary aspirant, but I shall never do it again. He looked it over carefully, while I explained the advantage of having all available rhymes before one, so that the least common might be quickly chosen and the verse made to run smoothly. He was much disgusted with me. "Huh!" he said, "it's just the book. Anybody can write poetry with one of these books!"

My invaluable thesaurus is chained to my desk that it may not escape, and I frequently have to justify its existence when aliens penetrate my den. "It's no wonder you can write," was said to me once. "Here's all the English language right on your desk, and all you've got to do is to put it together." "True," I replied, wickedly, "but it's all in the dictionary, too."

Last week I had a rare treat. I met a woman who had "never seen a literary person before" and who said it was "quite a novelty." I beamed upon her, for it is nice to be "a novelty," and after a little we got quite confidential.

"I want you to tell me just how you write," she said, "so's I can tell the folks at home. I'm going to buy some of your books to give away." Mindful of "10 per cent.," I immediately became willing to tell her anything I could.

"Well, I want to know how you write. Do you just sit down and do it?"

"Yes, I just sit down and do it."

"Do you write any special time?"

"No—mornings usually; but any time will do."

"What do you write with—a pen or a pencil?"

"Neither. I always use the typewriter."

"Why, can you write on a typewriter?"

"Yes, it's much easier than a pen and it keeps the ink off your hands. You can write with both hands at once, you know."

"You have to write it all out with a pencil first, don't you?"

"No; I just think into the keys."

"Wouldn't it be easier to write with a pencil and then copy it?"

"No, or I'd do it that way."

"Do you dress any special way when you write?"

"No. I usually wear a shirtwaist and take off my collar. Can't write with a collar on."

There was a long silence. The little lady was digesting the information she had just secured. "It seems easy enough," she said. "I should think anybody could write. What do you do when it's done?"

"Oh, I go all over it and revise very carefully."

"Why, do you have to go all over it when it's done?"

"Certainly."

"Then it takes you longer than it does most people, doesn't it?"

"I don't know about that. Everybody revises."

"Why, when I write a letter, if I go over it I always scratch out so much that I have to do it over."

"That's the idea, exactly," I replied. "I go over it till there isn't a thing to be scratched out or a word to be changed."

"But you've got lots left," she said, enviously. "When I go over a letter there's hardly anything left."

At this juncture my rara avis was taken away from me, for I trust that I may some day meet her again.

The mechanical part of a book is a source of wonder to the uninitiated. My galley proofs were once passed around among the guests at a Summer hotel as if they were some strange, new animal. They did not understand page proof nor plates, nor how I knew when it was right.

The cover is frequently commented upon and I am asked if I did it. I am always sorry that I do not know enough to do covers. I explain that an artist does that, that I do not see it till the first copies come from the bindary, and that I am of such small importance that I am not consulted—being merely the poor worm who wrote the book.

There are many people who seem to be afraid to speak before me lest their pearly utterances may be transformed into copy. Time and time again I have heard this: "We must be careful what we say now or Miss —— will put us into a book."

People are strangely literal. An author gets no credit whatever for inventive faculty—his characters and stories are supposedly real people and real things. I am asked how I came to know so much about such and such a thing. I once wrote a love story with an unhappy ending, and it was at once assumed that I had been "disappointed in love." When my first book came from the press I was pointed out at a reception as the author of it. The man surveyed me long and carefully. "That's a mistake," he said to his informant. "That girl never wrote that book. She's too frivolous and empty-headed!"

I have tried, until I am discouraged, to make people understand that a book does not have to be a verity in order to be true—that a story must be possible rather than actual, and that actual circumstances may be too unreal for literature.

There are always people who will ask for things to be written especially for them. During a Summer at the coast I had endless opportunities to write biographical sketches of the guests at the hotel, to write a story and put them all into it, or to write something about anything, that they might have as a "souvenir." As a matter of fact, there were only two people at the hotel who could have been any possible use as copy, and one of these was a woman, to whom only Mr. Stockton could have done justice.

It was hard to be always good-natured, but I lost my temper only once. We staid late into the Autumn, and were rewarded by a magnificent storm.

I put on my bathing suit and my mackintosh and went down to the beach, in the teeth of a northeast gale. Little needles of sand were blown into my face and I lost my cap, but it was well worth an effort.

For over an hour I stood on the desolate beach, sheltered from the sand by a bathhouse. I had never seen anything so beautiful—so far beyond words. At last it grew dark, and I was soaked through and stiff with the cold.

So I went back to the hotel, my soul struck dumb by the might and the glory of the sea. My heart was too full to speak. The majestic chords were still thundering in my ears; that tempest-tossed ocean was still before my eyes. On my way up stairs I met a woman I had formerly liked.

"Oh, Miss ——," she said, "I want you to write me a description of that storm!"

I brushed past her, rudely, I fear, and she grabbed the cape of my mackintosh with elephantine playfulness. "You can't go," she said, coquettishly, "until you promise to write me a description of that storm!"

"I can't write it," I said, coldly. "Please let me go."

"You've got to write it," she returned. "I know you can, and I won't let you go until you promise to write me a description of that storm!"

I wrenched myself away from her, white with wrath, and got to my room before she did, though she was still pursuing me. I locked my door, and had a hard fight for my self-control. From the beach came the distant boom of the surf, mingled with the liquid melody of the returning breakers.

Later, just as I had finished dressing for dinner, there was a tap at my door. My friend (?) stood there, beaming. "Have you got it done?" she asked. "You know you promised to write me a description of that storm!"

She staid only three days longer, and I kept away as much as I could, but occasional meetings were inevitable. When the gladsome time of parting came, she hung about my neck. "I want you to come and see me," she said; "you know you haven't done what you said you would. Don't you forget to write me a description of that storm!"

My business arrangements with my publishers are seemingly a matter of public interest. I am asked how much it costs to print a book the size of mine. People are surprised to discover that I do not pay the expenses, and that I haven't the least idea of what it costs.

Then they want to know if the publisher buys the book of me. I explain that this is sometimes done, but that I myself am paid upon the royalty basis—10 per cent. on the list price of every copy sold. This seems painfully small, but it is simple to demonstrate that the royalty on five or six thousand copies is quite worth while.

They shortly come to the conclusion that the publisher makes more than I do, and that this is unfair. They suggest that if I published it myself I might make a great deal more money.

It is difficult for them to understand that writing books and selling books are two very different propositions; that I don't know enough to sell books, and that the [illegible] of a [illegible] page is worth a great deal to [illegible]

"Well," a man said to me [illegible] much did you make out of your [illegible] year?" I explained that the [illegible] royalty basis was really an equal division of the profits, everything considered, and that all the financial risk was on one side. I named my few hundreds, with which I was very well satisfied. He absorbed himself in calculation with a pencil and the back of an envelope. "I figure out," he said at length, "that they must have made at least a third more than you did. That isn't fair."

My ire arose. "It is perfectly fair," I replied. "Paper is cheap, I know, but composition isn't, and advertising isn't. They are welcome to every penny they can make out of my books. I'd be glad to have them make twice as much as they do, even if my own income remained the same." I became telepathically aware, at this point, that I was considered crazy, so I changed the subject.

I am asked sometimes how I happened to meet my publishers, and "get in with them." I have never met any one of the firm, though I was in the same city with them for over a year. More than this, there is nothing on earth, except a green worm, which would scare me so much as a summons to the office of that publishing house.

I have walked by in fear and trembling. I have seen a huge pile of my books in the window, and on the bulletin board a poster which bore my name in conspicuous letters, as if I had been cured of something. But I should no more dare to go into that office than to make a social call on Mrs. McKinley with a shawl over my head and my fancy work tucked under my arm.

This is incomprehensible to the uninitiated. The publishers have ever been most courteous and kind. They are people with whom it is a pleasure to have any sort of business dealings, but we are not bosom friends—and I very much fear that they do not care to become chummy with me.

There may be some authors who have taken nerve tonics and are not afraid to meet an editor or a publisher. I have read of some who walk cheerfully into an editorial sanctum—but I've never seen a sanctum, nor an editor, nor a publisher. I don't even write to an editor when I send him a piece—just put in a stamp. He usually knows what to do with it.

Fame, or long experience, may enable authors to meet the arbiters of their destiny without becoming frightened, but I have had brief experience and still less fame. The admirable qualities of the pachyderm may have been bestowed upon some authors—but not this one!

Appleton Morgan's Appreciation of Senator Davis.

To The New York Times Saturday Review:

Miss Atherton's estimate of the late Senator Davis, in your last issue, I can echo from sixteen years of intimacy. I shall always esteem it one of the privileges of my lifetime that I was allowed to know such a man as he. The last letter, I suppose, he ever wrote entirely with his own hand, lies before me.

St. Paul, Sept. 11, 1900.

My Dear Morgan: Thank you for your "Study in the Warwickshire Dialect." It will give me many a pleasant hour and remind me often of the olden time, when we sat like "knitters in the sun" and gossiped over insoluble Shakespeare problems.
Sincerely yours, C. K. DAVIS.

One of his favorite "insoluble problems of Shakespeare" we used to talk over was as to whether Hamlet was mad, "stark mad." My own idea always was that Hamlet did as well as he could under the circumstances, and finally not only carried out the ghost's instructions to the letter, but bettered them by removing not only the King, but the guilty Queen and destroying the Danish succession, so that no heir of Claudius could ever reign thereafter. And I used to urge to Senator Davis that if a man's task is to kill a man, he should be allowed his own time to do it in, without being called crazy because he was deliberate. To which he replied that if Hamlet had not been mad he would not have killed himself as well as the King and the Queen, but would have himself seized on the succession instead of leaving it to Fortinbras.

Senator Davis was always a rare man, and a moment with him in his library or law office, or anywhere, was something to remember. His eulogy will be spoken later on, and many times. But I may note for your columns that when he removed to Washington, the few books from his great library he took with him were mostly the Latin and Greek classics. I remember that, going into his study, on Massachusetts Avenue, at the time of the Venezuela excitement, during which he delivered his first great speech in the Senate on the Monroe doctrine, I found him with a Latin edition of Plato on his knee and copies of all the New York daily newspapers on the table at his elbow, hard at work on the ensemble.

He was indeed a rare man. As to his Shakespeare work, he often told me he hoped for leisure to revise his "Law on Shakespeare" into a work on "The Lawyer in Shakespeare's Time." As to his "Hamlet," referred to by Miss Atherton, he might have changed his mind. I do not see how he or anybody else could, or can, improve on his eloquent "Madame Roland."

APPLETON MORGAN.

Westfield, N. J., Dec. 26, 1900.

Miss Braddon's latest novel, "The Infidel," which has already gone through six editions at Harper & Brothers', is the feature of a singular coincidence. It is her sixty-fourth novel, written in her sixty-fourth year. Whether it will add a third element to the coincidence by running through sixty-four editions remains to be seen. It has the first figure safe, however.

WEDDINGS.

Mrs. Miln's Account of Customs and Ceremonies in Many Lands.*

There is no subject so full of universal interest to the human mind as love—no theme so old, and yet so everlastingly new. There is little variation to it; in all countries, whether it be in the sunny valleys of the South or the frozen regions of the North, love creeps in. But it is not only of love that Mrs. Miln speaks in her rather bulky white and gold volume, but also, and mainly, of the wooings and weddings—the results, or, in some lands, the prelude to love. An extensive traveler, Mrs. Miln has had opportunities to study the marriage superstitions, traditions, and customs of many countries, and the result of her investigation is a most interesting collection of quaint, and, in some cases, remarkable proceedings. Marriage celebration among the better classes of the civilized countries has become more or less of a conventional function, but among the peasants of the Old World superstition still plays a prominent part in the celebrations; while among the dusky inhabitants of far-off islands, and the communities of the Eastern Hemisphere, the barbaric element is often uppermost in the ceremony.

In the primeval days when the world began, prehistoric man seized his bride by force, but as civilization began to make its stealthy progress the marriage by capture gave place to that of purchase, and the fair bride was sold to the highest bidder. This custom still prevails in many countries, indeed even in our own land, it has been said; —but we must not grow skeptical nor doubt the entire establishment of that latest phase of matrimony—marriage by "fascination" or for love. Many of the customs and ceremonies of modern marriages are traditions handed down step by step from various developments of marriage. The presence of the bride's father at the wedding symbolizes the reluctant consent of the parent of "ye olden times" to a robbery effected in spite of his opposition; the ring is what is left of the fetters with which the ancient captor bound his victim; the shoe and other "good luck tokens" thrown after the departing couple represent the missiles hurled by the furious relatives after the fleeing captor, while the honeymoon is the modern interpretation of the old practice of the thief hiding with his bride until a certain time should have elapsed, when his marriage would be accepted as legal. The wedding gifts, on the other hand, can be easily traced to the later custom of marriage by purchase.

Marriage by capture, however, still prevails in all its barbaric simplicity among the Eskimos, where the fire of love burns sluggishly in cold breasts. Here propriety permits a gentleman, after deciding what damsel he wishes to make his bride, to watch near her door, or—if he is not himself energetic enough for the escapade—to appoint a deputy to seize the maiden as she leaves her house bound on some errand, and, dragging her by the hair to his hut, she becomes his wife by virtue of his superior force.

In the sunnier countries, however, love is permitted to blossom more freely, and we find the women of the south being wooed and won in far more picturesque manner. Among the German peasants superstition seems to have far the greatest hold, but what are evil omens in one country prove to be signs of happiness in another. For instance, no German bride, no matter what her rank, would dare to wear pearls on her wedding day, for does not each pear-shaped drop represent a tear? On the contrary, however, in Mexico the pearl is so necessary and sacred an adjunct to the marriage ceremony that none but the bride's sister may dare to touch the gems. In Japan a love-lorn swain tosses a flower into the passing litter of his lady love. If she spurns it or throws it away his suit is discouraged, but if she keeps it or tucks it into the bosom of her kimona his heart rejoices, for she looks upon him with favor. In Sweden the breaking of bread between lovers is a goodly sign; German Gretchen invites her lover to a meal of sausages by way of proof of her favor, while the Russian bridegroom, in return for a long lock of the maiden's hair, gives her bread and salt, and almond cake and a silver ring set with turquois. The almond cake is the bridegroom's unspoken promise to try to provide her with luxuries all her life, while the bread and salt are a pledge to furnish her with the necessities of life. The engagement ring? Who does not know the message that it bears the world over?

A Chinese bride never sees her husband before her marriage, but, arrayed in sacred red, she is carried in state to his home, and there solemnly received by him. Chinese women are judged according to their virtues—not the least of which is silence. Indeed, one of the most serious grounds for a Chinese divorce is undue talkativeness in the wife. At her husband's death it is not infrequent for a Chinese woman to commit suicide; especially is this true among the higher classes of Chinese society. Such a performance is arranged with all the solemnity of a religious ceremony, and secures for the principal actor the very highest esteem and reverence. In most of the European countries the bride wears a chaplet of flowers upon her brow as a sign of her virginity, which corresponds very much to the older custom of unbinding the hair.

It would be interesting to relate at greater length and detail all the strange customs and ideas of these many lands, many of surpassing cruelty, some of poetic beauty, and some that appear to us to be the acme of ridiculous; how the dark-skinned Hindu courts his bride, or the Arab woos her with solemn feasting and rejoicing; how the Indian maiden is wooed, how the soft-eyed Japanese girls, like bright-hued butterflies flutter into the arms of their husbands, or the wicked Australasian, whose bride is espoused to him at her birth, sometimes eats where he cannot love the maiden given him; or how the Burmese wife with infinite tact maintains peace with her husband; "though she bends him, she obeys him; though she beckons, yet she follows." But the subject is inexhaustible. In spite of the differences that breeding and environment make, love is love the world over, and though its manifestations vary in different countries, its theme is ever the same.

The book is profusely illustrated with photographs that lend much interest to the text and the information is given in a pleasing and genial manner. The volume is unfortunately large and cumbersome, a defect which we think might easily have been remedied by the use of lighter paper without detracting any from the clearness of the type.

Love Letters Too Good to be True.*

The preface, or, as it is called, the "explanation," of these remarkable letters clearly implies that they were written by a real woman to a real man, and published after the death of both the actors in the romance. If this be true, one can scarcely pardon such a revelation, even under the veil of anonymity, and any criticism of the letters themselves would be a desecration of the holy of holies of a woman's heart. In spite, however, of the fact that a preface is the author's confidential word with his reader, it is so often employed to give an air of truth to the fiction that follows that we cannot help regarding this "explanation" as constructed to heighten the illusion of the letters themselves, and believing the whole to be a work of the imagination.

All the internal evidence supports this theory. The writer is supposed to be a young woman twenty-two years of age; her lover half a year younger—merely boy and girl. Yet never, since Romeo and Juliet, were boy and girl so mature. The letters are not only a record of supreme devotion, but they are immensely clever: too finished in style, too subtle, too rich and ripe in literary and artistic judgments for it to be at all probable that they were penned by so young a hand. Although but one side of the correspondence is given, there are sufficient quotations from the man; enough light is thrown upon his mind and character to show that he, no less than she, is wholly free from the crudity of youth. Moreover, what is untold, as well as what is told, is artistically contrived to stimulate curiosity and to open a wide field for conjecture. In short, the letters are "too good to be true," although the air of reality is most skilfully achieved and preserved throughout the volume. The letters are emphatically letters, not essays. There is always the unknown other side; allusions to things which only the lover understands; fine bits of literary and artistic criticism tossed upon the page with a light hand, then brushed aside for the great theme of love; little glints of fun ere the story darkens; a pretty dallying with trifles—everywhere suggestions, nothing told "tout au long."

As a romance, the book possesses the rare charm of making every reader his own novel writer. The most slender skeleton of a plot is vouchsafed, upon which endless conjectures and solutions may be hung. If there were such a thing as a school for writers, it would be interesting to give "An Englishwoman's Love Letters" as a theme, and to see what a variety of compositions would result, in how many different ways the mysteries would be cleared up. What caused that fiat of separation to come like a bolt out of a clear sky from the lover's own hand? Was his implacable mother the deus ex machina, and was her subsequent overture of peace but the easy kindness of the triumphant? Was there some hereditary blight upon the woman's life which she did not know, and which would have made marriage with her a crime? Or, since the world's best-loved women have always had natures of withdrawal and of receptivity, rather than of passionate surrender, did this woman love too well for her own good? "Men are tyrants. Never let your husband know that you are wholly at his mercy," wrote once a wise woman; but the writer of these letters lays herself at her lover's feet; she is abject in her submission, absolute in an utter abandonment of devotion. She could not even gather together her self-respect when her love was spurned. Did the man weary, as men will, of this too easy entrance into his kingdom? Did he put his crown from off his head in the longing for new worlds to conquer? Nothing is told. The cause of the ultimate tragedy is left to the reader's conjecture.

The "explanation" says of these lovers, that "to the memory of neither of them does any blame belong." But we cannot admit that love is governed by other laws than those of ordinary ethics, and, taken at its face value, the action of the man is one of cowardly cruelty; the character of the woman, while singularly noble and beautiful, is wanting in fortitude and self-control.

The book is one of unusual fascination and of high literary quality. Moreover, despite its passionate intensity, it is as chaste in thought as in style. We take our shoes from off our feet as we look upon the piteous sacrifice of a pure soul to a deaf and blind divinity. And yet, because of the morbidness of concentration upon one single passion, we must pronounce the book unwholesome in its tendency. The love between two young creatures whose acquaintance may be counted by days is not the whole of life; and the mischief done by the insistence of novelists and poets upon this one of the many sentiments of mankind can never be estimated.

Manzoni may have gone too far, but surely he took the sane and healthful view when asked why he had cut all the love scenes out of his novels. "Because," said he, "I am of the opinion that one must not speak of love in a way to lead others toward that passion. I believe that love is necessary in this world, but also that there will always be a sufficient amount of it; we must not, therefore, take the pains of cultivating it in others, for in cultivating it one helps only in proportion as it is not wanted. There are other sentiments which this world is in more need of, and that a writer ought assiduously to put worthy subjects constantly before the hearts of men, such as duty, love of country, [illegible]

READ

Lessons in Love

BY

KATRINA TRASK

(MRS. SPENCER TRASK)

Author of "John Leighton, Jr."

"LIVING LOVE STORIES . . . just such stories as strong-hearted men and tender-hearted women love to read . . . . rarely have we met with stories which have shown such a deep appreciation of the noblest passion . . . They will not appeal to the shallow and frivolous."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

"Dainty, witty, sharp and bright."—Buffalo Commercial.

"They are not mawkish sentimentality but palpitating truths . . . They will be read with avidity by both old and young lovers."—Detroit Journal.

Post 8vo, cloth, ornamental. $1.25.

FRANKLIN SQUARE HARPER & BROTHERS. NEW YORK

If a thief should steal your purse and leave a valuable diamond ring in your pocket, what would you do with the ring?

See Dr. S. Weir Mitchell's Piquant Story

A COMEDY OF CONSCIENCE

complete in the

JANUARY CENTURY

Sold everywhere. 35 cents.

The Century Co., New York

"It is a novel of very rare and high qualities, vital with sincere and noble purpose."—Knoxville Sentinel.

"A delightful love story with no clouds but those which give April showers and pass away."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

April's Sowing

By GERTRUDE HALL

Illustrated and Decorated by Orson Lowell

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

"A beautiful book and a good story."—Boston Home.

"A tripping little story of love and politics and politics, with touches of comedy."—Detroit Free Press.

AUTOGRAPH LETTERS.

Mrs. Browning, Kitty Clive, and Coleridge Represented.

The recent London sale of books and manuscripts, the property of the late Montague David Scott, M. P., and others, comprised many autograph letters of special interest. In one from Charlotte Brontë to "Dear Ellen," dated Aug. 23, 1849, the writer, after referring in anxious terms to the serious illness of her father, says:

From what you say of Mr. Clapham I think I should like him very much; Anne wants shaking to be put out about his appearance, what does it matter whether her husband dines in a dresscoat or a marketcoat provided there be worth and honesty, and a clean shirt underneath?

There is also a touching letter describing the last days of Jane Austen. It is dated July 20, 1817, and is from the pen of the famous novelist's sister, Elizabeth Austen, who writes as follows:

She felt herself to be dying about half an hour before she became tranquil and apparently unconscious. During that half hour was her struggle, poor soul; she said she could not tell us what she suffered, though she complained of little fixed pain. When I asked her if there was anything she wanted, her answer was she wanted nothing but death, and some of her words were, "God grant me patience, pray for me, oh, pray for me." Her voice was defective, but as long as she spoke she was intelligible. * * * I returned about a quarter before 6, and found her recovering from faintness and oppression; she got so well as to be able to give me a minute account of her seizure, and when the clock struck 6 she was talking quietly to me. I cannot say how soon afterward she was seized again with the same faintness, which was followed by the suffering she could not describe; but Mr. Lyford had been sent for, had applied something to give her ease, and she was in a state of quiet insensibility by 7 o'clock at the latest. From that time till half-past 1, when she ceased to breathe, she scarcely moved a limb, so that we have every reason to think, with gratitude to the Almighty, that her sufferings were over. * * * The last sad ceremony is to take place on Thursday morning, her dear remains are to be deposited in the cathedral—it is a satisfaction to me to think that they are to be in a building she admired so much—her precious soul, I presume to hope, reposes in a superior Mansion.

One or two autograph letters from Mrs. Browning, dated July 21, 1844, relate to the first collected edition of her poems. The writer says:

I am using all my strength just now in concluding the labor of getting through the press (both of England and America) a new collection of poems in two volumes. This has been hard work and necessary to be worked at with both hands * * * so that I have not one free at the moment—but I shall soon have done my part * * * at least my active part—the passive having possibly more of trial in it. When my books are out I will satisfy your kind wish of reading something new of mine, by sending them to you—I believe, am I right in believing? that you know my "Seraphim" volume, in which, according to my own view of myself, as well as by the opinion of others, I broke my shell, and came out, however unworthily and weakly, yet in my own nature and individuality. The present volumes have, I hope and believe, some further advance of life and strength in them. Poetry is more to me than ever—and dearer, and (in an earthly sense) it is a vital organ left to me to breathe with. No, my dearest Angela; the dedication of Miss Martineau's beautiful book was not to me, and both she and I have had to say so again and again, the imputation having done me much general honor. The dedicatee is, however, older, both in years and illness, than I am, and her name I do not know.

An amusing autograph signed letter to Mrs. Garrick is from the pen of the famous actress Kitty Clive, and is dated "Clive's Den, September 22, 1775." It fetched £18 under the hammer.

I delivered your message to Mrs. Franks, and she seemed quite happy in being sure she shall have the pleasure of seeing the Garricks' "Lacna." She said everybody admired Mrs. Garrick's character who had heard of her; my reply was natural and wise, that everybody must love Mrs. Garrick when they were acquainted with her. I speak by experience. I must not say one word to the dear man (Garrick) to-day, for I know he is so busy in molding up his new Pope fur to-morrow that he would snap as he did at his Jew when he held King Lear's map the wrong end upwards. I will not wish she may be shocking, but I will wish my poor Pope was brought back to the Castle of St. Angelo. I have read of there being three Popes at one time. I believe the Garrick has at present twice that number, but there was not then, nor will be now, but one right Pope. I would give fivety pounds (and I am but poor) that he thought so to. I have settled with Mrs. Franks for next Thursday if it will be agreeable to you; if not, any other day you apoint I am sure will be so to her, and I desire that you and Mrs. Garrick won'd that day eat your mutton with the pivy, it will be quite the thing, we will dine at a quorter after two, so you will get home by day-light.

An autograph letter from Coleridge to the Rev. Francis Wrangham, dated Jan. 10, 1818, is mainly occupied with the poet's complaints of injustice sufferred at the hands of his reviewers. He writes:

Injured as to the sale by the gross abuse of The Edinburgh Review, which, however, would have rather been a benefit than a detriment had it not been actualized by the entire silence or compassionate chance compliments of The Quarterly Review—in short, with a fraction of enemies as rancorous as unprovoked, and without a single counteracting effort in my behalf or the part of my friends; cheated and duped by the booksellers; I was obliged to make over all my works as the Pledge for a Loan of £200; on which condition I agreed to write the Introduction to the Humbug entitled "Encyclopaedia Metropolitana."

Also included in the sale are a series of autograph letters of Shelley, besides autograph letters and poems of more or less interest by Dr. Johnson, Robert Browning, De Quincey, Lord Beaconsfield, Charles Lamb, Sir John Millais, and numerous others. Among the items so far sold are the following:

"The Basiliks," 1662, bound by Samuel Mearne	£90 0 0
J. Boswell, "Life of Dr. Johnson," edited by Croker, extra illustrated	35 0 0
R. Braithwait, "Excellent Piece of Conceipted Poesy," 1638	42 0 0
N. Breton, "Solemne Passion for Soules Love," 1622	33 0 0
W. Penn, letter, &c., to Lord Fairfax, three pages	34 0 0
Collection of about 1,030 French caricatures	51 0 0
John Keble, "The Christian Year," and a volume in manuscript	39 10 0
R. Browning, "Pauline," 1833, uncut copy	120 0 0
Jacopo de Cessoli, "Libro di Guioche di Sacchi," 1493	33 0 0
Oliver Cromwell, letter signed by him in French, dated 10th June, 1654	41 0 0
Oliver Goldsmith, two autograph signatures	30 10 0

Early Printed Books Sold in England.

One of the most interesting of recent auction sales occurred Nov. 26 and 27 at Sotheby's, in London, when a portion of the choice collection of the late Henry Newnham Davis was sold, 342 lots realizing a total of £4,108 12s. 6d., an average of nearly £13 per lot. In addition to illuminated and other manuscripts, fine breviaries in manuscript and printed form, books of hours, missals, and other ancient service books, the library contained a number of valuable early printed books with wood cuts and several excessively rare examples of the early English presses of Machlinia, Wynkyn de Worde, and Pynson. Among the latter the item of greatest interest was Sir Thomas Littleton's "Tenures," printed in London about 1482, by John Letton and Willelmas de Machlinia, or William of Mecheln, (the first book issued jointly by the first printers in London.) This was a fine and perfect copy in black morocco, by Hering, and was sold for £400. Only a few copies, perfect and imperfect, are now known of this typographical monument. Among other important items in the Davis sale were the following: "Book of Hawking, Hunting, and Fishing," London, printed by William Copland, no date, (title page defective and inlaid, last leaf inlaid, and several other leaves repaired,) £39.

Bidpay's "Directorium Humanae Vitae," first edition in Latin, (about 1484,) the Yemeniz copy, in crimson morocco, extra, by Raazonnet-Trautz, £24.

Braithwaite's "Ar't Asleep, Husband?" and "The Two Lancashire Lovers," (lacking a plate,) in one volume, the Haslewood copy, £50.

Brant's "Ship of Fools," Barclay's translation, London, 1570, (a few leaves wormed,) £20 10s.

"Breviarium Romanum," manuscript on vellum, fourteenth century execution, £55.

"Breviarium Secundum Usum Sarum," London, printed by Richard Pynson, in 1507, at the expense of Margaret, mother of Henry VII., (on vellum, with the date in the colophon, unique in this condition; the Marquis of Hastings's copy.) £175.

Breydenbach's "Peregrinationes ad Montem Sion," &c., Mentz, 1486, the first Latin edition, with the original wood cuts intact, £60.

Petrus Carmelianus's "Carmen," London, Pynson, about 1514, (relating to the marriage of the third daughter of Henry VII.,) £160. This was the Jolley copy, which fetched £41 10s. in 1851. Only one other copy on vellum is known, the Grenville, in the British Museum.

Columna's "Hypnerotamachia Poliphili," Venice, Aldus, 1499, first edition, £78.

Dekker's "Satiro Mastrix," London, 1602, (the satire in which Ben Jonson is ridiculed under the name of Horace,) £95. Dekker's "Dead Term," London, 1608, (title mended,) £31.

"Dictes and Sayings," Wynkyn de Worde, 1528, £35.

Glanville's "De Proprietatibus Rerum," translated by John of Trevisa, printed by Wynkyn de Worde about 1496, first edition, and fine copy, £212.

St. Jerome's Epistles in Italian, by Matheo da Farraro, (slightly imperfect,) 1497, £40.

"Horae B. V. M.," illuminated book of hours, on vellum, with eighteen miniatures, (fine manuscript of the fifteenth century,) £270; another, also with eighteen miniatures, a beautiful manuscript in perfect condition, £145; a Sarum Book of Hours, manuscript, on vellum, Latin and English, twelve miniatures, (fifteenth century,) £80.

"Hortus Sanitatis," first French translation, printed by Verard about 1501, (the Yemeniz and Hazard copy, bound by Derome,) £69.

Josephus's "Antiquitates Judaearum," manuscript of the tenth century, £69.

"Le Manuel des Dames," printed by Verara, (the Yemeni copy,) £100.

Massinger's "Believe As You List," 1631, the original manuscript from which the play was first edited, by the Percy Society, £69.

Mercurius Britannicus," (a Parliamentary newspaper, complete,) London, 1643-5, £39.

Meschinot's "Les Lunettes des Princes," Paris, printed by Du Pre, about 1496, £30.

A collection of ten ancient illuminated miniatures cut from Service Books, £106.

"Missale Magantinense," printed by P. Schoeffer, 1483, £38.

"Missale Romanum," illuminated manuscript of the fifteenth century, £49.

"Officium B. V. M.," &c., manuscript on vellum, illuminated, fifteenth century, £139.

Pliny Jenson's edition of the "Historiarum Naturalium" of 1472, £24 10s.

Thurocz's "Chronica Hungarica," 1488, first edition, very rare, £65.

"Der Ritter vom Thurn," Basel, 1493, £41.

Whetstone's "Mirror for Magistrates of Cities," London, 1584, £22.

American Poetry to be Sold.

It has finally been determined by Brown University of Providence, R. I., that a sale shall be made of duplicate items in the famous G. Fiske Harris collection—undoubtedly the most extensive and valuable in existence—and the items will come under the hammer at John Anderson, Jr.'s, auction rooms, 34 West Thirtieth Street, some time in January, probably toward the end of the month.

As is well known, the nucleus of this notable gathering of American poetry was obtained by purchase from the library of Albert G. Greene. Caleb Fiske Harris, the purchaser, then set himself the task of forming a representative collection of native verse, and from that time until the day of his untimely death in 1891, he searched the market, both American and foreign, for specimens of the work of our early poets. The wonderfully complete collection now resting on the shelves in rooms especially built for it in Brown University is a monument to his discriminating taste, indefatigable energy, and liberal expenditure. It is due to the generosity of Mr. Harris's cousin, the late Senator Henry B. Anthony of Rhode Island, that the collection is now in appreciative hands, he having purchased it en bloc from the heirs and presented it (with his own fine library added) to the university.

Being formed promiscuously, and from three different sources, it will readily be understood that there are necessarily a large number of duplicate volumes in the collection.

Hence the coming sale, which will bring upon the market these items, among which are many rarities not in the McKee collection and a large number which do not ordinarily come into the auction room. It may be said, indeed, that it is only through the fortunate chance of such a sale that collectors will have the opportunity of securing certain items usually called "unobtainable" by the book dealer. In addition, there are such great rarities as Whittier's "Moll Pitcher," (a fine copy, uncut save at the top, where the binder has slightly trimmed the edge,) and other American first editions of equal interest and value.

Hints for Home Reading.*

For those whose New Year's resolutions include a plan for systematic reading, as well as from the interest of the subjects treated in the series of papers on books and their proper use, opening the volume, this little book will be found of much interest as well as of practical assistance.

The volume contains a carefully classified list of nearly 3,000 books, selected from all departments of literature. The American Library Association prepared for the Chicago Exhibition of 1893 a model library of 5,000 volumes especially adapted for a small public library, the books included having been chosen by a committee from lists suggested by about seventy-five of the leading librarians of the country. A catalogue of these books was afterward issued, and from these lists, as well as from information contained in the "Warner Library" and Putnam's "Suggestions for Household Libraries," the present "Book Buyer's Guide" has been made up. The present lists will be found all the more valuable from the fact that the publishers' names and the publication prices of the various books are added, the latter being usually subject to discount. Where several editions of one book are to be had, the one selected is that decided to be cheapest and at the same time best. There is also added a list of books of reference sold by subscription only, of which the prices are not given for the reason that they are subject to change from time to time. The book also contains about sixty pages for recording books read, blank except as to a printed form, showing title, author, publisher, sketch of contents, and comment, which should be found very useful by readers of a systematic nature.

The book is edited, with an introduction by Lyman Abbott, and contains a dozen bookish essays, which will be found well worth reading by all. In his introduction, Mr. Abbott says that a library is quite as essential to a home as is its dining room and kitchen; even should your home consist of but one room, pick out a corner for your library and use it. "Every man ought to provide for the brain as well as for the stomach." He also reminds us that good private libraries can be formed with time and patience, (and, it might be added, occasional small self-denials,) at very little cost; adding that his introduction was written in the midst of a fairly good private library—for, working purposes—of a little over 3,000 volumes, begun many years ago, on a salary of $1,000 a year, "with five books, a commentary in four volumes and a dictionary. The best libraries are not made, they grow." He adds a great deal of valuable advice in small compass; to buy first the books you cannot borrow from public libraries or otherwise, adding at once the books you wish to read at the moment. "One book read being worth a dozen looked at. No book being possessed till it is read." Have a place for your library, one shelf gathered together being better than twice that number of books scattered over the house.

The papers which follow were originally written for The Christian Union, and are now published in book form with such modifications as were found necessary to make the volume homogeneous. Many of the papers included will be found charming in their bookish spirit and suggestiveness. M. F. Sweetzer writes of "What the People Read," followed by Charles Dudley Warner's "Why Young People Read Trash." Mr. Warner says there are, after all, comparatively few households in which the reading habit is much in evidence, reminding us that many people who would not hesitate to spend $2 on a dinner will wait six months to borrow a 50-cent book. He finally decides that the main reason for young people reading trash lies in the fact:

Their parents, or older people about them, either have not the habit of reading, or they also read trash. In such households as I have described, where the elders go about declaring that there is nothing to read, the children catch the tone and think [illegible] except the latest story [illegible] paper, in the lower strata [illegible] the mother has neither time [illegible] to read anything, and the father pores over The Police Gazette, it is quite natural that his son should take The Boy's Own story paper about ruffians and burglars. The short of it is that the children in this country follow their elders. And I suspect that the vast majority of people care little for reading, except as it furnishes them a smattering of news or gives them a temporary excitement.

The two following papers by F. B. Perkins treat of "What to Read" and "Plans for Reading." Cyrus Hamlin following with a second paper on the same subject. Chapter VI. contains an exact stenographic reprint of a conversation between Henry Ward Beecher and "Laicus," as to the former's method of reading and the presentation of the results of reading; while Mr. Hamilton W. Mabie discourses in his usual charming manner on "The Art of Reading."

Reading is mental traveling through regions far more various and attractive than any which the longest routes of terrestrial journeyings afford. * * * To get the best results from reading, one must give himself up to it; * * * every object but in printed page must be forgotten. * * * To sit in a railway car, and by opening the pages of a book to transport one's self in a second into the age of Pericles or the gardens of the Medici at Florence, is the modern version of Aladdin's lamp, and makes one master of treasures more rare and lustrous than those which adorn the palaces of Bagdad.

Edward Everett Hale writes on the "Choice of Books," followed by Joseph Cook's "How to Make Dull Boys Read," which paper will be found full of practical suggestions, such, for instance, as the emphasis laid upon the fact that parental influence is far stronger than outside suggestion; followed by practical hints as to the preservation of the results of reading, by the same author; while best of all, for the furtherance of the result the volume aims at, will be found the concluding paper, extremely practical and direct in its bearings, Lyman Abbott's "Hints for People that Do Not Read." Those in whom the reading habit is strongly developed need no assistance, and much of the best in the foregoing papers really appeals most strongly to those who need it least; but this paper is intended to and does point the way to those who do not read, giving hints as to the selection of subjects, the proper use of time, the choice of books or tools, Mr. Abbott finally adding: "Where there is a will, there is a way. He or she that can find no time for study has little real heart for it."

*HINTS FOR HOME READING. A Series of Papers on Books and Their Use. By Charles Dudley Warner, H. W. Mabie, E. E. Hale, and others. Edited, with an introduction by Lyman Abbott, &c., including a "Book Buyer's Guide" and "Book Record." New York: Charles L. Bowman. 1900.

Estimates of Paul Jones by Historians.

To The New York Times Saturday Review:

In connection with the well-deserved scoring given to Mr. Morley for classing John Paul Jones as a pirate, it may interest the readers of THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW to know how our own most famous writers of naval history have treated the "founder of the American Navy."

In Roosevelt's "Naval War of 1812," on Page 27, will be found this sentence: "Men still talked of Biddle's daring cruises and Barney's stubborn fights, or told of Scotch Paul and the grim work they had who followed his fortunes." In 1898 Capt. A. T. Mahan contributed to Scribner's Magazine two articles on "John Paul Jones in the Revolution." The opening sentence of the first article runs as follows: "It is a somewhat singular circumstance that the most renowned battle of the United States Navy during the Revolutionary War—one of the most illustrious, also, fought at any time under any flag—while it certainly and deservedly redounds to the glory of America, represents, above all, the remarkable personal qualities of a single man, who at that period of his career rather disavowed than rejoiced in the name of American." Further on, speaking of the crew of the Bon Homme Richard, Capt. Mahan says: "The cosmopolitan character of the ship's company is sufficiently apparent to have satisfied even Jones's wide sympathies as a citizen of the world." One more quotation shall suffice. Near the end of the last article is this: "So the Citizen of the World passed into the service of the Autocrat of all the Russias."

It seems fair to say that Capt. Mahan gives as a reason for his attitude toward the great Captain the letter which John Paul Jones wrote to the Countess of Selkirk. To me this is a most interesting fact—a sailor takes seriously a letter written by a sailor like John Paul Jones to a woman!

Because of the universal interest in the great Captain, I beg leave to call attention to the fact that the prejudice against John Paul Jones is not, strictly speaking, British; it is English. Of the feeling of the Irish I need say nothing, and to show the true feeling of the Scotch, let me quote the words of the writer who, better than any other man of his day, knew a hero when he saw him—the writer who, of all who have labored in the nineteenth century, has but three peers and no superior—Thomas Carlyle. In Volume I, Chapter 3, of "The French Revolution," read this:

On thee, too, for country's sake, O Chevalier John Paul, be a word spent, or misspent! In faded naval uniform, Paul Jones lingers visible here; like a wineskin from which the wine is all drawn. Like the ghost of himself! Low is his once loud brnit; scarcely audible, save, with extreme tedium, in Ministerial ante-chambers, in this or the other charitable dining-room mindful of the past. What changes; culminatings and declinings! Not now, poor Paul, thou lookest wistful over the Solway brine, by the foot of the native Criffel, into blue mountainous Cumberland, into blue Infinitude; environed with thrift, with humble friendliness; thyself, young fool, longing to be aloft from it, or even to be away from it. Yes, beyond that sapphire Promontory, which men name St. Bees, which is not sapphire either, but dull sandstone, when one gets close to it, there is a world. Which world thou too shalt taste of! From yonder White Haven rise his smoke-clouds; ominous though ineffectual. Proud Forth quakes at his bellying sails; had not the wind suddenly shifted. Flamborough reapers, homegoing, panse on the hillside; for what sulphur-cloud is that that defaces the sleek sea; sulphur-cloud spitting streaks of fire? A sea cock-fight it is, and of the hottest; where British Serapis and French-American Bon Homme Richard do lash and throttle each other, in their fashion; and so the desperate valour has suffocated the deliberate, and Paul Jones too is of the Kings of the Sea!"

If an inscription for a monument to John Paul were to be chosen, is there any discriminating American patriot who would hesitate between the words of British Carlyle and those of the American writers quoted?

JOHN R. SPEARS.

Northwood, Herkimer County, N. Y., Dec. 24, 1900.

SAINTS AND SINNERS.

Eugene Field's New Year's Banquet to Them in Chicago.

Of the many literary pranks with which the name of Eugene Field is connected, one of the most innocent and amusing was the "Saints and Sinners" entertainment given just ten years ago next Monday night to that band of congenial spirits whose eccentricities had conferred renown upon the corner of McClurg & Co.'s bookstore which was reserved for the sale of rare volumes. That corner and those who assembled there were a never-failing source of inspiration to Field. Clergymen, physicians, actors, newspaper men—men of all professions who loved books and the company of book lovers made that particular corner a kind of club for their leisure hours, and Field, with characteristic wit, in a happy moment dubbed the coterie "The Saints and Sinners"—the first title of course referring to the wearers of the cloth. Satires of individual members of the group and of imaginary meetings of the bibliomaniacs furnished Field with intense amusement, and his pen with constant and delightful occupation. So amusing were the sketches that they were copied far and wide by the press, and the "corner" and the choice spirits who gathered there became well known throughout the land, while the humorous accounts of their meetings which he wrote and many of which were entirely imaginary, were often received with the utmost seriousness—to the huge delight of their genial author.

The most interesting event in the history of the famous corner—which, by the way, was destroyed by fire last year—was planned by Field for New Year's eve in 1890, and to it all the choice spirits whose names he had so freely used, and many others, were invited to speed the parting of the dying year and welcome the dawn of the new. The invitations read thus:

> "Saints' and Sinners' Corner."
>
> Dec. 31, 1890.
>
> Be there! 10:30 P. M. sharp!

The meeting opened with an informal entertainment of story telling and recitations, Melville E. Stone being in the chair, and an extremely merry gathering it was. Field was in the very highest spirits over the success of his peculiar "watch-night" meeting. At the first stroke of the midnight hour, to the great surprise of those holding high revel in the corner, the lights suddenly went out, leaving the room in total darkness, and from a far-off corner of the store came a voice, in deep sepulchral tones uttering the following verses, which had been written especially for the occasion:

Dear wife, last midnight while I read
The tomes you so despise,
A spectre rose beside my bed
And spake in this true wise:
"From Canaan's beatific coast
I've come to visit thee,
For I am Frognall Dibdin's ghost,"
Says Dibdin's ghost to me.

I bade him welcome and we twain
Discussed with buoyant hearts
The various things that appertain
To bibliomaniac arts.
"Since you are fresh from t'other side,
Pray tell me of that host
That treasured books before they died?"
Says I to Dibdin's ghost.

"They've entered into perfect rest;
For in the life they've won
There are no auctions to molest,
No creditors to dun.
Their heavenly raptore has no bounds
Beside that Jasper sea;
It is a joy unknown to Lowndes,"
Says Dibdin's ghost to me.

Much I rejoiced to hear him speak
Of biblio-bliss above,
For I am one of those who seek
What bibliomaniacs love.
"But tell me, for I long to hear,
What doth concern me most—
Are wives admitted to that sphere?"
Says I to Dibdin's ghost.

"The women folk are few up there;
For 'twere not fair, you know,
That they our heavenly joy should share
Who vex us here below.
The few are those who have been kind
To husbands such as we;
They knew our fads and didn't mind,"
Says Dibdin's ghost to me.

"But what of those who scold at us
When we would read in bed?
Or, wanting victuals, make a fuse
If we buy books instead?
And what of those who've dusted not
Our motley pride and boast—
Shall they profane that sacred spot?"
Says I to Dibdin's ghost.

"Oh, no! they tread that other path,
Which leads where torments roil,
And worms—yes, bookworms!—vent their wrath
Upon the guilty soul.
Untouched of bibliomaniac grace
That saveth such as we,
They wallow in that dreadful place,"
Says Dibdin's ghost to me.

"To my dear wife will I recite
What things I've heard you say;
She'll let me read the books by night
She's let me buy by day.
For we together by and by
Would join that heavenly host;
She's earned a rest as well as I,"
Says I to Dibdin's ghost.

At the conclusion of the recitation, and while the last line was still echoing through the room, the lights again shone forth and revealed the unknown reciter and author in the person of Eugene Field. Only a very few had been let into the secret, and the surprise was complete. Congratulations were showered upon him by the jolly gathering, and good-fellowship reigned supreme. Illuminated menue cards, made their appearance among the assembled bibliomaniacs in all sorts of informal ways—some lounging on counters, some on chairs, but most on empty boxes brought up from the cellar to serve as seats. No gathering of schoolboys could have been more hilarious, more irresponsible, more given up to the innocent joy of the moment. A huge bowl of choice punch had been prepared for the saints, and there was abundant stimulation of a more potent kind for the incorrigible sinners. The menu was a generous one and contained many toothsome dishes appropriate for a bohemian gathering of this kind.

When the feast had come to an end and the party were lingering over their coffee and cigars, Field rummaged around in another part of the store until he found an autograph album. This he brought to the improvised banquet hall with great glee, and in his merriest voice requested that every one present at the "watch-night" services inscribe therein a memorial, grave or gay, of the jolly occasion, himself dedicating the volume with an impromptu verse in his happiest vein, and this album was one of the most cherished of the many interesting things in the famous corner which went up in smoke at the burning of the store in February, 1899. When the session finally came to an end the morning hours of the day ushering in the new year had well advanced, and as the last song was sung and overcoats and hats were donned for the street, one and all re-echoed the sentiment of Paul du Chaillu, who declared with emphasis that he had never enjoyed the birth of a new year more than that spent in the company of Eugene Field and the "Saints and Sinners" of Chicago.

J. FRANCIS.

The Annals of Fairyland.*

It is hardly to be supposed that the children of the present generation, for whose edification the present volume can be warmly recommended, realize how rich they are, not only in beautiful stories, but also in the wealth of detail lavished upon the preparation of volumes intended primarily for their gratification.

The present volume, "The True Annals of Fairyland," which is delightfully edited by William Canton, presents indeed new candidates for favor as well as many old friends in a new garb, a reading of which carries us back to the days when these stories were our greatest delight, while a strong feeling of envy arises that we, too, could not have possessed these annals in their present delightful garb.

The arrangement of the book is somewhat unique. Another thousand and one nights; it being supposed to be the record found in an old manuscript volume. "The Book of Herla, King of the Britons," describing that King and his marriage to a Queen so beautiful "it is hard to find words in which to tell of her sweetness and the beauty of her youth," the festivities consequent upon this marriage, during which, upon a pause in the dance, a trumpet was blown to insure silence, and the King arose and said:

"As it hath been with us in the dark Winter nights from of old, so shall it be with us now in the clear Summer nights since the Queen wills it, for in the Winter days, as we sit by the friendly warmth of the fire, we tell many tales, pleasant or sad, so each night of this our marriage feast shall some one or other tell a tale that it will be good to remember when all we have grown old. Now, therefore, consider among yourselves what tales shall be told, ancient or new, for there be among you many of our friends who come from lands over seas, and these doubtless will tell new tales."

The present volume contains the tales told by these guests, in which lovers, old and young, of fairy lore, will find many familiar titles, "Little Snow White," "Cinderella," "King Lear," "The Argonauts," as well as charming titles, such as "The Soaring Lark," "The Princess on the Glass Mountain," "The Brier Rose"—a new name for an old tale—"The Dead Mother," "The Doom of the Children of Lir," "The Thirst of the Standing Stones," in fact, a charming selection from the folk lore or fairy tales of all countries and times.

But the most delightful feature of the book—at least to its grown-up readers—is the excellence of its mechanical details. The book is profusely illustrated with full-page and text drawings by the well-known English illustrator, Charles Robinson, who first became known to us through his charming work upon Robert Louis Stevenson's delightful "Child's Garden of Verses." From the present volume's blue cover with pretty decorative designs in gold, through the entire book, these illustrations will be found all that could be desired. The designs for the cover linings, in faded yellow greens, with an indicated space on one page for the happy recipient's name, is fine; while the false titles, list of illustrations, table of contents, vignette heading to the dedication, title page, and frontispiece, show delightful designs printed in colors.

There will be found about twenty-five charming full-page illustrations in black and white included in its pages, while innumerable text cuts will be found scattered all through the volume, all so good it would seem almost impossible to single out individual instances for special mention; while all through the book will be found the most charming initials, head and tail pieces, bits of border, and decorative vignettes, which should make the volume a treasure to all its happy owners.

Mr. Canton dedicates the book to the Dent children, sons of the publishers, in so charming a fashion that, to indicate the character of the present volume, we cannot do better than borrow from its compilers' words. After assuring these young gentlemen that King Herla, although not to be found mentioned in histories, must have existed, because "the writers of fairy tales are always truthful and trustworthy," even granting the fact that King Herla's "Annals"—an undoubtedly rare book—which cannot even be found listed in the catalogue of the British Museum, is seldom seen, yet he trusts the boys to whom he is writing, and all other children may be willing to take his word for the existence of this wonderful volume, and enjoy the tales therefrom printed for the first time, as well as others included in the old manuscript book of King Herla, which seem to have a familiar ring. Of the latter, Mr. Canton writes:

When I began to edit these annals for your delectation, I was surprised to find that this Book of King Herla contained some stories which I had read in other fairy books. But on thinking the matter over I came to the conclusion that there was a very simple explanation. I do not suppose that the writers of the other fairy books ever saw "King Herla's Annals," for it is a very rare work, but they may have discovered a number of manuscript pages in some old library or in the carved oak chests of some ancient mansion, and these pages may have contained the stories I speak of. Learned men and explorers discover old writings in that way almost every day. Another explanation is that they may have heard several of the tales told by old people, who in their turn had heard them told by their grandmothers, who in their turn had heard them told by their grandmothers, and so on right away back to the King's own time. And you know how careful people are to tell a story of this kind in the very same words in which they heard it told.

*THE TRUE ANNALS OF FAIRY LAND. Edited by William Canton. Illustrated by Charles Robinson. The Book of King Herla. 8vo. Cloth. Pp. 300. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co.

Mountain Playmates.*

For the first eleven chapters this book appears to belong to the large and increasing class of literature prompted solely by what an English writer has recently called "the cult of the country." It is the chronicle of two townspeople's doings upon an abandoned farm in the White Mountain region, and is told with the gusto that goes with a first time, a novel experiment, and a self-conscious abandonment to unconventional life. Everything is in the nature of a surprise—the primitive methods of the rural shopkeepers, the bald and dreary aspect of New Hampshire farmhouses, the dangers of a wasps' nest, the pleasures of blueberrying, the resemblance of bird notes to human language, the whole Summer pageant seen with unaccustomed eyes. A certain loquacity and tendency to moralize mar the style of the writer, whose frank egoism is not offensive, but who lacks the simple and inexhaustible passion for the kind earth and the beauty thereof by which such nature lovers as William Morris was have been inspired. There are hints throughout, however, which show kinship with Morris on the side of his most remarkable quality—his joy, that is, in working with his hands. The author not only luxuriates in planning but in creating her home. She hesitates neither to take the job of shingling the house out of the hands of the workmen, nor to burn over the grass lands, nor to do genuine woodsman's work in the forest. She comes near realizing the Morris ideal. In fact, of the workman who takes the same pleasure in his handiwork, however humble, that an artist takes in his art. And the twelfth chapter proves her title to fellowship with the great Kelmscott Company. It is called "The Enchanted Rug," which rug turns out to be the native "hooked" rug of New England transformed by the taste and somewhat hastily acquired skill of the author into a handsomely designed and colored carpeting, "hooked" by the villagers, and attracting the attention of art-loving urbanites. We feel that we could perhaps have spared some pages of the author's amiable but not very enlivening philosophy to make room for a more detailed description of her delightful craft, and for the interesting vicissitudes in carrying it on that are merely hinted at.

After a number of Summers in their chosen region, the "Playmates," as they dubbed themselves, decided to try a Winter in the country. The value of the author's report concerning its charm may possibly be affected by her warmth of heart, or even more by her warmth of blood, but her personal impression prompts her to "boom" her little corner of New Hampshire with all the ardor of a Western pioneer. "I believe the time will come," she says, "when invalids will seek this region because of its equable, moderate temperatures. I know nothing equal to it elsewhere, for, though there are other places that are milder, this advantage is offset by an excess of rain and cloudy weather. Those places which have, perhaps, as many clear days, suffer either extreme cold or drought. This climate combines the blandness of New York City with the clear, invigorating weather of the Northwest." "I presume," she wisely adds, "this condition does not exist throughout the State, as our situation is peculiarly favorable, in that the mountains and foothills of Maine on the east shelter us from the dreaded coast storms, and the Sandwich and White Mountain ranges on the north and west cut off the inland storms and cold waves that are bred in the lake region and Canada, so that in our vicinity we have only our own weather to contend with."

It will probably be many a year before New Hampshire has a historian at once so gifted and so devoted as old Hampshire had in the great Gilbert White, but when he comes he will have no difficulty in finding an intervale that will amply repay his study, and may be made to blossom like the rose upon the pages of a natural history. In the meantime such forerunners as Mrs. Albee are making the public acquainted with the advantages of the rugged little State as a place in which to lead "an idyllic life in isolated retirement, where there is light and space enough for the soul to expand."

*MOUNTAIN PLAYMATES. By Helen R. Albee. 8vo. Cloth. Pp. 271. Boston and New York: Houghton, Mifflin & Co. 1900. $1.50.

Names of Seven Letters.

C. S. HARTWELL, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "Mr. Converse Cleaves of Philadelphia writes me as follows: 'Replying to your interesting query in THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW, I submit the following short names (composed of seven letters) of world-famous men, in addition to your curious list of "John Hay, Seth Low, Asa Gray, and Neal Dow":

"'(1) John Jay, (fl. 1745-1829,) American statesman and diplomat.

"'(2) John Gay, fl. 1688-1732,) English poet, buried in Westminster Abbey.

"'(3) Jacob Fox, (fl. 1517-1587,) English Protestant clergyman, and author of "Book of Martyrs."

"'(4) John Fym, (fl. 1584-1648,) English statesman and orator.

"'(5) John Kay, (fl. 1742-1826,) Scottish miniature painter and engraver.

"'(6) John Fox, (fl. 1555-1625,) English painter and geologist.

"'(7) John Fry, (fl. 1727-1787,) English physician and author.'

"Among the Mushrooms," by E. M. Delia and C. A. Dwight, which was recently published by Orson Biddle, is essentially a book for beginners; it is thoroughly systematic in start and the manner in which the subject is treated during the [illegible]

BOOKS OF THE MOMENT

A Notable Biography, Two Successful Novels, and a Timely History.

When a biographical work or a character study goes through more than two or three editions, you can make up your mind that it is something out of the ordinary.

Lord Rosebery's

Napoleon—
The Last Phase

which was published only seven weeks ago, is now in its sixth edition. It is a scholarly and brilliantly written study by an Englishman who is broad enough to admit the errors of his own countrymen and the virtues of others.

* * * * * * *

A single order brought in by one of our salesmen yesterday called for 2,500 copies of Mrs. Ward's

Eleanor

These figures may convey more to you when we remind you as we did once before that there are hundreds of novels published every year the entire sale of which does not equal that single order.

This book is by far Mrs. Ward's best work, and that is no faint praise, placing Eleanor as it does above both "Robert Elsmere" and "David Grieve."

* * * * * * *

Next to Eleanor the most successful of our new novels is Mr. Zangwill's latest

The Mantle of Elijah

Aside from the fact that this is an intensely strong and dramatic story, the anti-imperialistic arguments which it contains make it particularly interesting at this time, although they pertain to England's policy and not our own.

* * * * * * *

Again a word of reminder that the only complete and up-to-date book on the canal matter is

The Nicaragua Canal

by W. E. Simmons. It contains the text of the canal bill and a large folding, bird's-eye view of the canal. It is a history of the work from its beginning up to date.

Napoleon,	$3.00	Eleanor,	$1.50
The Mantle of Elijah,	$1.50	The Nicaragua Canal,	$1.25

HARPER & BROTHERS

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK.

The New York Times.

Saturday Review of Books

SUPPLEMENT TO

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SIXTEEN PAGES.

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1900.

TEACHING HOW TO WRITE.

If one were to predict the leading change that will be made in our system of college education in the coming century, it would not be rash to say that it will take the form of an increase in the practical nature of the instruction afforded. In saying this we do not lose sight of the fact that the feature of the change most characteristic of the last century's history of our college curriculums has taken this same form. To indicate this it is only necessary to point to the increase of colleges in which technical instruction is the feature, the growth of the scientific departments of our older institutions, and the constant broadening of elective courses, which permit a student to select branches that will bear most directly on his future calling. If we contrast the course at Yale to-day with that prescribed in President Stiles's time, for instance, we can see at a glance how far this progress has gone.

But that we have reached the limit of this progress no one who has studied the subject will contend. Even in the colleges that make the most direct claim to superiority in fitting young men directly for business pursuits, the influence of the old system is still felt as a sort of safety brake against too radical an alteration. Agricultural colleges do not profess to be able to supply graduates who can step from the college to the farm and fill the places of farm managers. In technical institutions like Lehigh, the students are not allowed much time in the shops, on the theory that it will be better employed in mastering the necessary information contained in the text books, which, once obtained, will best allow the work of the shop to come in due order. Without attempting to decide just how far this theory is sound, it is safe to say that there is room here for such progress as has been made in the same direction in the past.

No branch of our college courses has attracted more attention in recent years than that which is embraced under the general heading of "English." As the dead languages have been placed to a greater degree in the optional list, the importance of practical instruction in English has received greater recognition. Harvard, for instance, has asked for a report on the subject by a committee of what might be called experts. The requirements in this branch, in the entrance examinations, have been increased. The growing undergraduate interest in the intercollegiate debates shows that the students themselves are eager to be led along new lines.

No persons have a more thorough appreciation of the impractical character of much of the college instruction in writing English than the editors of metropolitan newspapers. Thirty years ago the number of college graduates who wended their way at once to the newspaper office was few; to-day it is so large that in some offices the college men comprise a great majority of the staff of reporters. But editors find that, while these graduates supply good material for training, the man who, when he enters an office, can furnish a simple report that does not require careful "editing" before it is fitted for the columns of the paper is so rare an acquisition that, once discovered, he is looked upon as a prize. What a newspaper requires in most reports of the day's doings is a concise statement of facts or a simple description of an occurrence. This the young graduate is not prepared to write. And his deficiency is due largely to the character of the instruction he has received.

"Composition" writing in colleges where there has not been a recent radical change, has been not only impractical but neglected. Students are apt to look on it as one of the "snaps" of the course, requiring no severe application, especially as the library is at hand to provide all necessary ideas. The subjects treated are almost always selected by the instructor with the intention primarily, not to get from the student the best possible production in the way of literary work, but to induce him to add to his knowledge by giving careful study to some subject that otherwise might not come under his notice. The result is a rush to the book shelves as soon as the subjects are announced, and a "composition" that demonstrates the writer's powers of absorption and condensation rather than any skill in what may be broadly called literature.

The remedy for all this which the newspaper editor would suggest would be a choice of subjects that would render the library, for this purpose, useless, and would compel the student to exercise his own powers of composition. These subjects would be simply descriptive. Instead of asking him to express his ideas on the relative merits of Dickens and Thackeray, "The Influence of War on Literature," "State Sovereignty and Centralization," or "The Morality of Caesarism," (these subjects are taken from a commencement programme,) suppose that he was directed to describe a notable piece of local scenery, a day's ride on his wheel, some important local event of recent occurrence, a new building going up on the campus. The first result of this change would be the presentation of a piece of writing that would be literally original. As such it would indicate to the intelligent instructor at a glance the writer's leading imperfections, and thus give room for intelligent and useful criticism. To the student it would present a task vastly harder than any which he might try to accomplish with the assistance of the library. It would teach him at the start the difficulty of such writing, and, if he had journalism in view as an occupation, would put him on track of his necessary requirements. "Fine writing" and florid rhetoric would at once appear ridiculous, if attempted—and what young writer does not attempt them?—and the elementary idea of true literary style would be engrafted.

A leading New England college has always stood by the theory that its duty is to give young men a sufficient equipment in the various branches taught so that they will be able to go on with any one of them they may select. The believers in this theory may not take kindly to the idea that a student's "composition" should help him only to learn to "write," instead of exciting his interest in some subject, and so induce him to study it further. These opponents, however, are simply subordinating the means to the end, and the fight for better instruction in the line indicated must overcome them. It would be a great help in this direction if some Yale graduate would, as a feature of the coming bicentennial celebration in New Haven, present a small fund, the income from which would be given as a prize yearly for the best composition by an undergraduate, the competing article to be purely descriptive. This would enforce the practice of this kind of literary work, and its influence would be felt directly.

AN EXHAUSTLESS MINE.

The present writer recently received from a concern in one of the States of the Middle West a circular of flattering tenure. It informed him that a "bureau" had elected that from five to fifty pages of his literary production be preserved in permanent form in "The Library of American Literature," and he was requested to submit such material as he might desire, which would be passed upon by the editors, and he would be duly notified of its acceptance. His full appreciation of this opportunity was assumed and his compliance was kindly requested within thirty days.

As the present writer's literary productions have been mostly confined to a newspaper, and could with difficulty be identified even by himself, he was at some loss to understand what had earned him this opportunity for "permanent" preservation thereof. He was enlightened in some degree by a small slip inclosed with the circular, which contained the supplementary information that "the only expense required of contributors is a charge of one dollar per page to cover partial cost of collecting and editing." For the purposes of the publishers of the "library" it would seem that any directory of writers or even a less authentic list of possible "contributors" would serve. It seems to be a question not of quality of writing or distinction in the writer so much as of anxiety on his part to see his "productions" printed in books, and, in the language of the enticing circular, "snatched from oblivion and preserved in permanent form for all time." Any gentleman or lady with from five to fifty dollars to invest, and $3.75 to give for the volume (to be had separate) in which his or her talent is embalmed, can apparently gratify a not uncommon ambition, provided the "editors" prove complaisant, of which there is not much room for doubt.

We have no desire to speak harshly or even disrespectfully of this enterprise, though Mr. Stedman, whose title has been taken, may have ground for more than criticism. It is an open and straight bid for contributions from human vanity, and though it makes a somewhat novel draft on that vast fund, it betrays no intention to deceive. It is true that the "library" may never get itself printed, but there is no definite promise that it will be printed. The printing and the circulation of the volumes, for admission to which the "contributors" are invited to pay, are matters as to which he must take his chances. No sane man is likely to suppose that a work thus made up would have any sale except among the authors of its contents, and if he is willing to pay for the possibility of fame within those limits, we do not see that he has any cause for complaint. The feast to which he is bidden is like that of the convocation of politic worms to which Polonius was consigned by Hamlet, "not where he eats, but where he is eaten." He is entirely free to accept or decline it.

Nor have we any intention to condemn the sentiment on which the promoters of this enterprise rely for their profits. It is not a very noble one, but it is excessively common, and we suppose that it is ineradicable. The satirists of Rome made bitter fun of it. Rostand's figure of the pastry cook Raguenau throwing his wares away in return for the flattery of hungry poets and critics is taken from the annals of the seventeenth century. There was at one time in this country—it may exist yet for aught we know—a weekly that got a large circulation by printing wholly voluntary contributions. It would be idle to scold against a folly so deep rooted. It is said that three-fourths of those who embark in mercantile business fail. The percentage in "literature" is surely as great. If the unfortunate are willing to purchase a semblance—though it be a shabby semblance—of consolatory fame, and can afford it, it is their own concern.

UNLITERARY OPERA LIBRETTOS.

No doubt many of those who go to the opera at this period of the year are often filled with astonishment when they read the librettos of the operas. It must seem to them at times as if these play books were the work of honest yeomen in the dull Winter season in the spare hours between taking care of the horses and the cattle. They certainly do not read as if they had been written by men of literary distinction. And yet since the opera is a form, and a very high one, of the poetic drama, there is every reason why the libretto should be a good piece of writing, and indeed it ought to be a poetic drama in itself.

In some cases this is so with the original work. For instance, Boito's "Mefistofele" is a decidedly poetic piece of literature, and it reproduces the spirit of Goethe's "Faust" much more sincerely than does the more popular book of Gounod's opera, which was written by two theatrical tinkers, Messrs. Barbier and Carre. In the modern field of Italian opera the only truly literary librettos are those of Boito, who made the books of "Otello" and "Falstaff" for Verdi. In making these he clung as closely as possible to Shakespeare, and the result is that when the translations are made for the use of auditors not acquainted with the Italian tongue the English is found to be for the most part that of Shakespeare himself.

Opera librettos by Shakespeare are, of course, not to be picked up every day, nor are librettists with sufficient self-effacement and devotion to art to preserve the original in their adaptations to be secured often. Yet it would not be at all difficult to get better work than that usually done. For example, the translations employed in the recent season of opera in English at the Metropolitan were generally absurd. They were the work of hacks of the most mechanical mind, and they left not a spark of the feeling of their originals in the words sung by the artists endeavoring to create a taste for opera in the vernacular. Of course, the cause of all these deficiencies is not difficult to discover. The managers will not pay to have the work done by men who could do it well. They are always anxious to get as much profit as possible out of an opera season, and a good libretto writer or poetic translator is not to be had for the mere song which these gentlemen are willing to pay.

Consequently the public must continue to read, and, in the case of opera in English, to hear the silly and stupid translations which are now in the market. About the only really good ones are those of the Boito books and the Wagner music dramas, and the latter might easily be improved.

LITERATURE IN GAUDY ANNALS.

Reading the other day an article which referred to a charming class of books as "gaudy annuals," the interest of which was confined to their showy covers and fine paper, the beauty of the book being all on the outside, while the letterpress was entirely the work of people quite unknown to the present generation, let a word be said in behalf of these books, beloved of our grandmothers, and may we not add by our mothers also?

Who has not seen and longed to possess carefully treasured copies of these dainty little volumes, which, perhaps, bear the original owners' names in gold letters on the morocco covers? The letterpress and illustrations of these little volumes are most interesting, almost every number containing the work of well-known men and women, while the illustrations are usually the work of the most famous engravers of the day.

It may not be generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that many a well-known poem or short story, the work of our best writers, came out originally in these despised gaudy annuals. Notably this is the case with Tennyson; "Stanzas," afterward incorporated in his "Maud," made its first appearance as early as 1837 in The Tribute, although not appearing in finished book form until 1855.

The Gem, a literary annual published in London in 1831, contained three poems by Tennyson never reprinted except by R. H. Shepherd in "The Lover's Tale, and Other Poems Now First Collected," privately issued in 1875 in an edition limited to fifty copies, which was suppressed through Tennyson's instigation. The titles of these poems are "No More," "Anacreontics," and "A Fragment," which may also be found in the American edition of Tennyson's "Poems," published by the Harpers in 1872, thus making all of these books rank as desirable first editions of that poet. Friendship's Offering, 1832, contained a sonnet by Tennyson commencing "Me my own fate to lasting sorrow doometh," the same volume containing a sonnet by Frederick Tennyson. Friendship's Offering for 1833 contained a sonnet by Alfred Tennyson, "Check every outflash, every rude sally." In The Keepsake for 1837 appears Tennyson's "St. Agnes," reprinted in "Poems," 1842, and appearing in later editions under the title "St. Agnes's Eve." Death's Doings, 1826, contains two poems signed "Alfred"—"The Poet" and "The Captive: To Death"—claimed to be by Tennyson, while The Yorkshire Literary Annual, 1832, contains two poems signed "A. Tennyson," and "E. Tennyson." The Birthday Gift: Christmas and New Year Present (see how the enterprising publisher contrived to cover many occasions) for 1840, and The Keepsake, 1851, also contain Tennysoniana, while The Manchester Athenaeum Album, 1850, contains "Lines," an eight-line poem by Tennyson, not reprinted. The Victoria Regia, a beautiful volume edited by Adelaide Proctor, 1861, contains "The Sailor Boy," reprinted with slight alterations in "Enoch Arden" in 1864.

At one time it was distinctly the fashion to edit a popular annual, and large sums were often spent upon their production, the book being issued regardless of expense, the plan seeming to be to secure two or three of the more prominent authors of the day and supply the rest of the letterpress from less important productions. The engravings were done by the best men of the time, often after celebrated paintings, an assertion proved by a glance over any of these volumes. The authors drawn upon were usually all well known in their day, while on both sides of the water many a favorite sketch or poem made its first appearance in this fashion.

"The Gift," published by Carey & Hart, Philadelphia, 1837, shows charming old engravings, while its letterpress includes names celebrated in their day, and far from being forgotten now—Willis Gaylord Clark, Mrs. Sigourney, W. G. Simms, C. W. Everest, (editor of The Poets of Connecticut;) W. E. Burton, and a story by its editor, Miss Leslie. "Forget Me Not," 1826, published in London and Philadelphia, contains better-known names. The dainty green paper boards of its cover show extremely pretty designs, with much fine detail work; also a note that the published price of this little book—not even in binding—was 12 shillings. One would have thought $3 an almost prohibitive price in those early days. The book contains fourteen beautiful plates, designed by Westall, Corbould, Pugin, and others, among the engravers' names being Heath, Corboned, and Finden. Bernard Barton, the Quaker poet, was a contributor to this, as to many other annuals, while other well-known names found in this volume, several of whom contribute two or three poems or sketches, are Miss Mitford, "L. E. L."; James Montgomery, "T. Hood, Esq."; Mrs. Hemans, Mrs. Hoffland, best known by her books for children, and many others.

These lists could be continued indefinitely. Hawthorne, for instance, contributed many short stories to these little books, as well as other of our celebrated writers. In America, at least, these books were even issued for children, as "The Violet" and "The Rosebud," the latter of which is on our own shelves, beautifully bound in bright red levant, elaborately tooled in gold, the binding in which it was issued.

A reading of old memoirs and letters will reveal much interesting correspondence and talk over the preparation of these old gift-books—Lady Blessington, for instance, adding very materially to her income in later years by the editing and publication of these dainty little volumes.

Another interesting feature possessed by old annuals, which, by the way, are so eagerly collected in these days that valuable specimens are hard to find, even the commoner issues being sufficiently scarce, is the importance they assume in certain novels as introducing the hero to the literary public at a time when his fortunes are at their lowest ebb.

If it were only for the sake of Arthur Pendennis, these little books would assume considerable interest, for do we not all remember how Warrington called upon the publisher's—Bacon's—reader just as his "Spring Annual," edited by Lady Violet Lehas, was lying before him in sheets and proofs, only to find him greatly dissatisfied with Percy Popjoy's "The Church Porch," which was intended to supplement a pretty picture of a Spanish damsel hastening churchward, prayer book in hand, watched by a youth hiding behind a pillar. The publisher had paid £60 for the plate, and could not afford to waste it; but the verses were so bad he was afraid the public would not stand them. Then, too, a rival publisher was about to bring out a new annual, of which great things were expected, and he was in despair, whereupon Warrington offered to get verses supplied, and "Pen," as the result of a long evening's work, handed Warrington the following beautiful verses, the finest Thackeray ever wrote:

THE CHURCH PORCH.

Although I enter not,
Yet round about the spot
Sometimes I hover,
And at the sacred gate
With longing eyes I wait,
Expectant of her.

The minster bell tolls out
Above the city's rout
And noise and humming.
They've stopped the chiming bell,
I hear the organ's swell—
She's coming, she's coming!

My lady comes at last,
Timid and stepping fast,
And hastening hither
With modest eyes downcast,
She comes—she's here—she's past.
May Heaven go with her!

Kneel undisturbed, fair saint,
Pour out your praise or plaint
Meekly and duly.
I will not enter there
To sully your pure prayer
With thoughts unruly.

But suffer me to pace
Round the forbidden place,
Lingering a minute,
Like outcast spirits, who wait
And see through heaven's gate
Angels within it.

BOOKS THAT ARE BOOKS.

There appear now and then in the more serious literary reviews protests against the universal trend of public taste toward fiction, and a glance at the book catalogues of the season confirms the idea that the popular demand for fiction is far greater than that for more serious reading. The number of works and volumes of short stories of every type and class is immense, and the readers of fiction outnumber many times those who care for more thoughtful literature. Poems, essays, biographies, and travels, that were all in all to the reader of half a century ago, are now, it appears, back numbers on the shelves of libraries and book shops. How many ask for them in preference to the late sensational fiction that is so eagerly sought, so widely advertised?

The fact that we seem to be forgetting the value of history and of serious reading in the great deluge of fiction and periodical literature is to be regretted. It is a busy world, and we have to keep pace with it in literature as in other things, or be left behind. But how much we lose and will continue to lose, and what a risk we run of mental indigestion—a surfeit of the often unwholesome sweets of fiction. We take up a novel these days, skim it hastily, and put it down for another, scarcely conscious of the passing of one set of winning ghosts before another group has taken their place.

Think of how different it used to be! When the new book was a treasure trove and the old ones were dear and valued friends, whose shabby bindings, worn with long acquaintance, looked askance a little jealously at the fresh, unstained newcomer. Think of a quiet hour beside a good fire, with a volume of Lamb's "Essays." Elia's camaraderie is essential for the fireside; the repose and companionship of Keats and Tennyson; the mental stimulus of Shakespeare's stirring strength! Alas! we read of Shakespeare now far more than we do himself. What a calming touch on this fever rush to live Wordsworth may lend one's self for a better understanding of his verse, to say nothing of his message, and of Browning, the [illegible] his readers, and [illegible] us than he is as a novelist; and one might permit one's self a glimpse of the charm of Emerson, the lucent sweetness to be gained from Longfellow.

Boswell's "Johnson" keeps its sturdy volumes shut on the delights of Bozzey's charmingly naïve revelations. Time, it seems, does not afford for such books to be read these days. Do the bookstores often have a call for Cowper's letters, for Montaigne's essays? As for Macaulay, Carlyle, Parkman, and the many great historians and essayists, are their names to become a mere shibboleth of sound? Is it going to be impossible for us to read these great masters of thought and expression simply because we must keep up with the great yearly output of literary activity? One hears now and then of people who lament not having read Scott's novels and poems when they were children, and deploring the fact that now they do not have time to give to that sort of reading, when contemporary literature makes such demands. These demands are great, shudderingly so! There is no pause. New writers who make successes are continually coming to the front and making heart-breaking attempts to score fresh ones. Time is not adequate to even consider reading all the books that are praisefully advertised, and yet one feels one is in danger of losing something that is worth while if one does not. It is like a too elaborate menu—one is obliged to discriminate; but the choice offered is bewildering. There are so many dainties that the selection becomes a random one.

Thought seems run at high pressure, and in the jarring hustle of the writing, selling, and reading of books there is little time to read, learn, and inwardly digest as those who love reading for its own sake—and theirs—would wish to do.

One has to rush through what one would like to dream over, to meditate upon, and to gather fully into the mind for its culture and enrichment. We are enmeshed with literature, and the cry is, "Still they come!" And they are heralded by press commendations and criticisms that engender curiosity and interest by reason of the lavish praise bestowed.

We put aside the old authors—they have slept for many years; let them drowse again, keep to themselves their wit and wisdom, their laughter, and their tears—for we hesitate to lose the opportunity of reading the latest offering of the literary market place.

One cannot afford to be ranked a Philistine—to take Macaulay, let us say, instead of Pater. If the choice must be made, it is, of course, the later master of style who prevails; one hasn't time for both.

How the new times have changed the old times! The old times, when we are told the publication of an interesting new book was, if not a biennial happening, at least infrequent enough to make its advent heralded and its coming an appreciated epoch in literature. Now how different it is! The old legato movement is done with. The spirit of the times has infected—as is natural—the making of books, and the people who write are increasing every day. Not only are we trying to keep up with the contemporary literature of our own language and country, but with that of other countries as well.

French, German, Italian, Russian, Scandinavian, and Polish! The effort to read as one ought is a wearing one.

New books and new writers appear every day, but the fact is we are not adding peaks to a mountain chain in literature. We seem, indeed, among the foothills. Behind us the old summits of Homer, Shakespeare, Keats, and Tennyson gather the gaze of the lovers of literature. Does it not seem that readers should try to become more intimately acquainted with these writers, whom their fathers and their fathers' fathers loved so well?

We cannot give up periodical literature, nor can we give up the new books; but it seems equally certain that we cannot keep in touch with the old things as well. Is there a remedy? The gold of past literature is ours, but we are searching so eagerly in the present for treasure that we grow careless of the storied wealth we already possess. Is it not possible for the lover of books to gather to his library shelves and to his inner mental appreciation the old volumes whose pages are now so seldom turned by the fingers of the present generation. MAY HARRIS.

ORTHOEPICAL SINS IN THE PULPIT.

In a late sermon on the necessity of a truly liberal education for clergymen, Bishop Potter declared it to be an "intolerable impertinence that a man should stand in the pulpit and show himself so defective in matters with the knowledge of which he is charged as not to be able to pronounce the proper names of Scripture according to their classical derivation." This assertion, reminiscent of a similar one made by Dean Alford of Canterbury some thirty-five years ago, recalls to mind the story of the preacher who, after stumbling over the names of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego in reading the third chapter of Daniel, squarely dodged the matter in the several repetitions of their names by calling them "the aforesaid gentlemen." But, while we cannot but sympathize with the uncultured man who is unexpectedly brought face to face with similar orthoëpical difficulties, of which Dean Alford gives several examples, we have to confess that Bishop Potter is right when he held would restrain us which is based his remarks. The only criticism we would make is that he did not go far enough, and that he should not have confined his remarks to the [illegible] Hebrew names, but should have included [illegible] of every [illegible] man" that there is a special damon, one Tutivillus, whose duty is to collect and store up in hell the fragments of words omitted, mutilated, or mispronounced by priests in the performance of religious services. If these broken prayers and fragmentary texts are laid up, as is probable, to be produced at the last great day as evidence against the mutilators, some of our clergymen may have as much difficulty in getting into heaven as Byron tells us King George III. had, and may have to adopt a similar undignified expedient in entering its gate.

Time was when the stage was depended upon to keep our well of English undefiled, but in these dramatically degenerate days more attention is paid to enunciation than to pronunciation, and we often hear on the same stage several orthoëpical treatments of the same word. With this decadence of the stage, we naturally turn to the pulpit for instruction and guidance, and as the Church stands upon a very much higher plane than it did in the days of Piers Plowman, we have a right to expect a corresponding advance in elocution and orthoëpy in those who minister in our reading desks and pulpits. Is this expectation realized? To a certain extent it is. The clergyman of the present finds it necessary to keep pace with the constantly increasing education of his congregation, and ignorant emotional preaching is almost a thing of the past out of uncultivated districts. But that there is still room for improvement, even among the most cultured occupants of pulpits, is evident from the remarks of the Bishop, which otherwise would have no raison d'être.

Many years ago Richard Grant White called attention to the anomalous pronunciation among certain would-be fashionables of the conjunctions either and neither, which were Germanized into ither and nither, and asserted that the Irishman who says ayther and nayther is nearer orthoëpical and etymological correctness than these social corrupters of the language. In this he was undoubtedly correct, for the Saxon originals, aegther and naegther, have no i in them. This false pronunciation, in Mr. Grant's time merely a fashionable affectation, has become so common among all except scholars of etymology that it has found a place in many dictionaries, though always given as an alternative pronunciation and assigned a position second to that of the proper pronunciation. But, what is still more singular and more worthy of reprobation, the corruption has found favor with many clergymen and is now to be heard from metropolitan pulpits and reading desks. To paraphrase a celebrated remark of Henry Clay's, these gentlemen would rather be fashionable than right, even to the extent of countenancing what the Bishop might call an etymological impertinence.

These remarks, of course, render me liable to the imputation of forgetting that usage is generally held to be the common law of a language, but no scholar can recognize a usage which defies analogy and has no etymological foundation. If fashionable usage is to be the criterion, our lexicographers will soon have to take cognizance of awful and awfully, now so almost universally used in the sense of very, as implying a superlative, and give them a new meaning in future editions of their dictionaries.

Two other words are almost constantly mispronounced by clergymen, evil and devil, words so common in their vocabulary as to render a false orthoëpy almost inexcusable. Consultation of any dictionary or work on orthoëpy will show that the pronunciation is ev'l and dev'l. There is no alternative pronunciation. It is just that and nothing else. Yet these words are constantly pronounced ē-vil and dev-il, as if the stress on the last syllables might possibly accentuate their vileness, just as some country ministers seek to solemnize God by stretching His name into "Gawd." There is far less excuse for this mispronunciation of evil and devil than for that of ither and nither, for it has not yet found its way into the dictionary nor has been accepted by any grade of fashion outside of the Church. Let us hope that it may go no further.

One more example. Many clergymen seem to think that their reading of the Scriptures or of the Prayer Book acquires an additional solemnity from the mispronunciation—or perhaps we may say misdivision—of certain words ending in ed. If euphony authorises "belov-ed" and "bless-ed" when used as adjectives, it by no means follows that certain verbs may be similarly split; yet we often hear from the reading desk worship-ed, possess-ed, fulfill-ed, transfigur-ed, &c., the reader evidently laboring under the impression that such affectation—for it is that and nothing more—adds dignity and solemnity to his delivery. One is led to wonder, when listening to such a reader, whether ignorance of Tutivillus at his elbow, bagging his mutilated words to carry them down to the enormous heap already piled up in the place "paved with good intentions," has not much to do with the complacent manner in which he rolls off these absurdities.

When this affectation is accompanied, as it often is, by a certain artificial tone, which some one has well called the "holy tone," the effect is often the opposite of solemn and may even be comic to those who are forced to listen. But this is a digression from the subject, which is not pulpit elocution. We all owe thanks to Bishop Potter for broaching a matter which, though a delicate one, badly needed the probe. If our clergy are to be, as they ought to be, our exemplars in purity of tongue as well as of morals, they should be rightly careful not to countenance any false or affected pronunciation, however fashionable it may appear, and to discredit the [illegible]

THE PUBLISHER'S POINT OF VIEW.

IT has been a long time since a book made a genuine literary sensation equal to the interest excited by AN ENGLISHWOMAN'S LOVE LETTERS. The English cables have told of the London Academy's "Symposium" in which the book figured as the most important of the year, with many speculations as to the authorship and genuineness of the letters.

We tabulate a few notices:

THE AUTHORSHIP is a never ceasing subject for speculation. It is being attributed to Miss Elisabeth Robbins...; and to the mysterious "Fiona MacLeod," the author of several wonderful Celtic Stories, says the cable correspondent to the N. Y. Herald. "Public curiosity will be piqued to the utmost to discover who could have furnished so piteous a love tragedy."—New York Times.

THE MYSTERY contained in the letters is one of intense and baffling interest. What was the cause of the unlooked for denouement of the story? No one can tell, though all surmise. "What was the reason...etc...is any solution to be found," queries the New York Times. "Imagination utterly fails to conceive of any reason....",—Chicago Eve. Post.

THEY ARE GENUINE. The World—"They are actual love letters....the story of a life, the revelation of a heart." Vanity Fair, London—"The true story of an actual life. Nothing could be more intensely human."

THEY ARE NOT GENUINE. The N. Y. Eve. Post says: "Their finished art suggests that we are dealing with a new 'Lettres à un Inconnu.'" "If they should be an invention . . . we hazard the guess that they are the work of a man."—Morning Post, London.

AS REAL LITERATURE, THEY ARE INIMITABLE.

Price $1.50 net. Sent on approval.
DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.,
43 Union Square, New York.

North Americans of Yesterday

A Comparative Study of North American Indian Life, Customs and Products, on the Theory of the Ethnic unity of the Race. By FREDERICK S. DELLENBAUGH. With about 350 illustrations. 8vo, $5.00.

This volume is based upon the series of lectures delivered by the author before the Lowell Institute of Boston in 1894. Mr. Dellenbaugh has been a student of Indian life for more than thirty years, and has given particular attention to the study of the problems arising from the conquest of the Northwest by the white race. Much interest will be awakened by the discussion of the question of the origin of these North Americans of yesterday. The work, while following scientific lines, is written in a popular style, and contains a large number of interesting illustrations, some of these being from drawings by the author.

G. P. Putnam's Sons,
27 & 29 W. 23d St., New York.

Mr. Moody's Poem and Publius Lentulus.

To The New York Times Saturday Review:

I wish to say a loud amen to your correspondent's admiration for "On the Gloucester Moors," a poem by William Vaughn Moody in the December Scribner's. She confesses that she never before heard of this poet, but some months since he wrote for The Atlantic an "Ode in Time of Dejection," which, without the lyrical beauty of his latest poem, was even more notable. The present distress has elicited no other poem of such great significance of form and spirit.

I was much pleased with Mr. Conway's recent dealing in THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW with that dreadful fake, "A Contemporary Description of Jesus by Publius Lentulus." But it will not stay dead. Shortly before his death in 1882, the venerable Thurlow Weed piously commended it to the admiration of his fellow-Christians in a letter to THE NEW YORK TIMES. Whereupon I sent to THE TIMES a brief account of the late origin and grossly unauthentic character of the story. Cui bono? Many times since then it has been revived and discredited, but it leads a charmed life. JOHN WHITE CHADWICK.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 24, 1900.

Another Admirer of Mr. Moody's Poem.

ARTHUR GUITERMAN, New York, writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW, on this subject: "Let me follow the lead of Jane Marsh Parker of Detroit in expressing most sincere appreciation of William Vaughn Moody's poem 'Gloucester Moors,' published in the December Scribner's. It is that great rarity, a beautiful, genuine, and inspired poem. While I don't like to dissect a work of art, I should select the eighth stanza as the finest, combining, as it does, appreciation of external nature with a deep human interest."

The January number of Outing contains an article by Charles G. D. Roberts called "The Moonlight Trails." Guy Wetmore Carryl tells of and H. A. Watson illustrates "The Automobile in French Masculine Life." Among the other articles is a story which [illegible]

PITT'S LOVE STORY.

Lord Rosebery Publishes the Correspondence Between Pitt and Lord Auckland.

How came it about that William Pitt did not marry Miss Eden, the daughter of Lord Auckland? The celebrity of the man who ruled the destinies of England at an age when most of the aspirants for political position have been but at the very beginning of their careers has always made Pitt and his actions subjects of special interest. Again and again this matter has been broached: What was it that came between Pitt and the young lady which prevented their union? A great deal has been written in regard to this special business.

In The Monthly Review for December the Earl of Rosebery, in an article entitled "Letters Relating to the Love Episode of William Pitt," throws some additional light on the matter. After citing the source of his letters, he writes: "There would be no need for reticence, for the episode is as historical as any affair of the kind, while it derives a peculiar interest from Pitt's persistent celibacy, as well as from the obscurity that overhangs his motives, for he gave no definite reason for his action." What was it, then, that separated the man and the woman? Was it on account of Pitt's bad health? Was it because he was too poor? Was there a love quarrel? What help may be derived from the correspondence? But little. Perhaps Pitt wrote delightful missives to the lady, but such have never been found. Sentimentalists might be all the more pleased that they are non-existing, for there is always something saddening in old love letters. As to the correspondence, the Earl of Rosebery makes this comment: "Pitt was a master of that marvelous circumlocutory diction which was required by eighteenth century ideas of dignity, as well as by the apprehension that letters might be opened, and so should not be too explicit. In this style he explains himself, and leaves the causes of action to inference." Reviewing the reasons for the breaking off of the match, the writer of the article cites the upshot of Lord Stanhope's argument:

"Pitt's shattered and neglected finances made it impossible for him to make any provision for a wife. It would have been a mortification to his proud spirit to admit this. Moreover, he was well aware that his health was broken, and that he held to life by a precarious tenure. Under these circumstances he was forced to realize that, should he marry, his wife might soon be a widow, and a widow dependent on the bounty of the nation. Pitt could never have brooked such a contingency. These are obvious and sufficient grounds—indeed, they scarcely left him an option. But it may also be suspected that when things came to a point, and when Pitt was in a position to survey calmly the prospect before him, he shrank, after a life of retired and easy celibacy, from the unknown liabilities and engagements of marriage. Moreover, he may not have cared to be hampered by a family connection with a politician so eager and so ambitious as Auckland. Every consideration, then, except the personal fascination of a charming girl, prompted him to the course which he adopted.

William Eden, who became Baron Auckland in 1793, had for wife the sister of the Earl of Minto. He was a politician, eager for place. He certainly had ability, and showed, too, a marked desire to feather his nest. He wanted lucrative offices. In 1797 he asked Pitt to have conferred on him the Privy Seal, and this Pitt declined doing, though the two remained "on terms of friendly intercourse." After a while they quarreled; the cause was politics. The breach was irreparable. Finally, Eleanor Eden became the wife of Lord Hobart, and Hobart wrote a singularly disagreeable letter to Pitt. Of course that was the wind-up of the matter. The Earl of Rosebery, describing the whole episode, has his play of fancy, for he writes of it as "this secret-mirage in a long aridity of office." This, the first letter of Pitt's, was possibly brought about by Eleanor Eden, who had felt the absence of her lover, and may have placed her troubles before her father. Hence inquiry on the part of Lord Auckland:

(Most Private.)
Downing Street, January 20, 1797.

My Dear Lord—Altho' the anxious expectation of public business would at all events have made it difficult for me to leave town during the last ten days, you may perhaps have begun to think that it cannot have been the only reason which has kept me so long from Beckenham. The truth is that I have really felt it impossible to allow myself to yield to the temptation of returning thither without having, (as far as might depend upon me,) formed a decision on a point which I am sensible has remained in suspense too long already. Having at length done so, I should feel myself inexcusable if (painful as the task is) any consideration prevented me from opening myself to you without reserve. It can hardly, I think, be necessary to say that the time I have passed among your family has led to my forming sentiments of a very real attachment toward them all, and of much more than attachment toward one whom I need not name. Nor should I do justice to my own feelings, or explain myself frankly, as I think I ought to do, if I did not own that every hour of my acquaintance with the person to whom you will easily conceive I refer has served to augment and confirm that impression; in short, has convinced me that whoever may have the good fortune ever to be united with her is destined to more than his share of human happiness. Whether, at any rate, I could have had any ground to hope that such might have been my lot, I am in no degree entitled to guess.

I have to reproach myself for having ever indulged the idea on my own part as far as I have done without asking myself carefully and early enough what were the difficulties in the way of its being realized. I have suffered myself to overlook them too long, but, having now at length reflected as fully and as calmly as I am able on every circumstance that ought to come under my consideration, (at least as much for her sake as for my own,) I am compelled to say that I find the obstacles to it decisive and insurmountable. In thus conveying to you, my dear Lord, what has been passing in my mind, and its painful but unavoidable result, I have felt it impossible to say less. And yet it would be almost a consolation to me to know that even what I have said is superfluous, and that the idea which I have entertained has been confined solely to myself. If this should be the case, I am sure this communication will be buried in silence and oblivion. On any other supposition I know that I but consult the feelings of those who must be most in my thoughts by confiding it to your discretion. And in doing so I have every reason to rely upon your prudence and kindness, and on those sentiments of mutual friendship which I hope will not be affected by any change which may at the present moment be unavoidable in what have lately been the habits of our intercourse. For myself, allow me only to add that, separated as I must be for a time from those among whom I have passed many of my happiest moments, the recollection of that period will be long present to my mind. The greatest pleasure and best consolation I can receive will be if I am ever enabled to prove how deep an interest I must always take in whatever may concern them.

They will not, I am sure, be less dear to me through life than they would have had a right to expect from the nearest and closest connection.

Believe me, my dear Lord, under all circumstances, ever sincerely and faithfully yours, W. PITT.

Lord Auckland is most prompt in his reply, the date of his letter being Jan. 21. After going over the ground, the conclusion is as follows:

We presume that the obstacles alluded to are those of circumstances. (If there are any others, we hope you will confide them to us.) I do not mean circumstances of Office & of the Public; they might create a temporary suspension, but could create no permanent difficulty. As to circumstances of fortune, I may be imprudent in the idea, but I cannot think that they ought in such case to create an hour's interruption in an intercourse essentially sought & loved by us all; still less that they ought to affect the ultimate result, tho' they may impede it. I am sure that the person alluded to has steadiness of mind to wait any indefinite period of Time for that difficulty if possible to be got over. I am sure also that it would be happiness to her, as it has often been to her mother, to share such difficulties, & to endeavour also to lessen them. I only regret that my own position puts it out of my power to remove these difficulties. I have about 2000£ belonging to her from a legacy, & what I owe to the others will not allow me to add much to it.

I will not follow these small details (I really think them such) any further at present; my present opinion (which always means Ly Ad also) is that you should come to this place as soon as convenient, & especially in the eyes of observers as if nothing had happened. We can talk about the whole at leisure & again & again. At any rate, after what I have said, we shall be most anxious to hear further. Or (if you prefer it) let the persons most concerned express themselves to each other: I see no objection to their doing so. It is a subject of such inconceivable importance I trust to their respective happiness, that I should much lament to leave the decision alone with me. And so, my dear Sir, believe me, sincerely & affectionately yours, Ad.

Several more letters were exchanged between Pitt and Lord Auckland. Perhaps the father of Miss Eleanor is somewhat persistent. Pitt has written:

Believe me, I have not lightly or easily sacrificed my best hopes and earnest wishes to my conviction and judgment. Believe me, also, that further explanation or discussion can answer no good purpose. And let me entreat you to spare me and yourself the pain of urging it further. It could only lead to prolonged suspense and increased anxiety, without the possibility of its producing any ultimate advantage.

At last Lord Auckland becomes satisfied that William Pitt will never be his son-in-law. Here are portions of two letters of Lord Auckland's expressing his fears of the tattle the rupture is likely to bring about:

Till I received your letter this day I still maintained a persuasion that the obstacle in question might have been removed by a meeting, or at the worst that the separation might have been managed among us in some way less painful to those concerned; & less subject also to the Observations & Conjectures of a large circle of respective Friends, as well as of others of a different description, who had imagined that the union alluded to was within extreme probability. As to this last hope, I do not see the remedy; nor any precise line to adopt except that of gradually contradicting the report which has too long prevailed, with the delicate attentions due to all concerned. As to other points of nearer anxiety, we must look to the chance that youth, society, & good sense may gradually remove the impressions which we fear may have taken place. * * * I doubt whether you are in any degree aware how much this business has been observed and discussed in societies, correspondences, and newspapers. If I alone were personally affected by such observations and discussions, my sex and time of life might authorize me to think them little pertinent, and to leave them to their course. That, however, is far from being the case; nor is it possible for me, consistently with what is too well known, to confine myself (when I must say anything) to the sort of language suggested. You know how much it has been the habit of this family, in the undisguised cheerfulness which did exist in it, to receive all comers of the neighborhood and others. You know also how regular our system of life is. Yesterday the two of the same name were utterly unable to quit their apartments, or to see friends who, being accustomed to meet them at church, called afterwards to enquire about them. The younger of the two still shows too much by her looks what has passed in her mind to be able to appear to-day; and there are several persons towards whom, notwithstanding the natural strength of her understanding, her feelings will betray themselves at a first meeting.

At the conclusion of this interesting article what was Pitt's physical condition is represented. Sir W. Farquhar, who was his physician, giving the facts. The malady was gout, but with other grave complications. Lord Liverpool declared that Pitt's first attack of gout was in 1789, when he was about thirty. If that was true Pitt must have been in bad health when addressing Miss. Eden. Pitt died Jan. 23, 1806. Was it Austerlitz that killed the great English statesman or was it overwork? Ten years after his death Lord Liverpool said of Pitt:

It is a singular circumstance that I never saw any public man who appeared so little desponding or who bore up so firmly against misfortunes. He had particularly the faculty of laying his cares aside, of amusing himself with an idle book, or a comparatively trivial conversation, at the time he was engaged in the most important busines, & I have heard him say that no anxiety nor calamity had ever seriously affected his sleep. I am, however, fully persuaded that the public misfortune which he was doomed to witness had the most sensible effect in undermining his constitution & in closing his career so prematurely.

The Pageantry of Life.*

Mr. Charles Whibley, whose manner and choice of subject is always so thoroughly original, so entirely his own, in this book pictures for us new representative men of various races and times, to whom he applies Milton's words, "studious they appear of arts that polish life"; his entire volume being an exposition of the "Art of Life."

To this end he describes for us young Weston, tha one-time favorite of Henry VIII., a courtier born and one to whom a ribbon out of place, a doublet awry, was a lasting offense, who left his beautiful home—Sutton—to become a royal page, and rapidly rose in favor in the circle which surrounded Anne Boleyn, attaining his highest rank when the latter became Queen. He became the leader of the circle surrounding that unfortunate Queen, lived his life to the fullest, and in the end, through no fault of his own, shared in the latter's disgrace. "As in life he had borne himself with a gay light-heartedness, so he gave his head with complete dignity and a noble reserve."

Bassompierre, Marshal of France, is yet best known to us as an accomplished and debonair gentleman, a gallant lover of a gallant age; poor in purse, yet constantly coming, through some unexpected good fortune, to wear brave clothes. And yet withal winning for himself the respect of all to whom he was sent as Ambassador, being in tact and in firmness a match for the cleverest; Charles I. suffering from his persistence, while Buckingham at once realized his true value. But, alas! this lover of the joys of life was too plainspoken to please the flattery-loving Louis XIII., nor were Schomberg and Richelieu better pleased with this resolute Marshal of France; so that the Bastile became his sad fate, where for ten years, and, in fact, until the death of the great Cardinal, Bassompierre remained, forgotten by all. Being restored to liberty too late to profit by the King's restored good-will, he was out of fashion. And yet "no experience had escaped him—a youth of pleasure, a middle life of war and diplomacy, an age of bitter imprisonment, and ultimate respect—he had known them all, and had accepted each in a spirit of valiance. Moreover, the ten years' captivity had not dulled his wit. 'How old are you?' asked the King on the Marshal's enlargement. 'Fifty years, Sire,' was the reply, and, when the King seemed incredulous, he added: 'I discard the years which were not spent in your service.'"

Mr. Whibley also adds an interesting parallel between Bassompierre's book—the result of the unwelcome leisure of his imprisonment—and Pepys's Diary, which it most closely approaches; the greatest difference between them being that while the one only remembers he is a man, Bassompierre never forgets he is a Marshal of France:

He approaches himself in full uniform and he dares not be as intimate with his own actions as the merest stranger may be with the peccadilloa of Pepys.

Sir Kenelm Digby, and "the Real Pepys," whose "journal was the one long deliberate effort" of his life, it being "idle to deny the title of artist to the man who has drawn a living portrait of a living man," will be found equally entitled to rank among Mr. Whitley's artists in life, while one of the longest and most interesting characterizations in the book is that of Saint-Simon, of whom Mr. Whibley writes most characteristically: "What he was at forty, that he was already at nineteen—set, hard-witted, and bitter tongued." As a soldier his courage and energy were unquestionable, but later his lack of love for his profession, together with curiosity, drove him to the Court rather than to the field. Of Saint-Simon Mr. Whibley says his highest achievement "is to etch a portrait with a handful of bitter phrases," and yet:

He never writes without the distinction which comes of understanding and courage; and while his judgments are colored by the animosities of his nature, they are never marred by timidity or lack of frankness. He is, indeed, an historian who dared to paint all his fellows as they appeared to his honest yet partial eye; and, while he is never a match in concision for Tacitus, he emulates that writer of genius in a dozen other qualities. At any rate, one Court is revealed to us by the clairvoyance and daring of a single man; and if we assume to know his men and women of Louis XIV's time, it is to the surpassing talent of Saint-Simon that we must give thanks for our intimacy and appreciation.

Charles Joseph, Prince de Ligne—"The Friend of Kings"—seems above all others destined by nature to illustrate Mr. Whibley's definition of an artist in life; his foppishness as evidenced in small matters being a clearer revelation of the man than is his treatise on the Thirty Years' War. In 1815 he did the honors of Vienna to all Europe, dying during the Congress, in the midst of its gayeties, and with the eyes of the whole world upon him. His excessive devotion to the pageantry of life is well shown by Mr. Whibley's characterization of the old Prince de Ligne:

At seventy-two he was still a fop and still a gallant. "His delicately malicious and gayly ironic wit," wrote Count Ouvaroff, who knew him only in old age, "was allied with a sweetness of character and an equality of temper that were unparalleled." Gravity only was distasteful to him, and he would always turn the conversation with a word or a nod from too serious a topic. His pride was flattered by the eagerness wherewith the curious pointed their finger at him in the street, and he was yet anxious to attract the attention which was his due. He would walk abroad in the Field Marshal's cloak, which became his youthful figure, or, still more splendid, he would drive in his gray coach, whose white horses were the wonder of all Vienna. His happiness had suffered no eclipse; his talk was as marvelous as when he astonished the Court of Versailles, and not even his worst foes observed the dotage of his genius. The best of life had been his, that he watched the end in the midst of content, and it is in his triumph in Vienna, rather than in his calamitous books, that you catch the last glimpse of the Prince de Ligne."

The book closes with interesting portraits of three other men whose chief claim to our consideration lies in their devotion to the pleasures of life. First of all is Beckford, the "Caliph of Fonthill," "whose house was his distraction; his collection, society." Beckford's best claim to remembrance, it might seem, lies in the fact that his collecting ardor, even at eighty years of age, was still undiminished. When Fonthill was lost he bought prints instead of paintings, and although necessity forced him to sell his paintings, he never during his entire life parted with a single book. Even on the brink of the grave we find him telling a dealer he is still "all agog, all ardor, all intrepidity," being also a man who had never known a moment's boredom in his life. Mr. Whibley also adds equally sympathetic portraits of Barbey D'Aurevilly and Disraeli the younger, the former's greatest pride having been the writing of "the epic of Dandyism and of Brummell."

Mr. Whibley's book is charming throughout, containing the most delightful character studies of the type of man of whom he writes:

Life is his material, enjoyment his medium, and to enhance the effect of his single masterpiece he may employ the manifold resources of gayety and splendor. * * * Concerned only with his own perfection, he is a miracle of selfishness; that is the first condition of success; and it is not surprising that he too often escapes the sympathy of his fellows.

*THE PAGEANTRY OF LIFE. By Charles Whibley. New York: Harper & Brothers. 1900. Pp., 269. $1.50.

Huxley and Herbert Spencer.

Letter from Leonard Huxley Printed in The London Athenæum of Dec. 8.

It has been suggested to me by Mr. Herbert Spencer that a phrase of mine in the "Life and Letters of T. H. Huxley" (Vol. II., Page 133) might give rise to a false impression touching the extent to which my father used to criticise the proofs of Mr. Spencer's published writings. The words "from whom [viz., Mr. Spencer] he had, according to custom, received some proofs to read," refer, of course, to the "biological writings" mentioned in Mr. Spencer's letter quoted on Page 127. Besides such biological writings, my father read in proof only "First Principles" and two small fragments amounting to thirty-two pages. I do not suppose that those who have any knowledge of the subject will imagine that he criticised the proofs of Mr. Spencer's writings at large, but I should be sorry to think that I had possibly suggested a false notion to others.

Your readers will hardly need telling that epistolary humor is not always to be taken literally, and that the phrase about his being "devil's advocate" to Mr. Spencer—(I. 333: "There is no telling how many brilliant speculations I have been the means of choking in an embryonic state"—is meant rather as a consolation for a young worker in biological science, to whom my father proposed to act in the same useful, if ungrateful, capacity, than as a definite statement as to Mr. Spencer's biological writings, in which, I understand, a comparison of the manuscript with the printed volumes shows the removal of but four such speculative passages during the proof stage.

But the period assigned to this "devil's advocacy," going back "thirty-odd years" from 1884 to the beginning of my father's acquaintance with Mr. Spencer, indicates that the playful allusion must be as much to the informal dialectics of conversation as to serious written work, for the reading of proofs referred to above only began with the "Synthetic Philosophy" in 1860.

A South Sea Romance by Louis Becke.*

"The South Sea Pearler," by Louis Becke, and his latest work, is a good, clean, albeit rather sensational, "ship story," rather too hackneyed and bloody for "grown-ups," it is just the thing to make the sparkles fly in the adventure-loving eyes of a youngster. Lots of gory plots and bloody mutinies occur all along the "pearlery voyage," and great riches won by courage and stratagem keep the avaricious-minded in a continual state of pleasing excitement.

The feminine rôlea are unobtrusive; therefore the small boy will not feel constrained or anxious to skip whole pages of "lovebosh," for it is a boy's book out of hand and quite equal to tickling the palate of the urchin, who will not be the less entertained and amused that the story is well told in good, simple, readable English. The book is indeed as exciting as a dime novel and as well put up as a "one-fifty." It is full of action and sensations, but it is superior to the cheap tales of adventure so much in vogue in that it is much more neatly written. So many poorly phrased works, whose only excuse lies in their exciting interest, are devoured and enjoyed by growing boys, whose minds become corrupted and debased by them, that it is a relief to find a book of this character written in pure English and full of healthy adventures, such as Mr. Becke has given us.

May there be a plentiful supply of good sea stories always for the budding minds of our future Admirals, who in the days of our coming naval supremacy will look back on some such book as this, which gave them their first bent for the sea and thirst for maritime adventure. Mr. Becke is to be congratulated on turning out so clean and wholesome a romance, which, while it will not hold the attention of the adult reader, is yet a boon to boy-kind, who will find the scenes of the story full of interest and excitement, and go a-pearling with the gallant Edward Barry upon the magic Southern Seas, with a heart aglow with sympathetic delight.

*EDWARD BARRY, SOUTH SEA PEARLER. By Louis Becke. Illustrated. Boston: L. C. Page & Co. $1.50.

LONDON LITERARY LETTER.

Written for THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW by William L. Alden.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—"Kim," Mr. Kipling's new novel, is to begin in the January number of Cassell's Magazine, and already, as I am told, the increase in the subscription list of the magazine testifies to Mr. Kipling's undiminished popularity. "Kim" is the longest story that Mr. Kipling has so far written, and it is to be hoped that it will satisfy those curious people who insist that a story writer cannot take the rank which may be due him until he has shown whether or not he can write a successful long story. This is much the same as it would be to claim that a portrait painter like Mr. Sargent must not be seriously considered unless he paints a large landscape or a ten by six historical painting. An author's genius ought not to be judged by the length of his writings. If Mr. Kipling must needs write a novel of at least a hundred thousand words before being admitted into the ranks of great writers, then Mr. Yeats should not be regarded as a poet until he has written an epic. A short story may be as much a proof of the highest genius as a novel as long as "Clarissa." Mr. Kipling has no need to write a long novel in order to be sure of his place in English literature. All the same, I shall look forward eagerly to "Kim," and the longer it is the better I shall be pleased, for the simple reason that my pleasure will last longer than it does when I read one of Mr. Kipling's short stories.

***

There is a general recognition on the part of the press of the intense priggishness of Mrs. Humphry Ward's hero Manisty. It is certainly an odd thing that when women wish to draw an ideal man, or, at all events, one whom they regard as worthy to fill the place of a hero in a novel, they so frequently draw a prig. Was there ever a more consummate prig than Daniel Deronda? And yet George Eliot believed him to be all that there is of manly perfection. Neither Mrs. Ward nor George Eliot nor any of the other women writers who make prigs of their heroes admire prigs in real life. If George Eliot had ever met Deronda in the flesh, she would have treated him with the scorn and contempt which she could so forcibly display for the benefit of people whom she disliked; and if Mrs. Ward could meet Manisty in the Desert of Sahara she would at the end of half an hour of his conversation beg him to leave her to die alone. The fondness of women writers for prigs in fiction is almost as amazing as their other weakness for stupid or melodramatic heroes. If a woman like Charlotte Brontë or Rhoda Broughton has a congenital hatred of prigs, she makes her heroes either men like Rochester, who could have existed only on the boards of a suburban theatre, or men like that stupid person Le Mesurier, the hero of "Good-Bye, Sweetheart." Charlotte Brontë and Miss Broughton have given us women who are wonderfully alive, but their men are as impossible in their way as are Mrs. Ward's and George Eliot's.

***

The delusion that Dickens never wrote of a house without having in his mind some particular house of bricks and mortar or wood is illustrated by the paragraphs which have recently appeared in most of the daily and weekly papers in regard to the sale of Peggotty's house on Yarmouth Beach. Did not Dickens say that Peggotty lived in a house made out of a boat, and did not this house stand on Yarmouth Beach? Then, of course, argue people who cannot imagine that Dickens invented anything, that boat must still be standing on the beach. Having thus made up their minds, they select some especial house which in some distant way reminds them of a boat, and insist that it is the original house of Peggotty. This alleged Peggotty's house is like the shop kept by Sol Gills at the sign of the Little Midshipman. Whenever any dealer in instruments puts up outside of his London shop a figure remotely suggesting a midshipman his shop is sure to be pointed out as the original shop kept by Sol Gills and Captain Cuttle. There have been at least three of these genuine and original Little Midshipman shops in different parts of London within my recollection, and I doubt if Dickens ever saw any one of them. Peggotty's house is precisely as authentic as a Dickens relic as are the Little Midshipman shops, but for all that it will probably be bought by some lover of Dickens, and perhaps Miss Marie Corelli will constitute herself the guardian of it after she has grown tired of trying to patronize Shakespeare.

***

Mr. Robert Buchanan is still alive, and at times he is said to be somewhat better. There is, however, no longer the slightest ground for hope that he will recover. How long he may linger in the state of living death in which he lies no one can foretell, but even his most sanguine friends now admit that he is little more than a living corpse. It is a sad fate to overtake a man who was so full of life. He had made mistakes like all the rest of us, but they will be forgotten, and men will remember only the noble qualities which were inextinguishably his.

***

Mr. J. M. Morrison has just published a translation of Longfellow's poems. A very fair translation of those pleasing and inoffensive verses was surely not an artificial. I doubt very much if his lamentations for the fallen condition of Italy meant anything more than that his dinner had disagreed with him.

***

One of the most delightful books that I have recently read is Mr. J. H. Crawford's "Autobiography of a Tramp." It is by no means a perfect work in point of construction, but it opens a new world to the reader, and it is full of the pure wind that blows across the English fields. Doubtless it is a true picture of a certain sort of tramp life, for Mr. Crawford assures us that he is writing of what he knows. His tramps are not all of the "Weary Willie" species, and his juvenile hero, who tells the story, is thoroughly alive. There is the essence of true poetry in the book and the true atmosphere of the country. The book is a revelation of the nature and habits of a class of which the world knows virtually nothing. It is new all the way through, and gives the reader more than one new sensation. The fact that it deals with English tramps should be no barrier to its republication in America, for its interest is of the kind that appeals to all men of intelligence and taste.

***

"Girls' Christian Names" is the title of an entertaining book by Helena Swan. Its nature is sufficiently indicated by its title. It gives us a quantity of interesting information as to the origin and meaning of girls' names, which is a subject that ought to appeal to most of us up to, say, our sixtieth year, after which time, as I am informed, the male of our species loses his interest in girls' names. It is rather astonishing to find on the authority of Miss Swan that Yolande and Violet are one and the same, and as a result of this information we shall soon find Violets who will insist upon being called Yolande. We are also told that Winifred and Gwendoline are the same, so the distinction that the latter name has been supposed to confer will no longer be maintained. I wish that Miss Swan had informed us that Maimie and Mehitable were the same, or that Birdie and Polly were indentical. In that case there would be fewer Maimies and Birdies in the next generation, and the world would be proportionately happier.

***

Mrs. Flora Steel's new book, "The Hosts of the Lord," is selling well, as it deserves to. For some reason which I do not quite understand, Mrs. Steel's books do not interest me to any great extent. Even her book on the Indian mutiny, in which there were certainly chapters that displayed the highest ability in story telling, impressed me as being rather dull. "The Hosts of the Lord" has much that is good in it, and it will undoubtedly find many admirers. To me there seems to be lacking in it just the one touch that would have made it great, but I am at a loss to know precisely what that touch is.

***

Mr. Robert Barr is bringing out a new book, which I hear is to deal with the Tammany methods of government. If so, he has certainly found a subject that in his clever hands ought to be very interesting, especially in America. The last I heard of Mr. Barr he was on the point of starting for Nice, where he intends to spend the Winter. Such being his present intention, I should not be in the least surprised to run across him in Egypt, whither I hope to go for a brief vacation. If you find out where Mr. Barr is, and go there in search of him, he is sure not to be there. He has a way of getting up in the morning with a sudden decision to go to the ends of the earth, and when he is started, as a rule, he goes somewhere else.

***

Mr. George Burgin's new novel, "The Way Out," is decidedly the best thing that he has yet done. It is a new departure for Mr. Burgin, and bears little resemblance to his previous books, good as many of them were. I doubt if any one who reads it will be disappointed, and if not already published in America it certainly ought to be.

W. L. ALDEN.

"In the Palace of the King."

A synopsis of the plot of Lotimer Stoddard's dramatization in six scenes of Marion Crawford's novel, "In the Palace of the King," written for Miss Viola Allen, has just appeared in most attractive typographical form, bearing the imprint of the Gillies Press, and published by Liebler & Co. A foreword states that the present dramatization reverses the usual order of things, in that the play was practically planned before the story was written, being given on the stage before the publication of the book. In fact, Marion Crawford is said to have written the story with a special view to its dramatization for Viola Allen, Mr. Crawford giving Lorimer Stoddard full license to make such changes in the original story as he and Miss Allen decided to be necessary for dramatic effect, the result being a slight divergence at times between the drama and the published story. The present synopsis gives in twenty-five somewhat overcrowded pages a clear and interesting review of the principal happenings of the drama, beautifully outlined on sword paper, with a most attractive cover of a peculiar shade of brown paper, with gold lettering and a design by Howard Gillies, showing a dainty little page in Court dress, rather after Velasquez, holding a gold sword and scabbard. The [illegible] white, the only color being the red of the cushion. The book also contains a "cast of characters," a "synopsis of scenes," five very attractive photogravure portraits of Miss Allen, as well as four other plates illustrating scenes in the play, the book, 10 by 13 inches in size, as a whole being remarkably attractive in all its mechanical details.

Stringtown-- Stringtown.

"America has seldom produced so vigorous a book, so virile in its writing, so vital in its story. John Uri Lloyd is a name which will now be known wherever the strong sons of literature are regarded. Stringtown on the Pike, written in stalwart English, drawn with a power of perspective as immense as the country and with a power of detail as fine as the flowers that grow along the pike, is distinctly a book of large atmosphere. Where to find its mate in a book which combines as perfectly as a chemical solution a question big as the nation and a locale definitely situated as a little north Kentucky stringtown, will give pause to the seeker for parallels."—ST. PAUL DESPATCH.

Stringtown on the Pike.

By JOHN URI LLOYD.

How the book has been received:

THE EDITIONS

First edition, Oct. 27 (all sold before publication).
Second edition, Oct. 28.
Third edition, Nov. 5.
Fourth edition, Nov. 15.
Fifth edition, Nov. 27.
Sixth edition, Dec. 12.
Seventh edition, Dec. 14.
Eighth edition, Dec. 27.

186 Newspapers Have Praised it, Among Them:

The Chicago Evening Post,
The Louisville Courier-Journal,
The Cincinnati Times-Star,
The Post Express, Rochester,
The Mail and Express,
The Chicago Times-Herald,
The Philadelphia Inquirer,
The Review of Reviews,
The Cambridge Tribune,
The Indianapolis News,
The Medical Standard,
The Indianapolis Press,
The New York World,
The Brooklyn Eagle,
The Boston Times, The Churchman,
The Denver Times, The Bookman,
The Outlook. Town Topics.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY
Publishers, N. Y.

A Plea for the Old School Readers.

To The New-York Times Saturday Review:

It must strike many persons who keep a watchful eye on their children's school-books that the dear old "reader" of our school days—that book of the charming poems and stories—is gradually passing away, and a new kind of child's companion, either literary or scientific in its tendencies, is taking its place.

Who of us does not find the "reader" and its stories bound inseparably with the dearest memories of the school world, dating back some of the first impressions of right and wrong, good and evil, to the examples gleaned from its pages? Looking backward through the years of reading that have passed, most of us will find that, through all the sea of books, not excepting the greatest masterpieces of the world, the stories which have left the strongest impression on the mind, helping most to development of character, were of our school "readers."

Why must we have Natural Science Readers, Literary Readers, Hygienic Geographical, Historical Readers, when our old friends had all these subjects, and more, touched on in their pages? Children who like such subjects will find the way to them by themselves, or by such direction as the examples in the "reader" gives them, while those who are not of that bent of mind will be sure to resent their reading during school hours as an irksome task, from which their school diploma gives them immunity forever; for education can only direct the natural tendencies of the mind—it cannot create inclination and likings.

But every child is gifted by nature with sympathy and the wish to do right. These feelings the old books tried to cultivate, and in addition duly showed love of nature, literature and art, by which the children who were inclined to play for them were benefited, while the others on the other hand were lifted by [illegible] to [illegible] they cater only to the child's intellectual side, entirely ignoring his moral side.

One "reader" in particular, the name of whose editor has escaped me, but which can easily be identified by the very rare binding of a green board cover, was especially rich in stories tending to incite in the reader virtuous thoughts and deeds. There was one little tale in it of several children who were unkind to their little sister, and who therefore refused to take her blackberrying with them, and as a consequence the child, while walking a beam in the vain attempt to amuse herself, fell to the ground, and, being fatally injured, died. The remorse of the unkind little ones was very vividly portrayed, and the impression it left on the minds of the children who read it was so strong that baby sisters who had formerly been obnoxious little nuisances were now made the objects of the tenderest care by older sisters.

Lessons illustrating the value of careful habits, truth telling, industry, honesty, cheerfulness, charity, and many other equally desirable virtues will readily be recalled by every one. Of course, in the more advanced classes the "readers" are adorned with literary and scientific extracts, which do a great deal toward directing the tastes of our future men and women in the right direction, but by that time the moral side has been sufficiently well developed to allow the intellectual training to begin. But where the cramming starts right at the beginning, the gain to the child's stock of learning is outweighed by the loss to the development of its heart and character.

So I hope that the educational woodman will spare our "story-readers" yet a while, and let them go on, if not actually making paragons of virtue of our children, at least showing them what the virtues are. We will not regret it if, though our future men and women are less learned, they are better citizens and home-makers.

JOHANNA KOHLSAAT.

New York, Dec. 20, 1900.

Reverend C. [illegible]'s Death.

[illegible] writes to The New York Times Saturday Review: "Please [illegible] the Rev. C. [illegible] who has [illegible] and recently [illegible] Rochester, was [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] this [illegible]

BOOKS AND AUTHORS.

"THE REIGN OF LAW."—Readers of James Lane Allen's "The Reign of Law" who have been particularly interested in the religious problems entering into the story, and the controversy which has grown out of it, will be glad to know of a little pamphlet sermon on this novel, written by the Rev. John White Chadwick of the Second Unitarian Church, in Brooklyn, and published by George H. Ellis of Boston, which can be had of Mr. M. B. Bryant, 10 Malden Lane, New York, for 5 cents per copy, including postage. Mr. Chadwick, who is equally well known as preacher, poet, and writer upon all sorts of literary topics, is much given to the use of a strong novel or short story as the subject for a sermon. In the present instance, he gives first, an able review of the plot and characters of the story, before passing to a discussion of the lessons to be drawn from it. He speaks with keen appreciation of the vivid power Mr. Allen shows in describing landscapes, thinking that even Richard Jeffries is scarcely superior in sympathetic interpretation of nature. Mr. Chadwick draws a strong picture of David, "an Old Testament boy," into whose nature heredity in the person of his great-grandfather enters, followed by religious doubts, his reading of scientific books, and his final expulsion from college and return home under the ban of the Church. Mr. Chadwick's sermon, touching as it does most largely upon David's doubts and their final solution, will be all the more interesting to readers generally, in that it is from the Unitarian standpoint. It will be found a valuable commentary upon "The Reign of Law," even by those who are not disposed to quite accept these conclusions.

FIONA MACLEOD'S POEM.—In the December issue of The Bibelot, "Lyrics from the Hills of Dream," by Fiona Macleod, makes a most noteworthy finish to the little magazine's sixth year of existence. Probably it would be hard to find another periodical which at so low a price—50 cents a year—gives so fine a selection from the real literature of our language. Not only is this little magazine typographically attractive in every way, from its pretty cover down to its attractive paging and beauty of type, but its letter press is so admirably chosen and shows so wide an acquaintance with the best writers, including even the rarer editions of our poets, essayists, and story writers—the forewords being so beautifully and sympathetically written—that its issues should prove a perfect treasure trove to all lovers of good literature. Of Miss Macleod's poems, the present introduction says: "The Gaelic color which she uses so profusely—too profusely it may seem to the critical Saxon at times, may have delayed—it surely cannot long delay, a wider recognition of her genius. * * * Here is verse which speaks to the heart, because it came from the heart. And in forming it all is the soul of the wind which has blown throughout the ages. * * * Verse of this sort is charged with the solemnity and speaks with the simplicity of unending art." Miss Macleod has written many books, few of which have passed into the second edition. The sixteen short poems included in this number of The Bibelot should serve to make Fiona Macleod favorably known to many new readers, to whom her verse is as yet a sealed book.

THE MILITANT AUTHOR AND PUBLISHER.—Mr. John Murray, while addressing the Authors Club in London the other day, drew a simile between a publisher-author's strife and that of the soldier. He said: "One man might be dressed up in khaki and set against another in any other garb. Place them near a kopje and they would fire at each other as a matter of duty until one or the other died, or until both were dead. These men had done their duty according to the labels placed upon them. But take off these labels or uniforms and let these men come upon each other in distress, and then one would risk his life in order to help and relieve the other. So it is with the case of authors and publishers. They might shoot at each other, but underneath all that there was a human sympathy and the desire to help one another in time of trouble."

A PHILLIPS BROOKS ANECDOTE.—Apropos of the publication of the life of Phillips Brooks, by E. P. Dutton & Co., an interesting story has come to us from an English source. A writer in The Pall Mall Gazette says of the late Dr. Brooks: "Like all Americans, he was an admirable after-dinner speaker, and once proved the fact when, at an Eton dinner, the headmaster declared that he would couple the toast with the name of Lord Dufferin—who had been already prepared for the ordeal—and another guest who should not be named as yet. Lord Dufferin rose and chaffed pleasantly about his unknown colleague, while all the possible speakers sat uncomfortably in their chairs. When Lord Dufferin ended, Phillips Brooks was named, and, rising, without the least preparation, made a speech that was a model of witty and dexterous eloquence."

THE SMART SET'S PRIZE STORY.—The January number of The Smart Set has as its pièce de résistance the $2,000 prize story, "The Coogressman's Wife," by John D. Barry. It is a tale of contemporary Washington life in which a young Representative sells his talents and honor to a remorseless backer, and thereby jeopardizes his own domestic happiness. The reader feels, however, that the hero, although scarred by this "modern instance," will in the future be capable of great things. The story ends not exactly happily, for emotions have been too much torn to pieces to settle quickly and quietly, but it ends in a proper way, and one has considerable respect for the Congressman on account of the things one feels him capable of performing rather than contempt for the one appalling incident in his past career. The rest of the material in the number is up to the usual standard. Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger has an insinuating little sketch entitled "A Latin Solution." There is, too, a poem entitled "The Poet and His Songs" by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and Paul Laurence Dunbar has a sketch entitled "The Lion Tamer." Other sketches are by Belle Moses, Henry Gallup Paine, John Reginault Ellyson, and Barry Pain. The French writer, Octave Mirbeau, in a short story called "Le Vrai Honnête Homme," depicts a modern society burglar who steals "honestly," as the thief himself remarks, for he comes not under the mask of a lawyer, a banker, a horse dealer to rob, but as a genuine and self-proclaimed thief.

CONRAD WEISER'S PLACE IN HISTORY.—Joseph S. Walton has written for George W. Jacobs & Co. an important volume of history and biography entitled "Conrad Weiser and the Indian Policy of Colonial Pennsylvania." It appears in an octavo volume of some 400 pages, with twenty full-page half-tone illustrations, and is written after a careful examination of manuscript letters and contemporary records through which the life of Weiser, who for thirty years directed the Indian policy of Pennsylvania, has been traced. With the coming of Weiser to this country, the Colonies of Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, and New York were solicitous for the trade and friendship of the United Confederacy of Indians. It is evident to most historians that the Indians at that time held the balance of power between the French and the English, and it is, as the author points out, solely owing to the policy adopted by Weiser that the French did not obtain a firmer foothold in the territory later occupied by the Central States.

THE ROYCROFT CATALOGUE.—One of the most attractive books ever issued from the Roycroft Shop is "A Catalogue and Some Comment Concerning the Shop and Workers at East Aurora," which has just been published. The book contains a complete catalogue of all books issued from that press down to the present time, with bibliographical descriptions and prices of publications now in stock, as well as a list of the thirty-two books entirely out of print, a well-known feature of the Roycroft work being the fact that as all books are printed directly from the type none are reissued. The present catalogue is extremely well printed and plainly and solidly bound, its cover being in dark gray boards, with brown chamois back, with title plainly lettered in gold, the whole making the most effective binding that has ever issued from the Roycroft Shop. The book contains a reprint of two long newspaper articles, embodying well-written accounts of the evolution, gradual development, and present condition of the Roycroft ideals, which will be found of great general interest as showing the social and economic side of the sentiment, as well as giving a good idea of how and by whom the Roycroft work is done. This written description is ably seconded by the insertion of sixteen beautifully made full-page photogravures, showing the work in progress, individual workers, the interior and exterior of buildings, Ali Baba and his book, and many others, including a head of St. Jerome so taken as to suggest an old print. The book contains a most attractive frontispiece showing "Fra Elbertus and the Little De Luxe," or, in plainer terms, Elbert Hubbard and his small daughter on the porch of one of the buildings. The catalogue, outside of its value for reference purposes, presents both in text and illustrations a most attractive view of East Aurora's work, and her workers, and copies should be obtained at once by all who are interested in the Roycroft idea. This catalogue, which may be had at $2 per copy, should go far to win for the Roycrofters many new friends.

"HELPS OVER HARD PLACES."—"Shut-ins" throughout the country or their friends will be interested in hearing of the publication of a daintily printed and bound booklet, "Helps Over Hard Places," containing about seventy poems of varying lengths, written by Mrs. E. P. Van Alstyne of Brooklyn, and to be had from the office of "The Shut-in Friends," 9 Farrington Street, Flushing, N. Y. The proceeds from the sale of these little books, which will be sent post free for 15 cents per copy, or $1.20 per dozen, will be devoted to the uses of the shut-in mission work. It is hard for those who are well to completely realize what the shut-in mission work means to those who are confined to bed or room, whose life is ordered for them, and whose cheerfulness and brightness under heavy trials should prove a lesson to us all. Mrs. Van Alstyne trusts that some one of her poems here included may be found a help over some hard place. The verse included will be found to preach hope, charity—"condemn not the sinner that faileth," the gospel of work—nothing can so cure the ills of life as "good, old-fashioned, honest work"—recompense, heroism—"for stesdy effort is by far a greater test of larger mold." A beautiful little poem to "Fritz of Seney Hospital and All Other Good Dogs"—"the faithful heart of that true friend"—will be found of much interest. The little volume, as a whole, is well worth reading, while purchasers will have the added pleasure of knowing its small purchase price will go toward helping on a good work.

A CATALOGUE FROM ROCHESTER.—B. C. Montgomery of Rochester, N. Y., has lately issued a well-made catalogue of limited editions of standard authors. In an introduction it is stated that as the art of bookmaking has reached a high stage of development, familiarity with the best trade workmanship has made certain buyers demand further perfection of detail, for which reason publishers are issuing editions de luxe, which call for the best material and workmanship, fine presses, the pressmen, the best paper, and, above all, to insure against deterioration, editions strictly limited in the number of impressions to be taken from the type. The catalogue gives a list of such limited editions, consisting of Shakespeare, Tennyson, Carlyle, Ruskin, Scott, Thackeray, George Eliot, Victor Hugo, Dickens, Dumas, and other equally well-known writers in editions varying from 24 to 1,000 copies, the prices of which vary from $3.50 per volume for the larger issues to $40 per volume. The New Century Shakespeare, for instance, the text of which is taken from the Cambridge Shakespeare, as well as from that of William Aldis Wright and others, with complete Shakespearean commentaries by the best authorities, variorum readings, a general introduction, life, and many other interesting features, including 240 etchings and photogravures from celebrated pictures, these illustrations being in duplicate on Holland, Japan, and India paper. The text will be on Japan paper, in twenty-four octavo volumes, at $40 per volume, strictly limited to twenty-five sets, and bound in full crushed levant. This is one of the most expensive de luxe editions liated, however, the Westminster edition of Charles Kingsbury's novels and poems, fourteen volumes, cloth, gilt top, being issued at $3.50 per volume. Another feature of the more expensive sets is that the Shakespeare editions carry with them etchings of the Chandos Shakespeare; the Tennyson, a signed remarque proof of the Rajon portrait, all of which add materially to the interest of the editions.

LINCOLN'S RELIGION.—The G. W. Dillingham Company of New York has lately published a prettily bound little pamphlet edition of a correspondence between Gen. Charles H. T. Collis and Col. Robert G. Ingersoll on "The Religion of Abraham Lincoln," with an appendix, containing letters from Major Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, bearing on the subject of Gettysburg and Lincoln's faith "that God would not let the Nation perish," and a long letter from the Hon. Oliver S. Munsell of Kansas, whose father was an old Illinois friend of Lincoln's as early as 1840. The letter contains the substance of a talk with Lincoln in 1863, some weeks before the battle of Gettysburg and the fall of Vicksburg, when to most persons the National affairs seemed in a desperate condition. At this interview Lincoln said he had not the slightest doubt the country would come through "safe and undivided. * * * The God of our fathers * * * will not let it perish now. I may not live to see it, * * * but God will bring us through safe." Gen. Collis has put all this into book form because he is constantly asked for copies of the correspondence between Ingersoll and himself, and because of the added evidence of the Sickles and Munsell letters, which so thoroughly confirm his own estimate of Lincoln's religious views, gathered not only from records, but from "intimate acquaintance with him in Washington, in the army hospitals, and at the front, during the days immediately preceding Gen. Lee's surrender and Mr. Lincoln's untimely taking off. "The original correspondence grew out of the fact that Gen. Collis attended a lecture on Lincoln, delivered by Col. Ingersoll, in which the latter stated that "Lincoln's religion was the religion of Voltaire and Tom Paine." Out of this grew the interesting controversy by letter which is here printed in book form for the first time, copies of which may be had for 25 cents each.

EUGENE FIELD'S FIRST BOOK.—Mr. Frank E. Hopkins of the Marion Press, Jamaica, Queensborough, N. Y., whose work is so generally seen in privately or semi-privately printed editions, his Press for that reason being less well known to the general public than the beauty of his type and the unusual excellence of his presswork would warrant, has lately finished a new privately printed issue, which has been made at the expense of a private collector, largely for presentation. This volume, which is entitled "Eugene Field's First Book," contains a reprint of his first publication, the "Tribune Primer," and about a third more new matter, now for the first time collected from the columns of The Denver Tribune, the book, therefore, counting as a first edition of Eugene Field. Without actually knowing it to be the case, there is every probability that the collector in question is Francis Wilson, both from his great interest in Eugene Field and his work, as well as from the fact that he has issued several privately printed books bearing the imprint of the Marion Press. Whoever the collector in question may be, he has commissioned Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Co. to dispose of such portion of the edition which he is willing to sell, consisting of twenty-five copies on Japan paper at $25 net per copy, and ninety copies on hand-made paper at $10 net per copy. It is needless to comment upon the importance of this edition, both typographically and as to the beauty of its binding and all other mechanical details, Mr. Hopkins's work being always exceptionally fine, while his presswork is admitted by all to be the best in the country. It would seem, therefore, that from the beauty of the book, in addition to the fact that it really is a first edition of Field, this book must find a place in all good collections of that author.

HINTS FROM THE MAIL BAG

Improbabilities Surrounding Tommy's Death.

H. H. GOODWIN, New York City, writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "I find in THE SATURDAY REVIEW of Dec. 15 a letter complaining about the exasperating heroes. I have not read Mr. Shaw's book, but I have read 'Eleanor' with deepest enjoyment and cannot say that Mr. Manisty jarred upon me. I have read 'Tommy and Grisel,' too, though caring little for 'Tommy,' but toward the last I had begun to feel a little sympathy for him, and liked him more for the real, true effort he made to be gentle and good to Grisel and to make her believe that he loved her. I threw down the book in disgust, though, at the way in which Mr. Barrie killed him off. I am a great admirer of 'The Little Minister,' and of Mr. Barrie in general, but I cannot forgive the 'garden wall' scene, for it seems to me so highly improbable. The better side of Tommy's nature had developed considerably since his marriage. He was trying hard to love Grisel just as he was trying to make her believe he loved her, and I think he would have been true to her. Even had he not been, he was too much of the poseur to do anything so impulsive and so sure to injure his reputation. If he had been mad enough to scale the wall in pursuit of the 'Thin Lady,' I am quite sure he would have felt carefully to see that his coat was not caught on a spike. Oh, Mr. Barrie, how could you?"

Which Was Right?

E. W. L., Skaneateles, N. Y., writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "Has Mr. Paul Leicester Ford or has the author of 'The Fortune of War' (which, by the way, is as dainty a piece of literature as one comes across in these degenerate days,) been guilty of an anachronism in respect to that much-talked-of lady, the Baroness von Riedesel? Mr. Ford places her with her husband somewhere in the wilds of Virginia, at the same time that she is dispensing the Queen's honors in New York, according to the author of 'The Fortune of War.' After some delving, out of idle curiosity, I find authority for the latter placement of the lady in Stone's translations of the letters which the Baroness wrote to her mother in Germany, in one of which she gives an account of this very function at the house of Gov. Tryon, which is described in 'The Fortune of War.'

"Is Mr. Ford, therefore, wrong in his chronology, or is it Miss Barrow and the Baroness who are mistaken? Or are historical novels only a stage whereon the manager puts his actors through what antics he will regardless of the written lines?"

An Error by Mrs. Humphry Ward.

L. M. D. writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "In his London letter of Dec. 1 Mr. Alden speaks of Mrs. Humphry Ward's felicity in dealing with the local color of Rome and rural Italy in 'Eleanor.' Unfortunately she is neither so happy nor so accurate when referring to America, as she makes the English Ambassador speak of being at Harvard in 1869 and seeing the memorial tablets to her sons who fell in the civil war. As a matter of history, Memorial Hall was not finished until 1876. Though but a trifling point, it is only another proof that the cultivated Briton can scarcely deal accurately with American affairs. Those who know much of the liberal thought of New England will be amused at the description of the Universalist mother 'gathering rough laborers into barns and by the wayside, and dying before her time, worn out by the imperious energies of religion.' Mrs. Ward does well to tell us that Lucy's type is 'no longer common in America.' The present writer doubts if that combination of timidity and self-assertion was ever common here, and remains only half convinced that this rather bloodless and crude New England girl could be a successful rival to the accomplished Englishwoman."

Misuse of Words.

J. C. RESCUE, M. D., Dayton, Ohio, writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "Thanks for your article in THE SATURDAY REVIEW of Dec. 8 on 'Misused Words.' Please keep up the war on murderous changes in our mother tongue. How about 'onto'? It is authorized by lexicographers and has support from its similarity to 'into' and 'unto,' but as to euphony it is horrible. 'He got up onto the building'! It is the daily press which is doing this mischief. No longer does a boiler or magazine explode; it 'lets go'! Why and wherefore? No longer does a man pull a pistol or a revolver from his pocket, but 'a gun'! There is no improvement, no benefit, in these changes."

PURISON, New York, writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "You object, in your article upon misused words, to the use of 'has got' for 'has.' If you consult Shakespeare and other masters of the English tongue you will see that it is perfectly correct idiomatic English. It has remained such to the present day. Very few persons, I fancy, would ever think of saying 'Where is my book? Have you it?' Euphony alone would lead them to the use of the right phrase."

H. D. C., Brooklyn, writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "I am surprised at your and your correspondents' objecting to 'balance' in the sense of 'remainder,' for it has seemed to me a singularly happy figure. If I place a pound weight in one scale and thirteen ounces of sugar in the other, the remainder, after deducting the thirteen ounces from a whole pound, is certainly the amount needed to make the two scales balance each other. Why not then a true 'balance'?

"And why object to 'experience' as a verb? It is like the old objection to using adjectives as nouns, e. g., 'military.' The fact is that almost any part of speech may take on (usurp, if you will,) the office of another, adjectives of adverbs, verbs (as participles,) e. g., 'except,' of conjunctions or prepositions, verbs of nouns, pronouns, (themselves originally adjectives,) e. g., 'that,' of conjunctions, adverbs, e. g., 'but,' as both prepositions, conjunctions, &c.

Moreover, 'experience trouble' is not the same as 'having trouble,' and if the structure of the sentence calls for a verb, why not make one out of the root idea, though this may always hitherto have been used as a noun, (never perhaps a safe position to assume,) if it express a thought for which no other root is readily, if at all, available?

"The leading of Grant White is to be followed with caution, for it was he, I think, who so strenuously objected to 'reliable' and to the formula 'is being built,' both of which are recognized and accepted by the best philologists, while his treatment of 'shall' and 'will' in certain connections was open to exception."

THERESA DODD SETLEY writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "No better thing could have been put before the public than the articles on 'The Misuse of Words.' Not many, comparatively speaking, have access to books written on the subject, while thousands of readers have a quiet lesson in this way, which is in the way of general reading and may be appropriated and digested, doing much good. Permit me to ask a question which I have put to many people at different times. Did you ever hear any one use such a word as 'leastways' or 'leastwise'? And yet it may be in use, though I have never heard it spoken. But one finds this unpleasant word in hundreds of stories and in novels. Writers of fiction take as large a license as poets do when they make ordinary characters say 'leastways' for at least. It is a horrible word, and not only should it be 'scotched' like a snake, but killed, for misleading learners. And I may be going too far in another direction when I say that one of our grandest words is being more and more 'commonly' used every day, and therefore misused. I believe that the word 'infinite' belongs to Deity, and the boundless idea of the attributes of Deity. And yet our writers are using this word in expressing the paltry emotions of romantic heroes and heroines. 'He gazed at her with infinite pity'; or, 'He leaned over her with infinite patience.' So far as its use as a part of speech is concerned, it is doubtless quite right, but, for all that, it seems misused, sullied, when tacked to such subjects. We try to describe the compassion, pity, love of the Almighty when we say they are 'infinite,' and it does seem putting such a noble word to wrong uses when it is applied to any human emotion, since nothing within us, of us, about us, is 'infinite.' The use of the word 'homely' for 'ugly' is very common, also. A homely man or woman is one of homely, or domestic nature, &c. Is it not so?"

Is "Dr. Dale" an Immoral Book?

RANDOLPH C. LEWIS, Brooklyn, writing to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW regarding the morality of "Dr. Dale," says: "The sub-title describes it as a 'A Story Without a Moral.' In default of a specific moral the average reviewer pitches and drifts as a boat without an anchor, unless, indeed, he has caught at a floating straw in the shape of the neatly descriptive paragraph printed upon the outer paper cover of the book. So eminent an authority in literary criticism as Julian Hawthorne devotes two columns to telling us why he considers 'Dr. Dale' mischievous, if not positively harmful. He had 'special reasons for wishing to like the book; the structure, as a piece of workmanship, is excellent; the picture of life in an old town is powerfully and truthfully presented,' &c. But—Dr. Dale as a personage is 'temperamentally detestable' to him, and his history 'incredible and preposterous.' 'The validity of the Ten Commandments is on trial,' is his tremendous summing up of the case against the collaborators. They have dared to lay bare the deep places of a strong, suffering soul; to show what fearful odds were marshaled against this one of God's creatures, in heredity, environment, and circumstance; to chronicle, in language the more powerful for its directness and simplicity, the steps by which he gained a higher plane and the influences that held him there; lastly, the suddenness and might of the temptation before which—being human and handicapped—he went down.

"It is a daring thing to paint this life of ours and the people who live it as they really are—as grown men, with passions like unto this man's. The most resolutely moral of honest readers, as he closes the pages that have gripped and held him with weird fascination, finds himself debating what he would have done in the awful alternative that faced the physician, and thus debating, says humbly from his soul, 'Lead not me—even me—into temptation.' 'Dr. Dale' is the strongest novel of the season. The reading public and the dramatists first, then the critics, lastly the conservative publishers, are finding this out. It is not a pretty story. Neither is real life, as most of us know it, pretty and pleasing. One good woman said to me to-day that she had sat up all night to read it, but was 'afraid it is immoral.' I asked her opinion as to the morality of the story of David, the thief and murderer, forgiven of God. Also, whether or not the sufferings of Arthur Dimmesdale and Hester Prynne in the elder Hawthorne's immortal romance softened her judgment as to their transgression."

Fashion Plates at the Salmagundi Club.

WILLIAM HENRY SHELTON, librarian of the Salmagundi Club, who, with an expert's knowledge, does this kind of work, is making a catalogue de luxe of the Salmagundi collection. He writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "A little more than a year ago the library of the Salmagundi Club mentioned in THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW its desire to form a collection of the fashion plates of the nineteenth century. The members of the library committee, realizing the importance of preserving these interesting records of the past, began to collect the publications of the Assemblée, Ackerman's, Le Beau Monde, The Lady's Pocket Magazine, and the American magazines that followed.

"Through the paragraph in THE SATURDAY REVIEW plates were offered from all parts of the country, mostly from the American magazines of the sixties and seventies, and a collection was purchased from Mr. William R. Powell of the Grolier Club numbering over 900 London plates—1800-34. Six of these volumes, covering the century to 1830, are already in the library, each book dealing with five years and each year consisting of twenty-five plates. Five more volumes are in the hands of the binder, and the collections for the remaining nine volumes are only incomplete in portions of difficult years. The collections of early English plates seem to end with 1834, and the difficult period follows down to 1840, recurring between 1845 and 1854.

"The fourteenth and fifteenth volumes, 1866-75, are made up of the double-page plates common to all the American fashion magazines of that period and the following volumes are of larger French plates, which may be hinged and bound without extra mounting on Whatman paper.

"The so-called 'difficult' period in this country seems to have been divided between a large number of magazines, each of which probably circulated a small edition, until Godey's, Peterson's, and Graham's shook off their rivals.

"Some of these forgotten magazines, dear to the ladies of sixty years ago, were The World of Fashion, published in Boston; The Casket, published in New York by S. C. Atkinson; The Ladies' Companion, by William W. Snowden; The Boston Miscellany of Literature and Fashion, The New York Visitor, The Ladies' National Magazine, and The Columbian Magazine.

"The library requires a few more single-page plates for the following years: 1835, 1836, 1837, 1838, 1839, 1845, 1851, 1852, 1853, and 1861 to 1865. Also of the Revue de la Mode, 13 et 15, Quai Voltaire, Paris, for the years 1876, 1877, 1878, 1881, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887, 1893, 1894, and 1896.

"This is a reference work compiled for the information of painters and illustrators, and, considering the requirements in exact costume of the magazine and book publishers of to-day, this collection is likely to have a marked effect on the illustrations of the century about to begin.

"The title pages are by Mr. Thomson Willing, having in the centre an oval, in each of which a miniature head will be painted characteristic of the period each book represents. The preface to the first volume is illuminated in red and gold by Mr. T. A. Sindelar."

Miss Rives's "A Furnace of Earth."

H. A. MITCHELL, New York, writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "Your criticism of Hallie Erminie Rives's 'Furnace of Earth' would seem to suggest a literary conundrum. Might one offer a possible solution? Is not this fascinating love story really an arraignment of the hypocrisy underlying our so-called 'higher education'? The time has been when fine physical attributes received their just meed of reverential worship; but our vaunted growth in spirituality would seem to reflect on the wisdom of Deity, judging from the distorted views so sincerely clung to, though in bitter misery, by the heroine presented to us. She is herself an exquisite creation of the master-hand, and the threatened ruin of her life, intended by nature to be a perfect flower of human existence, is perhaps the object lesson which Miss Rives seeks to impress."

MISS HALLIE ERMINIE RIVES, New York, writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "I have noticed with considerable interest the discussion (which, after all, is an old one,) apropos the description of Christ which I employ in one of the chapters of 'A Furnace of Earth.' Very many letters have come to me questioning my motive in making use of this celebrated, though authentic, fragment on a page whose mood was intentionally sensuous and material. It seems scarcely necessary for me to disclaim any intention to affront those whose religious sense of the fitting is extra-sensitive. The recoil of Margaret's soul upon itself required a revolt from the sensuous—which revolt would be most strong when the intrusion was upon the field of the conscience. I think my reason for its use will be quite obvious to those to whom the art of its telling is not the least part of a tale."

D. F. AYRES, Paterson, N. J., writes to THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW: "Is the type that Margaret represents in Miss Rives's 'Furnace of Earth' really the abnormal and artificial type that the generality of critics would have us think? Deep down in every sensitive, high-strung woman's soul, has not the problem that Margaret wrestled with presented itself more than once? If Miss Rives's heroine, for the purpose of fiction, carried this travail of spirit to an extreme bordering upon morbidity, is that any refutation of a fundamental fact? Only too many psychically organized women have known in some degree just the same anguished struggle with the laws of nature that Margaret knew. But they don't publish it to the world—that's all.

"If Margaret strove to probe and weigh and analyze too closely the veiled mysteries between terrestrial and celestial love, martyring her heart's happiness to the operation, it was only because her consciousness was of a stronger fibre than that upon the average feminine temperament and not because of any essential eccentricity of her own. A woman, inherently absolute, of hyper-sensitive, nervous organization, is driven to seek a reason for her love and for the instinctive attributes of surrender and quality.

[illegible] REVIEW: "A brief reply seems called for by the letter in THE SATURDAY REVIEW of Dec. 15 from Mr. Edward J. Nelson. Whatever may have been written about the Poe collection of the late Thomas J. McKee in magazines and newspapers, it surely cannot be claimed that any one having direct connection with either its possession or sale ever considered or advertised it as an 'absolutely complete and perfect collection.' Mr. McKee did not pretend to collect all the magazine contributions by Poe, though he possessed a great many. He did aim at securing all the books in which the poet's writings first appeared. Not only was 'Prose Romances No. 1,' referred to by Mr. Nelson, well known to Mr. McKee, but it seems almost certain, from the reading of his correspondence, that he possessed a copy, though, so far it has not been found. Other notable works that he was known to have possessed are still missing, and it found, they, together with the 'Prose Romances,' will be offered for sale in the fifth and final portion of his library."

RUDYARD KIPLING'S

KIM

"The effect is kaleidoscopic. The wide outlook and grasp of complexity of detail, clothed in picturesque description and vital with imaginative power, is evidence that the author has gained in strength, and his magic has not forsaken him."—Chicago Post.

KIM

"Full of the strangely blended atmosphere of the East."—New Orleans Democrat.

"A profound story of Oriental life."—St. Paul Press.

"Opens with the true touch of the old Kipling, with all the charm of his Indian tales, with all the happy allusions to mighty things unknown—to the subterranean struggle between two empires, the mystery of the age-old East."—New York Mail and Express.

KIM

"It fulfills in its larger scope all the promise of his earlier and shorter works."—Boston Journal.

"The literary event of the month . . . an extraordinary human document."—New York Times.

KIM

January McCLURE'S

with summary of first chapter

TEN CENTS A COPY
ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

S. S. McCLURE CO., 145 East 25th St., N. Y.

6th Edition | 90th Thousand

The most talked of novel of the season.
Why not join the discussion?

The Master Christian

By MARIE CORELLI

FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.

DODD, MEAD & CO., New York

MISTRESS PENWICK

A fascinating romance of the days of Charles II

2 BOOKS WORTH READING

FOR SALE AT ALL BOOKSELLERS

R. F. FENNO & CO., N.Y.

WITH RING OF SHIELD

A Charming Love Story

"More striking than any history can possibly be . . . more entertaining than any fiction."—LITERARY WORLD.

THE COURTOT MEMOIRS.

2d Impression. 8vo. $2.00.

The love and Adventures of the Baroness, with vivid accounts of "The Terror," and of the Courts of the beautiful Queen Louise in Prussia, and of the First Consul in France.

HENRY HOLT & CO., 29 W. 23d St., N.Y.

MENTAL NUTS—do you crack 'em? NUTS—complete to above. Each contains 100 Catch or Trick Problems, with answers. GREAT ENTERTAINERS. Mailed for 10 cents each. Mason Supply Co., Dept 123 Masonic St., N. Y. New catalogue free.

To thee, my brother, and to auld lang syne,
The rolling years have thinned our locks of brown
To a scant fringe of salt-and-pepper grey;
Much regarding the infirmity of memory;
Much attention, indeed, does that subject pay;
We like the auld times better than the new.
And have a strong dislike to noise and dust,
Are fond of sitting in the sunshine and
With quiet companions on the garden seat,
And those of the past that were married and have
Of the present that are married and have
Or, if we do not, we are ready to do so.
Of the present that are married and have
Of the present that are married and have

NOTES AND NEWS.

G. P. Putnam's Sons will shortly publish a story of a boyhood spent in a cattle country, by Melville Post of West Virginia. The book will be entitled "The Dwellers in the Hills."

"More Letters of Edward FitzGerald," edited by W. Oldis Wright, may be expected in a few weeks from the Macmillan Company press.

Half a million copies of "David Harum" have already been sold, and the sales still average 500 copies a day. The calls for the illustrated edition are at present greater than can be supplied by the publishers.

Three new volumes to the Macmillan Company's edition of Fenimore Cooper's novels will be added shortly after the Christmas holidays. They are "The Pathfinder," "Prairie," and "The Pioneers." Each has twenty-five illustrations. The first two volumes are illustrated by C. E. Brock and "The Pioneers" by H. M. Brock.

"A Year Book of Kentucky Woods and Fields," by Ingram Crockett, is being published by Charles Wells Moulton of Buffalo, N. Y. The fine sentiment of the book is augmented with certain nice illustrations.

The December number of the Dominicana, published by the Dominican Fathers of San Francisco, Cal., has several interesting features suggestive of the season. There is a Christmas hymn with music by Father Lootens. The Rev. J. R. Newell writes upon "The Late Fraud Hypnotist." The fiction serial "Secret of Grossmeister Cliffs," by Margaret D. O'Brien, is continued, while a group of poems is contributed by Charles H. Towne, Sister Imelda, and M. A. Gallagher. Among the illustrations is a half-tone frontispiece, "Our Lady of Guadalupe."

A second edition of Mr. Hamilton W. Mabie's work on "Shakespeare, Poet, Dramatist and Man," has just been issued by the Macmillan Company

Miss Laura H. Wild, formerly International Secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, has just published through the Fleming H. Revell Company a suggestive volume, entitled "Selected Studies in the Life of Christ." The book contains the result of many years of thought and work by this active woman, and is illustrated with reproductions of pictures by the great masters.

"The Individual: A Study of Life and Death," by Prof. N. S. Shaler, published by D. Appleton & Co., is being criticised in religious circles principally on the ground that it does not give separate human beings the individuality which the writings in the Bible show they possess. On this point, however, there is no mistaking what the Harvard professor would intimate, for he says clearly in his preface:

"It is a protest against the idea, bred of many natural misconceptions, that a human being is something apart from its fellows; that it is born into the world and dies out of it into the loneliness of a supernatural realm. It is this sense of isolation which, more than all else, is the curse of life and the sting of death."

Seventy-five thousand copies of F. Marion Crawford's new novel, "In the Palace of the King," have been sold since its publication a month ago.

A delightful Christmas book, the work of a poet of localities, is being published by G. P. Putnam's Sons under the title of "The Seven Voices," by J. Hooker Hamersly. It is octavo in form and illustrated by many very pretty pen and ink sketches.

A large folio of "Eighteenth Century Color Prints," by Julia Frankau, will be published shortly after Christmas by the Macmillan Company. While the illustrations are reproductions of the work of the most famous artists, their subjects are also interesting from the fact that they represent most distinguished personages who sat for their portraits.

Although the new volume in the Story of the West Series edited by Ripley Hitchcock deals particularly with "The Story of the Soldier" in the West, it is, nevertheless, as the author, Gen. G. A. Forsyth, intended it to be, an actual biography of the United States Regular Army. A little thought will show that this treatment of the subject was inevitable, owing to the constant field of service in which the army has been conspicuous since the Revolutionary War.

"The Ecumenical Hymn of Missions" is being published, with music and words, in an attractive leaflet by S. M. Travis of this city. The poem was written in 1863 by J. S. B. Monsell, while the music was composed last Summer by R. Huntington Woodman.

Publication of the account of the Harriman expedition to Alaska, which Doubleday, Page & Co. have in hand, has been delayed until the opening of the new year, owing to the difficulty experienced in the printing of the many colored plates which are to accompany it. The volume promises, when finally given to the public, to be the finest example of bookmaking devoted to a work of scientific travel and exploration ever put forth in this country.

Of Georg Ebers's last novel, "In the Desert," it may be said that the first edition to appear in any language is in English, as published by Dodd, Mead & Co. The book thus far has not been issued either in German or French.

Emile Zola's latest novel, "Labor," a powerful narrative dealing with factory life in France and with the conflict between labor and capital in that country, will begin its run as a serial in Harper's Weekly early in the new year. It will probably appear in book form some time next Summer.

R. H. Russell is about to issue an interesting souvenir of Sarah Bernhardt. It will be a brochure of nearly 100 pages, with a historical and critical sketch of Mme. Bernhardt, together with an autograph introduction by herself. There will be sixty-five half-tone pictures, showing the actress in various roles, in her home, and in her infancy; there will also be reproductions of many cartoons of her by well-known artists.

The February number of Everybody's Magazine will contain an article entitled "The Curiosities of Courage," by Richard Harding Davis. The same number will also present the first of a series of articles by "J. P. M.," which will be called "The Making of a Home." The author of these sketches, who presents the results of his own experience, shows that it is by no means necessary to be wealthy in order to enjoy a pleasant country place of one's own making.

The volume of newspaper essays entitled "Monday Sermons," published in Syracuse by Bailey & Sackett, was noticed in our columns on Dec. 20, the author's name being incorrectly given as Paul M. Ford. The name should be Paul M. Paine. The essays in this volume cover a wide range of topics, and among the authors with whom the writer shows familiarity are Stevenson, Kipling, and Dr. Van Dyke.

The first of a series of memoirs by Clara Morris appears in the January number of The McClure Magazine. There is also a striking pen picture of the German Kaiser, while the second installment of Kipling's "Kim" appears with illustrations by Edwin Lord Weeks and Lockwood Kipling.

The Century for January presents extracts from a diary kept during the siege of the foreign legations in Peking last Summer by Cecile E. Payen, which cover the more thrilling incidents of the experiences of the legationers from a woman's point of view.

"A New Way Around an Old World," by the Rev. Francis E. Clark, is an adequately illustrated account of a journey across Russia and Siberia by the new Trans-Siberian Railway. It will probably be published next week, or the week after, by Harper & Brothers.

A volume of verse by Charles Elmer Jenney is in press at the Fresno Republican Publishing Company of Fresno, Cal. It is entitled "Scenes of My Childhood," and is handsomely illustrated with reproductions of photographs.

W. H. Lowdermilk & Co. of Washington, D. C., are about to bring out "The Songs of Alcaeus, Memoir and Text," with translations, literal and in verse, by James S. Easby-Smith. Alcaeus, it will be recalled, was one of the finest lyric poets of Greece, and although the majority of his writings have perished, enough have come down to us to be well worth preserving in good modern English form.

The Magyar Nemzet of Budapest, of which Dr. Jokai is the editor, has a curious review of John Kendrick Bangs's "A Houseboat on the Styx" in a recent number. The writer comments with great glee upon the conversation of the shades, and says that therein lie the moral and much wholesome advice for growing literary clubs.

Items from Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 27.—According to a Boston bookseller it is no novel but "The Life and Letters of Phillips Brooks," written by Prof. Alexander V. G. Allen, and published by Messrs. E. P. Dutton & Co., which should be called the best selling book of the week. It is worth five times as much as a novel and it costs no more in time or trouble to sell it; that is to say, it would cost no more if any one had it to sell, but as it is, the orders for it come in so rapidly that the chances are that it will not reach the counters, and will not be seen by the average buyer until after Christmas.

Among books published a few weeks ago, but already in a second edition, are Mr. Edmund H. Garrett's "Pilgrim Shore," issued by Messrs. Little & Brown, and their three-version form of the Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyam. Mr. Charles Haight Farnham's "Life of Francis Parkman" is in its third edition, and a host of single orders from other cities and from small towns testify to the number of homes to which the historian's work is known and loved so well that its owners desire his acquaintance. "Carita, Countess of Albornoz," the Spanish novel of F. Luis Coloma, S. J., is also in its second edition, and Mr. Bradley Gilman's "The Parsonage Porch," and Mr. Charles Fleming Embree's "The Dream of a Throne" is in its fourth.

A new edition of George Eliot in twelve volumes and including the biography by Mathilde Blind, has been published by Messrs. Little & Brown, Mr. H. L. Richardson contributing a set of photogravure frontispieces.

"Eben Holden" adds another thousand to its circulation every few days, and "Uncle Terry" pursues it as swiftly as could be expected considering its age. Probably equal success awaits any one who will write a story of commonplace city dwellers, setting one clever personage among them and writing of their commonplace behavior as if it were romantic. Mr. Walter Leon Sawyer had the opportunity in his "A Local Habitation," the story of a South End boarding house, but he spoiled it by showing his every-day folk how they appeared to a better educated observer. True, the observer was a conceited, unprincipled, selfish person, not worthy to black the boots of those whom he presumed to estimate, but the commonplace man does not wish to be told that he shines by contrast with an educated profligate; he desires to be assured of his absolute brilliancy.

It is seldom that a scientific book attracts so much notice early in its career as has fallen to the lot of "Fact and Fable in Psychology," by Prof. Joseph Jastrow. It happened to come into notice at the moment when certain dabblers in thought-reading and other suburbs of the occult found that a trusted leader had wandered into the ways of Spiritualism, and while their friends were saying "I told you so," this book, with its cold exposure of humbug after humbug, from Mesmer down, and its plain statement that no scientific man need consider himself under obligation to "investigate" all the things shouting for advertisement by investigation came to the aid of the aforesaid friends and they seem to be using it.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS.

"L. B.," Morristown, Penn.: "Where can I get Grove's 'Dictionary of Music and Musicians'?"

'Grove's "Dictionary," in four volumes, may be had from the Macmillan Company for $6 a volume.

"A. W. M.": "Will you kindly inform me what price a set of seven volumes of the complete works of Dean Swift, printed in 1765, stoutly bound in calf, and in an excellent state of preservation, would probably bring, and where I may be likely to find a purchaser?"

The value would be about $5. It could be sold at auction, where it might bring more than that sum. It is not, however, of the class of books that modern collectors fancy.

N. S. MORGENROTH, 57 West One Hundred and Fourteenth Street, New York City: "Will you kindly tell me if the firm of Belford, Clarke & Co. is still in existence, and, if so, what their address is?"

The firm, we believe, has been out of business for a number of years. There is, however, a Chicago publishing firm by the name of Belford, Middlebrook & Co.

"STUDENT," University Heights, New York City: "Who printed the first edition of Homer's works, a copy of which was reported by THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW to have sold at Bangs's for $210, the Peel copy bringing £195?"

It has been said that Bernardo and Nerio Nerli were printers of this noble work, but they were probably only the publishers. Demetrius Chalcondylas is supposed to have done the printing.

"Z. Z.," New York City: "Please tell me something about Miss Mary Johnston, the author of 'Prisoners of Hope' and 'To Have and to Hold.'"

Mary Johnston was born at Buchanan, Botetourt County, Va., Nov. 21, 1870. She is now a resident of Birmingham, Ala.

"M. R. S.," Bridgeport, Conn.: "Kindly tell me if all of Emerson's works are in print."

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. publish Emerson's "Complete Works," in twelve volumes, at $1.75 each.

FRANCIS W. PAINE, Portland, Me.: "Please give me a short sketch of Thomas De Quincey, and tell me something about James T. Fields, the poet-publisher."

In the Encyclopaedia Britannica will be found a sketch of De Quincey and in Appleton's Biographical Dictionary one of Field.

F. CORNISH, Long Ridge, Conn.: "Did John Fiske, the historian, ever have any other name? A friend told me that this was the case, but I doubted him."

John Fiske's name was originally Edmund Fiske Green, but in 1855 he took the name of a great-grandfather.

R. A. RANSOM, Atlanta, Ga.: "Will you please give me, through the columns of THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW, a short sketch of the life of Walter Pater, with a list of his works and the dates of their publication? If you can do this I would appreciate it."

Walter Horatio Pater was born in London Aug. 4, 1839, and died in Oxford July 30, 1894. His early education was received at a school at Enfield, and later he was at King's College, Canterbury, (1853-8.) He matriculated at Queen's College, Oxford, June 11, 1858, was made a B. A. in 1862, a Fellow of Brasenose College in 1864, an M. A. in 1865, a Junior Dean in 1866, a Tutor 1867-83, a Dean in 1871, and a Lecturer in 1873. He contributed to The Fortnightly Review and other periodicals from 1866. His now well-known essay on "Winckelmann" (the great German restorer of Hellenic feeling) was published in The Westminster Review for January, 1867, but attention was first drawn to him by his essays in The Fortnightly in 1869, 1870, and 1871 on Leonardo da Vinci, Botticelli, Michael Angelo, and others. The latter were published in the memorable and beautifully written volume entitled "Studies in the History of the Renaissance," 1873. After a silence of twelve years came, in 1885, his romance of "Marius the Epicurean," the work by which Pater will pre-eminently be known to posterity, and then came "Imaginary Portraits," 1887; "Appreciations," 1889; "Plato and Platonism," 1893; "The Child in the House," issued in 1894 from the private press of the Rev. Mr. Daniel of Oxford, and now a precious toy for bibliomaniacs;) "Greek Studies," 1895; "Miscellaneous Studies," 1895; "Gaston de Latour," 1896, and "Essays from the Guardian," 1897, (privately printed.)

L. G. WETTERAN, McAdoo, Penn.: "I am in search of a book entitled 'Matrimonial Adaptation,' by J. W. Shull, published in 1890, either in Cleveland or Cincinnati, at 50 cents in paper. It treated the subject from a phrenological standpoint."

The only book by J. W. Shull which is mentioned in Wilson's "United States Catalogue of Books in Print," is "Will; Its Nature and Education."

"M. D.," 170 Broadway, New York City: "Where can I get 'Mary and Hugo; or, the Lost Angel,' by Elizabeth Oakes Smith? It appeared among the Christmas books some forty or forty-five years ago."

This book, published in New York in 1856, has long been out of print, and can only be obtained by an advertisement.

Wanted and to Exchange.

J. MULLIGAN, 71 Washington Street, Newark, N. J.: "I would like to secure all the numbers of 'The Gallery of Players,' (published by The Illustrated American Company,) excepting Nos. 3, 4, and 5. Must be in good condition. State price."

D. V. RAYMOND, Room 36, 11 Pine Street, New York City: "Wanted—Genealogy of the Raymond family, published in Brooklyn in 1886. Will pay well for a good copy."

J. LURIE, 179 East One Hundred and Seventh Street, New York City: "I have Harper's Round Table from Sept. 26, 1896, to October, 1899, (last issued,) except January, 1899. Also League of American Wheelmen Bulletin from March, 1896, to April, 1898, (some missing.) Would like to sell, or exchange for camera."

THEODORE F. WOLFE, Succasunna, N. J.: "I have a complete set of the Annual Reports of the Bureau of Ethnology, seventeen volumes, 4to, olive cloth, new and unused, which I will exchange for good editions of the English classics, or will sell for about half value."

W. JOHNSON, Fallsburg, N. Y.: "A few weeks ago some one, whose name and address I have lost, asked in your 'Wanted and Exchange' column for De Mille's 'Cryptogram.' I have an old but not mutilated copy, (Harper, 1870,) which I would be willing to dispose of."

S. C. GOULD, Manchester, N. H.: "I have Mosher's 'Bibelot,' Vol. I., complete and [illegible]. The Philistine,' Vol. I., Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4. I offer them for exchange for modern books."

DR. A. D. DAVIDSON, Troy, N. Y.: "I wish to dispose of 'Dictionnaire D'Argot Moderne,' by Lucien Rigaud. New edition, with supplement. Paris, 1888. What am I offered for it?"

"C. F. A.," Post Office Box 64, Buffalo, N. Y.: "I have for sale, at $10, a fine copy of Thomas's 'History of Printing in America,' Worcester, Mass., 1810, two volumes, with portrait, bound in the original sheep."

H. G. READING, Franklin, Penn.: "I would like to purchase, in good second-hand condition, Scribner's 'Cyclopaedia of Painters and Paintings,' Waitman & Woerman's 'History of Painting,' two volumes. Write, describing condition and naming very lowest cash price, which must be reasonable."

Appeals to Readers.

F. H. BELOW, Simmons Hardware Company, Ninth and Spruce Streets, St. Louis, Mo.: "Will some one kindly tell me where I may find a sonnet which begins:

"'A point of life between my parents' dust
And thine, my buried little ones, am I.'

"My impression is that it was written by either Coleridge or Wordsworth, and appeared in one of the magazines some ten or fifteen years ago. I have looked everywhere for it without success, but my opportunities for a thorough search are very limited."

JAMES W. CHENEY, Librarian War Department Library, Washington, D. C.: "Can any of your readers correct and supply the omissions in the following condensed statement of the Ten Commandments, written more than fifty years ago? 1. Thou shalt have no other gods than Me. 2. Before no idol bow the knee. 3. Take not the name of God in vain. 4. Nor dare the Sabbath day profane. 5. ———. 6. Steal not a thing though small and mean. 7. Nor think nor do an act unclean. 8. ———. 9. Tell not a willful lie nor love it. 10. What is thy neighbor's do not covet."

THE BEACON BIOGRAPHIES

Brief Memoirs of Eminent Americans

M. A. DeWOLFE HOWE, EDITOR

LATEST VOLUMES

U. S. Grant,
By OWEN WISTER;

Thomas Jefferson,
By THOMAS E. WATSON;

J. Fenimore Cooper,
By W. B. SHUBRICK CLYMER;

Sam Houston,
By SARAH BARNWELL ELLIOTT;

Stonewall Jackson,
By CARL HOVEY;

Stephen Decatur,
By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY.

SEND FOR CIRCULARS.

Price, 75 cents a Volume.

OF ALL BOOKSELLERS OR OF SMALL MAYNARD & Co. 6 BEACON St. BOSTON

An Unsocial Socialist

By G. Bernard Shaw

Author of "Cashel Byron's Profession."

"The character of 'Smilash,' the UNSOCIAL SOCIALIST, is absolutely unique in fiction. There is nothing like him in print, and there is not likely to be anything like him again, for nobody but Shew could conceive such a terrific combination of nerve, gall, and brains—and Shaw will not repeat himself." —Dayton Press.

"The story is full of humor, whimsical, it is true, but bright and original enough to furnish a wealth of entertainment for its reader. The women characters are well drawn, and entirely in keeping with the story." —Pittsburg Index.

"There is a delicious variety and spice in the whole fashion and fabric of this tale, together with some neat points turned for the anti-socialist if he knows how to find them." —St. Louis Globe Democrat.

"A medium for the exploitation of Mr. Shaw's almost violent views on the social system, and to introduce another of his series of delightfully distinct characters." —Washington Evening Star.

"Brentano's have done a service to literature in reprinting two of his novels that are strangely unfamiliar to the American public." —New York Herald.

"Among the writers of to-day in England none has a personality more insistent or diverting than that of Mr. Shaw." —Chicago Record.

"Mr. Shaw has done some fresh and sprightly writing, but nothing better, little so good, as this." —Philadelphia Call.

:: FOR SALE EVERYWHERE ::

12mo, Cloth, - - - - - $1.25

BRENTANO'S.
31 Union Sq., New York.

WANTED
"LITERARY ORATORY"
comprising a series of Addresses delivered at various popular institutions. Revised and corrected by the authors. Very thick 12mo, London, pp. 653.
$5.00 Offered for the Above Work.
THE UNIVERSITY SOCIETY,
78 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

Mistress Penwick.
Only a Novel, But a Good One.
Chas. Frohman thinks enough of it to assume the direction of its dramatization

MAP ENGRAVING.
We draw, engrave, and print all kinds of maps for all kinds of purposes. Having unequaled facilities in all departments, we are prepared to execute orders of any size promptly and efficiently. Our collection of modern map plates is perhaps the largest and most complete in the world. In many cases we have adapted these regular plates to suit special purposes, thereby effecting a considerable saving for our customers. We make a specialty of preparing maps for prospectus circulars, folders, books, &c. Estimates promptly furnished. RAND, McNALLY & CO., 142 5th Av., New York City.

DON'T FORGET that you get FREE with every copy of VENGEANCE IS MINE
a beautiful platinum print of the heroine, Kate Ingleby.
NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK CO.

The Reward of Prince Cheerfulness
A charming Fairy Story by RUTH LEWINSON. 8vo, 47 pages. 75 cents. Published by WILLIAM R. JENKINS 851 6th Ave., N. Y.

HENRY MILLER, Bookseller and Importer, 1 Barclay St., opposite Astor House.
We sell all new Books, except net ones, at 25 per cent. off publishers' prices.

"DEACON BRADBURY is, in many respects, as distinct a character as David Harum."
—Phila. Item.

To Authors Seeking a Publisher
Manuscripts in all branches of literature, suitable for publication in book form, are required by an established house. Liberal terms. No charge for examination. Prompt attention and honorable treatment. "Books," 141 Herald, 23d Street, New York.

Folks in Funnyville
By F. OPPER
Price, $1.50.
R. H. RUSSELL, 3 W. 29th St., N. Y.

Have You Read
"Resurrection"?

SLAUGHTER SALE
of Publishers' Samples.
Many Standard Works in Handsome Bindings.
148 FULTON STREET, NEW YORK.

Three Great Small Books.
1. The Idea of God.
2. The Destiny of Man.
3. Through Nature to God.
BY JOHN FISKE. $1.00 EACH.
HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.

IN THE PALACE OF THE KING.
F. Marion Crawford's new novel is "head and shoulders above recent books of its class"; "of marvellous power and exceptional brilliancy," say the critics.

Pocket Size Standard Novels.
Dickens's and Thackeray's Works. Thinnest printing paper in the world used. Large type, easy to read. Size 4½ by 6¾ inches, and not thicker than a monthly magazine. Prospectus mailed free on request, or books sent for inspection on receipt of price. THOS. NELSON & SONS, 37 and 39 East 18th St., New York.

ANY BOOKS, OLD OR NEW, SUPPLIED TO ORDER. Send for Catalogue. Libraries purchased. Orders by mail receive prompt attention. BAKER'S BOOK EXCHANGE, 846 Broadway, New York City.

BOOKS RECEIVED.

Up to and including Thursday afternoon.

HISTORY AND BIOGRAPHY.

ORESTES A. BROWNSON'S LATER LIFE. From 1856 to 1876. By Henry F. Brownson. 8vo. Pp. 629. Detroit, Mich.: H. F. Brownson, publisher.

CONRAD WEISER AND THE INDIAN POLICY OF COLONIAL PENNSYLVANIA. By Joseph S. Walton. 8vo. Pp. 420. Philadelphia: George W. Jacobs & Co. $2.50.

THE LAST YEARS OF SAINT PAUL. By the Abbe Constant Fouard. Translated with the author's sanction and co-operation by George F. X. Griffith. 12mo. Pp. xiii.-325. New York: Longmans, Green & Co. $2.

MILITARY REMINISCENCES OF THE CIVIL WAR. By Jacob Dolson Cox. In two volumes. 8vo. Pp. xvii.-549 per volume. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. $6 per set.

THE FURNITURE OF OUR FOREFATHERS. By Esther Singleton, with critical descriptions of plates by Russell Sturgis. Illustrated. Folio. Pp. xi.-75. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. $2. (Paper.)

ROYAL ASCOT. Its History and Its Associations. By George James Cawthorne and Richard S. Herod. With numerous plates and illustrations in the text. Folio. Pp. xvi.-335. New York: Longmans, Green & Co. $10.

IAN HAMILTON'S MARCH. By Winston Spencer Churchill. Together with extracts from the diary of Lieut. H. Frankland. With portraits, maps, and plans. 12mo. Pp. xii.-409. New York: Longmans, Green & Co. $1.50.

A CRITICAL EXAMINATION OF IRISH HISTORY. Being a replacement of the tales by the true from the Elizabethan Conquest to the Legislative Union of 1800. By T. Dunbar Ingram. In two volumes. 8vo. Pp. 355. New York: Longmans, Green & Co.

THE SOURCES AND LITERATURE OF ENGLISH HISTORY. From the earliest times to about 1485. By Charles Gross. 8vo. Pp. xx.-616. New York: Longmans, Green & Co.

THE REPUBLIC OF AMERICA. Its civil polity as outlined by the prophets, &c. By the Rev. L. B. Hartman. Second edition. 12mo. Pp. 110. New York: The Abbey Press. 50 cents.

THE HISTORY OF MINNESOTA AND TALES OF THE FRONTIER. By Judge Charles E. Flandrau. 8vo. Pp. vii.-408. Published by E. W. Porter.

RELIGION AND SCIENCE.

COMPARATIVE PHYSIOLOGY OF THE BRAIN AND COMPARATIVE PSYCHOLOGY. By Jacques Loeb. Illustrated. Pp. x.-309. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. $1.75.

RELIGIOUS MOVEMENT FOR SOCIAL BETTERMENT. By Dr. Josiah Strong. 12mo. Pp. 137. New York: The Baker-Taylor Company. 50 cents.

A CHURCH CALENDAR. According to the Uses of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America. A Weekly Calendar giving the order of services for every day, and quotations upon the Christian Life and the Church's Ways. New York: Thomas Whittaker. 50 cents.

THE HEART OF DAVID THE PSALMIST KING. Being Certain Bible Chronicles Set in Order to Compass the Life and to Show the Love and Zeal of the Crowned Shepherd of Israel, and Written with Dutiful Imagination in the Fuller Manner of Discourse by Augustus George Heaton. Illustrated by the author. 12mo. Pp. 389. Washington, D. C.: The Neale Company.

THE DHAMMA OF GOTAMA THE BUDDHA AND THE GOSPEL OF JESUS THE CHRIST. A Critical Inquiry Into the Alleged Relations of Buddhism with Primitive Christianity. By Charles Francis Aiken. 12mo. Pp. xvii.-348. Boston: Marlier & Co. $1.50.

SHALL WE BELIEVE IN A DIVINE PROVIDENCE? By W. D. Faunce. 12mo. New York and London: Funk & Wagnalls Co. $1.

A BOOK OF COMMON WORSHIP. Prepared under the direction of the New York State Conference of Religion by a Committee on the Possibilities of Common Worship. 18mo. Pp. xiv.-418. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons.

THE METHOD OF EVOLUTION. A Review of the Present Attitude of Science Toward the Question of the Laws and Forces Which Have Brought About the Origin of Species. By H. W. Conn. Illustrated. 12mo. Pp. ix.-408. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons.

SANITY OF MIND. A Study of Conditions and of the Means of Its Development and Preservation. By David F. Lincoln. 12mo. Pp. vi.-177. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons.

THE ROYAL HOUSES OF ISRAEL AND JUDAH: An Interwoven History with a Harmony of Parallel Passages. By George O. Little. 8vo. Pp. 351. New York and London: Funk & Wagnalls Company. $3.

SOCIALISM AND MODERN SCIENCE. (Darwin-Spencer-Marx.) By Enrico Ferri. Translated by Robert Rivee le Monta. 12mo. Pp. 213. New York: International Library Publishing Company.

EDUCATIONAL.

ELEMENTS OF ASTRONOMY. By Simon Newcomb. 12mo. Pp. 240. With illustrations. New York, Cincinnati, and Chicago: American Book Company. $1.

A READER IN PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY FOR BEGINNERS. By Richard Elwood Dodge. 12mo. Pp. ix.-237. New York: Longmans, Green & Co. 70 cents.

A SHORTER COURSE IN MUNSON PHONOGRAPHY. By James E. Munson. 12mo. Pp. xvi.-236. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons.

THE ENGLISH SENTENCE. By Lillian G. Kimball. 12mo. Pp. 244. New York, Cincinnati, and Chicago: American Book Company. 75 cents.

A NEW PRONOUNCING DICTIONARY OF THE SPANISH AND ENGLISH LANGUAGE. Compiled by Mariano Velasquez de la Cadena. Revised and enlarged by Edward Gray and Juan L. Iribas. Part First: Spanish-English. Octavo. Pp. xx.-621. New York: D. Appleton & Co.

THE THOUGHT READER. Book I. By Maud Summers. 12mo. Pp. xii.-114. Boston: Ginn & Co.

NEW EDUCATION READERS. A Synthetic and Phonic Word Method. By A. J. Demaret and William Van Sickle. Book II. Development of the Vowels. 12mo. Pp. 144. New York: The American Book Company.

THE TEACHING OF MATHEMATICS IN THE HIGHER SCHOOLS OF PRUSSIA. By J. W. A. Young. 12mo. Pp. xiv.-141. New York: Longmans, Green & Co. 80 cents.

COLLEGE ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS IN ENGLISH. For study and practice, 1901-1905. Cloth. 12mo. New York, Cincinnati, and Chicago: American Book Company. $1.

POETRY AND ESSAYS.

POETS AND POETRY OF INDIANA. A Representative Collection of the Poetry of Indiana, 1800-1900. Compiled and edited by Benjamin S. Parker and Enos B. Kelsey. With portraits. 12mo. Pp. xxiii.-464. New York: Silver, Burdett & Co.

CHRISTUS VICTOR. A Student's Reverie. By Henry Nehemiah Dodge. Second edition. 18mo. Pp. xiii.-165. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons.

LAST SONGS FROM VAGABONDIA. By Bliss Carman and Richard Hovey. Designs by Tom B. Metcalfe. 16mo. Pp. vi.-80. Boston: Small, Maynard & Co. $1.

SHADES AND SHADOWS. By Eugene Field. In two volumes. Collected by Slason Thompson. 12mo. Pp. xvi.-244. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. $2.50.

SONGS OF SORTS AND SOULS. By Walter Malone Hines. Pp. x.-168. Louisville: John P. Morton & Co.

SONGS OF LITERARY LIFE. By Henry M. Stanley. 12mo. Pp. x.-96. London: Sampson Low, Marston & Co.; Chicago: Rand, McNally & Co.

THE TRIBUNE PRIMER. By Eugene Field. With original illustrations by John C. Frohn. 16mo. Pp. 96. Boston, Mass.: Henry A. Dickerman & Son. 50 cents.

LETTERS OF CREDIT. An Alphabet of Finance. Text by Prescott Bailey Bull. Pictures by Eleanor Withey Willard. 4to. Pp. 53. Issued as a Christmas gift by the Michigan Trust Company, Grand Rapids. Paper.

YE GODS AND LITTLE FISHES. A Travesty on the Argonautic Expedition in Quest of the Golden Fleece. By James A. Henshall. 6vo. Pp. xv.-213. Cincinnati: The Robert Clark Company. $2.

LAUS VENERIS, AND OTHER POEMS. By Charles Algernon Swinburne. The Lark Classics. 18mo. Pp. xii.-149. New York: Doxey's at the Sign of the Lark.

SHAKESPEARE'S SONNETS. 18mo. Pp. 166. New York: Doxey's at the Sign of the Lark.

DESCRIPTIVE.

AMERICA PICTURESQUE AND DESCRIPTIVE. By Joel Cook. In three volumes. 12mo. Pp. about viii.-510. Philadelphia: Henry T. Coates & Co.

AN AMERICAN ENGINEER IN CHINA. By William Barclay Parsons. 12mo. Pp. 321. New York: McClure, Phillips & Co. $1.50.

CATHEDRALS OF FRANCE. Popular studies of the most interesting French cathedrals. By Epiphanius Wilson. Large folio. Over 200 illustrations. Pp. 208. New York: The Churchman Company.

THE CIVILIZATION OF THE EAST. By Dr. Fritz Hommel. 18mo. Pp. xii.-141. New York: The Macmillan Company. 40 cents.

OUR BIRD FRIENDS. A Book for All Boys and Girls. By Richard Kearton. 100 original illustrations from photographs by C. Kearton. 12mo. Pp. xvi.-215. New York: Cassell & Co.

APES AND MONKEYS; THEIR LIFE AND LANGUAGE. By R. L. Garner. Introduction by E. E. Hale. 16mo. Pp. xiii.-292. Boston: Ginn & Co.

A YEAR BOOK OF KENTUCKY WOODS AND FIELDS. By Ingram Crockett. Illustrated by author. 12mo. Pp. 112. Buffalo: Charles Wells Moulton.

FICTION.

THE LADY OF THE LILY FEET AND OTHER STORIES OF CHINATOWN. By Helen F. Clark. 12mo. Pp. 125. Philadelphia: The Griffith & Rowland Press. 50 cents.

THE LAPIDARIES AND AUNT DEBORAH HEARS "THE MESSIAH." By Mrs. Elizabeth Cheney. 12mo. Pp. 80. New York: Eaton & Maine. 30 cents.

IN THE NARROW PATH. By Paul Horboe. 16mo. Pp. 68. New Brunswick, N. J.: J. Heidingsfeld.

THE COUNTESS OF THE TENEMENTS. By Ethelbred Breeze Barry. Illustrated by the author. 12mo. Pp. 98. Boston: Dana Estes & Co.

AN ENGLISHWOMAN'S LOVE LETTERS. 12mo. Pp. 319. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.50.

THE SONG OF A HEART. Christmas Mile-Stones. By Helene Hall. 12mo. Pp. 196. Cincinnati, Ohio: The Robert Clarke Company. $1.25.

THE STORIES OF MY FOUR FRIENDS. By James Andrews. Edited by Margaret Andrews Allen. 16mo. Pp. ix.-100. Boston: Ginn & Co.

CITY BOYS IN THE COUNTRY; OR, WESTON AND HOWARD AT BEDFORD. By Clinton Osgood Burling. 12mo. Pp. 229. New York: The Abbey Press.

ONE OF OURSELVES. By L. B. Walford. 12mo. Pp. vi.-448. New York: Longmans, Green & Co. $1.50.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE COCKTAIL BOOKS. A Sideboard Manual for Gentlemen. 24mo. Pp. xi.-66. Boston: L. C. Page & Co.

THE LATER WORKS OF AUBREY BEARDSLEY. Folio. Pp. 173. New York: John Lane, The Bodley Head.

FROM MAYFLOWERS TO MISTLETOE. A Year with the Flower Folk. By Sarah J. Day. Pp. vii.-95. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. $1.

OFFICIAL CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY. For the Use of the United States Congress. Compiled under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing. By A. J. Halford. First edition. 8vo. Pp. xxi.-348. Washington: Government Printing Office.

ROCHESTER WAYS. By Charles Mulford Robinson. 24mo. Pp. 70. Rochester, N. Y.: Scranton, Wetmore & Co.

REGISTER OF THE MILITARY ORDER OF FOREIGN WARS of the United States National Commandery. 8vo. Pp. 371. New York, 1900.

ORIENTAL RUGS. By John Kimberly Mumford. Folio. Pp. xv.-278. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. $7.50.

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN ALLIANCE IN PROPHECY; OR, THE PROMISES TO THE PATHERS. By Martin Lyman Streator. Vol. I. 8vo. Pp. 565. New Haven, Conn.: Our Race Publishing Company.

A MEMORIAL OF AN INVITATION CHESS TOURNAMENT FOR MASTERS AND AMATEURS. Arranged by and played at the City of London Press Club, 7 Grocer's Hall Court, Poultry, &c., in April and May, 1900. Containing the full scores of the games played. 8vo. Pp. vii.-46. New York and London: Longmans, Green & Co. 75 cents.

WOMAN AND THE WITS. Epigrams on Woman, Love, and Beauty. Collected and edited by G. F. Mogkahood. 12mo. Pp. 173. New York: A. Wessels Company.

HOLY MATRIMONY. By the Rev. W. J. Knox Little. 12mo. Pp. x.-296. New York and London: Longmans, Green & Co. $1.50.

SELECTED LETTERS OF VOLTAIRE. Edited for School Use by L. C. Syms. 12mo. Pp. 249. With portrait. New York, Cincinnati, and Chicago: American Book Company. 75 cents.

FOLK-LORE STORIES AND PROVERBS. Gathered and Paraphrased for Little Children. By Sara E. Wiltse. Illustrations by Edith Brown. 12mo. Pp. 81. Boston: Ginn & Co.

THE HIND IN THE WOOD, BEAUTY AND THE BEAST, and THE FROG PRINCE. In three volumes. (Pamphlets.) 8vo. Pp. about 8 per vol. Reissues. Walter Crane's picture books. London and New York: John Lane.

A YANKEE CRUSOE OF THE GOLDEN TREASURE OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS. By Allan Eric. 12mo. Pp. 262. Boston: Henry A. Dickerman & Son. $1.25.

THE ANATOMY OF A RAILROAD REPORT AND TON-MILE COST. By Thomas F. Woodlock. 12mo. Pp. 121. New York, 49 Park Place: E. A. Nelson. $1.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONER OF NAVIGATION FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDED JUNE 30, 1900. Octavo. Pp. 442. Washington: Government Printing Office.

"DAILY MAIL" TRADE BOOK. Twenty Thousand Facts of the Day, Biographies, Tables, Diagrams, and Maps, for 1901. Edited by Percy L. Parker. 12mo. Pp. 384. London, England: Harmsworth Brothers, Ltd.

THE ETIQUETTES OF CORRESPONDENCE. Being Illustrations and Suggestions as to the Proper Form in Present Usage of Social Calls, Domestic Art, Letters. By Eva R. Gavit. 12mo. Pp. x.-214. New York: A. Wessels Company. $1.25.

THE CHINESE BOOK OF ETIQUETTE AND CONDUCT FOR WOMEN AND GIRLS. Entitled Instruction for Chinese Women and Girls. By Lady Tsao. Translated from the Chinese by Mrs. S. L. Baldwin. 12mo. New York: Scott & Bowne. 75 cents.

INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION, PARIS, 1900. Official Catalogue. Exposition of the Government of the United States. Octavo. Pp. 1,000. Washington: Government Printing Office.

The Catalogue for the Second Portion of The McKee Library
(The Drama)
will be issued in a few days.
Price One Dollar. Refunded to Purchasers.
A choice collection of FRENCH BOOKS, many relating to the TWO AMERICAS, especially to CANADA, will be sold on the evenings of Jan. 3 and 4, 1901.
JOHN ANDERSON, Jr.,
34 West 30th St., New York.

A CALENDAR OF OLD NEW YORK
Compiled by Charles Hemstreet,
Author of "Nooks and Corners of Old New York."
A beautiful and charming calendar, reminiscent of the early days of Manhattan, containing sketches of interesting and historic spots, with appropriate text and introduction by Mr. Hemstreet. Half tone remarque views of the same spots as they appear to-day add to its attractiveness.
Beautifully Printed, ribbon tied and boxed. Price $1.00 postpaid.
A. WESSELS CO., 7-9 W. 18th St., N. Y.

Third Old World Edition Now Ready.
THE KASÎDAH OF HÂJÎ ABDÛ EL-YEZDÎ
TRANSLATED AND ANNOTATED BY HIS FRIEND AND PUPIL, F. B.
That "The Kasidah" of Sir Richard Francis Burton will eventually rank next after FitzGerald's "Rubaiyat" is already becoming the opinion of competent critics. "It is brutal in its anti-theism, and yet it has a certain tender grace of melancholy, deeper than Omar's own. It is devoid of Omer's mysticism and epicureanism, and appallingly synthetic. . . . It is difficult to interpret because it so clearly interprets itself. It must be read. It cannot be 'explained.' . . . It is Edward FitzGerald minus the vine and the rose and all Persian silkiness." 925 copies on Van Gelder hand-made paper, $1.00 net.
100 copies on Japan vellum, $2.50 net.
Sent postpaid and delivery guaranteed by the publisher, on receipt of net price.
THOMAS B. MOSHER,
PORTLAND, MAINE.

WANTED!
THE UNIVERSITY SOCIETY,
78 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City, would like to secure full reports of the following lectures by Mark Twain:
"The Sandwich Islands," "Nevada," & "The Vandal American in Europe."
$5.00 apiece will be paid for a full report of these lectures.
Any redaer of The Times Literary Supplement who may have the above lectures preserved in a scrapbook will confer a favor by communicating with us.

"The most American story I ever read."
Dr. John Henry Barrows.
The Darlingtons,
An American Novel.
By ELMORE ELLIOTT PEAKE.
Published (Cloth, 12mo, $1.50) by
McCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO., New York

Books of To-day.
M. F. Mansfield,
Publisher,
14 West 22d St.,
New York.

In Memoriam
By Lord Tennyson
De luxe edition
Royal 8vo, $2.50 net
The Book of Omar and Rubaiyat
Pictorial and Literary Miscellany
8vo, antique boards, $1.75 net.

The Times' Musical Critic,
Mr. W. J. HENDERSON, says of
LAVIGNAC'S MUSIC AND MUSICIANS:
2d Impression. Ill'd. 504 pp. $3.
"It is one of the most important books on music that has ever been published. . . . A style which can fairly be described as fascinating."
HENRY HOLT & CO., 29 W. 23d St.

NEW GOLLIWOGG BOOK.
The Golliwogg' Polar Adventures.
Illustrated in color by FLORENCE K. UPTON. With verses by BERTHA UPTON. Oblong 4to, boards, $2.00.
LONGMANS, GREEN & CO., N. Y.

A New Volume by Dr. Theodore F. Wolfe.
LITERARY RAMBLES AT HOME AND ABROAD
By the author of "Literary Shrines," "A Literary Pilgrimage," and "Literary Haunts and Byeways." Illustrated with photogravures. Duodecimo. $1.25.
J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY, Publishers, Philadelphia.

NOTE TRUSTEES AND THOSE WHOSE PROPERTY IS HELD IN TRUST SHOULD SEND $1.50
FOR LORING'S TRUSTEES HANDBOOK
Little, Brown & Co., Publishers,

ENGLAND IN EGYPT.

A Volume by the Late Henry D. Traill.*

From the days of its ancient and middle and new empires to the present the land of Egypt has been the spoil of successive conquerors, and its defenseless position and the weakness of its native inhabitants have rendered it in turn the prey of African potentates, Persian and Macedonian Kings, Roman Caesars, Mamelukes, and Turkish Sultans. The last conqueror of all is John Bull, and it is mainly with the doings of that progressive individual in the land that Mr. Traill's new book on "England, Egypt, and the Sudan" is concerned. It is a most instructive and entertaining history, and particularly apropos at the present moment of our new colonial adventurings, and the little amiable controversy that we are having with John over the Nicaragua Canal and our right to protect our interests therein.

John Bull is the last man who should protest against anything we do on the American isthmus, since Lord Wolseley's masterly strategy in 1882, by which he seized and held control of the Suez Canal for England under the plea of military necessity furnishes a precedent and example we must always keep before our eyes. The treaty which was executed in October, 1888, leaves the canal in a somewhat peculiar status, wherein we may trace the subtle influence of British diplomacy, of which we have lately had so pretty an instance. The Suez Canal is not "internationalized." It is not even fully neutralized. It is merely clothed, as Lord Granville puts it, with that neutrality "which attaches by international law to the territorial waters of a neutral State in which a right of innocent passage for belligerent vessels exists, but no right to commit any act of hostility." And Mr. Traill goes on to say: "To a power which commands the sea these restrictions are innocuous. As she can prevent their being turned to her disadvantage, she should be under no temptation to violate them. How they would stand the strain of war under difficult conditions is another question." A question which, in our dealings with England, we were wisely electing to consider in advance!

Other chapters of Mr. Traill's book are concerned with the establishment of the Khédivate, the reign of Ismail Pasha, and the days of the Debt Commission, followed by the establishment of the Anglo-French condominium in Egypt, which was to come to so sudden and dramatic an end before Alexandria in 1882. A full and interesting account of Arabi and the rebellion follows, and the raising of the cry of "Egypt for the Egyptians" in the land, which was the signal for its passing apparently permanently out of their grasp. The bombardment and fall of Alexandria and the battle of Tel-el-Kebir, followed by the quick collapse of the rebellion, were just the excuses England needed to enter and assert her sovereignty under the plea of protection of her bondholders and the canal and the necessity of instituting reforms in the civil and military administration of the Khédivate.

"The territorial dominion of our country and her power beyond the seas have in the course of history been extended often by unconscious and unwilling hands; but of all our empire builders malgré eux, there has been none to compare in unreadiness and reluctancy with Mr. Gladstone. It was the very irony of fate that laid upon him, first the establishment, and afterward the extension of British authority in Egypt."

From which text our author proceeds to argue out the good faith of England in this matter. Since, had she really possessed any sincere designs of conquest in 1883, it was a strange spectacle, that of her Prime Minister doing his level best to beat a retreat out of the Soudan and leave it to the tender mercies of the Mahdi and his fanatical followers. Events, however, were too strong for him. The "finger of destiny" was at work, and it was pointing, as it generally does point in such cases, to exactly the spot England wanted it to point, even though, as it is asserted, she did not recognize the fact at the time.

The ill-fated expedition of Hicks Pasha was followed by the selection of Gordon as Governor of the Soudan, and the chapter of history which opens with the entry of his heroic figure into the walls of the palace of Khartoum, and closes with the march of the bloodthirsty dervishes into the captured stronghold, is, says Mr. Traill, "at once so glorious and shameful, that if an Englishman were endowed with the power denied to the gods, of undoing the past, he might well hesitate whether to preserve or destroy it."

The particulars of Gordon's heroic defense of Khartoum, the criminal inactivity of the home Ministry until it was too late to rescue him, and the storm that arose in England when the fate of their martyred General became known there, are all treated at length by the author, and his story of the subsequent avenging of Gordon by the hosts of the Sirdar's army and the death of the Khalifa and the annihilation of his army of dervishes, although fresh in the public mind, reads like a chapter of romance, when told by Mr. Traill in his flowing and dramatic style. "L'Affaire Marchand," which came so perilously near to involving England in war with France and setting all of Europe aflame, is also fully discussed in all its phases, and the stand that England took in the matter finds ample justification at the author's hands. "The meeting of the representatives of the two great Western powers in this remote region—the clash of their secular rivalries at this furthest limit of the ancient country for the control of which they had so long competed—is one of the most dramatic incidents in modern history," and it was a fortunate thing for the peace of the world that France decided to recede from her position at Fashoda, and leave the Upper Soudan to the undivided domination of her great rival.

Mr. Traill finally reaches the conclusion he started out to attain—that England has been selected by an inscrutable Providence as the guardian angel of the destiny of Egypt, and that it is now impossible for her to abandon the land of the Ptolemies to its fate, since it would immediately become the spoil of the other powers, and all the work that she has done there "in the interests of humanity" would be lost.

"Now," adds Mr. Traill, significantly, "can there be any one among those powers who doubts that, whatever efforts may be made either by diplomacy or by arms to dislodge her, she will never suffer herself to be driven from this post of duty by anything short of the overthrow of her naval supremacy and the collapse of her empire?"

Which of us in America to-day can say that we have not profited by her example and logic, or which of us now shall cast the first stone at her?

*ENGLAND, EGYPT, AND THE SUDAN. By H. D. Traill, D. C. L. Four maps. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co. Westminster: A. Constable & Co., Ltd. Price, $5.

Tardy Appreciation of Markham.

To The New York Times Saturday Review:

Few things are more commonly understood than the frequent fate of genius to fall of adequate recognition during the life of its possessor. An example of unusual note, it seems to me, is furnished by Edwin Markham. If his verse has ever been equaled in point of sustained, purposeful strength in any language or any age, I have not yet been favored with an inkling of it. Many, too many, there are, heedless if not ungenerous, that will look askance at one who, like myself, presumes boldly to declare the faith that is in him and ventures the prophecy that the next and succeeding generations will award Edwin Markham the laurel of supreme singer that is denied him now. I say this notwithstanding the just recognition already accorded him by the discerning.

Some find him only a prophet of despair. I find him much more. Upon no one's sensibilities grate the vaporings of mere cynic and pessimist more harshly than upon mine. But beneath the seeming pessimism of Markham may be detected readily an undertone of hope, an undeviating motive and purpose born of righteousness and truth undying. Discontent may be there. Granted. But discontent—aye, rebellious, incendiary discontent—has always been the foundation of real progress and reform, from Babylon to Bethlehem, from Runnymede to Manila Bay.

The wounded soul that cries out in the night breathes less of despair than an indefinable something that makes for the removal of conditions in which suffering is possible. Markham laments the injustice and inequalities endured by most of the race, and his muse, with majestic largeness of thought and stupendous power of feeling and expression, would batter down the walls of selfishness and oppression that from their ruins may rise the temple of a truer brotherhood.

His trend is never ignoble. His message is always uplifting if revolutionary. His genius is dedicated not only to the creation of poetic imageries, but to the high and practical service of man. While other poets merely gratify our love of beauty, approach our ideals of perfected art, or even reach and sway the heart with note of human interest, Markham pierces and shatters the Harveyized armor of error, prejudice, caste, ignorance, narrowness, and convention. Others compel us to tear our garments and prick our fingers with the brambles of long, patient study and speculation ere we pluck the rose. Markham, presenting no chance for misconstruction, drives straight at the marrow and fairly sweeps us off our feet with an onrush of cyclonic intensity. It has been and is for others, soaring on sure wing, to flood the empyrean with delicate traceries of harmony; but it is for this warrior of song to mount on chariot of fire and thunder at the very gates of the infinite!

In his hands we witness the successful experiment of poesy, in a way, wedded to science. The ludicrous incompatibility that might result from such attempt by one less skillful is here avoided. Indeed, the beauty of the one and the yet unfathomed power of the other are here fused so happily that a genuine innovation in English literature is the outcome. Shelley, too, was a scientist; but it was not for him thus to merge two systems of thought and action normally so heterogeneous. How well Markham has achieved the feat let these lines (speaking of man) from "The Mighty Hundred Years" attest, also illustrating the free, breezy, daring range of treatment so characteristic of this poet:

Yea, in the shaping of a grain of sand,
He sees the law that made the spheres to be—
Sees atom-worlds spun by the Hidden Hand,
To whirl about their small Alcyone.

With spell of wizard Science on his eyes,
And augment on his arm, he probes through space;
Or pushes back the low, unfriendly skies,
To feel the wind of Saturn on his face.

He walks abroad upon the Zodiac,
To weigh the worlds in balances, to fuse
Suns in his crucible, and carry back
The spheral music and the cosmic news.

If environment wields the influence claimed for it—and who doubts it?—Edwin Markham was enviably well fitted for masterful song. Most of his life was passed in the inspiring Pacific Coast region. His vision found universal scope on mountain chains, in sight of the sovereign of oceans, in the awful shadows of the arctic summits and verdured breasts of Hood, of Shasta, of Rainier. The stormy poet soul drank music in the distant midnight tumult of contending wild beasts, the crunching slide of the deadly avalanche. In those vast cañons and valleys he was wooed to introspective thought by the tinkle of Summer rivulets, the minora of Winter's breath among pines. These grew into him as he into them. He was not with them, but of them. What wonder, then, that he emerged, when the time arrived, from this protracted intimacy with the sublimest guise of nature the globe affords, equipped for bardic utterance that dwarfs compeers to pigmies?

The world that may raise eyebrows in dissenting surprise at these conclusions is destined to subscribe to them. But the hour has not yet struck.

But a few weeks before his death, my beloved fellow-townsman, Senator Cushman K. Davis, little realizing how soon his words would apply aptly to his own case, voiced eloquently this pathetic idea of posthumous appreciation. In an address at the unveiling of the statue of ex-Gov. John S. Pillsbury on the campus of the University of Minnesota, the Senator said:

Too often the world does not know that it has received largess from a hand of more than impartial bounty, until it comes time to lay garlands over a face upturned in the blindness of eternal sleep, and to speak vain words at the closed door of the chamber in which no sound is heard.

JOHN TALMAN.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 17, 1900.

BENJAMIN HARRISON

has prepared for the consideration of his fellow citizens an exhaustive study of the status of the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico, with certain observations regarding the probable effect of a continuance of the present policy of the Administration. The reports of his recent address upon this subject were garbled and very unsatisfactory to the author. The first complete revised expression of his views appears in the January number of the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, published to-day.

RUSSELL A. ALGER

is writing for publication by Harper and Brothers a history of the war with Spain while he was Secretary of War. The most virile chapter in the book relates to the sensational charges of General Miles regarding the quality of the food supplied to our soldiers. In it General Alger does not hesitate to express his personal opinion of the author of the charges. This chapter of history appears in the January number of the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, published to-day.

ALFRED HARMSWORTH,

the most famous journalist of Great Britain, is now in this country. Mr. Harmsworth foresees the formation of a Newspaper Trust during the Twentieth Century. He also holds exceedingly interesting views regarding the daily journals of this country, and has embodied them in an article which appears in the January number of the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, published to-day.

M. DE BLOWITZ,

the famous correspondent of the London Times, and perhaps the most competent of political observers, anticipates most extraordinary changes among the peoples of the earth during the next hundred years. His exhaustive statement of present conditions and his forecast of the future are presented in the January number of the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, published to-day.

SIR ROBERT HART

has collected the customs revenues of China for a score or more of years, and is universally recognized as the highest authority upon the trade conditions and possibilities of the Empire. Following is a copy of a letter recently received from him:

Peking, 9 Oct., 1900

DEAR MR. HARVEY: I wrote a paper on "Foreign Trade in China," as requested, and sent you a well written copy on the 18th of September.

The letter carrier never reached Tientsin and has never since been heard of. I fear he fell into the hands of the Boxers—who are still around us— and perished.

I now send you another copy which I have run off quickly myself. I hope you will not find it difficult to read. I am not sure I have covered all the ground the request suggested, but I consider the paper a reasonable presentation of the question from a Chinese point of view, which may be useful.

We are in a chaotic condition here just now, and what will be the future of China is hard to say. Believe me, very truly yours,

ROBERT HART.

The article to which Sir Robert refers, done laboriously by his own hand, appears in the January number of the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, published to-day.

THE DUKE OF ARGYLL

is a close student of the politics, now so troublous, of Great Britain. He finds this a suitable time for the publication of a review of the situation. It appears in the January number of the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, published to-day.

D. MENANT

is the author of a most interesting article upon Zoroastrianism and the Parsis, constituting the fifth in the series upon the "Great Religions of the World," which has attracted so much attention. It appears in the January number of the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, published to-day.

W. D. HOWELLS

has written a review of "A Hundred Years of American Verse." It is printed in the January number of the NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, published to-day.

* * * * * * * * *

"The New Power in the South Pacific," "The Ship Subsidy Bill," and "Some Interpreters of Wagner," are timely and interesting topics. They are discussed in most readable articles, which appear in the

JANUARY NUMBER

OF THE

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW

Published To-day. For Sale Everywhere.

SUNDAY, THREE CENTS. DAILY, ONE CENT.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

The New York Times.

THE WEATHER. Fair; fresh westerly winds.

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY.

VOL. L...NO. 15,905. NEW YORK, SUNDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1900.—TWENTY-FOUR PAGES. PRICE THREE CENTS.

MANY FAILURES IN LONDON

London and Globe Finance Corporation Suspends Payment.

This Leads to the Failure of Thirteen Stock Exchange Firms—Lord Dufferin Chairman of the London and Globe.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The London and Globe Finance Corporation, Limited, has suspended payment.

When the brokers on Friday delivered stock purchased on account of the London and Globe and asked for payment they received checks, which were dishonored. This was followed yesterday by the failure on the Stock Exchange of thirteen firms, as follows:

Haggard, Hale & Pixley, Garle & Driver, Douglas, Jr., & Co., Cornfoot Brothers, F. A. Cohen, Blockey & Buckingham, Gunn & Aubrey, Richards & Sloper, Baker & Smith, F. C. Watts & Co., Flower & Co., F. Boully & Co., and Bartholomew & Jacks. The first named is a big firm with important connections.

The failures involve twenty-eight members of the Stock Exchange, and are equally divided among jobbers and brokers.

Yesterday was generally regarded in the mining market as being the blackest day since the Baring smash, which was disastrous to all departments. Yesterday's crisis, however, did not extend to the other markets, though most of them closed depressed. Americans were incidentally affected, owing to some of the firms which failed being interested in American securities.

The London and Globe is a highly speculative financing company which has met with much adverse criticism during the last few years. The Chairman is the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, the former Governor-General of Canada and British Ambassador at Paris. The failure of the concern of which he is the head adds one more sorrow to the closing chapter of his life, for he is now preparing to start for South Africa, in company with Lady Dufferin, in consequence of the serious condition of his son, Lieut. Frederick Temple Blackwood, a Lieutenant in the Ninth Lancers, who was wounded on Monday at Glentontein. It is scarcely a year ago since Lord Dufferin lost his eldest son, the Earl of Ava, who died from wounds at Ladysmith. He is now oppressed by family grief, while his honored name is dragged in the financial mire.

Lord Dufferin's fellow-Directors are Whitaker Wright, who is well known in connection with many companies; Lieut. Gen., the Hon. Somerset J. Gough-Calthorpe, who has been Colonel in Chief of the Fifth Dragoon Guards since 1892, and Lord Edward William Pelham-Clinton, Master of the Queen's Household and a son of the fifth Duke of Newcastle. Lord Dufferin holds 5,000 shares of the London and Globe and 20,000 British Americas.

The London and Globe is said to be largely interested in the Baker Street-Waterloo Electric Railroad, and the trouble is partially attributed to the money it has tied up in that road. The London and Globe is also heavily involved in the British Columbian market.

The situation is not yet cleared up, as rumors of arrangements to assist the London and Globe are not credited in well-informed circles. There is the greatest indignation against Whitaker Wright, who is the fountain head of the concern, and others of the London and Globe group. The latter, however, are said to have been largely the victims of circumstances. They had at the last moment exceptionally heavy calls from banks at a time when fresh loans were practically impossible to obtain.

Almost the whole interest on the Stock Exchange yesterday centred in the West Australian market. All the shares of the London and Globe group toppled, especially Lake Views and Le Roi No. 2. The shares of the latter were on Friday quoted at 23, but yesterday they were unsalable at 4. Many of the shares of the West Australian and other groups were absolutely unsalable. Since Thursday Lake Views have lost 5¼. The British America Corporation shares were quoted on Thursday at 13s. 3d. Yesterday they were 10s., after being 8s. London and Globe shares fell from 14s. to 6s. 6d., but recovered to 9s. 6d.

Although there is some nervousness in regard to speculative shares generally, lest the public should become alarmed, it is thought that probably the worst is known.

The Sunday Special's financial article explains that the failure of the first three firms mentioned in the dispatch left large blocks of stocks unprotected, and in self-protection ten more firms announced their suspension. Other suspensions may occur to-morrow. Several of the suspended firms will, it is said, turn out to be perfectly solvent when time is given to them.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 29.—A. R. Flower of the firm of Flower & Co. of New York City, when he saw the dispatch relating to the failure of Flower & Co. in London, said that the London company was an entirely different concern, and had no connection whatever with Flower & Co. of New York.

The Berlin Bank Troubles.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—The mortgage bondholders of the Deutsche Grundschuld Bank, representing 79,626,300 marks out of 94,865,-906 marks, to-day decided to allow the payment of interest to be suspended until further notice, provided the company shall liquidate. The shareholders later met and decided to liquidate. The Chairman of the meeting at which this decision was reached depressed the shareholders by announcing that Edward Schmidt, President of the Supervisory Council of the Prussian Hypotheken Aktien Bank, had been arrested.

Canadian Markets Little Affected.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 29.—A member of one of the principal firms of stock brokers said to-day that the financial collapse in London would have little or no effect in either the Montreal or Toronto market. Very little, if any, of Le Roi No. 2 stock is held here.

BOND CONCERN INSOLVENT?

Receivership Action Begun Against a Baltimore Company.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29.—Judge Stockbridge, on application, to-day issued an order against the Mutual Fidelity Company, a bond concern, to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to take charge of the company's affairs. Attorney General Rayner informed the Court that the State officials are making an investigation of the company's affairs, and, if the results warrant, the State will intervene at the proper time. The bill of complaint includes both the Delaware and Maryland companies, which are supposed to be one and the same thing, but possess different charters.

The bill alleges that the provisions of both the Maryland and Delaware charters are not observed by the company, its real business being that of conducting an alleged bond investment business altogether different from the charter provisions; that the business carried on is fraudulent in every particular and only a scheme devised for the purpose of inducing people by fraudulent methods to purchase contracts.

It is further recited that the company or companies are hopelessly insolvent and cannot meet their obligations. It is likely that several other concerns in Baltimore will go under as a result of the investigation now in progress.

There's Not a Joy the World Can Give that equals Evans' Ale.—Adv.

REMEMBER this is "Hospital Sunday."—Adv.

THE DANISH WEST INDIES.

United States Has Offered $3,240,000 for Them.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 29.—United States Minister Swenson has informed the Danish Government that the United States offers 12,000,000 kroner (a little over $3,240,000) for the Danish Antilles and will not give more.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The negotiations between the Government of the United States and the Government of Denmark have been in progress, though intermittently, for the past two years. In the earlier stages something was attempted here through the resident Minister of Denmark, Constantin Brun, and one Capt. Christmas Dirkfeldt, but while these efforts laid the foundation for what followed in Europe, they could not be regarded as successful, and after mature consideration the State Department decided that Mr. Swenson, the United States Minister to Denmark, was the best person to deal with the case in the interest of this country. Therefore he received full instructions and some measure of authority.

He had nearly succeeded in his object last Spring, when, through an internal change in Denmark, the Minister of Foreign Affairs was displaced. The new Minister was opposed to the transfer of the islands to the United States, and a wave of patriotic feeling swept over the country, before which the Government was obliged to yield, and the negotiations were suspended for a time.

Now, however, a change has taken place in the public mind of Denmark, and the present Minister of Foreign Affairs has, it is believed here, reluctantly come to the conclusion that, for financial reasons, it is scarcely possible to hold on to the islands. Their export trade, normally in large part with the United States, has been greatly depressed, and, though the commerce might yield sufficient taxation under unrestrained intercourse with the United States to make the islands self-sustaining, at present they are a drag on Denmark, and the Danish Government is obliged to make good a considerable deficit on their account.

It is impossible to learn whether the sum named in the Copenhagen dispatch as offered by Minister Swenson—12,000,000 kroner—is the maximum price to be offered. Purely business reasons would account for the official silence. It is gathered that Mr. Swenson was allowed considerable latitude in dealing with the matter, but it is intimated here that he has about reached the end of his power on this point.

Of course an acceptance of the proposition by the Danish Government would not complete the transaction. The transfer can be accomplished only under the terms of a treaty which must be accepted by the United States Senate. And in addition, owing to the necessity for providing the money to be paid for the islands, the House of Representatives must have its say, as it would be called upon to make the necessary appropriation. The treaty would undoubtedly consume much time in due consideration, basing the belief on the course assumed by the Senate up to this point in passing upon treaties. As scarcely more than two months remain to the present session of Congress, speedy action would be required on the part of the negotiators at Copenhagen in order that there may be a reasonable chance for action upon the treaty before the adjournment.

BOSTON ELECTRIC LIGHT DEAL.

Edison and Boston Companies to be Combined to Eliminate Competition, It Is Said.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—The efforts which have been making for four years now to unite the Edison and the Boston Electric Light Company are about to succeed, if, indeed, they have not succeeded already. A meeting of the stockholders of each corporation will be held within a fortnight. Each company pays 8 per cent. dividends and earns a great deal more. The new plan is to eliminate competition and to enable the stockholders to receive the largest surplus earnings.

J. P. Morgan is the largest stockholder in the Edison concern, and it is he who has arranged the details of the proposed consolidation. Very few of the stockholders know anything of the plan. A few, however, have had an inkling of what is coming, and have bought all the stocks of each company that have been offered for several weeks past, steadily advancing the quotations, though without attracting attention.

Both the present companies, according to the plan, are to be leased to a new company, which will agree to pay 10 per cent. on each stock, giving to them an almost immediate market value of $240 or $250 a share, against $215, the value to-day. The stock of the new company is to be offered to the stockholders of the two present companies, pro rata, and it is expected that the surplus earnings and increased business will pay large dividends upon this new issue.

PIG IRON PRODUCTION IN 1900.

Southern Exports This Year Heaviest on Record by 15,000 Tons.

Special to The New York Times.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 29.—Shipments of pig iron from Alabama and Tennessee for the first eleven months of 1900 were 1,200,000 tons.

From the Birmingham district, which furnishes all the pig iron exported, 210,000 tons were shipped. Cast iron pipe shipments from Alabama and Tennessee for the eleven months were 80,000 tons, and from the Birmingham district alone 30,000 tons were exported.

The amount of pig iron exported this year will be the heaviest on record by 15,000 tons, and will exceed last year by 65,000 tons.

In other departments shipments show a falling off, but this year they represent only the pig iron made this year, while last year accumulated stocks were disposed of, showing that there was an increase in production this year.

CANADIAN BANK DEAL CLOSED.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Dec. 29.—The Dominion Government has passed an order in Council approving the agreement between the Canadian Bank of Commerce and the Bank of British Columbia, whereby the former takes over the latter.

The purchase by the Bank of Commerce of the Bank of British Columbia was made some time ago, but under the new bank act the agreement had to be ratified by the Government and published afterward in the official gazette. The Cabinet has now passed the necessary order, and the bargain has therefore become final and binding upon both parties.

BACKMAN'S EFFECTS SOLD.

Special to The New York Times.

GOSHEN, N. Y., Dec. 29.—The personal effects of the late Charles Backman, famous as the founder of the Stony Ford Stud, were sold at auction to-day. The friends of Mr. Backman paid fabulous prices for chairs, robes, watches, &c. W. B. Dickerman bought a grandfather's clock for $150, John McCarty paid $65 for a bearskin robe, Gen. Tracy, $40 for a chair; James C. Vanuxyse, $100 for a sideboard; Capt. Tuthill bought robes at an average of $50 each, W. P. Thompson paid $14 for a Turkish chair.

The old mahogany secretary, at which many famous men, including Gen. Grant, had sat, went to Dean Sage of Albany for a large sum. Other purchasers were J. Howard Ford, and H. R. C. Watson. Many pieces of ancient mahogany were bid in quietly for prominent persons at remarkably high prices.

To Washington in Five Hours

From New York, Royal Blue 5-hour trains, leave foot of liberty St. 11:30 A. M., 1:00 P. M., and the "Royal Limited"—no excess fare—at 3:40 P. M. Other fast solid trains at 8:00, 10:00 A. M., 1:30, 5:00, 7:00 P. M., and 12:15 midnight. Leave South Ferry 5 minutes earlier. Best dining car and cafe car service in the world.—Adv.

YOUNG BURNZ IS GUILTY

Murder in the Second Degree for Killing Herbert Fellows.

Sentenced to Sing Sing for Life—Justice Keogh's Charge on the Crime and Insanity Defense.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Edgar C. Burnz has been found guilty of murder in the second degree for killing Herbert B. Fellows, the Scarsdale station agent and Postmaster. His trial was begun in the Supreme Court, before Justice Keogh, on Dec. 17, and came to a close to-night.

At 9:10 the jury came in and asked Judge Keogh if Burnz would be sentenced to imprisonment for life if they found him guilty of murder in the second degree. The Judge said he would, under the law.

The jury again retired, and at 9:20 announced that they had come to an agreement, the verdict being murder in the second degree.

Judge Keogh at once sentenced Burnz to prison for life. The young man showed no sign of emotion.

With the evidence all in when the court closed on Friday night, to-day's session was given up to the summing up by the lawyers and the charge of the Judge to the jury. The court-room, which has been crowded every day since the trial began, was jammed with spectators until there was scarcely breathing space.

Ex-Judge Isaac N. Mills, who conducted the examination of the witnesses for the defense, summed up for Burnz, and spoke for nearly four hours, finishing at 3 P. M.

District Attorney Andrews then proceeded to dissect the testimony and attempted to disprove the plea of insanity as set up by the defense as an excuse for the shooting.

Justice Keogh then delivered his charge to the jury. After giving the law relating to murder in the several degrees, he went over the history of the crime as set forth by the witnesses for the State, detailing the shooting of the station agent by the boy, who took the victim's money, and took a train for New York, where he was subsequently arrested and confessed.

"The defense conceded," continued the Justice, "that the boy shot and killed Fellows, but contend that under the law he belongs to that class which is protected by the statute which says that at the time of the act he was in a condition of mind not to know that the act was wrong. Whether this law is meritorious or not is not for the jury to question."

The Judge then reviewed the medical evidence of the defense submitted to show that a series of physical infirmities and deformities, together with the effects of various blows on the part of the boy defendant, brought about a form of insanity under which the defendant was laboring when he committed the crime.

"The prosecution is not bound in the first instance," continued the charge, "to prove the insanity of the defendant; but when that question was raised then the people had to meet it with expert testimony, and they testified that they saw no evidences of insanity. The learning and skill of experts are infinitely inferior to their integrity, and the jury must be impressed that the expert was an honest man and testified only on his learning and not act with suspicious zeal and anxiety as to the result of the trial."

The Judge's charge lasted until 6:30 o'clock, when the jurors were taken out to dinner. At 7:30 o'clock they returned to deliberate upon their verdict.

WILL SUE ELECTRIC ROADS.

Hartford Man Says His Trolley-Car Patents Are Infringed Upon All Over the World.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 29.—Benson Bidwell of Hartford will bring suit in the near future in many of the United States District Courts of the country against over a hundred electric road corporations for infringements of patents.

Bidwell some fifteen years ago evolved a system of applying electricity to trolley car propulsion identical, he asserts, with the systems now used by trolley roads all over the country. For this invention which he says was patented he never received any remuneration, though trolley companies throughout the world are using it. He asks damages and royalties for the fifteen years, the whole sum amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars. His suits will also be brought abroad, where his system is used.

BIG CLEVELAND REALTY SUIT.

Claimants to Leonard Case Estate Begin Action for Millions.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29.—A suit involving the ownership of many millions of dollars' worth of property in this city and for $1,500,000 damages for being excluded from the rents and profits of the same was commenced to-day by claimants to the estate of Leonard Case, who died in 1880. The defendants in the suit are about 500 in number, being the persons who now have title to and possession of the property formerly belonging to Leonard Case.

The plaintiffs, nine in number, allege they are the rightful heirs to the property. Two of the claimants, Joel and Waters Cummings, declare they are sons of Mr. Case's sister. The basis of the claims of the claimants is that cousins cannot become heirs to property against a sister, the Case estate having largely been left to cousins of the millionaire.

CHICAGO REAL ESTATE IN 1900.

Value of Transfers $20,000,000 Less than for the Preceding Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The number of transfers of real estate for the year 1000 was larger than for the preceding year, but their value was less by $20,000,000. The value was also smaller than for any year since the World's Fair boom began, being only $87,917,998.

The totals for previous years were: 1898, $93,100,276; 1897, $101,105,313; 1896, $91,022,625; 1895, $114,597,724; 1894, $99,277,445; 1893, $101,386,357; 1892, $153,109,047.

RED CROSS MEMBERS EXERCISED.

Report that New Year's Greetings Cost $11,000 in Tolls Annoys Them.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Members of the Red Cross Society are considerably concerned over the report that the organization will be compelled to pay in the neighborhood of $11,000 in cable tolls for messages sent to the United States from important personages and rulers of other countries.

Delays in the mails and on the part of the senders have necessitated cabling the messages in order that they reach New York in time for general distribution throughout this country. The messages of the Emperor of Japan and Poe Lee have been sent by cable and others are now in transmission. Each message contains about 400 words, and the unexpected expense falls heavily on the organization.

There are forty-seven nations recognizing the Geneva treaty, and the Red Cross and each of these has contributed one or more greetings to the people of the United States, the messages coming from rulers and representative men and women.

Softly Falls the Foot of Time when a bottle of Evans' Ale is before you.—Adv.

$150,000,000 TRUST FORMING.

Capitalists Seek to Combine Steel Tube Industry—Syndicate Gets Control of New English Process.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—Secret negotiations have been going on here for the last three weeks looking toward the control of the steel tube industry of the United States by organizing a combination, which, on completion, will be one of the most gigantic trusts of its kind in the country, with over $150,000,000 capital.

W. W. Gibbs, who was one of the organizers of the United Gas Improvement Company, of the International Smokeless Powder and Dynamite Company, the Marsden, and other big companies, is the prime mover in the affair, and the financial end of it is being handled by Moore & Schley of New York. The syndicate has secured the exclusive license, under American patents, to manufacture steel tubing by a new English process, which reduces the cost of manufacture nearly 50 per cent., and makes the existing method almost obsolete.

A member of the firm of Moore & Schley was seen with Mr. Gibbs in the Broad Street Station, and it is believed that they proceeded to Pittsburg together. It is said that they have gone there to confer with the Carnegie people on the allotment of stock in the big concern, applications for which have been received by Moore & Schley for three times the full amount. It is also believed that officials of the National Tube Company will be at the conference, and that important decisions will be arrived at.

John W. Gates of Chicago, Chairman of the American Steel and Wire Company, is also said to be interested in the new invention; likewise many other big steel men. It is expected that organization will be carried out within the next thirty days.

VICTORY FOR HERBERT SEELEY.

His Aunt and Brother Resign Their Trusteeship in P. T. Barnum Legacy—L. M. Ogden Appointed.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 29.—The contention that has been going on for a number of years among the heirs of P. T. Barnum culminated to-day by the filing of three deeds in the Town Clerk's office. The papers show that Mrs. Caroline C. Thompson of New York, a daughter of the showman, and Clinton Barnum Seeley, have resigned as trustees over Herbert B. Seeley of New York. They sent in their resignations the 23d of last month to the Court of Probate. These were accepted, with their accounts. Probate Judge Nobbs appointed Louis M. Ogden of New York successor to Mrs. Thompson and C. B. Seeley as trustees over Herbert Seeley. Trustee Ogden has by deed of quitclaim allowed Herbert Seeley to mortgage some of his local real estate for $25,000, which was issued to him a few days ago by the People's Savings Bank of this city.

The outcome is a victory for Herbert B. Seeley, who has been fighting for years for a release from the trusteeship held over him by his aunt, Mrs. Thompson, and his brother, Clinton Barnum Seeley. By the terms of the P. T. Barnum will, Mrs. Thompson and C. B. Seeley could waive their trusteeship over Herbert when, in their opinion, they considered him competent to look after his own property. They have steadfastly refused on the ground that they did not consider him capable. This contention has been a source of annoyance to Herbert, who has been fighting his aunt and his brother with considerable tenacity on that issue.

Herbert Seeley inherits one-ninth of the residue of the P. T. Barnum estate, and his property value in this city is moderately estimated at $250,000. The estate has been kept intact, so that to-day it yields a net income of 110 per cent., above what it did when it came into their control. Neither Mrs. Thompson nor C. B. Seeley wanted to disturb its earning power, which was one reason for continuing the trusteeship. Herbert Seeley won considerable notoriety a few years ago when he gave a bachelor dinner.

ANNEXATION PLAN IN GENEVA.

Common Council Proposes to Add 8,000,000 Square Feet to the City.

Special to The New York Times.

GENEVA, N. Y., Dec. 29.—A movement is on foot in the Geneva Common Council to have an act passed by the Legislature annexing East Geneva to Geneva. The matter has been discussed by the Council in executive session. The Aldermen refuse to talk on the subject, with the result that full particulars cannot be learned.

East Geneva, or Border City, is in Seneca County. The Council has staked out a tract of land containing about 8,000,000 square feet, which it proposes to bring within the city limits. The reason given for this movement is that, if successfully carried through, it will enable the city to raise more money by taxation. It is believed that the Republican members of the Council are in favor of it in order to make seven wards in the city and then change the boundary lines of each ward so as to make them all Republican.

MR. M'KINLEY SEES HIS DOUBLE.

Physician Who Closely Resembles the President Calls at the White House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A visitor who so greatly resembled the President as to pass for his "double" was at the White House to-day, and he came from New York.

The visitor was Dr. Luther Hazard Busbec, who has been mistaken for the President so often that he wanted to see for himself just how the President looked. When he shook hands with the President he explained the object of his visit. From a side view of the face, the resemblance was considered marvelous by many of those who witnessed the interview, but a front view was not so striking. "I wouldn't wear a silk hat in Washington for anything," said Dr. Busbee.

"It is a great honor to be like the President, but it is an awful annoyance to have people making the mistake all the time. In Washington it is different from other cities. People don't bother me here except to peer curiously at me as I sit in the hotel or walk the streets. Occasionally they lift their hats in dignified salute, but rarely molest me. Several have approached me to request favors, practical jokers having told them I was the President. In other cities, especially if the President happens to be in the same place I am in, I have much trouble. Once or twice the police had to almost rescue me from mobs of curiosity seekers. I guess I look more like the President's photographs than like the President himself.

"I have been mistaken for the President for many years, even while he was in Congress. In 1896 I had to go to Chicago on business. It was just after the President had been nominated. Many people approached me and offered to vote for me. I took it all good naturedly for some time. Finally, a big policeman came up to me one day just as I was about ready to catch a street car.

"'Mr. McKinley,' he said in the most respectful manner, 'pardon me, but we are all going to vote for you.'

"His interruption had caused me to miss the car, and with some ill-temper I said:

"'Vote and be damned.'

"As I turned away I saw a face so full of perplexity that it has always worried me to think of it."

Suit Against Washington Railroads.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29.—Col. Charles H. Green of New York filed a suit in the Superior Court to-day against the Washington and Potomac and the Point Lookout Railway Companies for $78,000. The claim is made for services and money advanced to the two companies.

Highest Champagne Record.

Last year 109,303 cases were imported of G. H. Mumm's Extra Dry. In 11 months in 1900 this quantity was conceded, being 72,169 cases more than any other brand. Special attention is called to the remarkable quality now imported.—Adv.

REMEMBER this is "Hospital Sunday."—Adv.

THE BOERS WEAKENING?

Krueger Said to Have Stated No Help Will Come from Europe.

CAPE INVADERS IN TROUBLE

Both Commandoes in Desperate Plight—British Captured at Philipstown Released by De Lisle.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—It is creditably reported, according to a dispatch from Newcastle, dated Dec. 29, that Krüger has sent word that the burghers must lay down their arms or continue fighting on their own account, as no support from Europe can be expected.

A dispatch from Naauwpoort, dated Dec. 28, reports that Col. De Lisle defeated Hertzog eighteen miles west of De Aar, capturing a number of wagons and releasing the prisoners captured at Philipstown. Lieut. Col. Grenfell forced back Kritzinger toward Venterstad.

Both commanders are in a desperate plight, and will probably never recross the Orange River.

A Standerton dispatch, dated Dec. 28, says it is estimated that 2,000 Boers were engaged in operations in North Natal, hoping to break the British line of communication. This plan failed, and the Boers were driven off in each case with more or less loss, their casualties in the past day or two numbering fifty, while the British casualties were slight.

According to a Johannesburg dispatch of Friday's date, Gen. French occupied Ventersdorp that day without opposition. This place, being a great telegraphic centre, has been much used by the Boers for the dissemination of information. The possession of Ventersdorp, Richtenburg, and Zeerust gives the British a strong hold upon that part of the country.

From Carnarvon, under yesterday's date, comes a dispatch saying that the Boers occupied Vosburg on Dec. 27 in force, and were reported to be moving on Carnarvon, where martial law had been proclaimed. The loyal Field Cornets and farmers have assured the authorities that they will remain loyal and will suppress disloyal talk.

Lord Kitchener, telegraphing from Pretoria under date of Dec. 28, reports a number of attacks made by the Boers at various points.

The only important incident was an attack on a baggage column near Greylingstad. A company with a pom pom made a sortie from Greylingstad and drove off the Boers. Capts. Radclyffe and Harvest were wounded, eight men were killed, twenty-seven wounded, and twenty were reported missing.

BLOEMFONTEIN, Dec. 28.—The British have reoccupied Ficksburg, which, for some time, has been in the hands of the Boers.

COLVILE BLAMES ROBERTS.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Major Gen. Sir Henry Edward Colvile, whose resignation has been demanded by the War Office, but who refused to resign, and who arrived in England yesterday to demand a trial by court-martial, has made a counter-strike at the War Office in a 3,000-word statement, which he has given to the press.

He says he has come home to demand a free inquiry, and does not intend to be made a scapegoat for the sake of the staff. He avers that the Lindley disaster could never have happened had he been informed of Lord Roberts's intentions. The primary cause of the surrender, he says, was the insufficient information given by the Headquarters Staff to Col. Spragge and himself, and he declines to accept the blame. He lays out the facts and blames others.

When he returned from South Africa, Gen. Colvile says, he fully acquainted the War Office with the facts. After some time he was informed by Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood, the Adjutant General, that Lord Lansdowne, then Secretary of State for War, had directed him to say that Lord Wolseley, the Commander in Chief, approved of Gen. Colvile's resuming his Gibraltar command. He learned unofficially that an army board of five of the highest officials of the War Office had considered his statements, and Lord Roberts's dispatches on the subject. His reappointment was the result of that inquiry.

To his intense surprise, Adjt. Gen. Wood on Dec. 21 notified him that Mr. Brodrick, the newly appointed Secretary of State for War, held him responsible for the loss of the Yeomanry, and ordered him to quit his command immediately and hand over his resignation.

Gen. Colvile, going into official details, says he was ordered to concentrate his division at Heilbron on May 29, and names the various dispositions of the other divisions, which extended across the Orange Free State. He assumed that Lord Roberts intended to advance, sweeping all before him. His orders were absolute, and he had to carry them out. Hence he could not go to the relief of the 600 Yeomanry without risking the success of the grand operation. Under any circumstances, he says, he considered it his duty to push on, even if he were sure it would entail the loss of the Yeomanry. Besides, he had only food enough for two days. He pushed on and the Yeomanry surrendered. Lord Roberts broke up Gen. Colvile's division and expressed his dissatisfaction.

"On my pointing out that I had obeyed his [Roberts's] orders to the letter," declares Gen. Colvile, "he said his orders were only intended as a guide."

Gen. Colvile alludes to some of the Yeomanry being millionaires, and quotes Lord Roberts as saying that it was his duty to sacrifice his force for the Yeomanry. "It will be remembered," Gen. Colvile says, "that the corps d'elite numbered 500, and my force nearly eight times that number."

Gen. Colvile cites two examples of what he considers Lord Kitchener's "defective staff work."

Gen. Colvile and his influential friends in and out of the army are thus beginning a campaign against the new Secretary of State for War, the Right Hon. William St. John Brodrick, Lord Roberts, and Gen. Kitchener. It will, it is expected, be fought out with bitterness in Parliament.

KIMBERLEY IN STRAITS AGAIN.

CRADOCK, Cape Colony, Dec. 28.—Kimberley is almost isolated by Boer raiders. No mails had reached there from Dec. 19 to Dec. 25.

Provisions are at famine prices. The military took charge of all the foodstuffs on Dec. 22.

The Leinster Regiment, commanded by Major Barry, had a skirmish, lasting four hours, with the Boers at Driefontein on Dec. 27, suffering slight losses.

The Boers at Getuk captured a convoy of twenty-five wagons on Christmas Eve.

THE EMPLOYMENT OF MAORIS.

Severe Condemnation of the War Office—British Cavalry to Discard Lances and Carbines.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Liberal papers comment severely on the acceptance by the War Office of a contingent of Maoris from New Zealand for service in South Africa. The Star says:

"The effect of this stupid blunder on the Dutch will be terrible. After declining to employ Indian troops, we are taking a paltry hundred Maoris. This will not only infuriate the Dutch, but it will insult the Indian troops, who will regard it as a declaration of their inferiority to an inferior colored race. Go on O Government of muddlers! Even the gods could not save you from your own invincible folly."

However, there are signs of the dawn of that common sense, the lack of which the English critics so deplore in the military system, for the cavalry now going out to South Africa is discarding lances and carbines and substituting for these weapons rifles and sabres. After over a year's fighting, the authorities have woke up to the utter uselessness of lances and carbines, considering that thousands of British soldiers have never seen a Boer during the many engagements.

New York & Florida Limited;

Via Penn. and Southern Railway, resumes service Jan. 14th. Leave New York 12:40 P. M. daily, except Sunday. Dining, compartment, observation and drawing-room sleeping cars New York to St. Augustine; also carrying drawing-room sleeping cars New York to Aiken, Augusta, and Port Tampa. Diagrams now open. New York offices, 271 and 1,185 Broadway.—Adv.

INVITATION TO MR. KRUEGER.

President of the South African Republic Will Be Asked to Visit This Country.

On the French liner La Normandie, which sailed for Havre yesterday, was Col. Arthur Lynch, a former officer in the Boer Army, who goes abroad, according to a circular issued by a number of Boer sympathizers, to extend a direct and formal invitation to Mr. Krüger to visit America. The circular asserts that the great majority of Americans are in sympathy with the Boers, and that should President Krüger accept the invitation an ovation such as is seldom accorded any man awaits him on his arrival in this country.

The American people, it says, opposes the present policy of the Administration at Washington in its anti-Boer tendencies, and asserts that this will be proved by the greeting he will receive from those Americans who are in favor of liberty and independence in South Africa.

The circular further asserts that charges against Consul General Stowe, who recently arrived in America on his vacation, are to be preferred. It says that he was neutral in South Africa, and that while in England, en route home, he permitted and received ovations from English jingoes, and that his public expressions in England and America have been of such a nature as to deserve the severest condemnation of the State Department, and that Secretary Hay will be urged not to continue him in office.

Col. Lynch's visit is described as being to inform President Krüger's wishes and desires in regard to the subject of a visit to America.

Charles D. Pierce, the Consul General of the Orange Free State in New York, said yesterday afternoon that he had heard of Col. Lynch, but that he did not know him personally. He said that he was in weekly communication with The Hague, but that nothing definite as to President Krüger visiting America had been decided. He added that if a sentiment sufficiently strong was to warrant the President making the trip he might possibly consent to come. "It will be a month anyway, though, before he starts should he decide to make the trip," Mr. Pierce said.

Burleigh Returning to South Africa.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—In view of the prolongation of the war, The Daily Telegraph has again dispatched Bennett Burleigh, its famous war correspondent, to South Africa.

British Naval Activity.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—While the British Army is tied hand and foot to South Africa, the navy, which is not escaping the wave of criticism, is quietly increasing its strength and morale. For months both men and ships have been kept in an unusual state of readiness, and there are now building in British yards no fewer than eleven battleships, nineteen cruisers, and fourteen smaller vessels, totalling nearly 400,000 tons. This does not include vessels which have been tried but are unfinished.

TELEPHONE RATES REDUCED.

Southern New England Company Favors Connecticut Towns.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 29.—The Southern New England Telephone Company announced to-day an important reduction in the private and business rates of all Connecticut towns where there are less than 160 subscribers. The rates for house party service is reduced 25 per cent., and for business offices 33 1-3 per cent.

The towns affected are Branford, Danielson, Guilford, Litchfield, Manchester, Milford, Naugatuck, New Milford, Ridgefield, Rockeville, Southington, Sayhrook, Simsbury, Wallingford, and Winsted, and their connecting towns.

MORTGAGE GIVEN FOR $3,500,000.

Alabama Railway Company Covers an Issue of Five Per Cent. Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 29.—The Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company to-day gave a first mortgage for $3,500,000 to the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston to cover an issue to that amount of fifty-year 5 per cent. gold bonds.

The bonds are redeemable at any time upon payment of principal and interest. The mortgagor owns and operates all the electric car lines in Birmingham, and forms a consolidation of all other local car interests.

Half the proceeds of the bond issue will be used to pay bondholders of the absorbed companies, and the rest will be turned into the treasury of the company for operating the consolidated system.

MAY WHEAT'S SHARP ADVANCE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—May wheat in the local market was advanced 2 cents to-day on the most active market the Board of Trade has enjoyed in many days. Coupled with this advance, it was reported that Minneapolis millers had advanced the price of flour 10 cents.

The aggregate receipts at Minneapolis, Duluth, and Chicago this week were only 1,787 cars, or 1,025 less than the week previous, as against 1,507 cars in combined receipts at those points the corresponding week a year ago.

May wheat opened unchanged from yesterday at 73¾ cents. Immediately the demand had its effect. Nearly every commission house seemed to have liberal buying orders. Shorts not only covered previous sales but in many instances went "long." The market advanced sharply during the first two hours to 75½ cents. Scalpers who had bought earlier sold to secure profits, and a reaction to 74⅝ cents ensued. The market was too strong to suffer much of a decline, however, and the closing price for May was 75¼ cents, 1⅛@2 cents over yesterday's final figures.

Texas Commission Seeks More Power.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 29.—The Texas Railroad Commission, in its annual report, which was filed with Gov. Sayers to-day, makes several recommendations for the enactment of laws extending its powers over railroads and other common carriers within the State.

It also recommends the enactment of a law giving it authority to regulate the rates and charges of all telegraph and telephone companies doing business in the State, and to compel all such companies to maintain general offices in the State.

Prosperity in Wabash, Ind.

Special to The New York Times.

WABASH, Ind., Dec. 29.—The deposits of three banks in this city—the Wabash National, First National, and Citizens'—are the largest in their history, and fully double those of ten years ago. The total amount is $1,050,000. All the banks say they have difficulty in keeping funds employed, borrowers being scarce. The local loan agents are also complaining of dullness, the new loans and renewals being 50 per cent. less than in any other year. Five per cent. money and low commissions fail to tempt borrowers.

Prove Good Fellowship

with the truest of beverages—faithful Evans' Ale.—Adv.

REMEMBER this is "Hospital Sunday."—Adv.

RIOT CLOSES A BROADWAY THEATRE

Performance at the Comique Suddenly Stopped for Lack of Funds.

BOX OFFICE WAS BESIEGED

Manager Weil Escaped with a Satchel and Police Reserves Were Called to Disperse Angry Crowd.

The brief career of the Theatre Comique, at Broadway and Twenty-ninth Street, under its present management closed with a riot last night which blocked Broadway traffic while it lasted and brought out the reserves from the West Thirtieth Street Police Station. They reached the theatre just in time to save the furniture of the playhouse, if not the members of the company.

They arrived just as the fighting began, and took a hand in it themselves, and the dancing night sticks set many a head to aching before order was restored. They were too late to prevent the disappearance of Manager G. Weil and the box office receipts of the evening, which were probably the largest since the theatre reopened two weeks ago.

It was in the middle of the last act of the burlesque "The Queen of the Orient," when the already large Saturday night audience was swelling rapidly, that Tony Stanford one of the proprietors of the show, but not of the house, stepped out on the stage and announced that the performance would stop where it was, owing to difficulties between the managers of the company and the proprietors of the theatre.

"Now, ladies and gentlemen, please leave the house quietly," he said. "Go down to the box office and get your money back and I—" No one in the house, even in the front rows, heard the conclusion of his remarks in the wild stampede for the stairs which took place at these words. "Swindle!" "Skin game!" "Give us our money!" were heard through the volume of inarticulate howls as the rush began. Men were knocked down and trampled by stronger ones behind them and

HELD FOR PRICE'S MURDER

McDonnell Accused of Shooting Four Men, Sent to the Tombs.

Harlem Gambling Houses Close as a Result of the Attention Drawn to Them by the Affray.

Miles McDonnell, who is accused of shooting four men, one fatally, in a fracas in the Onawa Hotel, Park Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, early Friday morning, was yesterday remanded by the Coroner to the Tombs without bail, charged with the murder of George Price of 215 East One Hundred and Thirty-fourth Street. Edward Courtney is in a critical condition in the Harlem Hospital with a bullet in his back. The chances are good for his recovery, however. Thomas Kennedy of 213 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and Charles McMullen of 128 East One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Street, who received slight wounds, were able to appear as witnesses against McDonnell.

McDonnell stated to the detectives that he had done the shooting in self-defense.

Coroner Hart said that if Price had gone to a hospital his life might have been saved. The inquest will be held Thursday.

Kenney gives the following version of the affair:

"Several weeks ago I had some trouble with McDonnell, and I was informed at the time that he had made an open threat to do me up at the first opportunity. Friday morning I was drinking at the bar in the Onawa Café, when McDonnell entered the place by way of one of the side doors. He had been drinking, and on seeing me he came straight to where I was standing. Referring to a dispute we had had about money matters, he made some remark about having me 'cornered' and then drew two large revolvers. Backing behind the lunch counter so as to protect himself, he began to blaze away. I had no revolver, and never carry one. Neither did Price nor Courtney. I made a dash for the side door and felt one of the bullets catch me in the leg just as I reached it. I reached the street, hailed a cab, and was driven home. From there I went to a Turkish bath, and was at my home yesterday. I have nothing to say regarding my trouble with McDonnell. It was our own private affair. He had nothing against either Price or Courtney."

Henry Lankenau and Jurgen Jentz, bartenders in the saloon, say that McDonnell and McMullen had been in the barroom drinking for some hours. They were at the lower end of the bar, and Jentz had just handed them cigars, when Kennedy and three or four others came in. McDonnell called Kennedy to one side, and they talked quietly for some minutes, later becoming loud in their conversation and excited in their actions. Jentz states that, fearing a fight, he went between the two, when McDonnell pulled a revolver. Jentz then says he ran for the police. Lankenau dropped behind the bar at the first shot.

The quadruple shooting has been far more effective in closing up Harlem gambling houses than have the police or the Society for the Suppression of Vice. For months Harlem has been the resort and headquarters of gamblers, and it is the belief of many that these have enjoyed the protection of politicians, for the places were run openly until a short time ago, and even a stranger could enter them and play if he felt inclined. Frank Moss, while delivering an address recently at the Harlem Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, 7 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, said that there were no fewer than five gambling dens between that building and Third Avenue, and that their existence was an open secret.

There was no gambling in Harlem last night. The faro, crap, and card houses that had not closed their doors before on account of the present crusade against vice, shut their doors tight on account of the attention that has been attracted to them. Gamblers, touts, bookmakers, &c., who are usually to be found hanging about certain saloons or East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, were missing from their old haunts, and in certain houses where the open sesame has always stood good despite police or vice crusades, it failed for once, and if the seeker for admittance persisted the only explanation he received was "nothing doing."

A subscription has been started among Harlem gamblers for the widow of George Price. Kennedy, who is a relative of the dead man, contributed largely to the fund which it was said last night had reached $1,000.

OBJECTS TO NEW YEAR NOISE.

Chicago's Mayor Says He Cannot Curb the Public Enthusiasm.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Physicians are protesting against the customary noise attending the ushering in of the new year, and have petitioned Mayor Harrison to take steps to suppress it. Dr. Lella G. Bedell has addressed a letter to the Mayor, in which she says:

"I have under my charge two cases where noise is most distressing, and where the critical brain conditions require the utmost quiet. Probably every physician in Chicago has one or more similar cases. Would it not be well to suppress the usual midnight noise of New Year's Eve and usher in the new century under an entirely new regime—a more humanitarian conduct?"

The Mayor replied that to stop noise on the birth of a new century would be absolutely impossible.

BALTIMORE'S OLD FOGIES RULE.

Police Restrictions Upon Carnival Feature Kills New Year Festivities.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 29.—Chief of Police Hamilton of Baltimore has aroused the indignation of the public by killing the carnival feature of the twentieth century celebration, to please a few old fogies who object to the young people making a little noise on the streets New Year's Eve. The committee of merchants and other prominent citizens having the arrangements for the celebration in charge had planned the carnival and masque fete as the chief feature of the affair. A magnificent display of fireworks Monday evening was to have been followed by a carnival parade, a popular demonstration, with maskers, horn-blowers, bellringers, the throwing of confetti, and general jollity, to be kept within reasonable bounds by police restrictions.

To-day, however, the committee abandoned the carnival feature and took all the spirit out of the celebration because the Chief of Police issued an order forbidding the use of cowbells, the firing of cartridge raps, the wearing of masks, false mustaches, or the grotesque painting of faces. The citizens are disgusted, the young people sorely disappointed, and the gentlemen composing the committee highly indignant.

Pressure will be brought upon the Board of Police Commissioners Monday to direct the Chief of Police to rescind his order.

THE CELEBRATION AT BOSTON.

New Century to be Greeted with Prayer and Song at the State House.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 29.—The twentieth century will be ushered in at the Capitol of Massachusetts by the ringing of bells, by watch meetings, and services in the churches, and, in addition, by an official celebration.

The celebration will take a unique form. A multitude will assemble in front of the State House at 11:45 on Monday night. Four cornetists and a large chorus will occupy the balcony. Gov. Crane hopes to be present, and the Mayor and other officials will be invited. The exercises will open with a flourish of cornets, leading up to the singing by the assembly to the tune of "Old Hundred."

A few verses from the Ninetieth Psalm will be read by Dr. Hale, and Sewall's old hymn will be sung by the chorus. This will close a minute or two before midnight, and there will be silence until after the hour is struck, the strokes being echoed by the cornets. The Lord's Prayer will then be said by all the people, who will also join in singing "America," and the trumpets will sound as the assembly disperses.

Copy of Lafayette Statue for Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—A replica of the Lafayette Statue erected in Paris by the United States may be put up in one of Chicago's parks. The Lafayette Commission returned to America with a surplus of $160,000 in the fund. This fact and a suggestion that Chicago apply for a replica of the statue was given to a member of the West Park Board. At the meeting Friday afternoon President Blount secured the passage of suitable resolutions, which were at once sent to the commission. The sentiment of that body is supposed to be favorable to the project.

THEATRE FRANCAIS REOPENED.

Brilliant Gala Performance to Celebrate the Occasion—Many Notabilities Present.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—A brilliant spectacle was presented at the Théâtre Français tonight on the return of the Comédie Française to its old home, which has been rebuilt on scientific plans since it was gutted by fire last March.

The occasion was celebrated by a gala performance, and it is doubtful if the historic playhouse ever held a more distinguished gathering of representative Frenchmen. The Chief of State and Mme. Loubet occupied the Presidental box, while the King of the Belgians made a special trip from Brussels to attend the function, engaging the baignoire, formerly belonging to his uncle, the Duc d'Aumale. M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the Premier; members of the Cabinet, and all the leading lights in politics, literature, and the drama were assembled within the famous edifice. United States Ambassador Porter and his daughter sat in the Ambassadorial box.

The programme consisted of the fourth act of Corneille's "Le Cid," the third act of Molière's "Femmes Savantes," concluding with a prologue on the reopening of the theatre written by Richepin, Mounet-Sully, Silvain, Coquelin cadet, and Mesdames Dudley, (who escaped the fire when Mlle. Henriot perished,) Barretta, and Bartet, took the leading rôles.

The traditional ceremony which attends every historical performance at the Théâtre Français, dating from the time of Molière, formed the chief feature of the evening, and was a most picturesque and impressive scene. The stage represented a baronial hall, with stone benches on either side. The bust of Molière was decorated with the tri-color and a golden wreath. All the members of the troupe, attired in scarlet, ermine-decked robes, entered two by two, bowed to the audience, and placed a laurel wreath around the bust, to which they then bowed, afterward taking their places upon the benches.

Mounet-Sully, in the rôle of Doyen of the company; Mme. Barretta, as the Muse of Comedy, and Mme. Bartet, as the Muse of Tragedy, then spoke an eloquent poetical prologue, and the curtain fell to the strains of the "Marseillaise."

The theatre has undergone little structural alteration, but numerous improvements have been introduced, such as a new tire-proof curtain, better staircase arrangements, and safety exits for both the public and the artists in case of fire. One of the principal innovations is an elevator. The auditorium is tastefully decorated in gold and rich red. Houdon's statue of Voltaire, which nearly perished in the fire, owing to the difficulty of removing it, is now placed on wheels. Tapestry from the famous Gobelin factory, representing the crowning of Molière by celebrated members of the Comédie Française, which it has taken several years to execute, hung in the foyer for the first time to-night.

During the entr'acte President Loubet conferred upon M. Mounet-Sully the decoration of an officer of the Legion of Honor.

Maude Adams Closes Her Season Here.

Miss Maude Adams closed her long and successful engagement in the English version of "L'Aiglon" at the Knickerbocker Theatre last night. The engagement covered a period of ten weeks, and was not only a remarkable artistic triumph, but also a splendid financial success. The proscenium arch of the theatre was handsomely decorated with smilax and big red roses in honor of the occasion, and there were such frequent calls for a speech that at the close of the third act Miss Adams came before the curtain, and in a few simple words thanked the audience for its sympathy and appreciation.

Casino Enlarges Seating Capacity.

"Florodora" is drawing large audiences at the Casino. So great was the demand for admission last night that four banks of seats were built up in the rear of the auditorium on the orchestra floor and 100 additional seats were placed on the floor above.

BRITISH COASTS WRECK-STREWN.

More Disasters Due to the Storm Reported—Waterford Packet Safe.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Quantities of wreckage have been thrown up on the coasts as forecasts of disasters from the gale of Friday not yet reported.

The Great Western Railroad Company's steamer plying between Milford and Waterford, which last night was reported 12 hours overdue, reached Waterford 32 hours late.

The remainder of the crew of the Spanish steamer Enecuri, which was driven ashore at the Portland Breakwater, (where 22 men got ashore, leaving 5 on the wreck,) have been landed. The Captain revisited the vessel yesterday morning, and as he stepped on her deck the ship heeled over and sank. The Captain was drowned.

The French bark Seine, from Iquique Sept. 23 for Dunkirk, has been driven ashore at Perranporth, Cornwall. The crew, numbering 23 men, was saved by the rocket apparatus.

The Russian bark Kings County (Capt. Karlson, from Bristol Dec. 9 for Darien,) has returned to Cardiff with rigging and bows damaged and other injuries suffered by colliding with a vessel supposed to be the Italian bark Zefiro, (Capt. Paturze, from Bristol Dec. 13 for Mobile.) The Zefiro is ashore at Clevedon, on the River Severn. Her crew were taken off by the lifeboat.

The British ship King Edward (Capt. Rhode, from Antwerp Dec. 16 for San Francisco,) has anchored in the Downs with loss of sails and a man washed overboard. She reported having been driven back from Falmouth by heavy weather.

HOLYHEAD, Dec. 29.—The bodies of twenty members of the crew of the British bark Primrose Hill, (Capt. Wilson, from Liverpool for Vancouver,) which went on the rocks three miles off South Stack and broke up, have been washed ashore.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 29.—The British steamer Rockcliff, (Capt. Scantlebury, from Barry for Philadelphia,) which put back to Queenstown on Dec. 12, leaking in her forepeak, and proceeded for her destination on Dec. 24, returned to this port to-day in a badly damaged condition. She encountered a hurricane on Dec. 27 300 miles west of Queenstown, during which her decks were washed by tremendous seas and her bridge, bulwarks, stanchions, boats, and wheel were washed away. Capt. Scantlebury and five of the crew were injured.

After she had been hove to for several hours the storm moderated and the steamer put back.

Mr. McKinley's Gift to British Seamen.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Board of Trade has received through the Foreign Office a gold watch and chain and a binocular, awarded respectively to the master and second officer of the steamer Commonwealth by President McKinley in recognition of the saving of the crew of the American schooner Leading Breeze, who were taken off their vessel on Oct. 17 a few miles from Boston, when the Leading Breeze was in a sinking condition.

Japanese Training Ship Lost.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 29.—The steamer Rio Jun Maru brings news that the Japanese training ship Tsukishima Maru has been lost, with all hands, numbering 121, near Namadzu, Japan. She was long missing, and the warship Midsasha was sent to search for her without avail. It was not until wreckage from her, together with the body of Capt. Matsumato, her commander, was washed ashore that the mystery of her disappearance was cleared up. She foundered during a typhoon at the end of November.

SHOT FATALLY BY HIS BROTHER.

Henry Webber Died from Wounds Received While Gunning.

NORTHPORT, L. I., Dec. 29.—Henry Webber, twenty-one years old, died at his home last night from the effects of a gunshot wound accidentally inflicted yesterday afternoon by his fourteen-year-old brother, Philip, while gunning. The two brothers left their home shortly after noon for the beach at Sunken Meadows, a few miles from this place, to shoot birds.

The brothers had been shooting for some time without accident, when Henry left Philip. He had not gone far when the younger brother's gun was accidentally discharged, and Henry received the charge in the back. He was hurriedly removed to his home and a doctor summoned. He died from exhaustion brought on by shock and loss of blood.

THE CUDAHY KIDNAPPING

Detectives Criticise the Action of the Victim's Father.

They Assert that They Could Have Caught the Outlaws, and that the Boy Was in No Danger.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 29.—The amazing conspiracy resulting in the abduction of young Eddie Cudahy, the only son of the millionaire packer of Omaha, and the payment of a ransom, continues to be an absorbing topic of conversation in this city. The ease with which the daring plot was consummated and the boldness with which the whole thing was designed and executed seem almost incredible at this day and time. From the window of his temporary prison young Eddie Cudahy could have seen his father's packing houses, provided the curtains had been removed. In fact, he remarked after his release upon the nearness of his place of captivity to the packing houses because of the pronounced odor.

This phase of the case was the first clue the Pinkertons selected. The boy related that the odor from the packing plants was most intense the whole time he was a prisoner. The detectives sought the local Weather Bureau and ascertained that during all of Tuesday evening and Wednesday and Wednesday night, the period of the boy's imprisonment, the wind at Omaha was due north. The detectives then agreed that the boy's temporary jail was but a short distance north of the packing houses, and at once began a search of all the vacant houses in the section that were located in that territory. They are very numerous, but the force of searchers were near to the very den in which the robbers had confined their victim when a boy who had seen the horse described as belonging to the bandits tied at the old house telephoned the police, and the search for the place was over.

One of the most singular phases of the whole case, according to a leading Pinkerton man engaged on it, is the ease with which the bandits secured the ransom and the immunity from interference which they appeared to have enjoyed. The Pinkertons point out that here was the opportunity for the police to have bagged their game, and, in fact, it was about the only weak point of the case, so far as the bandits were concerned. Chief of Police John Donahue admits, too, that in attempting to secure the gold deposited by the frantic father the robbers left a breach in their plans which would have resulted in their capture, but he explains that he was unable to do as he desired at this stage of the game because of Mr. Cudahy's positive refusal to take the police into his confidence for fear that they would scare the bandits away in trying to capture them and he would risk the life of his son.

Mr. Cudahy told the Chief clearly that he must keep his hands off until he got his boy; then he would offer a reward, and they could go to work on the case. Chief Donahue did point out the ease with which the men could be taken while they were trying to escape with a hundred pounds of gold, but the point the bandits made in their letter demanding the money—that the police had prevented the father of Charley Ross from paying the ransom demanded and the boy had thus been lost to his parents forever—had the desired effect.

MEN MIGHT HAVE BEEN CAPTURED.

It is now clear that it would have been the easiest thing in the world to have either captured or killed the daring chief of the outlaw band who undertook the dangerous task of receiving the ransom. In fact, the Chief of Omaha's police had figured the case out very correctly up to this point. The letter of the kidnappers explained that Mr. Cudahy should take the gold in his buggy and drive west along the Centre Street Boulevard until he reached a point where he should observe a lantern tied to a tree or bush by the roadside. The letter did not explain how far the father would have to go, and in this there was great cunning manifested on the part of the thieves. Had the letter stipulated a certain point for the cash to be delivered, a cordon of officers and civilians would have been placed around the place, and capture would have been certain.

As numerous vehicles passed the point where the lantern signal was shown just before and just after Mr. Cudahy arrived, and no light was seen, it is quite certain the robbers knew of the approach of the Cudahy vehicle, and did not light the signal until the Cudahy buggy was within a short distance of the nefarious work. In fact, Mr. Cudahy said he was within a few yards of the light when it suddenly flared up as if just lighted or just uncovered. These facts make it quite probable that there was one robber stationed at the point where the signal light was to be exhibited and another on a bicycle who followed close behind the Cudahy buggy to be sure there was no guard following Mr. Cudahy who would undertake to interfere with the operation of the robbers. Either this was the case, or but one robber was out on the road. This is the view many of the detectives take of this phase of the case.

Mr. Cudahy recalls that when he was within a quarter of a mile of the place where the light was shown a small man bending low over a bicycle passed by him swiftly and disappeared in the direction of where the light was seen a few minutes later. The detectives think this man the wheel was either one of the bandits, who was to first ascertain that there was no one following Edward Cudahy, and was then to dart forward and have his brother bandit in waiting show the signal, or that he carried the lantern and dismounted from his wheel at this point with the lantern which he carried or had secreted in advance, which he immediately lighted and displayed.

If it was to the robber of necessity either followed Edward Cudahy from the time he left his home, or was intimate enough with the Cudahy vehicles to be able to recognize the buggy as it passed him in his hiding place, somewhere along the road. The last proposition is more likely, because at that time the entire neighborhood around the Cudahy residence was in a state of alarm, and a stranger found waiting around there, as the robber must have done if he were looking for Mr. Cudahy to start on his trip to the woods, would have been arrested or would have excited suspicion. Mr. Cudahy noted that the lantern was extinguished before he had proceeded fifty yards from the spot. This was another indication of the boldness of the robber, and of his utter indifference to danger or detection.

WHERE THE POLICE ERRED.

Here was where the detectives are inclined to think the Omaha police erred in not making certain the capture of at least one of the robbers. They knew the route Mr. Cudahy would take to reach the locality described by the letter of the bandits. The route was over a natural bicycle course. It is sand boulevard, and stretches for seven miles west into the adjoining county. At intervals of every quarter section along this boulevard are intersecting dirt roads, which, on that night, were in perfect condition for bicycling. The detectives of the Pinkerton Agency argue that it would have been the easiest thing imaginable to have placed a couple of well-armed and nervy policemen in citizen's clothes just beyond the city limits along this route to watch for the approach of the Cudahy buggy. They could have let the wagon get a half mile ahead of them, or at least far enough ahead that it could just be discerned by the bicycle scouts. If one of the bandits had been following on a wheel he could not have been any further back than this behind the Cudahy buggy.

Taking it for granted that one of the bandits on a wheel was behind the Cudahy buggy, the detectives would have probably located the thief before he did them. If he took alarm and started on a run for it they could have speeded right after him. Certainly the presence of a strange man in that section on a wheel at that time at night would have been sufficiently suspicious for the detectives to have halted him. The city has a number of very speedy bicyclemen. If they had been forced to arrest the bandit scout on his wheel before he had committed an overt act, they would at least have been in a position where they could have made the man explain who he was and what he was doing out there at that hour. Had he been a known crook it would have been certain evidence of his guilt. Had it been an honest man the police had stopped by mistake, one officer could have taken him back to town for identification while the other continued on after the Cudahy buggy.

If the bicycle detectives had not been interrupted they would have continued in Mr. Cudahy's rear until they saw his vehicle stop and the driver place the sack of gold near the lantern. The scouts could have crept up near enough to watch any one moving around the light without exciting the suspicion of a robber lying in wait near that point. The moment the detectives saw a man around the lantern they could have recourse to two steps. They might have followed the retreating form at a distance, which would have been easy, since the robbers were carrying a hundred pounds of gold, or they could have rushed in with pistols ready and either killed or captured their man. If he made a fight he would have been killed. With his heavy load he might have been possibly pounced upon and taken without firing a shot. In that event he would have been forced to tell where Eddie Cudahy was, or, at least, held as a hostage for the boy's safe delivery. Better still, if the scouts remained undiscovered, they could have leisurely followed the retreating thief back to the prison of the boy, and there taken the whole outfit or from the darkness killed them with their pistols.

CUDAHY BOY NOT IN DANGER.

Of course there was the chance of the plan failing and the robbers then murdering or crippling the boy and taking flight. It is the consensus of opinion that the robbers, discovering that the ransom was not obtainable would have fled without hurting the boy. They could not have taken the boy with them, neither could they have remained long where they were without discovery. They would not have dared put their horrible threats into execution, which contemplated burning out the boy's eyes. Had they done this, and they were captured, their immediate lynching would have followed, whereas, if they had been captured, after releasing the boy, a short term in the penitentiary would have been their worst punishment.

Many critics of Chief Donahue's course in accepting the suggestion of Edward Cudahy that he not interfere in the plan to pay the ransom, take the position that the Chief was under some obligations to society in general to attempt to capture the kidnappers in spite of the possibility of injury to young Cudahy; that the protection of the thousands of other children of rich and poor alike was an obligation that the Omaha police were charged with which made it imperative that Edward Cudahy's wishes in the case be absolutely ignored. Upon this theory it is explained that if the Chief had spied upon Cudahy regardless of his wishes and no good had come of the act, the Chief of Police would have been doing his whole duty to the people in general. However, the Chief has many supporters in the position he took—that the father whose son was in jeopardy ought to be permitted to govern his conduct of the case until his boy was safe.

PAT CROWE ESCAPES AGAIN.

Police of St. Joseph, Mo., Raid a Building, but Fail to Get the Cudahy Suspect.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 29.—For the fourth time the police and detectives of this city have been outwitted by Pat Crowe and the men who are alleged to be instrumental in keeping him from the clutches of the police.

Capt. Henry Frans led a squad of officers in a raid on a building this evening, in which it was supposed Crowe and Ralston, alias McGee, Crowe's partner, were in hiding, but the officers found no trace of the men.

Policemen Dillon and Carsan stated tonight that Crowe and Ralston were in the building this afternoon, but had left before the officers investigated.

OMAHA, Dec. 29.—Eddie McGee, alias Burns, alias Ralston, leader in the Beels kidnapping at Kansas City nine years ago, is now wanted by the police as the "dark-complexioned man" in the Cudahy abduction. McGee is known to be a friend of "Pat" Crowe.

The woman in the case is still a deep mystery. The police hint that they are looking for several women other than Lizzie Burns, who, they declare, is not wanted by them. It is argued that the province of the woman in the plans of the abductors was to take care of the stolen child should one of the little girls be kidnapped, which the bandits openly asserted to Eddie Cudahy was their original intention.

BIG FEDERAL DETENTION CAMP.

Old Camp Perry, in Florida, Converted Into the Best Equipped in This Country.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 29.—The Government has just completed in Florida the largest and best equipped detention camp in this country.

Surgeon General Wyman of the Marine Hospital Service, describing the situation and construction of Camp Perry, says:

"When, in the early Spring of 1900, it became necessary to provide some point for concentration and better care for camp equipage belonging to the Marine Hospital, it was decided that the best location available for this purpose was the old site of Camp Perry, which was occupied in 1888 as a detention camp for refugees from the then infected city of Jacksonville. This camp site afforded the additional advantage over being simply a place for keeping camp property of being also the most suitable place in the whole Southeast for a detention camp proper, being upon the main line of the Savannah, Florida and Western Railway and easily accessible from all points in Florida and Georgia.

"The camp ground consists of 100 acres of land on a high bluff on the south side of the St. Mary's River, two and one-half miles from Boulogne, Fla., and some four or five miles from Folkstone, Ga.

"There is a disinfection and warehouse building on a side track of the Savannah, Florida and Western Railway. In this building are all the modern appliances for disinfection by steam, sulphur, and formaldehyde, and other agents which may be used for that purpose. At about 200 yards to the eastward are two dining rooms with a seating capacity of 600 each, and between the two a kitchen, fitted with ample ranges and cooking utensils, to provide for 1,200 persons. Adjacent to the kitchen is a commodious storeroom of equal size, with a portion partitioned off for the steward's office.

"In addition to these buildings there are, in the shape of permanent constructions, officers' quarters, to accommodate three or more commissioned officers, and a building for the occupancy of subordinate officers, besides bathrooms and lavatories in sufficient number and properly situated to provide necessary apliances for sanitation and cleanliness for all parties in the camp. Stored within the now unused dining rooms are 500 tents, which are capable of easily accommodating 2,000 people should such an emergency arise.

"The drinking water supply is derived from a spring of pure water, which is so situated that it can never be contaminated by the drainage from the camp and which is pumped into overhead tanks and thence distributed to such points as necessary. There is an additional water supply for sewers and flushing purposes, which is to be pumped from the river itself. Arrangements have been made for the disinfection of all sewage from camp before it is discharged into the river, so that there not only will be no danger of an outbreak of typhoid fever in the camp itself, but also there will be no danger of such an outbreak among people drinking the river water below.

"Should the necessities of 1888 ever repeat themselves," added Dr. Wyman, "this camp is so fully equipped and prepared as to be ready for occupancy within twenty-four hours after notice is given that it is needed."

MISS STRINGER'S VICTORY.

Young Brower, Whom She Arrested, Held for Failing to Marry Her.

LYNBROOK, L. I., Dec. 29.—Justice Hawkins to-day, in the breach of promise case of Annie Stringer against Albert Brower, held him to await the action of the Grand Jury. When young Brower was arrested Miss Stringer was the principal performer.

Brower and a friend were about to start in a small yacht on a shooting expedition, when Miss Stringer sprang aboard and, getting possession of one of the young men's guns, held up Brower until an officer who had been searching for him arrived and placed him under arrest.

During the hearing of the case, Miss Emma Shopan, a friend of Miss Stringer, testified that she had gone on one occasion with the plaintiff and Brower to a minister, but he was not at home, and that Brower then promised to marry the plaintiff within a few days.

George Stringer, the father of the plaintiff, testified to the defendant having courted his daughter for a long time, and also told of the opposition of Brower's parents to the match. Mr. Stringer said that he had demanded that Brower marry his daughter, and that the defendant had promised to do so, but had failed to keep his word. Mr. Stringer declared that Brower must keep his promise or go to jail.

1,500 Children Feast at Kingston.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Fifteen hundred children were feasted and presented with toys and clothing at the armory this afternoon. An entertainment was also given. The children were waited upon by the wealthy men and women of the city.

BROKER ASSAULTS CABMAN.

Thinks It a Huge Joke When Arraigned in Court—The Woman Disappeared.

An excited cabman and a well-dressed man, with side whiskers, faced each other in the West Side Police Court yesterday morning, and told their respective stories of midnight tribulation, excitement, and vicissitudes, with the scenes laid in and about the Tenderloin District. It was the well-dressed man, with the side whiskers, and not the cabman who was the prisoner this time, although this would not appear so from the demeanor of the two men.

The prisoner gave his name as Henry Cole, fifty years old, of 239 West Twenty-sixth Street, a broker doing business in the Stock Exchange. The complainant was Thomas Mulligan, a cabman, who described himself as a "night hawk," of 300 East Sixtieth Street. Mulligan's right eye was closed, and there were many cuts and bruises on his face. He looked vengefully at Cole out of his good eye, and the broker stared nonchalantly back at the cabman, stroking his whiskers carelessly.

Mulligan testified that he had met Cole and a woman at Forty-second Street and Seventh Avenue on Friday night, and was engaged to drive them to a restaurant at Sixty-sixth Street and Columbus Avenue, where they remained three hours. When they emerged from the restaurant Mulligan said they were both very much intoxicated. He then drove the couple to 317 West Fifty-eighth Street. While getting from the cab the woman stumbled and fell. Mulligan said that he ran and picked the woman up and as he did so was surprised and pained to be suddenly and without warning assaulted by Cole. A policeman came along and arrested Cole, the woman making her escape.

"Was the woman you were with your wife?" asked the Magistrate turning to Cole.

The prisoner stroked his whiskers, and said, "Really I am not sure whether she is or not."

Magistrate Pool then asked Cole something about his business, and he said he was connected with the brokerage firm of Street & Norton of 28 New Street. He said he paid the cabman $10, and the woman had given the man 50 cents. He regarded the matter as a huge joke, saying: "I'm sure this good man takes this matter too seriously. It is really absurd."

Mulligan, who still did not look as if he saw the joke, glared harder than ever out of his sole remaining eye.

"Was this prisoner drunk?" asked the Magistrate of the policeman who had made the arrest.

"I can't tell, your Honor. He's a big man and holds a good deal of booze."

The prisoner was held in $100 bail for appearance to-morrow. Cole was taken to the prison, but shortly afterward Magistrate Pool sent word down that the prisoner was paroled. He was released by the keeper of the prison without the formality of appearing before the Magistrate for the purpose.

SOUGHT BROTHER 30 YEARS.

Norfolk (Conn.) Woman Finds Her Relative at Last in Brooklyn.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., Dec. 29.—Miss Anna M. Ruffin, about forty years old, housekeeper in the home of Oscar A. Boerstock, at Norfolk, ten miles west of here, left that town this morning to meet her brother Adolph, a steam fitter, living at 53 Congress Street, Brooklyn, for whom she has been searching three decades. In the sixties the Ruffin family came to America from Germany, but shortly after their arrival in this country both father and mother died, leaving five children. They were placed in different homes by Mrs. Darwin James, a charitable Brooklyn woman.

Anna, who was then ten years old, was taken by the parents of Prof. H. W. Carter of Norfolk, who at that time resided in Stockbridge, Mass. Anna came to Norfolk with the Carter family twelve years ago, where she has resided ever since. She advertised in scores of newspapers and wrote to Postmasters in all the larger cities, but the answers she received were in substance all alike, and nobody knew the whereabouts of the brothers.

Three weeks ago Prof. Carter went to New York, and while there he looked through several directories, thinking perhaps he might find some clue that would aid Miss Ruffin in her untiring search. In a Brooklyn Directory he came across an address of Adolph Ruffel. Upon his return to Norfolk Prof. Carter gave the address to Miss Ruffin, who immediately wrote a letter to Adolph Ruffel, inquiring about his parents and brothers and sisters. A few days later she received an answer which convinced her that the writer was none other than her lost brother Adolph.

One or two more letters passed between them, in which photographs were exchanged, and they finally arranged to meet each other in the Grand Central Station, New York City, at noon to-day. Brother and sister were recognized by each other by ribbons in the lapel of their coats. During her stay in Brooklyn Miss Ruffin will also meet her brother Simon, whom, like Adolph, she has not seen in thirty years.

ONLY ONE INDICTMENT.

Queens County Grand Jury Found Little Evidence of Election Bribery.

The Grand Jury of Queens County, which has been investigating the charges of bribery made in connection with the Democratic Convention held in October last, made a presentment yesterday in the County Court. The report says, in part: "We, with the assistance of the District Attorney, made a most searching investigation, and after examining all the evidence in the possession of the District Attorney's office and summoning many other witnesses at the suggestion of individual members of the Grand Jury, fail to find anything that would warrant us in finding any indictments other than the one we have presented.

"Further, we deprecate and deplore the practice of newspapers publishing statements or articles which reflect upon persons or political parties or opponents without first giving to such matters a thorough and proper investigation. The press is recognized as the censor of public opinion, and, while we recognize the prerogative, we also demand in its exercise justice to the community."

The only indictment found by the Grand Jury in connection with the election bribery charges was that against Alexander Williams, a nephew of former Police Inspector Williams of Manhattan.

E. E. DURYEA'S WILL PROBATED.

But the Contest Will Be Carried to the Supreme Court.

MINEOLA, L. I., Dec. 29.—Surrogate Seabury has signed the decree admitting to probate the will of the late Edgar E. Duryea, the wealthy starch manufacturer of Glen Cove.

Lawyer J. Campbell Thompson, counsel for the daughters of Mr. Duryea, who contested the will, but afterward abandoned the proceedings, filed a protest against the petition of the executors that the contestants be compelled to defray the costs resulting from the contest.

Mr. Thompson, in opposing the petition, said there was no authority in law for the assessment of costs against contestants when they were the daughters of the testator. Mr. Thompson said the contestants had already paid out over $1,000 in addition to the stenographer's fees, amounting to $177, and that they should not be required to pay the other expenses. Surrogate Seabury reserved decision.

The contestants will carry the case to the Supreme Court in the March term.

M'COYS ARE RECONCILED.

The "Kid" and His Divorced Wife Decide to Marry Again.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—The Post will to-morrow announce that "Kid" McCoy and his divorced wife have become reconciled and are now together in New York. With the account are signed statements from both in which they express joy at the end of their separation. McCoy retracts all the unkind things he has said about his former wife. She expresses gratitude at the removal of whatever stain his actions may have left upon her character.

The reconciliation is the result of efforts made by McCoy's former manager, B. H. Benton, who, while McCoy was in England, saw Mrs. McCoy and learned that she still loved the pugilist. This knowledge he communicated to McCoy in London, and it was arranged that McCoy should call on Mrs. McCoy in New York. Telegrams that they had made up were received from both late yesterday. Now a wedding is on the schedule.

CHINA'S QUERIES JUSTIFIED.

Reported Questions to the Powers Regarded as Reasonable in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—It is recognized by American officials as a perfectly natural course on the part of the Chinese Government to ask for explanations of the important points in the agreement reached by the Ministers at Peking. Even should the report that the Court has already been heard from prove to be untrue, the officials here would not be surprised to hear that, before blindly accepting the agreement as binding upon it, the Chinese Court wishes for some definite statement as to what Chinese cities are to be occupied, how long the occupation is to continue, whether it is an absolute condition that the Princes are to be beheaded, and whether the Taku forts are to be razed, or whether dismantlement will not suffice.

It is a fact that the United States Government has from the beginning of the negotiations taken an attitude on these five points of inquiry closely corresponding to that which it is supposed the Chinese Government has assumed as a basis of putting them. The United States Government does not desire the absolute demolition of the Taku forts; it will suffice for its purposes, having in mind a temporary stay in China, that they should be rendered harmless by dismantlement to prevent the ready access to the Chinese capital of any force which it might be necessary to send from Europe and America in the improbable event that the Chinese Government fails to live up to the obligations it will assume under the agreement.

Feeling that the Chinese Government should receive a suitable opportunity to demonstrate its good faith, the United States Government has seen no necessity for a continued occupation of so-called strategic points along the line of communication between Peking and the sea.

There is no question in the mind of the Government here as to the extreme unwisdom of continuing the sending out from Peking of punitive expeditions. So decided has been the objection of the Administration to the continuance of these military movements, which, in its opinion, have done much to prevent the Chinese authorities from carrying out their engagements to maintain order and insure the safety of foreigners, that the United States has been nearly at the point of withdrawing from the concert.

On the last point, namely, as to whether the Chinese Princes are to be beheaded, the United States Government's position remains unaltered. It simply demands that the Chinese Government shall inflict upon the offending leaders, whether Princes or Mandarins or peasants, the severest possible punishment. The answer to the Chinese question turns upon the understanding given to the word "possible." It is conceivable that the Chinese Government may find it absolutely impossible to behead a Prince. The result of the effort might be to overthrow the dynasty, destroy the Government itself, and plunge the country into renewed chaos. It is a question of fact to be decided.

Meanwhile it begins to appear, from the character of the Chinese response, that there may be more time consumed in securing a final acceptance of the agreement than was at first expected. It is not to be supposed that the allies, in view of their union upon the use of the word "irrevocable" as applied to the agreement, would tolerate unnecessary delay upon the part of the Chinese Government in acting upon the agreement, but the inquiries made appear to be so reasonable, at least in the eyes of the Government here, that there can scarcely be a valid objection to their consideration.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29.—Chinese papers here state that the Court has decided to accept the conditions of the powers, but nothing has been officially announced.

It is asserted that the Emperor has ordered the immediate decapitation of Yu-Hsien, formesly Governor of Shan-Si, who was previously degraded and banished.

THE REPORTED NEW EMPEROR.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The Chinese Legation has no information regarding the reported selection of a new Emperor. The State Department is also uninformed on the subject, and in view of the silence of the Ministers, the report is received with considerable skepticism.

The Chinese officials are unacquainted with the lineage of the youth said to have been chosen by the Empress Dowager for the throne. Should the change be confirmed, it would doubtless be regarded by the powers as a high-handed act, and one not likely to be countenanced.

In the present condition of affaire such a procedure by the Empress Dowager would be an offense against China as well as the powers. Under the ancient system of China, the Emperor is able to name his successor, at times going outside of the imperial family, although under the present dynasty it has been the custom to designate the son and heir as successor, or in the absence of a son, to select a member of the imperial family. Kwang-Su is the nephew of the former Emperor, who had no sons, and designated the present Emperor to succeed him.

With the allies operating in China, it is not likely that the powers will permit a further exercise of the Empress Regent's influence, particularly if it takes the obnoxious form of seeking to confer power on a son of Prince Tuan, the chief conspirator in the Boxer disturbances. Besides the specific demands made by the powers on China, it is well known that the Governments and their Ministers at Peking have for some time been considering means of overcoming the sinister anti-foreign influence of the Empress by excluding her from Peking and from all further participation in the Governmental affairs of China

BOOZ INQUIRY ADJOURNED

Military Court Will Meet in This City To-morrow.

COL. A. L. MILLS TESTIFIES

Superintendent Says Hazing Can Never Be Stamped Out — Present Conditions Satisfactory.

WEST POINT, Dec. 29.—The military court of inquiry investigating the case of ex-Cadet Booz, alleged to have died from the effects of hazing received at the Military Academy, concluded the taking of testimony here this afternoon and adjourned until Monday morning, when it will reconvene at Governors Island, New York.

Col. A. L. Mills, Superintendent of the Military Academy, was the principal witness of the day. He said he did not consider "bracing" hazing. He added that he did not think hazing could ever be stamped out entirely at the academy and that the present conditions are all that can be desired.

When the court was called to order this morning, Lieut. Col. Otto L. Hein, Commandant of Cadets, resumed his testimony where he left off at adjournment last evening. He produced the Superintendent's sick reports, which showed that Cadet Booz had only reported sick once while he was at the academy. He was excused on that occasion from one drill. The records made it clear that Booz had never been absent from breakfast, dinner, or supper while he was a cadet at West Point.

An extract from the records was read by the witness, who said Cadet Booz had availed himself of the Saturday evening privileges of going anywhere within the reservation on Saturday, Aug. 6, the day of the Booz-Keller fight. Booz reported his going away at 1:58 P. M. and his returning at 5:18 P. M.

In telling of the agreement made by the fourth-class men in 1898, among whom were Cadets MacArthur and Grant, not to submit to hazing, Col. Hein said:

I called the class together, it was a very large one, and explained to them the rules and regulations prohibiting hazing. I told them that if they would agree not to submit to hazing and I promise not to haze any one themselves they would rid the academy of a foul blot on its reputation. Soon afterward they appealed to me to be released from this agreement, but I refused.

I also heard that candidates preparing at Highland Falls were being hazed, and I made an investigation, the outcome of which was the severe punishment of the guilty cadets.

Hazing is traditional, and I am sorry to say is thought by persons inside as well as outside of the academy to be commendable, and as long as students hear it spoken of in this way it will be impossible for the authorities to stamp it out.

What methods do you think could be used to stamp out the calling out of fourth-class men and subsequent little encounters?

Why, I consider that a form of hazing, and as long as the cadets do not live up to the agreement not to submit to hazing and the upperclass men do not cease interfering with them, it will be impossible to suppress it.

Ex-Cadet Smith of Carbondale, Ill., was called and sworn. Asked whether he knew Booz he replied:

I knew him. I remember one night seven of us were called to ex-Cadet Harlee's tent to be exercised. Booz was one of the party. I cannot remember any one having fainted. I myself was very much fatigued, but not to the point of exhaustion. I was exercised more severely than many men in my class, and I have no recollections of seeing Booz exhausted. These gatherings of men for hazing were called "soirées."

Do you recall any other time that Cadet Booz was hazed?

Yes. I remember seeing him holding out dumbbells and doing wooden willies. There were several of us there, but none was exhausted. We were exercised almost daily. Cadets Meyer and Nelly exercised me frequently. Booz never complained of his treatment.

Col. A. L. Mills, Superintendent of the academy, was sent for, and after a few minutes' delay he came into court and was sworn. He submitted many reports and extracts regarding the regulations prohibiting hazing and the measures adopted by the authorities to abolish the several varieties of it which existed at the post. He also submitted long lists of cadets who were summarily punished for violations of these regulations. Speaking of "bracing," the Superintendent said:

"I do not consider "bracing" as hazing, but it changes to when it is carried to excess and causes physical pain.

For the protection of the fourth-class men the witness said that he had increased the responsibilities of the first-class cadets in regard to this end. He felt that these men, on the verge of graduation, would use their utmost endeavors to abolish hazing methods. He added that a great deal of difficulty had been experienced by him and the other officers in getting information from cadets about cases of hazing on the ground that they might incriminate themselves.

The Superintendent told of his having secured the oath of a society known as "The Mod Carriers," which existed among candidates for admission to this academy, who were at a preparatory school at Highland Falls, about two miles from West Point. It was a society composed of and formed for hazing candidates. The witness said it was of such a vile nature that he knew he had a good weapon in his hands. He submitted it to the cadet body, with the result that when they saw what hazing entailed the graduating class of 1900 declared that they would abolish hazing, and wrote him to that effect.

Col. Mills cited cases where cadets had been dismissed from the West Point Academy for hazing lower-class men. He said they invariably had gone to Washington, where they brought a great deal of influence to bear on the authorities there to bring about their reinstatement, but in every instance, Col. Mills said, he was ably supported by the War Department and the dismissal was ratified by the officials there. He continued:

I don't think that hazing can be effectually stamped out as long as human nature remains as it is. Even in colleges and schools and business centres it is carried on. For instance, the initiation of a member of the Stock Exchange is marked by rough usage of the new-comer. But I think that by vigilance of the authorities at this academy and the co-operation of the cadets themselves it can be kept within such bounds that no injury would result.

I have been unremitting in my endeavors in trying to secure the assistance of the cadets to this end, and I feel that my efforts have been successful to a large extent.

As to the abolition of fighting among cadets, Col. Mills said that, where there were so many young men living together under the same roof, it was natural that fights should occur. He suggested treating the first case with severe punishment, and if that did not act as a deterrent, extreme measures should be adopted so as to make it clear to the entire corps that such violations would not be condoned or tolerated.

The witness took occasion to deny the accuracy of an interview with him published in a New York paper on Dec. 3, in which the inference was palpable that he was in favor of fistic encounters between cadets, and that he would not investigate them. Referring to the case of Oscar L. Booz, he said:

"The first intimation that I had of the case was in a letter I received from the editor of The Intelligencer of Doylestown, Penn., in which he said that Booz was dying from the effects of severe injuries he had received in a fight at West Point, and also from the effects of having swallowed some liquid substance. This letter was dated Nov. 27, 1900.

I immediately investigated the case and replied to the letter Nov. 28, saying that Oscar L. Booz had resigned on account of weak eyes, and that he had received no serious injury in the fight mentioned. I wish to call the attention of the court to the fact that the resignation of Cadet Booz was dated Sept. 29, 1898. In it he says he resigned on account of weak eyes, and the resignation was accompanied by the written consent of his father.

At no time since Booz left this academy until the present time have the West Point authorities or the War Department received any complaint or reference to the case from Booz's parents.

Did you ever in any way call Cadet Booz a liar?

No, Sir; I simply wrote to the authorities at Washington the facts which I learned through my investigation here at the academy.

Have you any measures to suggest which in your opinion would stamp out hazing at this academy?

No, Sir; I think that the present conditions are all that can be desired, and that the continuation of these efforts will accomplish everything that we can expect to accomplish.

I believe that it would be most unwise for Congress to act either by the requirement of an oath or by any other provision than making the Superintendent's power absolute in a case of hazing, so that he can act summarily at all times.

This ended the testimony of the last witness, and the court adjourned at 4 o'clock.

A. VAN WYCK DEFENDS HAZING.

Says the Custom Has a Most Salient and Beneficent Effect on Freshman.

Augustus Van Wyck, who was the Democratic candidate for Governor in 1898, defended hazing in colleges in a speech last evening. He said that while he was opposed to hazing in the brutal forms that sometimes were prevalent, he thought on the whole the custom had a most salient effect, and that the freshmen were benefited more than they were harmed by the practice.

The address was made at the first banquet of the alumni of the University of North Carolina, held last night at the rooms of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Society, 9 West Thirty-first Street, to form an alumni society of the university. The President of the university, Dr. Francis T. Venable, came on from Chapel Hill to be present at the dinner.

The officers elected were: President—Augustus Van Wyck; Vice President—D. L. Haigh; Secretary-Treasurer—R. H. Graves; and the Rev. St. Clair Hester and John S. Hill, members of the Executive Committee. Among those present were George Gordon Battle, E. Ingle, Dr. James J. Phillips, Dr. Hugh H. Atkinson, W. B. Glenn, C. B. Buxton, and D. L. Russell.

President Venable called attention to the fact that the University of North Carolina was the oldest university in the South, with the exception of William and Mary College, having been established in 1795, and now had the largest matriculation of any university in the South.

It was decided to hold two banquets a year, as there are about 200 graduates of the university in New York City, and an effort will also be made to raise enough money to erect an alumni house on the university grounds.

The banquet closed with the giving of the college yell and the singing of "Dixie."

LAWYER SPANN'S SUIT.

Alleges He Was Made Insane by Treatment in a Sanitarium.

George C. Spann, a lawyer, who formerly had a real estate and law office in Lower Broadway, yesterday obtained from Justice Leventritt, in the Supreme Court, an order directing the assessment by a Sheriff's jury of damages to be awarded to him for personal injuries which he claims from Dr. J. J. Kindred, now director of the Rivercrest Sanitarium at Astoria. He claims that while he was an inmate of a similar institution conducted by Dr. Kindred at Stamford, Conn., several years ago, harmful drugs were administered to him, and he was otherwise maltreated so that he became insane and remained so for a long period, and that while his mind was affected he gave away $3,000 and was induced to procure a divorce from his wife.

Dr. Kindred is at present at Lakewood, but at the sanitarium last night Dr. W. A. McCorn, the resident physician, said that Dr. Kindred had told him within five days that there had been no service in Spann's suit.

"Along in the early part of November," said Dr. McCorn, "Mr. Spann appeared profusely in the press with a story that he had been hypnotized at Stamford several years ago by some parties unknown, and while under this hypnotic influence was led to get a divorce and to enlist in the war with Spain, and was committed to several insane asylums, finally waking up in St. John's Hospital, Brooklyn, and he claimed yet to be under the same influence. The whole matter is simply an effort to extort money, but Dr. Kindred has in his possession matters on which he could lock him up to-night. The man has been insane and is yet. There has been no suit brought, therefore there can be no judgment and no damages. I have been talking to-night with a near relative of Mr. Spann, and he has been trying to extort money from him, too. There is absolutely nothing more in the whole matter."

CONSISTENT EVEN UNTO DEATH.

Fritz Brunke a Suicide, as Man's Usefulness Ends at Fifty Years.

Believing that fifty years is as long as any man should live in order that the remainder of struggling mankind should have a fair chance, Fritz Brunke, who had attained that age, committed suicide yesterday in his apartments on the top floor of the tenement at 308 East Eighty-eighth where he lived with his wife and two sons. Brunke had lived a little over a year beyond the time allotted by his creed, his fifty-first birthday having been celebrated on Nov. 17 last, but he gave himself that thirteen months' grace to wind up his affairs in preparation for getting out of the way of the younger men. He did not seem to be despondent yesterday, according to his wife, but several times repeated to her, as he has on many occasions since he reached his fiftieth birthday, the following, which he called his creed:

"Man has outlived his usefulness at the age of fifty, and if in the nature of things he lives longer than his allotted term of usefulness, it is only fair to the balance of struggling mankind that he end his existence."

His wife went out early in the afternoon to buy the Sunday dinner. When she returned she found him lying on the bed unconscious. Near by lay a bottle which had contained carbolic acid. A policeman was summoned and a hurry call was sent to the Presbyterian Hospital. It was too late, however. The man lived but a few moments.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION ENDS.

New Jersey Association Elects Officers —A. W. Milbury Honored.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 29.—The forty-sixth annual meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association ended at noon to-day.

The following officers were elected: President—Prof. Langdon S. Thompson, Jersey City; First Vice President—W. F. Robinson, Elizabeth; Second Vice President—Miss Susan A. Van Selver, Burlington; Secretary—Lewis C. Wooley, Trenton; Treasurer—Otto H. Shulte, Newark; Recording Secretary—W. Seymour Twitchell, Paterson; Member of Executive Committee—W. L. Rabenort, Paterson.

A resolution was passed that Congress be asked to make a change of reorganization and extension in the Department of Education.

Just preceding the installation of officers the Treasurer's report was read. It showed total receipts of $1,417.84 and disbursements of $910.95. The balance in the treasury is $507.70.

The association elected Arthur W. Milbury an honorary member.

DISPLAY OF CHILDREN'S WORK.

Executive Committee of Coming Exposition Formulating Plans.

The first meeting of the Executive Committee of the Exposition of Children's Work, to be held in this city Feb. 18 to 23, inclusive, was held yesterday at 137 East Fifteenth Street. The exposition has the patronage of the Governors of many States, the Governors General of Canada and Cuba, as well as many other prominent men. It is to be held under the auspices of the Child Workers' Protective Association, an organization for the betterment of juvenile street workers.

Many interesting exhibits were displayed yesterday. Among them was a portfolio of various drawings and designs submitted by the Board of Education of Colorado Springs, Col. Another group came from the School for the Blind, Nashville, Tenn. A third comes from the Northern Normal School, Flagstaff, Ariz. Among other places from which exhibits have been received are Pittsburg and York, Penn.; the Indian School, Fort Shaw, Mont.; New London and Norfolk, Conn.; Cienfuegos, Cuba; Lafayette, Ind.; New Orleans, La.; Roxbury, Pittsfield, Boston, Lynn, and Lowell, Mass.; Portland, Oregon; Cleveland, Ohio; Leger Colony Schools, Oklahoma.; Charleston, S. C., and the Berkeley School, this city.

Major Greble, Superintendent of the Department of Charities of Cuba, is taking an active interest in the exposition, and at the suggestion of the Governor General of Cuba has caused a large collection of curios and specimens of Cuban children's work to be sent on. Prizes will be awarded the successful exhibitors.

Disabled Vessels in Tow.

The Bristol City Line steamship Brooklyn City, which arrived from Bristol yesterday, reports that on Sunday, Dec. 16, while off the Irish Coast, she passed two vessels, one of which was in distress and in tow of the other. The disabled vessel was in ballast and had lost her propeller and tail shaft. The Brooklyn City was unable to make the names of the vessels. Both had yellow funnels, the disabled vessel having a black top and the other vessel having two white bands beneath a black top. Apparently the hawser connecting the two vessels had been broken, and they were attempting to make a new connection.

AGAINST THE SUBSIDY BILL

Charles Counselman Says It Does Not Benefit Freighters.

First of Four Ocean-Going Steamers, Planned by Him, Launched at South Chicago Yesterday.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The first of four ocean-going steamships was launched at South Chicago to-day. The service is planned by Charles Counselman, who took occasion to say of the Ship Subsidy bill:

"I have no doubt the gentlemen supporting this bill are actuated by the very best motives, but to my mind they have shown in a most emphatic degree a want of intelligence in its provisions. They are offering on the basis of speed a large subsidy to steamers that carry but little cargo.

"The tramp vessels, which really carry the cargoes and are of moderate speed, are left without any consideration whatever, when it is recognized that 80 to 90 per cent. of the tonnage crossing the ocean is carried by tramp vessels running 9 to 10 knots per hour. Such vessels as these absolutely have no provision whatever in the nature of a subsidy.

"One is lost in astonishment that the promoters of this Subsidy bill would so neglect this very important interest. No provision is made for the vessels that carry the great bulk of the grain of the West; no provision is made for the vessels that carry the cotton from our country; no provision is made for the vessels that carry, you may say, all the heavy tonnage, and which tonnage brings money into our country and constitutes 80 to 90 per cent. of the exports.

"It is of no consequence to the producers in the western country whether their products are carried in vessels that run nine knots or twelve knots per hour, but it is of great importance to them that the freight be carried at a low rate. The tramp vessel or the large slow-going vessel will carry the property cheaper than the rapid running vessels, unless through the application of this Subsidy bill the vessels that run twenty knots an hour will receive such large cash remuneration from the Government as to be able to reduce the freight on the little cargo they do carry to such a point as will utterly crush out all competition of the slow vessels, in which case they might come together and have on the ocean a combination not very much different from that now existing on the land—in the railroads.

"The objects professed in the title are entirely forgotten in the body of the measure. Under this bill a ship can run practically in ballast and draw subsidy. The bill would tax all our citizens to provide extra profits for a favored few. Take the case, for instance, of the steamship St. Louis of the International Line. If I remember correctly, her tonnage is 11,629. She is a twenty-one-knot steamer. Under this bill, for the first 1,500 miles of her outward and return voyages, she would receive 3.8 cents per 100 miles and 3.3 cents per gross ton per 100 miles for the remaining distance, or $23,000 for the round trip. Now, the actual cargo of the St. Louis would be about 3,500 tons, so that for carrying less than half the American exports for which the freight steamer is subsidized, $4,740, this swift passenger steamer is subsidized to the extent of $25,000, or in proportion to American exports carried, the passenger steamer receives more than eleven times the subsidy of the freighter.

"Is this just? Is it fair to the other steamers that may happen to be slower? As I calculate, the steamship St. Louis at this rate would be subsidized at the rate of $7 for each ton of American exports taken, or for the year's trips she would receive about $400,000; or, in the event that she never carried a single ton of American exports as cargo, she would receive per year say $260,000.

"I cannot help but think the gentlemen having charge of this bill have been led into a grievous error, for it is not possible that they are willing to do such an injustice to the slower going steamers, which, after all, carry the great bulk of the cargoes to foreign countries."

The Northwestern, the boat launched today, has a keel 242 feet, is 256 feet over all, 42 feet beam, 26 feet hold. She draws 15 feet. Ten days from now a similar boat will be launched, and the two others will follow soon.

THE NEW NAVAL RESERVE BILL.

Pay for Officers and Men Provided with Certain Privileges.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A bill will be introduced in Congress upon its reassembling for the formation of a naval reserve based upon plans prepared by a board composed of Admiral Dewey, Rear Admiral Crowninshield, and Capt. Evans. The features of the bill are the limitation of the reserve force to a total of 20,000 men, the officers not to exceed 600 in number, made up of Ensigns, Lieutenants, junior grade, and Lieutenants. The term of enlistment is fixed at five years.

Ex-naval officers, yacht owners, and masters of ocean steamers may qualify as Lieutenants at $200 per year for the first grade, $150 for the second grade, and $100 for Ensigns. Enlisted men are limited to $50 per year, and are to be provided with two uniforms and a sleeping outfit. Not less than thirty days' service each year on a naval vessel is required.

Naval reserve officers are to be borne upon The Naval Register and the officers and men are exempted from jury and militia duty, and are entitled to hospital treatment, pensions, and admission to the Sailors' Home on the same terms as regular sailors. An appropriation of $100,000 is proposed.

WANT BOUTELLE'S SEAT.

Four Leading Candidates in the Field—Gov. Powers Likely to Win.

Special to The New York Times.

BANGOR, Me., Dec. 29.—Since the announcement was made, in definite terms, that Congressman Charles A. Boutelle is to resign his seat in the House of Representatives on or about March 4, upon which date the President is to sign the bill placing him upon the retired list of the navy with the rank of Captain, the several candidates for Mr. Boutelle's seat in the House have abandoned their still hunt and openly announced themselves as aspirants for the place.

The four leading candidates are Llewellyn Powers of Houlton, whose term as Governor of Maine will expire next Tuesday; William Engel of Bangor, who has served in the Maine Senate, and who is a prominent Penobscot lumberman; Joseph E. Hall of Bangor, who came here from the West two years ago, and has been for that length of time private secretary of Congressman Boutelle, and Prof. Rogers of the University of Maine.

Of these, Gov. Powers commands the greatest support, and he feels confident that he can secure the nomination. He is wealthy, having an income of about $40,000 a year; has served in Congress before, has been Governor four years, and has held many other State offices. He has the almost unanimous support of Aristook County, which has had the Representative but one term since 1856, and therefore claims the privilege this time of naming the candidate. Penobscot County has had the Representative twenty-two years, Mr. Boutelle having been nine times elected, and, before that, George W. Ladd, Fusionist, twice.

Mr. Engel has strong local support, and his strength is next to that of Gov. Powers. Mr. Hall, it is said in a letter written by Miss Grace Boutelle, has the indorsement of Congressman Boutelle, whatever that may count for under the circumstances. Prof. Rogers claims to have the support of the farmers. A special election will soon be held, and the general opinion is that Gov. Powers will win.

Exporters Seek More Foreign Trade.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Numerous letters are coming to the State Department from business interests in all parts of the country urging negotiations with various foreign countries to protect existing export interests or to secure new openings for America's foreign trade. These letters often specify the particular markets which they seek and the opportunities for expanding trade. The department, however, can make no satisfactory reply, owing to the non-action of the Senate on the pending treaties. So soon as the Senate shall have expressed its purpose in dealing with the reciprocity convention the department will be able to answer these inquiries.

Thought Suicide's Poison Was Beer.

Henry Suhr, twenty-nine years, of 156 New York Avenue, Jersey City, committed suicide last night by taking carbolic acid. His wife saw him drinking the fatal dose, but thought it was beer.

B. Altman & Co.

HOUSEHOLD and DECORATIVE LINENS

will be sold for One Week

Commencing Wednesday, January 2d,

At UNUSUAL REDUCTIONS IN PRICES

Plain and Fancy Linens of all kinds will be included in this sale.

FACTIONS WAR OVER CUBA'S CONSTITUTION

Divided as to Whether Suffrage Shall Be Restricted or Not.

Negroes Would Be In Control with a Universal Vote — Fight Over the Presidency.

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 26.—The Constitutional Convention has not been in session for several weeks, but the different sections thereof are busily at work considering various clauses of the plans which have been offered by Señores Rivera, Quesada, and Maura, from which it is hoped and expected a Constitution will be wrought. Other plans besides those offered by these members of the convention are also receiving some attention, while it is known that particular features have been thought out by individuals, without entire constitutions having been prepared, and these special clauses, or provisions, have also been received and are being given consideration.

In individual sections there have been animated discussions and a good deal of crimination and recrimination. The chief bones of contention are those of suffrage and the Presidency. For the former there are various propositions, although it is not possible, from the outside, to gather all the phases of the topic. In the main, it is boiled down to a decision as to whether suffrage shall be universal or not. A strong contention is being made by the more conservative element to base it upon an educational and property qualification basis. But the more rabid element in the convention, led by Juan Gualberto Gomez, a negro, supported by Gen. Aleman, Gen. Lacret, Jose Monteguedo, and two or three of the delegates from the eastern part of the island, is pressing hard for universal citizenship.

The radical republican element favors this provision, while, strange as it may appear, the Cuban Nationals, heretofore the extremely radical element, rather lean toward restricted suffrage. The blacks of the island are so near one-half of the entire population that when the Spaniards who reserved citizenship with the mother country, the Americans, the English, the Germans, and the French, none of whom are accounted "Cuban" in the political or governmental sense, are counted out, they, the negroes, will have a majority of the votes, should universal suffrage carry.

The proposition to form a Federal Government, with six States—Havana, Pinar del Rio, Matanzas, Santa Clara, Puerto Principe, and Santiago—is really a fight for universal citizenship. It is conceded by the Federalists that it is not possible for these sections to sustain separate Governments, consequently the proposition has been offered to make their central Governments a part of the general system, that is to receive support from the insular revenues, or to make it distinct, but still sustained out of those funds. There is a small faction in the convention which really desires a Federal system. But it is hopelessly in the minority, apparently, and the contention is being made to force the western delegates to agree that the large black population of the eastern part of the island shall have the right to vote.

What the outcome will be seems not difficult to determine. The United States, it is claimed in certain quarters here, can hardly accept a universal suffrage clause. Consequently, it would be particularly hazardous to grant this island a Government which might at some time be dominated by the blacks, and thus make a Hatti or a San Domingo of it, it is hardly thought of.

That there is danger in this relation is made certain from the fact that the dominating spirit of the convention which is making the Constitution is a three-quarters negro. This man is more than a demagogue. He is wily, shrewd, able. He was the dominating spirit of the old "Assemblea," which deposed Gen. Gomez from command of the Cuban Army almost before it had made its triumphal entry into Havana, and, having broken into the convention from the Province of Puerto Principe, he has gradually got hold of the reins, and is now recognized as one of the strongest, if not absolutely the strongest, spirit in it. It is easy as possible to have a black man's government as it is to have a black man's convention, and while Gomez is the only black man in the latter, he is its dominating character.

The other fight is on the Presidential question. The two Gomezes have kissed and made up. They embraced each other heartily in public three weeks ago, the doughty old General affirming that from now on he is heart and soul with his old enemy. Juan Gualberto, the same surname, in his determination to have an absolutely independent Government for Cuba. He would not have done this had it not been required in order to secure the acquiescence of Juan Gualberto to the clause that admits of the election of any one to the Presidency who served in the revolution.

Gen. Rivera's plan followed the United States Constitution in this matter, providing that no one not born on the island should be eligible to the Presidency. This would have ruled Maximo Gomez out, he being a native of Santo Domingo. Juan Gualberto had to be pacified, and in order to open the way there had to be a radical public declaration which would give opportunity for the old General to hug his colored enemy, not because he loved him more than formerly, but because he could not afford to be outdone in display of patriotism.

Hence the hug, hence the utterance, and hence the fact that the Constitution will probably say that any one is eligible to the Presidency who is a citizen at the time of the promulgation of the instrument of State. Maximo will be eligible, almost beyond question, while Juan Gualberto may carry his equal suffrage proposition in the trade, and then the United States will be confronted with a delicate and dangerous problem.

LITTLE GIRL BADLY BURNED.

Mary Crosso's Clothing Catches Fire from Christmas Tree.

Eight-year-old Mary Crosso, whose parents live at 70 Greenpoint Avenue, was severely burned last night by her clothing taking fire while lighting a Christmas tree. The child was alone in the front room, and her screams brought her mother from the kitchen.

When she saw her daughter's clothing in flames she secured a blanket and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze, but not until the child had been painfully burned. Mrs. Crosso's hands were also burned while putting out the blaze.

New Yorker Run Over by a Train.

John Judge, twenty-six years old, of 635 East One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Street, Manhattan, while trying to board a moving train of the Pennsylvania Road at the Marion Station, Jersey City, last night, fell under the wheels, and was run over. His left leg was severed and his skull was fractured. He was taken to St. Francis's Hospital. His injuries will prove fatal.

MR. ODELL'S INAUGURATION.

Final Details for the Ceremonies at Albany Completed.

ALBANY, Dec. 29.—Final details for the inauguration of Governor-elect Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., were completed to-day. Gen. Robert Shaw Oliver, commanding the Third Brigade, has appointed Major James L. Hyatt of the Tenth Battalion, Albany, Marshal of the parade.

The parade will form shortly after 11 o'clock and march direct to the Executive Mansion, to escort Gov. Roosevelt and Governor-elect Odell to the Capitol. The Third Brigade Signal Corps will have the right of the line, and then will come the Second Battalion of the Second Regiment, commanded by Major Dunspaugh, comprising the Troy and Cohoes companies. The Tenth Battalion of Albany will come next, followed by the Tenth and Fifth Separate Companies of Newburg and the Twenty-fourth of Middletown.

The second division will comprise the Governor's guard of Newburg, commanded by Capt. Joseph M. Dickey, which will act as the immediate escort of the Governors and their staff officers, who will be in carriages. After the carriages will come the delegations of New York business men and some civic organizations which have applied for places in the line. The extreme left of the line will be held by the Burgesses Corps of Albany.

The plan is to have the parade reach the Capitol shortly before noon, the hour at which the inauguration ceremony will take place. The Governor's party will enter the Capitol by the State Street door, and Gov. Roosevelt and Governor-elect Odell will go to the Executive Chamber, and remain there until the time arrives for going up to the Executive Chamber, where the public ceremony will be held. The Right Rev. William Croswell Doane, Episcopal Bishop of Albany, will open the ceremonies with prayer.

Gov. Roosevelt will deliver the address of welcome, to which Governor-elect Odell will respond. Secretary of State John T. McDonough will then administer the oath of office, after which the exercises will close with the Benediction, pronounced by the Bishop.

The first official act of the new Governor will be to affix his signature to the commissions of his secretary and the members of his military staff.

A public reception will be held in the Executive Chamber from until 2 o'clock, when the Governor will receive the State officials, National Guard officers, and citizens in general.

At the Executive Mansion from 4 until 6 o'clock Gov. and Mrs. Odell will hold a reception. Mrs. Odell will be assisted in receiving by the wives of the State officers and local society people.

QUAY'S FIGHT AT HARRISBURG.

Both Parties Confident — Ex-Senator's Opponents Predict Another Dead-lock.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Dec. 29.—The struggle for the United States Senatorship is still in doubt, with both sides professing to be absolutely confident of the outcome. Col. M. S. Quay and his lieutenants claim positively that they have enough votes pledged to organize both branches of the Legislature and insure his election. Senator William Flinn of Allegheny, leader of the anti-Quay Republicans, and William T. Cressy of Columbia, the Democratic leader of the House, insist that the Fusionists will organize the House. Mr. Flinn also says that the fusionists stand a good chance of controlling the organization of the Senate, and that Col. Quay will not have enough votes in the joint convention on Jan. 18 to elect him. It requires 127 votes to elect, and, if the predictions of Col. Quay's opponents are fulfilled, there will be another dead-lock, and Pennsylvania will continue to have only one Senator in Washington.

Ex-State Democratic Chairman John M. Garman is opposed to a fusion between the Democrats and anti-Quay Republicans on the organization, and is here advocating independent action by the Democrats. Leaders of the rival Republican factions are on the ground from all over the State, working for their cause, and many will remain until after the organization of the Senate and House on Tuesday.

Col. Quay is directing his canvass from his house on Pine Street, with the aid of Senator Penrose, Attorney General Elkin, State Chairman Reeder, Insurance Commissioner Durham, and other Stalwart Republicans. Mr. Quay reiterates his former statements that his friends will organize both branches of the Legislature, and that he will be elected on the first ballot.

Both parties will caucus on Monday evening for the selection of officers and employes of the Senate and House. William T. Marshall of Allegheny, the choice of the Stalwarts for Speaker, has opened headquarters, and is making a close canvass of the members. He is the only avowed candidate now in the field, although the anti-Quay Republicans and Democrats expect to agree upon a candidate at a conference on Monday. William P. Snyder of Chester is still unopposed for President pro tem of the Senate. Senator J. Henry Cochran of Lycoming will probably be the choice of the Democrats and anti-Quay Republicans if fusion should be effected.

FUTURE OF THE POPULISTS.

Middle-of-the-Roaders Decide Not to Combine with Other Parties.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 29.—Members of the Middle-of-the-Road Populists' National Committee and other leaders in various reform movements debated all of to-day at the St. James Hotel over the advisability of forming a combination with the Social Democratic and the Union Reform Parties. The tenor of the speeches made by the committeemen was practically unanimous in opposition to the plan and in favor of carrying on the work of the Populist Party strictly along its own lines. It was decided to issue an address setting forth in detail the views of the committee.

The meeting was called by J. A. Parker of Kentucky, Chairman of the National Committee of the party. He opened the meeting with a short address in the course of which he said that the conference was held for the purpose of considering the future policy of the Middle-of-the-Roaders, who stand for no compromise. He believed in the divorcement from both the old parties, and declared that the fight should be carried forward without any compromise.

Mr. Parker said he had issued the call to representatives of all branches of the Populist Party, but that the "Fusionists" had ignored it entirely. The time was ripe, he said, for a great political battle, and he desired to ask the representatives of other reform movements to stand with the Middle-of-the-Roaders.

Prof. George D. Herron of Grinnell, Iowa, then spoke as a representative of Socialism.

He declared, "the real issue in this country is a clear-cut conflict between industrial democracy and capitalism, or the old political absolutism brought down to date." The only way to obtain liberty, he declared, is through industrial democracy.

L. A. Weeler of Iowa declared that the Populist Party has always been loaded with too much platform. He was opposed to the coalition with other reformers. He said that he had assisted in organizing the Greenback Party, and he had seen it assassinated in the house of its friends. He declared that the Labor Party and other reform movements have been killed in the same manner.

Joseph Hupp of Chicago spoke in favor of continuing the Middle-of-the-Road work. He drew comfort from the results of the last election, and said that the farmers are not yet ready to take up Socialism. The majority of the speakers favored a continued struggle for the principles of Populism, and an address to this effect was prepared before adjournment.

AMBASSADOR MEYER FETED.

Given a Reception by the Essex Club in Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—George Von L. Meyer of Hamilton, the new Ambassador to Rome, was given a reception by the Essex Club, of which he is an ex-President, at the Parker House this afternoon. The meeting was devoted to personal congratulations and encomiums by several of the more prominent members.

Samuel L. Sawyer, the President of the club, officiated as toastmaster, and the chief speaker was Congressman William H. Moody, who spoke in reference to the four questions now before Congress—the Nicaraguan Canal, Ship Subsidy bill, the Army bill, and the litigation now before the Supreme Court of the United States. Congressman Moody said that he felt that the chances of the Nicaraguan Canal bill's final passage at this session of Congress were not very good because of the difficult entanglements with England growing out of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. Regarding the Ship Subsidy bill, he said that he believed that it could not become a law without radical amendment.

E. P. Shaw, Treasurer of the Commonwealth; Augustus P. Gardner of Hamilton, and A. Perley White of Melrose also spoke in eulogistic terms of the new Ambassador, who at the close responded, thanking the members for their support.

A. B. STICKNEY TO WED.

Railroad President Will Marry the Companion of His Youth.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 29.—A. B. Stickney, President of the Chicago Great Western, will be married in Boston on New Year's Day to Miss May Crosby, daughter of Josiah Crosby of Dexter, Me. When Mr. Stickney was a law student in the office of Miss Crosby's father a strong attachment sprang up between the young people, but the struggling young lawyer was in no position to take a wife.

In later years he married another and came West. He has a family of grown-up children. Samuel Stickney, General Manager of the Chicago Great Western, being his son. Mr. Stickney's wife died a little over a year ago, and as he is essentially a home man his thoughts returned to the companion of his youth, who had remained single at the old home in Maine.

Mr. Stickney left to-night for Boston. He and his wife will probably spend the Winter in New York.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—The Grand Opera House at Norristown, Penn., about eighteen miles from here, was destroyed by fire early to-day, the loss being estimated at $25,000. The building contained the offices of the Schuylkill Valley Traction Company, the Keystone Telephone Exchange, several lodgerooms, and two stores, all of which sustained some damage.

WATERLOO, Iowa, Dec. 29.—Fire to-day destroyed the west side mill of the Union Mill Company, causing a loss to building and machinery of $50,000. Insurance $25,000.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The residence of Henry P. Crowell, President of the American Cereal Company, was destroyed by fire last night. The loss will be $20,000.

ALBANY, Dec. 28.—The Reformed Church and two barns were destroyed by fire at Nassau, Rensselaer County, last night. The loss is about $15,000.

ASHLAND, Mass., Dec. 29.—The First Baptist Church, on Summer Street, was totally burned about 9 o'clock to-night, causing a loss of $8,000; insurance, $6,000.

SYRACUSE, Dec. 29.—A special from Rome says that the wire works of Clyde & Coleman was gutted by fire to-night. Loss may reach $10,000; insurance to cover.

YESTERDAY'S FIRES.

(From 12 o'clock Friday night until 12 o'clock Saturday night.)

2:55 A. M.—82 First Street, John Michaelson; damage slight.

3:55 A. M.—334 Water Street, Charles Lang; damage, $3,000.

9 A. M.—129 Ridge Street, Lewis Zetteich; damage, $100.

9:20 A. M.—341 East Forty-first Street, Mrs. M. Nelson; damage slight.

3:45 P. M.—517 West Forty-eighth Street, owner unknown; damage slight.

3:55 P. M.—106 Allen Street, owner unknown; damage slight.

3:55 P. M.—455 Grand Street, John Bishoff; damage slight.

5 P. M.—257 Stanton Street; Morris Beinfiedt; damage, $300.

5:55 P. M.—48 Roosevelt Street, Louis Papas; damage slight.

8:05 P. M.—520 East Forty-fifth Street, George Hilgreath; damage, $10.

B. Altman & Co.

COTTON DRESS GOODS DEP'T.

EXCLUSIVE Novelties in Rich Imported Cotton Dress Fabrics for the Spring Season will be exhibited beginning to-morrow, Monday, comprising Printed Mull Tissues, Silk Brilliants, Embroidered Swiss Muslins, Gaze Rayé, Printed Plumetis, etc., also a full line of Oxford, Madras and Linen Shirtings, Mercerized Chambrays and Linen Crash Suitings.

EMBROIDERY DEPARTMENT.

French Nainsook, Cambric and Swiss Edgings, Insertions, All-Overs and Novelty Flounces.

On Monday, December 31st, Special Sale of Cotton Embroideries, consisting of 20,000 yds. CAMBRIC and NAINSOOK EDGES, at One-Third Less than Regular Prices, 5c., 10c., 15c., 19c., 23c., 30c., 42c. and 55c. yard.

FUR DEPARTMENT.

Considerable reductions have been made in the prices of Broadtail and Alaska Sealskin Coats, Fur Lined Garments and Russian and Hudson Bay Sables.

Eighteenth Street, Nineteenth Street and Sixth Avenue.

BURGLARS ROB CLOTHING STORE.

Harry Cohen & Co. Lose Several Hundred Dollars' Worth of Goods.

Burglars made another rich haul in Williamsburg some time early yesterday morning. The large clothing store of Harry Cohen & Co., at 445 Grand Street, was entered, and goods valued at several hundred dollars carried off. An entrance was effected by breaking a large plate glass window. The burglary was discovered by a member of the firm when he reached the store yesterday morning.

That the thieves were experts was evident from the manner in which they worked. The police of the Bedford Avenue Station were notified, and last night had not got any clue to the thieves.

THE WEATHER.

LOCAL FORECAST—Fair; fresh westerly winds.

A low pressure area of great extent and intensity covered the entire country from the Rocky Mountains eastward through the Mississippi Valley and upper lake region last night, with its centre over Northern Lake Superior. It has caused a general rise in the temperatures over this district from 4 degrees to 24 degrees above the seasonal average. A marked high area closely foll

CORNELL MEDICAL COLLEGE OPENED

Gov. Roosevelt the Guest of Honor at the Ceremonies.

He Lauds the Generosity of Col. O. H. Payne, Donor of the Building, as an Example to the Wealthy.

Gov. Roosevelt and President J. G. Schurman of Cornell University formally opened the Cornell Medical College yesterday afternoon in the presence of 250 specially invited guests. The Medical College, situated on First Avenue, and comprising the block from Twenty-seventh to Twenty-eighth Streets, was erected at a cost of $750,000 donated for that purpose to Cornell University by Col. Oliver H. Payne.

The halls and corridors of the new building were profusely decorated with palms. Fifty policemen, in charge of a Sergeant, were on hand at the entrance of the building to act as a guard of honor to Gov. Roosevelt. The ceremony took place in the main lecture hall of the college. The hall was simply but expensively decorated with three immense Gobelin tapestries and an 1865 Cornell flag, the first to bear the university's present colors of red and white.

The ceremony was scheduled for 4 o'clock. By that time most of the audience had arrived, many of them being prominent in city and educational affairs, besides young women in ribbons of red and white. In the audience were Charles M. Lea, D. O. Mills, J. D. Crimmins, Col. John M. McCook, John D. Wing, Justice G. J. Garretson, Henry Howland, George M. Ward, J. H. Robb, Dr. M. P. Jacobi, Fordham Morris, the Rev. Henry Stimson, I. H. Aldrich, Silas C. Brownell, the Rev. W. W. Atterbury, and W. F. Naumeyer.

Shortly after 4 o'clock, President Schurman amid applause entered, leading Gov. Roosevelt by the arm. President Schurman took a seat before the reading desk in the centre of the stage, where also sat the speakers. On his right sat the Governor beside President Low of Columbia University; on his left, Dr. L. A. Stimson and Dr. William A. Polk, Dean of the Faculty. President Schurman, in opening the ceremony, said:

"We meet to dedicate this sumptuous, almost splendid, structure, to the relief of man's estate during the twentieth century and during succeeding centuries. The object of this building, which is an arm, and a mighty one, of Cornell University, is the protection and preservation of human health. To that end this structure, which we believe and know to be the finest of its kind in the world, is replete with all that will tend to aid both instructors and students in search and research along practical and scientific lines."

President Schurman then thanked Col. Payne in the name of the Faculty and of the scientific world, not only for the gift itself, but for the conditionless character thereof. "His sole condition was, 'Make it the foremost medical school in the world,'" Mr. Schurman said in conclusion.

Dr. Stimson, professor of surgery, an intimate friend of Col. Payne, was then introduced by the President as the one who had been unanimously chosen by the Faculty to speak for them on this occasion. The doctor rehearsed the old and the new method of teaching medicine and outlined in detail the course at the new school.

When he had finished, President Schurman said:

"We have with us the Chief Executive of New York State. His presence indicates the interest the State takes in an institution of this nature. We are greatly pleased that Col. Roosevelt is here. He has but two more working days, including to-day, to serve as Governor of New York, and we are most happy that he is spending a portion of one of those days with us. He then retires to lead the 'strenuous life,' then goes to higher honors."

The allusion to the "strenuous life" provoked mild laughter from the Governor, who turned to President Low and made some mirthful remark, at which President Low laughed heartily.

GOV. ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH.

Gov. Roosevelt, then addressing the audience, said:

"I shall not attempt to say anything in addition to what has already been so well said regarding the object of this institution, and the reason why it was so eminently worthy to have founded it. But I ask your attention for a few moments on the one hand to consider the need we have in our American communities of men who will do as Col. Payne has done, and on the other hand, to consider the beautiful generosity of men of Col. Payne's class who recognize the duty before them to themselves and to their State, and who act in a manner according.

"As was said here before this afternoon, the one prime need of a high civilization is the opportunity of that class of men which does unremunerative work. I think I am not saying too much when I say that the great majority of men who by their lifework have achieved success in their undertakings are men whose services have been absurdly underpaid. I refer to our men of great names—scientists, soldiers, doctors, engineers, artists, and literary men—all of them belong to that noble class whose work is repaid almost solely in the satisfaction derived from the knowledge of work well done.

"It is almost a truism, antedating the time that Milton sold for £5 the greatest epic poem ever given to the world, to say that the work which is most worthy doing for its own sake is work that cannot pay for itself as other forms of work pay for themselves. This we all must establish clearly in our minds, else we, as a class, will not understand the needs of unremunerative work and the duty which it calls upon us to perform.

"To a certain extent the encouragement of unremunerative work can be lent by the State. But we cannot dogmatize just how far a State may or may not extend such aid. We may, however, be certain that no action which the State may take can ever supplant the actions of private individuals in this respect. Buildings of this kind, universities, colleges, and institutions of all kinds are what we need most in these days and represent that which the community has a right to insist upon as coming from accumulated wealth. By wealth the greatest evil is done, but by wealth also the greatest good. It is therefore a duty to see that the evil is held down to a minimum. There is no worse lesson taught our people than that the man of large means is an enemy to the body politic. As a matter of fact he is no more than any one else that has the power to do good or evil.

"Col. Payne's action emphasizes the indispensable good a man of wealth, who directs his wealth aright, can exercise. Wealth used aright justifies its existence. Great fortunes in our land are produced of themselves by conditions peculiar to American citizenship taken in the aggregate, and we have a moral right to expect great fortunes to exert themselves not for evil, but for good. It is practically impossible to keep great wealth at a neutral point where it does neither good nor evil. So long as the man of wealth has it in his power to do more good than any one else, so long, if he fails to embrace that chance, he takes a heavy burden on his conscience.

"There are infinite ways in which such good can be done, but there seems no possible greater good than Col. Payne has done, namely, to administer to the wants of suffering humanity. In this case the material gift was given without any restriction or condition by the donor. He gave it quietly, unostentatiously, without pandering to his own human prejudices and without a sign of desiring the world to know what he had done. I am constrained to fall in with the generous man's own attitude and to refrain even now from mentioning his name. But it does seem to me that he is too big a light to hide under a bushel basket. [Laughter and applause.]

"I spoke before of unremunerative work. It is the need of our Nation, if the American Nation is to be kept up to its standard of to-day, to continue an army of workers in this same field. We owe an incalculable debt to the American scientist, and the man who spends his work in research.

"As citizens you must feel proud of the founding of this institution. It is only owing to the combined forces of enlightenment and right that the forces of wrong can be overcome. Behind the giver lies the reward of the act of giving, the consciousness of having done well, and, aside from this, he must know there is not an American citizen who does not feel proud of the man of the calibre of Col. Payne."

PRESIDENT LOW'S REMARKS.

President Schurman then introduced Seth Low, who, after expressing gratification at being invited to an occasion so momentous to the world of learning in the metropolis, said:

"It never occurred to me, as some one jocularly remarked, to look at the new university in a light of a competitor to the elder one. In the fight against ignorance I look upon Cornell as a fellow-soldier fighting side by side against ignorance. No good fortune can befall Cornell of which Columbia would not rejoice. And rejoicing should be felt in every State and city and town wherever the light of science finds a foothold to combat darkness and ignorance. The better Cornell University is, the better Columbia University must be to keep up. [Applause.] And, conversely, the better Columbia University is the harder must Cornell drive to live up to its standard. Your benefactor, Mr. President, helped not only you, but helped everybody. All colleges will have to vie with each other, and as the President of Columbia I thank Col. Payne for the gift he made to Cornell.

"I extend to you, the youngest university in the city, the congratulations of the oldest, and the oldest medical school in the State extends to the youngest its heartiest welcome and expression of good will."

William M. Polk, Dean of the Medical Faculty, then briefly addressed President Low.

"The idea, Sir, of fighting side by side as soldiers in war against ignorance is one that particularly appeals," he said. "When that time comes we will say to you, as the Irish gentleman said to the Frenchman: 'You fire first, then we'll fire.'"

The Dean then invited the audience to make themselves at home and to inspect the building and its accommodations.

SIMPSON, CRAWFORD & SIMPSON.

JANUARY AND REBUILDING SALES

Start Here Simultaneously To-morrow.

It is but a matter of days when builders will attack this main store and begin to tear it down. Regularly year after year we have held January Sales. The public regard them as a right and privilege. They are part and parcel of the city's recent trade history, and cannot be broken off, even by such an emergency as the present. Confident that we can sell two dollars' worth of goods where a year ago we sold one---Determined to keep faith with an expectant and enormous clientage---Conscious, too, of encroaching builders, and the absolute urgency for closing out stocks---We bought more goods than ever before; we have, from all sources, more goods than this house ever contained, and we shall sell them faster and easier, over wider territory, to greater masses of buyers than ever---because the opportunities are irresistible in values more pronounced than were ever advertised.

JACKETS, CAPES AND SUITS.

33 to 50 Per Cent. Less Than Usual.

1,200 brand new Jackets, Capes and Suits. These were made solely for us, within the past 10 days, of especially selected goods, in a studiously careful way. The loss falls on the manufacturers—the gain, of close on 50 per cent., goes to the fortunate purchasers.

CAPES.

$7.50 Kersey Cloth Capes, black only, heavily stitched and strapped; also plaid back Golf Capes, choice..... $4.75

$8.75 Golf Capes, in Oxford, black, and blue, plaid back, new colorings and patterns..... $6.75

$14.75 Kersey Cloth Capes, black only, satin lined; also, Persian Cloth Capes, heavy curl, satin lined, choice..... $10.00

$19.75 Velour Blouse, of excellent quality, material trimmed with Persian lamb..... $15.00

$25.00 Velour Coat, of the best quality velour, ribbon trimmed, lined with black or white satin, for.. $19.75

$35.00 "Liserine Coats," with full collar and revers of Persian Lamb or Alaska Sable, heavy satin linings, our special leader at $35.00, during the season..... $25.00

$37.50 Newmarkets and Raglans, full length, of Covert, Kersey and Oxford materials..... $29.75

Novelties in Long and Short Coats, Capes, etc., at greatly reduced prices.

SUITS.

$18.00 Pebble Cheviot Suit, in black only, tight fitting or loose front effect, coat silk lined, skirt on percaline..... $12.00

$25.00 Cheviot Suits, in black, blue and brown, with stitched bodice effect, flounce skirt; also in double-breasted tight-fitting coats, silk lined, skirts on mercerized lining..... $17.50

JACKETS.

$10.50 Black Jersey Cloth Jacket, black and fancy lining; also 26-inch Oxford Coat, half fitting back, satin lined, choice $7.25

$12.00 Kersey Cloth Coats, in black or castor, satin lined, storm collar, finely tailored $8.95

$15.00 Kersey Cloth Coat, with Fur Collar of Astrachan or Opossum; also fine Cheviot Coat, silk lined, peau de soie facing, your choice at . . . $10.00

$14.75 Montagnac Cloth Jackets, lined with fancy silk; also Fine Grade Kersey Coat, tan, black and brown, best tailor finish, choice . . . $11.75

$18.00 Oxford 28-inch Coat, semi-fitting back, satin lined, silk piped on seams, cuffs, tailor finish, at . $14.75

$25.00 3-4 length Coats, with Raglan sleeve, of fine Oxford material, satin lining, loose back $18.75

$24.75 Fur Trimmed Jackets, castor with beaver trimming, black with Persian lamb or Alaska sable, full collar and revers $19.75

$35.00 Fur Trimmed Coat, one of the best sellers of the season, tight fitting, fur collar and revers of Alaska sable or Persian lamb, a great bargain, at $25.00

SKIRTS.

$7.50 Tailored Skirts for walking, skating or stormy weather, in Oxford, brown and blue, plaid back cloth $4.98

Dress Skirts, plain gored effects and trimmed, only two or three of a kind; sizes are broken, prices were $10.00 to $16.50, to close $7.50

FUR SPECIALS.

ELECTRIC SEAL COAT, XXX quality, choice stock, well made and finished, heavy satin linings $23.75

PERSIAN LAMB COAT, fine glossy curl, Leipsic dye, beautifully finished, lined with plain satin and fancy silk linings . $75.00

Alaska Sable Scarf	$5.00	Alaska Sable Muffs	$10.00
Mink Scarfs	$6.95	Mink Muff, 4 stripe	$15.00
Alaska Sable Scarf (extra quality)	$8.75	Persian Lamb Muff	$8 95
Sable Fox Scarfs	$12.00	Blue Lynx Muff	$12.50

REMNANT SALE OF LACES.

The Season's accumulations of our own choice, desirable stocks, wherein short lengths have naturally accrued from enormous sales made. Our best plan to let you realize the bargains is to group them in Lots—previous prices and present figures plainly and fairly stated, with a partial list of Laces that go in.

Torchon—Oriental—Vals—Black and White Chantilly—Venise—Point de Paris—Net Top—Cluny—Margot—Renaissance, etc.

Lot 1	Lot 2	Lot 3	Lot 4
Were 10c to 15c	Were 20c and 28c	45c and 50c	Were 55c to 68c
5c.	12½c.	25c.	39c.

Lot 5	Lot 6	Lot 7	Lot 8
Were 75c to 98c	Were 1.10 to 1.75	1.98 to 2.50	Were 2.98 to 4.95
48c.	69c.	98c.	1.98

ODD LOTS OF GAUZES.

Silk Chiffon, Tucked Mousselines, Spangled Chiffons, Shirred Liberty, Figured and Plain Black Nets, Ecru Venise All Overs.

As they will be on Monday,

68c., 98c., 1.98, 2.98, 3.98 yard.

As they were on Saturday,

1.25 to 6.75 yard,

Spangled Bandings, sold heretofore at 48c., 1.50 and 2.50 yard—now, respectively, 25c., 75c. and 1.75.

CLEARANCE OF CURTAINS, UPHOLSTERIES, RUGS.

Irish Point Lace Curtains in dainty floral designs, fine quality net, formerly $6.00, at..... 4.45

Heavily embroidered Irish Point Lace Curtains, formerly sold at $11.50 pair; reduced to..... 7.95

Nottingham Lace Curtains, correct copies of the higher grade laces, at 98c., 1.45 and 2.95

Odd lots of Lace Curtains, Tambour, Renaissance, Brussels and Irish Point, one and two pair lots, at marked reductions from former prices.

TAPESTRIES.

Flemish Tapestries, in soft, rich colorings, suitable for Library and Dining Room furnishings, actual value $1.50, at.....95c

Oriental Needlework Tapestry, splendid wearing fabric, worth $1.65, at.....1.10

PORTIERES.

Ottoman Tapestry Portieres, finished with cord edge; choice line of colors; value $5.75, at.....4.25

Ottoman Tapestry Couch Covers, originally sold at $5.00; reduced to, each.....2.95

FLOOR COVERINGS.

Best grade Art Squares in the new shades of soft reds, pinks and greens:

Sizes 6 by 9 ft., 3.25, value 4.00

Sizes 9 by 12 ft., 6.95, value 8.00

Moquette Rugs marked as follows:

Sizes 18 by 36 in.	27x54 in.	36x72 in.
75c.	1.75	2.95

Wilton Rugs, 9 ft. by 12 ft.....27.50

Oriental Rugs, silky, lustrous pieces, rich, heavy pile, consisting of Kasaks, Mussoul, Persian and Anatolian; average size 3-8 by 7-4 inches; value $18.00, at.....14.95

JANUARY SALE OF DRESS GOODS.

Manufacturers' Stocks Just Bought, to Go Below Cost of Production.

A protracted period of unseasonable weather has thrown great stocks of fabrics on the market. Figuring on these very sales we purchased vast quantities, and make, unquestionably, the record bargains of the times.

7,500 yds. of 45-inch Pure Worsted Serge Cheviot and Pebble Suiting in all the popular street shades; retail value 75c., at..... 50c

5,000 yds. of 52-inch All-Wool Venetian Cloth in Gray, Blue, Garnet, Red, Brown and Black; proper value 1.00, at..... 68c

4,750 yds. of 52-inch All-Wool Homespun Suiting, best shades of Oxford, Light and Medium Gray, Castor and Blue; true value 75c., at..... 55c

5,000 yds. of 50 to 52 inch Broadcloth, exceptional values, in Grays, Castors, Blues, Greens, Rose, Plum, Brown, Red, Garnet, Cardinal and Black; retail value 2.00 yard, now..... 95c

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR SALE.

One Entire Main Floor Aisle devoted to the display and selling; an increased area that adds hugely to comfort and convenience of selection.

PRICES WERE NEVER SO ALLURING.

All the old-time skill and care in making, ample fulness, immaculate freshness, lavish trimming and perfect fit set these offerings apart in choiceness and desirable features.

FRENCH HAND-MADE UNDERWEAR.

All new Spring Importations, trimmed with real or imitation laces, hand embroidery and other embellishments—entirely new effects in Gowns, Fitted Garments and Corset Covers.

SPECIALS FOLLOW:

French hand embroidered Chemises, Drawers and Corset Covers..... 98c

French hand made Gowns, Chemises, Drawers and Corset Covers, trimmed with lace and hand embroideries..... 1.49

French hand made Novelty Corset Covers, Drawers and Chemise—artistic to a degree..... 2.98

Adaptations from Our Own Workrooms. Immense Lines from Best American Sources.

Our own productions faithfully copy the fine points and unique trimming features of the French Goods.

SPECIALS FOLLOW:

A great general collection modelled on French lines—Nainsook and Cambric Gowns, Drawers, Skirts and Corset Covers, trimmed with Val. laces, Torchon and fine embroideries 98c

CORSET COVERS—All the new pretty effects of lace and embroidery trimming..... 50c

CORSET COVERS—High and low neck..... 75c

GOWNS—Empire yokes—embroidered and tucks..... 39c

DRAWERS—Hemstitched ruffle..... 19c

ALL "JUDIC" CORSET MODELS

A corset to be up-to-date must lend itself readily to existing dress modes; be easy wearing, pliable, supporting and graceful. "Judic" Straight Front Corsets answer all these requirements. All women wearers approve their individual features. No corset nowadays commands such a clientele or meets more nearly the ideal of perfection.

GENERAL CORSET SPECIALS.

PACRA CORSETS, white, black, blue, pink and helio coutille—also the Summer Ventilating Pacras..... 2.48

TO CLOSE BROKEN LOTS—All the French Hand-made Corsets on hand in broken sizes' Every size in some one style, if not another—best models of to-day, domestic and imported, 1.98, 1.39 and..... 90c

FRENCH AND AMERICAN WAISTS.

The Washable Cotton Garments.

Makers of cotton garments for January selling have to offset the fact that their products are ahead of time. They must so work in cutting and trimming that womanly mind will forget the months before Summer comes.

That is where the season's waists are unique. Old styles are radically departed from; 20th Century innovations are rife. The Paris models and their American followers open new ground, and no woman who keeps step with fashion can afford to omit one or two from her dress possessions.

FRENCH MODEL SPECIALS . . 12.50, 5.95, 1.98

AMERICAN NOVELTY WAISTS . . 50c and 98c

UNTRIMMED HAT DEPT.

A Final Sweep Made on Fur Felt Dress Shapes and Turbans.

Under this category falls our entire balance of Imported and Domestic goods—prices are ridiculously low, and the opportunity one that can hardly come again.

Marked before from 1.25 to 3.00 each.

Marked now to 48c, 75c, 95c.

Made up particularly for this sale are 30 dozen Draped Velvet Dress Shapes in black miroir velvet, best 2.75 styles at..... 1.75

IN FEATHER DEPT.

Imported Feather Toques and Turbans, natural colorings of plumage, brought out too late for this season's business and originally intended to sell from 10.00 to 19.50 each, all to go at..... 4.75

Fancy Feathers, comprising black spangled Breasts, colored wing breast effects, Birds, etc.—heretofore 75c. to 1.25—closing at..... 25c

LADIES' NECKWEAR—ODD LOTS.

Holiday trade, and the steady selling before it, made havoc among full lines. Now to dispose of the balance.

Chenille Boas, hitherto 1.98 to 12.00, now.....1.75 to 9.00

General Neckwear, hitherto 50c. to 5.00, now.....39c. to 3.98

HANDKERCHIEFS, mussed and tumbled by the Christmas handling.....1-2 PRICE

Ladies' plain Linen and embroidered.....10c., 15c., 17c

OPENING OF EMBROIDERIES.

Designers have gone to nature for inspiration. Leaves and flowers have been, as it were, transplanted to Nainsook and Swiss, and, lacking nature's colorings, carry a white beauty and delicacy indescribable. The combinations are many, we control most, and show the cream of Europe's creation, in Edgings, Insertings, Bandings, Galloons, medium and demi Flouncings and Allovers.

Special Edges and Insertings.

10c., 12½c., 15c., 20c., 25c. up.

Special Allovers, embroidery, lace and tucks.

98c., 1.25, 1.48 and up.

JANUARY SAMPLE SALES.

HOSIERY AND HALF HOSE.

More than a hundred European manufacturers are represented in this immense sample collection. Styles embrace every conceivable effect and color in plain and novelty hosiery. All are full fashioned, and are divided into the following

REMARKABLY ADVANTAGEOUS LOTS.

Wholesale Prices on Half Dozen Pairs.

FOR WOMEN.

Lot 1—300 doz. Ladies' Hose, full fashioned, plain and fancy, made to sell at 25c. and 35c.,

All at 17c. pr., 6 prs. for 98c.

Lot 2—400 doz. Ladies' Hose, full fashioned, Cotton and Lisle Thread, made to sell at 37c. and 50c.,

All at 24c. pr., 6 prs. for 1.39.

Lot 3—160 doz. Ladies' Hose, extra qualities, in Lisle Thread, plain and fancy, made to sell at 65c. and 95c.,

All at 44c. pr., 6 prs. for 2.55.

Lot 4—Extreme novelties, made to sell at $1.00 to $1.50 pr.,

All at 69c. pr., 6 prs. for 4.00.

FOR MEN.

Lot 5—300 doz. Men's full fashioned imported Half Hose, plain and fancy, made to sell at 25c. and 35c.,

All at 17c. pr., 6 prs. for 98c.

Lot 6—300 doz. Men's Lisle Thread and Cotton Half Hose, plain and fancy, made to sell at 37c. and 50c.,

All at 24c. pr., 6 prs. for 1.39.

Lot 7—25 doz. Men's Lisle Thread Half Hose, plain and fancy, including many novelties, shown now for the first time in America, made to sell at 65c. and 95c. pr.,

All at 44c. pr., 6 prs. for 2.55.

21ST JANUARY SHIRT SALE,

With Great Specials in Collars and Cuffs.

The only chance in the year to buy our regular brands of Shirts at Reduced Prices.

Men go into Specialty Furnishing Places and see limited lines at high prices.

Men go into average Furnishing Departments and see a haphazard bringing together of dubious styles in monotonous reiteration.

Men who come to this Furnishing Department find a tasteful, authoritative collection of Newest Fashions, affording the widest field of variety, bought and sold by men, at the prices of mediocre and undesirable merchandise.

There are many improvements in Shirt Styles at prices that cannot continue in face of the constant, sharp advances on raw Linens and Cottons.

Lot 1—Unlaundered White Shirts with 3-ply linen set-in bosoms, bodies of fine muslin, felled seams, closed fronts, box or welt styles, all sizes,

39c. each; six for $2.25.

Lot 2 (COLUMBIA)—Unlaundered White Shirts, made of Wamsutta muslin, 3-ply 1800 linen set-in bosom, graded yokes; cut full, felled seam and hand finished in the following styles:

Columbia A, closed fronts, box or welt style, regular length bosoms, 12 to 18;
Columbia E, closed fronts, box or welt style, short bosoms, 13½ to 18;
Columbia F, open front and back, eyelet or studs; regular length bosoms, 13½ to 18;

44c. each; six for $2.50.

Lot 3 (YALE)—Unlaundered White Shirts, made of New York Mills Muslin, 3-ply 1900 linen set-in bosoms, hand finished improved patterns:

Yale A, closed front, box or welt style, regular length bosom, 12 to 18.

64c. each; six for $3.75.

Lot 4 (HARVARD)—Open back Unlaundered White Shirts, made of Wamsutta Muslin, 3-ply 2000 linen set-in bosoms, special reinforced front and sides, hand finished, box or welt style, (extra serviceable shirts,) 14 to 18.

75c. each; six for $4.35.

Lot 5 (PREMIER)—Open back Unlaundered White Shirts, made of New York Mills Muslin, 3-ply 2100 linen set-in bosoms, 38 inches long, very fine finish, box or welt style, 14 to 18½,

85c. each; six for $5.00.

Lot 6 (DARTMOUTH)—Open front and back Unlaundered White Shirts, made of New York Mills Muslin, 3-ply 2000 linen set-in bosoms, eyelets or studs, hand finish, 13½ to 18,

70c. each; six for $4.10.

Lot 7 (CORNELL)—Open front and back Unlaundered White Shirts, made of New York Mills Muslin, 3-ply 2100 linen set-in bosoms, eyelet or studs, very fine finish, 13½ to 18,

90c. each; six for $5.25.

Lot 8 (AMHERST)—Open front Unlaundered Shirts, made of New York Mills Muslin, 3-ply 2100 pure linen bosoms, plain bosome with studs, fine finish,

90c. each; six for $5.25.

NOTICE.—In ordering shirts by mail, state size of collar worn and lot number or name. Note quotations on half-dozen lots.

NIGHT SHIRTS.

Lot 9—Fancy Outing Flannel NIGHT SHIRTS, extra full and long, 14 to 18,

29c. each.

Lot 10—Fancy Cotton NIGHT SHIRTS, made of extra quality Muslin, fancy trimmed fronts, pockets and cuffs, sizes 12 to 20,

39c. each.

Lot 11—Heavy Twilled Muslin NIGHT SHIRTS, extra full and long, full felled seams, collars and pockets, sizes 14 to 20, 42c.

COLLARS AND CUFFS.

We have had made to our special order five thousand dozen Collars and Cuffs, all of PURE IRISH LINEN, in sixteen different styles, new or standard, including High band turn down shapes. They will be sold by the HALF DOZEN ONLY. The prices speak for themselves.

3,500 dozen pure Irish Linen Collars, extra weight linen, 4-ply; sixteen styles; 13 shapes of standing collars and 6 shapes of turndowns,

48c. per half dozen.

1,500 dozen pure Irish Linen Cuffs, in 8 styles of link or button shapes,

95c. per half dozen.

FANCY SHIRTS—LAUNDERED—HALF PRICE.

By a fortunate combination of circumstances, we have secured a Thousand Dozen of the finest Fancy Shirts ever placed on sale. Prices are just about one-half of usual asking.

Lot A—Boys' and Men's Fancy Percale Shirts, open front and back, separate cuffs, made to sell for $1.00, this sale's price..... 50c

Lot B—Men's Fancy Percale Shirts, negligee bosoms, separate cuffs, would be splendid value at 85c., this sale's price..... 50c

Lot C—Men's Fine American Madras Shirts, sizes 14 to 18, long and short bosoms, over 200 styles, any are excellent values at $1.25, many were made to retail at $1.50 and $1.75, open front, cuffs attached, open front and back, separate and attached cuffs, six for $3.75, singly..... 65c

Lot D—Finest American and Imported Scotch Madras, made by Anderson, of Glasgow. An immense line, long and short bosoms, made to retail at $1.50 and $2.00—size 14 to 18, open front with cuffs attached. Open back and front, with separate and attached cuffs. Six for $5.25—singly..... 90c

JANUARY SALE OF LINENS.

An occasion seized by Hotel and House Keepers to stock up their Linen Closets at nothing like full prices. The removal of Linens upstairs, coupled with the unusual specials, ought to set this year's selling many notches above the ordinary.

TABLE CLOTHS.

Bleached Satin Damask, pure linen, 2 yds. long, $1.45 and $1.75 each.
2½ yds. long, $1.75 and $2.25 each.
3 yds. long, $2.15 and $2.75 each

NAPKINS TO MATCH.

20 inches square, $1.65 and $1.95 dozen.
24 inches square, $2.35 and $2.75 dozen.

TABLE NAPKINS.

19 inches square, $1.19 dozen; value $1.39.
20 inches square, $1.39 dozen; value $1.65.
22 inches square, $1.50 dozen; value $1.85.
24 inches square, $1.89 dozen; value $2.25.
24 inches square, $2.69 dozen; value $3.25.

Blankets—January Prices.

IN WOOL.

	Were	Are
10x4	1.98	1.75
10x4	2.98	2.45
11x4	2.48	1.95
11x4	3.98	2.95
12x4	4.98	3.95
12x4	6.98	5.75

500 Extra Quality Silkoline covered Comfortables at.....95c

Crochet Spreads, new patterns, full size.....89c & 98c

TABLE DAMASK.

50 pieces Bleached Satin Damask, 63 inches wide, pure linen, 45c. yd.; value 60c.
50 pieces Bleached Satin Damask, 66 inches wide, pure linen, 59c. yd.; value 79c.

TOWELS.

All Linen Hemmed Huck Towels, 12½c.
All Linen Hemmed Huck Towels, 15c.
All Linen Hemmed Huck Towels, 19c.
Hemstitched Huck Towels, pure linen, extra large size, never such values known, worth, 30c., at...
Knotted Fringe Damask Towels, extra size, pure linen, value 39c., at..... 25c

Cotton Sheets—Special.

54x90	28c
63x90	32c
72x90	37c
81x90	41c
90x90	46c
90x99	52c
90x108	55c

Pillow Cases.

42x36	9c
45x36	10c
50x36	11c
54x36	12c

COTTON WEAVES HERALD SPRING.

The foreign and home novelties set the calendar forward three months. Already there is better choice than will be found later, when styles, copied and hackneyed, will lack to-day's elements of fresh originality. Some of the new fabrics are:

French Edelweiss Carreaux Soie—organdies a Bandes—Gaze Raye Travers—Persian Raye—Organdie Surfin—Eollenne Leno de Soie—Dimity Satin Raye, and a host of the more substantial Dimities, Zephyrs, Madras and Shirtings, with ethereal St. Gall embroidered Swiss and pointed Foulardettes.

SPECIAL—15,000 yards of printed, embroidered and lappet Swiss Muslins, a sure favorite to be, showing the brightest styles and printings in richest abundance. Our introductory price, Monday, per yard..... 25c

19th Street. Sixth Avenue. 20th Street.

AN ORDER AGAINST MOSQUITOES.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The United States Government has formally recognized the responsibility of the mosquito for the transmission of yellow fever and malarial diseases. This fact is indicated by the issuance of a general order by Major Gen. Wood, at Havana, directed to his post commanders, reciting that the Chief Surgeon of the Department of Cuba has reported that it is now well established that malaria, yellow fever, and other infection are transmitted by the bites of mosquitoes. Therefore the troops are enjoined to observe carefully two precautions:

First, they are to use mosquito bars in all barracks, hospitals, and field service wherever practicable.

Second, they are to destroy the "wiggler," or young mosquitoes, by the use of petroleum on the water, where they breed.

Permanent pools or puddles are to be filled up. To the others are to be applied one ounce of kerosene to each fifteen square feet of water twice a month, which will destroy not only the young, but the old mosquitoes. This does not affect drinking water if drawn from below and not dipped out.

Protection is thus secured, according to the order, because the mosquito does not fly far, seeks shelter when the wind blows, and thus each community breeds its own mosquitoes.

German Claims for Damages in Cuba.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—Negotiations for the settlement of German claims for damages in Cuba during the war have been going on with the United States for some time, the National Zeitung learns, but have not reached a definitive conclusion.

TRADE OF THE PHILIPPINES.

Merchandise Exports for Eleven Months Amount to $19,459,003.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The Division of Insular Affairs of the War Department makes public to-day a statement summarizing the trade of the Philippine Islands for the eleven months ended May 31, 1900.

The value of merchandise imported into the islands during this period is set down at $18,390,695. Gold and silver to the amount of $1,806,340 came into the islands, making the total importation $20,196,988. The import trade from the United States amounted to $1,450,807. The value of exports for the period named amounted to $19,459,003—$17,634,391 in merchandise and $1,824,612 in gold and silver. The value of the exports to the United States is set down at $3,594,577.

A total of 60,644 tons of Manila hemp, valued at $10,582,173 was exported during the period stated, $3,405,808 worth being shipped to the United States.

Outlook for Army Bill Good.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Senator Hawley of Connecticut, Chairman of the Military Committee of the Senate, had a talk with the President to-day about the situation of the Army bill in the upper house. The Senator told the President that he did not anticipate a prolonged contest in the Senate. He will go ahead with the bill as soon as the Senate reconvenes on Thursday, and unless undue opposition develops will not ask the friends of the Ship Subsidy bill to give priority to his measure. The Senator expressed perfect confidence that there would be no filibuster against the Army bill.

GERMAN PRESS UNFRIENDLY.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—The United States Senate's action on the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is much discussed here. The National Zeitung, (National-Liberal,) generally friendly to the United States, devotes a lengthy editorial to the subject this morning.

The general tone of the press is strongly condemnatory of the Senate, without sympathising with Great Britain.

British Shipyard on Gulf of Mexico?

LONDON, Dec. 29.—It is said that when the United States definitely decides to build the Nicaragua Canal one of the greatest shipbuilding concerns in England will simultaneously open on one of the Gulf ports an immense shipyard. Several steel manufacturers are also said to be considering the advisability of establishing American plants.

BLAMES THE COMMISSIONER

Dr. Weston Asserts that Mr. Keller Is Responsible for Abuses.

Says Authorities Are Trying to Make a Scapegoat of Superintendent O'Rourke—Asks for Fair Play.

In an interview yesterday afternoon Dr. Albert Weston, Coroners' physician, asserted that the responsibility for the conditions existing in Bellevue Hospital rested on John W. Keller, the Commissioner of Public Charities.

He said that an effort was being made to find a scapegoat, but that the real responsibility for the conditions that have been disclosed should be fixed on the head.

"What I want for Bellevue Hospital and for Superintendent O'Rourke," said Dr. Weston, "is fair play. My theory is the one on which Gov. Roosevelt acted when he removed District Attorney Gardiner. He did not go for the subordinates. It's right up to the head of the department, and it looks very much like they are trying to make O'Rourke the scapegoat for him.

"Mr. O'Rourke's hands are tied. He has no control, and the most he can do is to make recommendations. He cannot punish the pauper help for delinquencies nor reward them for good work. He has no authority to purchase supplies nor to secure extra help. It's all got to go to the Commissioner."

"What authority has the Medical Board?" was asked.

"It only supervises medical and surgical treatment. To an extent it is only an advisory board. The board has nothing to do with the maintenance of the hospital or the employment of help. So its hands, too, are tied.

"In what way? Why, it has no authority to expend money. It simply makes recommendations to the Commissioner.

"There is another thing you have got to take into consideration," continued Dr. Weston, "and that is the kind of patients that Bellevue gets. For ten years I have been fighting the transfer of patients in the last stages to this institution. Bellevue is the dumping ground of all the hospitals. They send us all of their worst cases."

"Who is to blame for the wrongs done by the nurses?"

"Well, who appoints them? The man who appoints them is responsible, and that man is the Commissioner. He is responsible."

Dr. Weston was asked what he thought of the system which permits pupil nurses to have charge of the sick and insane. The case was cited of Davis, the pupil nurse, who was in charge of the ward in which Louis B. Hilliard was confined.

"That is all wrong," he said. "There should be a graduate nurse in charge of each ward, under whom the pupils work."

"It has been said that one nurse has as many as twenty patients?"

"It comes right down to the question of who prescribes that number. The Medical Board has tried again and again to get more nurses. The Superintendent and the nurses are helpless. You have got to go right to the top to make reforms in Bellevue Hospital. Two conditions act to the detriment of Bellevue Hospital. One is the pauper help and the other the pupil nurses. But its the head that is responsible."

"The head of Bellevue Hospital?"

"No! The head of the Department of Public Charities.

"The reception pavilion for the insane should be put under charge of the State. If that were done, they would put a competent physician in charge. For eight months no physician has been in entire charge of the pavilion. Up to last July Dr. F. W. Robertson had entire charge. When a salary was paid for that position, it was always held by competent men, experienced in insanity cases. That was as it should be."

Dr. Weston said that he heartily approved the provision made by the Charter Revision Commission by which seven Trustees, forming an independent board, would have charge of the hospitals. He did not think a Board of Coroners to investigate every death was necessary, as the hospitals should be run properly and some confidence should exist.

"And there is no reason," he added, "why Bellevue should not be run as well as any other hospital."

Superintendent O'Rourke yesterday denied emphatically that he was responsible for abuses.

"It is impossible for me to know the exact condition of 800 patients," he said. "I am here to inspect the building, the wards, &c. No patient ever made a complaint to me. So far as the Coroner's jury's verdict in the Hilliard inquest was concerned, I do not see how it could have been otherwise, from the evidence."

Commissioner Keller did not come to his office yesterday. He is still confined to his room at the New Amsterdam Hotel, where he has been ill since Thursday.

TO DROP HOSPITAL EMPLOYES.

Twenty-three Attaches of Bellevue Will Go Jan. 1.

Superintendent O'Rourke yesterday received from Commissioner Keller a list which contained twenty-three names of employes of the institution who are to be dropped from the pay rolls on Jannary. The Superintendent refused to give out the names.

The dismissals are due to the recent retrenchment plan of Commissioner Keller, who stated that it was impossible to run the Department of Public Charities on the appropriation given by the Mayor. The list of employes has been cut down to reduce the pay roll about $16,000.

Dr. Shrady on Belevue Abuses.

Dr. George F. Shrady last night corrected a statement in which he was made to say that the Medical Board of Bellevue Hospital was responsible for the abuses. "I made no such remark," he said. If the Medical Board was responsible I do not believe that the abuses would have existed or gone uncorrected. The board is a fine body of men, who would undoubtedly have righted the wrongs if they had the power. I agree entirely with Dr. Weston's statement that the head of the Department of Public Charities is responsible.

CUBANS ASK REDUCED TARIFF.

Want 25 Per Cent. Off United States Duty on Sugar and Export Tax on Tobacco Halved.

HAVANA, Dec. 29.—A delegation of ten alcaldes from the Province of Pinar del Rio visited Gov. Gen. Wood to-day with a petition for a reduction of 25 per cent. in the tariff on sugar for the United States and of 50 per cent. in the export duty on tobacco, in order to enable the planters to recoup on these important island industries.

Gen. Wood is favorable to the petition, and will recommend to the Secretary of War that it be granted, as he considers it highly important to the peace and prosperity of Cuba.

Better Class Cubans Want Annexation.

HAVANA, Dec. 29.—Congressmen Pierce, Bailey, and Haugen, who are visiting Cuba for the purpose of learning the opinions of the people regarding the relations between the United States and Cuba, find that the better elements desire the closest relations, even annexation, and that only the revolutionary elements are opposed. The Federalists are now leading the sentiment of the Constitutional Convention.

Actor Collier's Funeral.

The funeral of Edmund Kean Collier, the actor, who died on Thursday at St. Joseph's Hospital, was held yesterday afternoon from St. Leo's Roman Catholic Church, on East Twenty-eighth Street. Father Ducey read the absolution services. The interment was in Greenwood. There were no pall bearers, and the service was of the simplest character. The daughter of the deceased and her husband, who is a son of Bartley Campbell, were present, as well as 4 number of the older actors of the city, who were fellow-players with the deceased.

Graduates of Grammar School 77 to Dine

Arrangements have been about completed for the third annual reunion and dinner of the Graduates' Dinner Club of Grammar School No. 77, to be held at the Hotel Marlborough, Saturday evening, Feb. 2. The association is composed of men who were graduated previous to 1896. The guests of the evening are to be Edward A. Page, the Principal of the school; Elmer E. Poulson, and Bertis G. Magie, two former teachers of the graduating class.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS.

Annual Report of the Indiana, Illinois and Iowa Railroad Shows a Net Gain.

The annual report of the Indiana, Illinois and Iowa Railroad for the year ended June 30, 1900, shows a net gain in the surplus over last year of $73,548. There was issued during the year $1,302,200 of capital stock, making a total of $5,000,000 issued. The additional stock was sold to aid the Streator and Clinton Railroad in the construction and equipment of its road. The funded debt was increased by $500,000, and now amounts to $3,000,000. Extensions and leases entered into during the year give the Indiana, Illinois and Iowa Railroad Company a line of road from St. Joseph, Michigan, on the east shore of Lake Michigan, to Fulton, Illinois, on the Mississippi River, 295 miles, and connection with all Eastern and Western trunk line systems.

There was constructed during the year twenty large, modern receiving grain elevators at various stations along the line of the road.

Speaking of general conditions, the report says:

"The system of drainage which has been carried on so extensively through Indiana during the last five or six years, and the reclamation of lands along the line of the Indiana, Illinois and Iowa Railroad in Indiana, together with the improved facilities for handling local business along the entire line of road have very greatly increased the company's earnings from its local traffic. So rapidly has the local business grown that over 51 per cent. of the gross earnings of the road during the last four months has been derived from this traffic.

"It is believed that with the beginning of operations over the extensions this per cent. of earnings from local business will be steadily increased, notwithstanding the increase of through traffic expected from the new connections which the extensions will give the road."

SOUTHERN RAILWAY CHANGES.

Acquisition of the Louisville and St. Louis Air Line Announced.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 29.—In a series of circulars just issued by the Southern Railway announcement is made of the taking over of the Louisville and St. Louis Air Line, the appointment of George C. Smith as General Manager, and the consolidation of the Air Line property and all the lines of the Southern in Kentucky under the operating title of the St. Louis-Louisville Lines.

The jurisdiction of the First and Second Vice Presidents is extended over the Air Line. The headquarters of General Manager Smith are established in the Chemical Building, St. Louis. The various auditing and other departmental officers in Louisville have their territory extended over the Air Line.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The Southern Railway Company announce the following appointments effective Jan. 1: W. H. Peddie, General Superintendent of Transportation; R. B. Pegram, Assistant General Manager; H. E. Hutchens, Superintendent Memphis Division; A. Ramseur, Superintendent Norfolk Division. These are changes growing out of the resignation of J. H. Barrett as General Superintendent of Transportation.

Big Railroad Mortgage Filed.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 29.—A mortgage for $2,500,000, given by the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railroad to a Newark trust company, was filed here to-day. The mortgage is to run for fifty years at 5 per cent. It covers all the real estate of the railroad and that which it may in future acquire.

Brief Railroad Items.

President Hays of the Southern Pacific Company says that there are no changes in prospect among the officials of that company.

President Stuyvesant Fish of the Illinois Central says that the past year has been one of unusual prosperity, and that the prospects for the coming year are excellent.

The Chicago and Northwestern issued for the holidays a special holiday menu for its dining cars. On the cover is the picture of a girl cook serving a hot pudding.

PLOT TO KILL TWENTY MEN?

BARRE, Vt., Dec. 29.—The police who have been working on the case resulting from the assault on Chief of Police Brown, who was shot here by Italian Anarchists Thursday morning, were surprised to-day when evidence of a plot for a wholesale murder of Italian Socialists was disclosed by a man who called on the injured Chief. The name of the person, out of consideration for his personal safety, has not been made known.

He told Chief Brown to-day that a full score of members of the local Socialist society had been marked for murder by the Anarchists, and that only the prompt arrival of the police at the Socialist dance, where the Anarchists had started a fight, prevented the slaughter. It also was maintained that a desire for vengeance upon the one who foiled the plot was the true motive for the shooting of the Chief of Police.

According to the informant of the police, about fifteen Anarchists were concerned in the plot, four of whom live in Barre, and the others at Montpelier. While the police are not prepared to accept the story in all its details, they declare that it is by no means without foundation.

The officials are prosecuting the case with renewed zeal. Two Italians were arrested to-day, making nine now in custody.

Chief Brown was considered by his physicians to be practically out of danger to-day.

SHIPPING AND FOREIGN MAILS.

Miniatnre Almanac—This Day.

A. M.		P. M.		P. M.
Sun rises...7:24	Sun sets...	4:42	Moon sets...	1:32

High Water This Day.

A. M.		A. M.		A. M.
S. Hook...2:06	Gov. Isl'd...	2:38	H. Gate...	4:34
P. M.		P. M.		P. M.
S. Hook...2:29	Gov. Isl'd...	2:51	H. Gate...	4:47

Outgoing Steamships.

TO-DAY, (SUNDAY,) DEC. 30.

	Mails Close	Vessels Sail.
Anchoria, Glasgow	10:00 A. M.	12:00 M.
Jamestown, Norfolk		3:00 P. M.

MONDAY, DEC. 31.

Mesaba, London
Princess Anne, Nortolk		3:00 P. M.
Uller, St. Kitts and Barbados	11:00 A. M.	1:00 P. M.

TUESDAY, JAN. 1.

Comanche, Charleston		3:00 P. M.
El Monte, New Orleans		3:00 P. M.
Guyandotte, Norfolk		3:00 P. M.
Jaffa, Northern Brazil	3:00 A. M.
Taurie, Liverpool

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 2.

Allianca, Colon	9:30 A. M. *10:30 A. M.	1:00 P. M.
Hamilton, Norfolk		3:00 P. M.
Leon Hill, Genoa, &c.
New York, Southampton	8:30 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
Sabine, Galveston		8:00 P. M.
Seguranca, Havana, Progreso, &c	12:30 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Teutonic, Queenstown	8:30 A. M. *10:00 A. M.	12:00 M.

THURSDAY, JAN. 3.

Antilla, Nassau	12:30 P. M. *1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Jamestown, Norfolk		3:00 P. M.
Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, Bremen	6:30 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
La Gascogne, Havre	6:30 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
Mt. Vernon, Haiti and Inagua	9:30 A. M.	12:00 M.
Peninsular, Azores Island	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Phidias, Argentine Republic, Paraguay, and Uruguay	12:00 M.	2:00 P. M.
Prins Willem III., Haiti	10:00 A. M.	12:00 M.
Saratoga, Santiago, Nassau, &c	12:30 P. M. *1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.

FRIDAY, JAN. 4.

Iroquois, Charleston		3:00 P. M.
Matanzas, Mexica, via Tampico	12:30 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Princess Anne, Norfolk		3:00 P. M.
Rio Grande, Brunswick, Ga		3:00 P. M.

*SUPPLEMENTARY MAILS.—Additional supplementary mails are opened on the piers of the American, English, French, and German steamers and remain open until within ten minutes of the hour of sailing.

TRANSPACIFIC MAILS.

Mails for Australia, (except West Australia,) New Zealand, Hawaii, Fiji, and Samoan Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. after Dec 19 and up to Dec. 29, inclusive, or on day of arrival of steamer Etruria, due at New York Dec. 29, for dispatch per steamer Sonoma. Mails for China, Japan, and Philippine Islands, via Tacoma, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Dec. 31, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Olenturret. Mails for Papeiti, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 11, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Australia. Mails for China, Japan, and Philippine Islands, via Seattle, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 11, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Riojun Maru, (registered mail must be directed "via Seattle.") Mails for Hawaii, China, Japan, and Philippine Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 18, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Peking. Mails for Australia, (except West Australia, which goes via Europa, and New Zealand, which goes via San Francisco,) and Fiji Islands, via Vancouver, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 25, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Warrimoo, (supplementary mails, via Seattle, close at 6:30 P. M. Jan. 26.) Mails for Hawaii, Japan, China, and Philippine Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 11, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Gaelic. Mails for China and Japan, via Vancouver, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 22, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Empress of Japan, (registered mail must be directed "via Vancouver.")

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

Postmaster Van Cott announces that mails from Australia arrived at Vancouver and were dispatched east Dec. 28. Due in New York on the morning of Wednesday, Jan. 2.

Incoming Steamships.

TO-DAY, (SUNDAY,) DEC. 30.

Ardiethen, Rotterdam, Dec. 9.
Arkansas, Copenhagen, Dec. 2.
Balilla, Gibraltar, Dec. 13.
Bristol City, Swansea, Dec. 15.
Flaxman, St. Lucia, Dec. 22.
Grenada, Port Spain, Dec. 22.
Inchmaree, Algiers, Dec. 7.
John Sanderson, Sunderland, Dec. 5.
Jefferson, Norfolk, Dec. 29.
Kansas City, Savannah, Dec. 27.
Kansas City, Queenstown, Dec. 17.
La Gascogne, Havre, Dec. 22.
Lowther Castle, Glasgow, Dec. 14.
Moonstone, Huelva, Dec. 7.
Martello, Hull, Dec. 15.
Minneapolis, London, Dec. 20.
Norge, Christiania, Dec. 15.
Orande Nassau, Port au Prince, Dec. 23.
Pretoria, Hamburg, Dec. 17.
St. Dunstan, Gibraltar, Dec. 14.
Statendam, Rotterdam, Dec. 20.

MONDAY, DEC. 31.

Astoria, Glasgow, Dec. 20.
California, Glasgow, Dec. 20.
Caribbee, St. Thomas, Dec. 26.
El Sud, New Orleans, Dec. 26.
Guyandotte, Norfolk, Dec. 30.
Nomadic, Liverpool, Dec. 21.
Proteus, New Orleans, Dec. 26.
Rio Grande, Brunswick, Ga., Dec. 28.

TUESDAY, JAN. 1.

Afghanistan, Hamburg, Dec. 18.
Alene, Port Limon, Dec. 25.
El Dorado, New Orleans, Dec. 27.
Finance, Colon, Dec. 25.
Hildur, Curacao, Dec. 24.
Hamilton, Norfolk, Dec. 31.
Philadelphia, Liverpool, Dec. 19.
Werra, Gibraltar, Dec. 23.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 2.

Concho, Galveston, Dec. 26.
Hesperia, Gibraltar, Dec. 19.
Jamestown, Norfolk, Jan. 1.

THURSDAY, JAN. 3.

Cymric, Liverpool, Dec. 25.
Liv, Algiers, Dec. 18.
Princess Anne, Norfolk, Jan. 2.
San Marcos, Galveston, Dec. 28.
Trier, St. Michaels, Dec. 25.

Arrived.

SS Etruria, (Br.,) McKay, Liverpool, Dec. 22, and Queenstown 23d, with mdse. and passengers to Vernon H. Brown & Co. Anchored in Quarantine at 10:45 P. M.

SS Origen, (Nor.,) Hegge, Galveston, Dec. 21, in ballast to the Tweedie Trading Company.

SS Princess Anne, Davis, Newport News and Norfolk, with mdse. and passengers to Old Dominion Steamship Company.

SS Borkum, (Ger.,) Albrecht, Bremen, Dec. 10, with mdse. to Oelrichs & Co. Arrived at the Bar at 9 A. M.

SS Comanche, Pennington, Jacksonville, &c., Dec. 29, with mdse. and passengers to William P. Clyde & Co.

SS Katahdin, Melvin, Newport News.

SS Seminole, Bearse, Boston, with mdse. to William P. Clyde & Co.

SS Lisbonense, (Br.,) Bennett, Manaos, &c., Dec. 12, with mdse. and passengers to Edmund Reekes & Co. Arrived at the Bar at 2:45 P. M.

SS Brooklyn City, (Br.,) King, Bristol, &c., Dec. 5, with mdse. to James Arkell & Co. Arrived at the Bar at 6 A. M.

SS Handel, (Br.,) Partridge, Santos, &c., Nov. 30, with mdse. to Busk & Jevons. Arrived at the Bar at 6:15 P. M. 28th.

SS Vidar, (Nor.,) Sorensen, Tecalutla and Tuxpan, Dec. 17, with cedar and mahogany to W. D. Munson. Arrived at the Bar at 11:30 P. M. 28th.

SS San Juan, Sampson, San Juan, P. R., Dec. 24, with mdse. and passengers to the New York and Porto Rico Steamship Company. Arrived at the Bar at 7:33 A. M.

SS Ferndeno, (Br.,) Jones, Cardiff, Dec. 11, in ballast to James H. Winchester & Co. Arrived in Lower Bay at 1:42 P. M.; ordered to Norfolk and proceeded, passing out Sandy Hook at 2:15 P. M.

SS Anapa, (Br.,) Williamson, Kobe, &c., Oct. 4, with mdse. to Shewan, Tomes & Co. Arrived at the Bar at 2 P. M.

SS New York, Mills, Southampton and Cherbourg Dec. 22, with mdse. and passengers to the International Navigation Company. Anchored in Quarantine at 11:50 P. M.

WIND—At Sandy Hook, N. J., at 9:30 P. M., west southwest, moderate breeze; fair, hazy.

Sailed.

SS Cyrene, (Br.,) for Santos, &c.
SS Ydun, (Nor.,) for Santa Cruz, &c.
SS Ida Holme, (Br.,) for Algoa Bay, &c.
SS Michigan, for Colon.
SS State of Nebraska, (Br.,) for Glasgow.
SS Georgian, (Br.,) for Liverpool.
SS La Normandie, (Fr.,) for Havre.
SS Amsterdam, (Dutch,) for Rotterdam.
SS Harmodius, (Br.,) for Montevideo, &c.
SS City of Everett, for Port Tampa.
SS Pennsylvania, (Ger.,) for Hamburg via Plymouth and Cherbourg.
SS Campania, (Br.,) for Liverpool.
SS El Paso, for New Orleans.
SS Altai, (Br.,) for Kingston, &c.
SS Ithaka, (Ger.,) for Tampico.
SS Caracas, for La Guayra, &c.
SS Mexico, for Havana.
SS Aller, (Ger.,) for Naples, &c.
SS Glenesk, (Br.,) for Singapore, Manila, &c.
SS Madiana, (Br.,) for St. Thomas, &c.
SS Prima, (Nor.,) for Progreso.
SS Hamilton, for Norfolk and Newport News.
SS Consuelo, (Br.,) for Hull.
SS Maraval, (Br.,) for Trinidad.
SS Lampasas, for Key West and Galveston.
SS Olinda, for Matanzas, &c.
SS City of Macon, for Boston.
SS Louisiana, for New Orleans.
SS Saginaw, for Wilmington, N. C., and Georgetown, S. C.
SS Chattahoochee, for Savannah.
SS Goldsboro, for Philadelphia.
SS Chesapeake, for Baltimore.

By Cable.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—SS Spaarndam, (Dutch,) Capt. Stenger, from New York, arr. at Rotterdam at 2 P. M. to-day.

SS Graf Waldersee, (Ger.,) Capt. Kopff, from New York via Plymouth and Cherbourg, arr. at Hamburg at 1 A. M. to-day.

SS Wells City, (Br.,) Capt. Carey, from New York for Bristol, passed Brow Head to-day.

SS Hogarth, (Br.,) Capt. Taylor, from New York via Macelo, arr. at Santos yesterday.

SS Sofia Brailli, (Aust.,) Capt. Ghergich, from New York, arr. at Hamburg to-day.

SS La Champagne, (Fr.,) Capt. Fajolle, from New York, arr. at Havre at 11 A. M. to-day.

SS Bellenden, (Br.,) Capt. Jared, for New York, sld. from Lota Dec. 27.

SS Woodburn, (Br.,) for New York, sld. from Huelva Dec. 27.

SS Wordsworth, (Belg.,) Capt. Hairby, from Santos, &c., for New York, sld. from St. Lucia yesterday.

SS Servia, (Br.,) Capt. Stephens, for New York, sld. from Liverpool to-day.

SS Noordland, (Belg.,) Capt. Loesewitz, for New York, sld. from Antwerp to-day.

SS Melbourne, (Br.,) Capt. Ross, from New York via St. Vincent, C. V., for Adelaide, &c., passed Cape Point Dec. 6.

SS Potsdam, (Dutch,) Capt. Bonjer, from Rotterdam for New York, passed Prawle Point to-day.

SS Capri, (Ger.,) Capt. Rambusch, from New York via Barbados, arr. at Pernambuco Dec. 24.

SS Weehawken, (Br.,) Capt. Robinson, from New York via Queenstown, arr. at Belfast Dec. 27.

SS Moonstone, (Br.,) Capt. Williams, from Huelva for New York, called for coal at Bermuda to-day and sailed.

SS Progreso, (Nor.,) Capt. Steen, from Iquique for New York, sld. from Montevideo Dec. 22.

SS Bremerhaven, (Dutch,) Capt. Ninnes, for New York, sld. from Antwerp Dec. 27.

SS La Bretagne, (Fr.,) Capt. Alix, for New York, sld. from Havre at 4 P. M. to-day.

SS Kaiserin Maria Theresia, (Ger.,) Capt. Richter, from Bremen and Southampton for New York, sld. from Cherbourg at 9 A. M. to-day.

SS Picqua, (Br.,) Capt. Filkins, from New York for Malta, Venice, &c., passed Gibraltar yesterday.

SS Georgic, (Br.,) Capt. Thompson, from New York for Liverpool, passed Brow Head to-day.

SS Lucerna, (Br.,) Capt. Dyer, from New York for Hull, passed Scilly to-day.

SS Folmina, (Dutch,) Capt. Van Eyken, from New York via Singapore, &c., arr. at Hongkong to-day.

SS Umbria, (Br.,) Capt. Dutton, from New York, arr. at Liverpool to-day.

SS Toronto, (Br.,) Capt. Marshall, from New York, arr. at Hull to-day.

SS Inchmaree, (Br.,) Capt. Purse, from Calcutta for New York, called for coal at Bermuda to-day and sailed.

SS Sardinian, (Br.,) Capt. Johnstone, from Glasgow for New York, sld. from Lamlash to-day.

Yachts, Vessels, &c.

GAS ENGINE AND POWER COMPANY AND CHARLES L. SEABURY & COMPANY. Builders of the only Naphtha Launch, high-class Steam Yachts, Sail Yachts, Electric Launches, Dinghys, Gigs, and Yacht Tenders. Seabury's Water Tube Boilers and Marine Engines. Storage Basin and Ship's Ways. Overhauling of all kinds promptly done. Charters and Insurance. Boats bought and sold on commission. Correspondence solicited. Send 10 cents in stamps for catalogue for down-town office, 54 Broadway, or to factory, at Morris Heights, New York City.

HUNTINGTON & SEAMAN, YACHT BROKERS. 220 Broadway, N. Y. Auxiliary, Seagoing, Steam Yacht. 110 ft. water line; 5 state rooms; electric lights; hot; cold water; ice machine; dining saloon on deck; steers from bridge; magnificent equipment.

A NEW GUIDE TO LOCAL INSPECTORS' EXamination of masters and mates, containing all the work; by mail, $1; applicants for license prepared for examination. R. M. PUGSLEY, 116 Nassau St., New York.

ALL CLASSES OF STEAM VESSELS, YACHTS, tugs, launches, &c., designed and for sale; light-draught vessels a specialty. M. HUBBE, Naval Architect, 17 State St.

AN EXCELLENT SCHOONER FOR SALE; bargain; would make fine auxiliary, with one of Wing's marine gas engine. L. J. WING MANUFACTURING CO., 95 Liberty St.

FOR SALE.—100-foot, flush deck, Herreshoff Steam Yacht; deck dining saloon; electric lights, &c.; good speed; A1 condition throughout. FRANK BOWNE JONES, 29 Broadway.

YACHTS FOR SALE OR CHARTER. McIntosh Yacht Basin, 26th St., Brooklyn. A. J. McINTOSH, Yacht Broker, 32 Broadway.

THE BIG STORE A CITY IN ITSELF

SIEGEL, COOPER & Co.

SIXTH AVE. MEET ME AT THE FOUNTAIN 18TH & 19TH STS.

Fine Furs—Reduced.

We're bound to have some fur-wearing weather between now and Spring, but even should we not have many cold days, these furs are well worth buying for next season, the extraordinary price reductions making them attractive investments.

Electric Seal Coats,

Two Special Bargains,

At 19.75 and 27.50.

Genuine Persian Coats,

Two Special Bargains,

At 57.00 and 75.00.

MINK NECK PIECES, reduced from $15.00 to 9.75
MINK MUFFS, reduced from $22.50 to 14.50
ELECTRIC SEAL SCARFS, reduced from $5.00 to 2.90

Dinner Ware and Bric-a-Brac.

To-morrow will be your last opportunity to get a new Dinner Set if you need one for New Year's Day, and a glance over a few of our specially reduced prices will show you that you can please yourself best, from every point of view, at The Big Store. Our special offering in Bric-a-Brac and Bronzes ought not to be overlooked, either; it's so unusually meritorious.

Dinner Ware.

DINNER SET, 112 pieces, very richly decorated, regularly sold at $12.00; special at 7.50

DINNER SET, 100 pieces fine Austrian China, richly decorated, regularly sold at $16.00; special at 11.50

DINNER SET, 100 pieces, Haviland French China, nicely decorated, regularly worth $25.00; special at 18.50

DINNER SET, 101 pieces, French China, elaborately decorated in border designs, regularly worth $43.00; special at 26.00

Fish Sets.

FISH SET, 16 pieces, very handsomely decorated; regularly worth $8.50; special at 5.50

Bric-a-Brac.

We have selected a number of choice pieces of bric-a-brac and bronzes from our large stock and reduced them especially for Monday's selling. You will find them on sale on separate tables, and marked down to

HALF ORIGINAL PRICES!

Handsomely Trimmed Hats, worth from $7.00 to $15.00 apiece, will go on sale to-morrow

at $3.50 and $5.00.

These fine hats were trimmed especially for our January sale. They are "End of the Century" hats in every respect, being fashioned after the very latest Paris models and made of all silk velvets in black and every wanted color, elaborately trimmed with fine roses, ostrich plumes, elegant steel and gilt buckles, etc. We dislike to speak of "beauty" and "bargains" in the same breath, but these are beauty bargains of exceeding rarity, sure to be quickly snapped up by appreciative women.

Men's Colored Dress Shirts

(worth $1.00 to $1.25 apiece),

here to-morrow at, each, 65c.

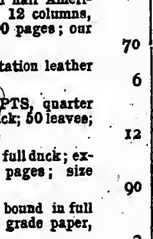
A fortunate purchase from one of the foremost shirt makers of America enables us to make this offer. It represents the entire "clean up" of his factory, and if we had to pay anything like the regular wholesale prices we never could have sold these shirts to you for less than a dollar or a dollar and a quarter each. The shirts went on sale Saturday morning for the first time, and sold so fast that we must advise you to come at once—else you may meet with disappointment.

There are dozens of handsome, stylish patterns to pick and choose from, all sizes, and all made with detached link cuffs.

Watches.

To-morrow will be the last day of the old year and of the 19th century, too, a day when many good resolutions will be made, most of which will never be kept. Why not make up your mind to be PUNCTUAL in future? It will pay you to do so, depend upon it! If you haven't a reliable timepiece, get one at once. A small outlay will do it—here—to-morrow.

WOMEN'S SOLID 14-KARAT GOLD WATCHES, with hunting cases, beautifully engraved and engine turned, fitted with the Dueber-Hampden movement known as the Molly Stark; regularly sold at $25.00; specially priced for Monday at 16.25



WOMEN'S 14-KARAT GOLD FILLED WATCHES, with hunting case, guaranteed for 25 years, fitted with the Molly Stark movement; regularly sold at $16.50, specially priced for Monday at 9.75

MEN'S 14-KARAT GOLD FILLED HUNTING CASE WATCHES, guaranteed for 25 years; fitted with Waltham or Elgin movement; priced by exclusive jewellers at $20.00; our price for to-morrow 12.75

MEN'S 14-KARAT GOLD FILLED WATCHES—New, thin model; plain, polished open faced case, fitted with Waltham or Elgin nickel movement; well worth $20.00; specially priced for to-morrow at 12.75

Blank Books.

LEDGER—Record, Day Book, Cash and Journal; wove paper, bound in duck, leather corners, 300 pages; our price, each, 30

LEDGER—Journal, Cash Book. Fair grade white paper, bound in slate duck, 200 pages; our price, each, 40

LEDGER—Journal or Cash Book. Fine grade heavy white wove paper bound in slate duck; imitation Russia corners, spring back hubs, marble edges, 300 pages; our price, 1.00

COPYING BOOKS. Fine finish, good strength; will take excellent copy of pen or type written matter, 300 pages; our price, 50

HOTEL REGISTER. Printed heads, heavy white wove paper. Half Russia leather back and corners, 150 pages; our price, 1.05

LEDGER—Journal; demy size; sheep ends and bands, good quality of paper; 1,000 pages; our price, each, 4.50

LEDGER—Journal; demy size, bound in full canvas, Russia corners, good quality paper; 1,000 pages; our price, each, 3.70

MINIATURE LEDGER—Journal, Cash, Day Record; also single Ledger; bound in full canvas; flexible, 176 pages; our price, each, 15

TRIAL BALANCE BOOKS; extra heavy white wove paper, bound in half American Russia leather; ruled 12 columns, units and footing lines; 100 pages; our price, 70

TIME BOOK—Weekly, imitation leather cover; our price, 6

NOTES, DRAFTS, RECEIPTS, quarter bound, paper sides, cloth back; 50 leaves; our price, each, 12

INVOICE BOOKS, bound in full dnck; extra Manila paper; 200 pages; size 10½x14¼; our price, 90

MEMORANDUM BOOKS, bound in full slate cloth, cut finsh, fair grade paper, 40 leaves; our price, 3

DUPLICATING ORDER BOOKS, bound in half leather back, with indexes in front and patent carbon holder in back; our price, 40

ROLL BOOKS, demy size, good heavy paper; ruled for 31 days; bound in black cloth sides, black leather back and corners, 150 pages; our price, 60

BILL BOOKS, half bound paper sides, leather back and corners, demy size, 48 leaves; our price, 37

MILK BOOKS, pocket size, bound in sheep with pencil loop and index in front, 60 leaves; our price, 28

Calendars for 1901.

A big assortment to select from; recently on sale at 50c., 75c. and $1.00 apiece; your choice to-morrow for 25

Diaries for 1901.

Full and complete lines of the most desirable kinds, at prices ranging from 15c. to 2.50

The Cloak Dept.

presents for to-morrow decisive price reductions on fashionable garments for present wear—price reductions such as are seldom made at other stores even at the very end of the season. Considering that there are three months of winter yet before us, we believe these offerings to be uncommonly attractive:

150 High Class Novelty Garments, of cloth and velour, in Eton, Blouse, Box and Jacket shapes. Former price $22.50 to $37.50,

Reduced to $12.50 and $18.75.

Fur Trimmed Automobiles,

of fine Kersey, with beaver, mink, sable and Persian collars and revers. Former price $35.00 to $55.00,

Reduced to $25.00 and $32.50.

27-Inch Box Coats,

of black and castor kersey. Former price $10.00 and $12.50,

Reduced to $7.90.

Ladies' Waists.

Some unusually low-priced offerings for Monday, December 31, that will enable women to enter into the new century clad in handsome, stylish, comfortable waists at prices that are—to say the least—remarkable.

Taffeta Silk Dress Waists

(entirely new) at $5.00

These waists are tucked in clusters all over, have a white tucked vest front, collar and puffed cuffs; front, collar and cuffs trimmed with embroidered stitching on black band; each and every waist is lined, bound and made over the new long front model; the prettiest waists ever offered at the price.

ALSO

New Flannel Waists

At 79c., $1.25 and $1.90

The best materials, the finest workmanship, the latest patterns—all that Twentieth Century Waists ought to be—this great collection fittingly represents.

Good Things to Eat and Drink for New Year's Day.

"Eat, Drink and Be Merry!" If you are careful to see that what you eat and drink is pure and good, little if any harm will result from overindulgence. Anything bought in "The World's Pure Food Mart" can be implicitly relied upon to be exactly as represented; we'll stake our reputation on it, and that means everything to us.

As to prices—look at these:

Pure Foods and Groceries.

TURKEYS—Fancy N. Y. State and Rhode Island fresh dressed Spring Turkeys, lb., 14c. and 12½
FLOUR—Siegel-Cooper's best XXXX Minnesota Patent Flour, bbl., 4.50
FISH—Selected Long Island Scallops, qt., 15
LEMONS—Choice large Juicy Messinas, dozen, 12
ORANGES—Large Sweet California Oranges, doz., 30
CORN—Fancy N. Y. State or Maine Cream Sugar Corn, doz., 90c.; can, 8
ASPARAGUS TIPS—Cooper's Club Asparagus Tips, choice and tender, doz., $1.40, can, 12
TABLE RAISINS—Choice clusters, 22-lb. box, $1.95, lb., 12
PEEL—Fancy New Leghorn Citron, Lemon or Orange Peel, lb., 15
Choice Evaporated Peaches and Pears, lb., 12
PRUNES—Choice Meaty Santa Clara Fruit, 5 lbs., 25
RICE—Fancy Carolina Rice, 4 lbs., 25
SAUSAGE—Cervelat, Holsteiner or Farmer, lb., 15
Fresh New Year's Cake, lb., 10
TEA: Choice first pickings, fancy Formosa Oolong, Moyune, Young Hyson, India and Ceylon, Japan, Gunpowder, English Breakfast Teas, regularly sold at 70c. and 80c. per lb., rich, aromatic flavored teas, delicate fragrance, 5-lb. lead lined caddy, $2.25; lb., 48
SUGAR—7 lbs. of H. & E. refined Granulated Sugar, 39

COFFEE: Mocha and Java, "Popular Blend," full flavored, rich aroma, sound body, 4 lbs., $1.00; lb. 28
OLIVES: "Hazel" fancy large selected Queen Olives, exquisite flavor and taste, large 20-oz. bottle, 47
CANNED FRUIT: "Monroe" Egg or Greengage Plums and "Sheppard" Baltimore Peaches, large 3-lb. cans, doz., $1.40; can, 12
SPICES: Strictly Pure Pepper, Mustard, Cloves, Allspice, lb., 19
PLUM PUDDING: "Hazel" brand, best ingredients, can, 19
MAPLE SYRUP: Milford brand Pure Maple Juice, ½-gal: can, 27

Wines and Liquors.

HENNESSEY BRANDY, imported, per bot.,

DYSENTERY GERM FOUND

Dr. Gay, at Arctic Club Dinner, Says He Has an Antitoxin.

Explorers Differ as to the Chances of Reaching the Pole—Prof. Brewer Thinks Peary Is There.

At the annual banquet of the Arctic Club, held at the Marlborough Hotel last night, Dr. F. C. Gay, a member of the medical expedition to Manila two years ago, said that he had isolated the germ of dysentery which has killed so many soldiers and which for many years had been the bane of the army. He said he had been working for the past year with Dr. Flexner of Paris in the Pasteur Laboratory, and that he would soon be able to announce an antitoxin to cure dysentery.

After his address, Dr. Gay said he did not care to discuss his discovery until the whole process could be made public.

Among those present at the banquet, at which Prof. William H. Brewer, President of the club, presided, were Amos Bonsall, the sole survivor of the Elisha K. Kane expedition; James W. Dewell of the Miranda expedition, Albert Operti, the Government artist accompanying the Peary expedition; Dr. Cook, an antarctic explorer; Hugh Lee of the Peary expedition; Major D. L. Brainard, United States Army, of the Greeley expedition; Henry Brederbeck of the Greeley expedition, and Herbert L. Bridgman of the Peary expedition.

On flags on the walls of the room were the names of members of the various exploring parties, and at the head of the table was a large oil painting, by Albert Operti, representing Schwatka and Gilder in conference with Eskimos while on the Franklin search expedition. On the table was a stuffed baby seal of pure white, the head of a walrus, and the favors were Eskimos images. In the centre of the table was the representation of a vessel locked in a sea of ice.

During the evening a loving cup was presented to President Brewer.

Herbert L. Bridgman gave an account of the letters and relics that Peary sent home from the Greely expedition.

President Brewer, in introducing Amos Bonsall, said: "I believe that Peary has found the north pole, and awaits only for Spring to set in to start for home."

Capt. Bonsall replied to the claim that arctic expeditions were unprofitable and accomplished nothing. Speaking of the proposed Baldwin expedition he said he believed the north pole would be reached. The conditions were favorable and were getting more favorable for the explorers each year. He said that there was only an area of 250 miles in a circle that is now unknown.

President Brewer displayed a piece of rock, saying it was from the land the furthest north on which human feet had trod. Col. David L. Brainard and James B. Lockwood were referred to as the men who presented him with the relic, having gotten it during the Greely expedition. Col. Brainard, in describing the land, was not so optimistic as Mr. Bonsall.

"I have never been convinced that the north pole would be reached with our present appliances," said he. "I think the north pole will never be reached. I do not want to smash any convictions, but that is the result of my observations."

POLAR ISLAND OF VAN WYCK.

Was Named in Honor of New York's Mayor by the Belgian Antarctic Commission.

Papers are now on their way to this city from the Antarctic Commission of the Belgian Government officially informing Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck that an island in the Southern Polar Sea has been named after him.

Van Wyck Island is one of a group discovered by the Belgian Antarctic expedition which returned last year after an extended sojourn among the icebergs of the South. Situated not far from Brooklyn Island, the largest of the group, its location is at about latitude 62 and longitude 63. It is about six miles in circumference, and its highest point is 1,000 feet above the sea level. According to a member of the Arctic Club of this city, who is acquainted with its history, natural and otherwise, it has a population of about 1,000,000 penguins, being a great breeding place for the birds. The waters surrounding it are very deep and full of seals and whales. The only products of the island are guano and ice, of which latter article there is enough to supply the whole City of New York for centuries.

Dr. F. A. Cook of Brooklyn, who was the only American member of the expedition, said last night that he named the island after Mayor Van Wyck because he received word about the time of the discovery that Mr. Van Wyck had been elected the first Mayor of Greater New York. The doctor said that no joke had been intended in naming the island, as at that time the Ice Trust charges had not been made.

It was said by members of the Arctic Club that King Leopold of Belgium probably would grant the island (which belongs to the Belgians by right of discovery) to the Mayor in fee simple should the latter care to own it.

Dr. Cook Honored by Foreign Societies.

Dr. F. A. Cook, the Brooklyn anthropologist, who returned a year ago from the South Polar Sea, whither he had accompanied as the only American member, the Belgian antarctic expedition, will be a passenger on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse sailing for Europe next Thursday. Dr. Cook goes to meet his colleagues of the expedition in order to collaborate on the official record which will be in ten volumes, and thirty sets of which will be distributed among American colleges and scientific societies. Dr. Cook has recently received a number of medals in recognition of his work, among them a silver medal from the Royal Geographical Society of England, a gold medal from the Royal Academy of Belgium, and another from the City of Brussels.

A FIGHTING CHINAMAN.

Assaults a Man with an Axe, Resists Arrest, Subdued in Court.

PATERSON, N. J., Dec. 29.—Sam Sing, a Chinese laundryman of this city, formerly of the Bowery in New York, was running through the street this morning with a hatchet in his hand and frightening everybody who came in his way. He met William Miller, whom he assaulted with the axe. Miller broke away and started to run. The Chinaman followed him for twenty blocks.

When Constable James Bray went to the Chinaman's place of business this morning to arrest him, Sing made a rush at him with a knife and tried to stab him. Bray knocked the knife out of his hand with his club, and after a sharp struggle overpowered him and took him before Justice Johnstone. In the courtroom the Chinaman broke away from the Constable and tried to clean out the room. It took four policemen to subdue him, and he was put in irons and committed to jail.

Second Girl Thrown Into Bonfire Dead.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Dec. 29.—Rosie Cholonisnki, one of the two little girls who were pushed into bonfires by boys on Thursday night, died this morning from the effects of the burns. Mamie Newbolll, the other victim, died yesterday. John Eckert, who is said to have pushed the Newbolll girl into the fire, is still in the Hackensack Jail. He vigorously denies that he committed the act, as also does Frank Wenzell, who is out on bail.

Woman Shoots Her Alleged Defamer.

MARYVILLE, Mo., Dec. 29.—Lawrence Growney, a prominent farmer living near Clyde, was shot four times to-day by Mrs. Henry Willis, wife of the Collector of Jefferson Township and neighbor to Mr. Growney. It is thought his wounds will prove fatal. It is alleged that the shooting was provoked by stories circulated by Growney about Mrs. Willis. Mrs. Willis was brought here and lodged in jail.

Congressman Hull's Father Dead.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Dec. 29.—Dr. A. Y. Hull, father of Congressman J. A. T. Hull of Des Moines, died this morning at Kiowa, Kan. Congressman Hull will arrive Monday from Washington. Dr. Hull was one of the pioneer legislators and newspaper men of Iowa.

WINONA QUARANTINED.

Minnesota City Has 500 Cases of Smallpox and Refused to Handle Them Properly.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 29.—Dr. Justus O'Hage, Health Commissioner of this city, has issued stringent quarantine orders against the City of Winona, where 500 cases of smallpox are said to exist. He called to-day upon the General Passenger Agents of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroads and instructed them that they were not to bring passengers from Winona to St. Paul.

This quarantine order is in accordance with the warning given by Dr. O'Hage about the first of the month that unless the disease was more strictly handled in Winona he would declare a quarantine against that place. He has not since been satisfied with the measures taken, and his action to-day is the result.

A dispatch from Winona says that Dr. Bracken, the State Health Officer, visited the city to-day and held a conference with the Council, at which he told it that unless the present Health Officers were removed and stringent regulations established every city in the State would quarantine against the place. It is stated that, after much discussion, the Councilmen took the advice of the Health Officer and made the change suggested.

The disease has been rife all Summer, but has been of a very mild type. With the advent of cold weather, however, it has become more severe, and it is stated that 238 houses are now under quarantine. It is believed that with the adoption of more stringent measures in Winona the quarantine against it will soon be raised.

KILLED BY A TROLLEY CAR.

Man, Not Identified, Ran Down at Centre and Leonard Streets.

A man not identified was struck by a car at the corner of Leonard and Centre Streets last night and died at 11 o'clock at the Hudson Street Hospital, without having recovered consciousness. He was 5 feet 5 inches tall, slender, about fifty years old, with mixed gray hair and mustache. He wore a brown mixed coat, mixed grey trousers, grey stockings, lace shoes, and a blue and white checked jumper, such as are worn by a laboring man. No money nor cards were found on the man.

The motorman, Henry Cruse, the police say, gave an account of the accident, but he was held to await the Coroner's verdict, while the conductor, Thomas Corboley, who was on the rear of the car and didn't see the accident, was released. Cruse says he rang a warning bell and partly stopped the car. As the man started to cross he again rang and started the car, but the man tried to rush across and was struck by the car.

POLICE CHASE IN BOATS.

Negro Shooting at Gulls Broke a Window in Ward's Island Asylum.

Harry Nelson, a colored cook on the schooner Hattie Taylor, lying off the foot of East One Hundred and Seventh Street, and living at 87 River Street, New Rochelle, N. Y., was arrested last night, after a lively chase, by the harbor police attached to the sub-station at the foot of East One Hundred and Twenty-second Street.

Nelson, armed with a shotgun, got up into the rigging of the schooner and started to shoot at the sea gulls resting on the rocks on the west shore of Ward's Island. He had been shooting for nearly twenty minutes, when one of the slugs from the gun struck a window pane in the asylum building, breaking the pane. Dr. Dent of the institution made complaint, and Roundsman Ryan and Patrolman Cagney of the harbor police started in a launch for the schooner, and Policeman McCarty, day officer at the institution, started in a rowboat.

Nelson saw the police coming toward him and ran down the rigging. He jumped into a dory with the gun. After a short chase McCarty caught up to Nelson, who attempted to assault the policeman with his gun. McCarty overpowered the cook and held him until the arrival of Roundsman Ryan in the launch. Nelson was locked up.

$5,000,000 FOR MISSIONS.

Wonderful Bequests of the Leeds Millionaire Recluse, Robert Arthington.

From The London Mail.

The late Mr. Robert Arthington of Leeds was a millionaire who combined miserliness and philanthropy in an extraordinary degree. Inheriting a large fortune derived from brewing, he spent nearly the whole of his life as a recluse in a villa in the suburbs of Leeds, which was scarcely, if ever, entered by a woman, and, consequently, scarcely, if ever, swept. His life in his Teignmouth retreat was cleaner, if humbler, for on arriving he inquired of an old boatman for lodgings. The boatman, seeing an aged man of poverty-stricken appearance, offered him quarters in his own house. And there Robert Arthington ended his days among kindly people, who had no suspicion of his fabulous wealth.

The provisions of the millionaire's will are still more curious. They provide for the spread of the Gospel to the uttermost ends of the world.

A tenth of the estate goes to first cousins, &c. The other nine-tenths of the better part of a million is divided between the Baptist Missionary Society of London and the London Missionary Society, the former having five-tenths and the latter four-tenths. There will be nine trustees of each of these huge bequests.

The societies are to apply the money in uncontrolled discretion "for the purpose of spreading the knowledge of God's word among the heathen, excluding Mahommedan populations," who are left to the Bible Societies. The Free Church of Scotland Mission Society, to which £2,000 is left, is to deal with India.

The will directs that if practicable the money shall be spent in giving to every tribe of mankind that has them not, and which speaks a language distinct from all others, accurate copies of at least the Gospels of St. John and St. Luke and the book of Acts of the Apostles printed in the tribe's language, and in teaching at least ten or a dozen persons of each such tribe to read. If possible a converted tribe shall be urged to evangelize others.

"But it is my wish that everywhere in all Africa, in South America, in Central America, in Asia, in the South Sea Islands, and in the Indian Archipelago all tribes and great populations destitute of the Gospels in print should by some means be reached promptly—the actual heathen first—and put in possession of the Gospels, outward, indeed, it may be if only in print, but available to some if God shall give them repentance and faith."

Briefly, the will suggests the mapping out of the parts of the world unreached by the Gospel, and the early distribution of the Scriptures among them. And for this purpose it provides the better part of a million of money!

Mrs. Margaret M. Hope Missing.

William A. Smith of 302 West One Hundred and Fifty-fourth Street called at the Bellevue Morgue last night to look for the body of his sister, Mrs. Margaret M. Hope, fifty-five years old, a widow, who lived at 157 West One Hundred and Third Street. The body was not there. Smith said that his sister had visited him Christmas Eve and had started for home at 10:30 o'clock. She had left the elevated train at the One Hundred and Fourth Street station and had not been seen since.

The Northwestern Going Into Denver.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Dec. 29.—It is learned definitely to-night that the Chicago and Northwestern Railway will build directly into Denver early the coming year from Valentine, Neb., on the Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley Branch. This will make a line about 400 miles in extent, and the approach to the city will be from the East, the Northwestern having secured this right of way into the city from the old Colorado and Eastern Railway.

Useful.

"Then you are not ashamed of your humble origin?"

"Oh, no; it's part of my political capital."—Chicago Record.

The Disappointed Boy.

"Well, Tommy, did you get what you wanted this Christmas?"

"Naw! They only gimme what I needed."—Indianapolis Press.

MR. LONG DISCUSSES NAVY MEN

Necessity of Technical Training in the Service—David J. Hill on Commercial Expansion.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—A distinguished company gathered around the tables of the Hotel Brunswick this evening to participate in the annual reunion of the Massachusetts Alumni of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Secretary of the Navy John D. Long, Assistant Secretary of State David J. Hill, Lieut. Gov. John L. Bates, and Prof. Henry S. Pritchett, the recently elected President of the Institute, were the principal speakers, although the list of guests also included the names of many instructors, friends, and older alumni of the school. Among them was Mrs. W. B. Rogers, widow of a former President.

Dr. Pritchett, the first speaker, was received by the company rising to their feet. He read a telegram from Benjamin Vaughan of Hallowell, Me., promising $500 toward the Walker Memorial. He was followed by Lieut. Gov. John L. Bates, representing the Commonwealth, who paid a warm tribute to the institute and the great work it had done for the country at large.

The next speaker was Secretary Long, who spoke on the technical training necessary in the navy of the present day. He said in part:

"The technical schools of the country are very close to the Navy Department, and must continue to play an important part in the successful development and construction of the navy, for it is to these schools that we look for recruits to supply the posts of direction and responsibility in the ship and engine building establishments of the country, which are now rapidly increasing, both in number and capacity.

"The need of such technical education as is given by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology is greater to-day in naval architecture and marine engineering than ever before in our history. I think that I do not overstate the case when I say that to-day our ships are certainly not inferior to those of foreign powers. This rapid advance has been brought about largely by the technical education of our officers, ably seconded by the staff of the great shipbuilding establishments of the country, without whose active co-operation it would not have been possible.

"The change in the character of our ships has brought with it a marked change in the character and training of our officers and seamen. It may truly be said of the naval officer of the day that he is a technical man of the highest order, and of the seaman that he is fast becoming, if not a mechanic, at least a man familiar with the manipulation of mechanical appliances, and to such a degree that the successful operation of our ships bears constant testimony to his skill."

On resuming his seat Secretary Long was most enthusiastically cheered. The next introduction was of David J. Hill of Washington, who spoke on "Commercial Expansion." He said in part:

"Among the notable phenomena of the century through which our country has just passed is the complete inversion of its economic condition. In the year 1800 the great need of the United States was for capital with which to develop its wonderful natural resources. In the year 1900 a superabundence of capital is demanding new fields of profit in which it may reap its natural reward. Two great agencies of change have wrought this transformation—the application of mechanical power, and the creation of a new mechanism of credit.

"The problems of mechanical production and transportation have solved to a point of perfection where the supply of finished products, placed where they are most needed, has ceased to be a subject of serious importance, and in its place has arisen the new and more serious problem of finding an adequate demand for labor and capital. Along with this unparalleled mechanical development has arisen the modern system of banking, by which credit has been created and the mechanism of exchange brought to comparative perfection on its financial side."

Mr. Hill referred at length to many instances of the country's growth, touching particularly upon the development of great industries like the iron and steel trade, and the outlook for great impetus in foreign trade. He spoke of the need of a great merchant marine, an isthmian canal, and more important yet, an ideal organism for promoting international trade relations and for equipping Consuls with a broader knowledge of their duties.

At the conclusion of the speeches some additional contributions were announced, amounting to more than $6,000, from representatives of different classes.

ACCUSED OF ABDUCTING GIRL.

Anna Gray, Who Has a Police Record, Arrested—Hunt for a Cab Driver.

Annie Gray, forty-four years old, who lives on West Forty-sixth Street, was arrested late last night by Agents Pizzara and Moore of the Gerry society on a warrant sworn out before Magistrate Pool in the West Side Police Court yesterday afternoon charging her with the abduction of Lillie Walsh, fifteen years old, who lived with her mother and stepfather, whose name is McAlindin, at 519 West Thirty-sixth Street.

According to the testimony, the girl was accosted on Dec. 18 by a cab driver, whom she had talked with in the street several days before, and who represented to her that he had a desirable place for her if she cared to leave her stepfather's home. She admitted that she was dissatisfied, and he drove her to the Gray woman's house, where she is said to have been shockingly abused.

Mrs. McAlindin reported the matter both to the police and to the Gerry society, but it was the latter which succeeded in tracing the girl. The Gray woman was locked up in the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station, and the girl was sent to the society's rooms for the night, while detectives went hunting for the cab driver, with a hope of arresting him in time to bring him to court this morning.

Annie Gray has a police record. She is the woman who about five years ago sold her jewels, mortgaged her property, and after raising about $74,000 went to Paris, where she fought the trial for murder of Tom O'Brien, who had shot and killed a man in Paris for an alleged attempt to "do him" in the division of spoils resulting from a gambling scheme.

O'Brien was convicted and sentenced to exile. The Gray woman aided him in escaping and he fled to South America.

Prior to that episode, it is told that O'Brien was on his way to Dannamora Prison for some offense, and was in keeping of two detectives. They were met by Annie Gray, who induced the detectives to drink. They were drugged, and their prisoner escaped. The next heard of him was in the Paris escapade.

FORMER MESSENGER ARRESTED.

Minnogue Accused of Collecting Money and Absconding.

John Minnogue, twenty-one years old, who says he has no home, but used to live at 149 Washington Street, Brooklyn, was arrested yesterday on a charge of embezzlement. The police say Minnogue, who was a messenger for the Bankers and Brokers' Messenger Company of 46 and 48 New Street, was sent on a call to the Continental Trust Company of 30 Broad Street. The trust company sent Minnogue to collect money on coupons, it says.

It is claimed that he collected $307.55 in money and about $1,200 in checks. The collector kept the cash, according to the police, but returned the checks by mail to the Continental Trust Company, and then fled. He was traced to Harrisburg, Penn.

Minnogue came back to this city yesterday. The officers were on hand when he came in on a train and placed him under arrest. When searched at the station only a few dollars were found on him.

Ammonia Bottle Chinaman's Weapon.

Max Gross, a City Marshal of 153 Clinton Street, was the complainant in the East One Hundred and Fourth Street Station last night against Luden Sen, a Chinese laundryman of 1,799 Third Avenue. Gross had a judgment to serve on Sen. He and the Chinaman had a dispute, when the latter threw a bottle containing ammonia at the Marshal, and the liquid saturated his clothing and some went on his face. Detectives were sent to arrest the Chinaman.

Chief Justice W. T. Faircloth Dead.

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Dec. 29.—Chief Justice William T. Faircloth died suddenly at his home in this city to-night about 10 o'clock. He was one of the wealthiest men in this city, a Director in the Bank of Wayne, and interested in other enterprises. He served twice on the Supreme Court bench, being first appointed in 1875, and elected Chief Justice in 1894. Judge Faircloth was one of the most prominent Republicans in Eastern North Carolina.

THEIR GOLDEN JUBILEE.

Empire City Lodge of Masons Celebrates Its Anniversary.

Members of Empire City Lodge, F. and A. M. of New York celebrated the first half century of its existence by a banquet at the Hotel Savoy last evening. Three hundred persons were present. After the members and guests had dined, a reception was held and dancing followed. Souvenirs were presented bearing in silver letters the figures "1850-1900."

It was the second celebration marking the birth of the lodge. Twenty-five years ago one was held in honor of the quarter-century mark. Master of the Lodge Strock welcomed the guests in a very short speech, to which Grand Master Meade responded.

It was announced that $1,000 had been contributed by the Empire City Lodge to the Masonic Institute at Utica, N. Y.

THIEVES ROB DOCTORS.

Have Successfully Worked the Old "I'll Wait" Scheme in Brooklyn.

The police are looking for two thieves who have been robbing doctors in the Eastern District of Brooklyn for some time. On Friday last more than a dozen doctors' houses were visited and where the physicians were not in the men declared that they would wait. Then, when the opportunity presented itself, they would decamp with whatever they could lay their hands on.

At the home of Dr. Lorenzo B. Nickerson, at South Ninth and Berry Streets, they carried off a case of surgical instruments, and from the home of Dr. E. M. Bulwinkle, at 80 South Ninth Street, they secured an overcoat. Whenever the physicians were found at home the thieves would ask for information regarding some patient and then depart.

CAPT. HAFF TO COMMAND.

Skipper of Boston Yacht Finally Decided on by Thomas W. Lawson.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—Capt. Hank Haff, the skipper of four America's Cup defenders, was to-day engaged by Thomas W. Lawson as commander of the boat which he is building for the trial races next Summer. It was Mr. Lawson's wish to associate Capt. Nate Watson of the yacht Constellation in the command as a sort of sailing master, but Watson's engagements would not admit of this, so Capt. Haff will be in sole command.

In making this announcement Mr. Lawson gently raps the originators of guesses as facts, and reminds them that whenever there is anything to be made public he will give it out. In this connection, he corrects the published statement that his boat is to be named Bostonian by saying that he has not yet chosen a name, and will not do so until near the time of launching.

He also says: "Although we may not feel that same confidence of crossing the line first which seems to prevail in other quarters and about other boats, I can frankly say that up to date we all have more feeling of calm expectancy which since racing began has always been found aboard New England boats, and that nothing so far, either in the design, building, skippership, statements made by friends of other boats, &c., has transpired to in any way cool our enthusiasm, although, of course, this may be owing largely to the fact that we started off with a properly trained enthusiasm."

$200,000 IN STAKES TO CLOSE.

Entries for Coney Island, Gravesend, and Brighton Fixtures Due Wednesday.

Racing stakes, worth in the aggregate more than $200,000, announced by three New York racing associations, the Coney Island, Brooklyn, and Brighton Beach Jockey Clubs, will close this week with the Secretaries of the three clubs. The date of closing in all cases is fixed for Wednesday, Jan. 2, 1901. Of the total sum to be run for in these stakes, the Coney Island Jockey Club, at Sheepshead Bay, will distribute about $97,000, the Brooklyn Jockey Club, at Gravesend, about $44,000, and the Brighton Club, at Brighton Beach, about $66,000, aside from Produce Stakes for other years, which swells the total by a considerable additional sum. Of the fixtures, to which entries will close at the time named, the most famous and valuable are the three great handicaps, the Brooklyn, Suburban, and Brighton, each at one mile and a quarter, with a guaranteed value of $10,000; the Brighton Cup, two miles and a quarter, weight for age, which will be worth about the same amount as each of the handicaps, and the $20,000 Great Trial Stakes, and the $1,000 Double Event, both annual races at Sheepshead Bay. In addition to the older fixtures, each of the clubs this season has put on new events for horses three years old and upward, at weight for age, in accordance with the resolution of the governing body of the turf, which desires to have more races for matured horses.

The stake announcements of the other New York Racing Association for the Spring and Summer meetings have not yet been made. The programme of the Westchester Association at Morris Park, it is known, however, will include renewals of all the established fixtures, of which the Metropolitan Handicap is about the best known and most popular. The change in the management of the Saratoga Racing Association has left the racing affaire at Saratoga in a condition that will permit the gentlemen now controlling the property to make a beginning, without being in any way hampered by stakes left over by the old management. The stake programme is not expected for some time, but when it is announced it is probable that the racing arranged for will be on the liberal scale that the purchase of the track seemed to guarantee. The stakes of the Queens County and Empire City Clubs also still are to be announced.

Scandinavian Skater Won Easily.

Peter Sinnirud, who is said to be the European skating champion at 10,000 metres, and the Scandianavian champion at 500, 1,500, and 5,000 metres, won the mile handicap skating race in the Clermont Rink, Brooklyn, last night, from a field of a dozen well-known local skaters, with just the distance of his handicap (60 yards) to spare.

Harry McDonald, who was scratch man, made a brave effort to catch the foreigner, but could only make second. Arthur Y. Sarony held third place until near the finish, when he fell and was passed by F. Mulligan.

Le Roy D. See attempted to skate an exhibition half-mile in fast time, but fell on the second lap and abandoned the attempt. The summary:

One Mile (Handicap.)—Won by Peter Sinnirud, (60 yards;) H. McDonald, (scratch,) second; F. Mulligan, (120 yards,) third; A. Y. Sarony, (30 yards,) fourth; F. Coupé, (100 yards,) fifth; Phil Kearney, (30 yards,) sixth. Time—3:11.

Bicycle Races at Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—The bicycle races in the old Park Station to-night resulted as follows:

International twenty-five-mile unpaced race for the championship of the world, won by Archie McEachern of Toronto; Ryser, Germany, second; Hugh McLean of Chelsea, Mass., third. Time—1:05:01 2-5.

The three men were bunched, W. C. Stinson, Cambridge, fourth, three laps behind.

One-Half-Mile Amateur Indoor Championship.—Won by Treadwell, Hartford; Lester Wilson, Pittsburg, second; P. G. Van Cott, New York, third; J. J. McKinnon, Boston, fourth. Time—1:07.

One Mile Professional Handicap.—Won by Joe Downey, Boston, (90 yards;) Will C. Stinson, Cambridge, (20 yards,) second; Jean Gougoltz, Paris, (scratch,) third; Karl Kaser, Berlin, (40 yards,) fourth. Time—2:07 2-5.

One-Mile Motor-Paced Exhibition by Harry Elkes.—Time—1:50 2-5.

Yale Basket Ball Team Beaten.

Special to The New York Times.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Dec. 29.—In the presence of an audience that packed Armory Hall from pit to gallery, the Yale basketball team met the Fond Du Lac Athletic Club team to-night, putting up one of the prettiest exhibitions of the game ever witnessed here. The first half closed 7 to 8 in favor of Fond Du Lac, and the final score was 22 to 18 in favor of Fond Du Lac.

The work of Clark and Colton, for Yale, and Rogers, Buch, and Severin, for the home team, constituted features of the game. The score was tied a half dozen times during the progress of the game. The line-up:

Yale.	Position.	Fond Du Lac.
Rogers	Right back	Buch
Lockwood	Left back	Watson
Clark	Centre	Severin
Colton	Right forward	Rogers
Hyatt	Left forward	Parkins

Referee—Mr. Davis. Umpires—Messrs. Harris and Anderson. Timekeepers—Messrs. Langlois and Whitcomb.

INTERCOLLEGE CHESS MATCH.

Columbia Wins at the Tourney with Many Points to Spare.

The ninth annual intercollegiate chess tournament between Columbia, Harvard, Yale, and Princeton ended early yesterday evening in favor of the local university, whose players easily surpassed their rivals with plenty to spare. In the two team matches of the final round the New Yorkers defeated Princeton by 2½ to 1½, and, much to every one's surprise, Harvard lost to Yale by the same score. Columbia led the four colleges, with 8½ points. Princeton and Harvard tied at 6, and Yale brought up the rear with 3½.

The members of Columbia's winning team, Falk, Sewall, Schroeder, and Keeler each received a medal.

At a meeting of the students the following members of the American team for the next cable match with Oxford and Cambridge were selected:

Falk and Sewall of Columbia, Parry and Rose of Harvard, Hunt of Princeton, and Sawin of Yale.

Following is a summary of yesterday's final round:

Bds.		Moves.
1.	Falk (C) ½; Hunt (P) ½; Q. G. declined	82
2.	Sewall (C) 1; Henley (P) 0; Scotch	10
3.	Schroeder (C) 0; Weston (P) 1; Petroff	42
4.	Keeler (C) 1; Ely (P) 0; Irregular	26
5.	Perry (H) 0; Swain (Y) 1; Scotch	24
6.	Rice (H) 1; Russ (Y) 0; Vienna	31
7.	Fotch (H) 0; Adams (Y) 1; French	81
8.	Clerk (H) ½; Roberts (Y) ½; P—Q4	40

Hunt, Sewell, Schroeder, Ely, Sawin, Rice, Fotch, and Roberts played the white pieces.

The complete scores of the tournament are appended:

COLUMBIA.		HARVARD.
Players.	W. L.	Players.	W. L.
Falk	2 1	Perry	1½ 1½
Keeler	1½ ½	Rice	2½ ½
Schroeder	1½ ½	Fotch	1 2
Sewall	2½ ½	Clerk	1 2
Total	8½ 3½	Total	6 6

PRINCETON.		YALE.
Players.	W. L.	Players.	W. L.
Ely	1½ 1½	Adams	1½ 1½
Hunt	1½ 1½	Roberts	2 2
Henley	2 1	Russ	3 0
Weston	2 1	Sawin	2 1
Total	6 6	Total	8½ 3½

The appended table shows the records made by the colleges in this competition up to date:

	Columbia.	Harvard.	Yale.	Princeton.
1892	9	7½	5	2½
1893	8½	7	5	3½
1894	3	9	6	4
1895	8	8½	3½	4
1896	4½	10	4	5½
1897	6½	10	4½	3
1898	8½	10	2½	3
1899	8½	9	5	1½
1900	8½	9	3½	6
Total	65	77	39	35

The championship has been won six times by Harvard and three times by Columbia.

CORNELL WINS CHESS TROPHY.

E. H. Riedel of Brooklyn Elected President of the League.

In the final round of the Triangular College Chess League tournament, between Cornell, Pennsylvania, and Brown, contested at the Manhattan Chess Club yesterday, Cornell, by winning one and drawing the other of her two remaining games, emerged an easy winner of the Rice trophy, taken last year by Pennsylvania. To E. H. Riedel, a Brooklyn High School boy, belongs the credit of clinching the Ithacans' victory, he defeating Easton of Brown by brilliant tactics. L. C. Karpinski, his partner, drew with Francis of Pennsylvania, and is credited with the highest individual score. Cornell's total reached 6½ points, Brown being second with 8½, and Pennsylvania last, with a half point less.

At a meeting of the collegians E. H. Riedel, Cornell, was elected President of the league; Isaac L. Rice, Honorary President, and S. H. Easton, Brown, Secretary. Resolutions of thanks were passed to the Manhattan Chess Club, S. Lipschuetz, and Major Hanham.

Following is a summary of the final round, giving the pairings, results, and openings:

Bds.	Opponents and Results.	Openings.	Mvs.
1.	Chapin (P) 0; Nickless (B) 1;	French Def.	29
2.	Riedel (C) 1; Easton (B) 0;	Dutch Def.	31
3.	Karpinski (C) ½; Francis (P) ½;	Phill. Def.	32

COLLEGES AND PLAYERS.

Appended are the complete scores of the tournament:

			Totals.
Cornell—	W.	L.	W.	L.
Karpinski	3	1
Riedel	2½	1½	5½	2½
Brown—
Nickless	2½	1½
Easton	1	3	3½	4½
Pennsylvania—
Francis	2½	1½
Chapin	½	3½	3	5

Referee—S. Lipschuetz. Umpire—Major J. M. Hanham.

NORRIS WINS CHAMPIONSHIP.

His Fourth Victory Gives Him the Knickerbocker A. C. Billiard Honors.

Charles L. Norris won the billiard championship of the Knickerbocker Athletic Club last night by defeating his fourth opponent, Dr. Leonidas L. Mial, by the score of 300 to 162. The contest was the fourth in the club series on the fourteen-inch balk-line table, and Norris has beaten his four opponents successively. He had his closest match on the first night, when he played A. B. Miller, who rolled up 292 points aided by his big run of 61.

The next night John A. Hendrick, the former Connecticut champion, was disposed of by 300 points to 227. Albro Atkin was the third victim, only scoring 145 points, and in that game Norris made his record-breaking run of 62. That game required only 46 innings, but last night's game was even better in that respect, for Norris ran out in 43 innings, making a better average than any preceding night, missing by the narrowest fraction an average of 7, his actual average being 6 42-43. Mial made an average of 3 36-42.

Norris closed the game with a good run of 39 points. He led rapidly from the start, at the end of the twentieth inning having 164 points to his credit, to 71 for Mial. At the thirtieth inning the score stood 297 to 120. The winner's game was characterized by its usual steady form, and, as formerly, his draw shots were the feature of his play.

The tournament will be continued for second honors next week.

The scores were:

Charles L. Norris—12 9 6 5 0 3 0 5 0 10 11 0 6 27 18 1 3 36 17 4 7 5 5 4 12 5 0 0 3 1 4 3 13 3 1 0 0 0 5 0 18 39. Total, 300; average, 6 42-43; highest single run, 39.

Dr. L. L. Mial—1 1 6 4 1 0 0 1 1 0 4 1 2 2 0 19 17 0 2 0 1 0 1 3 2 0 0 2 8 2 2 2 0 1 1 0 4 6 1 3 2 0 0 0 0 4 2. Total, 162; average, 3 36-42; highest run, 28.

Referee, L. A. Servatius. The game tomorrow night will be between Albro Atkin and John A. Hendrick.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

New York City.

ALEXANDER BACKER.—William Ford Upson has been appointed receiver of the assets of Alexander Backer, jeweler at 371 Eighth Avenue, against whom creditors filed a petition in bankruptcy on Friday, by Judge Brown of the United States District Court on the application of Epstein Brothers, representing the petitioning creditors. It was stated that Mr. Backer had sold most of his stock during the holidays and has $500 to $800 worth left, which, on Dec. 28, he was negotiating to sell to an auctioneer. Also that he has not paid any merchandise debts in the past six weeks and owes at least $5,000.

SAMUEL W. AND FRANK PARKER.—Deputy Sheriff Radley was served with a demand notice yesterday by the attorneys of the Pabst Brewing Company of New York, claiming that the company owns the furniture, chattels, silverware, &c., of the Parker House, Broadway and Thirty-ninth Street. The Sheriff has given notice that the contents of the hotel will be sold out at auction on Wednesday, Jan. 2, under an execution against Samuel W. Parker and Frank Parker, former proprietors of the hotel, for $9,849 in favor of Acker, Merrall & Condit, grocers, who obtained judgment on Oct. 1 against the Messrs. Parker. On Sept. 25 Frosky Brothers took the hotel and have since run it. When the Sheriff first received the execution against the Messrs. Parker in favor of Acker, Merrall & Condit, on Oct. 1, a claim was put in by Edward Burns, who claimed title to all the property in the hotel, valued at $30,000. The claim was afterward tried before the Sheriff's jury, which decided in favor of Mr. Burns on Oct. 8.

C. L. PETTIS & CO.—Charles L. Pettis and Harry J. Hunter, composing the firm of C. L. Pettis & Co., wholesale dealers in produce at 204 Duane Street, made an assignment yesterday to Uriah W. Tompkins. Before the assignment the Sheriff received an attachment against Mr. Hunter for $2,496 in favor of Norman T. Kerr, who brought a suit against the firm to recover that amount. The attachment was issued against Mr. Hunter only, as he is a non-resident of his home being at Newark. The Sheriff found nothing at the store on which a levy could be made. Some stuff there was said to belong to other parties. Mr. Kerr's attachment is on an assigned claim from J. Neuman & Co., produce merchants of Watertown, Wis., for goods sold to C. L. Pettis & Co. during the month of November. The firm was formed about Aug. 1 last. Mr. Pettis had previously been a partner in the firm of Irving T. Hunter & Co., at the same address, who made an assignment on July 6 last, with liabilities $11,000 and assets $618. Irving T. Hunter, who had been in bankruptcy for a year, received his discharge on Oct. 25 last. C. L. Pettis & Co. had no rating at Bradstreet's.

PETITIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

GLANTZ & HARRIS.—Morris Glantz and Milton Harris, composing the firm of Glantz & Harris, liquor dealers at 120 to 124 Fourth Avenue, have filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $4,833 and no assets. Mr. Glantz has individual liabilities of $1,875.

AUGUSTINE LOMAN.—Augustine Loman, clerk, at 235 Eighth Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,897 and no assets. He was formerly in the hat business in partnership with Daniel M. Leahy.

DAVIS & ABRAHAM MICHELSON.—Davis Michelson of 297 Seventh Street and Abraham Michelson of 351 East Third Street, who composed the firm of D. & A. Michelson, at 130 Avenue C, formerly manufacturers of slippers, have filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $7,794, to four creditors on old debts, and no assets.

ARTHUR G. MUHLKER.—Arthur G. Muhlker, builder, residing at 70 East One Hundred and Tenth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities

MODEL OF THE NEW LIBRARY

Now on Exhibition in the Governor's Room at City Hall.

Duplicates in Every Detail the Building to be Erected at Bryant Park.

A model duplicating in detail the new Public Library building, which is being built on the site of the old reservoir at Bryant Park, was placed on exhibition for the first time yesterday. Employes of Carrere & Hastings, the architects who are building the library, have been at work on the model for months. Yesterday it was taken down to the City Hall in a truck and placed in the Governor's Room, on the second floor, for the inspection of the Mayor and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

The model, which is of plaster of paris and contains at least 3,000 different parts, stands on a revolving stand placed on a black-draped pedestal about five feet from the floor. Its cost was estimated by the men who made it as about $3,500, and it gives a very clear idea of how the big white library building will look when it is completed.

View of the New Public Library.

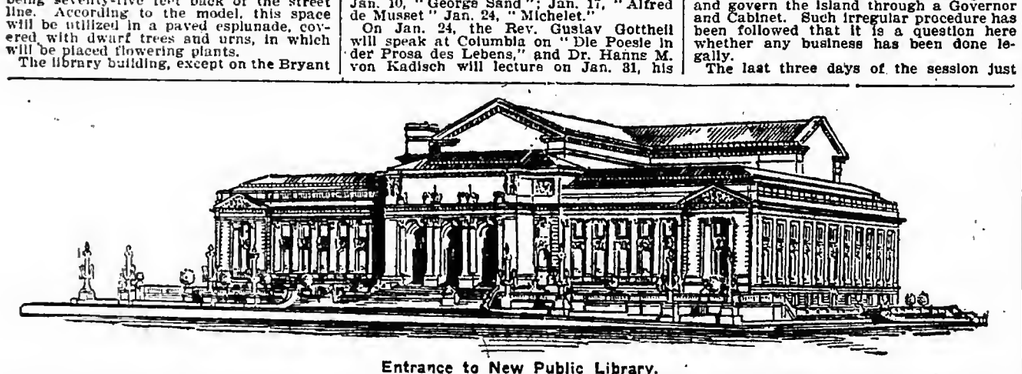
Besides the library building itself, the model shows the arrangement of grounds which will be made around it. There will be plenty of ground space all around the new building, so that it will not be difficult to get a complete view of it when it is finished. Before the main entrance to the library, on Fifth Avenue, there is a considerable tract of ground, the greatest projection of the building toward Fifth Avenue being seventy-five feet back of the street line. According to the model, this space will be utilized in a paved esplanade, covered with dwarf trees and urns, in which will be placed flowering plants.

The library building, except on the Bryant



Entrance to New Public Library.

Park side, will be one high story, and will be 390 feet long by 270 feet wide. A basement will extend underneath the main floor of the whole building, and on the Bryant Park side there will be an upper floor, lighted entirely from a skylight from 14 to 18 feet in height. The architecture of the building is of the modern Renaissance type. Its most striking feature looking at it for the first time will be the great entrance on Fifth Avenue. This entrance has three massive arches in a portico of six Corinthian columns. Each of these arches will be 35 feet high and 15 feet wide. A visitor entering through one of them will find them duplicated by similar arches on all four sides of the hallway into which they lead.

Above the entrance in the central pavilion of the attic story the following inscription will be placed:

"New York Public Library. Lenox Foundation. Incorporated by Act of Legislature of the State of New York, Jan. 20, 1870."

On the right and left of this will be two other inscriptions. The one on the right will read: "Constructed 1901. Tilden Foundation. Incorporated by Act of Legislature of the State of New York, March 20, 1886."

The inscription on the left will read, "Consolidated 1895. Astor Foundation. Incorporated by Act of Legislature of the State of New York, January eighteenth, 1849."

On the other side of the entrance will appear the names "Aristotle," "Virgil," "Sallust," "Horace," "Aristides," "Socrates," "Homer," "Lucian," and "Herodotus."

At the middle of the Forty-second Street façade is another important entrance. This entrance will be only a few steps above the level of Forty-second Street, and will lead into the basement of the building. The large vestibule on this side rises through the basement and the first story, and makes a direct approach to the lending and delivery rooms. These rooms will occupy one of two courts, each of which is eighty-five feet square. A third entrance to the building from Fortieth Street will communicate directly with stairs and elevators for the service of the building.

The model shows plainly in its exterior the general arrangements of the interior of the building. Large pediments indicate the position of the large reading rooms, and the attic cornice shows where the picture gallery will be.

The windows, which will be twelve feet wide on the first floor, show plainly where the special reading rooms will be.

Between the two courtyards and almost in the centre of the building will be the main exhibition room. On the upper floors will be rooms for the Trustees and Directors of the building as well as room for a picture gallery. The stack room is in the rear of the building, the side fronting on Bryant Park. This room will occupy the main floor all along the side of the building, and is expected to have accommodations for the bulk of the books to be kept in the library.

The basement floor of the building will be about 13 feet in height, while the main reading room, which is to be the largest room in the structure, will measure almost 50 feet from floor to ceiling. It is to be lighted by a row of windows set high in the walls.

With the exception of the main entrance of the building, which is to be made of stone, none of the interior decorations has been decided upon.

Saengerbund's Gift to the Kaiser.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—The Northeastern Saengerbund's gift to Emperor William in recognition of the prize offered by him for a musical contest in this country was completed to-day, and will be sent to Germany in about ten days. The gift consists of a large book bound in leather, the pages of which are solid silver. The whole weighs twenty-five pounds and cost more than $1,200. Upon the first page are the German and American flags crossed. These are beautifully worked in enamel. The second page is engraved with resolutions passed in praise of the Emperor. Then comes a page engraved with the song which won the Emperor's prize, and the last page is adorned with a fac simile of the prize.

Cartoon Hits Hard at von Buelow.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—The Lustige Blaetter prints a cartoon of Count von Bülow peering into a looking-glass and asking the question: "Who is the Chancellor in the land?" The looking-glass reflects Emperor William's face.

Frau Wagner's Daughter Weds.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—Fräulein Isolde von Buelow, Frau Cosima Wagner's daughter, from her marriage to Hans von Buelow, was married at Baireuth this week to Herr Beidler, the musical conductor.

Grand Duke of Oldenburg to Go Abroad.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—The physicians of the Grand Duke of Oldenburg, Frederick August, who is suffering from heart trouble, due to overwork, have prescribed a long trip abroad.

COLUMBIA LECTURES.

Will Be Delivered in Various Parts of the City Next Month.

The authorities of Columbia University have arranged a programme of thirty lectures on educational, scientific, and artistic subjects to be delivered publicly in various parts of the city during January. Four of these are to be in French and two in German. Dr. David T. Day of the United States Geological Survey will give the lectures at the American Museum of Natural History on Saturday evenings, as follows: Jan. 5, "The Mining Outlook of the Opening Century"; Jan. 12, "The World's Mineral Wealth as Shown at the Paris Exposition"; Jan. 19, "The Petroleum Industry of the United States"; Jan. 26, "The Mineral Resources of Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippines." These lectures will be illustrated and tickets of admission can be procured, without charge, by application to the Secretary of the university.

On Saturday mornings W. B. Van Ingen will discuss "European Art and Japanese: Similarities and Differences," at the Metropolitan Museum of Art as follows: Jan. 5, "Evolution"; Jan. 12, "Deduction"; Jan. 19, "Perspective"; Jan. 26, "Induction." The lectures will be illustrated, and are free to the public without tickets.

"A Summer in Brittany" will be the general subject of a series of lectures by Prof. Charles Sprague Smith in the great hall, Cooper Union, on Tuesday evenings. The individual topics are: Jan. 1, "The Stone Age in Brittany: Carnac and Its Monuments, 1,000 B. C."; Jan. 8, "From Caesar to Gradlon Mur, (Gradlon the Great;) Myth and History, 57 B. C. to 750 A. D."; Jan. 15, "The Winning and Wearing of the Crown: The Story of Nominöe and His Successors, 750 A. D. to 940 A. D."; Jan. 22, "Brittany Under Its Dukes, 940 A. D. to 1500 A. D."; Jan. 29, "Breton Life and Customs." No tickets are required.

Prof. Adolph Cohn will give the French lectures in Schermerhorn Hall, Columbia University, as follows: Jan. 3, "Balzac"; Jan. 10, "Georges Sand"; Jan. 17, "Alfred de Musset"; Jan. 24, "Michelet."

On Jan. 24, the Rev. Gustav Gottheil will speak at Columbia on "Die Poesie in der Prosa des Lebens," and Dr. Hanns M. von Kadisch will lecture on Jan. 31, his subject being "Die Zoologisch Frage Nordamerikas."

In the Department of Indo-Iranian Languages and Literatures, Prof. A. V. Williams Jackson will be the lecturer. His subjects are: Jan. 4, "The Inscriptions of the Ancient Persian Kings"; Jan. 8, "The Sacred Books of Ancient Iran"; Jan. 11, "Zoroaster, the Prophet of Ancient Iran," and Jan. 15, "The Religion of Zoroaster."

Prof. Louis Dyer of Oxford University will also deliver three lectures at Columbia University during the month on "Recent Excavations at Cnossus in the Island of Crete." The dates of these lectures have not as yet been arranged.

TWO VIEWS OF AMERICA.

Sir Edwin Arnold Writes a Friendly Sonnet and Mr. Cunninghame-Graham an Abusive Letter.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Reviews of the year and century fill the weeklies and daily papers. In the broader field the writers find great satisfaction that America's part in England's history figures prominently. Sir Edwin Arnold signalizes the new century with a sonnet. Greeting Columbia, England says:

"I send the motherly kiss and benison;
Love me or love me not; hap what may hap;
My pride and prayers watch thy bright courae begun.
Thou dost uphold the lessons learned from me,
And speak'st my Shakespeare's speech.
God go with thee."

Columbia answers:

"If thy foes too much dare,
I think we shall be no more kept asunder
Than two great clouds in heaven that hold the thunder."

That Sir Edwin Arnold's views are not unanimously shared can be judged from a letter of Mr. Cunninghame-Graham, (a former Radical member of Parliament, who, in July, 1898, wrote a series of articles, most insulting to Americans, in The Westminster Gazette,) which has a place of honor in The Saturday Review. It is the most bitter arraignment of Anglo-American friendship that has appeared for many a day. The writer derides the after-dinner speeches of Senator Depew, Lord Salisbury, and others, and declares that the "friendship" has resulted only in kicks for Great Britain, in the cases of the Venezuela, San Juan, Alabama, and Bering awards. He says:

"We went on patting ourselves upon our diaphragms, making certain that all those kicks were but symptoms of the affection and love the Americans bore us. In return for our moral help, which we gave them in their brave punching of their brother-Spaniards, they gave us nothing of a kindred sort, when we started in to thrash our brother-Boers.

"Lastly, on top of all our condescensions, like a cold bath upon a drunkard, come the clauses of the Senate in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and we are commanded to assent to Kick No. 20. I suppose Lord Salisbury is going to turn his ample shoulders to receive it, and assure the kickers of his distinguished consideration, and thank them for the energy with which it is bestowed. It seems impossible, so the experts tell us, that the canal could be defended, even though fortified, in case of war. But then the 'liar, d—d liar, and expert' is a comparison almost proverbial in this commercial age. It looks as if we had voluntarily, by our mean and senseless conduct in the Spanish-Yankee war, placed ourselves in the position of a man who, having lost the world, imagined he had gained his soul, but, on consideration, found his prize was mere hypothesis."

Proposes Swedish-American Liners.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 29.—The commission for the promotion of Sweden's foreign commerce proposes the establishment of regular steamship lines to the United States and South America, particularly the United States, whence imports are rapidly growing, while Swedish exports are unimportant. Sweden at present receives American goods chiefly through London, Hamburg, and Antwerp, and they appear in Swedish statistics as not from the United States. The commission proposes bounties for the two lines to the United States and South America and also sets forth that bounties for lines from Sweden to Russia are desirable.

Prince Henry to Study Statecraft.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—An imperial order, dated Dec. 18, commands Prince Henry of Prussia (brother of Emperor William) to repair to Berlin by Jan. 1 and remain at the capital for some time, with the view of attaining a more intimate knowledge of State affairs. His Majesty desires that while at the capital Prince Henry shall maintain close touch with the Foreign Office. Prince Henry will be attached to the Foreign Office, beginning Jan. 1.

PORTO RICAN SALARY GRAB

Remarkable Proceedings in the House of Delegates.

That Body Said to be a Failure and May Have to be Abolished by Congress.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 24.—The Legislature Assembly of Porto Rico adjourned on Saturday until Jan. 2. It had been in session eighteen days, and if one may judge from the work accomplished, the House of Delegates is decidedly not a success.

The San Juan News to-morrow will say, editorially: "Those who hoped for quick results from the establishment of civil government are now beginning to express their disappointment. Things are much the same as they were under military rule. One difference is that the soldiers who cost the island nothing and spent plenty of money here have gone away. But in the way of immediate advancement, nothing noticeable has been brought about. The House has been in session eighteen days; what have they done of benefit to the island?"

Nearly fifty bills have been introduced, but not one has been of interest or promise to the business people. Many are quixotic to the extreme. If present conditions continue to exist, there will be a jam at the end of the session, and bills will be rushed through without the desirable consideration and discussion.

The popular opinion among the Americans, even among some of the higher officials, is that if the House continues as it is, Congress will abolish it altogether and govern the island through a Governor and Cabinet. Such irregular procedure has been followed that it is a question here whether any business has been done legally.

The last three days of the session just closed were devoted to discussion and debate of a bill "For an Act to Reorganize the Insular Police." The police is a well-organized body, as it is under the direction of Chief Techter, an ex-Lieutenant in the German and American armies. The force now costs the Insular Government less than $200,000. Gov. Allen in his message recommended that the force be increased so as to be able to police small towns and do away with the local municipal organizations. This new bill before the House brings the expense up to about $450,000, and does not provide for abolishing the municipal police. Salaries are increased and fixed by the bill. It provides that the Government equip officers and men with uniforms, horses, and forage, and furnishes quarters for officers, as in army organizations, and increases their pay 25 per cent.

After formally adjourning, to meet after the holidays, the House held an extra session in the afternoon and another at night for further discussion of the Police bill. Both sessions were illegal. Such procedure and scenes are of almost daily occurrence.

A bill passed the House fixing the annual salary of the native members of the Executive Council at $4,000. There are five such members. The service rendered by these officers is apparently not in proportion to the salary proposed. The work of the Assembly is over in February. After that there can be little or no work for the Council—the laws will not be changed in the meantime, and under present laws there will be no requests for franchises, over which the Council has exclusive control. For six months' work $4,000 seems a surprising price.

The bill in its original text provided that the councilors be paid $3,600. It was amended in committee to read $4,000. When it came up for debate Mr. Cornwell moved that the amount be reduced to $2,500. Mr. Egozcue opposed, and is reported to have said in his speech that Mr. Cornwell estimated their services too low; that the Porto Ricans were more valuable than the American members; that the American officials frequently are compelled to go to the Porto Ricans for information and suggestions, and that their services were worth as much as the Americans.

Mr. Cornwell's amendment was put to a vote and was defeated, 10 to 11. The House then voted to adopt the committee report placing the salary at $4,000. It was adopted, the vote being 19 to 9. The bill was then read in its entirety a second time and put to debate.

At its next session the bill was read in the House a third time, put to a vote, and defeated. When the vote was announced, the Speaker ordered a new vote. Mr. Cornwell arose on a point of order, questioning the right to order a new vote. He was sustained. Mr. Morales then moved that the bill be reconsidered at 9 o'clock the next morning, which was carried, but after it had been regularly decided to consider the bill at the next session two absent members arrived, and Mr. Morales moved that the bill be taken up immediately.

Mr. Cornwell again arose and raised a point of order, saying: "The House has no right to consider the bill now, after once deciding to take it up to-morrow." The Chair refused to consider the motion. The bill went to vote, and was passed—19 to 10.

PORTO RICAN LEADER FREE.

Trial of Luiz Munoz Rivera Ends in His Acquittal—Excitement at San Juan.

SAN JUAN DE PORTO RICO, Dec. 24.—The trial of Luis Munoz Rivera, the leader of the Federal Party, and considered by many to be the ablest native on the island, has ended in his acquittal.

Munoz and eight others, prominent in their party, were charged with resistance to public authority on the night of Sept. 14 last, when his house was mobbed and the whole town was under mob rule. The trial began on Monday last, and concluded on Friday.

The public had been intensely interested in the trial, the courtroom being continually crowded. Every visitor was searched, and dozens of revolvers were collected by the police each day. Spectators were even relieved of canes and umbrellas. This was necessary in order to be on the safe side. The Porto Rican people are so easily excited that it takes but little to incite a riot among a crowd.

When judgment was announced there was a loud murmur of applause, which broke into cheers as the defendants filed out of court. During the day and evening and the days succeeding, defendants and attorneys have received hundreds of congratulatory telegrams from nearly every town on the island. Munoz is still as powerful in his party as ever. Celebrations and processions have been held in his honor in dozens of towns. He still claims that the late elections were controlled by a biased Government, which unduly favored the Republican Party. The Federal element still largely predominates, and it is not improbable that at the next municipal election they will elect alcaldes in most towns.

The whole trial was a sort of farce. There are three Judges on the bench. The President, Judge Ramos, is known as a bitter enemy of Munoz, but he sat on the case in spite of the protests of counsel. The charge was a joint one, the information being filed on Munoz and his eight companions. But the case, as tried, was against Munoz alone. Eighty-three witnesses were examined, and all the evidence was against Munoz, the others apparently figuring as dummies. On the third day of the trial it looked as though the eight men would be acquitted, and Munoz convicted. Had the Court found him guilty, it being known that the Court was prejudiced, it is probable that some serious trouble would have occurred. The Judges, it is claimed, realized this, and hence the verdict.

TREATY SHORE NEGOTIATIONS.

Paris Semi-Official Paper Hints that the Outlook for a Satisfactory Termination Is Good.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—The semi-official Temps, favorably commenting on the prospects of the Anglo-French negotiations regarding the Newfoundland French shore reaching a satisfactory conclusion, says:

"France cannot be deprived of her incontestable and undisputed rights. An understanding must be arranged, but this task is not above the efforts of the diplomats of the two countries. It would be especially happy that this cause of perpetual misunderstandings and permanent bad relations should, thanks to the wisdom and good-will of the two Governments, become the basis for accord, and that Newfoundland, instead of being a bone of contention, become the cause of a cordial understanding between France and England."

RUSSIAN SLAP AT GERMANY.

Importation of Meat from That Country Prohibited—Counter Blow to the German Meat Law.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—United States Consul Albert, at Brunswick, Germany, has informed the State Department that a new and important phase of the meat question has arisen between Russia and Germany.

Russia has prohibited the importation of German meat, which has seriously affected one of the principal industries of Brunswick—the manufacture of various kinds of sausage—and has been the cause of a petition by the Chamber of Commerce to the Department of the Interior at Berlin, calling attention to the commercial treaty with Russia, and urging that the imports from Germany should not be barred from the Russian market by any kind of prohibition. The Germans claim that certain products can only be excluded under special circumstances, when hygienic or veterinary police regulations come into question.

Some of the German newspapers are of the opinion that the prohibition recently issued by the German Government against the importation of foreign meats into Germany has given a weapon to Russia and other foreign countries by which they will ward off the efforts of the Germans to promote their trade.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—The newspapers this week refer in an aggrieved tone to the continued attacks of the Russian press upon Germany, instancing the dissemination of the improbable story that the Cologne and Berlin newspapers were bribed by the De Beers Company to oppose the Boer cause.

FIRE APPARATUS EXHIBITION.

Cordial Invitation to United States to Send Appliances and Representatives to Berlin.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The United States has been invited, through the German Ambassador at Washington, to take part in the International Exhibition of Fire-Preventing and Fire-Saving Arrangements to be held in Berlin during the months of June and July next, in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the Berlin Fire Brigade. The German Ambassador says that the Executive Committee of the exhibition would be glad if appliances could be sent from the United States to the largest extent possible.

It is explained in the official programme that the main object of the exhibition is to bring about the best possible development of fire-protecting and fire-extinguishing apparatus, as well as to give to the manufacturers of every country an opportunity to notify others of the present state of the newest developments, and at the same time bring the representatives of the fire brigades of the different nations into closer contact with one another.

Cordial invitations are extended to municipal authorities, fire brigade associations, national unions, manufacturers, mill owners, and interested parties of every country to compete and to promote the object in view by the exhibition of suitable apparatus.

SHIPBUILDING IN GERMANY.

Private Yards in 1900 Turned Out Three Times the Tonnage of 1896.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—The German private shipyards in 1900 completed 250,000 tons of vessels, which is three times above the tonnage turned out in 1896, and one-fifth of 1 per cent. above the tonnage of 1898.

British yards built in 1900 100,000 tons for German account, and German yards built 113,000 tons for foreign account; 700 ships in all, over 730,000 tons, are building for German account in German private and foreign yards; 48 warships are being built in German private yards.

DOMINICAN MINISTRY FORMED.

Declaration of the Bankruptcy of the National Bank Confirmed.

SANTO DOMINGO, Republic of Santo Domingo, Dec. 29.—The President has appointed the following Ministers:

Minister of the Interior—Señor Hernandez; Minister of Foreign Affairs—Señor Henriquez; Minister of War—Señor Cuello; Minister of Finance—Señor Brache; Minister of Agriculture—Señor Despradel; Minister of Posts—Señor Joubert.

A Tribunal has confirmed its previous declaration of the bankruptcy of the National Bank, and the bankruptcy proceedings are continuing.

The country remains quiet.

As announced in a dispatch from Santo Domingo, under date of Dec. 8, the Director of the National Bank, which had recently been declared bankrupt by the Tribunal, had deposited the keys of the safe with the United States Consul. He claimed that the contracts obliged the Government to redeem the banknotes. The British residents, it was added, were depositing their notes with their Consul. It was also announced that the bank officials had employed counsel to oppose the Tribunal's action.

ENGLISH MILLHAND'S RISE.

Joseph Owen Now a Fellow of Pembroke College, Oxford.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The gradual removal of the social barriers which formerly restricted English political and educational life was never better instanced than by the appointment this week of Joseph Owen to a Fellowship at Oxford.

Six years ago Mr. Owen was a millhand at Oldham, helping to support his poor parents. He attended at night the University Extension lectures, and so much ability did he show that the lecturers got up a fund and sent him to the great university, where, with his wife, he settled down in a humble cottage. He knew no Greek and little Latin. His first success came when he won the Brackenburg History Scholarship, to the surprise of many learned, aristocratic competitors.

Four years of determined, up-hill work passed, and the final examinations drew near. On a position in these depended Mr. Owen's whole future. A few weeks before the ordeal his young wife died suddenly. Mr. Owen's friends thought it impossible for him to accomplish anything, but the ex-millhand's grit stood the strain, and Mr. Owen gained the coveted First Class, with the degree. His appointment as Extension Lecturer quickly followed, and Mr. Owen lectured where, six years previous, he had learned.

The climax in his career came this week, when Pembroke College elected Mr. Owen, out of all the Oxonians, to the lucrative and honored post of Fellowship.

Woman Sued for Joel B. Wolfe's Money.

George H. Church, as assignee of the executors of the will of the late Joel B. Wolfe, has commenced an action in the Supreme Court against Nelna May W. Van Der Sandt for the recovery of $12,035, which it is claimed Wolfe lent her prior to his death last June. She is a resident of Germany, and service will be by publication.

WEDDED AT TUXEDO.

Miss Zella Krumbhaar Preston Becomes the Wife of Charles F. Hoffman.

Special to The New York Times.

TUXEDO, N. Y., Dec. 29.—The wedding of Miss Zella Krumbhaar Preston and Charles Frederick Hoffman took place today at 12:30 o'clock in St. Mary's Church, in Tuxedo. The church was beautifully decorated by masses of white roses, lilies, holly, and American Beauties. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Potter, assisted by the rector, the Rev. George Grenville Merrill, the Right Rev. Eugene Hoffman, Dean of the Theological Seminary of New York, uncle of the groom, and the Rev. De Lancy Townsend, rector of All Angels' Church, New York.

The choir entered the church through the vestry room, and proceeded down the aisle and met the bride at the altar, singing the hymn, "Oh, Perfect Love." The "Lohengrin" wedding march was sung by the choir.

The bride was given away by her brother, George R. Preston, Jr., and Miss Alice Preston, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. W. M. V. Hoffman, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride, who entered the church by the main entrance on the arm of her brother, was beautifully gowned in white satin, with orange blossoms. She wore old family lace, a diamond collar, the gift of the bridegroom, and a diamond spray of flowers, a gift of the bridegroom's mother, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids. Following was the maid of honor, gowned in a white costume of crepe de chine, chiffon and lace, with a large white tulle picture hat, with white ostrich tips. She carried pink roses and white lilacs. In attendance were the Misses Rodewald, nieces of the bridegroom, as flower girls, dressed in white costumes, and white picture hats, with blue ostrich feathers, bearing baskets of pink roses and orchids. Master Gouverneur Hoffman and Master Stoddard Hoffman, sons of W. M. V. Hoffman, held the ribbons and preceded the flower girls in the bridal procession. The ushers were William N. Rodewald, Francis E. Ward, H. Evelyn Pierrepont, Jr., W. M. Dongan De Peyster, Creighton Peet, Jr., and Louis Butler Preston.

The bride is a descendant of the distinguished and historical family of Ormonde Butlers. Her maternal grandfather, William F. Krumbhaar, was the eldest son of Lewis Krumbhaar, the founder of the family in Philadelphia.

Charles Hoffman is a son of Mrs. Charles F. Hoffman (Miss Eleanor L. Vail) of New York. He is a Columbia graduate of '98, and a member of several clubs.

Immediately following the services at the church a wedding breakfast was served at the Winter clubhouse on the lake, which was prettily decorated, and to which only the relatives of the bride and bridegroom and intimate friends were invited. The bridal presents were numerous and beautiful. After the breakfast the bride and bridegroom left alone at 3:30 o'clock on a special train for the South.

Among those present were:

Mrs. W. M. V. Hoffman,
Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Vechten Olcott,
Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Vail,
Mr. and Mrs. George L. Rives,
Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Price,
Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Frelinghuysen,
Mr. and Mrs. Price Collier,
Mr. and Mrs. H. Castmir De Rham,
Mr. and Mrs. George Griswold,
Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Monroe,
Mr. and Mrs. Augustus D. Juilliard,
Mr. and Mrs. Frederic De Peyster Foster,
Mr. and Mrs. R. Fulton Cutting,
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Delafield,
Mr. and Mrs. William Gaston Hamilton,
Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Kane,
Miss Sibyl Kane,
Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Pell,
Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Barbey,
J. Henry Smith,
The Misses Barbey,
Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy,
Mrs. Arthur M. Jones,
Miss Louise Taylor,
Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Trask,
Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Snow,
Mr. and Mrs. Newbold L. Edgar,
Dr. Philip E. Johnson,
Mr. and Mrs. Charles De Rham,
Richmond Talbot,
George C. Munzig,
Mr. and Mrs. Amory S. Carhart,
Frederic Kernochan,
President and Mrs. Ellis Joncas,
Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon King,
Mr. and Mrs. Addison Cammack,
Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hyde,
Dr. and Mrs. Edward C. Rushmore,
Dr. John Vanderpoel,
Charles Arnold,
Fernando Yanaga,
James T. Woodward,
Philip Allen,
John Martin,
Mrs. John Wolfe,
Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Poor,
The Hon. Lionel Guest,
Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler C. Warren,
Miss Ward McAllister,
Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer,
Mr. and Mrs. P. Lorillard Ronalds, Jr.,
Mr. and Mrs. Stuart A. Coats,
Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Harrison,
Mr. and Mrs. George Burns,
Miss Hull,
Comte de Montesquiou Fezensac,
Mr. and Mrs. Hurlbugh Townsend,
Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Warren,
Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Kemeys,
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mortimer,
Mr. and Mrs. George Dodge,
Mrs. Brockholst Cutting,
Mr. and Mrs. J. Hooker Hamersley,
Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, Jr.,
Bishop and Mrs. H. C. Potter,
Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt,
The Hon. Cecil Baring,
Mr. and Mrs. William R. Garrison,
Mr. and Mrs. James Brown Lord,
Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederic Tams,
Frederick A. Juilliard,
Mr. and Mrs. William R. Stewart,
Cambridge Livingston,
Mr. and Mrs. John H. Iselin, Sr.,
Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. McVicker,
Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander.

A special train conveyed the guests to and from New York.

Bankson—Woodford.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., Dec. 29.—Miss Frances Woodford, daughter of John Woodford, a retired Winsted merchant, was married today to John Palmer Bankson, a Philadelphia banker, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Dr. Anderson of Waterbury officiated. The maid of honor was Miss Louise Brown of New York, and the bridesmaids were Miss Harriett Johnson of Cleveland and Miss Ethel Bankson of Philadelphia, a sister of the bridegroom. Lloyd Bankson of Philadelphia, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Harry Balderston of Boston, Percy Ash of Washington, and William and Kemble McCall of Philadelphia.

Henry W. Sherrill Dead.

Henry W. Sherrill died at his home, 69 Lenox Road, Brooklyn, on Friday. He was born at Ripon, Wis., in 1833, and was a son of the Rev. Franklin G. Sherrill, a minister of the Congregational Church. After receiving an education at the Williston Seminary, Mr. Sherrill came to this city. He had lived in Flatbush since 1887, and was identified with large real estate interests there and elsewhere in Brooklyn. He had offices in Willoughby Street and in Flatbush, and handled the business of the Lefferts and other large Brooklyn estates.

He was a Warden of St. Paul's Church, Flatbush, and a member of the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange and of the Midwood, Montauk, Knickerbocker, and Civitas Clubs of Brooklyn. He was also a Trustee of the Flatbush Trust Company. Mr. Sherrill is survived by his wife and two sons. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon.

To be Mr. Roosevelt's Secretary.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Dec. 29.—Gov. Roosevelt, who left here to-day on his way to Albany, accompanied by Attorney General Davies, said that he had decided to appoint William Loeb, Jr., his present stenographer, as his secretary when he takes the office as Vice President.

Glasgow Starts an Inebriates' Home.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Glasgow, which the Christmas and New Year season has made notorious for the drunkenness exhibited in its streets, has acquired possession of an old mansion house, situated in a deserted part of Ayrshire, at a cost of £7,000, where habitual drunkards will be sent for terms varying from three months to two years. The authorities hope to effect cures by making the inmates do farm work.

Suggestion to British Manufacturers.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Manufacturers' Record, speaking in behalf of British trade, says: "The men who have dominated the metallurgical interests of the world for so many years, whose trade ramifications extend to every civilized country, are not the men to yield to America's supremacy without sharing in it by becoming a factor in America's production. To these giants of industry it is not very material whether the source of production is England, or Pennsylvania, or Alabama. The people of America should welcome the incoming of this capital, not only for its material benefits, but for that close kinship into which the United States and Great Britain would be drawn."

YESTERDAY AT THE OPERA.

"La Boheme" in the Afternoon and "Romeo et Juliette" at Night.

The customary two performances took place at the Metropolitan Opera House yesterday. At the matinée the opera was Puccini's "La Bohème," which had its second performance. The audience was large and enthusiastic, and there can be no doubt that the public has taken this melodious inconsistency into its favor. Reasons why this should be so have already been given. Hector Berlioz declared that the public had no imagination. At any rate, it does not quickly delve below the surface of art works, and superficially "La Bohème" is captivating with its pathos, its movement, and its melodic fragments. The orchestration, too, is full of bright and fascinating color, and will probably appeal to the analytic mind more forcibly than the vocal writing. Mr. Cremonini, the tenor, who has returned to the Metropolitan company, made his first appearance this season as the poverty-stricken painter. He was in good voice, and sang with a clear and steady tone. His conception of the part was just, and he gave an impersonation generally creditable. If Mr. Cremonini continues to sing as well as he did yesterday he will be a welcome addition to the company.

The other members of the cast were the same as at the first performance, and the representation was again in every way creditable to the house. Mme. Melba's voice was in beautiful condition, and it was, as it always is, a joy to hear its pearly tones and its perfect intonation. One longs, of course, for a deeper note of humanity, yet the childlike quality of the tone is excellently suited to the death scene, which was very effective yesterday. Messrs. Campanari, Journet, and Gilibert again deserved praise for their work as the Bohemians. Mr. Mancinelli conducted with enthusiasm.

Last night the opera was "Romeo et Juliette," Miss Suzanne Adams making her first appearance this season as the heroine. The audience was lamentably small, a result, it seems probable, of the long season of opera in English at prices somewhat smaller than those asked on Saturday nights. Miss Adams was in good voice, and a beautiful voice it is. Nature was very gracious, indeed, when it created this medium of song, and in the art of producing her voice Miss Adams is proficient. But her singing has little color, and at times is without judgment. She was hapless last night in the waltz song.

Mr. Salezza was once more the Romeo, and he showed his devotion to his art by singing with as much warmth and sincerity as if the house had been packed. His Romeo is an impassioned performance. Mr. Plançon was the Friar last night, and in the music of this part his orotund voice and suave style were most happy. The part which he usually sings, Capulet, was last night intrusted to M. Journet, who proved to be most capable. The other members of the cast were the same as at the earlier performances. The performance was smooth and commendable. Mr. Flon conducted accurately, but without poetry.

Young People's Christmas Concert.

Mr. Frank Damrosch's concert for young people at Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon was adapted to the holiday season and became a miniature festival of Christmas music. The programme consisted of Liszt's march of the Kings from the oratorio "Christus," the old German Christmas song "Silent Night, Holy Night"; Cornelius's Christmas songs, "The Shepherds," "The Kings," and "The Christmas Tree," and the following selections from Handel's "Messiah": The pastopal symphony, the recitative "There were shepherds," "Glory to God," and the "Hallelujah" chorus. For the performance of these numbers Mr. Damrosch had his orchestra, Mrs. Hissem de Moss, soprano; Mr. Leland Langley, baritone, and a chorus. The audience was a large one, and its enjoyment of the pleasant and seasonable entertainment was manifest. Again we must bespeak consideration for these concerts. The explanatory remarks of Mr. Damrosch are excellently adapted to the requirements of a miscellaneous audience. He uses good judgment in pointing out the features of the music and explaining the purposes of the composers. As a preface to the performance, his remarks are always valuable.

MISS NETHERSOLE AS MAGDA.

Produces Her Own Adaptation at the National Theatre, Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Miss Olga Nethersole appeared at the National Theatre tonight in her own adaptation of Sudermann's play, "Magda."

The theatre was crowded with a fashionable audience. The version used by Miss Nethersole was in three acts and two scenes. Like all her plays, it was of the highly emotional type, and Miss Nethersole was much applauded.

Business Notices.

Carl H. Schultz's Mineral Waters combine effervescence and agreeable taste highest with ABSOLUTE PURITY and CORRECT COMPOSITION. Carl H. Schultz, 430-444 1st Av., N.Y.

ARDENTER MUSTARD FOR TABLE AND medicinal use. Send stamp for sample. W. G. DEAN & SON, NEW YORK.

Prince Albert No. 2. E. & W. Full Dress Shirts. E. & W.

MARRIED.

HOFFMAN—PRESTON.—At St. Mary's-in-Tuxedo, on Dec. 29, by the Right Rev. Henry C. Potter, Bishop of New York, assisted by the Rev. George Grenville Merrill and the Very Rev. Eugene A. Hoffman, D. D., Zella Krumbhaar, daughter of Mrs. George Rutledge Preston, to Charles Frederick Hoffman of New York City.

DIED.

BINNEY.—At Morristown, N. J., on Friday, the 28th inst., Sarah Cooke, wife of Charles C. Binney of Philadelphia and daughter of James L. Dawes of Englewood, N. J., in the 44th year of her age.
Interment at Englewood, N. J. It is requested that no flowers be sent.

CARD.—On Friday, Dec. 28, 1900, in the 75th year of her age, Mary Elizabeth, daughter of the late Alex. P. W. Kinnan and widow of Stephen Card of San Francisco, Cal.
Funeral services at her late residence, 223 West 44th St., on Monday, Dec. 31, at 11 o'clock.

ELY.—Gerald Day, younger son of Dr. Albert H. and Maude Merchant Ely, at 47 West 56th St., Dec. 29th.

GRANT.—On Saturday, the 29th inst., Alice Yates Grant, native of San Francisco.
Funeral services at Church of the Ascension, Fifth Av. and Tenth St., Monday, Dec. 31, 12:30 P. M.

HEALD.—Suddenly, at West Orange, N. J., Dec. 28, 1900, Daniel Addison Heald, in his 83d year.
Funeral services at his late residence, Llewellyn Park, on Monday, 31st inst., on arrival of 1:30 P. M. train from foot of Barclay and Christopher Sts.; special car. Carriages at Orange station.

MARCY.—Dr. Erastus E. Marcy, Thursday evening, Dec. 27.
Funeral at St. Francis Xavier Church, West 16th St., near 6th Av., on Monday, Dec. 31, at 10 A. M.

PYNE.—On Thursday evening, Dec. 27, of pneumonia, Albertina Shelton, wife of the late Percy Rivington Pyne, in the 68th year of her age.
Funeral services will be held at No. 34 East 36th St., on Monday morning, Dec. 31, at 10 o'clock.

ROSENFELD.—Maud Rauh, wife of Bertie Rosenfeld, at the Hoffman House, on Friday afternoon, Dec. 28.
Funeral at convenience of family.

SKAATS.—On Saturday, Dec. 29, 1900, at her residence, Murray Hill Hotel, Catherine Harsen, widow of Schuyler Skaats, and da

ROTHSCHILD

FULTON ST., COR. HOYT, BROOKLYN.

Clearing Prices

IN

TRIMMED HATS & BONNETS, LONDON TRIMMED WALKING HATS, HAIR POMPONS AND ORNAMENTS

At half and less former prices!

FINE French FUR FELT Hats, until now $1.69 and $1.94, at 50c.

SILK VELVET, CHENILLE and FELT BRAID HATS, until now $3.90 $4.48 and $5.90, at $1.50.

FANCY FEATHERS, CHENILLE and FANCY NETS, SPANGLED WINGS, ORNAMENTS and PINS, ROSES, FOLIAGE and VIOLETS.

ALL at CLEARING PRICES.

GOLFERS WANT CARNEGIE

He Would Make a Popular President of the U. S. G. A.

MEMBER OF THREE CLUBS

Owns Land for a Country Home Near St. Andrew's—Chatfield-Taylor Is Also Named.

Golfers will have considerable to interest them during the coming month, for the date of the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association will be announced, and with it the list of names for election to the various offices will also be made public. The Nominating Committee is now wrestling with the problem of picking out a suitable man for President of the National organization. By the terms of the constitution the list of nominees must be sent to the clubs in the association thirty days previous to the annual meeting, and the meeting must come in February. It will probably be held at Delmonico's, as has generally been the case in the past.

A conservative tone has been adopted by the United States Golf Association, and instead of announcing the members of the Nominating Committee, as in former years, a close secrecy has been adopted. It is a matter of small importance, as the Nominating Committee is speedily forgotten and the present method may be due from a desire to save them from the importunities of friends having eligible candidates for the office of President. That is the only office which has absolutely got to be changed, and that because W. B. Thomas positively declines to serve longer. As a Chicago critic recently remarked, the United States Golf Association is a happy family and the present officers will undoubtedly be re-elected. They always are, unless they come out with a flat refusal to serve another term.

Regarding the Presidency of the association, the only names that the rank and file of golfers know to be in the field are those of Andrew Carnegie and Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor. They are, respectively, Eastern and Western representatives of golf. Mr. Carnegie's allegiance to golf is proved by his membership in the St. Andrew's, Garden City, and Westbrook Golf Clubs. Mr. Chatfield-Taylor is a former President of the Onwentsia Golf Club, and with the retirement of Charles B. Macdonald from the Board of Directors of the United States Golf Association, Mr. Chatfield-Taylor was made Second Vice President as the Western representative. John Reid of the St. Andrew's Club is the premier Vice President, and he will preside at the coming meeting in the absence of President Thomas, who is now in Egypt with his family.

While the West is enthusiastic for the elevation of Mr. Chatfield-Taylor, it may be stated truthfully that his chances will be decidedly slim should Mr. Carnegie consent to accept the position, or, for that matter, any prominent Eastern man. It is safe to bet that an Eastern man will get the office. The President is needed for many Executive Committee meetings held during the year, and it would be inconvenient all around to have the head of the organization over a thousand miles away.

The election of Mr. Carnegie to the Presidency would continue that tone and dignity which the United States Golf Association has generally maintained and which it should always possess. Mr. Carnegie plays golf on his private course in Scotland, and while in New York he may often be seen on the St. Andrew's links. His name has not yet figured in the prints in connection with handicaps or foursomes, for he eschews the competitive publicity of the game, but he understands the sport thoroughly and may be set down as an enthusiast. It is not generally known, but it is a fact that Mr. Carnegie purchased a short time ago several acres of land adjoining the St. Andrew's links, at Chauncey, in Westchester County, and plans have been drawn for a country house which is to be erected at an early date. The St. Andrew's fraternity is delighted at the prospect, for with a country home of Mr. Carnegie's in the immediate vicinity the club will be drawn closer within the confines of golf civilization, for since St. Andrew's went so far from the beaten path for its home, its old fame as America's premier golf club has been seriously impaired. Meanwhile pending the announcement of the Nominating Committee's choice, golfers may continue to speculate wisely on the subject while warming up in the clubhouse after a Winter game.

Exceeding even in importance the election of officers will be the naming at the annual meeting of the links for the three National championships in 1901, the amateur women's, and open. Atlantic City is practically sure to get the former event, Nassau County, Baltusrol, and Newport have all been favorably mentioned for the women's tournament, but no eager applicant has yet appeared for the open, practically the professional event.

The West, which a short time ago seemed anxious to secure the women's contest at the Midlothian Country Club, has come to the conclusion that all the big events will go East this year, and gracefully acknowledges that it is not yet ready for the women's match. The remarks of a Chicago golfer, recently printed in that city, state the case clearly and courteously:

"The women's event is due here, but, candidly speaking, we are not quite ready for it. Without seeming to be ungallant, the top-notch Eastern women golfers are in a class by themselves, and our Western players have a great deal to learn before even a favorable comparison as golfers may be instituted between them. Consequently it would be obviously unfair to force the Eastern women to travel a thousand miles to fight the final rounds out among themselves when the same results might be attained nearer home."

The Westerners will probably request that the amateur championship be held after the Western golf championship. The reason for this is to give the Westerners an opportunity to send a better entry list. The Chicago players claim that they cannot begin serious practice before May or June, while the Eastern links generally get in playable condition a month earlier, and many admit of play all the year around.

The ambitious and somewhat amusing request of the Mound City Golf Club of St. Louis for the sanction of the National body for the contemplated world's championship in 1903 on the Mound City links will also be presented before the delegates at the annual golf meeting. The upholders of the Scotch sport, therefore, have plenty to look forward to, and the meeting will have important effects in many directions.

DYKER MEADOW GOLF.

Dithridge Wins the Jarvie Cup, While Taylor and Lyon Get the Foursome.

J. D. Dithridge won the cup given by Dr. William Jarvie in the final round yesterday on the Dyker Meadow Golf Club links near Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn. He beat James H. Merritt in a thirty-six-hole round by 3 up and 2 to play. Merritt played from scratch and allowed Dithridge thirteen strokes handicap on eighteen holes. Merritt did the thirty-six holes in 177 strokes to 191 for Dithridge. The cards were:

James H. Merritt—
Out	5	4	6	4	5	5	6	4	4	43
In	4	4	6	4	5	4	7	4	5	43	86
Out	5	4	5	6	6	3	5	5	5	44
In	6	4	6	5	5	6	4	7	5	47	91—177
J. D. Dithridge—
Out	6	6	5	5	5	6	7	4	5	49
In	6	4	5	6	5	4	7	5	5	47	96
Out	6	5	4	6	6	4	7	5	6	40
In	7	3	5	4	5	5	7	5	5	46	95—191

The final round for the Notman and Cuthbert foursome cups was also finished, the prizes being won by James L. Taylor and M. T. Lyon, who beat F. J. Phillips and A. R. Fish by 2 up. The cards were:

J. L. Taylor and M. T. Lyon—
Out	5	5	5	5	5	5	5	6	5	46
In	5	5	7	4	6	4	5	6	4	46	92
F. J. Phillips and A. R. Fish—
Out	6	3	5	4	6	4	6	5	4	43
In	6	3	8	6	6	5	6	5	6	51	94

A club handicap will be the New Year's Day feature.

LAKEWOOD'S GOLF HANDICAPS.

Douglas Won the Prize for Best Gross and Net Scores.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, Dec. 29.—Many of the golfers who will compete in the New Year's open tournament of the Golf Club of Lakewood took advantage of the fine weather to-day and competed in the club's open handicap, which is a sort of forerunner of the tourney. Prominent among the competitors was ex-Amateur champion Findlay S. Douglas, who is now playing in his old form. He gave an instance of the fact yesterday by doing the course in 81, and not only winning the best gross score prize, but the Handicap Cup as well, as his score was also the best net.

There was a tie for the second best handicap score, at 82 net, between M. R. Waters, Lakewood, and H. T. Shriver, Apawamis, which will be played off at their earliest convenience. Two others that finished well up in the list, tying at 83, were N. Mallout, the St. Paul schoolboy, from Garden City, and C. A. Blyth, Richmond County Country Club. There were about forty competitors, and only five withdrawals, and they were all on account of poor scores. They were F. A. Walthew, C. A. Sherman, and D. L. Schwartz, Jr., Lakewood Golf Club; Alexander Morton, Country Club of Westchester, and D. J. Gidden, Dyker Meadow. The scores:

Findlay S. Douglas, Fairfield County—	Gross.	Hp.	Net.
Out ....6 4 5 5 6 5 4 4 4—43—
In ....4 4 4 5 4 4 4 4 5—38—	81	0	81
M. R. Waters, Lakewood	88	6	82
H. T. Shriver, Apawamis	91	9	82
N. Mallout, St. Paul, Garden City	81	6	83
C. A. Blyth, Richmond County	95	12	83
W. E. Stafford, Westchester Golf	102	18	84
R. H. Robertsoo, St. Andrew's	91	6	85
John Moller, Jr., Apawamis	95	10	85
W. H. Davis, Lakewood	90	2	88
A. W. Black, Lakewood	97	9	88
W. L. May, Lakewood	100	12	88
F. M. Freeman, Lakewood	98	9	89
F. H. Terell, Lakewood	107	18	89
Norman S. Dike, Dyker Meadow	102	12	90
J. A. Daring, Deal Beach	108	18	90
F. A. Moore, Apawamis	101	10	91
S. B. Ferrie, Lakewood	103	12	91
B. B. Tilt, Fairfield	109	18	91
F. P. Kimball, Lakewood	96	4	92
L. P. Rider, Nassau	107	15	92

An open handicap was played at the Lakewood Country Club, which proved rather interesting and resulted in a victory for John Larkin of Deal Beach. The links were in fine condition. The scores follow:

	Gross.	Hdp.	Net.
John Larkin, Deal Beach	94	6	88
N. Mallout, Garden City	93	2	91
R. F. Manning, Waumbek	99	8	91
C. H. Robbins, Country Club	94	2	92
V. Whitney, Country Club	110	18	92
E. T. Masters, Essex County	108	14	94
F. F. Parsons, Country Club	110	15	95
F. H. Lovell, Jr., Deal Beach	118	11	97
F. S. Neathing, Country Club	118	15	103

An enlivening feature of the afternoon was a fox hunt which occurred to the north of the links after the hunting party of about thirty men and women had galloped across the grounds to the starting point, with their jaunty red caps and brilliant red coats. They were followed to the starting point by many gay society people in all kinds of vehicles. The golfers suspended operations until the last fence had been cleared and the merry hunters disappeared in the woods after the hounds. Then George Gould and his guests, who had been watching the start, followed the hunters in his red automobile.

Golf Notes of Interest.

The Southern California Golf Association will hold its annual championship tournament for women on Jan. 4 and 5, on the Pasadena links, and the men's championship will be held on Feb. 21, 22, and 23, at the Los Angeles Golf Club.

James L. Taylor has made a new record for the Winter course of the Dyker Meadow Club, near Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn. He played the nine holes in 37 strokes. The course will be kept open all Winter, and temporary greens have been provided.

A New Year's Day tournament, at eighteen holes, handicap, has been announced by the Baltusrol Golf Club of Short Hills, N. J. A handicap prize and one for the best gross score will be given. In the event of a white New Year's, snow rules will be in force.

The Country Club of Lakewood announces a special event for Friday, Jan. 4, in the shape of a mixed foursome handicap for first and second prizes. The trophies are presented by John M. Bowers, Clarence H. Robbins, and the club. The course is now in very good condition.

Harry Vardon arrived in England last week and reiterated the statement that he intendsd to return at an early date to the United States. He said he had been treated most hospitably, as his bank account undoubtedly shows, but he said that the players and links in this country were not yet up to the mark.

Willie Smith and David Bell, the two Chicago professionals who have been engaged for the coming three months by a number of California clubs, will open their season there on the 1st day of the year at Coronado Beach. They left Hot Springs, Ark., immediately after Christmas, closing their stay there by an eighteen-hole match, in which Smith beat Bell by four holes.

The Lakewood Golf Club has announced a two days' open tournament for to-morrow and Tuesday. To-morrow morning there will be an eighteen-hole medal play round, from which the leading sixteen will be picked to continue at match play, the first round of which will be finished that afternoon and the concluding rounds on New Year's Day. A general handicap will probably be added for the latter day.

"Tom" Anderson, the Montclair Golf Club professional, will sail for a brief visit to his native land on Jan. 12. During his absence his son, "Willie" Anderson, will have charge of the links, which will remain open all Winter. The playing course has been cut down from eighteen holes to nine holes. "Willie" Anderson was formerly the Ballirol Club professional, and last Summer he was in Wisconsin.

Howard A. Colby, the golf champion of the Essex County Country Club at Orange, is about to leave on a business trip to the Sandwich Islands, and he will, therefore, be missed by his friends in Florida where he was one of the foremost competitors last year. Before returning East, Colby expects to make a little tour of the links on the Pacific Coast, and if any tournaments are on at that time he will surely take part in them.

Horace and Harry Rawlins, who were engaged as greenkeepers during the Summer on White Mountain links, will spend the Winter in California as professionals at the Oakland Golf Club. Horace Rawlins held the open championship of the United States in 1895, and he made a successful tour of the Pacific Coast golf clubs last year. In the past three or four Winters he was engaged by the old Ocean County Club, now the Lakewood Country Club.

It has been announced that another prominent Scotch professional is about to try his fortune in this country. He is Alexander Herd, popularly known in his native land as "Sandy" Herd. He is one of the strongest players in the old country, and has kept prominently in the front in the open championships for the last ten years, although never winning first honors. He has beaten Vardon and Taylor at different times. It is rumored that Herd is to have charge of a large Metropolitan course, and his arrival is expected early in the Spring.

The championship for 1901 of the Ladies' Golf Union of Great Britain will be held on the four days beginning May 13. The site chosen is the Aberdovey Golf Club, one of the most picturesque links in Wales. It will be the eighth meeting of the fair golfers of Great Britain, and the first time that a course outside of England or Scotland has been chosen. The present woman champion is Miss Rhona Adair, who won her honor on the Westward Ho links last season.

The Winter season among the California clubs will be in full swing by the first of the year.

Brooklyn Advertisements. | Brooklyn Advertisements.

R. H. Matthews Sons

Eventful days these, when we are selling all classes of merchandise at prices which cannot be equaled. Herewith quote some FEW SPECIALS FOR QUICK SELLING ON MONDAY.

Store Will Be Closed All Day Tuesday.

SUIT SPECIALS.

Although there are days ahead when you can comfortably wear a tailor-made suit, still the time is here when we must make an inventory of our stock, and these suits are not likely to be included at the price they are marked.

All our $15.00, $18.00, $20.00, $22.00 and $24.00 WOMEN'S SUITS, this season's styles, made of broadcloth, cheviot, Venetians and homespuns, in blouse and tight-fitting effects; also Eton and vest fronts, in black, brown and Oxford, special for Monday at $12.50

A JACKET SPECIAL.

All of our $10.00, $11.25, and $12.00 WOMEN'S JACKETS, made of fine kerseys and cheviots, all satin lined, all perfect in fit and workmanship, colors black and Oxford, up to date in every particular, special Monday at $7.98

WOMEN'S GOLF CAPES, made of best quality golf cloth, colors black, brown, navy, castor and gray, they are worth $12.00, to close Monday $6.75

FURS! WOMEN'S PLAIN PERSIAN LAMB JACKETS, good quality, Skinner satin-lined, regular price $110; special . . $75.00

PERSIAN LAMB JACKETS, made of the best select skins, with mink or Chinchilla collars, and revers, heavy brocaded satin lining, regular price $165; special $115.00

FINE QUALITY ELECTRIC SEAL JACKETS, Skinner satin-lined; special $28.00

LACES AND EMBROIDERIES

AT LESS THAN HALF THE REGULAR PRICE.

EMBROIDERIES.

Sample strips, extra fine embroideries and insertions, regular 48c. to 69c. per yard, extra fine, for this sale . . . . . 25c. per yd

Blind and open work, cambric edge and insertion, regular 10c. to 25c. per yard quality, for this sale . . . . . 5c., 8c., 10c., and 12½c. per yd.

All-overs, worth from 75c. to $1.50 per yard, blind and open work for infants' yokes and gulmpes, for this sale . . . . . 59c., 69c., 79c. and 98c. per yd.

LACES.

Point de Paris and Normandy Val. Laces and Insertions, assorted designs and widths, regular value 8c. to 35c. per yard; for this sale 5c., 8c., 10c., 12c. & 15c. per yd.

Imitation Torchon Laces and Insertions, assorted widths and designs, value 7c. to 19c. per yard; for this sale 3c., 5c., 8c. and 10c. per yard.

A SALE OF

Trimmed and Untrimmed Millinery.

From a number of $8.00 to $15.00 Hats, we have selected the choicest and will place them on sale, Monday, at . . . . . $5.00 Each

Also a few choice Hats at . . . . . $3.98 Each

Untrimmed Hats.

Of these we have a large supply, and you may take your choice of many varied shapes and styles, at . . . 19c. and 29c. each

Millinery Dept., 2d Floor, Front.

Fulton St., Gallatin Pl., Livingston and Smith Sts., Brooklyn.

Brooklyn Advertisements. | Brooklyn Advertisements.

H. Batterman

Broadway, Graham and Flushing Avenues, Brooklyn.

Prices Have Now Undergone a General Cutting

PRELIMINARY TO OUR

Semi-Annual Inventory.

This fact, in addition to a special sale of MUSLIN UNDERWEAR, which was prepared a week ago, will make a visit to our store profitable.

Special Clearing Sale Reductions.

Dress Goods.

Sale Price 89c. per yard, 42-inch colored Satin Panne Cloth, actual value $1.15.

Sale Price 98c. per yard, 50 to 56 inch, all wool plaid back materials, for Rainy Day Skirts; former prices $1.48 to $1.75.

Sale Price 59c. per yard, 38-inch, all wool French Henrietta, in silver grays, light and dark grays, hello, violet; actual value 79c.

Sale Price 29c. per yard, 38 to 42-inch, black Crepons and Mohair fancies; actual value 65c. to 75c.

Sale Price 19c. per yard, 3,750 yards 36-inch very fine all wool Dress Flannels, in light tan shades; actual value 39c.

Sale Price 37½c. per yard, 38 to 50-inch, all wool French Cloth, in every desirable color, including the fashionable shades of reds; value 45c. to 50c.

Sale Price $2.59 per yard, 56-inch all wool Golf Cloths, in full line of desirable colors; actual value $3.00 and $3.25.

Boys' Clothing.

Our assortment is Still Large, but Our Prices Have Been Cut Down for This Said.

Suits for Boys 3 to 16 years, pretty styles, warm and serviceable; blue, brown and Oxford, smaller sizes have vests, sale price 1.98

Chinchilla Reefers, strictly all wool heavy nap, with round velvet collars, button close to the neck, sizes 2 to 8 years, sale price 1.98

Covert and Chinchilla Reefers, 2 to 8 years, superior qualities, sale price, 2.98

Top Coats and Overcoats for Boys 3 to 16 years, made in the popular Oxford, brown and olive shades, regular $4.50 coats, sale price 3.00

For young Men 14 to 20 years we offer Oxford Gray Dress Overcoats, perfect make, regular $10.00 Coats, sale price, 7.50

All Wool Knee Pants and Boys' Flannel Waists, worth 75c.; sale price 49c

For young Men 14 to 20 years, Long Pants Suits, in a grand selection of pretty styles, strictly all wool materials, sale price 5.95

Boys' Hats and Caps—Balance of our Boys' Derbys, Alpines, Telescopes, Tam o'Shanters, Plush Caps, etc., etc., at reduced prices.

Boys' Clothing Dept., 2d Floor.

Shoes! Shoes!

Your chance to buy Ladies' fine Shoes, $3.50 to $5.00 quality, at 2.79

These Shoes are the best city made, finest of leathers, in all the latest toes, they are in fine glace kid, cloth tops, patent leather and cork soles; kid or patent leather tips, stout or light soles, high or low heels, widths A to EE, sizes 2½ to 8; your choice at 2.79

Boys' Quilted Sole Calf Shoes, extra stout soles for hard wear, sizes 13 to 5½, $2.00 quality; sale price 1.39

Ladies' hand-sewed Felt Slippers, opera and Faust cut, $1.25 quality; sale price 75c

One lot of Ladies' Lamb Wool Soles, sale price . . . . . 10c. pair

Two Extraordinary Big Bargains in Men's

Unlaundered Shirts

For This Sale.

500 doz. our own manufacture Boys', Youths' and Men's White Unlaundered Shirts, made of A1 Muslin, cut full 36 inches long, made with felled seams, full yoke, all linen bosoms, continuous facings, varied sleeve lengths, sizes 12 to 18 inches; sale price, 43c.

300 doz. Our Own Manufacture White Unlaundered Shirts, made in long or short bosoms, regular and extra large sizes, for stout men, sleeves of varied lengths. This Shirt is made of Utica Muslin, all linen bosoms, hand-made buttonholes, continuous facings, felled seams, linen wrist and neckbands. Impossible to make better at any price; sizes 13½ to 19 inches; sale price, 63c.

Extra Values in Household Linens.

Hemmed Huck Towels, with colored borders, guaranteed all linen, 18 inches wide, 36 inches long, value 16c.; sale price, 12½c. each, or $1.50 per dozen.

All Linen Glass Toweling, 23 inches wide, assortment blue and red checks, value 16c.; sale price, 12½c. per yard.

All Linen Satin finish Damask Napkins, 23 inches square, value $1.89 per dozen; sale price, $1.39 per dozen.

All Linen Hemmed Silver Bleached Pattern Cloths, 8x12 size, value $2.00; sale price, $1.59 each.

Hemstitched Pattern Cloths, all linen, 8x10 size, value $2.50; sale price, $1.69 each.

Hemstitched Table Sets, all linen and extra quality; 8x10 size, sale price, $6.50 a set, value $8.50; 8x12 size, sale price, $7.50 a set, value $10.00; 8x14 size, sale price, $8.25 a set, value $12.00.

Brooklyn Advertisements. | Brooklyn Advertisements.

JOURNEAY & BURNHAM.

Flatbush Avenue, Junction Fulton Street.

Most Attractive Shopping Place in Brooklyn—Prices Always the Lowest.

Opening of Foreign Wash Fabrics To-morrow.

Prominent among the assortment we will show to-morrow, will be the handsomest collection of Swisses ever shown, including color combinations never attempted before; also, a large collection of Linen Suitings, Waist Cloths, Novelties in Lawns, Mercerized Fabrics, Silk and Cotton Materials for party gowns, Belfast Dimities and many other Novelties in dainty weaves and colorings.

Clearing Sale of Ladies' Long Jackets.

These goods are made of fine Kerseys and Oxfords, lined with the best satins, in fitted and box backs; regular $30.00 and $35.00 Jackets reduced for immediate clearance to $25.00.

January Clearing Sale of Trimmed Hats.

Ladies' Hats, correct styles and fashionable trimmings; were $10.00 to $20.00, now $5.00 to $7.00.

Children's Hats, $2.00 to $4.00; were more than twice the price.

Ladies' $1.50 Kid Gloves for 65c.

Genuine French Kid Gloves, pique sewn (lap seam,) 2 clasps, embroidered backs, desirable shades of tan and brown, sizes 5½, 5¾, 6 and 6¼, durable and well-fitting gloves; were $1.50, reduced to 65 cts. per pair.

New Foulard Silks.

Every piece presents new features in this ever-popular Spring fabric. The designs are the kind that have always been characteristic of our Silk stocks—stylish without being garish, and every print absolute perfection. Prices: 75 cts., 85 cts. and $1.00.

Special Sale of Fine Velour du Nord.

A manufacturer's stock of rich Black Velour du Nord, perfect in color and texture, and possessing the close pile so desirable; 32 inches wide, the regular $2.65 quality for $1.95; the $3.50 quality for $2.45; the $4.00 quality at $2.95; the $4.50 quality at $3.45, and the $5.00 quality at $3.95. Very rarely, indeed, can you purchase such fine goods at prices so low.

Annual Sale of Men's Shirts.

Extensive preparations have been made for this sale, and the goods are now ready for you to make selections. They are thoroughly well made, of standard materials, and the prices are lower than we have been able heretofore to place on similar goods.

Midwinter Sale of Muslin Underwear.

We have the best collection of goods ever put forward by us in this line, and at prices lower than ever before. We made very extensive preparations for the sale, both as to the garments of our own make and those that came to us from the best manufacturers. Especial care was taken to use the best materials and to have the garments made in the most thorough manner. Thus we show an assortment of the highest standard. Inspection and comparison are invited.

Annual Sale of Household Linens.

Our assortments of goods for this important event in the Linen Department are more complete than we have ever shown before, and the prices are about the cost of importation. In addition to our regular lines we have broken lots, manufacturers' samples and discontinued patterns at still lower prices, and all of the high class and reliable quality that has made our Household Linens so popular.

January Sale of Embroideries and Laces.

Fine Cambric and Nainsook Edgings and Insertions, in choice new patterns, at 14 and 15 cts. per yard; worth from 25 to 40 cts.

Very fine hand-loom Edgings and Insertions in Cambric and Nainsook, 25 cts. per yard; value 38 to 65 cts.

All-over Embroideries, a specially selected lot, in fine Cambric and Nainsook, dainty new patterns, fresh from the loom, from $1.48 to $3.75 per yard—about half of usual prices.

A new lot of very serviceable Torchon Edgings and Insertions, all widths, from 2 cts. to 15 cts. per yard.

Woolen and Velvet Waists.

Fifteen dozen, in plaids and stripes, regular $3.00 to $5.00 goods, reduced to $1.25 each, on account of the sizes being broken. In Cloak Department.

2,000 Yards of Fine French Flannels.

In a variety of stripes, figures and plaids, all new and desirable colors, especially suitable for Waists and House Gowns, regular 75 cts. goods, at 48 cts. per yard. Second Floor.

Fine California Blankets at Special Prices.

California Lamb's Wool Blankets, 72x82 inches, weight 5½ lbs., $7.50 per pair, instead of $10.00; 74x86 inches, 6½ lbs., $10.00, instead of $15.00; 80x86, 7 lbs., $13.00, instead of $20.00.

DOWN COMFORTABLES, fine Silk and Satin covered, Nainsook lined, $20.00, instead of $27.50, and $27.50, instead of $35.00. Third Floor.

After Christmas Sale of Smyrna Rugs.

A lot of Smyrna Rugs, best grades of John Bromley and W. & J. Sloane make, at cost.

Rugs, 18x36, $1.15; 21x45, $2.20; 30x60, $2.45; 36x72, $3.85; 36x40, $2.00.

Reversible Rugs, in Oriental designs, 6x9, $6.00; 7.6x10.6, $9.00; 9x12, $12.00. Third Floor.

Hosiery and Underwear Specials.

A special lot of Boys' Natural Shirts and Drawers to match, with fine wool fleece on inside, handsomely trimmed, sizes 24 to 34, were 50 to 65 cts., reduced to 39 cts.

A lot of Ladies' I. & R. Morley's English fast black Cotton Stockings, with double soles and high spliced heels, 25 cts. per pair, instead of 35 cts.

60 dozen Misses' imported fast black, plain Cotton Stockings, with double soles, high spliced heels and double knees, sizes 6 to 8 inches, 25 cts. per pair, instead of 35 cts.

Lace Curtains and Portieres.

In very effective and rich designs at greatly reduced prices.

Irish Point Lace Curtains, $3.25 per pair, were $4.50 and $4.75, $4.25, were $6.00; $5.00, were $7.00.

Real Renaissance Lace Curtains, $6.25, $8.50 and $12.50 per pair; were $9.00, $12.50 and $16.50.

Tapestry Portieres, fringedtop and bottom, reversible, choice colorings and designs, $3.00 per pair, were $4.00; $5.00, were $8.00. Third Floor.

KEYES'S SHOOTING TROPHY.

Last of the Contests for the December Cup at Crescent Athletic Club.

Dr. J. J. Keyes won the fifth and last weekly shoot for the December Cup at the Crescent Athletic Club traps yesterday afternoon, and, having also won the fourth match the week before, became the possessor of the trophy. The conditions of the contest required twenty-five shots at the expert traps and twenty-five at the Magau traps, making a maximum score of 50, with handicap allowances added. Dr. Keyes broke 19 targets at the expert traps and 22 at the Magau traps, making, with his handicaps added, a score of 47.

J. S. S. Remsen was second with a score of 45, and there were eleven other competitors.

A shoot for a trophy offered by the Shooting Committee, in which the conditions called for fifteen targets at the expert traps and five pairs at the Magau traps, brought out a field of eleven shooters, and resulted in a tie between Dr. Keyes and J. N. Borland. The latter won in the shoot-off at fifteen targets, expert traps.

A second trophy shoot at fifteen targets, expert traps, was won by H. B. Vandeveer, and a sweepstakes, fifteen targets, expert traps, was won by J. S. S. Remsen. The scores follow:

Fifth weekly shoot for December Cup, 25 targets, expert traps, and 25 targets, Magau traps, handicaps added:

Name.	Expert Traps. Hit.	H'p.	T'l.	Magau Traps. Hit.	H'p.	T'l.	Grand T'l.
Dr. J. J. Keyes	19	8	25	15	7	22	47
J. S. S. Remsen	22	2	24	20	1	21	45
Edward Banks	24	0	24	19	0	19	43
W. W. Marshall	18	6	24	13	5	18	42
L. C. Hopkins	11	9	20	14	8	22	42
W. G. McConville	11	12	23	5	10	15	38
Grant Notman	13	3	16	19	2	21	37
J. G. Borland	11	5	16	11	9	20	36
C. J. McDermott	17	3	20	11	2	13	33
Dr. H. L. O'Brien	15	5	20	9	4	13	33
C. G. Rasmus	12	6	18	5	9	14	32
H. B. Vandeveer	8	7	16	6	6	12	28
C. H. Chapman				8	10	8	18

Trophy shoot, (panel,) 15 targets, expert traps, and five pairs, Magau traps, handicaps added:

Name.	Expert Traps. Hit.	H'p.	T'l.	Magau Traps. Hit.	H'p.	T'l.	Grand T'l.
Dr. J. J. Keyes	10	4	14	1	3	4	18
J. N. Borland	5	6	11	3	4	7	18
Edward Banks	13	0	13	4	0	4	17
C. J. McDermott	9	1	10	5	1	6	16
J. S. S. Rasmus	9	1	10	3	3	6	16
Grant Notman	8	1	9	5	1	6	15
W. W. Marshall	7	3	10	3	2	5	15
C. H. Chapman	4	6	10	0	4	4	14
J. S. S. Remsen	6	0	6	5	0	5	11
H. B. Vandeveer	2	4	6	2	3	5	11
L. C. Hopkins	4	4	8	0	3	3	11
Dr. J. J. Keyes	10	4	14	1	3	4	18

Shoot off, 15 targets—J. N. Borland, 8, 7—15; Trophy shoot, (panel,) 15 targets, expert traps—H. B. Vandeveer, 11; 4—15; Grant Notman, 12, 2—14; L. C. Hopkins, 8, 6—14; Dr. J. J. Keyes, 7, 6—13; C. G. Rasmus, 8, 4—12; C. J. McDermott, 10, 1—11; J. S. S. Remsen, 9, 1—10; W. W. Marshall, 6, 4—10; Edward Banks, 9, 0—9; J. N. Borland, 7, 2—9; W. G. McConville, 6, 3—9.

Sweepstakes, 15 targets, expert traps—J. S. S. Remsen, 15; Grant Notman, 12; Edward Banks, 12; H. B. Vandeveer, 11; C. J. McDermott, 10; W. W. Marshall, 6; L. C. Hopkins, 6; W. G. McConville, 5; H. N. Borland, 4.

Morfey Wins Under New Rules.

Special to The New York Times.

QUEENS, L. I., Dec. 29.—Thomas W. Morfey of Queens won the main event at the Inter-State Park traps here to-day in a shoot that was contested under novel conditions. The new rules recently framed by a Handicapping Committee of representative shooters were used for the event and they worked well. Each man shot at the same mark, and then was allowed a bird or two, according to his ability as rated by the handicapper. Summary:

Sweepstakes, ten live birds per man; new rules; thirty yards rise, even distance for all.—Thomas W. Morfey, (scratch,) 10; Walter F. Sykes, (allowance 1 bird,) 9; Charles A. Lincoln, (1 bird,) 8; C. H. Chapman, (1 bird,) 8; William Hopkins, (1 bird,) 7; C. F. Brooks, (1 bird,) 6; C. Lockwood, (1 bird,) 5.

Sweepstakes, five live birds per man.—Lockwood, (28 yards,) 4; Lincoln, (28 yards,) 8; Sykes, (28 yards,) 4; Chapman, (27 yards,) 4; Brooks, (28 yards,) 4; Hopkins, (28 yards,) 5.

Renewal, same conditions.—Hopkins, (28 yards,) 5; Brooks, (28 yards,) 5; Chapman, (28 yards,) 5; Sykes, (29 yards,) 5; Lincoln, (28 yards,) 8; Lockwood, (28 yards,) 8.

Same conditions.—Hopkins, (28 yards,) 5; Brooks, (28 yards,) 5; Sykes, (29 yards,) 6; Lockwood, (28 yards,) 5; Lincoln, (28 yards,) 2.

Same conditions.—Lockwood, (28 yards,) 5; Lincoln, 5; Chapman, 5; Brooks, 5; Hopkins, 4; Sykes, 2.

DENNYS' YACHT-TESTING TANK.

Why Watson Forsook the Hendersons for the Building of Shamrock II.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—George W. Watson's desertion of the Hendersons and his employment of the Dennys, who have never built sailing yachts of any description, to construct Sir Thomas Lipton's second America's Cup challenger, has created much discussion, and hitherto has not been explained. A representative of The Associated Press learns, however, that Mr. Watson was influenced by the benefits of the Dennys' testing tank, which he first tried with the yacht Lysistrata. After this he utilized the tank for a series of experiments to determine the best hull shape for Shamrock II. before he signed the contract with Sir Thomas Lipton. He is convinced he has discovered a hull much better than anything he has ever designed.

The testing tank is in reality a pond 200 feet long, 22 feet broad, and 9 feet deep. Over it is a railroad with a car drawn by a stationary engine. The model is attached to the carriage and the speed got from every model, for every ounce of power is automatically recorded. There are arrangements also for testing at all keel angles. The apparatus is said here to be the only one of its kind in the world. By its means Mr. Watson has tried a dozen models. The importance of these experiments can be judged from his admission that it was due to a fault of the hull that Valkyrie and Shamrock failed. It is believed that the new boat will stand driving hard without drawing a big quarter wave behind. Hence secrecy is so carefully observed.

Reiff to Buy Horses for Croker.

FINDLAY, Ohio, Dec. 28.—Lester Reiff, the jockey, has started for California on a business mission. It is said that he has received a letter from Richard Croker asking him to purchase three of the fastest horses in the country for his stables in England. Reiff will incidentally take in some racing events.

LAWRENCEVILLE SCHOOL WON.

In an Exciting Hockey Game Andover Was Beaten by the Score of 2 to 1.

The Hockey team from Lawrenceville School defeated Andover last night in the St. Nicholas rink by the score of

ABRAHAM AND STRAUS

BROOKLYN.

An Entirely Unparalleled Renewal of this

Twentieth Century Sale of Undermuslins

The greatest news of Muslin Underwear that ever we or any one else has had to tell. Thousands of splendid garments have disappeared during the week for the smallest prices which such Underwear ever cost. Now comes a freshening of this great January sale.

Many of the Garments for Less Than the Material Cost.

Quantities are even greater now than at the beginning of the sale, qualities not a whit lower, variety of choice as wide or wider. Think of buying dainty Corset Covers for 4c., Drawers for 10c., Gowns for 24c., Misses' Drawers at 6c., Short Dresses at 24c., Long Slips at 6c. Such prices for such values have never been matched anywhere—would not be possible here but for the fact that the purchasing of immense—75,000 garments in all—quantities brings to us the most notable trade opportunities. Buy your year's supply—the first year of the new century can scarcely show such chance again. Read on:

Muslin Underwear.

2,400 Corset Covers at 4c.
Masonville Muslin, high neck, felled seams, pearl buttons.
Other Corset Covers at 19c, 29c, 39c, 48c, 69c, 79c and 89c.

1,600 Gowns at 24c.
Masonville Muslin, high neck, Mother Hubbard yoke, tucked, cambric ruffle on neck and sleeves.
Other Gowns at 39c, 49c, 59c, 79c, 97c, $1.18, $1.39, $1.59, $1.79, $2.25, $2.48 and $2.69.

1,600 Drawers at 10c.
Masonville Muslin, with hem and cluster tucking.
Other Drawers at 19c, 29c, 39c, 49c, 59c, 79c and 97c.

Chemises at 25c.
Good Muslin, pearl buttons, corded band.
Other Chemises at 69c and $1.39.

Underskirts at 29c.
Other Underskirts at 59c.

Walking Skirts at 97c.
Other Walking Skirts at $1.39, $1.79 and $1.98.

Aprons at 5c.
Other Aprons at 15c.

Flannelette Underskirts at 19c.

Flannelette Gowns at 39c.
Other Gowns at 98c.

Colored Petticoats of Sateen at 97c.
Silk Petticoats at $7.98.

Corsets Under Wholesale.

$1.00 J. B. Corsets at 45c.
French Models, medium waist, short hip, black sateen trimmed with embroidery.

$1.50 and $1.98 "R. and G." Corsets, 69c.
Less than wholesale. The finest black and gray sateen or white and gray coutil; embroidery finishing; sizes 18 to 36, including splendid models for stout and medium forms.

In the Infants' Store.

Prices Unmatched in Littleness.

Drawers at 6c.
Good Muslin, hem and cluster tucks.
Other Drawers at 29c and 48c.

Gowns at 28c.
Masonville Muslin, Mother Hubbard style, yoke of tucks with cambric ruffle around neck and sleeves, sizes 2 to 14 years.
Other Gowns at 59c and 69c.

Skirts at 29c. and 39c.
Masonville Muslin, prettily trimmed.
Other Skirts at 69c.

Short Dresses at 24c.
Cambric, Empire style.
Other Short Dresses, 48c, 69c, 98c, $1.39.

Colored Dresses, 39c.
Percale in dainty stripes and checks; Empire yoke, with lapels.
Other Colored Dresses, 59c and 89c.

Infants' Wear.
Long Slips at 6c and 19c.
Long Dresses at 39c, 59c and $1.48.
Long Skirts at 25c, 29c, 48c, 75c and 98c.
Flannelette Wrappers at 39c.
Second Floor, East Building.

The Greatest of All Semi-Annual Sales of Men's & Boys' Shirts, Collars, Night Shirts

A bigger sale, a sale of greater values than anything we or any one else ever accomplished—and these January sales of Shirts and kindred wear for men have come to be events for which all Brooklyn waits. The orders for the garments which will go on sale to-morrow were given months ago—vast quantities which bring prices to a minimum. As a result, to-morrow

Over Sixty Thousand Garments Averaging a Full Third Off

Will be ready for the quickest dispersal. Many are priced below the cost of the material to-day—muslins are steadily rising in price and likely to keep on. Every garment is perfectly made of excellent material—made to our order and reaching the Abraham and Straus standard of merit. Buy for now—buy a year's supply. These details:

Unlaundered Dress Shirts, Men's & Boys'.
Men's Shirts, of strong, heavy muslin, with set in linen bosom, reinforced back and front and felled seams; unmatched value at.....24c
Men's and boys' Shirts, of Utica muslin; hand-made buttonhole in front of neck band; reinforced back and front; set in linen bosom, felled seams, continuous facing; double stitched throughout; tie tape in back of neck for protection from collar button..37c
Men's and boys' Shirts of Utica nonpareil and New York Mills muslins—the best to be had—all linen set in bosom; felled seams and excellent finishing throughout; hand-made buttonholes on neck band.....47c
Men's Shirts, made in our own workrooms, of Utica nonpareil muslin, with three-ply, 2100 linen bosom; hand-made buttonholes and eyelets; perfect in every way and priced the lowest on record at.....68c

$1.50 Laundered Dress Shirts, 95c.
Made of Utica nonpareil muslin with fine linen bosom and hand-finished button holes. Five styles and five sleeve lengths, the equal of the best $1.50 laundered dress Shirts sold elsewhere.....95c

25c. Collars, 2 for 25c.
Straight or the high band turn down—2100 linen both sides and matched nowhere else for less than 25c. apiece. Styles are all the staple and fashionable shapes.

Flannelette Night Shirts, 24c.
An excellent quality, cut full and long and finished with felled seams and pearl buttons; pretty patterns. For men.

Domet Night Shirts, 47c.
Good patterns, excellent material, fine making and finishing; quality unmatched for anything like the price. Men's and boys'.

Muslin Night Shirts, 37c.
Of heavy cotton with felled seams and neat fast color trimming down front and around collar and pockets; cut full and long. For men

Muslin Night Shirts, 47c.
Of Langdon muslin, very full and long, fast color trimming; excellent garments in every respect. For men.

$1.00 Pajamas at 69c.
Of fancy domet flannel, in most attractive patterns; excellently made and finished. For men and boys.

$1.50 Pajamas, 94c.
Of excellent madras in a wide variety of handsome patterns, some with the military collar, others with turnover collar; all splendidly trimmed and finished and well worth $1.50.

Main floor, front, East Building.

Wrappers Underpriced.

Lounging garments, these that it is a pleasure to wear—because they are so pretty, so daintily made and trimmed. Just about a third underpricing will disperse them in a jiffy to-morrow, too, These hints:

Wrappers of excellent calico in indigo and cadet blue, red and black, made with a yoke front and back and trimmed with braid, fitted back.....48c

Wrappers of specially fine flannelette, made with a shirred yoke back and front and capes over the shoulders, trimmed with braid, full flounced skirt, bishop sleeves.....$1.24

Second floor, rear, Central Building.

German Kid Gloves.

Regularly 79c. To-morrow 64c.

Women's—220 dozen that came too late for the holiday selling.

Fine Gloves that we imported to sell under usual prices, at 79c. a pair.

All the newest shades are included—mode, tan, slate, red, brown and white. Because the boat was late—a bargain to-morrow at.....64c

Main floor, center, Central Building.

Pictures at Half.

Not more than two of a kind, sorts that are left from the holiday selling which we do not intend to reorder. So prices are cut sharply in half to hurry them into usefulness and make room here for fresh arrivals.

There are Medallions, Colored Photographs, Etchings, Colored and Black and White Pictures, especially suitable for dining rooms—various other kinds that are all worthy and likable. Half priced to-morrow at 16c. to $7.49.

Picture Store, Third floor, Central Building.

Screens---Less Than Wholesale Cost.

More than a hundred patterns—the entire sample line of the man who makes the handsomest Screens in this country.

They come to us this season as they did last—the event of the year in Screen selling. Patterns are artistic; some rich and substantial, others light and graceful. There is variety enough to suit every taste, every color scheme. Dainty affairs filled with silkoline are suitable for a bedroom—to stand about a baby's bed, perhaps. Heavy Screens, with solid mahogany frames and tapestry filling, are right for library or hall.

Prices are almost as various as the patterns—but in every case less than the wholesale cost. These are mere suggestions:

Three-fold Screens, cherry and oak frames, filled with silkoline, 70c., $1.69, $2.59 and $3.49

Three-fold Screens, cherry and mahogany finished frames; burlap panels and illuminated top rails and panels of wood, $3.79, $5.49, $6.98, $8.79 and $9.75

Three-fold Screens, solid mahogany frames, filled with silkoline.....$4.49

Three-fold Screens; solid oak and cherry frames, showing inlaid effects; tapestry filled panels, $4.48, $6.79, $7.48, $13.75, $14.98, $15.98 and...$18.98

Curtains and Upholsterings---Underpriced.

Figured ruffle Swiss Curtains, full width, 3 yds long.....98c. and $1.48

Ruffled Bobbinet Curtains, full width, 3 yds. long.....$2.24 and $2.98

Nottingham Lace Curtains, desirable patterns.....98c., $1.19, $2.24

Choice selection of Irish Point Curtains, $3.79, $4.98, $8.48

Dainty patterns in Renaissance Curtains, $3.49 and $5.25 per pair

A choice assortment of cotton tapestry Furniture Coverings, in red, green, blue and rose, at.....$1.19 and $1.59 per yard

Gobelin Tapestries, in rose, ecru, olive, red and green, at.....$2.25

Silk Gobelin Tapestry, in cream, rose, crimson and green, at.....$3.25

Oriental Stripe Tapestries, in effective colorings and designs, some with silk stripe—suitable for curtains in Oriental rooms and occasional draperies where Oriental effect is desired, at 98c., $1.15, $1.25 and $1.98 yard

50 in. Tapestry Couch Covers—Bagdad effect, fringed on four sides, 3 yds. long, $1.89 each

Fine Tapestry Couch Covers, fringed on all sides, 60 in. wide, 3¼ yds. long....$5.75

Third floor, front, Central Building.

Women's Silk Umbrellas---Under Half.

Two hundred 26-inch Umbrellas of pure silk bring the season's best value with the first of the year. Hurry.

$5.00 Silk Umbrellas for $2.48.

Close rolling, with cases to match; handles the long pearl and ivory shapes with silver trimmings—Dresdens—gun metal—hardly any two alike. Earliest choosing is best, but all are bargains.

Main floor, front, Central Building.

A Mammoth Sale of Housefurnishings

Begins the Century in This Greatest Store.

To Brooklyn—"City of Homes"—with the opening of the great Housefurnishing Store, spreading over the basements of Central and East Buildings, belongs the largest, handsomest and most complete store of home furnishings in existence. Stocks are the widest in range—from a dainty paper favor for the dinner table to the massive tiled refrigerator or the great range that cooks with both coal and gas. Nothing that modern science has devised for the household economy is missing—a model kitchen that cost $2,500 is established solely to make suggestions of good housekeeping to Brooklyn home lovers. Aisles are broad, displays are not crowded, ventilation is perfect.

Almost Two Acres Devoted to the Showing.

To fitly celebrate the opening of this greatest store, to mark twentieth century progress in housefurnishings of the world's progress, to-morrow will inaugurate a sale

At Prices That Make a New Record of Littleness.

No housekeeper can afford to miss this sale. Everything is of the highest quality—nothing less is ever sold here at any price. This partial list:

Enamel Cooking Utensils.
We offer none but those of the very highest reputation.
Gray Mottled Steel Ware. Long handle Saucepans, 2 qt.....6c
Long handle lipped Saucepans, 2½ qt....9c
Long handle lipped Saucepans, 3 qt.....15c
Straight, covered Saucepans, 2½ qt.....10c
Straight, covered Saucepans, 3 qt.....16c
Straight, covered Saucepans, 4 qt.....28c
Rice or Oatmeal Boilers, 1½ qt.....15c
Rice or Oatmeal Boilers, 2 qt.....29c
Rice or Oatmeal Boilers, 2½ qt.....46c
Convex covered Saucepans, 8 qt.....37c
Convex covered Saucepans, 10 qt.....52c
Convex covered Saucepans, 12 qt.....64c
Round Dish Pans, 10 qt.....15c
Round Dish Pans, 14 qt.....25c
Round Dish Pans, 17 qt.....34c
Coffee Pots, 1½ qt.....9c
Coffee Pots, 2 qt.....15c
Coffee Pots, 3 qt.....22c
Tea Pots, 1½ qt.....15c
Tea Pots, 2 qt.....19c
Tea Pots, 3 qt.....22c
Tea Kettles, flat bottom, 3 qt.....15c
Tea Kettles, 4 qt.....29c
Tea Kettles, 5 qt.....37c
Deep Cooking Kettles, 6 qt.....25c
Deep Cooking Kettles, 8 qt.....37c
Deep Cooking Kettles, 10 qt.....52c
Deep Cooking Kettles, 12 qt.....64c
Family size Colander, 12 inch.....10c
Family size Colander, 13½ inch.....15c
Bread Raisers, 14 qt.....49c
We also display the largest assortment of highest grade "Agate Nickel Steel" Ware, and the genuine "Granite" Ware at the very lowest prices.

Wash Boilers.
Extra quality, oval shape, genuine copper bottom Wash Boilers, No. 7, 49c.; No. 8, 89c.; No. 9, $1.12.
New England Style, copper bottom Boilers, No. 7, 98c.; No. 8, $1.19; No. 9, $1.29.

Japanned Ware.
Six compartments, Spice Sets, large.....17c
Bread Boxes, deep, stenciled.....19c
Imported fancy Cereal Canisters.....10c

Woodenware.
Best white wood Knife Boxes.....19c
Towel Rollers.....7c
Towel Racks.....24c
Plain Stools for decorating.....15c, 30c
Book Racks.....15c., 30c, 45c
Salt Boxes, to hang on wall, imported wood.....19c
Holly wood Potato Mashers.....19c
Holly wood Rolling Pins....19c., 23c., 26c
Folding wood Dish Drainers.....15c
Kitchen Indicators, aids the housekeeper's memory.....12c
Clear selected Pastry Boards, 19c., 28c., 36c
Well shaped bosom Ironing Boards.....15c
One piece poplar skirt Ironing Boards..29c
Clean grooved Butter Pats.....3c., 7c
Wood rim Flour Sieves.....8c., 10c
"Babbitt's" combination Soap Shaker and Dish Mop.....10c
Finest, full size double zinc Laundry Board.....29c
Birdseye maple Rolling Pins.....25c
Electric hoop selected Virginia cedar Wash Tubs.....49c
Galvanized iron Wash Tubs, with wringer attachment.....55c
Tooth Picks, hard wood, in large boxes, 3 for.....5c
Stands in oak or walnut for butlers' trays95c
Rustic Flower Boxes, hanging..99c., $1.49
Rustic Flower Boxes, jardiniere style, $1.49, $2.24, $3.74
"World's Fair," double pointed Tooth Picks, 600 for.....9c
Butlers' Dish Trays, oak or walnut...$1.75
Rustic Flower Boxes, for window sills, $1.89, $2.24

Laundry Soap.
"Babbitt's" celebrated "Best," limited quantity, 12 cakes for.....25c
"Fairbank's" renowned Washing Powder, "Gold Dust," in medium packages, 2 for.....5c in 4 lb. packages.....14c
Quantity limited to each purchaser.

Table Oil Cloth.
10,000 yards of the very best grade of 1¼ yd. width in "Buchanan's" superior Oil Cloth for table covering, value 20c. yd., 9c yd

Toilet Paper.
Extra fine satin finish Boudoir Tissue, in large rolls or packages, value 5c., not over 10 to each purchaser, 10 for.....25c

Brooms.
2,000 extra well made three sewed Brooms, real value 29c., only two to each customer, 15c
Celebrated "Home of Industry" parlor Brooms.....29c., 35c., 41c
"Home of Industry" velvet finish parlor Brooms.....43c., 46c., 52c

Clothes Wringers.
An excellent wood frame Wringer, with 10 inch rolls.....79c
Our "Favorite" Wringer, improved guide board, coil spring, 10 inch.....$1.89
Our new high grade spiral coil Wringer, with the reversible water board, extension handle, standard high class rubber rolls, 11 inch.....$3.98

Baskets.
Imported oval, double handle, strong willow Clothes Baskets.....19c
Extra strong, large size, oval Clothes Baskets.....49c
Round, covered, Clothes Hampers.....59c
Braided top, covered Clothes Hampers, very strong.....95c
Extra heavy white willow Hampers, square, $1.98
Basement, Central and East Buildings.

No Mail or Telephone Orders Filled.

CHAMPIONS FOR THE YEAR

Record Holders and Best Performances in All Sports.

FINE SHOWING IN ATHLETICS

Amateurs Prominent Among Those Named on the New Roll of Honor for Physical Prowess.

New names figure prominently on the list of holders of sporting championships up to the close of 1900, the changes being chiefly among the best performances on record achieved by amateur athletes. For professional sports, records that have stood for years still remain unexcelled, probably because the growth of amateur sports to a considerable extent has reduced the number of men who find professional sport a paying occupation and removed the incentive to surpass the deeds of old champions. Among the most notable achievements of amateur athletes are the world's record at a quarter of a mile, running, by Maxwell P. Long, the running broad jump by Meyar Prinstein, of which it is stated that he was "aided by the wind," but which nevertheless is a truly remarkable performance, and the feat of Richard Sheldon in discus throwing, which, splendid as it was, eclipsing all previous records, is not officially recognized, as the circle in which the thrower stood, by careless measurement, exceeded by a few inches the prescribed limit. A triumph of some moment for American amateur athletics was the victory of the crew sent by the Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia in the championship races at Paris, France, against crews from all parts of Europe.

In filling out the list of champions and record holders, those branches of sport in which championships are disputed or in which championships have never been decided regularly are omitted. An instance of this is the amateur pool championship. In billiards, George Slosson, the last winner of the championship emblem in open contest, is named as champion, though his title is disputed. In the making of new turf records, the year 1900 was a notable one, the best time for both harness and thoroughbred races having been reduced at all the popular distances. Among the trotters, The Abbot is now champion, he having beaten the previous best on record, 2:08¾, by Alix, in 1894, by half a second, after mares had held first place for nearly twenty years. Cresceus is the world's champion trotting stallion, while the pacing record of Star Pointer remains undisturbed. Among the thoroughbreds, the honors, as far as time is concerned, belong to Voter and Ethelbert. The championship list to 1901 is as follows:

BASEBALL.

National League—Brooklyn won 82 games, lost 54. Percentage, .603.
Eastern League—Providence won 83 games, lost 54. Percentage, .606.
American League—Chicago won 82 games, lost 53. Percentage, .607.
College Baseball—Princeton won 10 games, lost 2. Percentage, .864.
Batting Champion 1900—Wagner, Pittsburg; average, .380.

BICYCLING.

HARRY D. ELKES.

Elkes holds the one-mile paced, in-door record, 1:24 1/5, made in Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 14, 1900, and records for from two to twenty-five miles, paced, against time, made at Brockton, Mass., Oct. 27 and Nov. 7, 1900.

SIX DAYS' RELAY TEAM RACE.

Charles W. Miller, (1,348 2-10 miles,) and Frank Waller, (1,385 2-10 miles,) team total 2,733 4-10 miles, Dec. 3 to 9, 1899.

AMATEUR BICYCLE CHAMPIONS.

Quarter Mile—C. C. Holzel, 0:20 1-5, at Spokane, Washington, Sept. 4, 1899.
Half Mile—Walter Smith, 0:45, Berkeley Oval, New York, June 15, 1900.
One Mile—Walter Smith, 1:28, Berkeley Oval, June 5, 1900.
Two Miles—F. A. Staples, 3:26 2-5, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 26, 1899.
Five Miles—J. R. Dubois, 9:00, Brockton, Mass., Oct. 11, 1899.

AQUATICS.

Professional champion—Jacob G. Gaudaur.
Amateur (N. A. A. O. regatta, 1900,) intermediate single sculls—F. Demourelli, Y. M. G. C., New Orleans.
Senior single—John Rumohr, Harlem Rowing Club, New York.
Intermediate double—C. F. Bunth, bow; R. P. Smith, stroke; Crescent B. C., Philadelphia.
Doubles—C. H. Lewis, bow; E. H. Ten Eyck, stroke; Wachusett B. C.
Pair oars—F. De Baecke, bow; J. O. Oxley, stroke; Vesper B. C.
Intermediate four oars—Nassau Boat Club, New York.
Senior four—Detroit Rowing Club.
International four—Wachusett B. C.
Intermediate eight—Dauntless B. C., New York.
Senior eight—Vesper B. C., Philadelphia.
International Regatta on the River Seine, Paris, France—Champion eight-oared shell, Vesper B. C. crew; Roscoe Lockwood, bow; E. Marsh, E. Hedley, W. Carr, J. Geigher, J. B. Juvenal, H. De Baecke, J. O. Oxley, stroke; L. Abell, coxswain; P. A. Dempsey, trainer.
Intercollegiate boat race, 1900—University of Pennsylvania won, University of Wisconsin second, Cornell third, Columbia fourth.
Harvard-Yale boat race, 1900—Won by Yale.

TRACK AND FIELD ATHLETICS—HOLDERS OF RECORDS.

Fifty-Yard Run—0:05¼, H. M. Johnson, New York, Nov. 22, 1884.
100-Yard Run—0:09 3-5, Edward Donovan, Natick, Mass., Sept. 2, 1895; 0:09 4-5, B. J. Wefers, (amateur,) Washington, D. C., Nov. 8, 1896.
220-Yard Run—0:21, B. J. Wefers, (amateur,) Toronto, Ont., Sept. 25, 1897.
Quarter-Mile Run—0:47, Maxwell W. Long, (amateur,) Guttenberg, N. J., Oct. 4, 1900.
Quarter-Mile Run, Over Ten Hurdles, Each 2 Feet 6 Inches High—0:66 2-5, Jerome Buck, New York, Sept. 19, 1896.
Half-Mile Run—1:53 2-5, Charles J. Kilpatrick, (amateur,) Manhattan Field, New York, Sept. 21, 1895.
One-Mile Run—4:12¾, W. G. George, London, England, Aug. 23, 1886.
Two-Mile Run—9:11½, William Lang, England, Aug. 1, 1863.
Running Broad Jump—24 feet 7⅛ inches, Meyer Prinstein, (amateur,) Franklin Field, Philadelphia, April 28, 1900.
Standing Long Jump—14 feet 5½ inches, G. W. Hamilton, Romeo, Mich., Oct. 3, 1879.
Running High Jump—6 feet 5⅝ inches, M. F. Sweeney, (amateur,) Manhattan Field, New York, Sept. 21, 1895.
Pole Vaulting for Height—11 feet 10½ inches, R. G. Clapp, New York A. C., Chicago, June 19, 1899.
Standing High Jump—5 feet 8½ inches, T. F. Kearney, Oak Hill, Mass., July 26, 1859.
Throwing Fifty-six-Pound Weight, (from a seven-foot circle)—35 feet 10½ inches, J. S. Mitchell, (amateur,) Bergen Point, N. J., Sept. 2, 1895.
Putting the Shot, (24 Pounds)—33 feet 11⅝ inches, G. R. Gray, Boston, Mass., April 12, 1900.
Putting Sixteen-Pound Shot—47 feet 1 inch, Dennis Horgan, Glasgow, Aug. 12, 1899.
Hammer Throwing—21-pound hammer, 90 feet 3 inches, C. A. J. Queckenburger, Staten Island, Nov. 17, 1888; 16-pound hammer, 169 feet 4 inches, John Flanagan, New York A. C., Travers Island, N. Y., Sept. 29, 1900.
Discus Throwing.—121 feet 8½ inches, Richard Sheldon, (amateur,) New York A. C., New York, (not recognized, as circle in which thrower stood was three inches over the regular seven feet;) 119 feet 4½ inches, Bence Hungary, (amateur,) Paris, France, July 15, 1900.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONS, 1900.

Quarter-mile Run.—0:49 3-5, D. Boerdman, Yale.
Half-mile Run.—2:03 3-5, J. M. Perry, Princeton.
Mile Run.—4:24 2-5, John F. Cregan, Princeton.
100-yard Run.—0:10 1-5, W. Swayne, Yale.
Furlong Run.—0:22 1-5, E. W. Jarvis, Princeton.
120 Yards Over Hurdles—0:15 2-5, A. C. Kraenslein, University of Pennsylvania.
220 Yards Over Hurdles.—0:25 1-5, A. C. Kraenslein, University of Pennsylvania.
Running Long Jump.—23 feet 8 inches, M. Prinstein, Syracuse.
Running High Jump.—5 feet 10½ inches, S. S. Jones, New York University.
Putting the 16-pound Shot, (seven feet run.)—44 feet 3 inches, F. Beck, Yale.
Pole Vaulting.—11 feet, 3½ inches, B. Johnson, Yale.
Throwing 16-pound Hammer, Standing.—154 feet 4½ inches, A. Plaw, University of California.
Two-mile Run.—9:51 3-5, Alexander Grant, University of Pennsylvania.
Individual champion A. A. U., 1900, Harry Gill, 6,360½ points.

WORLD'S CHAMPION ATHLETIC GAMES, Decided at Paris, 1900.

100-metres run—0:11 in final heat, won by F. W. Jarvis, Princeton.
110-metres hurdle race on turf—0:15 2-5, won by A. C. Kraenzlein, University of Pennsylvania.
400-metres run—0:49 2-5, won by Maxwell P. Long, New York Athletic Club.
1,500-metres run—4:06, won by C. Bennett, England.
Running high jump—1.9 metres, won by I. K. Baxter, University of Pennsylvania.
Throwing the discus—36.4 metres, won by Boner Hungary, Austria.
Putting 16-pound shot—14.10 metres, won by Richard Sheldon, N. Y. A. C.
4000-metres steeplechase—0:57 3-5, won by Walter B. Tewksbury, Pennsylvania.
2,500-metres steeplechase—Won by G. W. Orton, Pennsylvania.
Pole vault—3.3 metres, won by I. K. Baxter, Pennsylvania.
Running broad jump—7.185 metres, won by A. C. Kraenzlein, Pennsylvania.
Standing high jump—1.65 metres, won by Ray Ewry, New York A. C.
Running broad jump—7.175 metres, won by A. C. Kraenzlein, Pennsylvania.
Standing long jump—3.21 metres, won by Ray Ewry, New York A. C.

CHAMPION ATHLETIC CLUBS, A. A. U.

	Record— First.	Second.	Third.	Points:
Pastime A. C.	40	55	48	413
Knickerbocker A. C.	32	40	35	351
New York A. C.	48	22	24	303

SWIMMING HOLDERS OF RECORDS.

50 Yards.—0:31¼, straightaway, open water, W. B. Izard, Annapolis, Md., May 20, 1893.
100 Yards.—1:05 3-5, straightaway, salt water, E. C. Schoeffer, Travers Island, N. Y., Sept. 20, 1900.
220-Yards.—2:53 3-5, one turn across stream, E. C. Schoeffer, Travers Island, N. Y., Sept. 23, 1900.
Quarter Mile.—6:48⅘, with three turns, E. C. Schoeffer, Travers Island, Sept. 23, 1899.
Half Mile.—14:08, F. A. Wenck, Travers Island, Oct. 1, 1898.
One Mile.—29:51 3-5, F. A. Wench, Travers Island, Oct. 1, 1898.

PUGILISM.

Heavyweight Champion.—James J. Jeffries.
Middleweight.—Robert Fitzsimmons.
Lightweight.—Terrence McGovern.
Featherweight.—Terrence McGovern.
Bantamweight.—Disputed.

WRESTLING CHAMPION.

Ernest Roeber.

LAWN TENNIS CHAMPIONS.

Singles.—W. D. Whitman.
Doubles.—Holcombe Ward and D. F. Davis.

GOLF CHAMPIONS.

Walter J. Travis.
Miss Frances S. Griscom.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL CHAMPION.

Yale.

PIGEON SHOOTING.

Howard D. Bates, winner of Grand American Handicap, 1900.

BILLIARD CHAMPION.

George Slosson.

AMATEUR BILLIARDS.

Wilson D. Foss, winner of Class A Championship, 1900.
A. G. Cutler, winner of Class B Championship, 1900.

POOL CHAMPION.

Alfredo de Oro.

TURF RECORDS.

TROTTING.

Fastest mile, The Abbot, 2:03¼, 1900.
Stallion Record—Cresceus, 2:04, 1900.

PACING.

Star Pointer, 1:59¼, 1897.

THOROUGHBREDS.

Voter, six furlongs, (circular course,) 1:12 1-5, 1900. One mile, 1:38, 1900.
Charentus, one mile and a quarter, (circular track,) 2:04, 1900.
Ethelbert, two miles and a quarter, 3:49, 1900

PHYSICAL DIRECTORS' MEETING.

College Gymnastic Instructors Elect Officers for the Coming Year.

Several new arrivals lent added interest to the meeting of the American College Physical Directors' Association, which was continued in Schermerhorn Hall, Columbia University, yesterday. The college directors in attendance were Dr. Edward Hastings of the University of Nebraska, Dr. J. A. Babbitt of Haverford, George Goldie of Princeton, Dr. Watson Lewis Savage of Columbia, Dr. H. B. Butterworth of the University of Chicago, Dr. William G. Anderson of Yale, Dr. R. Tait McKenzie of McGill University, Montreal; Dr. Wehr of Adelbert College, Cleveland, Ohio; Dr. Caspar W. Miller of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Paul C. Phillips of Amherst, Dr. Dudley A. Sargent of Harvard, Dr. Jay W. Seaver of Yale, Dr. W. A. Lambeth of the University of Virginia, Dr. L. J. Drake of the University of Minnesota, Dr. Edward Hitchcock of Amherst, and Frederick Marvel of Wesleyan.

New papers on topics of gymnastic interest were read and discussed as follows: "On a New Manual of Anthropometry," by Dr. Edward Hitchcock of Amherst; "Sprinters—Physical Measurements and Deductions," by Dr. Paul C. Phillips of Amherst, and "Strain, Breathlessness, and Fatigue as Shown in the Face," by Dr. R. Tait McKenzie of McGill University, Montreal.

The first business of the afternoon session was the election of officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows: President—Dr. R. Tait McKenzie of McGill University, Montreal; Vice President—Dr. Caspar W. Miller of the University of Pennsylvania; Secretary and Treasurer—Dr. Watson Lewis Savage of Columbia; Members of the Council—Dr. Alonzo A. Stagg of the University of Chicago and Dr. Paul C. Phillips of Amherst. The following new members of the association were elected: Dr. E. E. Green of the University of Rochester, Dr. Edward H. Hastings of the University of Nebraska, Dr. Alonzo A. Stagg of the University of Chicago, and Dr. H. B. Butterworth of the University of Chicago. Several amendments were made to the constitution of the association, and the meeting then adjourned until December, 1901.

Doings of College Athletes.

Charles N. Perrin of Rochester has been elected manager of the football team of the University of Rochester for next season.

Indiana University is laying plans to secure the Western football championship next year. Three coaches have been secured for the team, and strong efforts will be made to turn out a winner.

During Yale's basketball team tour out West a game will be played in Chicago with the Ravenswood Young Men's Christian Association. This is one of the strongest basketball teams in the Western city, and the men are making great efforts to down their opponents from New Haven.

Albert P. Hall, Jr., 1902, of West Chester, Penn., has been elected Captain for 1901 of the Swarthmore College football team. Hall played on the team in his freshman and sophomore years, and was elected Captain for the last year, but was obliged to resign to his inability to play on account of a severe injury.

All of the Yale undergraduates have been asked to contribute $1 apiece for the benefit of university athletics during the coming year. There is a debt of several thousand dollars which must be paid, and the money to be raised is to be divided on an equitable basis for the support of baseball, rowing, and track athletics.

The Yale second crew, it is announced, will row the crew from the Annapolis Naval Academy, the race to be held on May 11, either on the Thames or the Severn River. Tanks for early practice are being placed in the Yale gymnasium, and by Jan. 10 the candidates will begin stiff practice. Head Coach Allen will have charge of the weeding out process.

The members of Cornell alumni interested in football have been called to meet in Ithaca during the holidays. The purpose of the conference is to discuss, with the Cornell Football Committee, the coaching policy for next year. There is a strong sentiment to place the entire coaching system in the hands of undergraduates, provided a suitable man can be found to assume general charge. It is generally considered by Cornell men that Percy Haughton of Harvard will not return to do the coaching next season.

George Clark, Jr., who was third baseman on the Harvard baseball team last year, will probably play in the same position on the nine during the coming season. He is as good a golfer as he is a baseball player, and has just retired as Vice President of the Intercollegiate Golf Association. He will be one of the six players on Harvard's golf team in the intercollegiate championship tournament in May. During the Summer Clark is a frequent competitor on the Shinnecock links, near Southampton.

Yale, Columbia, Pennsylvania, as well as the leading athletic club teams, are to be invited to take part in the water polo carvinal which is being arranged by the Chicago Athletic Association, as one of the big features of the sportsmen's exhibit, which will be held in the Coliseum at Chicago, beginning Feb. 11. C. A. Patrick, who is managing the affair, claims to have very promising assurances that Yale will be among the competitors.

The Cornell Hockey team has had a week of good ice and developed some form for the games which will be played during the coming month. A rink has been erected on Beebee Lake on the university campus. Besides the games with the new Central New York League, Cornell will play independent games with Pennsylvania, Brown, Yale, and other colleges.

Edward Jackson Kibbe, 1903, of Batavia, N. Y., has been appointed manager of the Hobart College football eleven for 1901, and Harry A. Rhodes, 1902, of Millsport, N. Y., has been appointed manager of the baseball team. He will probably also act as Captain. Earle S. Warner, 1902, of Orleans, N. Y., was elected Captain of the football and track teams. Warner has played two years on the eleven, his position being fullback, and also was a member of the track team last year. He is a pole vaulter and middle-distance runner. He will also act as manager pro tem.

At a recent meeting of the Bucknell University Football team Frank W. Stanton of Scranton, Penn., was unanimously re-elected Captain for next season. Capt. Stanton is a heady, aggressive player. He is twenty-two years of age, weighs 170 pounds, and is 6 feet high. He prepared for college at Peddie Institute, where he played on the institute team. For three years he has played at left halfback for Bucknell.

Prof. D. W. Batson, Dean of Kentucky Wesleyan College, at Winchester, Ky., has resigned, owing to his opposition to the football team playing on gridirons outside of the college. He demanded the expulsion of the football players, and when the Faculty declined, Prof. Batson resigned.

Prof. William Libbey, Secretary of the Princeton committee in charge of the new gymnasium, stated, after a committee meeting the other day, that he was confident the entire $200,000, and possibly $250,000, needed for the new building would be secured within two years. When finished, it will be one of the finest gymnasiums in the country.

The baseball team of the Chicago University will probably start for its Eastern trip on June 2. One week will be spent in this locality, and Athletic Director A. Stagg is now visiting Eastern colleges for the purpose of arranging dates. Harvard has already been secured, the game to be played June 5 at Cambridge, but Stagg wants to get games with Yale, Brown, Columbia, and the University of Pennsylvania.

Race Track Results.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29.—One and one-sixteenth miles: Bright Night, 99, (D. Shaw,) 1; Nearest, 101, 2; Jack Martin, 100, 3; time—1:57⅘. Six furlongs: Gracious, 90, (Dade,) 1; Scrivener, 118, 2; Sir Christopher, 110, 3; time—1:19. Steeplechase, short course: Isen, 149, (Lawless,) 1; Harve B., 135, 2; Jack Hayes, 138, 3; time—3:36½. New Orleans Handicap, seven furlongs: Moroni, 103, (A. Weber,) 1; Apaca, 94, 2; Old Fox, 95, 3; time—1:32¼. Mile: Donna Seay, 90½, (Wilkerson,) 1; Senator Beveridge, 88, 2; Gray Daily, 88, 3; time—1:46½. One and one-sixteenth miles: Belle of Orleans, 104, (Walsh,) 1; Ida Ledford, 93, 2; Phidias, 101, 3; time—1:56½.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Five and a half furlongs; purse, Edna Brown, 109, (Dominick,) 1; Annetto, 106, 2; Companion, 106, 3. Time—1:08¼. One mile; purse, Bill Garrett, 104, (Dominick,) 1; MacGyle, 99, 2; Wooster Boy, 109, 3. Time—1:41¼. Steeplechase, short course. Credo, 128, (Sutherland,) 1; Mester, 129, 2; Lord Chesterfield, 152, 3. Time—4:00. Seven furlongs, Juvenile Champion Stakes, Brutal, 115, (O'Connor,) 1; Canmore, 122, 2; Rolling Boer, 127, 3. Time—1:27¼. One mile and a sixteenth. Opponent, 101, (Coburn,) 1; St. Wood, 104, 2; Edgardo, 96, 3. Time—1:47¼. Six and a half furlongs, Phoenissa, 107, (Mounce,) 1; Brenhilda, 106, 2; Onyx, 107, 3. Time—1:21⅘.

TROUBLE AT BASEBALL GAME.

Brooklyn Team Refused to Play and Marshal Raids Box Office.

The first of the series of four indoor baseball games for the championship of the Armory Indoor Baseball League was played last night in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory between two picked teams representing all New York and All Brooklyn, and resulting in a dispute and the withdrawal of the Brooklyn team in the eighth inning.

The score at this time was 7 to 5 in favor of the New York team, but upon the refusal of the Brooklyn team to continue the game it was, according to the rules, awarded to the New York team by the score of 9 to 0.

Good clean ball was played in the early part of the game. The New Yorkers were puzzled by Gillette's curves, and did not begin to hit him until the seventh inning, when the score stood 5 to 2 in favor of Brooklyn.

In this inning Collins was

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Outlook for 1901 Regarded as Encouraging by Brokers.

Last Week of the Old Year Marked by Notable Deals—Auction Room Statistics.

Few brokers or operators can be found who will not say that present prevailing conditions show a great improvement over those of a year ago and who do not express themselves as satisfied with the outlook for 1901. The awakening which the market has experienced since election may reasonably be made the basis of great expectations of what is to follow during those four or five months which, out of the entire twelve, usually produce the greater part of heavy realty dealings.

There was no feature of the situation at the opening of the present year on which to base a hope for a Spring season of more than ordinary activity, and whatever encouraging prospects there might have been were immediately blasted by the high prices of building materials and by the beginning of the mortgage tax legislation at Albany. The new year and the new century will open under much more favorable conditions; indeed, it would be difficult to find a single element in present market conditions that is not favorable to a period of lively dealing. There is plenty of money looking for investment on bond and mortgage on easy terms, prices of materials have gone back to somewhere near their normal level, while that very necessary adjunct of an active market—a disposition upon the part of buyers and sellers to "do business" by yielding a point if necessary—is everywhere apparent.

The last week of the old year, although it has been little more than half a week, has witnessed the closing of several interesting deals. More important, perhaps, than any single transaction of the week is the announcement of Col. John Jacob Astor's plans for improving the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, details of which will be found in another column.

The financial district was represented in realty reports for the first time in many months by the Central Realty Bond and Trust Company's purchase of 38 Wall Street. The acquisition of the Hotel Virginia, on the Grand Circle, by the same corporation undoubtedly means the thorough rehabilitation of that property, if not its reimprovement. Further up Broadway, two valuable vacant properties changed hands—the northwest corner of Sixty-second Street and the southwest corner of Sixty-eighth Street. The demand on Fifth Avenue, between Thirty-fourth and Forty-second Streets, shown recently in several smaller transactions, was further evidenced by the sale of the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-first Street by James McCreery to the New York Security and Trust Company.

Among the less important deals of the week, which nevertheless show the increased variety of current business, were the sales of 448 Sixth Avenue, 121 West Twenty-fourth Street, and the purchase of a lot on the east side of Broadway, just south of Thirty-third Street, by the Aetna Real Estate and Loan Company, as an addition to the site for its proposed thirty-story office building.

Latest Sales by Brokers.

Francis B. Rebert has sold for Michael Tully the seven-story apartment house 310 West Eighteenth Street, on a plot 50 by 100.

Porter & Co. have sold for Henry G. Peters, for $10,000, the three-story brick building 2308 Second Avenue, 20.11 by 80.

James L. Conway has sold to Francis J. Kuerzl the three-story brick dwelling 233 West One Hundredth Street, 25 by 100.11.

The six-story tenement at the southwest corner of White and Baxter Streets has been exchanged by Weil & Mayer for the five-story tenement No. 245 Mulberry Street. The same firm has also traded the six-story tenement at the northeast corner of Mulberry and Broome Streets for the five-story tenement 246 Mulberry Street.

Charles E. Picken has sold to a Dr. Karbe the three-story dwelling 246 West One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Street, one of a row recently erected.

William Hennessy has sold for Harris Fine the six-story tenement 144 East Fourth Street.

Jacob Chalmowitz has sold for Francis J. Schnugg, for $75,500, the seven-story double flat 255 and 257 Rivington Street, 50 by 60; also, for Mrs. Eliza J. Smith, the property at the northwest corner of Thirteenth Street and Third Avenue, Brooklyn, 50 by 70, for $24,000.

The Auction Room.

Statistics show that the total amount of business in the salesroom for the last year has exceeded that of 1899 by nearly $4,000,000. This, however, is but another example of the deception that may lurk in bare figures, and it is generally thought that there have been few events in the auction room during the last twelve months that have possessed more than passing interest. The offering of the Fifth Avenue Hotel and the old Delmonico property, as well as several large estate sales, attracted a vast amount of advance notice, but the results, developing in nearly every case large purchases by interested parties, were wholly without significance. Two notable exceptions to this general statement ought to be mentioned—the sale of the Contoit estate's holdings for a total of $892,000, and of the properties belonging to the Pell estate, including the northeast corner of Sixth Avenue and Twenty-first Street, 24.8 by 95, for which the record price of $175,500 was paid.

Throughout the usual period of activity in the Spring, the auction market naturally reflected the none too active condition of the private sales branch. The high prices of building materials, moreover, worked to the great disadvantage of the auction room in practically prohibiting the purchase of vacant property by builders. In view of this circumstance, large offerings of lots which would otherwise have been made, were held up and the few sales of this character which were attempted met with thoroughly discouraging receptions.

With the generally improved conditions prevailing in every branch of the market, there is good reason to expect better results from the coming Spring season. Indeed, during the last six weeks a large proportion of voluntary and estate offerings, involving small parcels, have found ready buyers. A better feeling has been at all times apparent, which promises well for the successful sale of the larger properties which will undoubtedly begin to appear on the lists after Jan. 15.

The schedule for the coming week is entirely one of foreclosures. The four-story building 79 Fifth Avenue, just north of Fifteenth Street, will be sold by Auctioneer Smyth to-morrow. On Wednesday the apartment house at the northwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue and Seventy-ninth Street will be sold, and on Friday that at the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and One Hundred and Fifteenth Street.

There were recorded last week 217 mortgages, for $3,881,701, of which 60, for $551,882, were at 5 per cent.; 87, for $1,966,739, were at more and 70, for $1,361,130, were at less. In the corresponding week last year there were recorded 247 mortgages, for $4,738,193, of which 75, for $1,558,165, were at 5 per cent.; 89, for $941,128, were at more, and 83, for $2,208,900, were at less.

AUCTION SALES THIS WEEK.

To Take Place at 111 Broadway, Unless Otherwise Specified.

MONDAY, DEC. 31.—By Philip A. Smyth, foreclosure sale, Isaac Rothschild, referee, 79 Fifth Avenue, east side, 100 feet north of Fifteenth Street, 24 by 128.4, four-story brownstone-front building. Due on judgment, $35,000; subject to another mortgage for $85,000.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Sampson H. Weinhandler, referee, 301 West One Hundred and Forty-first Street, northwest corner of Eighth Avenue, 24.11 by 100, five-story brick flat, with store; 3,645 Eighth Avenue, west side, 24.11 feet north of One Hundred and Forty-first Street, adjoining the foregoing on the north, 25 by 100, five-story brick flat, with stores. Due on judgment, $6,780; subject to other mortgages, on the corner parcel, for $40,000; on the inside parcel, for $25,000.

By William M. Ryan, foreclosure sale, Wilbur Larremore, referee, 421 West Thirty-first Street, north side, 366 feet west of Ninth Avenue, 25 by 98.9, five-story brick building. Due on judgment, $23,429.

By James L. Wells, foreclosure sale, Thomas J. Rush, referee, 716 Union Avenue and 1,007, 1,009, and 1,011 East One Hundred and Fifty-sixth Street, being the northeast corner, 86.5 by 75 by 104.10 by 105.8, three four-story brick flats, with stores in the corner. Due on judgment, $1,940; subject to other mortgages for $46,950.

By D. Phoenix Ingraham & Co., foreclosure sale, Sylvester L. H. Ward, referee, 2,246 Second Avenue, east side, 60.10 feet north of One Hundred and Fifteenth Street, 20 by 80, four-story stone-front tenement, with store. Due on judgment, $19,500.

By Thomas C. Smith, foreclosure sale, Daniel P. Ingraham, referee, tract on the west side of a proposed road running westerly from the Macomb's Dam Road, adjoining the lands of Elizabeth Schwab, 127.3 by 287 and irregular. Due on judgment, $13,381.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 2.—By William M. Ryan, foreclosure sale, Maunsell B. Field, referee, Prospect Terrace, William's Bridge, southwest corner of Fourteenth Street, 39 by 100, two-story frame dwelling; Prospect Terrace, west side, 114 feet south of Fourteenth Street, 25 by 100, two-story frame dwelling. Due on judgment, on each, $3,257.

By Philip A. Smyth, foreclosure sale, Samson Lachman, referee, 688 East One Hundred and Eighty-fifth Street, south side, 150 feet east of Vanderbilt Avenue, 16.8 by 100, two-story frame dwelling. Due on judgment, $2,294.

By D. Phoenix Ingraham & Co., foreclosure sale, Daniel P. Hays, referee, Brook Avenue, southwest cornert of Wendover Avenue, 75 by 100.10 by 81.7 by 70.2, three four-story brick flats, with store in the corner. Due on judgment, $19,805.

By D. Phoenix Ingraham & Co., foreclosure sale, William H. Harris, referee, Amsterdam Avenue, northwest corner of Seventy-ninth Street, 100 by 102.2, seven-story brick flat, with store. Due on judgment, $42,726, subject to another mortgage for $70,000.

By James L. Wells, foreclosure sale, Joseph P. McDonough, referee, 232 West Forty-sixth Street, south side, 368.9 feet east of Eighth Avenue, 18.9 by 100.5, leasehold, four-story stone-front dwelling. Due on judgment, $3,788.

THURSDAY, JAN. 3.—By William M. Ryan, foreclosure sale, Arthur D. Truax, referee, 919 and 921 East One Hundred and Sixty-third Street, north side, 50 feet west of Jackson Avenue, each 25 by 86.4, two four-story brick flats. Due on judgment, on each, $1,228.

By William M. Ryan, foreclosure sale, Sylvester L. H. Ward, referee, 2,526 and 2,528 Seventh Avenue, west side, 53.7 feet north of One Hundred and Forty-sixth Street, 25 and 19.3, respectively, by 100, two five-story brick flats, with stores. Due on judgment, on 2,526, $23,318; on 2,528, $17,087.

By William M. Ryan, foreclosure sale, James J. Nenlis, referee, 2,120 Valentine Avenue, east side, 466.6 feet north of One Hundred and Eighteenth Street, 25 by 100, two-story frame dwelling. Due on judgment, $1,085; subject to another mortgage for $3,000.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Maurice Untermyer, referee, 684 East One Hundred and Eighty-fifth Street, south side, 110.8 feet east of Vanderbilt Avenue, 16.8 by 100, two-story frame dwelling. Due on judgment, $2,779.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Herbert C. Smyth, referee, 307 West Sixty-ninth Street, north side, 125 feet west of West End Avenue, 25 by 100.5, three-story brick tenement, with store. Due on judgment, $12,834.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Edward L. Patterson, referee, 540 and 542 East One Hundred and Fifty-fourth Street, south side, 275.3 feet east of the old line of Morris Avenue, 50 by 100, two four-story brick flats. Due on judgment, $6,278; subject to other mortgages for $19,228.

FRIDAY, JAN. 4.—By William M. Ryan, foreclosure sale, George C. Blanke, referee, Rosedale Avenue, West Farms, east side, 150 feet north of Tacoma Street, 25 by 100, two-story frame dwelling. Due on judgment, $3,067.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Vernon M. Davis, referee, 212 and 214 West One Hundred and Second Street, south side, 99.11 feet east of Broadway, 50 by 100.11 and irregular, two five-story brick flats. Due on judgment, $6,524; subject to another mortgage for $14,500.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Charles H. Knox, referee, 247 West One Hundred and Second Street, north side, 122.6 feet east of Broadway, 32.6 by 100, five-story brick flat. Due on judgment, $2,619.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Thomas C. O'Sullivan, referee, 3,524 to 3,542 Third Avenue, northeast corner of One Hundred and Sixty-eighth Street and running through to Fulton Avenue, 176 feet on Third Avenue, 342 feet on One Hundred and Sixty-eighth Street, and 125 feet on Fulton Avenue, buildings of the American Brewery. Due on judgment, $118,211; subject to another mortgage for $80,000.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, George W. Ellis, referee, 431 Riverside Drive, northeast corner of One Hundred and Fifteenth Street, 105.7 by 87 by 100.6, seven-story brick flat. Due on judgment, $22,027; subject to other mortgages for $70,000.

THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

List of Plans Filed for New Structures and Alterations.

One Hundred and Twenty-second Street, north side 100 feet east of Pleasant Avenue, for a one-story terra cotta office, 13 by 31; Manhattan Brick and Terra Cotta Company of 401 Pleasant Avenue, lessee; S. G. & W. R. Patten of 66 Broadway, architect; cost, $500.

Nos. 106 and 108 Bayard Street; for a seven-story brick store and tenement, 50 by 85.11; Salvatore Serano of 32 Mulberry Street, owner; Horenburger & Straub, architects; cost, $55,000.

La Fontaine Avenue, southwest corner and northeast corner of One Hundred and Seventy-eighth Street, for three three-story brick and frame tenements, 25 by 73 each; David J. Lyons of 39 Union Square West, owner; C. S. Clark of 709 Tremont Avenue, architect; total cost, $23,000.

Tremont Avenue, north side, 50 feet east of Marmion Avenue, for three one-story frame stores, each 16.8 by 40; Richard Lyons of 39 Union Square West, owner; C. S. Clark of 709 Tremont Avenue, architect; cost of each, $2,500.

No. 613 East Fifth Street, for a six-story and basement brick flat, 25 by 77.9; Benjamin Gabrilovitz of 274 Henry Street, owner; M. Bernstein of 245 Broadway, architect; cost, $28,000.

Prospect Avenue, southwest corner of One Hundred and Fifty-sixth Street, for a five-story brick flat and store, 25 by 84.7 by 85.7; L. E. Bates of 39 Kelly Street, owner; Harry T. Howell, Brook Avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street, architect; cost, $24,000.

No. 779 Broadway, for a six-story brick store and lofts, 23.1 by 86.4; D. P. Cheseboro of 1,167 First Avenue, owner; R. N. Anderson of 65 Fifth Avenue, architect; cost, $30,000.

No. 211 Second Street, for a six-story brick warehouse, 20 by 80; Charlotte Dochtermann, premises, owner; John Boese, 280 Bowery, architect; cost, $18,000.

No. 1,490 Lexington Avenue, to a five-story brick tenement and store; Hannah Applebaum, premises, owner; S. B. Ogden & Co., architects; cost, $1,500.

No. 1,632 Lexington Avenue, to a four-story brick store; Carl Sotschek of 1,773 Crane Place, owner; the Carl Sotschek Company, premises, architect; cost, $5,000.

No. 1,636 Stebbins Avenue, to a five-story brick tenement and store; William Smith of 1,018 Washington Avenue, owner; F. J. Miller of 1,462 Brook Avenue, architect; cost, $600.

King's Bridge Road, north side, 66 feet west of Marmion Avenue, to a two-story frame dwelling; the New York City Church Extension and Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, owner; F. E. Albrecht of 2,509 Webster Avenue, architect; cost, $500.

No. 107 Riverside Drive, to a five-story brick dwelling; J. R. Shanley, premises, owner; C. True, architect; cost, $500.

No. 157 Chambers Street, to a five-story brick factory; Trinity Church Corporation, owner; Thomas Rae of 405 West Twenty-fourth Street, architect; cost, $600.

No. 429 Eighth Avenue, to a four-story brick dwelling and store; Antonio Minaldi of 383 Grand Street, owner; B. & J. P. Walther, architects; cost, $800.

No. 417 East Sixteenth Street, to a four-story brick tenement and store; Anna Cordes, premises, owner; Henry Regelmann, architect; cost, $300.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.

In the following list "mtg" stands for mortgage and "R S" for revenue stamps. The war revenue law provides that stamps shall be placed on all conveyances at the rate of 50 cents for each $500 of consideration. This "consideration" has been held to mean only the equity above the mortgage, except in the rare cases where the purchaser assumes payment of the mortgage. The amount of the mortgage plus 1,000 times the value of the revenue stamps on the conveyances should therefore show the true consideration:

Saturday, Dec. 29.

AMSTERDAM AV, w s, 125.9 ft n of 98th St, 14.0x84.2x17x84.2; Union Dime Savings Institution to Peter A. Welch, (R S $11)..... $11,000

FREDERICK ST, w s, Lot 325, map of S. Cambreling and others, 25x87.6; Arthur St, e s, Lot 346, map of S. Cambreling and others, 25x87.6; W. J. Hallahan and others to Tommaso Giordano, (R S $5)..... 840

FREDERICK ST, w s, Lot 325, map of S. Cambreling, 25x87.6; Arthur St, e s, Lot 346, same map; Chester A. Hallahan and another, by guardian, to Tommaso Giordano, (R S $1)..... 560

LOT 73, map of Van Nest Park; Edward B. Teichman to Jennie E. Teichman, (R S 50 cents)..... 1

MORSE AV, or old Boston Road, s s, 200 ft w of Rose St, 25x100; Maria E. Beek to John E. Hoffman..... 100

PARK AV, e s, 50.5 ft n of 63d St, 50x100; 63d St, s s, 100 ft e of Park Av, 50x132.6x50.1x135.3; 3d Av, e s, 50.5 ft s of 65th St, 25x105; plot at centre line of block, between 64th and 65th Sts, 180 ft w of 2d Av, runs w 50 x n 97.8 x s e 50.7 x s 86; 64th St, n s, 180 ft w of 2d Av, 75x100.5; 2d Av, w s, 75.5 ft n of 64th St, 77.5x106.3x93.6x105; 3d Av, n e corner of 63d St, runs n 75.5 x e 105 x n 25 x e 150 x s 100.5 to street x w 255 to beginning; 2d Av, w s, 75.5 ft s of 64th St, 25x105; 2d Av, n w corner of 63d St, 50.5x105; 63d St, s s, 155 ft w of 2d Av, 25x100.5; 64th St, n s, 325 ft e of 2d Av, 75x74.11x75.10x86.7; 1st Av, w s, 50.6 ft s of 64th St, runs w 100 x n 50.5 to 64th St x w 100 x s 100.5 x e 50 x s 100.5 to 63d St x e 50 x n 75.5 x e 100 to 1st Av x n 75 to beginning; 65th St, s s, 180 ft w of 2d Av, runs e 20.5 x n w 50.7 x n 12.8 x a 50; also interior lot, between 64th and 65th Sts, 225 ft w of 1st Av, runs w 100 x s 13.9 x s e 101.2 x n 29; Murray St, 81, n s, 25x100; Levantia W. Boardman to A. B. Cox, partition..... 1

PARK AV, s e corner of 63d St, 75.5x100; 3d Av, s w corner of 64th St, 50.5x100; plot in the centre of the block between 64th and 65th Sts and 135 ft w of 2d Av, runs w 50 x n 80 x s e 50.7 x s 72.4; 2d Av, n w corner of 64th St, runs W 180 x n 100.5 x e 75 x s 22 x e 105 to the avenue, x s 75.5; 3d Av, e s, 75.5 ft n of 63d St, 25x105; 64th St, s s, 130 ft e of 3d Av, 125x100.5; 64th St, s s, 105 ft w of 2d Av, runs w 50 x s 100.5 x w 25 x s 100.5 to 63d St, x e 75 x n 200.10 to the beginning; 64th St, n s, 250 ft e of 2d Av, 50x90.6x50.7x98.4; 64th St, n s, 300 ft e of 2d Av, 25x86.7x25.3x90.6; 64th St, s s, 225 ft e of 2d Av, 100x100.5; 1st Av, s w corner of 64th St, 50.5x100; 63d St, n s, 150 ft w of 1st Av, 75x100.5; 65th St, s s, 130 ft w of 2d Av, runs s 28.1 x n w 50.7 x n 20.5 to the street, x e 50; plot between 64th and 65th Sts and 275 ft e of 2d Av, runs e 50 x s 13.9 x n w 50.7 x s 5.11; Grand St, 78, w s, 25x100; Grand St, 244, n s, 25x75; A. B. Cox to Levantia M. Boardman..... 1

PLOT at centre line block between 64th and 65th Sts and 225 ft w of 1st Av, runs w 100x s 13.0x s e 101.2x n 29.5; also Murray St, 81, n s, 25x100; Levantia W. Boardman to A. B. Cox..... 1

WEBSTER AV, w s, 236.6 ft s of 170th St, 50x90; Frederic E. Perham, referee, to Samuel B. Fitzgerald, (R S $13.50)..... 13,400

2D AV, 1,189, w s, 25.1x80; John J. Houlahan to Frieda Hart, (R S $1)..... 1

2D AV, 1,187, w s, 25.1x80; John J. Houlahan to Frieda Hart, (R S $1)..... 1

2D AV, 1,185, w s, 25.1x80; John J. Houlahan to Frieda Hart, (R S $1)..... 1

3D AV, 3,551, w s of 168th and 169th Sts, 20x100; Solomon B. Kraus and another to Arthur Hoellerer, (mtg $7,000, 3D AV, 3,551, w s, between 168th and 169th St, 20x100; Anton Hoellerer to Elwood Banfield, (R S $18)..... 18,000

R S $11)..... 100

11TH AV, n e corner of 180th St, 25x100; N. D. Stillwell to Thomas S. Welker, (R S $10.50, mtg $4,000)..... 100

29TH ST, n s, 259.10 ft w of 7th Av, 23.5x98.9; B. W. Robinson, referee, to Elizabeth Rintelen, (R S $14.50)..... 14,350

30TH ST, 154 East, 16.8x98.9; Amsterdam Prichard to A. W. Herzog, (R S $1.50, mtg $9,000)..... 10,250

48TH ST, s s, Lots A and 28, map of Barbara Leggett, 25x100.4; Louis H. Gunther to Jacob F. Gunther and another, (R S $2, mtg $16,000)..... 2,000

63D ST, 238 East, 25x100.5; John J. Houlahan to Frieda Hart, (R S $1)..... 1

63D ST, 236 East, 25x100.5; John J. Houlahan to Frieda Hart, (R S $1)..... 1

63D ST, 234 East, 25x100.5; John J. Houlahan to Frieda Hart, (R S $1)..... 1

106TH ST, 211 and 217 West, 66.8x100.11; Frederick Thone to Bernardine Prenes, (R S $15)..... 1

117TH ST, s s, 225 ft e of 2d Av, 25x100.11; Dora Heyman to Sidney Nordlinger, (R S $2.50, mtg $4,000)..... 100

122D ST, n s, 129 ft w of 3d Av, 20x100; Charlotte C. Archibald to Peter Kuhn, 1-5 part, (R S $1.50)..... 1

183D ST, n s, 100 ft e of Grand Av, 25x100; Emma Kramer to Samuel Igstaedter, (R S $2, mtg $4,000)..... 1

Recorded Leases.

3D AV, 2,970, s e corner of Grove St; Charles J. Betzig and another, executors, to George A. Schwarting, 5 years. 1,500

6TH AV, 1,011, s w corner of 57th St, 20x100; R. F. Ballantine to Frederick Brinkama, 3 years..... 7,200

7TH ST, s s, 325 ft e of Avenue A, 25x98.10; James R. Roosevelt and others, trustees, to Barbara Hildebrandt, 20 years..... $750

125TH ST, 117 East, and 110 East 126th St; Andrew Soher to Leo Sommer, 4 1-3 years..... 4,600

Recorded Mortgages.

Interest is at 5 per cent., unless otherwise specified.

BRINKANIA, Frederick, to P. Ballantine & Sons; 6th Av, 1,011, s w corner of 57th St, saloon lease, demand..... $7,000

BANFIELD, Elwood, to Solomon B. Kraus; 3d Av, 3,551, 10 years, 4½ per cent..... $14,000

BERLINGER, Emilie and Robert, to Isidore D. Morrison; Broome St, s s, 20 ft e of Ridge St, 1 year, 6 per cent..... 1,500

BRODIL, Charles J., to Frantiska Brodil and Frank Brodsky; 78th St, 336 East, due June 1, 1901, 6 per cent..... 650

COOPER, Julia, to Jules A. Colliez; 1st Av, s w corner of 113th St, secures notes, 6 per cent..... 5,000

DONGAN, Herbert, to Gibson Putzel; Broadway, e s, 26.10 ft n of 100th St, demand, 6 per cent..... 1,000

GREEN, Max, to Mary A. G. McLochlin; 7th Av, e s, 37.3 ft s of 22d St, due July 1, 1902..... 1,000

HOFFMAN, John E. and Lena, to John and Matthias Haffen; 2,906 3d Av, 1 year..... 8,500

IGSTAEDTER, Samuel, to Emma Kramer; 183d St, n s, 100 ft e of Grand Av, 3 years..... 1,000

JACOB, August, to Lambert Suydam; 113th St, n s, 281 ft e of 3d Av, due June 1, 1901, 6 per cent..... 4,000

JELLIFF, Louise J., to Caroline Wandell; 122d St, 354 West, due April 20, 1901..... 1,000

KROEGER, Otto H., and wife to Emma L. Shaw; 35th St, n s, 113 ft e of 8th Av, 3 years, 4½ per cent..... 8,000

KROEGER, Otto H., and wife to Margaretha Marquardt; 35th St, n s, 113 ft e of 8th Av, 3 years..... 2,000

McGLADE, Peter F., to Title Guarantee and Trust Company; 143d St, 606 East, demand, 6 per cent..... 11,000

MEEHAN, Ellen, to City Mortgage Company; 140th St, n s, 125 ft w of St. Ann's Av, 1 year, 6 per cent..... 12,000

MICHLER, Friedrich, to Title Guarantee and Trust Company; 2d Av, 1,486, 5 years, 4 per cent..... 6,000

RINTELEN, Elizabeth, to the Irish Emigrant Society; 29th St, n a, 259.10 ft w of 7th Av, 1 year..... 7,000

SOMMER, Leo, to Bernheimer & Schmid; 117 to 125 East 125th St and 110 East 126th St, saloon lease, demand, 6 per cent..... 2,000

TILDEN, Marmaduke, to Arthur C. Dennett; Waverley Place, n a, 27.8 ft w of University Place, leasehold, 1 year..... 10,000

WELCH, Peter A., to Union Dime Savings Institution; Amsterdam Av, w a, 125.9 ft n of 98th St, 5 years, 4 per cent. 6,500

WIEDERHOFF, Caroline, to Richard Dudensing, Jr.; 123d St, n s, 230 ft w of 2d Av, demand, 6 per cent..... 1,500

Assignments of Mortgages.

BRADLEY, William and James, to Provident Savings Life Assurance Society..... $43,000

FAURE, John P., executor, &c., to John P. Faure, (two mortgages)..... Nom.

HEILNER, Emanuel, and another to Allen L. Mordecai..... 12,500

HEINTZ, John C., and another to John Riegelman..... 2,000

HYMAN, Gerson, and another to Hayman Cohen..... 2,282

LEVI, Joseph C., trustee, &c., to Florence N. Harris..... 17,000

SECURITY TRUST AND SAFE DEPOSIt Company, executor, &c., to Samuel J. Wright..... Nom.

SMITH, A., Erksine, individually and as trustee, &c., to Le. Bayard Smith, trustee, order of court..... Nom.

WEEKES, Frederic D., trustee, to A. S. Weeks..... Nom.

Mechanics' Liens.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE, s e corner of 94th St, 111x88.8x108.9x135; John P. Kane Company against Bernard S. Levy, owner and contractor..... 645

WEST END AV, s e corner of 91st St, 26x100; also West End Av, n e corner of 90th St, 26x100; Mohr Fireproof Partition Company against the Realty Improvement Company and others, owners; Alexander S. Trask, contractor..... 840

145TH ST, n s, 300 ft w of Amsterdam Av, 100x99.11; D. M. Shollenberger & Son against John F. Scannell, owner and contractor..... 1,779

BUILDING LOAN CONTRACTS UNDER CHAPTER 78, LAWS OF 1900.

BROOME ST, 291; Hyman Adelstein and Abram Avrutine, with Abraham Goodman and Rudolph Wallach, 9 payments. 17,000

143D ST, e s, 281.6 ft e of Alexander Av, 25x½ block; Title Guarantee and Trust Company, with Peter F. McGlade, 8 payments..... 11,000

146TH ST, n s, 125 ft w of St. Ann's Av, 25x100; The City Mortgage Company, with Ellen Meehan, 8 payments..... 12,000

Lis Pendens.

CENTRAL PARK WEST, w s, 50.11 ft s of 98th St, 50x100; Edwin Shuttleworth against Etta Ellinn and others, (foreclosure of mechanic's lien;) attorneys, Enanver & Trautman.

ELTON AV, s e, 350 ft w of Milton St, 55x120.6 x52x123.8; Michael Hecht against Theresa Kramer and others, (foreclosure of mechanic's lien;) attorney, J. F. Frees.

MACDOUGAL ST, s w corner of Vandam St, 118.4x85.10x107x87.1; Henry McNally and others against William H. Schmohl and others, (partition;) attorney, M. J. Earley.

18TH ST, 419 East; Bennett J. King against Biagio Furiati and others, (foreclosure of mortgage;) attorney, W. C. Orr.

Court Assignments.

ASSIGNMENTS
SURROGATES' COURT.

We, the Surrogates of the County of New York, do hereby appoint the following terms for the Surrogates' Court of the County of New York, and make the following assignment of Surrogates to hold said terms during the year 1901. Such terms shall commence on the first Monday of each month and terminate on the Saturday preceding the first Monday of the following month:

TRIAL TERMS.

January,	Thomas, S.	June,	Fitzgerald, S.
February,	Fitzgerald, S.	October,	Thomas, S.
March,	Thomas, S.	November,	Fitzgerald, S.
April,	Fitzgerald, S.	December,	Thomas, S.
May,	Thomas, S.

CHAMBERS.

January,	Fitzgerald, S.	July 1 to Aug. 15,	Fitzgerald, S.
February,	Thomas, S.	Aug. 15 to Oct. 1,	Thomas, S.
March,	Fitzgerald, S.	October,	Fitzgerald, S.
April,	Thomas, S.	November,	Thomas, S.
May,	Fitzgerald, S.	December,	Fitzgerald, S.
June,	Thomas, S.

(Signed) FRANK T. FITZGERALD,
(Signed) ABNER C. THOMAS,
Surrogates.

Dated, December 10th, 1900.

AT THE HOTELS.

WALDORF-ASTORIA—Dr. W. H. Furness, Philadelphia; James C. McGregor, Detroit.

CAMBRIDGE—James R. Fothergill, London.

HOLLAND—Senator P. H. McMillan, Michigan.

GRAND—Capt. S. E. Smiley, United States Army.

MANHATTAN—Martin A. Knapp, Washington.

VICTORIA—Judge J. D. Yeamans, Washington; Judge J. M. R. Keenan, Washington; S. C. McGovern, M. P., Toronto.

STURTEVANT—Col. C. E. Babcock, United States Army.

FIFTH AVENUE—Senator N. W. Aldrich, Rhode Island; Congressman S. W. McCall, Massachusetts.

EMPIRE—H. A. Metcalf, Philadelphia; C. H. Eddy, Chicago.

ARRIVAL OF BUYERS.

Representatives of Out-of-Town Firms Now in the City.

Brown, Durrell & Co., Boston, Mass.; F. S. Sherman, linens and white goods, 450 Broadway; Murray Hill Hotel.

Howe & Stetson, New Haven, Conn.; L. Kaufman, ladies' and infants' wear, 52 Franklin Street; Hotel Victoria.

Millhiser, M., & Co., Richmond, Va.; G. Millhiser, piece goods, 258 Church Street; Holland House.

Epstein, J., Baltimore, Md.; S. Seliger, hosiery; Herald Square Hotel.

Meldrum, H. A., Company, Buffalo, N. Y.; V. E. Hayward, silks, 47 Lispenard Street; Herald Square Hotel.

Ely & Walker Dry Goods Company, St. Louis, Mo.; J. H. Rivers, jewelry; 258 Church Street.

Forbes & Wallace, Springfield, Mass.; E. M. Wallace, notions and fancy goods, 2 Walker Street; Hotel Manhattan.

THE UNITED SERVICE.

Army.

An army retiring board is appointed to meet from time to time at the call of the President of the board at St. Paul, Minn., for the examination of such officers as may be ordered before it. Detail for the board: Brig. Gen. James F. Wade, Lieut. Col. Calvin De Witt, Deputy Surgeon General; Major P. Henry Ray, Eighth Infantry; Capt. Alfred E. Bradley, Assistant Surgeon; Capt. Frederick Perkins, Eighth Infantry; First Lieut. Joseph P. Tracy, Fifth Artillery, Recorder.

Second Lieut. Nathaniel R. Chambliss, Eighth Infantry, is directed to report to Brig. Gen. Wade, President of the board, at such time as he may designate, for examination by the board.

The resignation by Capt. William H. Hart, Commissary of Subsistence, of his commission as First Lieutenant of Cavalry (Seventh Regiment) only, has been accepted, to take effect Dec. 11.

Navy.

Surgeon R. P. Crandall is detached from the Constellation upon reporting of relief, and ordered to temporary duty in connection with recruiting at Milwaukee, Wis.; then home to wait orders.

Surgeon W. A. McClurg is detached from the Indiana and ordered to the Newport Training Station for duty as relief of Surgeon Crandall.

Lieut. De W. Blamer is detached from the Wabash, Jan. 1, and ordered to the Bureau of Navigation, Jan. 3, in connection with recruiting duty in the West.

Capt. C. S. Sperry is detached as a member of the Naval Examining Board, Washington Yard, Dec. 29, to the command of the New Orleans, via steamer sailing from San Francisco Jan. 8.

Lieut. F. P. Baldwin is detached from the Naval Academy; ordered home to wait orders.

Movements of Government Vessels.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The Ericsson has arrived at League Island.

The Brooklyn has arrived at Cavite.

The Caesar has arrived at Malta.

The Hartford has arrived at La Guayra.

The Chicago has arrived at Montevideo.

The Scindia has sailed from Port Said.

The Solace has left Hongkong for Woo Sung.

The Saturn has sailed from Chee-Foo for Woo-Sung.

The Piscataqua has left Norfolk for Hampton Roads.

The Topeka has sailed from Algiers for Tangier.

The transport Kilpatrick has arrived at Singapore, on her way from New York to Manila, with 800 recruits, under Col. McRea, Sixth Artillery.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The following fourth-class Postmastera were appointed to-day:

New Jersey—Faurus, T. Dobbs.

New York—Charlotte Centre, A. J. Crosa; Jamesport, W. H. Wells; Kirkville, W. C. Moore.

Real Estate for Exchange.

10c. per line—3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display

FURNISHED SARATOGA RESIDENCE, price $15,000, for Manhattan dwelling: Brooklyn stores, apartments, for farm. GIBSON, 55 Liberty St.

20 ACRES, 24TH WARD, ADJOINING BRONX and Pelham Parkway, for improved income property. GEORGE NINER, 20 Broad St.

3D AV., OPPOSITE BRIDGE APPROACH.—Small lot; price, $5,000; exchange for tenement. GEORGE NINER, 20 Broad St.

FOUR LOTS ON 3D AV., BETWEEN 179TH and 180TH Sts.; for city property. GEORGE NINER, 20 Broad St.

Real Estate Wanted.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display

IF YOU WANT TO BUY, SELL, OR EXchange your house, lots, farms quickly, write or call personally. S. BIBER & CO., 204 East 19th St.

Business Property Wanted.

FACTORY LOFTS WANTED.
We have more calls for lofts than we can supply.
If you have lofts to let send us particulars, or manager will call.
Now is the time to lease.
CHAS. H. EASTON & CO.
Tel. 795—38. 116 West 42d.

WANTED—
Ground floor, 25x75, with shop for metal worker.
CHAS. H. EASTON & CO.
Tel. 795-38. 116 West 42d St.

To Let for Business Purposes.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

TO MANUFACTURERS AND MANUFACTURING COMPANIES

desiring to decrease expenses, we will erect for you factories suitable for your purpose in convenient localities in the Borough of Bronx, with water front and railroad siding, if desired, and will lease to you on long terms at low percentage of the cost of land and building.

J. Clarence Davies & Co., 3d Av. and 149th St,

FOR BOTTLER OR LAUNDRY.
Two lofts, concrete floor; unlimited supply hot and cold water; large elevator; low rent on long lease.
CHAS. H. EASTON & CO.
Tel. 795-38. 116 West 42d St.

STORES, LOFTS, AND OFFICES TO LET AT LOWEST RATES.
JACOB A. KING, 491 B'WAY—81 E. 125TH ST.

LIGHT OFFICE—12x20, in fireproof building; elevator, heat, telephone, &c. JACOB A. KING, 491 Broadway.

A STORE AND BASEMENT TO LET.—Large windows; 19 Beekman St., near Nassau. RULAND & WHITING, 5 Beekman St.

A.—EXCEPTIONAL FINE LIST OF STORES, lofts, and buildings for February rentals. FOLSOM BROTHERS, 335 Broadway.

DOWNTOWN CORNER, PARLOR FLOOR; excellent business location; living rooms attached; $40. 88 2d Av., 5th St.

STABLE, PRIVATE, 193 LEXINGTON AV.; rent reasonable. Apply or address, 20 Broad St., Room 1,005.

16TH ST., 423 WEST.—Large store, with three rooms and plate-glass front; newly decorated; $18.

40TH ST., 438 AND 440 WEST.—Large stores, with plate-glass fronts; two rooms; decorated; $15.

Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, 868 HICKS ST.—Large store, with dwelling rooms; will decorate to suit; $16.

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

Instruction.

20c. per line $1.50 per line for 30 times.

WINTER TERM

THE WINTER TERM OF THE

Clavier Company Piano School

Begins Thursday, January 3, 1901.

ENROLLMENT AND EXAMINATION DAY JANUARY 2.

EVENING CLASSES IF DESIRED.

THE ONLY WAY PUPILS CAN GET THE FULL BENEFITS OF THE SUPERIOR ADVANTAGES AND LOW TUITION RATES WHICH THIS SCHOOL OFFERS IN TECHNICAL AND MUSICAL TRAINING IS TO ENROLL AT THE PROPER TIME AND ENTER CLASSES AT THE BEGINNING OF A TERM. FURTHER INFORMATION GIVEN ON APPLICATION IN PERSON OR BY LETTER.

THE CLAVIER COMPANY SCHOOL,
26 WEST 15TH ST., NEW YORK.

IT IS EASY

to become a successful stenographer and increase your salary after taking a course in our BUSINESS OFFICE, where you are taught in a short time to solve business problems intelligently. Application for a full course—showing the value of our method—usually follows the three days' trial which we give FREE.

We have carefully prepared a CORRESPONDENCE COURSE, giving the same advantages to those who are unable to attend in person. Write for booklet "E."

MANHATTAN REPORTING CO.,
PATRICK J. SWEENEY, Prop.,
150 Nassau St., New York City.

GERMAN SPEAKING AND READING TAUGHT IN FIVE WEEKS BY
PROF. W. IRVING COLBY,
Author of German Text Books. Endorsed by over [illegible] thousand pupils.

Free Illustrative Lectures in Cortina's Academy of Languages, 44 West 34th St. Friday and Saturday, Jan. 4th and 5th, at 11 A. M., 4 and 8 P. M.

Send for Circular.

STENOGRAPHY FOR BEGINNERS.
Complete course of sixty lessons, begins Wednesday, January 2, 1901.

EVENING INSTITUTE,
YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.
Central Branch, 502 Fulton St., Brooklyn.
Apply at once, or write to Educational Director for particulars.

HEFFLEY SCHOOL,
247 245 Ryerson St., Brooklyn.
Receives State University diplomas for business, shorthand, and high-school courses and certificates for law, medical, and dental students. IT IS THE ONLY SCHOOL that fits students for ALL these credentials. Day and evening. Begin at any time.

THE NEW YORK SCHOOL OF EXPRESSION.
GENEVIEVE STEBBINS, } Principals.
F. TOWNSEND SOUTHWICK, }
—218 WEST 57TH ST.—
Reopens January Third.

The director will be at the school from 10 to 5 on Wednesday, the second, to arrange for courses of study.

CARNEGIE HALL GYMNASIUM.
For women and children. Evening class Mondays, Miss D. M. ELLIOTT, Room 60, Carnegie Hall.

EXPERIENCED TEACHER WILL TAKE A few private pupils; special attention to young or backward scholars. Address CLERGYMAN, Box 107 Times.

SPANISH THOROUGHLY TAUGHT; EXPERIenced teacher; translation; English, Spanish, French. CABALLERO COE, 102 East 84th St.

FRENCH, SPANISH, ITALIAN INSTRUCTION; best method; expert teachers; terms moderate. Prof. J. M. PELLERIN, 207 West 25th.

ELOCUTIONARY INSTRUCTION; RAPID course; private lessons; join special class; booklet GRENVILLE KLEISER, 28 West 23d St.

STENOGRAPHY, TYPEWRITING.—Regents' Preparatory School, 806 Broadway, N. Y. Private lessons 50 cents; classes free.

FRENCH ACADEMY, 108 EAST 23D ST.; Prof. BERGER of Paris. French lessons; conversation especially; free trial.

GORDAN'S ACADEMY OF BOXING.—Lessons day and evening; terms reasonable. 1,473 Bway, near 42d St., third floor.

Instruction—Business Colleges.

Students who enter now have 6 months for Business Preparation before vacation.

THE POINT is to get rid of the Grind—to equip one's self for SPECIAL duties and so increase the wage and place one's self above the withering competition of the hack and the drudge.

The Packard Night School offers superior facilities to those who wish to Earn while they Learn. Call or write for Catalogue.

THE PACKARD COMMERCIAL SCHOOL,
4th Ave. and 21st St. 'Phone 101-18.
DAY AND EVENING SESSIONS.

Musical.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display

THE GUILMANT ORGAN SCHOOL
(Copyright.)
Alexander Guilmant, President.
WILLIAM C. CARL, Director
Winter term begins Jan. 8th. Send for catalogue.
34 West 12th St., N. Y.

AT 112 EAST 18TH ST.....
.....The ONLY
N. Y. CONSERVATORY, 112 East 18th,
...BETWEEN 4TH AV. and IRVING PLACE.
The FAMOUS MUSIC SCHOOL.....
.....The FIRST in the COUNTRY.
Lessons DAY and EVENING...Years on 14th St.
....GRADUATES PROVIDED with POSITIONS.

NEW YORK COLLEGE OF MUSIC, 128-130 E. 58th St., ALEXANDER LAMBERT, Director.—Private instruction in piano, singing, violin, cello, organ, and all branches of music to beginners and advanced students. Terms from $15 upward per quarter, including free of charge harmony conferences, sight singing, lectures, and concerts. Students received daily.

O. Heywood VOCAL STUDIO,
WINTERS 98 Fifth Avenue.
Pupils Placed in Paid Choir, Concerts and Recitals Monthly.

C. B. HAWLEY,
VOCAL INSTRUCTION. NEW STUDIO,
489 5TH AVE., NEAR 42D ST.

Mme. OGDEN-CRANE.
VOCAL INSTRUCTION.
STUDIO, 3 EAST 14TH STREET.

H. R. KNOPF, VIOLIN MAKER, 119 EAST 23D ST., BET. LEXINGTON AND 4TH AVS.—HANDLES NEW AND OLD VIOLINS, 'CELLOS, VIOLAS, BOWS, STRINGS; REPAIRS CAREFULLY MADE.

SCHOOL FOR PIANO, HARMONY, VOCAL sight reading; original non-syllable method; lessons privately, classes; quartet practice; coaching, accompanying. H. E. WOODRUFF, 117 West 15th St.

CHURCH COMMITTEES OR CHOIRMASTERS can obtain qualified choir singers from the Repertoire School of Church Music, which meets Thursday evenings at St. Mark's Church, 10th St., corner 2d Av., at 8 o'clock.

CARLTON CONSERVATORY, 128 WEST 23D St.—Violin, piano, singing, mandolin, banjo, guitar; lessons, 50c., 75c.; contracts with fine voices; instruments furnished; piano practice, hour, 10c.

CHARLOTTE A. MEAD,
VOICE CULTURE.
59 FIFTH AVENUE.

MRS. CAROLIN'S
MUSICAL BUREAU,
ARTISTS FOR SOCIAL FUNCTIONS.
2 WEST 33D ST.

PAULINE ELLIOTT RYDER.—Violinist for concerts and musicales; highest social, musical references; pupils accepted. Address 43 W. 34th.

MRS. EDWIN DUSTIN RUGGLES, ACCOMpanist for concerts and musicales. Apply to MME. CAROLINE, 2 West 33d St.

SOMETHING NEW!—Piano taught in 3 months without notes; accompaniments a specialty; PROMONTORY, 150 West 14th St.

MISS EDITH ROBERTS, VIOLINIST, PUPIL of Shradieck. Address Box 1, 132 E. 23d St., for concerts and musicales.

JEANNE ARONE, AUTHORIZED BY FLOrenza d'Arona to teach her method; vocal instruction. 1,219 Madison Av.

GUSTAVE REHN! PIANIST! DESIRES A FEW more pupils; terms moderate; old established. Studio, 1 East 113th St.

MUSICAL.—COWEN, 327 East 10th, near 2d Av. Park. PIANO LESSONS, 24 for $5; single 25c. ESTABLISHED.

RESPIRATORIUM.—Great help to singers for hoarseness. Call and investigate. 133 East 23d St.

HARRIET WARE.—Voice placement and piano teaching. STUDIO, 4 West 22d St.

Pianos and Organs.

20c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

ALL CARS TRANSFER TO Bloomingdale's
3d Ave. & 59th St.
Pianos, $1 PER WEEK.
Wilson Piano, the standard of perfection, $155.00.
$5.00 down and $1.00 per week.
Pianos delivered on payment of $5.00.
BLOOMINGDALE BROS.,
3d Ave., 59th and 60th Sts.

WISSNER PIANOS

Used by Eminent Artists.

BROOKLYN: COR. FULTON ST. & FLATBUSH AV. NEW YORK: 25 EAST 14TH ST.

Second-Hand Uprights of Good Makers.

$85—$125. Grands, $175—$300.

CALENBERG PIANOS
Are among the
VERY BEST
Over 16,000 in use
Tuning, Repairing, Renting
Easy Terms. Open evenings.
23 East 14th St.

BEFORE DECIDING ON A PIANO IT will be to your interest to consult us and ascertain the great advantages in price, terms, and quality of the Hardman. "A word to the wise is sufficient." If in town call on us, if not, write. Hardman, Peck & Co., Mfrs., 5th Ave. and 19th St.

THE PIANOTIST
PIANO PLAYER.
An Ideal Holiday Gift.
The Only Player Awarded Medal at Paris Exposition of 1900.
Plays Any Piano. Any One Can Play It. Easily fitted to any piano. Endorsed by leading musicians. Rentals daily. Cash or Installments.
THE PIANOTIST, 503 Fifth Av., Cor. 42d St.

MATHUSHEK & SON AND OPERA PIANOS
This is bargain week with us, and we offer our patrons the rarest bargains of the year, including Chickering Grand, Steinway Upright, Decker Brothers', and our own new Holiday Stock at reduced prices; a small cash payment and balance in easy monthly payments; rents, $4 up.
MATHUSHEK & SON, B'way, cor. 47th St.

THE BIG WEST SIDE PIANO HOUSE.
A small cash payment secures for you a fine piano, stool, and scarf, delivered free; balance on easy monthly payments. In addition to elegant Holiday Stock, we have Steinway, $150; Chickering, $185, and many other rare bargains; rents, $4 up.
741-743 8TH AVE., NEAR 46TH ST.

KRAKAUER

PIANOS.
For Sale and to Rent. Easy terms.
113 EAST 14TH ST.

Buy of manufacturer; reliable Connor Pianos; easy terms; renting; exchanging; repairing. Open evenings. 4 East 42d St.

$200 New Piano, stool, and scarf, $7 per month. Call at 1,569 Broadway, corner 47th St.

WINTERROTH PIANOS. CASH, INSTALMENTS, $125 UPWARD. 105 EAST 14TH ST. & 98 5TH AV. Open Evenings

MARSCHEIDER, 10 East 14th St.—Guaranteed high-grade pianos; easy terms; bargains in used pianos; prices on every piano. Open evenings.

BARGAINS—New and second-hand upright pianos; fine makes, all improvements, mahogany, walnut, oak, or rosewood cases; fully warranted; $125 up; open evenings. WHITNEY & CO., 112 West 125th St.

EMERSON PIANOS.—Beautiful new designs; several slightly used; at unusually low prices; Steinway Parlor Grand; rare bargain. GEO. W. HERBERT, 10 East 17th St.

BARGAINS.—Pianos, new and second-hand; Steinway, Chickering, $100 up; rent $3 up; also self-playing pianos. MYLIUS, 12 Union Square, between 14th and 15th.

BEFORE RENTING OR PURCHASING A piano call and examine our stock; rents $3 up; old pianos exchanged. DEWEY & CO., 5 East 14th St.

BARGAINS.—Upright pianos, $100 upward; more value for money than elsewhere guaranteed; square, $20 upward; rented, exchanged; easy payments. CHRISTMAN, 21 East 14th St.

ELEGANT MAHOGANY UPRIGHT PIANO, slightly used, for $175; easy payments if desired; fully guaranteed. W. F. TWAY PIANO CO., 94 5th Av.

$10.00 FIRST PAYMENT, BALANCE EASY installments; elegant new uprights, delivered free. WESER BROS., 524 West 43d St.

STEINWAY, EVERY IMPROVEMENT, BEAUtifully carved, great sacrifice. Elegant Upright only $75. RIDDLE'S, 7 East 14th St.

SQUARE PIANO, $15; PEDAL BASS ORGAN, $20; 50c. weekly installments. TIFFANY PIANO CO., 129 5th Av.

WALTERS PIANOS, 105 WEST 33D ST., NEAR Broadway.—Large assortment, various makes; installments, exchange, repairing, tuning.

BARGAINS IN NEW AND SLIGHTLY USED pianos; easy payments; squares exchanged. WESER BROS., 524 West 43d St.

SPECIAL SALE OF FINE UPRIGHT PIANOS this week; extraordinary bargains for cash. HAHN, 105 W. 23d St.

UPRIGHT, ROSEWOOD CASE, FULL-SIZE, $50; snap. O'REILLY, 209 Franklin Av., near Myrtle Av., Brooklyn.

RENTS $2 TO $5 MONTHLY FOR PIANOS with orchestra and tremolo attachments. WESER BROS., 524 West 43d St.

UPRIGHT, $50; CHICKERING BARGAIN; installments. LOCKHART & CO., 117 East 14th St. and 92 5th Av.

$30.—FINE PIANO, SMALLEST SIZE, WITH stool and cover, $30. 1,107 3d Ave. Hardware store.

Dancing.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

T. GEORGE DODWORTH,
NOS. 12 AND 14 EAST 49TH STREET.
Classes and private lessons.
SEASON NOW OPEN.

GEORGE W. WALLACE,
Leslie Rooms, 260 West 52d Street;
Ellerslie Rooms, 80-82 West 120th St.
Class and private tuition. See circular.

MACDONALD'S KNICKERBOCKER SCHOOL for Dancing, 44 East 14th St., Near Broadway.—Private and class lessons daily; send for circular; receptions every Wednesday and Saturday.

PRIVATE DANCING CLASSES FRIDAYS, AFternoons, and evenings.—Adults, children. Professor FERNANDO, Dancing Master, 137 West 123d St.

PROF. D. C. LESTER.—Dancing and polite deportment. Colonial Hall, 101st St. and Columbus Av. Offices hours, 2 to 10 P. M.

Dogs and Birds.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display

CEDARS KENNELS,
(113 West 37th St. Telephone 2978—38th St.)
Beautiful King Charles, Toy Silk Poodles, Toy Bull Terriers, Fox Terriers, Great Danes, St. Bernards, Newfoundlands, and all other thoroughbred dogs, cheaper and better than anywhere else. Boarding, washing, clipping, treating, medicines.

DOGS FOR SALE.—All kinds; fancy pigeons and Belgian hares; send 6 cents for catalogue. LANDIS, Box 135, Bowers Station, Penn.

FOX TERRIERS AND SPANIEL PUPPIES reasonable; $5, $0 each. BEE, 718 East 149th St.

Purchase and Exchange.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, CONTENTS OF houses and flats, pianos, carpets, &c. J. L., 113 University Place.

For Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

CREDIT

ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING TO ANYBODY AND EVERYBODY.
MEN'S AND BOYS' SUITS, READY MADE OR TO ORDER; TOP COATS, REEFERS, HATS, SHOES.
LADIES' AND MISSES' TAILOR-MADE SUITS, UNDERWEAR, DRY GOODS, MILLINERY, CAPES, CLOAKS, FURS, WATCHES.
DIAMONDS, ALL KINDS JEWELRY, FURNITURE, CARPETS, ETC.

AARONSON
CREDIT CENTRE

62 BOWERY AND 157 CANAL ST., ONE FLIGHT UP.
Open from 8:30 A. M. to 8:30 P. M. OPEN SATURDAYS FROM 4:30 P. M. TO 11 P. M. ONLY.
Sunday, from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M.
BUSINESS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL.

CHAIRS, FOLDING IRON DIVAN BED, Upright Piano, Furniture, Typewriter, &c., of Doctor's office, 18 East 32d St.

Business Opportunities.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

ADDITIONAL CAPITAL SUPPLIED.
Stock Companies Organized.
Business Sold Privately.
Stocks and Bonds Placed.
Meritorious Inventions Financed.
DANIELS & COMPANY,
Bankers, 6 Wall St.

PATENTS Secured and sold all over the WORLD
If you have an invention send for our HINTS TO INVENTORS.
This book may help you to make MONEY.
CLARK, DEEMER & CO.,
235 BROADWAY, N. Y.

TRUSTS WIN: BRAINS, PERSISTENCY, Good Business and Capital, "CONSOLIDATED," WINS TRUST. The business is Financial and Industrial, with 50 good positions, from Managers to Mechanics: $600 to $2,500 yearly income; Investment required, $100 to $1,000, $50,000 interests divided among employees and agents. Your credentials and FULL personal information investigated before sending you application blanks and particulars. P. O. Box 3,699, Boston, Mass.

WANTED—PARTNER WITH $10,-$12,000 TO INVEST IN AN ESTABLISHED INSTALLMENT BUSINESS, TO ENLARGE SAME; SATISFACTORY PARTY CAN TAKE ACTIVE PART IN MANAGING COMPANY'S AFFAIRS. ADDRESS D., BOX 150 TIMES.

ADVANTAGEOUS OPPORTUNITY FOR PARTY with $2,000 to $3,000—preferably lady able to typewrite and take charge of correspondence—to fill place of retiring silent partner in bona-fide profitable brokerage commission produce business; easily clear $5,000 next year; references given and attention paid only to parties ready to enter immediately. FRUIT & PRODUCE, Box 104 Times Office.

ESTABLISHED CUBAN TIMBER EXPORTER, owning timber camps, desires reliable associate with thirty thousand dollars to add saw mill. Capital secured and, eight thousand annually guaranteed. Desirable party can investigate on spot, advertiser advancing expenses. Address "GENUINE," Box 43, Manzanillo, Cuba.

EIGHT POUNDS BUTTER MADE FROM ONE gallon milk; the only recipe that will convert milk entirely into butter without the use of chemicals; any style churn can be used; eat no more stale butter when you can make it fresh daily; recipe, 25c. H. E. SMITH, 340 South Boulevard, Oak Park, Ill.

WANTED—AN ENERGETIC MAN TO MANage office and business in New York by large manufacturing house; salary, $125 per month and extra profits; must furnish good references and $800 cash. Address MANAGER, P. O. Box 1,151, Philadelphia, Penn.

CAN SECURE CONTRACT, 22 MILES TRACtion railroad; also building of power house; wanted, partner or partners with money; good inducements; court investigation. Address SUPT., care Kenny & Co., contractors, 1,232 Southern Boulevard.

20 PER CENT. NET INCOME IS REALIZED on an investment of $11,000 in two A1 condition tenements; bona-fide yearly rentals guaranteed by first-class security. SECURITY, Box 105 Times Office.

CASHIER.—National bank, (out of town,) now organizing, desires a gentleman of highest character as cashier; $5,000 to $10,000 investment in bank's stock necessary. Attorneys, Box 101 Times.

WANTED—An active or special partner, with $15,000 to $25,000, to extend an established ladies' wear manufacturing business; bank references given; no agents. BROADWAY, F., Box 102 Times Office.

A CHOICE MAGAZINE PUBLISHING OPPORtunity for party with literary tastes wanting safe, promising property; $5,000 upward required; low price. Publishers' Broker, HARRIS, 150 Nassau St.

IF YOU HAVE FIFTY TO ONE HUNDRED dollars to invest get in on ground floor of new company being formed; strictest investigation. Apply at once for interview. M., Box 101 Times.

BUSINESS MAN, GOING TO CALIFORNIA for Winter, desires lady or gentleman partner, with $2,000 cash; will net $20,000 during season. Call or address PALMER, 124 East 118th St.

GOOD STEADY SALARIED POSITION IN CORporation by investing $1,000; act as manager; experience not necessary; contract given. WINN, Room 317, 132 Nassau St.

SEND 35 CENTS FOR SAMPLE FASTEST-selling article; something new; 90% profit. UP TO DATE NOVELTY CO., New Milford, Conn.

TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS WILL BUY half interest in grocer's specialty mfg. co.; large stock on hand. P. C., Box 282, 1,269 Broadway.

PRIVATE LOAN $25 WANTED FOR WEEK.—Return lender $40; unquestionable security deposited; references. WAKEFIELD, 1,269 Broadway.

ADVICE FREE.—Patents promptly procured; Inventors' Guide free. EDGAR TATE & COMPANY, Patent Attorneys, 245 Broadway.

WESTERN LANDS AND MORTGAGES PURchased large or small tracts; Dakotas, Kansas, Nebraska preferred. HOLLAND, 115 B'way.

MODERATE CAPITAL; BUSINESS WANTED; what have you that is good? no agents or schemers. PROSPER, Box 103 Times Office.

ACCIDENT AND HEALTH INSURANCE AT special rates.
JACOB A. KING, 81 East 125th St.; 491 B'way.

INSURANCE AGENTS MAKE BIG MONEY selling my policies; largest commissions paid. JACOB A. KING, 81 East 125th St.

TEXAS LANDS PURCHASED FOR CASH. Owners describe fully and price, addressing TEXAS, Box 121 Times Office.

INSURANCE AT LOWEST RATES.
JACOB A. KING, 81 E. 125TH, 401 B'WAY.

Dentistry.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH OF CONTINUOUS GUM Highly Improved.—These teeth represent the highest art in dentistry. They restore form and expression to the face. The gums and roof of mouth, without seam or crevice, (all one piece, porcelain on platinum,) are a perfect reproduction of nature, even in color. Dr. DEANE, Dentist, 454 Lexington Av., cor. 45th St., received highest award Columbian Exposition.

SAVE MONEY AND TIME; HAVE YOUR dentistry done down town near your business; modern artistic operations at moderate prices. DR. GABEKA, Dentist, 32 Broadway; 69 New St., Suit 149

Furs.

Bloch

Furs! Furs! Furs!
(Established 1833.)
BARGAINS in Fur Scarfs & muffs for next ten days.
BLOCH, 2503d Av, near 59th St.

S. BROWN, PRACTICAL FURRIER, REPAIRS, alters, redyes, and sells FURS at astonishingly low prices. Seal Garments a specialty.
20 WEST 125TH ST.,
BETWEEN 5TH AND LENOX AVS.

FUR GARMENTS REMADE, REDYED, BLENded into fashionable shapes. Seal Sacques a specialty; estimates given. THE BARKER FUR CO., 111 West 39th St.

MADAME LEA TROTTIER, FURRIER AND Milliner, 260, 262 West 125th St.—Garments remodsled; reasonable prices.

A. D. WOLF, 81 WEST 125TH ST.—Practical Furrier; Seal Garments Altered and Repaired, a Specialty. Lowest Rates.

ROSENBLAT & FRANK, 1,032 3D AV., NEAR 61st St.—Bargains, Fur Boas, Muffs; Altering, Repairing, a specialty.

Millinery and Dressmaking.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

LADIES' TAILOR-MADE SUITS
in ready-made and to order on credit. Send for agent or call in person. Open Sundays until 6 P. M. MENDELSOHN, 149 East Broadway.

DRESSCUTTING, LADIES' TAILORING, MILlinery, thoroughly taught; $5 starts you. McDOWELL SCHOOL, 310-318 6th Av. Evening school Monday, Wednesday, Friday. Special. Call this week.

G. MAHLER, 978 LEXINGTON AV., (cor. 60th.) Latest Parisian styles. Suits $35 up. Silk lined throughout. Fit guaranteed.

For Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

TYPEWRITERS.—Remingtons, Smith Premiers, and all standard makes rented, kept in repair; stands and ribbons free. Sold 25% to 75% less than manufacturer's prices. No relics of past ages carried in stock. Every machine sold kept in repair for one year free. F. S. WEBSTER CO., 317 Broadway. Telephone, 1,338 Franklin.

EDISON OR COLUMBIA RECORDS, $3.50 PER doz.; New Columbia Phonographs, $4.00, $4.50, $5.00, $10.00; very best made, $20.00; concert machines, $38.00; large records, $75c. each; records and talking machines exchanged. J. McELLYNNE, 202 B'way, Room 4.

DIAMONDS, WATCHES, and JEWELRY.—Cash or credit; reliable goods only, at moderate prices; article delivered on first payment; will send representative if desired. AMERICAN WATCH AND DIAMOND COMPANY, 19 Maiden Lane; take elevator.

SPECIAL! CUT THIS OUT!
I have an order for 50 TONS OF OLD METAL and PAPER; if you have any to sell, no matter how large or small a quantity, send me a postal card and I will call promptly. BORNSTEIN, 84 Centre St.

CUT THIS OUT! BY PRESENTING THIS ADvertisement at DAVIDOW BROS., 83 Av., cor. 124th St., the leading jewelers of Harlem for fine diamonds, watches, etc., you will receive a handsome souvenir free, starting Dec. 28.

WATCHES AND DIAMONDS ON SMALL weekly or monthly payments; lowest prices; goods guaranteed; holiday goods a specialty. NATIONAL DIAMOND AND WATCH CO., 177 Broadway.

CREDIT WATCHES, $1 WEEKLY; DIAMONDS, silver novelties, oil paintings, lowest prices; strictly confidential. MANHATTAN DIAMOND CO., 37 Maiden Lane; take elevator.

TYPEWRITERS SOLD AND RENTED; EXpert repairing done. GENERAL TYPEWRITER EXCHANGE, 1 Park Place. 'Phone, 1573 Cortlandt.

TYPEWRITERS. — REMINGTONS, SMITHS, Blickenderfers, Hammonds, Williamees, Jewetts, Franklins, Caligraphs, sold, rented, exchanged, repaired. GORMAN, 79 Nassau St.

CREDIT WATCHES, $1 WEEKLY; DIAMONDS, silver novelties, lowest prices; strictly confidential, oil paintings. MANHATTAN DIAMOND CO., 37 Maiden Lane; take elevator.

TYPEWRITER, (NEW,) $40; REMODELED Remingtons, Smiths, $35; rentals reduced; repairing, (telephone.) CONSOLIDATED TYPEWRITER EXCHANGE, 241 Broadway.

PHONOGRAPHS BOUGHT, SOLD, AND EXchanged; cash or $1.00 weekly; gramaphone records $2.50 dozen. 148 East 58th St.

LEOPOLD TUCHFELD, 1,736 MADISON AV.—Practical upholsterer; cabinet maker; draped curtain hanger; work guaranteed; mail orders.

TYPEWRITERS RENTED, BOUGHT, SOLD; expert repairing. R. & G. TYPEWRITER CO., 202 Broadway. Telephone, 999 Cortlandt.

TYPEWRITERS.—All makes; guaranteed; rented $2, $3 monthly; ribbons, stands free. CENTRAL TYPEWRITER EXCHANGE, 203 Broadway.

$10.00 UP—BARGAINS THIS WEEK.—Domestic, New Home, Singer Sewing Machines. Cash buyers. BROWN, 39 West 125th St.

AT 344 6TH AV. AND 172 WEST 23D ST.—Foot Knitting Co.; stocking refooted; underwear repaired.

A RARE CHANCE FOR A YOUNG MAN TO engage in business at 231 Washington St.

Horses, Carriages, &c.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

BREWSTER & CO.'S DOCTOR'S BUGGY, rubber tired Brougham; also Coupé Rockaway; all nearly new, at a sacrifice; private stable, 65 Madison Av., near 27th St.

MANUFACTURERS SELL HANDSOME SURrey! Runabouts! almost new, top wagon; coal wagon. McGUIRE BROS., 178 East 119th St.

BREWSTER BROUGHAM, Rubber Tired; equal new; half value. PRIVATE STABLE, 109 West 16th St.

Groceries, Liquors, &c.

KAHN BROTHERS, WINES AND LIQUORS.—Lowest prices. 2,035 Third Avenue, near 112th. Handsome pocketbooks given away.

H. SCHWANEWEDE, FANCY GROCERIES, wines, liquors, and cigars, Park Av. and 116th St.; special prices for holidays.

FRIEDLAND & CO., TEAS, COFFEES, FANCY CROCKERY, 2,152 3d Av. PRESENTS GIVEN WITH 1 lb. COFFEE or TEA.

HARRIS'S WINE AND LIQUOR WAREHOUSE, 1,706 Madison Av., cor. 113th.—Special reductions, holiday wines and liquors.

PURE WINES AND LIQUORS AT THE Columbus Wine and Liquor Warehouse, 2,193 3d Av. Present to each purchaser.

FRED LEVY, FAMILY LIQUOR WAREHOUSE, 1,776 Madison Av., near 116th St. Elegant SOUVENIRS FOR HOLIDAYS.

FOR FINEST TABLE DELICACIES IN CITY go to B. MEIER, 2,189 Third Avenue, near 119th. DELICATESSEN.

NIEDENTHAL & CO., 1,744 MADISON AV., near 114th.—Wines, liquors, and beer; special prices for holidays.

L. A. CUNEO—FINE GROCERIES, TEAS, coffees, and fruits; wines, liquors, and cigars. 28 East 8th St.

Auction Sales.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

SLAUGHTER SALE OF HOLIDAY BOOKS
Closing out entire stock of rich standard books at 148 Fulton Street, near Broadway. Auction sale begins every day, excepting Sundays, at 12 o'clock, and will be continued until entire stock is sold. Among other choice works are samples and remainders of the publications of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Appleton & Co., Harper & Brothers, Dodd, Mead & Co., and other leading book houses. A few slightly damaged sets of Huxley, Darwin, Tyndall, and Spencer. Visitors invited. Sale positive. 148 Fulton Street, New York.

Storage.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

AT MORGAN & BROTHER'S
STORAGE WAREHOUSE,
232, 234 & 236 WEST 47TH ST.,
near Broadway, separate rooms for furniture, pianos, baggage, &c. PADDED VANS FOR REMOVAL OF FURNITURE, &c. Boxing, shipping promptly attended to; estimates furnished. Telephone, 113—38th.

UNIVERSAL STORAGE WAREHOUSE COMpany, 202-208 East 88th St., near 3d Av.—Storage of furniture, pianos, &c.; separate compartments; estimates given for packing, shipping, moving, city or country. Telephone, 28-79th.

Machinery.

SMOKE STACKS AND TANKS,
all sizes; either erected or f. o. b., New York; ship quick; low prices.
OLNEY & WARRIN, 36 Dey St., N. Y.

STEAM ENGINES AND BOILers; new and second hand; largest stock in the city; quick delivery; lowest prices.
OLNEY & WARRIN, 36 Dey St., New York.

PULLEYS, SHAFTING AND HANGERS.
Largest Stock in New York; Lowest Prices.
OLNEY & WARRIN, 36 Dey St., N. Y.

DYNAMOS AND MOTORS, ALL SIZES IN stock, direct from factory of Triumph Electric Co.; send us postal, we do the rest. CHINNOCK ELECT. CO., 39 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

Detective Agencies.

BAYER'S INTERNATIONAL DETECTIVE Agency, licensed and bonded, 320 Broadway, Rooms 717-718; telephone 1681 Franklin; all civil and criminal cases attended to by expert detectives; male or female; former detective Police Department.

Clothing.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR LADIES' GENtlemen's, and children's fine discarded Clothing, Jewelry, Furs, Bric-a-Brac, Furniture, Carpets. Mr. or Mrs. NAFTAL, 744 6th Av.

MADAME BLUM.—Absolutely highest prices for ladies' cast-off evening and street costumes; also furs. 759 6th Av.

Lost and Found.

LOST—Several days ago, CHAIN BRACELET of turquois and diamonds, with pearl heart attached; liberal reward. 346 Lexington Av.

LOST.—STOCK CERTIFICATE, Southern R. R. Preferred; payment stopped; reward. FRANK M. SHARPE, 100 Hanson Place, Brooklyn.

Winter Resorts.

10c. per line $4.50 per line for 30 times.

HEALTH, STRENGTH AND PLEASURE
In America's Great Winter Resorts
IN CALIFORNIA.
Take the luxurious
"SUNSET LIMITED"
which comprises everything that is up-to-date and modern in the railroad world, and is the only solid train between the Mississippi River and San Francisco remote from the inconveniences of high altitudes and snow.

Special through trains consisting of sleeping and dining cars leave New York every Monday, Thursday, and Saturday, connecting directly with the "Sunset Limited" at New Orleans.

For full information, free illustrated pamphlets, maps, and time tables, also lowest rates, sleeping-car tickets, and baggage checked, apply to Southern Pacific Co., 349 Broadway, N. Y. City.

THE LAKEWOOD,
LAKEWOOD, N. J.

THE LEADING HOTEL OF LAKEWOOD.
Annual New Year's Ball, Evening of Tuesday, January 1st.
JAMES N. BERRY, Manager.

LAUREL HOUSE, LAKEWOOD.

Open from October 1 to June 1.
A famous Resort hotel in a famous hotel resort.
DAVID B. PLUMER, Manager.
A. J. MURPHY, Assistant Manager.
GOLF AT TWO CLUBS.

THOMASVILLE, GA.
PINEY WOODS HOTEL
Down in the Pine Forests.
Country Club, Golf Links, Quail and Trap Shooting, Bicycle Paths.
HARVEY & WOOD, Hotel Bellevue, Boston.
3 Park Place, New York, Mondays, 10 to 12.

Boarders Wanted.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

1.—"THE PARK," 101 WAVERLEY PLACE, northwest corner Washington Square; bright sunny rooms; steam heated; porcelain baths; excellent table; reasonable rates.

23D ST., 439 WEST.—Large and single rooms; board optional; refined surroundings; American family.

32D ST., 39 WEST, (Three Doors from Broadway.)—Neatly furnished rooms, with board; parlor dining room.

36TH ST., 140 EAST.—Desirable large front room, dressing room attached; excellent table; neighborhood refined; accessible; references.

44TH ST., 236 WEST.—Rooms and board; table board by week or meals; homelike; reasonable board; reference.

50TH ST., 63 WEST.—With board, a handsome back parlor, with private bath; superior accommodations.

52D ST., 257 WEST.—Large, well heated, front, sunny room; good table; with small private family; references.

72D ST., 168 EAST.—Attractively furnished rooms, bath connecting; homelike surroundings; house and appointments first-class; references.

82D ST., 118 WEST.—Double room, dressing room; running water; parlor dining room; table boarders; references.

92D ST., 40 WEST.—Handsome large rooms, dressing room adjoining, $15, $16 (two;) parlor; dining table; select.

95TH ST., 65 WEST.—Large and small rooms or floor through; suitable for family; private table if desired.

98TH ST., 134 WEST.—Large, sunny rooms for two; excellent board; table board; also, parlor; doctor or dentist.

120TH ST., 159 WEST.—Furnished rooms; running water; select location, between Lenox and Seventh; table board.

126TH ST., 149 WEST.—Large, sunny, front room to rent with board, on reasonable terms; excellent location.

128TH ST., 126 WEST.—Large front room, furnished; private house; well heated; board optional; moderate.

133D ST., 158 WEST.—Two large, handsome rooms in private Jewish family; couple or gentlemen.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR DINNERS
The Broadway Central Hotel will give the usual Christmas and New Year dinners from 12:30 to 3 P. M., also from 5:30 to 8 P. M., at 75 cents each. Mr. Haynes has made a great success of these dinners at the famous old United States at Boston, and is receiving equal appreciation at the Broadway Central Hotel in New York.

GRAMERCY PARK, 1, CORNER 21ST.—Parlor, bedroom, and bath, on first floor; also small room; references.

Brooklyn.

HENRY ST., 354.—Desirable rooms; first-class board; well heated house, near South Ferry; moderate terms.

Country Board.

THE HOMESTEAD, FANWOOD, N. J.—One hour from City Hall, Jersey Central Railroad; five minutes' walk from station; delightful location for Winter; piazzas, (inclosed with glass in Winter,) 125 feet long; steam heat, electric lights; Netherwood water.

Furnished Rooms.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

1—ENGLISHMAN, HAVING 2-room apartment, would share with sociable, well-bred fellow. F., Box 106, Times Office.

11TH ST., 124 WEST.—Very desirable large and small rooms; house heated.

12TH ST., 129 WEST.—Extension and back parlor, suitable for physician or dentist; also large rooms.

13TH ST., 125 WEST.—Front hall room for gentleman, with private American family; references required.

14TH ST., 220 WEST.—Pleasant rooms, large and small; prices moderate; desirable neighborhood.

19TH ST., 367 WEST.—Neatly furnished, sunny rooms; privilege of light housekeeping; well kept house.

21ST ST., 301 WEST.—Small, bright, cozy room, bath, heat; large closets; home comforts; quiet flat; small, social, private family. REPPIEN.

24TH ST., 26 EAST, NEAR MADISON SQUARE.—Well furnished double and single rooms; breakfast if desired.

83D ST., 142 WEST, (QUINCY HOTEL.)—50c., $1.00 daily; adjacent Broadway; steam-heated, $3.00 week, upward; restaurant; mention paper.

45TH ST., 243 WEST, NEAR BROADWAY.—Exceptionally fine rooms; well heated; superior accommodations; $2.50, upward.

54TH ST., 241 WEST.—Large and small rooms, nicely furnished; well heated; hot and cold water; moderate.

63D

CHURCHES WILL GREET THE NEW CENTURY

Midnight Masses at All of the Roman Catholic Altars.

WATCH MEETINGS EVERYWHERE

Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists, and Episcopalians Will Have Services—Chimes Will Ring for the New Year.

Almost every church in New York and Brooklyn will, in common with churches all over the world, mark the closing of the nineteenth century and the opening of the twentieth. In a majority of cases the celebration will take the form of a midnight service on the last day of the year, while some will hold "sunrise" meetings on the morning of New Year's Day and others will hold their end-of-the-century services to-day.

In every Catholic church in the world midnight mass will be said to-morrow night. At St. Patrick's Cathedral, Archbishop Corrigan will celebrate pontifical high mass at midnight. Admission will be by ticket only, a rule which will prevail at many of the local Catholic churches. A special low mass will be celebrated at the cathedral by Bishop Brandel of Helena, Mon., at 11 o'clock New Year's morning for the Holy Name societies of the city. Men only will be admitted. Mass will be said in every Catholic church of the city at midnight on Monday, the rector officiating in every case.

Presbyterian, Baptist, Episcopal, and other churches have arranged "watch meetings." The Madison Avenue Methodist Church, Madison Avenue and Sixtieth Street, will unite with the Epiphany Baptist, the First Reformed Episcopal, and the Madison Avenue Presbyterian, and all four pastors will speak at the service.

The Rev. Dr. John Balcom Shaw, pastor of the West End Presbyterian Church, Amsterdam Avenue and One Hundred and Fifth Street, will speak at his own church and also at the Scotch Presbyterian, Central Park West and Ninety-sixth Street, and at Grace Methodist, One Hundred and Fourth Street, between Amsterdam and Columbus Avenues. The Rev. Dr. Philip M Watters and the Rev. Dr. David G. Wylie, the pastors respectively of the Grace Methodist and Scotch Presbyterian Churches, will both speak at the West End Presbyterian, where a special feature of the service will be the singing by the West End Choral Union, under the direction of Prof. T. E. Morgan.

Almost every Methodist church in New York will hold a watch night service, and in many of them there will be a communion service at the beginning of the new year. At St. James's Methodist Church, Madison Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street, the meeting will begin at 9:30 in the evening. The Rev. Dr. W. F. McDowell, Secretary of the Methodist Board of Education, will preach a sermon, and addresses will be made by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. E. S. Tipple and by the Rev. E. R. Young, who will begin at that service a series of special evangelistic services to last through January. The congregation of Calvary Baptist Church, Fifty-seventh Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, will assemble at 10 o'clock New Year's Eve, and will listen to a sermon by their pastor, the Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur. At 11 o'clock the service will be changed to a prayer meeting, and thus continue till the bells and whistles announce the new year.

The meeting at the Central Presbyterian Church, Fifty-seventh Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, will also begin at 10 o'clock, the young people of the church conducting an "Old Century" prayer meeting for an hour, after which the watch meeting proper will begin. Addresses will be made by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle Smith, and the Rev. George T. Berry.

At the Old First Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Twelfth Street, a union service will be held with the University Place Presbyterian and the Judson Memorial Baptist Church. There will also be a service at the Thirteenth Street Presbyterian Church, Thirteenth Street, near Sixth Avenue, the Rev. Dr. J. H. Hoadley, pastor. It will begin at 10 o'clock with a recital half hour, which will be followed by a prayer meeting, with an address by the pastor. A consecration service will close the meeting at midnight.

One of the features of the celebration of the coming of the new century will be the ringing of the chimes at Trinity Church, Broadway, opposite Wall Street; Grace Church, Broadway and Tenth Street, and St. Andrew's Church, Fifth Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Street. At Trinity the bells will begin to ring at 11:30, continuing for an hour. Grace Church chimes will begin to ring at 11:33. Three hymns will be played before the hour is struck.

Many of the services at Episcopal churches Monday night will include a midnight celebration of the holy communion. This will be the case at St. Agnes's Chapel, West Ninety-second Street, near Columbus Avenue, where the service will begin at 11:30 with hymns, prayers, and a short address. At the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue, near Forty-fifth Street, a service will begin at 11 o'clock Monday night with a shortened form of evening prayer. The Rev. Dr. Lucien C. Benedict, the fifth speaker at the watch night service at All Souls' Episcopal Church, Madison Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street. A celebration of the holy communion will follow the address. At All Saints' Church, Henry and Scammel Streets, there will be a procession of the choir, children, and older people at midnight, and the new century will be greeted with prayers and hymns. All of the ministers and elders of the Presbyterian Church in New York have been asked to attend a meeting in the chapel of the Brick Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, Monday afternoon and evening. The afternoon meeting is at 4 o'clock, and will be addressed by the Rev. Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall, President of Union Theological Seminary. The evening session begins at 8 o'clock, and will be in charge of the Rev. Dr. George Alexander, pastor of the University Place Church. It will end at 9 o'clock with the Lord's Supper, to be administered by the Rev. Dr. Malbie D. Babcock, pastor of the Brick Church. Brooklyn Presbyterians will hold a similar meeting Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Central Church, Marcy and Jefferson Avenues.

The Christian Endeavorers will hold a service in the rooms of the Fulton Street Prayer Meeting. The meeting begins at 12 o'clock, and will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. David J. Burrell will make an address. A meeting will be held in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, Twenty-third Street and Fourth Avenue, on Monday afternoon, in the interest of the great twentieth century Gospel campaign. Addresses will be made by Mr. W. R. Moody, son of the evangelist; the Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, the Rev. Dr. David J. Burrell, the Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin, and the Rev. Dr. W. L. McDowell.

Brooklyn churches will observe the coming of the new century as generally as those on this side of the river. In Christ Episcopal Church, Bedford Avenue, the service will begin at 11 o'clock. The watch-night service at St. Ann's Church, Clinton and Livingston Streets, will begin at 11:30 o'clock and continue for an hour. Nearly every Brooklyn Methodist Church will have a watch meeting. Those which have prepared special programmes are the Nostrand Avenue, the Bushwick Avenue, the Janes, and the Fleet Street, where refreshments will be served before the beginning of the service.

The service at the Baptist Temple will be almost entirely of a musical character. The choir will sing, the orchestra will play, and all the musical organizations will take part. At 12 o'clock the brass band will play from the church tower.

Sunday Theatres Legal in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Cases against two theatrical managers, recently arrested for keeping open Sunday were to-day dismissed by Justice Everett, who held that so long as Sunday theatres did not disturb the peace and good order of society by creating a physical disturbance, there was no violation of the law in giving a Sunday performance.

Found Dead in His Cell.

Henry Yusser, twenty-four years old, whose home was at 226 First Street, Brooklyn, was found dead in a cell in the county jail in Long Island City yesterday by Keeper McGowan. Yusser was arrested Friday in Jamaica. He was acting in a strange manner. An autopsy will be held to determine the cause of the man's death.

HALED THEIR MOTHER TO COURT

Two Men, Said to be ex-Convicts, Arouse Magistrate's Indignation.

Hugh T. and Neal W. Goodwin, the sons of aged Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Goodwin of 1,303 Amsterdam Avenue, summoned their gray-haired mother to the Harlem Police Court yesterday, alleging that the latter had defamed Hugh's character by calling him publicly a jailbird.

Hugh Goodwin for twenty-five years has been a clerk in the General Post Office. He is sixty years old. His wife, Margaret, is but a few years his junior. Mother and father appeared in court early in the morning in answer to the summons, and told a pathetic tale of filial disloyalty and cruelty on the part of both sons. Magistrate Meade was so moved by the recital that he ordered both sons, who are thirty-five and twenty-eight years old, respectively, locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct.

The parents said that the boys had been humored and petted ever since they were born. They were permitted to stay away from school whenever they pleased, and a home was furnished them long after they had attained their majority and refused to seek employment.

"Within the last few years," said the mother, "my boys have abused both their father and me cruelly. As I was at home more than father, the greater part of the abuse fell on me. I stood their bad language, their blows, and their cuffs for years. I did not complain on account of the family name. My sons have now fallen to the level of the lowest companions they constantly associate with. Nothing is too vile or profane for them to utter. They beat me with their fists, and on many occasions have dragged both myself and father from bed, when theirs was not ready and gotten in in our place."

Mrs. Goodwin stated that both had been in trouble frequently, and that they served a six months' term in the penitentiary but a short while ago. They were always welcomed back home, and money given them when there was any to give. Kindness, she says, was always repaid by them with curses and abuse.

Sergt. Lovell of the court squad knew both men, and said that they were the toughest pair he ever met. Four or five policemen were always sent to arrest them when warrants were out for them. The men will be given a hearing to-morrow.

SUICIDE AFTER BELLEVUE.

Patient from Hoboken Found Dead in a West Side House.

The dead body of William Bergan of 661 Washington Avenue, Hoboken, N. J., a former patient at Bellevue, was found shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning in a bathroom on the fifth floor of the flathouse at 257 West Thirty-ninth Street. Near the body was a small whisky flask, which still contained a small portion of a liquid resembling carbolic acid. The ambulance surgeon from Roosevelt Hospital, who examined the body, said the man had been dead some time when found. The body was removed to the Morgue, where John B. Quinn of Ward No. 5 recognized the man as a former patient of the contagious pavilion in Bellevue Hospital. Bergan had been a patient from Dec. 10 to Dec. 17, and had been suffering from erysipelas. At the time he arrived at the hospital he had a number of bruises and burns about him, and said that he had received these through a fall. The autopsy on the body will be held to-day.

THIRTY CLERKS WILL GO.

Force in the Controller's Office Will Be Reduced, as Books Are Up to Date.

Controller Coler has decided to discharge thirty clerks on Jan. 1 to cut down the expenses of his department. The announcement was made yesterday that the Board of Estimate had reduced the amount allowed the Finance Department for clerical help $30,000 for 1901, and therefore the reduction of the force was necessary.

Controller Coler said yesterday: "Our books are up to date now, and we can get along with fewer clerks."

GASTON DESCHAMPS TO LECTURE.

French Critic to Speak at Columbia University on the French Press.

Arrangements have been completed by the department of Romance languages and literatures at Columbia University for a series of four lectures in French by M. Gaston Deschamps, the eminent writer and successor of Anatole France as the literary critic of the Paris Temps. The general subject of the lectures will be "The French Press of the Nineteenth Century," and the dates are set for March 14, 16, 18, and 21, although it is hoped that M. Deschamps will give a subsequent series of lectures on "The Contemporary Theatre in France."

M. Deschamps is a member of the Dreyfus party. MM. Brunetière, Doumic, and Rod, the previous visiting lecturers at Columbia, were all anti-Dreyfusites. M. Deschamps is perhaps best known by his books on exploration and archaeology. He served as the secretary of Jules Ferry when the latter held the French portfolio of Public Instruction.

HELEN KERSTEN CAPTURED.

Is Under Indictment for Causing the Death of Mary Boyle.

Helen Kersten, who with Margaret Hassler was implicated in the suspicious death of Mary Boyle, daughter of Capt. James E. Boyle, on April 7 last, at 151 East Eighty-sixth Street, was captured in Philadelphia last week and is now held, awaiting extradition papers. The Kersten woman was traced by the detectives from Hoboken to Darmstadt, Germany, and from there to Baltimore, and later to Philadelphia, where she was captured.

Mary Boyle's body was carried from the address given at midnight on the 7th of April and interred in the Linden Hill Cemetery. Neighbors became suspicious and an investigation followed. The body was exhumed by order of Justice Freedman.

Dr. Gustav Guggenbacher of 319 East Thirteenth Street, who attended the girl two days before her death, signed a certificate, assigning peritonitis as the cause of death. Dr. O'Hanlon, Coroners' physician, performed an autopsy on the body, which showed death to have been due to an operation. The Coroner's jury found that both women were responsible for the girl's death, and the Hassler woman confessed.

Helen Kersten fled and was indicted. The Coroner's jury also censured Dr. Guggenbacher for failing to ascertain the girl's real condition. Assistant District Attorney Blumenthal says that Dr. Guggenbacher has given up his practice and gone to Europe.

POLICE MAY HAVE TO MOVE.

Park Department Wants the Sheepfold in Central Park for Other Uses.

President Clausen of the Park Department has requested that the police vacate their quarters in the building at Sixty-sixth Street and Eighth Avenue called the "Sheepfold," which was taken by the Park Board for police use in 1887.

The sheepfold has been used by Sergt. Eagan as a training school for the Police Department horses, and the Central Park mounted police have been quartered there under Sergt. Liebers and Roundsman Corbett. President Clausen says the Park Department needs the sheepfold for other purposes connected with the Park Department.

It was said yesterday that since the park and city police were consolidated in 1898 there has been more or less friction between the two departments, and that a demand for the Arsenal may yet be made. The Police Department has asked Corporation Counsel Whalen if the police can be ejected from the sheepfold.

New Railroad Organized in Texas.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 29.—The Chicago, Rock Island and Mexico Railroad was organized here to-day with the following officers and Directors: M. A. Low, Topeka, Kan., President; J. H. Conlin, Twist, Texas, Vice President; Dwight Ford, Secretary and Treasurer. It was given out that work on the new line would be commenced at once, and that it would be pushed as fast as possible to completion. There will be about 110 miles of the road in Texas.

We don't say that nothing else will cure a cold, but nothing will cure more or worse colds, or cure them quicker, than JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT.—Adv.

JOHN F. M'INTYRE RESIGNS

Senior Assistant District Attorney Gives Up Office.

Admits that He Was Requested to Vacate the Position—Mr. Gardiner Takes Away Effects.

John F. McIntyre, Senior Assistant District Attorney under Asa Bird Gardiner, tendered his resignation from office to District Attorney Philbin yesterday. Assistant District Attorney Charles E. Le Barbier was assigned to fill the vacancy temporarily.

That Mr. McIntyre's action was voluntary none of the attachés of the District Attorney's office believed, in view of the former's advice to the members of the staff, gathered at the Democratic Club on the day after Mr. Philbin's appointment, not to resign in a body or individually, but, in the interests of the public, to retain their positions until the new incumbent decided their usefulness was at an end. No other changes in the personnel of the professional staff was made by the District Attorney.

Just prior to the announcement of Mr. McIntyre's retirement, Mr. Philbin said that he had decided to retain in office Assistant District Attorneys Le Barbier and Townsend. These gentlemen were, he said, the only members of his staff he had decided upon, though he wished it distinctly understood that these selections were no indication that all of the remaining six full assistants would be asked for their resignations. No one of the staff, he declared emphatically, had been asked for a resignation, and he intimated that the office could not well get along without some of the present incumbents. Fifteen minutes later Mr. McIntyre, who conducted the Hilliard examination before the Coroner until late Friday evening, arrived at the office and was immediately called into conference with Mr. Philbin. The conference lasted but a few minutes, and shortly after District Attorney Philbin personally announced that Mr. McIntyre had resigned and that Mr. Le Barbier would temporarily fill his place. Mr. Le Barbier's retention in this position, he said, would depend upon the reorganization of the staff. The District Attorney refused to say whether or not he had asked for Mr. McIntyre's resignation. Mr. McIntyre also at first refused to answer this question. His written resignation was submitted some time after the announcement of his retirement was made.

Later Mr. McIntyre admitted that his resignation had been asked for. "My resignation," said he, "ends a ten years' connection with this office. It is my intention to resume general practice with Vernon M. Davis, at 220 Broadway. I was assigned to the Hilliard case only two days ago, and was also scheduled to re-try the Kennedy case. However, we must expect these sudden changes in public life."

Mr. McIntyre's deposition was not altogether unexpected by his associates, who contend that the relations between the former Chief Assistant and the Judges of General Sessions, including Recorder Goff, have been strained for nearly two years. Mr. McIntyre, about that time, was credited with the remark that "no General Sessions Judge is capable of hearing an important homicide case." This remark, it is claimed, has always rankled, as has the further fact that all important murder cases, with one notable exception, have during the Gardiner régime been placed on Justice Fursman's calendar, in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court. The especial exception was the case of Roland B. Molineux, charged with poisoning Mrs. Kate J. Adams. This case was also placed upon Justice Fursman's calendar, as a matter of fact, but after Mr. McIntyre retired from the prosecution, having been Mrs. Adams's legal adviser, the case was put on trial before Recorder Goff, where cases are taken, as one Assistant District Attorney was quoted as saying, "when a conviction is greatly desired." Assistant District Attorney O'Reilly, it is expected, will tender his resignation to-morrow, and more will, in all probability, follow, principally at the request of the District Attorney.

Mr. McIntyre's connection with the District Attorney's office began with the election of De Lancey Nicoll. District Attorney Fellows continued him in office. W. M. K. Olcott accepted his resignation when he assumed charge, and District Attorney Gardiner reappointed him Jan. 1, 1898, making him his chief aide.

Charles E. Le Barbier, who holds Mr. McIntyre's old position, has for three years been in charge of the preparation of and arguing of cases before the Court of Appeals. For many years prior to his appointment by Col. Gardiner he was associated with Coudert Brothers. He has been uniformly successful in murder cases, and also prosecuted the kidnappers of Baby Marion Ciark, the Olga Nethersole case, and the notorious "Black Rabbit" cases.

Assistant District Attorney Robert Townsend, who is also retained, has been in the District Attorney's office since De Lancey Nicoll's incumbency, with the exception of Mr. Olcott's term. Mr. Townsend served on the military staffs of Govs. Cleveland and Hill, with the rank of Colonel.

Col. Gardiner visited his old quarters yesterday and personally superintended the dismantling of his private office and the removal of several trunk loads of his possessions. Only the chandelier and the carpet were left after the Colonel got everything out. Large portraits of Richard Croker, John F. Carroll, Corporation Counsel Whalen, and Register Fromme were taken away. The life-size rooster presented the former District Attorney two years ago by Democrats of the First Assembly District, and which formerly reposed under a glass case on the Colonel's private desk, was carted away with the rest. The members of the professional staff, hearing that the Colonel was in the building, gathered in numbers in the private office to shake the "Chief's" hand. In the main room, Mr. Philbin conferred with Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry and Chief of Detectives George F. Titus.

Mr. Philbin, when seen a second time at his residence last night, declared positively to a reporter that he had not asked for Mr. McIntyre's resignation. This is a flat contradiction of the ex-Assistant District Attorney's statement.

DEVERY'S "PRIVATE" ROOM.

Even Old Friends Kept Out—No Developments in the Police Situation.

All was quiet on the surface at Police Headquarters yesterday, and the day passed with no new developments in the reported strife between President York and Chief Devery, unless it was the word "Private" in big, fresh letters which blossomed out on the swinging glass doors leading from the public waiting room into the ante-room of the Chief's office. The sign meant what it said, for a number of civilians presuming upon acquaintance and former custom passed through and were promptly ordered out.

Within sat the Chief, busy with many callers, but nearly all of them were policemen. Many politicians came to the building during the day, presumably in the interests of friends in the department, who are liable to the Lieutenant Sergeantcies soon to be filled, but they passed by the Chief's office, and continued up the broad stairs to the Commissioner's offices.

President York was at his office until late in the afternoon, as is his wont, but again declined to discuss the situation. No meeting of the board was held, and Commissioner Hess, who is making but a slow recovery from his recent severe illness, did not visit the building.

The new offices of the Committee of Fifteen in the Park Row Building were not opened yesterday, and it was said that the committee would not occupy them until Wednesday. The Tammany Committee of Five took the usual Saturday half holiday.

COURT WORK FOR A YEAR.

Appellate Division in Brooklyn Had 1,339 Cases in 1900.

John B. Byrne, Clerk of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, has given out the following statement of the work of that court during 1900:

Motions argued, submitted, and decided	330
Appeals from orders argued and submitted	195
Appeals from judgments argued and submitted	589
Total	1,114
Causes marked off and settled	225
Grand total	1,339

The term of the court will open on Monday, Jan. 7, 1901, with a large calendar, to wit, 295 appeals from judgments, 30 appeals from orders, and 25 motions. The court will open at 1 P. M. and continue until 5 P. M. each day.

STERN BROTHERS

will commence their

Annual Sale of

Housekeeping Linens

Wednesday, January 2d

Large collections of Table Damasks, Cloths, Napkins, Towels, Sheets, Pillow Cases, Bed Spreads, Hand Embroidered Hemstitched and Lace Trimmed Tea Cloths, Scarfs, Centre Pieces, and Doylies from the most reliable manufacturers, will be offered at

Decided Reductions from Regular Prices

Also on Wednesday

Their Entire Stock of

Ladies' Coats, Wraps

and the remainder of their

Imported Garments

Greatly Below Former Prices

West Twenty-third Street

MISSION BOYS ARRESTED.

Accused of Robbery and Held Despite Pastor's Plea for Them.

Oh come, oh come, and go with me
Where pleasure never dies,
And you will wear a starry crown
Above the heavenly skies.

Of the forty or fifty men and boys singing this hymn in the mission at 760 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, on Friday evening, none was there whose voice was lifted higher than the thin tenor of seventeen-year-old John McGuey of 1,635 Atlantic Avenue. Near the close of the hymn two voices of deep bass that had not been heard before joined in the singing.

"Oh, come, oh, come, with me," they sang earnestly.

The hymn ended, and young McGuey turned to see who were the owners of the deep bass voices. They were men in blue and brass, and while the boy looked they came toward him.

"Oh, come with me," said one of them in an undertone, leading the lad from the place. On Dec. 21 last three boys entered the cellar of the mission building and, breaking open the coal bin of William Quick, a tenant, stole from it a quantity of clothing and silverware. Patrolmen Cale and McCauley learned that McGuey, who was suspected, was at the mission in the building where the robbery was committed. They went there and arrested him.

Two other boys accused were arrested later, and all were arraigned yesterday in the Gates Avenue Court. The pastor of the mission pleaded in court for the boys, who, he said, attended his mission school.

"I'm afraid you don't teach them the right kind of religion," observed Magistrate Teale.

"I've had them but two weeks," quickly returned the clergyman.

The boys were committed in $300 bail each for examination.

THE PALISADES DRIVEWAY.

The Commission Hopes to Build There the Finest Roadway in the World.

The names of the men who have subscribed $122,500 to complete the purchase of the quarry lands on the Palisades are not to be made public for some weeks. George W. Perkins of the New York Life Insurance Company, who is President of the commission appointed by Gov. Roosevelt to work with the New Jersey Commission in arranging for the preservation of the Palisades, said yesterday:

"We cannot give out the names of the subscribers just now, and probably not for some time. What they have promised, together with the $10,000 allowed to us by the State for expenses, will be sufficient for the purchase of the lands on which there have been quarries, and bills will be at once introduced in the Legislatures of the two States to get the $400,000 with which to buy the other lands. With the $10,000, instead of renting offices and the like, we have secured options on the quarries, and they are, according to our contract, to remain unworked until the early part of next June. The $122,500 has been promised conditionally on our securing the State appropriations.

"Our plans extend only to getting the money for the purchase of the land from opposite the Fort Lee Ferry to opposite Yonkers, and the construction of a boulevard along the base of the hills for that distance. Of details to be arranged after that is accomplished, we have not thought very much. We'll let the artists work out the problem of what statues and monuments and other decorations are to be put in the park in time to come.

"If we build the driveway that we plan, it will be possible for people in New York to take an afternoon's spin, including both sides of the Hudson, going up by the Boulevard Lafayette on this side, crossing one of the several ferries that are or will be along the river, and then coming down to a lower ferry on the New Jersey side. We want to have the driveway something like the Speedway in construction, but more like a boulevard as to its uses. We intend to make it the finest road in the world."

The members of the joint commission are George W. Perkins and Ralph Trautmann of New York, Abram S. Hewitt of Ringwood, N. J.; Du Pratt White of Nyack, Nathan F. Barrett of New Rochelle, D. McNeely Stauffer of Yonkers, Col. Edwin A. Stevens of Hoboken, Franklin W. Hopkins of Alpine, Abram De Ronde of Englewood, and W. A. Linn of Hackensack. Col. Stevens is the President of the New Jersey division.

ARRESTED IN A GRAVE.

Policeman Found This Man in a Newly Dug Grave in a Cemetery.

Court Officer Albert Shuttleworth of the Gates Avenue Police Court, Brooklyn, arrested John Miskofsky of 126 Vienna Avenue as he was digging a grave in Evergreens Cemetery on Friday afternoon.

Theodore Paltz of Hegeman and Williams Avenues had complained that Miskofsky had stolen some vegetables from his lot. Shuttleworth found Miskofsky in a newly dug grave at the edge of a wood. He was sitting in it on his spade, resting and enjoying a pull at his pipe. Miskofsky was surprised at his arrest, as he said he had paid for the vegetables and thought that had settled the matter. He was held for examination.

MIND WEAKENED BY STUDY.

Alexander Witherspoon, Princeton Graduate, Taken to an Asylum.

Alexander Witherspoon of 171 Joralemon Street, Brooklyn, a graduate of Princeton University and a member of a prominent family of Louisville, Ky., has been placed in a private sanitarium in Manhattan, it being believed that his mind has become deranged. Young Witherspoon has been preparing for admission to the bar, and it is thought by his relatives that his condition is due to overstudy and excessive efforts in this connection.

Mr. Witherspoon is a son of Henry Witherspoon, who is connected with the Louisville agency of the New York Life Insurance Company. For the past two years he has made his home with his cousin, Dr. L. D. Mason, at 171 Joralemon Street, Brooklyn. The young man had been vaccinated on Monday night, but Dr. Mason does not believe that this in any way caused his trouble. His talk indicated that he imagined himself the victim of some persecution.

Chicago Great Western's New Director.

ST. PAUL, Dec. 29.—The Directors of the Chicago Great Western met to-day for the purpose of electing a Director to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of a former Director to Europe. The vacancy was filled by the election of W. A. Read, of the firm of Vermilye & Co., of New York.

MAIL RACE WAS WON

From Australia to New York in Twenty-nine Days.

SHIPS AND TRAINS SPEEDED

Heavy Mail Wagons Rushed Across Town and the Sacks Were Quickly Loaded on the Campania.

To place on board the Cunard liner Campania 256 bags of New Zealand and Australian mail, the greater part of which was consigned to the British Government, three mail wagons dashed across town from the Grand Central Station to the Cunard piers yesterday morning. The dash in itself was nothing unusual, but when it is known that the mail they carried had been rushed as fast as the magnificent new twin-screw trans-Pacific liner Sonoma of the Oceanic Steamship Company of San Francisco could propel it, and then transported across the continent of North America on the swiftest mail specials that ingenious American railway manipulators could furnish to connect with the outgoing Cunarder, the scope of the undertaking can be appreciated.

With the reports of her British Majesty's officials in the Far East on board, besides other important documents, papers, and communications of State, the Sonoma sailed from Melbourne Nov. 30 and Auckland Dec. 5. The steamer is the fastest of trans-Pacific liners. After touching at Honolulu on the 17th inst. for mail consigned principally to Americans, the Sonoma was pushed at full speed and passed in the Golden Gate at 6 o'clock P. M. Christmas Eve.

Then the race against time began. A special train to start it on its dash across the continent was in waiting. The attachés of the San Francisco Post Office who had been assigned to the task of transferring the mail from steamer to train did their work with all possible dispatch, and before the Pacific greyhound had been lashed to her dock the transfer was completed and the overland race from the Western to the Eastern metropolis began. Through the tunnels of the Rockies, across the Western plains, as fast as steam could carry it, with only a stop at required intervals, the powerful engine, special decked, With a momentary stop at Chicago, where the mail car was transferred to the Chicago special of the New York Central, the race continued with unabated and if possible increased speed to Buffalo, and started on the homestretch for the metropolis, arriving ten minutes late, owing to some unavoidable delay up the State.

It was one minute of 10 o'clock when the train came to a stop at the pier as the Cunarder was scheduled to sail an hour later the attachés of the New York Post Office who were on hand to make the transfer from car to wagon lost no time. Checking the mail as they threw it from car to floor and then to wagon, a few minutes later the driver of the first wagon, with an admonition to make the trip to the piers as fast as his horses could be made to go, started for the waiting Cunarder. Across Forty-second Street to Eighth Avenue, then down to Fifteenth Street, the wagon rumbled as wagons of its kind seldom rumble over the paved and asphalted streets of New York. It was two minutes past the Campania's sailing hour when the wagon arrived at the piers. Twenty-eight minutes had been consumed in making the trip, but as the steamship company had agreed to hold the liner for a reasonable time, the delay was insignificant, and Superintendent Haff of the new Post Office station at Morton and West Streets, together with Assistant Superintendent of Foreign Mails Tiedemann had the consignment of nine seven sacks on board the waiting liner in a few minutes after its arrival. An extra force of men was on hand to aid in the transfer, and as soon as the first consignment was transferred the wagon backed out, expecting the second wagon to follow in a few minutes. Everybody was ready, and matters were so arranged that the transfer would be a matter of but a few minutes.

Ten minutes slipped by and the rumble of the second wagon had not been distinguished. Superintendents Haff and Tiedemann were becoming impatient, for every one connected with the transfer had been impressed with the necessity of making the transfer from station to pier in record-breaking time. Ten minutes more elapsed, and impatience gave way to irritation. Both officials, accompanied by several assistants, went outside to see what had become of the wagon. Several minutes later it turned the corner and started down the asphalt space to the pier. The driver was coming along at a walk as if nothing depended on his reaching the dock. When he did arrive he was met with rebukes in the most approved postal phraseology, with the additional information that a report of neglect of duty would be filed against him.

In a few minutes the third and last wagon arrived. Like the first, it had made the trip from railroad to steamship terminal as fast as its horses could bring it. In less than ten minutes the Far Eastern mail, which must be in London by Jan. 5, was safely stored away on the Cunarder, and the Transatlantic passage began at 11:40 A. M., when the Campania cleared her dock and started toward the Hook en route to England. In case an emergency the Post Office authorities had a tug stationed at the piers to overtake the Campania and transfer the mail to the steamship before she cleared the Hook.

Receiver for Borough Park Club.

The Borough Park Club, an exclusive suburban organization of Brooklyn, was yesterday placed in the hands of E. Lyndsey Bourke, as receiver, by Justice Maddox, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, in an action brought by Z. O. and Webster H. Nelson, judgment creditors, to sequestrate the property of the organization. The Borough Park Club has a handsome house at the corner of Thirteenth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, Borough Park. It was organized by ex-Senator William H. Reynolds as a resort for the residents of the suburb. The receiver is authorized to sell the club's assets and to sue members and ex-members for unpaid dues, and house bills.

Fund for a Bust of Prof. Egleston.

An effort is being made by students of Columbia University to raise a sum necessary to cover the cost of a bust of the late Prof. Thomas Egleston, who in 1864 founded the School of Mines in Columbia University. The modeling of the bust is practically completed. William Couper is the sculptor. The School of Mines soon outgrew its name, and is now known as the School of Applied Science. It comprises the School of Mines and Metallurgy, the School of Chemistry, the School of Architecture, and the Schools of Engineering—Naval, Civil, Mechanical, and Electrical.

John Daniell Sons & Sons

To-morrow (Monday) we will offer a great variety of choice articles suitable for

NEW YEAR'S DAY,

comprising

FINE TABLE DAMASK AND NAPKINS TO MATCH,
CRYSTAL AND GOLD RICH CUT GLASS,
SILVERWARE AND CUTLERY,
LAMPS, CLOCKS, TABLES & GOLD CHAIRS,
EXQUISITE BRIC-A-BRAC, JARDINIERES,
FLOWERS AND PLANTS, for Decorating Purposes,
RICH JEWELRY AND FANS,
ORNAMENTS FOR THE HAIR,
DRESS GARNITURES,
RENAISSANCE TABLE COVERS,
LOVELY COUCH PILLOWS,
DUCHESSE LACE HDKFS, &c.

MEN'S FURNISHINGS.

The latest effects in
DRESS SHIRTS, NECKWEAR, GLOVES, &c.

Broadway, 8 and 9 Sts.

As You Please.

Formal, Informal, Morning or Afternoon Dress.

Formal Dress Suits, $28.00 and $38.00.
Dinner Coats, $18.00 and $25.00.
Frock Coats and Vests, $22.00 to $38.00.
Silk or Opera Hats, $5.00 and $6.00.
Dress Shirts, $1.05 to $3.50.
Suede Gloves, White Scarfs, etc.
Correct Button Shoes.

Overcoats for all occasions, at reduced prices.

Stores Open Monday Evening.

Hackett, Carhart & Co.

3 BROADWAY Stores: Cor. 13th St. Cor. Canal St. Near Chambers St.

EXPERIMENT IN TRACK LAYING.

Result May Have Effect on System Adopted by Contractor McDonald.

An experiment in track laying which, if successful, will be followed in the tunnel, is now being made in the Jamaica yards under the direction of John B. McDonald, contractor for the rapid transit railroad. When completed the track will be 1,200 feet in length. A ditch two and a half feet in depth and from eight to ten feet wide has been dug. In this is laid a trough-shaped concrete foundation of Portland cement and Peekskill crushed stone, eighteen inches in thickness under the trough depression, and twenty-six inches at the sides.

In the trough the steel rails, eighty pounds to the yard, are to be laid. These will be spiked to two continuous lines of two-inch wood plank laid on the outer side of the trough bottom and fastened by a continuous line of two-inch angle iron pressed closely against the sides of the planking, thus holding them in position. The angle iron is securely bolted to this concrete foundation. As there will be no tendency to an up movement of the planking, all the plank being downward, it is expected that steadiness of train motion will be the result and co-ordinately the minimum of noise, the result which the rapid transit tunnel builders are seeking.

ARRESTED, SHE DRANK ACID.

Patrol Wagon Took Woman to Hospital Instead of the Station.

Nellie Smith, twenty-three years old, living at 6 Lorimer Street, Brooklyn, was arraigned yesterday in the Ewen Street Police Court charged with having attempted suicide by drinking acid. The prisoner was arrested late Friday night while talking with some men at Broadway and Moore Street. While the patrolman had the woman at the patrol box she took from her bosom a small bottle containing acid and swallowed about two ounces of the liquid before the officer could get possession of the bottle. Just as she fell, the patrol wagon appeared, and no time was lost in reaching St. Catharine's Hospital. The doctors at the institution administered antidotes and soon had the woman out of danger.

"I am only an outcast, so why don't you let me die?" she sobbed. "Nobody cares for me."

After she had been pronounced out of danger she was locked up, charged with attempted suicide and loitering in the streets.

In court it was learned that the name Smith was assumed and that her people were well known in Paterson, N. J. She said that a year ago her roommate, Ida Anderson, had killed herself with acid, and since then she had been despondent and wanted to die. After the death of the Anderson woman Millie swallowed acid and was for nine weeks in St. Catharine's Hospital.

When questioned by Magistrate Lemon, she said she was in hard luck and that her friends and relatives had long since disowned her. In default of $500 bail, she was sent to jail, pending a hearing.

TOOK BOA FROM WOMAN.

Two Men Commit a Daring Robbery in Twenty-ninth Street.

J. Tubbs, a violin repairer and bowmaker, of 481 Sixth Avenue, reported a robbery to the police of the West Thirtieth Street Station last night. He said that one of his oldest patrons, a wealthy woman living in Thirty-second Street, near Fifth Avenue, had come to his place during the evening to see about some repair work, and while there had become slightly ill. She had very large and valuable diamond earrings and other valuable jewelry, and a purse containing about $200, he said. She also wore an expensive fur boa. She was afraid she might faint on the street and he left his shop to accompany her to her home. He had suggested a cab, but she thought she would fare better if she staid out in the air.

They started along Broadway and turned into Twenty-ninth Street on their way to Fifth Avenue when he noticed two men who had been watching them following closely behind them. As they reached a deep shadow the men came up and one of them said to him: "What are you doing to that woman? Let her alone." Seeing their object was to separate him from his companion he backed her against a stoop post to which she clung almost ready to drop from terror while he shouted for the police. The men then closed in and tore the boa from the woman's neck and made off with it. Mr. Tubbs told Desk Sergt. Townsend that the woman would come to the station house to-day and describe her lost fur, and he said that he could easily identify one of the robbers as he had frequently seen him putting up tickets in store windows along Sixth Avenue.

Injured by Bursting Emery Wheel.

Joseph Gombers of 422 East Sixteenth Street, Manhattan, was probably fatally injured yesterday afternoon by the bursting of an emery wheel in the Frank Jenner Flooring Company's plant at 512 Driggs Avenue, Williamsburg. Gombers was sharpening a tool on the wheel, when it suddenly exploded. The fragments struck the man with such force that he was throw backward and struck his head, fracturing his skull.

INSANITY IN MAINE INCREASES.

Hospital at Augusta Crowded—New Building Just Completed.

Special to The New York Times.

PANGOR, Dec. 28.—Such has been the increase of insanity in Maine in recent years that the State Hospital, at Augusta, designed to accommodate 500 patients, is now crowded with 767 men and women. Eleven years ago an appropriation of $25,000 was

Sunday
December 30, 1900

Daily, 1 Cent.

The New York Times.

Sunday, 3 Cents.

Part Two
Pages 13-24

UNITED STATES TO PAY INDIANS $2,000,000

Judgment Secured by the Six Nations May Be Settled Shortly.

MORE CLAIMS MAY STAY ACTION

Brothertown Tribe in the Bay State Seek to Come in as Joint Creditors.

Special to The New York Times.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Dec. 29.—The movement on the part of the Montauk, Shinnecock, Narragansett, and Mohegan Indians to bring before the United States Circuit Court an action for the recovery of certain lands of Long Island, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, as related in THE TIMES recently, is of particular interest just now, in that after a contest with the United States courts extending over a period of forty-one years the scions of the Six Nations Indians of New York State are anticipating the payment to them by Congress during the coming year of a judgment aggregating about $2,000,000.

A judgment entered four or five years ago in the United States Court of Appeals, in an action entitled "The Six Nations versus the United States," provides for the payment to the Indians of a sum falling but a trifle short of $2,000,000. Congress has made an appropriation in accordance with the judgment, and the money, with the exception of a portion already paid to Attorney James B. Jenkins of Oneida, N. Y., in partial payment for services rendered the Indians in the litigation, is now held in reserve in the United States Treasury, pending the enrollment of the individual beneficiaries.

Congressman J. S. Sherman will within a few days offer a motion in the lower house providing for the enrollment of the sons of the Six Nations and the payment to them of their individual shares of the appropriation named, while Senators Platt and Depew will take similar action in the interests of the Indians in the upper branch of the National Legislature.

The Six Nations embrace the following tribes of New York Indians: Oneidas, Onondagas, St. Regis, Senecas, Cayugas, and Tuscaroras. The Tonawandas, a branch of the Seneca tribe, are said to have effected a settlement with the Council some years since, as a consequence of which they have no part in the present claim.

In all this protracted litigation, which has been vigorously contested by the Government, Mr. Jenkins has been the prosecuting agent in behalf of the Indians, and now that the United States Government has evidently abandoned the fight there arises still another threatening cloud to stay the settlement of the difficulty. A Massachusetts attorney, acting for a remnant of what were known as the Brothertown tribe of Indians in the Bay State, seeks to introduce in Congress a bill permitting the matter to be thrown again into the Court of Claims and the settlement of the judgment stayed until he has an opportunity to establish a claim of his clients as joint beneficiaries. It is estimated that there are about 8,000 Indians who will come in as joint creditors, and that more than 3,000 of those are still residents of New York State, most of the others being in the West.

The history of the Indian-Government relations anent this claim is not only interesting because of the new phase which the Massachusetts Indians bring into the litigation, but will be surprising to many in that the claim does not in any way involve or relate to lands in New York State or the East.

This $2,000,000 judgment is a result of the treaty of 1838, wherein the Government set off as "the New York Indian Reserve" lands now in Kansas, but then a portion of the Indian Territory, in exchange for lands which had previously been given them in the vicinity of Green Bay, Wis. There were 1,824,000 acres of the land, or 320 acres for every New York Indian, of which there were then nine tribes.

At the time of the Kansas "border war" squatters took possession of more or less of these lands. In the course of time they had erected dwellings, mills, and other buildings thereon, and it became difficult for the Government to remove them. Accordingly, as the easiest way of settling the question, the Government declared these Indian lands a part of the public domain in 1859, with the avowed intention, as alleged by the Indians, of selling the same for the benefit of these wards from the Empire State. It is said that the Government has never really offered any defense in refutation of this claim, but has delayed and obstructed the litigation by technical tactics.

In regard to this connection between the Massachusetts Indians and the Kansas claim, Mr. Jenkins said:

"They claim to be of the Brothertown tribe. The Brothertowns, from Connecticut, together with the Stockbridge and Munsee Indians, came here from the East in 1784, and became wards of the Council of Six Nations. Altogether there were about 300 of them. The Brothertowns settled on the Oneida Reservation, here in Madison County, a tract 2 by 4 miles, which was set aside for them. At the same time the Stockbridge Indians were allotted a reservation 7 by 9 miles. In 1821 those tribes were sent to Green Bay as agents for the Six Nations to negotiate for the purchase of 20,000,000 acres from the Menominees and Winnebagos. The lands were to be purchased with moneys received by the Indians from annuities from the State of New York. A deal was effected. It was claimed afterward that they had only been sold the right to occupy the Wisconsin lands.

"We do not apprehend that our case will be hampered by the claims of the so-called Brothertowns of New England. Even when they settled here more than a century ago, the Brothertowns were but a small mixed tribe. The few alleged descendants of the tribe in Massachusetts and Connecticut are half-breeds who have emanated from a mixture of negroes, whites, and a remnant of the scattered Indians that were left there. It was not until last Winter that their contention was heard of, and they have had no encouragement in Washington thus far, while everything goes to indicate that they will be ignored in the matter."

STRIKE OF BREAD BAKERS.

Demand Shorter Hours and More Healthful Conditions for Work.

Bread was scarce on the east side yesterday, and will be still scarcer to-morrow. Six hundred bakers employed in 120 east side bakeries went on strike yesterday morning for the ten-hour workday. Four hundred more will strike in sixty bakeries to-morrow. The strikers belong to the Hebrew Bakers' Union, which ordered the strike. The strikers made their headquarters yesterday at Liberty Hall, 257 East Houston Street, where mass meetings were held all day.

The strikers say they were working fifteen, seventeen, and twenty hours a day. The weekly wages of the men were: Foreman, $13; kneaders, $9; helpers, $6. Carriers were paid $12 a week, but they also received a few dollars weekly in tips. These wages they say they would not have objected to if the working days had not been so long and the conditions so bad. Many of the bakeries, the strikers say, are swarming with vermin and insects, and are full of foul odors from the street, which, with the gas generated in baking the bread, renders the atmosphere unbearable.

The scarcity of bread began to become apparent last evening, and there was a run on the grocers who buy from the large bakeries. Cake was also in demand. The United Hebrew Trades, which consists of twenty-seven trades unions, indorsed the strike yesterday, and its members will eat no non-union bread if they have to subsist on crackers until the strike is ended.

The bakers have other grievances than the wage scale. They will demand that the practice by some master bakers of compelling the bakers to board with them be abandoned, as also the system of hiring bakers on condition that they live in designated boarding houses, which keeps them always in debt to the boarding house keeper.

"OLD TOM'S" CENTENARY.

Some Notable New Yorkers Who Have Been Associated with the Famous Chophouse as Habitues.

"Old Tom's" will celebrate its centenary with the birth of the new century. One hundred years ago on the same site the famous chophouse that was destined to harbor more great and distinguished men than any other place of public entertainment in America was erected. The present building is not the original one—that was torn down in 1861, but the associations of the place remain, so that graybeards who ate there when they were junior clerks still cling to the resort.

Since 1800 two "Old Tom's" have died. The last one, the most famous of his race, three years ago. He had always expressed the wish that he might live to see the centenary of the place in which he was born, and where he accumulated a fortune. He had plans laid for the celebration, and these will be carried out to-morrow by his daughter, Catherine Holahan Carey, who is now the owner. An embryo "Old Tom" will be a feature of the occasion. He will mark the advent of the fourth generation. At present he is "Young Tom" to the habitués of the place, for Thomas Holahan Carey, named for his grandfather, is but fourteen months old.

The begrimed old walls, both inside and outside, are to be hung with evergreens, and on the big centre table is to be a punch bowl—"Old Tom's" favorite—filled with champagne punch. Every one of the old customers will receive a toby, suitably inscribed, as a souvenir, for "Old Tom" was the first man in this country to introduce the toby. There are a few other points in the celebration that Mrs. Carey and her husband, Martin R., want to use as surprises. They expect all of the old contingent to be on deck, and there will be jolly times in the place, that has outlived two generations.

Right under the shadow of Old Trinity—that was even then old—Reynolds's Chophouse was opened 100 years ago. "Old Beelzebub" they called Reynolds, for he ruled his customers with a rod of iron and never put a drink on the bar until the money had been first landed in the till. The first "Old Tom" was boots in the old City Hotel, on Broadway. He bought the place in 1830, and it has been "Old Tom's" ever since. He died when his son was a young man, and the young fellow, who took hold at once, was "Old Tom" from the start. He used to say that he had almost forgotten that his name was Thomas J. Holahan.

Commodore Vanderbilt used to eat in "Old Tom's" when he was piloting boats between New York and Staten Island. The first John Jacob Astor played cards there with Thomas Hamblin when Astor could not count in thousands the money his progeny now count in millions. Charlotte Temple lived in the old house, and Edwin Forrest attended many of the famous dinners of the Beefsteak Club there. It is said that the Astor Place riots were planned in "Old Tom's." Fitz Greene Halleck, Horace Greeley, Edward B. Wesley, Henry J. Raymond, James Gordon Bennett, Louis Gaylord Clark, and hundreds of others as prominent dined there in their day. William Waldorf Astor was the poet laureate of the place. He was a prominent member of the Society of Bull Pups and the Society of Pup Monkeys that used to hold high carnival there. In a pamphlet issued by the members under the name of "The Referee" Mr. Astor wrote what was considered tha best history of the old tavern ever written.

The last "Old Tom" died three years ago, and it was thought that the place would have to be abandoned. Mrs. Carey, however, bought it in and is trying to keep it going in the old way. There is the same old air about the place; the chops and steaks are still displayed so that the purchaser can pick his dinner; the pewter mugs and the tobies still line the walls, hung with old prints, and many of the old customers still drop in there to renew old recollections and think of their friends who have gone before them into the great beyond. Of the younger generation, the Cuttings, Havemeyers, Belmonts, Duncans, Harrimans, Vanderbilts, and others well known make up the clientèle of the place. There never was a bill of fare, a tablecloth, or a check in the place.

Beside being the introducer of the toby, "Old Tom" also first introduced the pewter mugs for ale, the "combination chop," the "inspiration cocktail," the secret of which has been carefully guarded, and the "slip on." The "slip on" alone might have made any one famous. It is a welsh rabbit poured over apple or mince pie, and was "Old Tom's" pièce de résistance.

BURGLAR WAS HIS OWN SON.

Watchman, True to Duty, Arrested Him —Employer Would Not Prosecute.

August Kampe and Joseph Smith, employed as night watchmen at George Krouse's foundry, 150 Morgan Street, arrested a burglar early yesterday morning as he was carrying away thirty pounds of scrap brass.

When they led their prisoner under a lamp to look at him Smith was greatly shocked to find that the burglar was his eighteen-year-old son William. He marched the young man to the Gregory Street Police Station, but when Mr. Krouse learned the facts he refused to prosecute, and young Smith was discharged.

TOLD A LIE; HELD FOR TRIAL.

But for Untruth, Prisoners Accused of Larceny Would Have Gone Free.

William Murphy of 203 Fifth Street, Manhattan, and Frederick Muller of 1,504 Willow Avenue, Hoboken, yesterday received an object lesson on the value of truth telling. They had been arrested in the last-named city for attempting to steal an awning from the saloon at Washington and Fifth Streets, which was closed, the owner having failed. The accused men produced a card purporting to be an order from the John Kress Brewing Company for the removal of the awning. They both asserted positively that the order was genuine, but Policeman Guthell, who made the arrest, testified that he saw the former bartender of the saloon write the order at Muller's request.

"That puts a different aspect on the case," said Recorder Stanton. "I had intended to discharge you, but since you have lied about the matter, I will hold you for trial in the hope that it may teach you to tell the truth in future."

CUBAN'S IMPORTED JEWELRY.

Says He Was Going to Take It to Cuba, and Thought It Was Not Dutiable.

Collector of the Port Bidwell reported to the United States District Attorney yesterday the case of Antonio Ascensio, a Cuban, who arrived in New York on Dec. 22 from Europe on the steamship Pennsylvania. On Ascensio's person was found a belt containing a quantity of jewelry, the value of which is unofficially estimated at $8,000.

Ascensio stated that, inasmuch as he had booked in Europe for Cienfuegos, Cuba, he was of the belief that the jewelry he had with him would not be dutiable at the Port of New York, and that he could have it in his possession while in this city. As soon as the jewelry is officially appraised the case will be handed to Deputy Phelps of the Law Division, who will arrange it for presentation to the United States District Attorney.

Ladies' Fuel Society Ball.

The annual entertainment and charity ball of the Ladies' Fuel and Aid Society will be held at the Lexington Opera House, in East Fifty-eighth Street, on New Year's Eve. The proceeds of this worthy affair, which usually amount to $3,000, are devoted to the alleviation of suffering among the east side poor during the harsh Winter months. Mrs. L. Hirschfield, the President, and Isaac Simon, who will direct the entertainment, expect this new-century event to surpass all former efforts of the society in that direction.

Anniversary Mass for Father Malone.

An anniversary mass was celebrated yesterday at St. Leo's Roman Catholic Church, East Twenty-eighth Street, in memory of Father Sylvester Malone of the Church of Sts. Peter and Paul, Brooklyn, who died one year ago yesterday. The celebrant was Father Ducey, who also preached and dwelt upon the spiritual devotion shown by Father Malone in giving up his life to his flock. Father Ducey deplored the tendency of the times not to give proper reverence to years and labor.

Horner's Furniture.

Annual Reduction Sale

ITS REASON. To effect as great a clearance of stock as possible before taking inventory.

ITS ADVANTAGES. It affords buyers the only opportunity of the year to secure genuinely High-Class Furniture in latest designs at material reductions from regular prices—viz., 15 to 30 per cent.

ITS RANGE. Each and every line throughout our warerooms has its liberal quota of "mark downs," from the lowest to the highest priced, including Bedroom Suites. Dressing Tables.

Dining Room Suites. Chiffonieres.
Parlor Suites. Cheval Glasses.
Fancy Pieces. Fancy Chairs.
Sideboards. Writing Desks.
Cabinets. Bookcases.

Also hundreds of odd pieces which space prevents itemizing.

An opportunity of importance to all who wish to obtain Furniture of highest grades at prices usually charged for inferior qualities.

R. J. HORNER & CO.,
Furniture Makers and Importers,
61, 63, 65 West 23d Street.
(Adjoining Eden Musee.)

A NEW $2,000,000 HOTEL

Col. Astor to Erect Building at 55th Street and 5th Avenue.

Property Already Leased for a Period of Twenty Years, with Privilege of Three Renewals.

Excavation was begun yesterday morning on the property at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, preparatory to the erection there of what it is believed will be the finest apartment hotel in this city, if not in the world. Col. John Jacob Astor will build on this site a sixteen-story structure, having a frontage of 75 feet on Fifth Avenue and 150 feet on Fifty-fifth Street.

The property has already been leased for a term of twenty years, with privilege of three renewals, to Rudolph M. Haan, who now conducts establishments at Columbus Avenue and Seventy-fifth Street and in the Park Row Building.

The new building has been designed by Architects Trowbridge & Livingston, and its cost has been estimated at not less than $1,500,000. The ground that it will occupy is valued at between $600,000 and $700,000, so that the total amount involved in the operation is well over $2,000,000.

Preliminary sketches show a structure of unusually attractive exterior, and it may safely be said that architecturally the building will be an ornament to the neighborhood.

This announcement of Col. Astor's intention to improve this corner has an additional importance because it will mark the first departure from the strictly residential character of that section of Fifth Avenue between Fifty-third and Fifty-eighth Streets, if exception be made of the University Club's building at Fifty-fourth Street. The Fifty-fifth Street corner was purchased by the late William Astor for a residence site, and not being used for that purpose, the improvement of it has always been a vexatious problem to its owner, with the apartment hotel apparently as the only satisfactory solution. The erection of a clubhouse for the Republican Club on the plot has been talked of at various times, as well as the erection of several fine residences there, such as the Astors built just north of Fifty-sixth Street. The clubhouse scheme never matured, while the advance of business up Fifth Avenue and the increasing popularity of other residential sections made the success of the latter plan beyond the immediate future very problematical.

The street floor of the new apartment house will be devoted entirely to a restaurant and garden. On the second floor there will be a large banquet hall, a library, and numerous private dining rooms for the use of tenants. Above this the floors will be divided into apartments—large suites being arranged on a basis of two to a floor, while for the accommodation of small families and bachelors, some of the upper floors will be made up of five or six suites.

Mr. Haan, in speaking of his new undertaking yesterday, said that the feature which he would try to perfect would be the service of meals in the apartments. Previous attempts in other apartment hotels to afford this service by means of dumb waiters have been at best only partially successful. In the building which Col. Astor will erect this work will be accomplished by means of two large high-speed electric elevators, which, fitted with electric heating tables, will be in effect movable pantries. In each apartment there will be a private pantry communicating directly with the service elevator. All the appliances for the successful working of the system have been studied in detail, and it is said that the installation of it in the new building at Fifty-fifth Street will be the first of its kind.

In every other particular the structure will embody the most advanced ideas of construction and equipment. For the first time in a building of so great a height the indirect method of heating, without the use of radiators in the rooms, will be tried. A complete refrigerating plant will have connection with every apartment, while the water supply will come from an artesian well. Barring unforeseen delays, the new building will be ready for occupancy on Sept. 1, 1902.

PINGREE DEFIES THE COURT.

Governor Refuses to Answer Summons to Appear for Contempt—The Court Postpones Action.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 29.—Gov. Pingree, who was summoned to appear before the Ingham County Circuit Court to-day to answer to a charge of contempt, as the result of an interview in which he attacked the Court and the Prosecuting Attorney, has refused to answer the summons. He was cited to appear at 1 o'clock to-day, but at 11:30 the Governor sent the following telegram to the Court:

As Executive of the State of Michigan and representing one of the three independent, equal, and co-ordinate divisions of the power of the Government, I am constrained (meaning no disrespect to the Judicial Department) to deny the authority of the judiciary in the premises.

Were I, as Chief Executive of this State, disposed to recognize the authority of the Judicial Department on this particular occasion, the official duties pressing upon me in the closing hours of my administration would not permit of my giving the matter attention.

H. S. PINGREE.

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 29.—When the contempt case against Gov. Pingree was called by Judge Wisner this afternoon, the courtroom was crowded. The Judge read Gov. Pingree's telegram, and then said that he did not understand that the case was against the Governor, but against Hazen S. Pingree the individual. Judge Wisner said he had no disposition to interfere with the duties of the Governor, and therefore would continue the case until Jan. 9. In default of the Governor's appearance at that time, an attachment to compel his attendance will issue.

Alcott & Weekes

7 & 9 East 20th Street
(Between Broadway and Fifth Ave.)

JANUARY SALE.

Commencing To-Morrow, Monday.

The exclusiveness of this shop, the original and beautiful designs of our garments, makes this the most important of the January Sales. All Fall garments, both imported and domestic, will be reduced to less than half originally marked.

Costumes for carriage and street wear, Ball and Dinner Gowns, Wraps, Coats, Jackets, Separate Skirts, Silk Petticoats, Boas, Fur Novelties, Neckwear, Millinery, etc., etc.

ALL ORDERS TAKEN THROUGH MONTH JANUARY AT BETWEEN-SEASON PRICES.

About one hundred special

$89.00 Costumes reduced to 45.00
$60.00 Costumes reduced to 30.00
$50.00 Costumes reduced to 25.00
$36.50 Costumes reduced to 18.00

ALCOTT & WEEKES

Arnold, Constable & Co.

Spring Announcement.

New Styles of

Fancy Silks, Printed Satins,

Crêpes and Grenadines

for Ball and Evening Dress,

White Silks and Satins,

will be shown on Wednesday, January 2d, 1901.

Broadway & 19th Street.

HOWGATE IS RELEASED.

Former Disbursing Officer of the Signal Service Completes His Term in Prison.

ALBANY, Dec. 29.—Henry W. Howgate, aged seventy years, who in 1880 served the Government as disbursing officer of the Signal Service at Washington, was released from the penitentiary last night after serving six years for forgery and falsification of accounts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Nineteen years ago next April this city was thrown into a state of great excitement by the news that Capt. Henry W. Howgate, who had been at the head of the United States Weather Bureau, and had been under indictment and arrest for embezzlement of money amounting to about $100,000, had escaped from the officers who had him in charge. Howgate had become so well known by a course of high living that attracted attention that he was conspicuously in the public eye, and the impression created at that time was that his escape did not excite general indignation.

His association with a woman who was better known than respected alienated the sympathy of the respectable class, but the officers upon whom rested the responsibility for his detention and punishment at length gave up their efforts to find him, and it was not until 1895 that he was brought to bar, and, being found guilty, was sentenced to be imprisoned for eight years. Good behavior won for him a reduction of his term.

He is an old man now. It is not believed that he has held any of the money he embezzled. His wife is dead. His daughter, who was instrumental in aiding him to escape in 1882, still lives here, and it is understood that Howgate will return to live with her. The house from which he escaped, and which, by the way, was one he had furnished as a home for the woman who had helped him to ruin himself and family, is still pointed out as the "Howgate" house. It did not long remain the property of the unfortunate man.

MOTT HAVEN CANAL.

Residents of the Bronx Annoyed at the Delay in Filling It In.

Considerable dissatisfaction is expressed in the lower end of the Borough of the Bronx with the delay of the Municipal Assembly in passing the resolution adopted by the local board and the Board of Public Improvements for regulating and grading Canal Place, which involves the filling in of the ditch known as the Mott Haven Canal. For years the citizens and property owners of the neighborhood have been fighting to have the "canal" filled in, claiming that it was a public nuisance, a breeder of disease, and a depreciator of property values for blocks around in all directions. The alleged nuisance was fought before the Park Board, the Department of Street Improvements, Board of Health, Board of Street Openings, local board, and Board of Public Improvements, in turn, and while each of these sustained the citizens in their fight, yet, so strong has been the influence wielded by the North River Electric Light and Power Works, whose power house is on the canal, that the actual filling has been successfully staved off each time.

The company, it is said, effects a considerable saving in running expenses by the use of the water for condensing purposes and for towing coal to the works. Interested in it as stockholders are said to be some of the most powerful Tammany politicians, and it is alleged that so strong has been this influence that there has never been wanting a city official ready and willing to block its progress on technicalities, postponements of action, &c., so that it has come to be believed in the neighborhood that Richard Croker himself is a stockholder.

The matter has been hung up for months in the Committee of Highways of the Municipal Assembly, by title vested in the city last June. The paving of One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street, the main thoroughfare of that section, is also held up, and as this involves the filling in of the street solid, where it crosses the canal, it is assumed that the same motive prompts its blocking. The street was widened a year ago from 75 to 100 feet, and the house moved back to the new line, yet the old curb still stands ten inches high in the roadway—a menace to passing vehicles, and while one-half of the street is paved, the other is a dirt road.

The street itself is full of ruts and valleys while a tumble-down bridge spans the canal close to the handsome One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street station of the New York Central Railroad. A meeting of the Mott Haven Improvement Association has been called for next week to take action on the matter.

MURDERER McDONALD DEAD.

Man Who Killed Auditor Morris Refused Food in the Hospital.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Samuel McDonald, who one week ago shot and killed F. H. Morris, Auditor for the War Department, died this morning at the Emergency Hospital from the self-inflicted wounds he received at the time of the murder. McDonald, after killing Morris, cut his own throat and shot himself near the heart.

It was thought that he had a fair chance of recovery, owing to his remarkable physique, but he was determined to die, and so informed attendants at the hospital. He was carefully guarded and prevented from inflicting any further injury on himself, but for two days he refused nourishment as far as possible, and this morning at 7 o'clock died quietly and without a struggle. The physicians say that death was due more than anything else to McDonald's determination not to live. It was a remarkable exhibition of will power.

Notice of his death was sent to his brother, William McDonald, the opera singer, who is now in Denver.

At the autopsy held over the body of McDonald the Coroner found the immediate cause of death to be complete exhaustion resulting from a gunshot wound of the liver and peritonitis.

Young Pettigrew in a Fight.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 29.—Frank Walden Pettigrew, son of United States Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota, was assaulted and seriously injured by an usher in a theatre here last night. Young Pettigrew lighted a cigaretts in the lobby, and thereby became involved in a controversy with an usher as to the rule forbidding smoking. He was struck a vicious blow on the right cheek bone, fracturing it, and also dislocating his jaw. His injuries are serious, and an operation will be performed.

May Have Been Murdered by a Woman.

NAUGATUCK, Conn., Dec. 29.—The inquiry into the Cotton Hollow roadhouse mystery to-day by Deputy Coroner Pond has followed the theory that Gerald Meiberg, whose body was found in the dooryard of the house early last Sunday morning, was murdered by a woman following a quarrel. A young man who was in the roadhouse Saturday night asserts that Meiberg was struck on the head by a piece of lead pipe inclosed in a rubber tube, crushing his skull.

HEARN

West Fourteenth Street.

We End the Century with a Great Silk Sale.

To-morrow great offerings of Silks—newest of the new—just bought and just right for present use and wear; the only thing out of season about them being

PRICES AT WHICH WE SELL.

Lot One.....39 cents
Satin figured Indias—all silk—24-inch—Pink, Nile, Heliotrope, Light Blue and Canary—make effective and inexpensive Evening Gowns, Waists and Children's Dancing Dresses, also suitable for Fancy Work and handsome linings—Fifty-nine cents would be a low price for the quality.

Lot Two.....29 cents
Satin Stripe Foulard—figured over with neat flower designs, Dotted effects and small fancy figures—good, desirable colors, including Navy, with white, also Black-and-White....These were really intended for Spring Sale at 49 cents, but having arrived earlier than expected we make a special of them now, as stated, at 29 cents.
Are they a Bargain?

Lot Three.....39 cents
A Combination lot of Black and Black-and-White Silks—as follows:
Black All Silk Foulards—24 inch; Black Silk Taffetas—27 inch; Black-and-White Silk Taffetas in Shepherd Checks of various sizes, also Broken Plaids and Pin Head Checks—make exceedingly stylish Waists—
A very attractive lot of Silks at a remarkably low price.
Same qualities have not hitherto been offered under 59 and 69 cents.

Lot Four.....59 cents
Silk Taffetas of excellent quality, full 27 inches wide (note the width), Black and Colors; also Black Satin Duchesse, all silk—24 and 27 inches wide....Both are "specials" in full sense of the word, regular values being 75 and 98 cents.

To-morrow being the End of December,

the End of the Year and the End of the Century, must see the End of Many Things.

Dress Goods
will be sold as here stated
AT TWENTY-NINE CENTS.
Cashmere——44 inch——40 shades
Mottled Suitings—all wool—six combinations
Granite Cloths—38 inch——12 shades
Values, .39, .49 and .59.
AT THIRTY-NINE CENTS.
All Wool Granites—40 inch—15 shades
All Wool Plaids—46 inch—10 combinations
Values, .59 and .75.
AT FORTY-NINE CENTS.
All Wool Habit Cloths—50 inch—20 shades
All Wool Storm Serges—46 inch—40 shades
Snowflake Suitings——46 inch——10 mixtures
All Wool Albatross——30 shades
Black Parolas——45 inch——35 designs
All Wool Homespuns——14 colorings
Values, 65 to 98 cents.
AT FIFTY-NINE CENTS.
All Wool Storm Serges—46 inch—85 shades
Fine quality Homespuns—54 inch—15 shades
Values 75 and 85 cents.
AT SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.
French Poplin—all wool—44 inch—15 shades
All Wool Finetta Cloths—46 inch—16 shades
Value a Dollar nineteen.
AT EIGHTY-NINE CENTS.
All Wool Venetians—50 inch—15 shades
All Wool Granites—50 inch—25 shades
Value a Dollar twenty-five.

As a Closing Year Offering
we will sell
At Five cents and three-quarters
Heavy Outing Flannels
until now 9¾ cents——Pink and Blue, Checks, Stripes, Plaids and Hairlines. Non-shrinkable——Absolutely fast.

Also
AT FIVE CENTS
Yard Wide Percales worth Ten cents.
All colors——132 STYLES.
Hard and soft finish for Dresses and Waists.....The unfinished, undyed cloth alone of above quality at the mills is worth seven cents.

On Wednesday, January 2, 1901, We will open New Century's Novelties in High Class Imported Wash Dress Fabrics
No finer Stock in the city.
No exception!

Fine Table Linens
Great Holiday selling has left an accumulation of odd Sets, Table Cloths and Half Dozen Napkins.... Friday prices cleared a quantity, the balance must go to-morrow.

John S. Brown's Dinner Sets
Rich Satin finish Damask—beautiful patterns, with cloths, 2, 2½ or 3 yards long, and a dozen 24 inch Napkins to each set

Before Christmas.	Now.
were $8.25	5.98
were $9.98	6.98
were $11.98	7.98
were $14.98	10.98
were $19.00	12.98

YOU CAN BUY
Fine Damask Linen Sets
Hemstitch and open work—3 and 3½ yard cloth—24 inch Napkins—

That were	Now, either size
8.98 to 10.98	5.98

YOU CAN BUY
All Linen Napkins—Half dozens—
All qualities, some have edges slightly soiled—medium and large sizes,

BEFORE CHRISTMAS	NOW.
49 cents to 4.25	.39 to 2.98

Satin Damasks by Yard of which there are but a half dozen designs 66 to 72 inches wide.

59 cent quality	will go at .47
76 cent quality	will go at .59

Bureau Scarfs
Irish Point Borders or Hemstitch with open centres—also 32 inch squares—were .59 and .69.....Now .39

Ladies' Plush and Velour Capes
Long, medium and short—plain or appliqued with jet and braid—with and without Persian Lamb, Sable, Angora and Chiffon trimmings—heavy taffeta and satin linings.

Before Christmas.	Now.
13.98	8.98
17.98	10.98
19.98	12.98
22.98	16.98
27.98	19.98
29.98	21.98
33.98	23.98
39.98	29.98
46.98	34.98
68.98	47.98

Ladies' Cloth Jackets and Coats
Box and Automobile Styles—Fine Kersey—Black and leading Shades—Handsomely Tailored.

Before Christmas.	Now.
6.98 and 7.98	4.98
9.98 and 10.98	6.98
12.98 and 14.98	9.98
16.98 and 18.98	12.98

Ladies' Golf Capes
Single and Double Face Cloth—all best shades—flounce or flare effects—hoods or cape collars—fringed or stitched band finish.

Before Christmas.	Now.
6.98	3.98
7.98	4.98
8.98	5.98
9.98	6.98
11.98	7.98
14.98	9.98
18.98	12.98
23.98	16.98

Fine Underwear One-Third Off
As we want to start the "White Sale" next Wednesday with an absolutely fresh, clean stock, we will offer to-morrow all Night Dresses, Skirts, Chemises, Drawers and Corset Covers in any way soiled or tumbled through holiday handling at ONE-THIRD OFF REGULAR PRICES.
....Cambric and Muslin, all more or less trimmed with embroideries, laces, tucks, hemstitching and insertings—
69 cent Night Gowns—To-morrow 49
Finer to 3.98—were 5.98
29 cent Drawers—To-morrow.....19
Finer to 1.29—were 1.98
98 cent Skirts.....To-morrow.....69
Finer to 2.98—were 4.50
They will go in a day.

Great Clearing Sale of Tapestries
AT HALF PRICE WE WILL SELL
Armure, Derby, and Egyptian Tapestries, Bagdad and Damascus Stripes, Cosy Corner Draperies, Petit Points, Brocades, and Silk and Satin Warps—
Thus the prices:

59 cents	value 1.19
79 cents	value 1.59
98 cents	value 1.98
1.49	value 2.98

Included among above are High-Class Imported Tapestries and Velour Figured Brocades, of which import cost was far more than prices we ask.

In Lace and Fancy Curtains
There are also special opportunities:.....If you have a window or two which you would like to curtain handsomely at moderate cost, look over this list and see what can be saved:

	Were	Now
Irish Point Curtains	15.98	9.98
Irish Point Curtains	9.98	6.98
Irish Point Curtains	5.98	3.98
Nottingham and Scotch	4.98	2.98
Nottingham and Scotch	2.98	1.98
Nottingham and Scotch	2.29	1.49
Ruffled Net Curtains	4.98	2.98
Ruffled Net Curtains	3.98	2.49
Ruffled Muslin Curtains	1.49	.89
Ruffled Muslin Curtains	1.29	.79
Fancy Tarn Curtains	1.49	.98
Fancy Tarn Curtains	2.29	1.49
Silk Stripes	2.98	1.98
Satin Stripes	5.98	3.98

We Commence the Century with A Great White Sale

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1901.

LONDON TOPICS OF THE WEEK

Public Christmas Feastings Seem a Mockery of True Charity.

QUALITY OF RECENT WAR NEWS

Alleged Explanation as to Why It Is Now Uniformly Encouraging.

Significance of the Ecclesiastical Demonstration in Honor of Lord Roberts—The Case of Gen. Colville—Situation Grave in Italy and Turkey.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES. Copyright, 1900.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Our Christmas feastings this year have hardly been on the usual scale or conducted with our wonted heartiness, but we have done our best to be cheerful. The customary dinners of benevolence have been held in all parts of the country to the satisfaction of the needy, and the degraded sections of the population have been ministered to. These displays always strike me as something like a mockery of true charity. It is a great simulation of the brotherliness among mankind worked up and the destitute receive one hearty meal with frequently doles of clothing and money added. Many good words are also uttered in their hearing and no sooner is the function over than they and their daily wants are forgotten until Christmas comes round again. A high-spirited people would resent this sort of ostentatious charity, but I fear that the masses of England are not high spirited or in any sense generally democratic.

For a day or two amid these scenes we try to forget our troubles and, as I write, a simulation of cheerfulness is being kept up toward public affairs. The black cloud in South Africa we are once more assured is showing a trace of silver lining. Telegrams keep dropping in from various parts of the territories where our troops wander, keep garrison, or fight, telling us that De Wet is once more in a tight place, that we are driving back the farmers who came down upon Pretoria from the north and are clearing away those commandoes that foolhardily ventured into Cape Colony. There is no sign of the Cape Dutch rising, more than one message informs us, and so we try to be happy.

I wish I could share this flickering gleam of confidence, but I cannot forget that no independent information now reaches this country about South Africa. All the war correspondents have been sent home, these useful public servants being special objects of detestation to Lord Kitchener, and we are reduced to purely official messages signed by him, or to press agency telegrams, the source of which is never disclosed. I have a shrewd suspicion, which circumstances tend to strengthen, that these irresponsible telegrams are drawn up by an extraordinary group of civil administrators appointed by Lord Roberts before he left Africa for home. All the higher officials and a majority of the lower to whom the task of ordering society anew has been given in South Africa are connections or dependents of the De Beers millionaires, and some among them are journalists. Anyhow, no independent news can come to us except now and again by letter and bearing the stamp of the censor. As we have been misled in the past by those working an oracle for interested parties I think it well to avoid premature rejoicings.

***

THE RETURN OF LORD ROBERTS.

We are going to celebrate Lord Roberts's return next week with a proper triumphal entry, winding up at St. Paul's Cathedral, where the Dean and Chapter will at last have an opportunity to demonstrate their not always convenient imperial Christianity. They have hitherto been overfussy and at the same time unhappy in their endeavors to bring themselves prominently before the nation. You may remember when we were driven half frantic with those concocted Shanghai tales of wholesale massacres in Peking, the St. Paul's clergy wished to hold a spectacular service in memory of the departed dead. Driven off this project by the arrival of the true facts, they have waited restlessly ever since, and when Lord Roberts announced the end of the war, "Here is our opportunity," they cried, "let us have a national thanksgiving." But again, unfortunately, the war did not end at his Lordship's bidding. So far is it from ending that he had scarcely left Cape Town for England when our troops suffered one of the worst defeats inflicted upon them since the war began. Still St. Paul's must have a show and next Thursday it will muster its clergy in full array to celebrate a thanksgiving over Lord Roberts's safe return. I fear these parsons are not doing their order good in the public mind by such proceedings, and I lament the scope for mockery given.

However, Lord Roberts is coming home, and we must line the streets and cheer him, were it for no other reason than to keep our spirits up. Criticism none the less grows keener and keener upon his policy, and one old and experienced soldier who served under him in Afghanistan has been delivering blow after blow destructive to his Lordship's strategy, going so far this week as to declare that the unwieldy forces under Kitchener in and around Pretoria and Johannesburg may before long be driven to choose between starvation and retreat behind the Orange River. This is the view of Col. Hanna, and without question there is much more to be said for it than we are willing to allow.

***

GEN. COLVILE TO DEFEND HIMSELF.

A sensation is promised us by the return of Gen. Colvile from Gibraltar. He was in command of the Guards' Brigade last May when the Yeomanry were captured at Lindley and was promptly relieved and sent home by Lord Roberts, apparently in disgrace. Arrived in this country he seems to have satisfied Lord Lansdowne that he was not to blame, for he immediately after went out to take command of the infantry at Gibraltar. New men, new brooms, and Mr. Brodrick was hardly in office before he demanded Gen. Colvile's resignation. This was refused and Colvile arrived today fully determined to defend himself. The stories circulated when his original disgrace occurred implied that he treated a message warning him of the Yeomanry's danger with indifference, remarking that it would be time enough to start to-morrow. I cannot say whether the tale is true or not, but it was unfortunately only too characteristic then of the attitude of many of our commanders, who looked upon the fighting farmers with lordly contempt. Whatever may be the truth, Colvile reached Lindley too late, the Yeomanry having been captured and carried off. Should his defense be good we may be sure that as little as possible of it will be allowed, in the present circumstances, to see the light.

It is hard work being cheerful at present, not only because we have this running sore in South Africa exhausting our vitals, but because wherever our eye turns the world seems rather out of joint. No European nation can be looked upon as occupying a much happier position than ourselves. Passing by France and Germany as having each their troubles, socialist, anarchic, and reactionary, we find Italy still a seething caldron of suppressed popular passions, and those in high places living in perpetual fear. The young King is kept like a prisoner, surrounded by guards, and all the severities perpetrated against the disseminators of revolutionary ideas in no matter what form, only serve to deepen the nation's discontent.

***

DESIGNS OF THE SULTAN.

Passing further eastward, nothing but a promise of trouble meets us in the dominions of the Sultan. Massacres of Armenians seem to be of weekly occurrence, and once more we are told that the ferment in Macedonia may any week involve the whole of the Balkan peninsula in the horrors of war. The Sultan is full of malignant designs against the Young Turkish Party and is ready to slay and slay until he thinks himself safe, if only the surrounding powers leave his hands free. And the surrounding powers are not paying very much attention to him.

All Continental Europe is busy with China, which occupies the minds of its statesmen almost as much as South Africa dominates us. We have been rather congratulating ourselves on the forward step in the Chinese negotiations this week, and, again at the risk of being a "kill-joy," I must confess I cannot see it.

After infinite labor a joint note has been manufactured and delivered, and accepted with bows, smiles, and smooth words by the Chinese plenipotentiaries. But that means nothing; it does not even imply complete unity among the signatories. I hear privately that the powers are far from being united, and that they are rather drifting further apart while China seethes with revolt. Five of her southern provinces may be described as in open rebellion now, and it is quite impossible for the country, were it submissive throughout, to fulfill the financial portion of the demands made upon it. Equally impossible is it for the empire to subscribe to the conditions relating to the importation of arms or the suspension of literary examinations. Items like these strike at the root of Chinese independence, and we may depend upon it will be resisted to the uttermost, at first by shifty tactics, delays, excuses, counter propositions, and finally by fighting, for at a certain point the patient, meek Chinaman will fight with the utmost fury. The story of the Taiping rebellion alone would warrant us in saying that.

***

THE MISTAKE OF THE POWERS.

Therefore I still think that the European powers are on the wrong line of rails, and as Spring comes on, divisions will openly appear among them, little conducive of peace, or rather provocative of renewed conflict and possible attempts to dismember the empire.

Meanwhile China's commerce is injured, and the great financial interests which Europe—and especially England—possesses in the country are placed increasingly in jeopardy.

No amount of whipping up influences us to take any more interest than we did in the Nicaragua Canal. I have not heard what attitude Lord Salisbury has toward the amended treaty, but I shall be surprised if he, in the present circumstances, enters into more than a sham diplomatic fight. That, however, is merely my opinion and I can only vouch for the fact that we remain absolutely indifferent to the whole question.

Poor old Lord Dufferin! You knew him on your side as a picturesque and flowery worded Canadian Viceroy, and in his time he has played many high diplomatic and ornamental parts for England. To-day it is announced that he is about to leave England for South Africa to see his wounded son. The real reason, however, is that he has got himself mixed up with some exceedingly evil-smelling financial undertakings whose collapse to-day has involved the disgrace of his name and probably his financial ruin. He always was what we call a "wastrel man;" who spent money like the owner of Aladdin's lamp and seemed to think it a privilege for common people to be his creditors. That is too often a characteristic trait of the British aristocracy.

A. J. W.

WILL OF HENRY G. VILLARD.

Bequests to His Family, His Old Home, and Many Institutions.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 29.—The will of Henry G. Villard was offered for probate in the Westchester County Surrogate's Court to-day. The value of the estate is not given, but it is said to be several millions.

All of Mr. Villard's personal effects and the sum of $250,000 outright are given to his wife, Fannie G. Villard. The remainder of the estate, both real and personal, is divided among the testator's wife and children, Mrs. James W. Bell, Harold G. Villard, and Oswald Garrison Villard, Mrs. Villard receiving one-half.

Legacies and annuities of various amounts are left to twenty-eight relatives, servants, and intimate friends, many of whom are residents of Germany. A trust fund is established with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company sufficient to produce an annuity of $2,000 for the benefit of his sister Emma, the wife of Lieut. Gen. Robert von Xylander of the Bavarian Army, now on duty at Munich.

To Columbia University Mr. Villard left $50,000 unrestricted, and a similar sum, also unrestricted, to Harvard University, "gratefully remembering that my two sons and six nephews were educated in that institution."

Local institutions to which bequests are made are as follows:

The New York Infirmary for Women and Children	$10,000
The German Society of New York	5,000
The Charity Organization Society	2,500
The State Charities Aid Association	2,500
The New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children	2,500
The New York Medical College and Hospital for Women	5,000
The German Hospital and Dispensary	10,000
The Dobbs Ferry Hospital Association of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.	5,000
The American Museum of Natural History	5,000
The Metropolitan Museum of Art	5,000

To the town of Zweibruecken, Rhenish Bavaria, is left $12,000 for the benefit of the public charities of the town. To the Diaconissen Anstalt, at Speyer-on-the-Rhine, whose hospital and training school for nurses were erected by the testator, is left $15,000.

To the City of Speyer, where Mr. Villard was born, is left the sum of $12,500, to be held as a permanent fund, the income from which is to be used, in the discretion of the municipal authorities, "for loans at a low rate of interest for deserving mechanics and small tradesmen to help them in their respective businesses."

The Industrial Museum in Kaiserslantern, Rhenish Bavaria, receives $12,500, which is to be used for the general purposes of the institution.

The executors named are Horace White, Charlee A. Spofford, and the widow, Mrs. Fannie G. Villard.

Barr-Dinwiddie Plant to be Sold.

The Barr-Dinwiddie Printing and Bookbinding Company's plant at New and Ludlow Streets, Jersey City, which has been in the hands of a receiver for several weeks, was permanently closed yesterday in compliance with a demand from the creditors that the property should be sold and their claims satisfied. The sale will take place on Jan. 7. The liabilities are about $80,000, while the assets are valued at $75,000. The closing of the establishment throws seventy-five persons out of employment.

HARD PROBLEMS IN CHINA

Allies Puzzled as to Whether They Ought to Chase the Court.

TRIBUTE IS STILL PAID

A Proposal to Intercept It on Its Way to Sian-Foo—Results of Foreign Troops' Brutality.

Foreign Correspondence NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, Nov. 10.—Stories of loot, slaughter, and executions continue to reach here from the various parts of this province, which the allied troops are visiting, while from the south and west there are indications that the Chinese are apprehensive that invasions may be attempted in those quarters. It is commonly said here to be the Chinese habit to prepare for nothing in advance, but the order to dispatch 14,000 troops into Ho-Nan Province would seem to show that a lesson has been learned in that respect. Foreigners are not likely, from anything now in prospect, to have occasion to change their opinion of native soldiery, or to be deterred from an invasion, should they decide to attempt it, on that account. Indeed, the imperial intention, as well as it can be judged, is not to make a stubborn resistance to foreign approach, but rather to retard it by some show of force in order to cover a further imperial flight.

Among the allies, one of the questions to be determined is whether it may be worth while, for the sake of international harmony, to chase the Empress Dowager all over Asia. Her camels are said to be good for fifty miles a day, and it would be something of a calculation to determine by what agency she might be effectively pursued. Advices from Sian-Foo intimate, moreover, that the Court may be removed from that place to Cheng-Tu, in Sze-Chuen Province. The reason given for possible removal is not a dread of foreign advance, but the discomfort of witnessing the famine conditions that prevail where the Court is now.

Cheng-Tu enjoyed the distinction of being the capital during the Tang dynasty, more than 1,000 years ago. Nothing remains of imperial relics except one gate and a bit of falling wall, but the region thereabout is not famished and the people are said to be willing to reconstruct the palaces if the Court will return there. Thus if plans were now made for an invasion with the view of capturing the Empress, the objective would have to be a movable one, to be adjusted according to the agility of the fugitive. Then natural difficulties must be overcome, quite as formidable as any that can be opposed by native agency, such as mountains, fords, floods, and soft roads, making the undertaking one to be avoided if any other way of reaching the desired end can be devised.

The ability of the Empress to hold out depends in some measure on the continuity of her supplies. She has abundance of rich chattels and quite enough convertible treasure to meet her personal wants indefinitely, but the maintenance of a Court is another matter, and to keep the Court together she must have her customary tribute. So far that has not been interrupted, yet to the current of official income. Money and rich gifts worth fortunes are now going forward to her in honor of her birthday, at the beginning of next month. If the foreign troops intended to intercept the treasure, they would have started by this time. More or less mysterious talk is heard in that line, but it can have no practical effect without quick action. Assuming that there will be no present interruption, it seems quite likely that plans may be considered for stationing troops along various routes to Sian-Foo, to head off future tribute bearers, should no headway be made with peace plans in the coming cold season.

Evidence is but feeble that pressure from within the empire is likely to bear upon the situation. The Empress feels equal to the management of affairs, and one of her subjects who would presume with advice counter to her inclinations would do so at such risk to himself that she will hardly hear much that she does not wish to hear. So long as supplies reach her regularly and in sufficient amount, she may feel that she has the whip hand. This view is now appealing with force to the allies. They may not try to give effect to measures which manifestly would bring her to terms just yet, because the remedy would be about as heroic for those administering it as for the receiver, but it may be held in reserve to be tried when other things fail.

ATTITUDE OF THE PEOPLE.

It has been suggested at some of the diplomatic conferences that in a country in which there was general diffusion of news, conditions like the present ones could not exist. South Africa may lack full news reports, but the people there probably keep fair track of what happens and continue the work of resistence, although they have lost their capital and their ruler is a refugee in another land. It is probably true that such of the Chinese people as are not ignorant of the existing trouble are most atrociously misinformed about it. Yet the Chinese attitude bears some analogy to that of the Boers, in that the belief is very deeply planted that the foreign purpose is to possess this land and to make the natives a subject race. As China has at least age in her favor, and has managed for centuries to get along to her own satisfaction without foreign aid or alliance, there seems no reason to the native mind why that condition should be changed.

The people never hear of the fine pleas on behalf of so-called civilization. If they did it would be a word conveying no meaning, except as it might threaten radical interference with time-honored customs. They simply wish to be let alone, and that every one not of their race shall clear out of the empire and stay out. The Chinese are keen traders. Perhaps no race has a stronger commercial instinct. There is no dissent from this proposition, although opinions vary as to their limitations. Yet in the face of the business which foreigners have brought to China, of the enlarged market thereby provided for Chinese products, of the wealth many Chinese have been able to accumulate through foreign trade, and of the knowledge that the land is capable of infinite development, which native ingenuity nor industry can bring about unaided, they wish the foreigners to go.

That is to say, the class which rules and controls the masses so wishes. The masses bend to the official wind. They think that the Mandarins are all wise as well as all powerful, and that whatever they say must be right. When officials in a given quarter become too offensive there is a rebellion, but that is merely an incident which affects not at all the common impulse to follow official guidance and to look to this class as natural leaders. The diplomats realize that they do not need to aim low in this work. They must fire well up, and the higher they hit the better will be the result. There is no way of reaching the masses except through a converted official class, and that can be accomplished only by turning out those who are in putting in those who profess sympathy with a liberal policy and appointing foreign overseers to watch them in order that habit may not overcome principle. No one knows the foreign mind on this subject better than the Empress, and she is shaping her course accordingly.

FOREIGN TROOPS' SAVAGERY.

It may be doubted whether, if the Empress were disposed to let her people know exactly what has happened in the last few months, the cause of the foreigners would be helped in China. The troops in active service have certainly been doing what they could to leave a lasting impression on the native mind. Besides doing work, the legitimacy of which no one would question, they have destroyed unresisting settlements, have attacked non-combatants; no woman has been safe in the hands of some of them, and they have looted in all directions. In the opinion of many, they have demonstrated that this is not a war upon China, but a double-distilled essence of savagery. The aim of some of them seems to have been, unconsciously no doubt, to present a spectacle of the varying thickness of the veneer civilization puts on people.

There is less variation than might be supposed, and a savage with his crust off seems to be moved by no purpose so strong as to make up for the time lost when it fettered him. If the Mandarins were to preach philosophy to the masses on this proposition they would probably make an impression quite as hostile as that now existing. But officialdom is on record with proclamations of Chinese victories, and it can hardly be the means of bringing out the truth. That must percolate through the empire by the slow process of various dialects. It is only certain now that the territory which the troops have visited does not confine the story of their performances, and that wherever that story has gone it will be remembered.

FREDERICK W. EDDY.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN.

Even the very best-informed people have very erroneous impressions about the matter of savings bany deposits. There seems a common belief that after a space of years the accounts of depositors are closed and the money either turned into the surplus account of the bank or used for building or other purposes. This is a very grave mistake. Savings bank deposits never become outlawed by time. While they lie dormant so far as drawing interest is concerned after twenty-two years, they are still carried on the books as live accounts, and the original depositors or their heirs can always get the money on proof of ownership. As a matter of fact, the system pursued by the banks is so thorough in searching out owners of old accounts that the sums standing to the credit of dormant accounts is merely nominal when compared with the live deposits. Yet there is generally a stir about them in the Legislature yearly, some of the lawyers in that body believing that there is an abundance of pickings to be had if the law could be changed so that the attorneys could get at the names of the owners of these dormant accounts. The theory seems to be that here is an unworked mine that would be as valuable to the lawyers as is the pension business if they could only get at the vein to work it. But no lawyer would waste the time and could not afford to spend the money necessary to get at the owners of these dormant accounts. It wouldn't pay the lawyers. The banks could not afford the work if it was not done by their regular employes in the odd moments these have in the intervals between writing up their books and figuring up their interest accounts.

***

There is a cigar store on Columbus Avenue whose owner must have been annoyed in the past with inquiries for all sorts of queer things in his establishment, for there is now displayed in his show window a huge sign that reads: "No soap, whisky, clothing, paregoric, or hair oil sold here."

***

Nearly across the way from this store there is a market whose proprietor is a trifle weak on spelling, though he may be strong as a caterer. Two signs, evidently the work of an amateur, announced that the searcher for good things to eat could find "Scrapl" and "Calfs brains" in that particular shop.

***

Speaking about signs, there is one on a boathouse at the foot of Riverside Park, in the vicinity of One Hundred and Tenth Street, that not only serves to remind one of the days when we were all crazy over Admiral Dewey, but also shows how the Queen's English may be misapplied. It reads: "Boats to the man-of-wars."

***

These tightly fitting veils that women wear nowadays have converted all womankind into a race of pouters. Just notice a woman when she is arranging her veil, and see her pout her lips in an apparent attempt to assist her hands in the process. It is, in fact, no uncommon thing to see a woman draw down her veil by grasping it between her lips. Thus she hauls it down into a comfortable position without the use of her hands in the process.

***

Burton Mansfield of Milwaukee says the thing that struck him as most novel in a recent visit to the City of Mexico was the prevalence of American college slang. Many Mexicans have been educated of late in the Northern schools and colleges, and they carry back to their homes phrases that seem very strange injected into the soft and rich native tongue. Even the girls have taken it up, and they chatter now with a freedom that would have been frowned upon most severely by their duennas a half dozen years ago. "Mexican girls, while they are girls, are charming," he says, "and are becoming more Americanized every week they live. They go out in society to a much greater extent than ever before, which is a result of their associations in the North. They have even begun to appear in the business houses of the old city as typewriters and secretaries, and have assumed an independence that none would have thought possible a decade ago. There is less of the prison life they had to lead then, and meetings with the young men who are paying court to them are not now the dull and prosy household affairs that formerly made courtship more of a family debate than a season of lovemaking."

***

They are not now exactly a novelty, for they have been made in small numbers for several years. But their use has not been so general until this Winter. These are the two-fingered gloves or mittens for men who drive. They come in coarse materials for the truckman and are made of the finest skins for the men who drives his horse on the Speedway. These contrivances have a separate thumb as on all other mittens, and there is in addition a loose finger in which the index finger and the hand is thrust. With both the thumb and the forefinger free a man can handle the lines over his horse to almost as much advantage as he could if his hands were without any covering. Shipping clerks and men whose work is out of doors during these cold days are using the mittens that were intended for drivers when they were first constructed. With them it is much easier to handle a book and pencil.

***

"One of the incidental expenses of running a hotel that few people ever think of or know about, for that matter," said the clerk at one of the largest of the Broadway establishments, "is the cost of unstamped letters that are thoughtlessly mailed by our patrons. A majority of them are addressed in handwriting that is distinctly feminine. When the letters are collected these are turned over to us by the carrier, and we stamp them and see that they are forwarded. Many of these are letters of patrons whose handwriting we know and whom it would not do for us to offend by turning them back to their writers for postage. Others are, I fear, mailed by persons who know the custom at hotels and who take advantage of it to save the pennies required for postage. It is impossible for us to make a charge for the postage even when we know who mails the letter. That would make the guest an everlasting enemy of the house. The tales they would tell of the 'meanness' of our hotel would cost more than the postage bill for the year, amounts to, perhaps. But it is the only way in which we can prevent letters being sent to the Dead Letter Office. That might entail serious trouble and possible loss to the guest, who perhaps thoughtlessly mailed a letter without a stamp while talking about some other matter with a friend. So, too, we have short postage to pay on many letters received, for which we never receive a penny in return. But all these little things have to be taken into consideration when rates are made for our patrons, and I reckon that as a rule we come out about even on the whole."

***

His friend was but recently returned from Paris, and brought with him a number of the latest of the French publications. He had read them on the way across. Such as were in presentable condition he offered to his visitor, whose wife had been educated in Paris. She, he thought, would be glad to get the latest of the French novels, and as he was a lover of the best of the Gallic literature, was glad to give his friend's wife an opportunity to enjoy them also. "By the way," he added, "here is a bundle of the latest Paris papers and periodicals that some one has sent me and that I haven't yet had time to open. I shall be so busy for a couple of weeks catching up with business that I shan't have a chance to look at them; better take them along with you with my compliments to Mrs. G." So the visitor took the unbroken package of periodicals and the books home to his apartment and turned them over to the Madame. Not being an expert at translating French, he hadn't taken the trouble to look them over. But after he had gone to business the next morning the good wife made an examination of her presents. When the husband came to dinner that night there was a rather peculiar look on his wife's face when he asked her if she had looked at the books and papers his friend had sent her. Oh, yes, she had.

"Was the bunch good for anything?"

"Well, yes," and then, with a laugh, "Had Jack looked at the papers before he gave them to you?"

"No; said he was too busy."

"I thought so. It was a rather miscellaneous bundle, and I suppose it was all right to send to a man. But you had better tell your friend Jack not to be too indiscriminate with his favors. One of the papers was evidently not intended for the drawing room or for a young girls' seminary. It was plainly meant for circulation among the grisettes of the Quartier Latin rather than in the world of the grande dames."

There would seem to be a little moral to this fandiant, something like a Dent-de-tribute unopened, perhaps, or Parisian literature translated among your married friends."

INAUGURATION FEATURES

Stands at Washington to be Operated by Committee.

SANTIAGO BATTLE ON CANVAS

A New Painting in Admiral Hichborn's Office—Plan to Raise the Vice President's Pay.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Chairman John Joy Edson is determined, if good management and unusual enterprise on the part of an Inauguration Committee can overcome some unfavorable natural circumstances, to make the inauguration of President McKinley in 1901 as popular a success as it was in 1897. Some reflected opinion was given last week to the effect that the lack of novelty in the proceeding, the lack of expectancy and of prospect on the part of office-seekers, would detract somewhat from the spirit of the 4th of March ceremonies. That is admitted by the managers of McKinley's second inauguration to be true, but it is believed to be possible to replace the hordes of office-seekers by other throngs of persons who will be satisfied to come here and look at the festival offered to them, patronize the street stands and, to some extent, the ball, and indulge in such enthusiasm as they may be moved to express.

To draw people the "features" of the inauguration are to be strengthened, and one of the mooted improvements is to be the conduct of the street stands by the Inaugural Committee. Heretofore it has been customary to dispose of the stand privileges to such as would bid for them. The purchasers of the concessions sold the seats at such prices as they chose, and pocketed the income, after paying for the stands, which they were obliged to build. Now it is suggested that the Inaugural Committee on Stands build the structures according to a plan to be decided upon, to sell seats at fixed prices, probably lower than those charged by the speculators, and to pocket the profits or the losses.

At moderate prices for seats, and with anything but wet weather, the sales would swell the guarantee fund, out of which expenses are paid, and help to make it possible to return every penny contributed to that fund and have a comfortable surplus besides to distribute among the charities of Washington, which have benefited on many inauguration occasions by the distribution of such surplus. The prosperity of Washington has made the people liberal in their contributions to the inauguration guarantee funds, and the shopkeepers of Washington now lend their encouragement to the inauguration of a President with greater cheerfulness than ever, since they have long ceased to regard a change of Presidents as a menace to their business. Formerly, prior to the establishment of the civil service law and rules, a new Administration was looked forward to by shopkeepers with clerks as creditors as a very serious period to be met and survived.

Plans have not been fully made for the conversion of the Pension Office into a ball and concert room, but the permission to use that great structure has been gained and the scheme for decorating it must be provided. Four years ago it was very beautifully treated, the main feature being the employment of thousands of yards of cotton cloth suspended and stretched beneath the roof and against the walls so as to give the interior the appearance of a vast fluffy tent, in white and yellow. Liberal use of electricity and of flowers filled out the main design effectively, and not a suggestion was left of the solidity of material of which the bureau is constructed.

The Pension Office is supposed to be a fireproof building. Indeed, that is the only characteristic of it regretted by the late Gen. Sheridan, who detested its architectural ugliness. After the thousands had attended the ball and the concerts given on several succeeding days, and stories had been told of the crushes at the doors on several occasions, the late Uriah H. Painter directed attention to the fact that the managers of the inauguration had invited a worse calamity than that which had but a short time before horrified the world. It was but a few months after the Charity Bazaar fire in Paris. Mr. Painter, who had a great dread of fires in public places, said he had watched with constant apprehension the fluffy masses of cloth suspended below the roof and above the heads of the dancers and promenaders. "A spark, the very smallest point of ignition of that flimsy cotton material, would have been followed by a blaze that would have consumed the whole scheme of decoration in an instant. It would have been to no purpose," said Mr. Painter, "that the building was fireproof. The burning and falling masses of cotton would have driven the crowd below into a panic at the same time that it communicated some dreadful wounds. In the attempt to get out of the four exits many would have been trampled to death. Before the 100,000 yards of decorating material were dropped in brands from the ceiling and walls to the ballroom, there would have been thousands of dead upon the tiled floor." He considered the decorative scheme of 1897 almost a crime.

***

Rear Admiral Hichborn, Chief Constructor of the Navy Department, has decorated his office with an extremely interesting historical picture. On a canvas eight feet in length by three in width, occupying the space between two doors at the north side of the room, is a representation in oil painting of the most critical moment in the battle off Santiago on July 3, 1898, between the vessels of the United States and of Spain. The point of view of the painter is well off-shore, somewhat to the westward of that point in the chase when the Colon was about to pass to the front of the retreat and leave her consorts to the fate that had almost overtaken them. The hour is about 10:30.

Occupying the most conspicuous position on the canvas, very near the centre of it, is the Brooklyn, plunging along through a sea plowed thickly with the dropping of projectiles from Spanish guns. Just behind the Brooklyn, and a little more inshore, the Oregon comes tearing along, and beyond the Oregon the other vessels that were actually engaged in the fight. Under the Cuban hills, close in shore, are seen the smoking wrecks of the Spanish torpedo-boat destroyers, and the cruisers Maria Teresa and Oquendo sending up columns of smoke into the Summer sky. The Vizcaya has not yet taken to the beach, and the Colon is distinguished by the fact that her guns emit flashes only instead of the brown smoke accompanying the discharges from the guns of the Vizcaya, which was not fully supplied with smokeless powder ammunition.

The spectacle is a brilliant one, and the painter has imparted a decided feeling of action to his work. The positions were all studied from the report of the board of officers who charted the contest for Rear Admiral Sampson, and the color effects were corrected in some particulars at the suggestion of officers who were present, and who retained clear impressions of the appearance of the sea, sky, and air, and of such details as the spattering of the water with projectiles. The representation of the cruiser Brooklyn is a superb one, and is likely to be accepted as the most important exhibition of the vessel that most distinguished itself in the war with Spain.

***

Conversation about this picture and the series of smaller paintings in the same room to illustrate the development of marine architecture since the beginning of this Nation, all provided by Rear Admiral Hichborn as permanent adornments of the Construction Bureau, led to some discussion about the marksmanship of the gunners of the United States Navy in the Santiago and Manila contests in 1898. While the reports of both contests inform readers of history that a great deal of ammunition was expended and much damage done, there has never been anything like a naval bout of the skill of our marksmen in either battle.

Some recent trials in the British and French Navies, to ascertain the proficiency of gunners with both great and small guns, developed the ability of the handlers of these arms to make about 40 to 60 per cent. of hits at fixed and moving targets. There do not appear to be any figures according to which to make a calculation of the efficiency, according to marks of the gunners of Admiral Dewey. The Santiago fleet of vessels in action discharged in all something less than 10,000 projectiles of all kinds at Cervera's squadron. According to Rear Admiral Sampson's report quoted formerly, reported hits of the Spanish ships were hit by 400 projectiles. Liberally speaking, this was "about" 5 per cent.

In all 9,000 to 9,500 of the projectiles hurled at the Spanish cruisers, including all the thirteen-inch shells, seem to have gone to the bottom of the Caribbean Sea, to do no further damage. The Brooklyn wasted her share of shells, but the record shows that she marked every one of the Spanish cruisers, which cannot be said of any other vessel in the squadron; that all of the five-inch shells were hers, and that all the four-inch marks were made by the Iowa, which carries off a good record of skill in marksmanship. The lack of boastfulness in the navy about the accuracy of United States gunners has been suggested by army men who have looked at this record and who have heard of the proficiency of the British and French gunners when not in action.

***

The unhappy fate that followed those members of a former Congress who voted for an advance in their own salaries has long served to prevent another proposition for an increase of the pay of Senators and Representatives in Congress, but it is not likely to long postpone the approval of such a bill as that on the files as having been introduced by Mr. Loudenslager of New Jersey, to increase the pay of the Vice President from $8,000 to $25,000 and that of members of the Cabinet from $8,000 to $15,000. To many conservative persons the propositions seem reasonable.

A Vice President might, without deserved reproach, live within his salary, and possibly save half of it, and a Cabinet officer with a small and economical family might get along here four years without being out of pocket. But there have been Vice Presidents who have had large fortunes, and they have lived in mansions and in a style more showy and expensive than that worn by any President in thirty years, at least. The purse set by these wealthy and liberal office holders could not be reproduced by a Vice President on a salary of $25,000, but that salary would enable the occupant of the office to live in a style becoming the dignity of the position.

The pay of Cabinet officers is now so small that it is the belief of all observers of experience that poor men can only accept such places with the expectation of undergoing more or less distress to keep up with the procession and yet come out whole. A Cabinet officer cannot avoid all functions; most functions are attended by expense; some of them are tiresome as well as expensive, and a large proportion of them are observed in obedience to a public expectation which the officers may feel unable to disregard.

E. G. D.

POLISH NOBLE IN JAIL.

Servant Girls Accuse the Suave Foreigner of Swindling Them Out of Their Wages.

Ewaysert von Rouer, who admits being a Polish nobleman, but who is slightly out at the elbows at present, was a prisoner in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday morning, charged with swindling. The Count, whom wide experience and vicissitudes have not robbed of his debonair carriage, was confronted at the bar by three pretty servant maids, all of whom accused the nobleman of robbing them of their hard-earned wages. The detectives of the Fifth Street Station said that there were a score more of complainants to come. The complainants present in court were Valentina Stawowcik of 169 Suffolk Street, who says von Rouer got $400 of her money; Katraina Asut of 220 Second Street, who lost $125, and Josefa Zamolek of 220 Second Street, who said she was swindled out of $25. All were tearful and determined looking.

The detectives told Magistrate Olmsted that von Rouer, whose ancient and noble lineage they doubt, came to this city a year ago. He was well dressed and frequented the Hungarian, Polish, and Bohemian cafés, where, being an accomplished linguist and a man of great politeness and education, besides being suspected of being a nobleman, he made a good impression. Among those especially taken with him was Joseph Haboray, the proprietor of an intelligence office at 222 Third Street. The nobleman frequented Haboray's studio and made a large acquaintance among the serving maids there. He became deeply interested in their financial welfare, so much so, in fact, that he confided to them that he had a patent of a technical nature which he was about to file in Washington. He was about to form a company to put this wonderful device on the market. He could get the money from rich financiers, but he wanted the poor women to share the riches. The girls fairly fell over each other to give him money, the amounts ranging from $10 to $400.

Then they waited patiently for the time to come when they would put on silks and satins and have servants of their own.

Last July von Rouer left suddenly for Europe. Nobody thought he would ever return. The girls whom he had duped had cried through their season of bitter disappointment, and were forgetting their misfortunes when last Saturday one of the girls unexpectedly ran across the great philanthropist on the east side. She told the police about it and detectives found the nobleman in a small hall bedroom on Eldridge Street. He was in straitened circumstances. His patent had not "panned out."

In the Yorkville Court he could not think of anything to say, and was held in $1,000 for examination to-morrow.

Boy Shot in Struggle for a Gun.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Dec. 29.—Edward Hammel, the six-year-old son of Henry Hammel of Clairville, a village a few miles from this place, was probably fatally injured at his home to-day with a shotgun which his brother Oscar, nine years old, was trying to take away from him. The younger boy got hold of the gun, and the elder one, fearing that he might be shot, attempted to take it from him. In doing so the gun was discharged. The shot entered Eddie's body, tearing away the intestines in his back and lodging in his kidneys.

FURS.

A card from

C. C. SHAYNE.

Owing to the splendid trade which I enjoyed last season and anticipating an increased business this season I made extensive preparations. I purchased largely of fur skins, re-engaged my old experienced and many new skilled workmen, who were continuously employed during the Summer.

On the first of September I had one of the largest and most complete stocks of reliable manufactured furs in the world. But owing to the terrible condition of 42d Street, caused by the delay of the railroad company's contractors to complete the work which they had undertaken, business was virtually suspended during September and October except orders received by mail and from customers who were compelled to walk to the store. Carriages were unable to reach it.

I suffered a great loss, but having engaged my workmen I continued to manufacture right along and anticipated a large trade in November.

We only had one week of cold weather in November, and that was a busy one, and while December was one of the most prosperous in the history of my business it did not make up for the loss of the three previous months.

The holidays are over, and I find myself largely overstocked with

Russian and Hudson Bay Sable,
Seal, Mink, Otter, Ermine,
Chinchilla, Marten, Fox, Lynx, Etc.

Over $260,000 worth of manufactured furs.

Owing to the expense of carrying them over to another season, which would amount to about $25,000, I have decided to sell at the following very low prices:

SEALSKIN COATS—$50 less than former prices.
JACKETS—$25 less.
RUSSIAN and HUDSON BAY SABLES—Average 20% reduction.
MINK—15% discount.
PERSIAN LAMB—10% discount.
MARTEN, CHINCHILLA, SKUNK, ERMINE AND FOX—15 to 20% reduction.

$50 on a reliable Sealskin Coat or a set of Furs is a very great saving.

Men's fur-lined Overcoats and Sleigh Robes marked way down.

Note.—I do not sell blended or darkened Russian or Hudson Bay Sables or Mink. Parties who have purchased them elsewhere complain of their mottled, shabby appearance after being worn. I only handle the genuine Alaska Sealskin, London dyed, and Persian Lamb. (Leipzig dyed.)

All natural furs sold by me are thoroughly cured and dressed. They hold their color and are less liable to moth than articles made from improperly dressed skins. I do not sell the low-priced imitations or undesirable goods. I would rather lose a sale than sell an article which does not give satisfaction. I announced early in the season that I expected to organize a stock company in February for the purpose of perpetuating my name and business; but I want to organize on a strictly cash basis instead of having a lot of furs to turn over to stockholders. If I do not sell my manufactured stock this season I will defer incorporating to a more opportune time.

I want to sell, and intending purchasers should take advantage of this opportunity.

If garments in stock do not fit they will be altered without extra charge.

C. C. SHAYNE,
MANUFACTURING FUR MERCHANT,
42d St., bet. Broadway and 6th Ave.

42d Street is now in first-class condition for all traffic.

HOW TO TREAT HOUSE PLANTS.—Beautiful book of above by mail, 10 cts. EVERGREEN GARDENS, Nutley, N. J.

GAY CHRISTMAS IN CHICAGO

Cotillions and Dinners Keep the Fashionable World Busy.

CITY HARRASSED BY THE GRIP

Dry

INDIA THREATENED BY ANOTHER SMALL WAR

Raids by the Waziri Tribesmen Lead to a British Ultimatum.

TO BLOCKADE THE TERRITORY

Serious Deficiencies in the Country's Armaments Owing to the March of Invention.

Foreign Correspondence NEW YORK TIMES.

SIMLA, Nov. 29. — We are wondering whether we are to have on our hands another of those small wars which, ever since the occupation of the Punjab, more than fifty years ago, have succeeded each other with such bewildering frequency.

If one takes up the map of India and glances at the extreme north of British territory there will be found somewhere about latitude 34 and longitude 74 the large military station of Rawalpindi, the great place d'armes of Northern India, the spot from which all military operations, whether merely against frontier tribes or a more formidable enemy, are and will be directed.

Quite close to Rawalpindi, on the north, is the country of Kashmir, a country which is to all intents and purposes British, whose people are quiet and harmless, and with regard to whose frontier no anxiety whatever exists. Following the frontier line westward we come to the British territory of Hazara, lying on the left bank of the Indus as it debouches from the mountains. Here we at once encounter men of a more sturdy and turbulent type than the inhabitants of Kashmir. The garrison of Abbottabad, a couple of Ghurka regiments and a mountain battery, is maintained for the purpose of overawing the troublesome men of the Black Mountain country immediately to the north, into whose territory we have been compelled to make no less than three expeditions within the last dozen years. Crossing the Indus we at once come on the frontier proper.

The first tribe met with on the right bank of that river is the Buner wals, men of a comparatively quiet disposition, but brave and independent. In 1863 we had a hard tussle with this tribe, and it was not until 1897-98 that we really penetrated into their country. The Buner wals, however, are for the most part busy traders, who give little trouble to our officials so long as they are left alone. Raids from across their border are comparatively unknown. Passing westward we come to the Swat and Bajaur country. It was through this region in 1895 that our troops had to force a passage in order to effect the relief of Chitral, lying to the north, and which had previously been reached by the roundabout way of Kashmir. Since that year we have maintained possession of the important Malakand Pass position and certain other outposts. It was our retention of these which gave rise in the Summer of 1897 to the furious fanatical outbreak which led to the severe fighting around the Malakand and beyond. At any moment this flame of fanaticism might again be lighted, so our troops in that part of the frontier are always on a war footing, ready for instant action.

To the west of this again, and to the north of Peshawar, comes the Mohmand country, whose tribesmen in August, 1897, descended on our territory and fought with our troops at Shabkadr. Moving now slightly southward we come to the Khyber Pass, most celebrated of mountain gorges, in which at various times rivers of blood have flowed. All this part of the frontier is inhabited by the great Afridi tribe, men of a brave and warlike nature, many thousands being in our own service. The Afridis joined in the great outbreak of 1897, chiefly on account of the weakness and vacillation displayed by our frontier authorities at the time. They were punished by our expedition into their mountain fastnesses of Tirah, a country which they had boasted had never yet and never would be invaded by an enemy. Southward of the Afridis come the Orakzais, who likewise joined and likewise suffered in the warfare of three years ago. All these tribes are now quiet, and, with the exception of the Swat country, no trouble on all this line of frontier is likely to arise so far as can be foreseen.

SCENE OF THE TROUBLE.

It is our frontier still further to the south which is at the present causing anxiety. The Kurram Valley, in which we maintain a garrison, juts westward into Afghan territory. To the south of this valley there is the Afghan country of Khost. Immediately to the south of that again lies Waziristan, the scene of all the present trouble. Waziristan is bounded on the north by the Tochi River, along which we have had our garrisons since 1895, and on the south by the Gomul River, which we have also occupied for some years. Both these rivers flow eastward to the Indus from the Afghan district of Ghuzni. Six years ago when our survey parties were demarkating the border between India and Afghanistan in pursuance of the agreement between Sir Mortimer Durand and the Amir of Kabul, our camp was attacked at Wana, in southern Waziristan, by a body of fanatics 2,000 strong, who were only repelled after desperate hand-to-hand fighting and heavy loss.

Then followed an expedition in the Winter of 1894-95 under the late Sir William Lockhart into the heart of Waziristan. But that expedition did not succeed in achieving much. The tactics of the tribesmen, indeed, resembled those of the Boers in the present war. Aware that it was hopeless to expect to defeat our forces in regular battle, they contented themselves in harassing our line of advance, in cutting the communications, waylaying convoys, "sniping" our columns from a distance; in short, all the wearisome features of guerrilla warfare which obtain at this moment in South Africa. It was as a result of the expedition that we occupied the line of the Tochi Valley to the north. In 1897 a body of our troops was treacherously assaulted in that valley, at Malzar, but the punitive column which followed failed to inflict any real punishment on the tribes, who, indeed, made themselves scarce and avoided actual contact with our forces.

The Waziris did not join in the great conflagration which spread with so alarming a speed all along the northwestern frontier in 1897, but they have more than made up for it since by giving about ten times as much trouble as all the rest of the frontier tribes put together. For the last two or three years they have been unceasing in their raids into British territory, killing, maiming, stealing, carrying off women and cattle, and otherwise making themselves a veritable scourge on every possible occasion. They waylay travelers, hold up the mails, attack our convoys, harass our posts, raid cattle, and ambush caravans. This state of things has gone on for a long time past, and the tribe has suffered no punishment whatever beyond the infliction of certain fines, which, as they are not paid, they care little about. More recently, however, the patience of the Government of India has been exhausted. The Waziris, elated by our apparent quiescence under every form of insult, have excelled all their own previous records in the way of outrage and murder. Almost daily stories of their misdeeds have reached the Government. Quite lately they raided our territory and shot an officer.

FIRE OR BLOCKADE.

In consequence of the long tale of accumulated outrage against them the Government, averse as it is to fresh frontier complications at a time like the present, was compelled at last to take action. Accordingly, the head men of the tribe were recently summoned to meet the Frontier Commissioner, who informed the assembly that unless a fine of a lakh of rupees—about $32,000—was paid up before the end of November a blockade of their territory would immediately be put in force. The tribe was given a fortnight to deliberate as to whether they would pay or not, and there, for the moment, the matter rests.

The fine inflicted, which would be trifling for an Indian district of the same size as the Waziri country, is a heavy one for these tribesmen, whose wealth is small, and there may be great difficulty in raising the money, though, if all give, it will be forthcoming easily enough. But the chances are that all will not give. There are many turbulent spirits who would prefer to stick to their money and risk the chances of a fight. It remains to be seen which party will prevail. A blockade is a most serious thing for any frontier tribe. The wealth of such tribes usually consists of their flocks and herds. There is comparatively speaking but little cultivation. Consequently the tribesman comes to British India to barter his own products for such things as grain, salt, hardware, and piece goods. All such traffic, unless the fine be paid within the next two days, will necessarily cease. A cordon of troops will be drawn practically all round Waziristan, and no tribesman will be allowed to pass this. Thus the Waziris will not only lose any profits which might accrue to them from the sale of their own produce, but they will also be put to great straits in the matter of some of the necessaries of life. So that it is by no means unlikely that, driven to desperation, some of the more turbulent spirits may attack the cordon which will shortly be formed round their country.

The first shot fired on the Indian border in a petty fracas has frequently been the torch which has set a large section of the frontier ablaze, and so it may prove in the present instance. Some authorities, indeed, are of opinion that an expedition into the Waziri country is in any case inevitable, and are of opinion that it would be better not to waste time and harass our troops with such things as blockades, but to enter the tribal country at once, and compel them by force to be of good behavior in the future. There is much force in these arguments, but they are not those of the Government of India. Lord Curzon is anxious to try all measures before resorting to an armed expedition. If such an expedition did finally become necessary, there is no doubt that it would be a much more thorough affair than the usual military promenade through the tribal country. There would be in this case occupation, if not permanent at least for a year or two, of the salient points of Waziristan. The tribesmen would be thoroughly disarmed and have their teeth drawn. Long experience has at length taught Indian administrators that it is useless merely marching through tribal territory. The clans after dispersing before our columns merely collect on our flank and rear, and, when we have finally left their country they all believe that we have done so because we are afraid of stopping in it. Thus, after a year or so, they grow bolder than ever, and the same wearisome round of raids, murders, expeditions, and reprisals begins all over again. Consequently, if it should be found necessary to change from merely passive to active measures for the coercion of the Waziris, it is certain that this time the job will be thoroughly done, and that the tribesmen will have reason to remember for many a long day to come that the Government, though patient and long suffering to a fault, is capable of coming down with a heavy hand on occasion.

ARMAMENTS DEFICIENT.

I have more than once alluded to the agitation in the Indian press regarding the deficiencies in the armaments of the country. There is no doubt that they have been allowed to get somewhat behindhand, judged by modern standards. So rapid is the march of invention, comparatively modern armaments becoming obsolete in the space of a few years, and so immense are the increases made in the armies of the Continental powers that India, with Russia close to the northwest frontier and France close to that of Burmah, cannot afford to stand still. It has recently been computed by the Government of India that to put the defenses of India in a thoroughly satisfactory state would involve the immediate expenditure of an enormous sum, a sum probably equal to a whole year's revenue. Every cent which can be got hold of is really required for the improvement of the country, for the construction of railways, the extension of irrigation, and similar schemes.

Yet in India of all countries it is essential that there should be enormous confidence in the ability of the Government to successfully resist foreign aggression. It must never be forgotten that there is not one Indian people; there are fifty nations and a hundred tongues within this peninsula. Should there be the slightest symptom of impending dissolution on the part of the existing régime, dissolution provoked by foreign aggression, it is certain that a frightful state of anarchy would result, such as, indeed, has occurred more than once before in India's history when the predominant power has crumbled to pieces. Consequently it is necessary for India to be strong, and to impress not only her inhabitants but also her neighbors with a proper appreciation of her strength. This being so, it is probable that the next budget will show a large increase in military expenditure, lamentable though that may be in a fiscal sense and having regard to the other needs of the country.

A BROOKLYNITE'S CHRISTMAS.

His Intelligent Cat Gave Him a Genuine Surprise for a Present.

This is a story of a Brooklyn man and his Christmas present. The present was a genuine surprise. This is unusual, for the Brooklyn man, like any average man, can tell his presents in advance, and could pass a pretty fair examination upon them and without any unfair investigations on his part. There would be sure to be handkerchiefs, a scarf or two, possibly a bathrobe, surely a smoking set, or at least a pipe—but it is not necessary to enumerate; any man in Brooklyn or out of it could run through the list backward. It all goes to make the surprise present doubly unique.

The Brooklyn man has a cat. He is particularly fond of cats, and this animal is a marvel. It is not only the handsomest cat in Brooklyn, but is wonderfully affectionate, spirited, possesses a marked degree of intelligence, and all the other virtues that any lover of animals knows are the special qualifications of his own particular pet.

Puss was the Kris Kringle in this instance, and he brought his offerings, after the manner of the regular Kris, at the dead of night.

It was the night before Christmas, when, according to the children's legend, there is not a creature stirring, not even a mouse. This story illustrates the poetic license taken by the author of that particular legend. At any rate, a certain Brooklyn mouse—peace to his remains—was stirring, and so was the Brooklyn man's affectionate, spirited, intelligent, &c., cat. The result was, as might have been expected, though the features of any battle that may have taken place are only surmised.

The first that the Brooklyn man knew of it was when, all of a sudden, he was aroused by such a clatter that he opened his eyes to see what was the matter. The clatter was not on the roof, but on the floor at the side of his bed, where his slippers were left the night before. One of them was apparently chasing itself around the room at a rapid rate in a way that gave promise of something interesting to a man with a turn for psychological investigation. It may not have been that so much as that he was sleepy, and sleep was impossible with the gyrations of that slipper, so the Brooklyn man hopped out of bed, thanking his lucky stars that this was a green Christmas as his bare feet struck the floor and found it warm, and started for the slipper.

It was not a spirit chasing that slipper; it was the Brooklyn man's clever, affectionate, &c., cat. The Brooklyn man is really fond of cats, so instead of indulging in language that would have been inappropriate on a Christmas morning, he picked up the cat and held it in his arms, remarking to it, after the fashion of cat lovers, that it was affectionate, clever, &c. But the cat was not in a mood for affection. It struggled vigorously to get away, and the man put it down. It is a trick the cat has to take its playthings and put them into shoes or slippers for the fun of fishing them out again. It also, in the absence of a plaything, delights in pulling out fuzzy linings of slippers, and it occurred to the Brooklyn man that the cat in this instance might be engaged in an amusement of this kind. He put his hand in the slipper to see. The lining was all right, but the Brooklyn man removed his hand very quickly, for there was no doubt that the warm, furry ball that his fingers touched was a mouse, and possibly not even a dead one.

The man says he did not say a word, but the women of the family listen to that part of the story with raised eyebrows. However, the mouse was certainly there, and the Brooklyn man asserts that the cat showed all the traits he has always believed it possesses by putting the mouse in the nearest approach to his stocking it could get hold of on the night before Christmas.

That is the end of the story proper, but for the people who like to know what happens on the other side of the last cover of a book, it may be stated that the mouse did not remain for the distribution of Christmas presents in the morning. This is not an implication upon the cat's good intentions to his master, the Brooklyn man says. There is a story that has been going the rounds of the funny paragraphs recently of a little girl who, being away from her mamma, bought some candy to take home to her. She told her of this as soon as she reached the house. "But where is the candy?" asked the mamma. "There isn't any," said the child, "for the way was so long that it didn't last." That was the way with the Christmas night; it was so long that the mouse did not last, and in the morning, in an adjoining small room dedicated to the uses of the cat, the Brooklyn man found a small gray head, all that remained of his Christmas present.

The Old Guard Ball.

At the Old Guard Ball to be held in the Metropolitan Opera House on Jan. 24, 1901, Major S. Ellis Briggs will receive Governor Odell and his staff, the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston, eight Governors of States and other distinguished guests. No tickets will be sold for the ball this year, admission being entirely by invitation.

THE HEAVENS IN JANUARY

Brilliant Display of Stars While Orion Pursues the Bull.

Uranus's Revolution About the Sun—Saturn the God of the Populists—Venus Rises Early.

Although the astronomical events for the first month of the new century will be as many and as attractive as those of the same month in average years, in one field, at least, of this science favors will be less lavishly bestowed than has been the case in many former years.

There will be but three eclipses in 1901, two of the sun and one of the moon. In addition, there will be a lunar appulse, which will take place early in May. At this time the nearest approach of the moon to the earth's shadow will be about 1:30:08 P. M. At this time the moon will almost, but not quite, enter the earth's shadow, so that there will be no eclipse. None of these eclipses can be seen at Washington. The largest number that can take place in any year is seven, five being of the sun and two of the moon, and the smallest is two, both of which are of the moon.

On New Year's Day the sun rises about 7:15 and sets about 4:20 o'clock, making the length of day a little more than nine hours. The days are now adding to their length some four or five minutes, which will be increased some fifty minutes before the month closes. The sun's declination is still far down in the southern section of the heavens, but his speed is an accelerated one, being more than three times as rapid when February opens as it now is.

The first phase of the moon for the new year is that of the full which occurs on the 4th. The last quartering comes on the 12th, and the first new moon for the year we shall find on the 20th. On the 27th we have this moon at its first quartering. From this we see that last year's moon has to do us until the month is well along on its second half.

The phenomena in which moon and planets play a part begin on the 3d with a meeting between Mercury and Luna and close on the 30th with another similar meeting, the two heavenly bodies bring almost as near one another on the second occasion as they are on the first. Mars and the moon are at their closest for the month on the 9th, the meeting being a very distant one. On the 17th Uranus is in conjunction with our satellite, followed the succeeding day by Jupiter and a few hours later by Venus. Saturn's opportunity for meeting the moon comes quite late on the 18th, while Mercury has a somewhat distant interview on the 20th.

Although the planets may not prove quite as attractive this month as in former ones, we have the stars to interest us. This is because us to wonder how the ancients were ever able to see the figures whose names were given to the constellations that nowadays the most vivid imagination fails to reproduce. The beautiful twinklers will be found studding the sky most brilliantly throughout the night and until streaks of gray from the clouds, early messengers of approaching day.

No celestial picture that contained the glorious constellation of Orion could be lacking in beauty, and from twilight until dawn we can watch him sweeping majestically across the heavenly vault in pursuit of the Bull, to which he is destined never to get nearer. His belt of stars, burnished by frosty glitter, twinkle most brilliantly, his sword is daily studded with diamonds, while the brilliant stars that mark the dimensions of his body are in themselves quite worthy of attention.

Beyond Orion is the Charlotcer and the starry Gemini; a line from the North Star between the latter finds Procyon, while further south shines Sirius, the gem of all the stars, the most glorious twinkler of the heavens. Looking south we find the mighty river Eridanus occupying nearly the whole space between the equator and the southern horizon. This constellation is one of the most ancient of the star groups, while the Pleiades that is on the opposite side of the heavens is about the most interesting. The bright and ruddy star Aldebaran is in the eye of Taurus the Bull. This group is called the Hyades, from a Greek word signifying rain, the influence of these stars being considered showery. Besides the Gemini in the east, we have the Crab and the Lion. The Dipper is also prominent, with the end star in the handle so close to the horizon that it is difficult to find it. In the west we find the inconspicuous zodiacal constellation of the Pisces, before which is visible a part of Aquarius, and, above it, the Ram. Andromeda and Pegasus are, however, the leading constellations in the west, while more to the northward is Cassiopela, in which, with the aid of a telescope, hundreds and thousands of stars can be seen.

Neptune begins the planetary conjunctions, in which the moon also figures, by being quite close to the latter on the 3d. On the 30th there is a very similar meeting between these two heavenly bodies. The symbol of this planet is the trident, or spear with three points, which he used to shatter rocks, to call forth or subdue storms, to shake the shores, and the like. Very probably, in this more practical era, it is not found possible to draw his chariot over the sea, which, it is said, became smooth before him. At this season old Boreas has his innings, and no chariot could stand the ocean trip. Neptune is at present to be found in the constellation of the Twins. Just now the planet comes to our meridian shortly after 11 o'clock. There is, however, no use of running the risk of catching a bad cold by thrusting one's head out of the open window at this inclement season to try and ascertain the exact whereabouts of this planet, as we cannot make him out with unaided vision.

Mars and our satellite are in conjunction on the 9th, but the distance between the two is far too great for proper scenic effect. About 9 o'clock in the evening the planet rises, when we shall find him in the constellation of the Lion. Mars will rank among the morning stars until Washington's Birthday, when he will be in opposition with the sun, rising about the latter sets, and thereafter throughout the remainder of the year be classed among the evening stars. Just at present all four of the principal planets, Venus, Jupiter, Mars, and Saturn, are morning stars. Before July is over they will all four be evening stars, and will not again change until the year is finished. Mars's size is slowly increasing, and he will continue to get larger until he reaches the point of opposition, after which he shrinks to about half his present size, and will not be a very conspicuous body in the heavens.

Uranus, on the 17th, is in quite close proximity with the moon's fading crescent, and is numbered among the morning stars. On the 3d there will be a fairly close meeting between Venus and Uranus, which astronomers having strong aids to vision may be able to take interest in. This planet is moving slowly along to the point of conjunction with the sun, where it will arrive early in March, on its way toward opposition. To the ordinary observer Uranus does not present any very remarkable appearance, and would be passed over merely as a small star, notwithstanding the fact of its being a deal larger than mother earth. It required a Herschel, determined to see everything in the best manner, to grasp the discovery that what everybody took to be a star was really a planet. This delusion was by no means confined to amateur observers, for a number of astronomers who are in every way entitled to our respect, failed to make the correct distinction. This planet is now slowly approaching the half-way place in his second revolution about the sun since its discovery in 1781.

Mercury, having swung to the far western end of the arc, is now a morning star moving in toward the sun, with which it is in conjunction on the 21st. After this date the planet will become an evening star, in which galaxy it will continue to be classed until early in March. Mercury is frequently called the elusive planet, and this may possibly be due to the fact of his having invented the lyre. He found one day a tortoise. He took its shell, made holes in the opposite edges of it, and drew cords of linen through them, and the instrument was complete. He gave this lyre to Apollo and received in exchange the caduceus with which he is generally associated.

Saturn is a morning star until July 5, when he becomes an evening star for the remaining months of the year. On the 7th he and Mercury are in close relationship, being less than two degrees apart. On the 18th there is conjunction between the planet and the moon. On the 24th Saturn is almost blanketed by Venus, there being merely a third of a degree separating the two. Early risers who take an interest in these astronomical phenomena will find some two hours or less before dawn a very pretty picture in the eastern sky. The two planets will approach and seemingly touch one another, and then they will separate as Venus draws in toward the sun and Saturn proceeds on his way in the opposite direction. Saturn is the god of the Populists, his title to that somewhat questionable distinction arising from the feast of Saturnalia that was held every year in the Winter season in the days of the Golden Age. At this feast the slaves were indulged with great liberties, and they sat at table while their masters served them, to show the natural equality of man, and that all things belonged equally to all in the reign of Saturn.

Jupiter rises somewhere about 5 o'clock in the morning, peeping above the eastern rim of the horizon on the 19th at 5:10 A. M. On the 15th an extremely interesting interview is held between this planet and Venus, which we should not fail to see, but which unfortunately takes place when we are supposed to be sleeping most soundly. Perhaps the very large majority will prefer waiting until November, when these two great rivals will again be fairly close to one another, although by no means as near as upon this occasion. On the 18th Jupiter is in conjunction with the fading moon, that only at that time has four days to pass through before being forced to give place to the new moon. Jupiter is slowly increasing in size, and will continue so to do until the latter part of June finds him half as large again as he is at present.

Venus opens the year by rising early and maintaining her supremacy as Queen of the Twinklers. Her rival, Jupiter, is a very good second, and will continue to improve, whereas Venus is growing gradually smaller and beautifully less, which deterioration will continue until early in May, from which time she will increase in dimension and lustre. The fair Venus plays quite an important rôle this month, as she is in conjunction with Uranus, Jupiter, the moon, and Saturn. She passes the planets as they move out from the sun, her movements being in toward that body. The moon, however, overtakes her on the 18th, but passes at rather too great a distance to create much of a sensation. At the end of April Venus is in conjunction with the sun, and so we shall see but little of her from early April to late in May. However, after this long seclusion we shall have this fairest of all the beautiful heavenly bodies to feast our eyes upon throughout the Summer months.

IN FOREIGN LANDS.

THE LAST PHASE OF THE VENEZUELAN BOUNDARY DISPUTE.—Advices from Georgetown, British Guiana, show that the Commissioners appointed by British Guiana and the Republic of Venezuela to limit the boundary in accordance with the terms of the award of the Paris Arbitration Tribunal have begun work. The Venezuelan Commissioners recently joined the Guiana Commissioners in Georgetown. After being hospitably received and entertained by the Acting Governor, Sir Cavendish Boyle, they departed for Point Playa—the point on the coast that marks the boundary between the two countries—the Commissioners for British Guiana having left Georgetown a few days previously.

The British Commissioners are M. McTurk, C. M. G.; H. I. Perkins, Capt. Baker, and Dr. Widdup. The Venezuelan Commissioners, numbering eight, are: Engineering Chief—Señor Felipe Aguenevere; First Assistant Engineer—Señor Santiago Aguenevere; Second Assistant Engineer—Señor Abraham Tirabor; Legal Adviser—Dr. Trino Celis Rios; Physician—Dr. Elias Toro; Engineer Draughtsman—Señor Lorenzo Maliecco Osio; Engineer's Secretary—Señor José Maria Idarro Cerezo; Interpreter—Señor Gustav E. Michelena.

The boundary will be fixed right up to Dutch Guiana without prejudice, however, to the claim of Brazil, with which a boundary dispute is pending. It is believed that the work of fixing the boundary will be a difficult and dangerous task, on account of the nature of the ground and the risks of the climate, and the Commissioners do not expect that they can complete their work until 1902.

***

BOILER EXPLOSIONS IN GREAT BRITAIN.—An important Parliamentary paper has just been issued by the British Board of Trade, containing the results of the working of the Boiler Explosions acts of 1882 and 1890. The report covers the twelve months previous to July 1, 1900, during which period 24 persons were killed and 65 injured by boiler explosions in Great Britain. This period, it will be recalled, includes one exceptionally serious case, that of an accident at Sheffield in November, 1899, in which 7 persons were killed and 10 injured. With this exception, it is said that the recent report, where it concerns the loss of life, compares favorably with that of preceding years, as the average numbers killed and injured during the last eighteen years are 29.2 and 61.5, respectively.

On the other hand, the number of persons injured exceeds the average for other years. As regards the causes of the explosions, seven cases are attributed to ignorance or neglect on the part of boiler attendants, and under this head the figures for the last ten years seem to indicate that a steady improvement is taking place. In other respects there is no marked change in the general character of the causes of explosions. In twenty-eight cases the boilers which exploded had been inspected on behalf of insurance companies, classification societies, or in connection with the survey of passenger steamships. But in ten of these cases the explosions were not due to defects in the condition of the boilers. In one case, in which a formal investigation was held, an insurance company was ordered to pay £40 costs on account of negligence shown by its inspector.

***

THEFT OF THE NELSON RELICS AT GREENWICH.—Details of the robbery, announced in recent cable dispatches which occurred in the Painted Hall in the Royal Naval College, Greenwich, the other day, show that thousands of pounds' worth of relics identified with the career of Lord Nelson of the Nile have been stolen, and that there is so far no clue to the thieves or to the whereabouts of the objects stolen, while the intrinsic value of the metal and jewels taken amounts to £6,000.

It seems that there is no watchman at Painted Hall, and when the doorkeepers, a fortnight ago, as is usual on Sundays, opened the galleries to the public, it was at once seen that the cases containing Nelson's relics had been smashed and everything of value abstracted. An examination revealed that the thieves had not aimed to secure the relics as such, for, in the case where the swords were preserved the hilts which consisted of gold had been wrenched off the blades and the jewels taken from the scabbards.

Among the relics which are missing or mutilated are the dress sword placed on Nelson's coffin when lying in state at Greenwich; an oval gold box containing the parchment giving him the freedom of the City of London in 1797, jewels of the Order of the Bath, the Sardinian Order of San Joachim, the Neapolitan Order of San Ferdinando and Grand Cross of the same order, gold star of the Turkish Order of the Crescent, Nelson's memorial bows, a gold sword hilt presented by the Captains of the fleet engaged in the battle of the Nile, a golden and jeweled Turkish gun sent by the Sultan, Nelson's gold watch and seal, a medal commemorative of the battle of Trafalgar, and a medal commemorative of the restoration by Nelson of King Ferdinand IV. to the throne of Naples.

***

DIMINUTION IN THE CEREAL CROPS OF GREAT BRITAIN.—The British Board of Agriculture has just published the official estimate of the yield and produce of this year's cereal crops in Great Britain. The report shows that the areas under cultivation in 1900 were: Wheat, 1,845,042 acres; barley, 1,990,265; oats, 3,026,088. As compared with the areas of 1899, these show a decrease of 155,939 acres of wheat, and increases of 8,157 acres of barley and 66,333 acres of oats. After several years of substantially overaverage yield—33.68 bushels per acre in 1896, 34.74 bushels in 1898, and 32.75 bushels in 1899—the wheat crop this year shows a marked decline to 28.53 bushels per acre, or 1.62 bushels below the decennial average.

During the sixteen years over which statistics have now been officially collected the average yield per acre in Great Britain has only five times fallen below this year's level—namely, 25.85 bushels in 1893, 26.23 bushels in 1895, 26.38 bushels in 1892, 26.89 bushels in 1886, and 28.05 bushels in 1888.

The annual output of wheat by British farmers varies much more widely than that of either barley or oats—for example, in 1898 the production was about twice as large as that of 1895. A shrinkage of 156,000 acres in the wheat area, coupled with a decline amounting to 4.22 bushels per acre in the yield, has brought the gross production down from 65,500,000 bushels last year to 52,500,000 bushels this year, there being thus a falling off of about 13,000,000 bushels in the British production of wheat.

As recently, moreover, as 1898, Great Britain grew over 20,000,000 bushels more wheat than in 1900. With the exception of 1893 and 1896—the former a year of excessive drought, and the latter a minimum acreage—the present year has produced the smallest crop of wheat in the closing decade of the century, and it is believed that British demands upon imported wheat must accordingly increase.

This year's production of barley amounts to nearly 62,500,000 bushels, which is—with the exception of that of 1893—the lowest of the decade. The 1900 crop of oats estimated at 115,000,000 bushels is practically identical with the production of 1899, and is larger than that in any of the years 1891, 1893, 1896.

***

HUNGARY ASSUMES A THREATENING FRONT TOWARD AUSTRIA.—As the Austrian Parliamentary elections approach the Hungarian press and the demeanor of Hungarian statesmen show that in Hungary there is no belief that the Austrian Parliamentary dead-lock may be removed by the new elections, and that therefore the time is approaching for Hungary to insist upon a modification of the Ausgleich or Austro-Hungarian agreement in accordance with her present state. The recent language employed by usually prudent and moderate Hungarians has made a profound impression in Austria, for it assumes the breakdown of the Austrian Parliamentary system to be a certainty, and anticipates the adoption by Hungary of one-sided measures which will afford more effective protection to its interests, and open the way to fiscal independence at least.

Declarations in favor of an independent customs have recently been made by several important public bodies in Hungary, headed by the Municipal Council of Budapest. That corporation has unanimously resolved to present to Parliament a petition to the above effect, which recalls the preparation and publication by the Government, in accordance with the resolutions passed by the Reichstag in January, 1898, of a necessary data for a Hungarian autonomous customs tariff.

The Hungarian Prime Minister, M. Szell, made what is considered an extraordinary speech in the Reichstag at Budapest ten days ago. He declared that he was convinced that even were Austria able to fulfill the conditions of 1867, Hungarians would by means of provisional measures regulate the common affairs and interests of the two States "while specially asserting the rights of Hungary and of its independence." "Hungary," he said in another place, "without infringing the Ausgleich law, will find ways and means of regulating those affairs which in virtue of the Pragmatic sanction are common to both States, while at the same time protecting her own interests, and giving greater emphasis to her independence." The Hungarian Premier added, with great emphasis, "when the right time comes I shall explain my views, and eventually submit proposals to the House. Meanwhile, let us husband our strength and keep our powder dry." This defiant tone coming from a responsible statesman accustomed to display great prudence has made, it is said, an unprecedented impression in Austria.

THE WAYS OF THE JANITOR.

Brooklyn Man Discourses Upon Them, but Offers No Solution of a Grave Problem.

"There is one development of the dying century which has not been mentioned," said a resident of Brooklyn to a reporter of THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday, discussing the new century comments of more or less famous people in the newspapers and the magazines.

"That is the janitor

"Now, don't think I'm joking," continued the Brooklynite. "The subject is too serious, and the janitor too important a person to figure in a jest. I tell you I mean it, every word of it. The janitor is one of the greatest developments we have.

"Talk about your Paris concierge and the fine tyranny with which he dominates his locataires, why, it isn't a patch on what we have developed right here in Greater New York in our janitors. This may be gratifying to a patriotic American who doesn't like to think anything foreign can beat anything American, but I tell you you can't thoroughly enjoy it and live in a flat."

Here the Brooklynite delved into history. "The concierge," said he, "is an old story. He had the start of the janitor. 'Appartements à Louer' was a familiar sign in Paris long before 'Flats to Let' began to adorn our Western metropolis. Even yet the janitor has not attained the full measure of his evolution, while the concierge has been an established institution for a century and more.

"But we develop rapidly in this country. The strenuous life keeps things moving. The janitor started in to catch up with the concierge, and he succeeded. Perhaps he has even passed him. That is a question. Personally, I think he has. At any rate the janitor rounds into the new century neck and neck with his French rival, and in the straight run to A. D. 2000 is pretty sure to come home a safe winner."

The resident of Brooklyn evidently had a grievance to air, and the reporter let him take his own time and way about it. He resumed:

"Everybody knows about the concierges, at least by reputation. It is not a particularly savory reputation. Ostensibly the janitor is the guardian, the custodian, the caretaker, who sweeps out the halls and stairways, lights and extinguishes the gas, locks the ponderous hall doorway at stated hours, and opens it when a belated tenant rings.

"That is what the concierge is nominally. In reality, he is a tyrant who levies tribute with a grasping, relentless hand, and there is no escape from him. If you do not pay him his 'tip,' and one that he considers satisfactory, and pay it early and often, you'll have more troubles than ever Pandora dreamed of even after the box was open. Your letters will reach you only after they have lain a week or so on the concierge's table, or perhaps they will be returned to the Post Office with 'inconnu' written across them; your friends, when they call, will always receive contradictory information as to whether you are in or not; your purchases in the city will be sent astray, and shopkeepers will be confidentially informed that your credit is no good and that they had better get payment on delivery.

"That's how the concierge commands his tribute. The janitor does it differently, but he arrives there just the same.

"Now, see, I'm a married man," resumed the Brooklynite. "The other day I moved into an apartment house. We paid the janitor's wife $2 for scrubbing the floors preparatory to our coming. She asked $3, but I told her we did not want mahogany polish, seeing that we purposed covering the boards with carpets and rugs.

"That was the commencement of the trouble. The mistake was in supposing that the $3 was in payment for an hour or so of work, instead of being a sort of retaining fee to insure the benevolent good will of the janitor during our incumbency of the apartment.

"Other mistakes came fast. You see, it was our first experience, and the ethics of the situation were new to us.

"First a corner groceryman called. My wife was busy superintending the production of the first meal in our new quarters, but she found time to tell the grocer that she always did her own marketing and could not give him any orders just then. She might look his shop over the next day, she said, but couldn't promise anything.

"A few minutes after the grocer left a butcher rang at the bell, presented his card, and said he had the honor of serving most of the tenants in the block; he trusted the newest comer would similarly favor him. He received a reply in the same nature.

"Close on the heels of the butcher came a milkman. By this time the dinner had been set on the table, and we were just sitting down to it, my wife showed some impatience, and sent word that she could make no arrangements that night.

"'I serve all the tenants in the block,' persisted the milkman. 'Will you take a quart a day, or a quart and a pint a day?'

"'I won't take any at all,' my wife replied, speaking pretty sharply. My wife has a good temper, but moving had tired her, and she couldn't understand why all the shopkeepers of the district were calling on us before we had been in the house two hours. She understood later.

"Pretty soon a baker dropped in and wanted to know how much bread we expected our diurnal consumption would amount to, and whether we would take it white or brown, or have an occasional muffin or bun thrown in by way of change.

"Then came a laundryman, a news agent, and a variety of other dispensers of wares for cash considerations, and finally in desperation we muffled the bell and locked the doors and finished the dinner, which was now cold.

"'Why did they all come? Why, the janitor had sent them. Don't you see? The janitor got a commission on every new tenant that he procured for his friends. That was why he hurried them in lest we should go elsewhere and he should lose his 'tip.' We didn't know it then, but we do now.

"Well, to make it short, my wife was so annoyed at the untimely interruptions that she vowed she would not patronise a single one of those that called. They had all left their cards, so it was easy for her to carry this out. She got another milkman, went to a different butcher, left her orders with the grocer on the opposite corner, and I had my newspapers delivered from the stand a few doors away from the purveyor of literature who had so assiduously solicited my patronage.

"But we had reckoned without the janitor. This cutting off of his commissions we must be made to suffer for, and we were. First, the milk began to go astray in the mornings. The man who delivered it swore that a bottle was deposited in our section of the lift regularly every morning at 7 o'clock. But somehow we never could get it at that hour, and at times no milk seemed to have come at all. At least we could find none, and the janitor protested that he knew nothing about it.

"Other things began to go wrong. Groceries had a habit of getting tangled up in the basement, and the lift commenced to act queerly at times. Our garbage was not attended to as it should be, and mysterious whistlings through the tube connecting with the cellar startled us from our early morning slumbers. My newspapers did not come regularly, though the newsboy deposed that he delivered them every morning.

"We protested to the landlord, and declared that we would leave if things did not change, and change quick. He summoned the janitor, and I made a direct charge of persecution on the part of that functionary before his face. His look of amusement and injured innocence was sublime. What, he guilty of such actions! Preposterous!

"I tell you," said the Brooklynite, stopping short and bringing his narrative to a sudden close, "the janitor can beat the concierge every time. Talk of Tammany blackmail in the Tenderloin, why, the Greater New York janitor can play rings round Tammany."

FISHERIES QUESTION IS AGAIN CRITICAL

Newfoundland Determined to Drive the French from Treaty Shore.

BRITISH PREPARE DEFENSES

Colony Will Refuse to Renew the Modus Vivendi and a Crisis Must Follow.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 29.—The Bond Ministry in this island, which has just emerged from a remarkable political struggle in which it completely vanquished Contractor Reid, the railway magnate, and destroyed his pretensions for the control of the Legislature and the dictatorship of the State, is now about to tackle a far more formidable adversary—the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain. Premier Bond and his colleagues carried the Legislature just elected by a party of thirty-two as against four only for Reid, and they hope to include even these in a movement for the defense of the island's rights from imperial aggression.

The famous "French Shore Question" is what underlies this new complication, and it is a matter of such national magnitude that even political animosities are subordinated to cohesion for the common good. Our Ministry thinks that the opening of the new century is a fit occasion to take definite action to secure relief from the injustice now done the colony, and a campaign will be made on the matter which will arouse the British public to the fact that when they wiped out the Boer republics they did not redress the wrongs of all the colonists, ill-treated and deprived of their rights.

Where this colony has the great advantage is that she holds the trump card. The fisheries difficulties on the "French Shore" are adjusted under a modus vivendi, by which the commanders of the British and French cruisers on the coast are empowered to deal with these matters, the necessary power being provided by an act of the Newfoundland Legislature, which is passed from year to year as required. It is, practically, a coercion bill, because it vests autocratic powers in the British commanders, and it relieves them of any liability under the civil code for injury done to the property or business of a settler on the shore whom they may have to discipline under the fishery arrangement. The existence of this modus vivendi has been a source of great heart-burning to the colonists generally, whether living on the treaty coast or not, and it has at last been determined by the Government that when it expires, on Monday next, the last day of the year and century, it will never again be renewed by the free vote of an unfettered island Legislature.

This will throw the colony into immediate and open conflict with the Imperial Government. But the latter cannot plead ignorance of the plan, because a year ago a like course was threatened, and only departed from because a patriotic recognition of the British difficulties in South Africa

SOME HAPPENINGS IN GOOD SOCIETY.

Congratulations may be extended this week on the anniversaries of their weddings to—

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Baker. (Miss Jeanne Held,) Jan. 1, 1900.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Manierre, (Miss Elizabeth Hunt Welling,) Jan. 3, 1900.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. J. Hurst, (Mrs. Alice Gilbert Maxwell,) Jan. 3, 1900.

***

With the Christmas outings virtually in the past, New York society this morning begins the last eight weeks of its Winter season, as Ash Wednesday falls this year on Feb. 20, prepared to enjoy itself to the utmost. January, which has been gay for several years past, will this year be even more gay and more filled with events than ever, and there are few evenings of the month which have not already been preempted by hosts or hostesses desirous of entertaining for dances or balls.

***

The first of the large and notable balls to be given during January will be that on the evening of Friday, Jan. 4, for which ex-Secretary Whitney has already issued cards. This ball will be in honor of Miss Helen Barney, a niece of Mr. Whitney, through her mother, who was Miss Lilly Whitney. It is unnecessary to say that the ball will be given with every appointment that taste can suggest and unlimited wealth supply. The Whitney mansion, at Fifth Avenue and Sixty-eighth Street, is really a palace, and one filled with perhaps the most rare and beautiful paintings and art objects of any of its fellows in New York. The fortunate guests of next Friday night will witness a brilliant and beautiful spectacle. Mr. Whitney, assisted by his sister, Mrs. Charles Tracy Barney, and Miss Helen Tracy Barney, will receive the guests in the immense dining hall. The dancing, of course, will be in the ballroom. The library, drawing room, the main hall, the corridor leading to the ballroom, and the lower hall will be set with small tables, and supper will be served in all of them. Some 800 guests probably will be present.

***

The second large and important ball of January will be given by Mrs. Astor on Monday evening, Jan. 7. This ball is an annual entertainment, and will be given this year on an even more elaborate scale than usual. For it Mrs. Astor has sent out between four and five hundred invitations, and these include this season some of the older element, and will not be entirely confined to the younger married couples and the debutantes and unmarried girls. On Friday, Jan. 11, will come Mrs. Ogden Mills's annual ball, and on Tuesday, Jan. 15, Mrs. John Jacob Astor's ball. There will be large dances or small balls, in addition to these, to be given respectively by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., on Jan. 2, at Sherry's; by Mrs. Frederick Gallatin, the second of three dances, on Jan. 10 at her residence; by Mrs. W. Seward Webb, on Jan. 16; by Mrs. Henry Lewis Morris, on Thursday, Jan. 17, at the Metropolitan Club Annex; by Mrs. H. McKay Twombly, at her residence, on Friday, Jan. 18; by Mrs. William D. Sloane, at her residence, Monday, Jan. 21; by Mrs. Heber R. Bishop, at her residence, Friday, Jan. 25, and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry, at her residence, on Monday, Jan. 28. There are also in addition to these innumerable smaller dances to be given in January.

***

The dancing classes, whose name is legion, will meet almost every evening during the month. New Year's night will bring the third of the Tuesday evening assemblies at Delmonico's. On Wednesday will come the second meeting of the Wednesday or Southern cotillions, also at Delmonico's. The first of two dinner dances, organized by Mrs. Frederic J. de Peyster and other prominent women, will take place, also at Delmonico's, on Thursday. The second junior cotillion and the third fortnightly will be held at Sherry's and the Astoria respectively on Tuesday, Jan. 8. The second Assembly ball will take place at the Astoria on Thursday, Jan. 24, and the second Cinderella at Sherry's on Thursday, Jan. 31. The annual Charity Ball, which interests perhaps a larger number of people than any of the other balls, and which since its removal to the Astoria, has regained something of its old-time prestige, will take place at that hotel on Tuesday, Jan. 29. The other dances, including the Saturday evening dance, under the charge of Mrs. Charles R. Huntington, at Delmonico's on Saturday next, and Mrs. Dallas Bache Pratt at Sherry's on Dec. 31, as well as the one night, make a long list, and as their meetings fall on regular dates at intervals respectively of a week or a fortnight apart, it is unnecessary to schedule them this morning.

***

January will bring a number of weddings, as it did last year, and the midwinter month is coming to be a favorite one for fashionable marriages. Dr. Clarke and Mrs. Burden, who are to be married at noon on Wednesday next at the Waldorf, will lead the long line of couples who are to be married in January. Carroll Brown of Baltimore and Miss Daly will be married on the same day, and their wedding, like that of Dr. Clarke and Mrs. Burden, will be a quiet one. Edward Scott, Jr., and Miss Adeline Pierson have chosen Tuesday, Jan. 9, for their nuptials. On Jan. 10 F. o'Oench and Mrs. Alice Grace Holloway, daughter of ex-Mayor Grace, are to be married, and Tuesday, Jan. 15, will bring the wedding of William V. B. Kip and Miss Elisa Strong. J. Stewart Barney and Miss Mary Alice Van Nest are to be married on Tuesday, Jan. 22. The wedding of Miss Nannie C. Inman, daughter of the late John T. Inman, and Clifford Vail Brokaw will take place at the residence of the bride, 42 West Fifty-seventh Street, on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 9. Owing to both families being in mourning, the marriage will be very quiet.

***

The most notable wedding of the month, and one in which the greatest amount of public as well as social interest is centred, will be that of Alfred Vanderbilt and Miss Elsie French. This will be celebrated in the Zabriskie Memorial Church at Newport on Monday, Jan. 14. The details of this wedding have been given almost from day to day in the Newport dispatches in THE TIMES. The guests, who will number about 200, and who will be principally from this city, will go from this city on the afternoon of Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 12 and 13, in special cars attached to the trains leaving here at 1 P. M., while the guests from Boston will be brought from there to Newport also in special cars on the morning of the wedding. The New York guests who wish to return on the day of the wedding will come on special cars attached to the regular afternoon train from Newport, reaching here at 11 P. M. The guests who will go to Newport for this wedding will stay at Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt's residence, the "Breakers," which is being made ready to receive them, and at Mrs. French's residence, "Harbourview." The services at the church will be very simple. The attendants will be Reginald Vanderbilt, best man; Robert L. Gerry, William Fitz Hugh Whitehouse, Jr., Frederick Martin Davies, and Potter Palmer, Jr., ushers, and Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, Miss Elsie Bronson, Miss Pauline French, and Isabel Stillman, bridesmaids. Only 125 guests will attend the wedding breakfast at "Harbourview." A wedding in Newport in midwinter will be indeed a novelty, and those who are bidden to it and who will, with very few exceptions, attend, are looking forward to the event with the keenest anticipation.

***

Due description has been given of the incidents and events of the past week in these columns, and they need no repetition this morning. While there were not as many parties for children and very young people this year as last during the Christmas holidays, the boys and girls, and youths and maidens, home from schools and colleges, have been continuously on the go, and many of them are this morning paying the penalty of too much feasting and too much dancing.

***

Among the entertainments for young people this week will be a large luncheon to be given by Mrs. J. Lenox Banks, Sr., at her country residence, Cedarhurst, New Hamburg, on Tuesday. The guests for this party will leave the city at 10 A. M. and return at 5 P. M., in time for Mrs. Morgan Grinnell's dance, also for young people, in the evening. This dance will be given at her residence, 36 East Fiftieth Street. On Wednesday evening Mrs. William Gray Park of 47 Fifth Avenue will give a dance for her daughter, Miss Mary Park, which will be for young people, and on Friday Mrs. David Morrison will give a dance for her two young daughters, the Misses Nathalie and Lillian Morrison, who are not yet out.

***

The New Year's festivities at Tuxedo have taken an unusual number of people there. Every room in the clubhouse and the annex has been engaged from yesterday, and the cottages are many of them also open and occupied by owners and their guests.

***

The domino dance on New Years Eve is expected to be very jolly, and great preparations are being made for it. Some of the Christmas parties at Tuxedo have broken up, notably that of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Tuck French, who on Christmas Day entertained at dinner at their villa Mrs. Francis O. French, Miss Elsie French, Col. Herbert Eaton and Mrs. Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederic Tams, Mrs. Stuvesant Le Roy, Sr., and Stuyvesant Le Roy, Jr.

***

The opera is still a novelty, as it is only a fortnight since its first performance, and the boxes have been fairly well occupied at every production, save on Christmas night, while the orchestra stalls have always been well filled. Opera is now more and more looked upon as a fixed feature of the New York Winter season. The majority of the parquet and balcony seats are taken for the season by subscribers, and the general public is not so much in evidence, except possibly on some great night with a phenomenal cast. The dressing has not been especially notable save on the first night. Monday, as last year, is evidently to be the fashionable night of the opera, with Wednesday second in favor, and Friday last. The last two Friday nights, to be sure, have been on the eve of holiday periods, with a resultant absence in the country of many well-known people. Mrs. Astor, senior, has as usual been faithful in her attendance at the opera, and the members of the Vanderbilt family and connections are once more in evidence after their year of mourning.

***

The country parties for the New Year's holidays are even more numerous than those of the Christmastide. Mr. and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes have taken a large party to Shadowbrook, at Lenox, and there are many jolly house parties at Westchester, notably at Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid's, Meadow Brook, Cedarhurst, Orange, Morristown, Madison, and on Staten Island. The dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Thebaud at Stoneacre, Morris Plains, N. J., on Friday evening was largely attended by the members of the colony at Morristown. On New Year's Eve a hunt ball will be given at the Richmond County Clubhouse, at Dongon Hills, S. I. The clubhouse will be decorated with Christmas greens and holly, and the verandas will be inclosed with glass and transformed into promenades and retiring rooms. There will be no cotillion, but general dancing until 1 o'clock, when supper will be served at small tables. The women who will receive are to be Mmes. Stacy C. Richmond, William H. Busk, E. S. Twining, Guy Irving, Otis Williams, Walter C. Kerr, H. M. Dunn, W. B. Thomas, R. A. Anthony, William Clinton Brown, Walter C. Clarke, John R. Chadwick, Norman S. Walker, and E. S. Shefer, and Miss Park.

***

"The gayeties of Paris seem increasing every week," says a late letter, "as visitors are still crowding there day by day. The Ritz Hotel one night lately had all the appearance of a State banquet, for all the Grand Dukes in Paris were dining—the Grand Duke Serge of Russia, the Grand Duke Alexis, and the Grand Duke Vladimir, with his wife, as well as the Duke George of Leuchtenburg and Duke Eugene of Leuchtenburg, Prince Nicholas of Greece, and last, not least, Prince Orloff, with his handsome wife, who is always the best-dressed woman in any room where she may be. There, too, were Baron and Baroness Adolph Meyer, naturally speaking a great deal about their experiences in China. There was a dinner, too, one night at the Café Anglais, which was given by Lord and Lady Sandhurst; on another night, at the same place, Lord and Lady Dudley were entertaining Mme. Michel Ephrussi, while Mr. Robert Ward and Col. Douglas Dawson were also of the party; and Mr. and Mrs. Ridgway were entertaining, among others, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Herbert.

***

A great deal has been written and said about the various collections made by royal personages, but few people know that the Princess of Wales has a quite remarkable collection consisting of all the hats and bonnets she has worn during the last thirty odd years. Each article is carefully put away, and bears the date of the season when it was worn; and it would be interesting to compare how the fashions have changed and in some cases been reverted to.

***

Lady Dufferin has just presented to the Belfast Golf Club a tantalus which was the property of Lord Ava, who died in South Africa. Lord Ava was Captain of the Belfast Golf Club in 1898-99, and was extremely popular with all the members, and this presentation has been made as a token of appreciation of their sympathy with Lord and Lady Dufferin in their sad loss.

***

The last few days before the Queen's departure for Osborne were very busy ones at Windsor, for not only were there many preparations for the journey, but great parcels of Christmas presents of all kinds were almost hourly arriving, to be inspected and made ready for dispatch. The enormous number of gifts given by the Queen at Christmas is almost beyond calculation. There are, of course, gifts for all her Majesty's immediate family circle, but other royal personages have to be remembered, as well as a great number of relatives and connections abroad. Then, too, all the Queen's household, servants, tenants, and dependents, both past and present, are never forgotten; and their presents are always very valuable and increase in proportion with their years of service, many of the old servants receiving whole services of silver. The Queen also sends many Christmas cards, and very often the plain side is completely covered with good wishes in her own handwriting. She cannot, of course, see every one of the presents she sends, but any items of jewelry she always carefully inspects, as well as any gifts for children, which can never be too many or too charming.

***

Dr. Everett Mallory Culver and Mrs. Culver gave a dinner of nineteen covers last evening at their residence in honor of Miss Sarah Gibbs Thompson and her fiancé, Stephen H. Pell. The guests were seated at two tables presided over respectively by Mrs. Culver and Dr. Lewis Rutherfurd Morris, and Mrs. Morris and Dr. Culver. Mrs. Culver's table was decorated with mauve orchids and Mr. Pell was her guest of honor. Mrs. Morris's table had decorations of green orchids, and Miss Thompson was the guest of honor. Other guests were Mrs. Patten Glover of Providence, R. I.; Mrs. Moore Richardsen of Washington, Dr. Louis Ogden and Mrs. Ogden, Miss Nathalie Hatch, Miss Alice Rutherford, and William Harriman, Reginald Jaffray, Henry H. Armstead, Jr., Van Brunt Pearce, Solon and Demetrius Velasto, and Wade Chance. Mrs. Culver will give an informal reception on New Year's Eve, to which about fifty guests have been asked. There are to be cards and other amusements, dancing, and a seated supper.

***

Dr. Lewis Rutherfurd Morris and Mrs. Morris are to have a series of dinners given in their honor during the season. One of these will be given on Tuesday, Jan. 15, by Mrs. Everett M. Culver at her apartment, 175 West Fifty-eighth Street. Mrs. Morris has sent out cards for Thursdays in January, and Mrs. Culver and Mrs. Morris will give two large receptions in February at former Senator Clark's apartment.

***

The dance to be given on Tuesday, Jan. 15, by Mrs. Robert McAllister Lloyd (Miss Jeanette M. Belknap) is to be in honor of Miss Eleanor Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis Morris. It will be preceded by several large dinners, from which the guests will go to Mrs. Lloyd's residence, 5 Gramercy Park. Mrs. W. W. Hoppin, Mrs. J. Langdon Schroeder, Mrs. Lloyd, and others will be the dinner hostesses and will chaperon their guests to the dance.

***

Mrs. Morgan Dix is to give a dinner on Tuesday, Jan. 15, for Miss Frederica Vanderbilt Webb. Mrs. Henry Parish of 8 East Seventy-sixth Street will also give a dinner on the same date.

***

Mrs. Robert H. McCurdy will give a large luncheon in the annex of the Metropolitan Club on Thursday, Jan. 3, for women only. Miss Elizabeth Remsen of 17 West Fifty-first Street and Mrs. John R. Harris of 14 East Fortieth Street will both give dinners on the same evening, the latter being for William V. B. Kip and Miss Elisa Strong. Other dinners scheduled for that date are those to be given by Mrs. George Crocker, and Mrs. Robert Thompson of 5 East Fifty-third Street. Mrs. Thompson's dinner will be for Dr. Lewis Rutherfurd Morris and Mrs. Morris.

***

On Thursday there are to be two luncheons, one to be given by Mrs. Nicholas Fish, at her residence, 53 Irving Place, and the other by Mrs. Charles Abercrombie of 25 Madison Square North. Mrs. Samuel Hinckley (Miss Rosalie Neilson) will also give on Thursday afternoon the first of two coming-out receptions for her daughter, Miss Dorothy Hinckley, at her city house, 126 East Sixtieth Street. In the evening the new Amusement Club, organized by the Misses Gillet, will attend the Lyceum Theatre, and later will enjoy a supper.

***

The first of Mrs. W. Storrs Wells's "at homes" on Fridays in January will be on Jan. 4. On that day there will also be the first of two coming-out receptions for Miss Beatrice Crosby, to be given by her mother, Mrs. Henry Ashton Crosby, at her residence, 29 Washington Square West. On the evening of Jan. 4 there will be a dance given by Mrs. David Morris for her daughters, the Misses Nathalie and Lillian Morris, at her home, 20 East Forty-ninth Street, to which the younger set of boys and girls will go. Col. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor have issued cards for two large dinners to be given at their town house, 840 Fifth Avenue, on the evenings of Jan. 3 and 4, respectively.

***

Mrs. Astor, who is to give her annual ball on Monday, Jan. 7, will probably sail for Europe on the Oceanic on Wednesday, Feb. 27.

***

Miss Grace Atkins Dobson, who attracted attention as an amateur last Winter by her recitations and dramatic cantillations, and particularly by her rendering of poems in the French Canadian dialect, will give a dramatic recital at the Waldorf-Astoria on Saturday evening next, in which many well-known women will be patronesses. Several of these will give dinners before the entertainment, and bring their guests with them, while others will have supper parties after the recital. Miss Dobson will be assisted by Charles J. Dyer, the baritone, who has recently arrived from Berlin, and who will sing Von Frilltz's song cycle of "Eliland," and Miss Anna Otten, the violinist. Miss Dobson will render among her numbers a Japanese monologue, with costume setting, written for the occasion by G. Van Tassel Sutphen. Tickets at $2 each may be obtained from Mrs. Henry Lawrence Burnett, 7 East Twelfth Street; Mrs. Gerald L. Hoyt, 9 West Thirty-seventh Street, and at the Waldorf. Among Miss Dobson's patronesses are Mesdames D. F. Appleton, Francis R. Appleton, James Hude Beekman, J. Mulhenbergh Bailey, Addison Cammack, Miss Louise Ward McAllister, Mesdames Francis H. Leggett, Spencer H. Trask, Charles H. Stickney, A. Hollander, George R. Schieffelin, Arthur Turnure, and Alexander D. Shaw.

***

Liza Lehmann's new song cycle, "The Daisy Chain," will be given in the Astor Gallery of the Astoria on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock by a quartet composed of Mrs. Seabury C. Ford, Miss Marguerite Hall, Mackenzie Gordon, and Myron Whitney, Jr., under the direction of Victor Harris. This new song cycle, although written in the same form as "In a Persian Garden," by the same composer, is essentially different in character and context from the latter. It has the same delightful art and appreciation of the sentiment of its texts, and was enthusiastically received at a private concert at Tuxedo on Thanksgiving Day. "The Persian Garden" will be repeated on Thursday afternoon for the first time since a year ago in New York, and will be sung by the original quartet. Between the two cycles David Mannes, the violinist, will play.

***

The dinner dance that Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Thebaud gave on Friday night at their country residence, Stoneacre, at Morris Plains, was a charming affair. The driveways leading to the house were decorated with Japanese lanterns, and Christmas greens and flags were used to decorate the house. The cotillion, which was danced before supper, was led by W. Alston Flagg, and a Hungarian band furnished the music. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Frelinghuysen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. McGurdy, Mr. and Mrs. William Shippen, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander H. Tiers, the Misses Kip, Gillette, Marie Bryce, Madeline Evans, Marian Sweeny, Alice Vermam, Alison Turnbull, and Joseph Forbes, George Chadwell, Leland Garretsen, Archibald Forbes, Robert Grannis, Harry E. Hoy, Joseph Willis, and Ralph Sanger.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mrs. Philip Embury will hold her final reception on Monday, Dec. 31, at her residence, 148 West Seventieth Street.

The Students' Dramatic Club will give its first play of this season on Tuesday evening, Jan. 15, in Carnegie Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Bayne gave a dance at their residence, on Riverside Avenue, on Thursday evening, for their two young sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolphe De Bary and the Misses De Bary will sail on the Fuerst Bismarck Jan. 5 for an extended tour through the Orient.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan L. Kennelly of 309 West Seventy-seventh Street are spending the holidays in the Laurel-in-the-Pines, Lakewood, N. J.

Mrs. Charles Carpenter of 526 West End Avenue gave a reception at her residence yesterday afternoon for her daughter, Miss Lillian Carpenter, a débutante of this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Stadler of 2,236 Seventh Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice L. Stadler, to Herman L. Hoering. The marriage will take place in January.

Mr. and Mrs. Emilio Lopez of 124 West Eighty-second Street gave a dinner on Christmas Day in honor of Dr. Juan N. Navarro and Mrs. Navarro. Mr. Navarro is Consul General of Mexico at New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell entertained a number of friends at a Christmas tree at their home, 19 East Sixty-fifth Street, Christmas Eve. A large number of attractive presents were distributed. Among the guests were Paul du Chailiu, the African explorer, and Michael Morton.

The Manhattan Alumnae Association is to give its annual breakfast on Wednesday at the Waldorf. Each member has the privilege of inviting a guest. Covers are to be laid for eighty. The breakfast will be presided over by Mrs. Alice Grace Holloway, the President of the association.

Mrs. Maria L. Adams of 146 West Seventeenth Street gave a reception yesterday afternoon to introduce her daughter, Miss Eileen Adams. Mrs. Henry Francis Chase, a sister of the débutante, and a number of Miss Adams's young friends assisted in receiving and pouring tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Hellinger of 212 East Seventy-ninth Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Fidelia Hellinger, to Menyus Mittelmann. Mrs. Hellinger will give a reception for the young couple this afternoon. Miss Gene Hellinger will assist her mother and sister in receiving.

At Sherry's on the evening of Feb. 11 there will be a Kirmess under the auspices of the Auxiliary Association of the Catholic Summer School. A series of national dances are to be presented, and the ushers and committee will be in costume. At the close there will be a grand tableau of nations, and then a ball. A. McCormick is in charge of the entertainment, and Daniel J. O'Conor is the general manager.

Miss Eileen Adams, daughter of Mrs. Maria L. Adams, was introduced yesterday afternoon at a reception given by her mother. Mrs. Adams was assisted in receiving by the débutante's married sisters, Mrs. Henry F. Chase and Mrs. W. H. Gelshenen. The Misses Violet Adams, Jane Cook, Agnes Kane, Mrs. Eugene Robinson, and several others assisted the débutante in receiving or pouring tea. The reception was followed by a dinner.

The wedding of Joseph William Carr, Ph. D., and Florence Ange Hollister, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hollister, took place at their residence, 61 East Ninety-first Street, on Thursday evening, Dec. 20. A reception followed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Elias S. Oehon of this city. The bride was given away by her father, and the best man was Edward M. Stothers of Port Richmond, S. I., a classmate of the bridegroom at Exeter, and also at Harvard. The bride wore a white satin gown and tulle veil, with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was Miss Helen Thain, daughter of Alexander Thain and cousin of the bride. She wore a pale blue satin gown and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The ushers were Mortimer P. Thain and Charles C. Thain, cousins of the bride; Dr. Curtis Hidden Page, James Dwight Arnold, and Henry C. Hunter, also classmates of the bridegroom, and Merle I. St. John, all of this city. The house decorations were greens and holly. As Dr. Carr belongs to the Faculty of the West Virginia University, he and Mrs. Carr will reside at Morgantown, West Va.

A. Simonson

933 Broadway, 21—22 Streets.

The new Coiffure par excellence for 1901.

"Transformation"

A beautiful and perfect masterpiece in the art of ARTIFICIAL HAIR GOODS; perfect in fit and a perfect imitation of nature.

You are respectfully invited to inspect this new Coiffure, and also other numerous beautiful styles of HAIR GOODS and HAIR ORNAMENTS.

No Branch Stores. No Agents.

A. SIMONSON, 933 Broadway, 21—22 Streets.

SOCIETY AT LAKEWOOD.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Dec. 29.—Georgian Court, the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. George Jay Gould, is the scene of a large house party. The host and hostess, with a number of guests—among them Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish and Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs—arrived here yesterday. Part of the company were driven to the Laurel-in-the-Pines, where the Goulds had engaged rooms for them, while others went to Georgian Court. In the evening the party attended the performance of the farce "Professor Whimsical," by the sophomore class of Columbia University, in the amusement hall of the Laurel House. To-morrow evening the party will sit down to an elaborate dinner in the spacious mansion, and on Monday the guests will disperse.

Preparations have been completed by Manager Plumer of the Laurel House and the Laurel-in-the-Pines to celebrate the birth of the twentieth century with a New Year's Eve ball at the latter house on Monday evening and a New Year's ball at the former house on Tuesday evening. An orchestra of fourteen pieces will furnish music for these events, and a majority of the cottage set will attend.

A performance of "Cinderella" was given in the amusement hall of the Lakewood Hotel on Thursday evening before a good-sized audience. The cast was composed of children from the Lakewood public school, who had been rehearsing the play for the past two weeks. A pretty feature was the introduction of the minuet and the fancy dancing of Sadie Hass. Pretty little Minna Pach deserves special mention for her recitation of "Bessie Fair" between the first and second acts. The cast was as follows:

Cinderella	Nellie Campazzi
Godmother	Hilda Solomon
Baroness	Jane Newman
Stepsisters	Hattie Rotger, Bessie Newman
Daisy Fairy	Minna Pach
Violet Fairy	Leah Ford
Carnation Fairy	Hattie Harrer
Blue Bell	Mary Johnson
Prince True Love	Oscar Pach
Baron	Arthur Goldsmith
Albreto	O. Pach
Nimblewitz	Willie Burns
Pages	Joseph Rotger, Eddie Campazzi

Enjoying the holiday season at the Laurel-in-the-Pines are E. A. Darling of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York; Vernon M. Davis, Gustave Bauman of the Holland House, New York; Senator Thomas Dunham and Richard H. Stearns of the Hotel Navarre, New York.

Society is on the qui vive over the dance to be given at the Country Club on the evening of Friday, Jan. 4, for which cards have been issued. Dancing will begin at 10 o'clock, and music will be furnished by the Laurel House Orchestra. Besides the flags of all nations and yacht signals to be used in the decorations, novel effects in electric lighting will be used in the ballroom. The patronesses are Mrs. Charles D. Kingdon, Mrs. George Jay Gould, Mrs. Henry Lloyd Herbert, Mrs. William Arthur Hamilton, Mrs. Frank Morgan Freeman, Mrs. Dwight Miller Harris, Mrs. Arthur B. Claflin, Mrs. Ernest C. La Montagne, Mrs. George B. M. Harvey, Mrs. Robert C. Morris, Mrs. Albert Edward Kennedy, Mrs. Thomas L. Watson, Mrs. Joseph H. Outhwaite, Mrs. Francis D. Beard, Mrs. James Converse, Mrs. Francis Albert Walthew, Mrs. Charles Henry Converse, Mrs. J. Russell May, Mrs. Charles L. Lindley, and Mrs. Frederic R. Coudert.

The new electric opera bus of the Lakewood Hotel, designed to meet the incoming guests at the station, bids fair to be put to other than the use for which it was intended, as it is in great demand for riding parties. It is difficult for the resident of large cities to understand the awe with which the denizens of this little village among the pines regard the horseless vehicle.

Society people from New York, Brooklyn, and elsewhere, with members of the cottage set of Lakewood, responded in large numbers to the invitations recently issued by Mrs. William Bateman Leeds for the début of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Whitewright Leeds, which took place here to-day at The Peak, the pretty home of the débutante's mother.

The débutante wore a becoming gown of white liberty chiffon over white silk, trimmed with pink rose leaves, with a dew drop on each leaf. A full ruche finished the bottom of the skirt. On the left side of the waist was a choux with streamers trimmed with the pink rose leaves. The low-necked waist was trimmed with figured chiffon, and a large bouquet of pink roses was carried.

Standing in front of a background of palms, Miss Leeds received the guests in the drawing room. She was assisted by Miss Margaret Hamilton of Saratoga Springs, Miss Lillian Fraser, Miss Elizabeth Ellsworth, and Miss Mary J. Stuart of New York, and Miss Susan Van G. Murray of Englewood, N. J.

The reception was followed by a small dance, for which a full orchestra in a palm corner furnished music.

Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould, Gen. and Mrs. Frank Morgan Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Juillard, Mrs. Charles D. Kingdon, Dr. and Mrs. Charles L. Lindley, Capt. and Mrs. A. M. Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Duncan, the Misses Duncan, Dr. and Mrs. Schauffler, Miss Leslie, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. T. Morton P. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Ferris, the Misses Ferris, Mrs. Theron R. Butler, the Misses Glover, Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Burrell, the Misses Burrell, Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. C. Blair, Dr. and Mrs. Irwin A. Hance, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Steckley, Miss Stockley, Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Dashiell, the Misses Dashiell, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Blakeman, Mrs. Silas Witherbee, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Ormiston, Miss Florence Wetherell, H. Clay Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dalley, Miss Dalley, Henry Dudley, Jr., Miss Elizabeth McConihe, Mrs. I. W. Vosburgh, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Dorman, Miss Margaret Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Kimball, R. Cook Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bage Kerr, M. Ellsworth, Mrs. J. Newton Ewell, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Miller, Mrs. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Beard, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rush Eynner, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fraser, Miss Lillian Fraser, Mrs. and Miss Woodbury, the Misses Miley, Miss Mary Fay, Mrs. E. L. Harding, the Misses Wilkinson, Dr. Kempshall, Mrs. M. N. Kimball, Miss Laura Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. D. Davis, the Misses Davis, Dr. Paul T. Kimball, Dr. and Mrs. McClellan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell May, Miss M. McClellan, Miss May, Col. and Mrs. Woolsey Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. David B. Plumer, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. D. L. Schwartz, Miss Cornelia Schwartz.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelsen J. Waterbury, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stearns, Mrs. Augustus Marsh, the Misses Marsh, the Rev. and Mrs. C. P. Butler, Mrs. H. T. Frost, Miss Frost, Mr. and Mrs. Halliday, Mrs. Parker Handy, Mrs. Mason Jones, Mrs. I. N. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Leeds, Dr. and Mrs. I. H. Platt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Stuart, Mrs. Freeman Smith, Miss Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Trimble, Miss Adele Underhill, Mr. and Mrs. Olyphant Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Watson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stuart, and the Misses Stuart.

The sophomore class of Columbia University made a great hit in its comedy play, "Professor Whimsical," presented before a large audience in the music hall of the Laurel House, last evening. In the cast were Herbert R. Odell, son of Governor-elect Odell of New York, and Harold H. Weekes of football fame. The performance was given under the patronage of Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mrs. George J. Gould, Mrs. B. B. Odell, Jr., Mrs. Charles D. Kingdon, Mrs. Albert M. Bradshaw, Mrs. William Seward Webb, Mrs. W. A. Hamilton, Mrs. Frank M. Freeman, Mrs. Cortlandt S. Van Rensselaer, Mrs. F. A. Walthew, Mrs. David B. Plumer, and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes.

Miss Annie Cortelyou Rushmore of Brooklyn and Argyle Ross Parsons of Garden City, L. I., will spend New Year's in Lakewood as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lloyd Herbert.

Visitors to the Country Club during the week included Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Ballard, W. Bishop Kip, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Randall, Walker Whitney, Lyman B. Goff, Miss Goff, Miss L. F. Jackson, Miss A. R. Jackson, Mrs. John Larkin, Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Coleman, and A. K. Perine.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred de Cordova of New York, who are at the Lakewood, will give another four-in-hand driving party, going to the deserted village of Allaire, on New Year's Day.

ART AND ARTISTS.

In a good many quarters recently statements have been made to the effect that the Chigi Botticelli supposed to have been bought either by P. A. B. Widener or Mrs. "Jack" Gardner will be the only undoubted example of the famous Florentine's work in America. These statements are incorrect. A painting, included by all the experts as being among the genuine Botticellis in existence, at present hangs in a private office in West Fourteenth Street. It is the property of George A. Hearn, who bought it from a private collector in England. It was taken to the latter country from Italy early in the century.

The painting is circular in form, inclosed in a splendid old carved frame. It represents the Madonna and Child, with St. John and an attendant angel. The faces of the two latter figures are supposed to be portraits of Giuliano and Lorenzo di Medici. Two vases of flowers, including some of those roses about which Ruskin went into raptures, appear in the background.

***

Although Hendrick Christian Anderson, the sculptor, is an American citizen, persons in this country who desire to possess a specimen of his work in colored terra cotta will have to pay just about twice the sum the same work costs in London.

A New York firm of art dealers recently made arrangements with Mr. Anderson, most of whose work has been done abroad, to import a few of the large busts which have created so much interest. The work was sent over—each piece finished and colored by the sculptor. When it reached the Appraiser's Store here the officials were puzzled, and after much consideration informed the importers that they could not see any signs of the busts being "works of art," and must therefore class them as "manufactured pottery." In vain were agitated protests made; in vain was it pointed out that if the objects in question were not works of art, hardly anything produced by modern sculptors could be classed under that head; in vain was the fact that Mr. Anderson is an American citizen advanced. The oracle had spoken; if the importers wanted to appeal to Washington they could do so.

The importers declare that they know from bitter experience how futile is any appeal to Washington on a question such as this. They say the matter is simply referred back to New York for report, and that of course the report declares the New York people right. They therefore paid the duty, and as a consequence have to charge $300 for what is sold in England for 30 guineas.

***

The Salmagundi Club has developed into an institution of far wider scope than belonged to it originally, but its members have not forgotten that it is in the first place a "sketching club," and the annual sale of sketches by Salmagundians is among the interesting artistic events of the year. The next annual sale is to be held on Jan. 14, and an exhibit of more than usual interest is expected.

***

A very few people who watched the destruction of the Dewey Arch were rather curious to know whether it was by accident or design that the bas-relief on the west side of the structure was the last of the adornments of the arch left in place. They wondered whether the bas-relief in question was to be removed entire or torn down in the same manner as the rest of the groups, single figures, and reliefs. They were not long in doubt. One morning the work lay on the ground in a hundred pieces.

The reason for this curiosity on the part of the limited number of persons alluded to was that the bas-relief was the only finished piece of sculpter's work on the arch. It was produced by Johannes Gelert, the Danish artist, who was among the first who accepted the invitation of the National Sculpture Society committee to contribute to the adornment of the arch. But while Mr. Gelert's fellow-sculptors were content to make rough sketch models, from which professional modelers produced the large "staff" figures, Mr. Gelert completed his bas-relief unaided, with almost as much care as though it were to be used as the model for a permanent work in bronze or marble. Some of the other sculptors were at first afraid that a single piece of finished work would look out of place in juxtaposition to the other roughly blocked out adornments, but as Mr. Gelert's bas-relief could not be seen at the same time as the rest of the arch, this fear proved groundless.

***

A large etching of Rembrandt's painting, "The Mennonite Preacher Anslo," has been executed by Karl Koepping, the etcher of the "Syndics" and Frans Hals's "The Archers of St. George." A new plan has been followed in regard to the printing of this latest etching, the plate having been destroyed after 125 proofs were struck off.

***

Among the thousands of calendars issued by business houses, that given away by the Equitable Life Assurance Society is noticeable for its artistic quality. It was designed by Boutet de Monvel, and, like all that artist's work, has proved capable of most successful reproduction by chromelithography. The design is a simple but pleasing one, and in sharp

SPARKS FROM THE MAGAZINES

EXCERPTS IN PROSE AND VERSE FROM CURRENT LITERATURE.

The Stars.

Once, lying on a bed of juniper,
I watched the passing of a northern light
That stole, a pale and shadowy eremite,
From the dark mystery of pine and fir
And, leaping upward from the mountain's spur,
With tenuous fingers waged celestial fight
To snatch the star-gold blossoms from their height:
Then, failing, waned into the things that were.
So we, with passioned strife or anguished wait,
Reach eager hands toward those unseen bars,
Like children at some noble pleasaunce gate,
Seeking the untold glory of the stars
Ever inscrutable inviolate,
That view our deadly wounds, our cruel scars.
—MARGUERITE MERINGTON in Scribner's.

The West Point Graduate.

From The National Review.

That the prejudice in favor of playing instead of working, loafing instead of preparing for a career between sixteen and nineteen years of age, should have ever arisen among the upper and middle classes of our fairly practical nation is as marvelous as that it has lingered so long. Not one of our great naval heroes "played" boyish games after sixteen, nor did the makers of our Indian and colonial empire. The idea would have seemed utterly absurd to our Elizabethan or Georgian military heroes. I assert without any fear of contradiction that not one of our leading English Generals in the Peninsular and Waterloo campaigns was in the least degree indebted for his moral, physical, or mental excellence to any playing-field or to any public school.

His mother, Lady Mornington, forthwith removed Arthur Wellesley from Eton to the celebrated French "coach" Pignerol of Angers, who taught him physical exercises, drill, tactics, and French, and he joined the service at the age of eighteen.

I spare my readers long lists of heroes, but I can mention off-hand no fewer than twenty British chiefs in Spain and Belgium who never played any games in any school after the age of sixteen. Most of these went into the army straight from private tuition or from home. Here is a goodly roll: Hill, Cotton, Hope, Hardinge, Colville, Moore, Erskine, William Napier, Parkenham, Ponsonby, Leith, Beresford, Charles Napier, Pack, Le Marchant, Graham, Maitland, Baird, Picton, and Crauford. A famous list! Where can twenty better all-round men be found? Yet not one of these entered from a public school. Manifestly, we have not improved our scholastic institutions during the past century. These were brave men of the world at nineteen; their exercises tended to prowess, their leisure was largely spent at books or on horseback. Cricket or football as regular duties or daily delights would have seemed to every youth of them, and to every man, utterly contemptible. It is not the lads who play, but those who "shun delights and live laborious days," that make their own names famous and their country great and prosperous. At present it is manifest that an average West Point graduate could teach an average Sandhurst graduate every branch of learning that it becomes a young soldier or a young civilian to know, and a "one-year volunteer," so called, from Germany could teach nine-tenths of our militia Lieutenants both tactics and field fortifications as things unfortunately now stand. Yet any of the soldiers just mentioned was in the habit of making short work of foreigners.

A Chinese Dinner Table.

From Blackwood.

The table is ready laid with an imposing show, a regulation number of regulation dishes, marshaled in regulation order; quaint porcelain stands filled with slices of oranges, pears, or cold goose; towers of purple quince jelly squares, grapes, or shredded chicken breast; saucers of shrimps salted in their skins, and, never forgotten, the famous eggs, preserved for years in lime, and served, sliced, in beds of brown jelly, much prized for their acrid and rather ammoniacal flavor, but not usually appreciated by foreigners. Hot wine of various brands and vintages is served throughout. That most commonly drunk is a kind of sack or sherry negus—a yellow wine distilled from Indian corn. Being comparatively mild, it is served in small cups; ardent white spirits of rice—samshu—in thimblefuls. "Rose" wine is one of several varieties, flavored with roses, a wine also made from grapes, though they are plentiful in North China.

When all are seated ready for the fray the host raises his cup—

"Let us drink!"

We reply, "Thanks! thanks!" then set to—with chopsticks, picking now from one dish, now from another, in piquant contrast of sweet, sour, and salt.

Gold Mining in the Philippines.

From The National Geographic Magazine.

The mines in the Paracale district are at present operated by natives, but in such a rudimentary and desultory manner that only a small portion of the gold is saved. The workings are seldom carried to a greater depth than three or four meters, but it is a fact which promises better results, whenever more scientific and practical methods may be brought to bear on them, that the ore always becomes richer as the depth is increased; but in all the hundreds of years during which these deposits have been known it is safe to say that their true value has never been tested. The natives carry the ore to the surface in baskets, and when water is struck they bale it out with buckets, either pulling them up with a rope or carrying them up a bamboo ladder. The gold-bearing rock is emptied from the baskets into a concavity in a rock or large stone, which serves as a mortar. The pestle or stamp consists of a stone about twenty-five pounds in weight, which is tied with a strip of bejuco to the end of a slender pole, which is fixed obliquely against the fork of a tree. The laborer, taking advantage of the elasticity of the pole, uses it like a trip-hammer and crushes the rock. The broken rock is then pulverized in a rude mill, consisting of a rough stone roller, which is revolved in a circular base by means of buffaloes. The pulverized material is then washed, generally by women, until there remains only a dark sediment, which is afterward smelted by placing it in a shell, covering it with charcoal, and using a small piece of bamboo as a blowpipe. A sample of the metal obtained by this imperfect process gave the following analysis: Gold, 77.94; silver, 19; iron, .05.

Modern Ocean Coal Gluttons.

From Cassier's Magazine.

In the last ten years the race for the transatlantic record has been far more interesting than any other period, for it has been in this decade that the great coal burners have been built. It is also the "twin-screw period" of ocean navigation, and with the twin-screws have come greater speed, more and heavier engines, and corresponding increase of boiler power. The American liners Paris and New York were the first to embody the new and radical departures from the old methods of shipbuilding and in many respects they marked an entirely new era in shipbuilding. They were, from the first, brilliant successes in speed and seaworthiness, but they were also responsible for a new era of coal consumption that has at last brought the steamship companies to the point where they are anxiously looking for some let-up. The Paris soon broke the record from New York to Queenstown, making the trip in much less than six days at an average speed of twenty knots an hour. The Teutonic and Majestic, which followed, though larger in every way, were slower in speed, and less expensive in operating. With only 18,000 indicated horse power, against the 20,000 of the Paris, the Teutonic consumes only 300 tons of coal per day to develop her 19½ knots.

The two magnificent steamers of the Cunard Company, the Lucania and the Campania, which soon followed the launching of the American liners, established new ocean records, and new coal-consuming figures. The Campania, with 19,000 tons' displacement, had 30,000 horse power, and developed a speed of 22 knots, with a daily coal consumption of about 470 tons. The modern coal gluttons were in full force by this time, and the steamship companies had to confess that the lowering of the record meant, not only larger ships, but heavier coal cost. The Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company was built on lines which fully recognized this fact. She is 26 feet longer than the Campania, 1 foot greater in beam, and has 1,000 tons more displacement. Her fastest trip was made at an average speed of 22.79 knots, covering in one period of twenty-four hours 580 knots. Nevertheless her horse power was slightly less than that of the Campania, being 28,000 against the latter's 30,000, and her coal consumption a trifle more, amounting, according to the owners' figures, to 500 tons a day.

Ordinary Business Principles.

Sir James Blyth in The Nineteenth Century.

The words "ordinary business principles" should, in this connection, comprise and indicate at least three main and cardinal points of conduct without due observance of which any business is likely to go astray: (1) Personal responsibility, (2) Payment by results, (3) Promotion by merit.

(1) By personal responsibility is meant a system and a method by which the business conduct and action of every individual employe can be clearly and directly traced to that individual by the employer, who is thus put into a position to reward or blame, promote or dismiss individual men from the lowest to the highest.

(2) Payment by results means that the whole outcome and condition of a business must be taken into account in settling or resettling from time to time the terms of all contracts, which should seldom be made for long periods, but should be subject to revision if necessary as a consequence of frequent balances.

(3) Promotion by merit explains itself, and is the only sufficient guarantee for efficiency and against lethargy and sloth. Such anti-businesslike practices as promotion by mere seniority are of course condemned by this principle, which insures a constant flow of energy and competitive force.

The Pitt Diamond.

From "Fort St. George, Madras." By Mrs. E. Penney.

While Pitt, the grandfather of Lord Chatham, was Governor of Fort St. George in 1698, he became acquainted with a jewel merchant named Jamchund, who brought a diamond of great size for sale. He asked £30,000 for it in the rough. It should, of course, have been bought on behalf of the company, but Pitt, seeing money in it, could not resist the temptation of making a private bargain. He became the possessor of the stone for the sum of £20,400, and he was quite satisfied that he had behaved honorably when he paid the man, who on his part was also content. But the diamond was known to be worth more than Jamchund had received, and the transaction gave rise to a good deal of gossip, which in no way decreased when later on Pitt had the stone cut in England, and sold it to the Regent of France for £135,000. Even that enormous sum did not represent its true value. The stone was set in the royal crown of France, where it still remains, and it is valued in the present day at £480,000, close upon half a million sterling. It weighed 410 carats in the rough, but the cutting reduced it to 136 carats.

The Basutos.

From Good Words.

Next to the Zulus the Basutos are physically and intellectually the finest tribe in Africa; and, indeed, the "Fingoes," who are met with in large numbers throughout the country, are, I believe, members of dispersed Zulu tribes who have intermarried. The Basutos mostly wear blankets of divers colors—more commonly dark red—which reach to about the knee, though the younger generation even dispense with this loose garb, and run about in their bronze, chocolate-colored skins. Many of the women have their faces tattooed in lines from the forehead to the chin, and across the face. The Basutos know a stranger at once, and if one remains long in the country he is frequently addressed by a nickname, such as "Father of tall men," "Father of long beards," &c., the more common and complimentary title being "Morena" or chief. When one meets a Basuto the general salute is "Lumela" (pronounced lumelah, and meaning "Good-day to you,") the reply being simply "E" (pronounced like a in day, and meaning "Good-day to you also"); or, supposing one wished to say "I like to travel in company," it would be "Ke rata ho eta ke na le ba bang."

Photographing a Real Indian.

From Everybody's Magazine.

Posing is slow work, but tea, with hot frankfurters between unbuttered slices of bread, filled in the waits to every one's satisfaction. The Indian visitors were polite, but frank. It happened that a crust fell to the share of Iron Tail, whereat he promptly returned it to be exchanged for a slice from the inside of the loaf.

The artist, meanwhile, had begun to weary of beadwork and feathers.

"I want a real raw Indian for a change," she declared. "The kind I used to see when I was a child."

Quite at random she selected Iron Tail, and proceeded to divest him of his finery. Feathers and trinkets were removed, and amid a dead silence she placed him before the camera and secured the most remarkable portrait of the whole collection. He said never a word, but obeyed instructions like an automaton. In the wonderful face which serves as a frontispiece to this issue, it is perhaps not fanciful to read something of the misery which he was really undergoing. For the truth was that every feather represented some act of bravery, either on his own part or that of his ancestors. This superb old Sioux (who probably took part in the Custer fight nearly a quarter of a century ago) had been a mighty man of battle; the number of his plumes stood for enemies slain; they were like a medal of honor, or a Victoria Cross, or the Order of the Legion, and to be stripped of them before his comrades was as if a Captain's sword should be broken in the face of his men. Without sentimental exaggeration, it was a tragedy to the veteran. When the portrait was handed to him some days later, he tore it in two and flung it from him. Luckily, however, an explanation and a second sitting in full regalia entirely restored his peace of mind.

Asphodel.

As some pale shade in glorious battle slain,
On beds of rue; beside the silent streams,
Recalls outworn delights in happy dreams;
The play of oars upon the flashing main,
The speed of runners, and the swelling vein,
And toil in pleasant upland field that teems
With vine and gadding gourd, until he seems
To feel wan memories of the sun again
And scent the vineyard slopes when dawn is wet,
But feels no ache within his loosened knees
To join the runners where the course is set,
Nor smite the billows of the fruitless seas,—
So I recall our day of passion yet,
With sighs and tenderness, but no regret.
—WILLA SIBERT CATHER in The Critic.

Cruel Christophe.

From "Where Black Rules White; Haiti," Prichard.

There seems to have been nothing to appeal to in the "Emperor" Christophe's nature. Bravery, humility, all alike failed to touch him. He had no bowels of mercy. He was one day on the battlements with a youth, who, perhaps presuming on past favors, in some manner displeased him. The drop from those sheer walls is 2,000 feet to the plain below. "You are, of course, about to die," said Christophe, "but I will be kind to you. You shall have a choice of deaths. Either you throw yourself over here or the soldiers shall shoot you." The young man chose to fling himself into space. But by a miracle he fell among some trees or bushes on the cliff-side, and so escaped with a broken arm. He gathered himself up somehow, and presented himself again before the Emperor. "Your bidding has been done, sire," he said. "Yes, it has," remarked Christophe, "and I am very much interested to find that you survive. Oblige me by trying if you can do it again!"

Military Censorship.

From Blackwood.

In nothing have the war correspondents shown their unfitness for duty more clearly than in their censure of the censorship. They, at any rate, are not troubled by any foolish notions of discipline, the quality which before all others gives mobility to warfare. They, in their pride, would yield obedience to none, and though the condition of their trade is a strict censorship, they are valiant in abuse when they get home. From the intemperate language which some of them have used, we might conclude that war was arranged merely as a spectacle for the reporter's eye, and that any officer who deemed it his duty to check the reporter's "impressions" was a traitor to his country. The correspondents, in short, have mistaken a privilege for a right, and have not understood that the censor who lets a single message through has conferred a benefit for which the gratitude of a lifetime is insufficient. Once upon a time there was a General who, misliking the censorship, let the correspondents send home what messages they pleased at their own risk. "But," said he, "your dispatches will be telegraphed back to me, and if any offend me, I shall put him out of camp." Such a policy as this, sternly enforced, would be the best antidote to the correspondents' arrogance.

The Beauty of Georgian Women.

Henry Norman in Scribner's.

Are the women of Georgia as beautiful as we have always been told? When they become matrons, which is at an early age, they are too stout and broad in the beam for beauty, but in their youth, I should judge from glimpses at windows and passing faces, there may well be extraordinary loveliness among them—the loveliness of perfectly chiseled features true to the racial type, large, calm, dark eyes, firm, full mouth, alabaster skin, indigo-black hair—the precise antithesis of the piquancy of irregular features and nervous temperament which generally passes for beauty among ourselves. These are women, you feel, whose lips would whisper passionate love or, if times allowed, sing high the song that sends their men to battle—whose fingers would grasp the dagger or fall lightly across the strings of the lute with equal aptness. Dagger and war song, however, are out of date to-day.

Bargaining in the Orient.

From Woman's Home Companion.

In Smyrna, Turkey, and Egypt, the bargaining language is about the same.

"What you give, lady?"

"I won't give anything! I don't want it! What! Do you think I would carry that back to America?"

"But you take hold of him; you feel him silk; I think you want to buy. Ver' cheap; only £4."

"Four pounds!" I say in French. "Oh, you don't want to sell; you want to keep it! And at that price you will keep it!"

"Keep it!" in a shrill scream. "Not want to sell? Me? I here to sell! I sell you everything you see! I sell you the shop!" More wheedlingly, "You give me 40 francs?"

"No," in English again. "I'll give you $2."

"America! Liberty!" he cries, having cunningly established my nationality, and flattering my country with Oriental guile. "How much you give for him? Last price, now. Six dollars!"

We haggle over "last prices" for a quarter of an hour more, and after two cups of coffee amicably taken together, and some general conversation, I buy the thing for $3.

The Lucky Bargain.

I have a friend, without whose face
(God keep his face from sorrow free!)
The world would be a dreary place
For weary me.

To please him is my chief delight;
I'd rather die than give him pain,
Yet this I've done in my despite,
And shall again.

My friend is kind when I am cross,
Nor ever cross when I am kind;
He rules the sullen waves that toss
My tolling mind.

His gracious spirit gives me joy:
What can I give him for his grace?
A little, useless, battered toy
Of time and space.

A box of prayers with broken wings,
Of shapeless hopes and wasted hours,
Of half a hundred worn-out things
And faded flowers;

Wherein one blossom lives, and makes
A light, whereat his lips will part
And smile for kindness, as he takes
The proffered heart.
—N. S. in The Spectator.

Irish-American Dialect.

From The Gentleman's Magazine.

These comic philosophers mostly live in America. There only is the idea cultivated in literature. In England authors write only fact or fiction. But across the Atlantic there are hosts of clever men who are not ashamed to set down what whimsical ideas come into their heads. We call them, somewhat contemptuously, humorists, but a little of their light philosophy would be a very welcome addition to the heavy fact and foolish fiction which make our illustrated magazines such serious publications. Well, these light-hearted philosophers nearly always write in dialect. Their favorite dialect is the Irish-American, but they make much use of the negro, Yankee, and Western. The Irish-American dialect is entirely a paper one; it is absolutely unpronounceable. It has the usual Irish idioms, and to them lively American pens have added scores of strange words. It is wholly comic, never being used for serious writings, though perhaps, now "Mr. Dooley" is fast making it classical, it may doff its holiday garb and don more workaday clothes. Its present resort is, however, the comic paper and in it a large percentage of the jokes given to the English-speaking world is cast. But in the case of jokes of the question and answer description perhaps the negro dialect is most used. Massa Jonsing and Dinah have a number of funny things to say to each other in their quaint speech, which undoubtedly has influenced, or, at least, been influenced by, the American Irish. Both speeches overlie the highest of spirits; whether a quip be written in the one or the other seems to be a matter decided by the caprice of the moment. Both are employed to convey from writer to reader the most innocent mirth in the world. The clumsiness of the two dialects is, indeed, most praiseworthy, and makes their popularity with readers on both sides of the Atlantic a matter for congratulation.

How Apache Got Religion.

From Harper's Magazine.

Apache had not always rejoiced in a church. Some four years ago the Bishop had been holding services at Waywego, the nearest town to the north. After service a stranger came forward and invited him to Apache.

"We need you down there, Bishop," he said, earnestly. "There's murder, an' gamblin', an' drinkin', an' lynchin' goin' on all the time. Seems like God's got no show at all there. I've lived in them parts nigh onto thirty year—I come when there wasn't nobody but Injuns an' buffaler an' me—an' we ain't never had a religious service since I been there. There's wimmin and children there, too. I've got some myself—w'ich 'em 'ain't been baptized. I was raised in this church, an'—Will you come, Sir?"

The Bishop came, and came again and again, and in spite of short-sighted local opposition, he established the church, baptized the children—some of them, that is—and stirred up the people generally. The town improved in manners and morals—not much, but perceptibly; nevertheless, gambling went on, of course, and drinking prevailed as before, but the public point of view gradually changed; men grew ashamed of these things, even if they did not stop them. The cowboys on the ranges used to say with emphatic disgust that "Apache had got religion and gone to h—l!"—a double misstatement that. In only one particular was there no change—the Vigilance Committee, which comprised all the male citizens, still held its sessions; horse stealing, murder, (not killing in fair fight, be it understood,) ill-treatment of women—all these were expiated at the end of a rope in Judge Lynch's swift and summary court.

Eastern Oysters on the Pacific Coast.

Report of the United States Commission of Fish and Fisheries.

During the last two or three years several private beds of eastern oysters have been established in different parts of Willapa Bay, Washington, and they are reported to be doing well, possibly because it is somebody's interest to protect them from depredations of unprincipled persons.

In this connection I should counsel against further plantings of oysters on this coast by the commission unless satisfactory guarantee can be offered that they will be protected from theft. A general assurance from the oystermen of a given locality is not sufficient, as then no one feels the responsibility and no one wishes to assume the onus of prosecuting the offenders even if they be detected.

In two of the five oysters found the ovaries were well developed and apparently ripe eggs could be squeezed from the oviduct. The other three were not sexually mature, and as no males were found the possibility of fertilizing the eggs could not be tested. I understand, however, that Prof. Doan of the State Agricultural College succeeded in fertilizing some eggs earlier in the Summer. He is said to be carrying on experiments on the line of artificial fecundation as a solution of the difficulties in establishing self-sustaining beds.

So far as I could learn, there is no evidence that the eastern oyster has ever naturally spawned here, or, rather, that there has ever been a set of spat. I think that the cold water here will prevent that under ordinary conditions, but I believe that in shallow ponds suitably constructed, and with proper precautions against the deposit of silt on the cultch, spat may be raised for subsequent planting in the open bay. If the commission is to attempt oyster culture on this coast, it seems to me that this line of research is the one indicated as most reasonable and most likely to yield results of value. The water during my stay was about 61 degree F., 8 or 9 degrees lower than usually suffices for the development of oyster fry.

Concerning the native oyster, I made the interesting observation that, like its European relative, the eggs undergo a very considerable development in the gill chamber of the mother. When discharged they are, in fact, about at the stage of fixation. The eggs and embryos are very much larger than the eggs of the eastern oyster. I do not remember to have seen this fact mentioned by those who have called attention to the hermaphroditism of the species.

Cow Worship in Africa.

Dr. A. Donaldson Smith, in The Geographical Journal.

Two short marches on Feb. 5 and 6 brought us to a long pool of still water, but here the river bed spread out in many little dried-up ditches, that lost themselves within a quarter of a mile in the plain. Here we found another branch of the Magois, who called themselves Katua, and represented that they were very independent of their immediate neighbors, and at war with a tribe called Toporan, living in the mountains west of Turkana. The Katua occupied a dozen large villages and owned an immense number of cattle and other live stock. Although rich, they were scarcely any ornaments, and did not care much for any other kind of beads than the wonderfully fashionable little red sim-sim. Trading went on merrily until I had bought about sixty sheep and goats, and my stock of red beads was getting low, owing to the many grains upon it. Cloth and blue and yellow beads, of which I had a large supply, were valueless. In the trading the women figured largely, to my great annoyance, as they were so long in making up their minds and so hard at a bargain. I was obliged to play salesman to these women for many hours a day, and I often wondered if European salesmen ever have to exact the same amount of patience.

To my surprise, I discovered these people to be cow worshippers and to indulge in certain rites which were supposed to be peculiar to the Hindoo religion. Plastering themselves with cow dung and throwing bits of dried bois de vache at every one and everything they liked seemed to be a matter of much import to them, and occasionally some old man or woman would be quite unmerciful in giving me a too generous dusting. The origin of this cow worship is presumably the same with the Katua as with the Hindoo, traceable to the great dependence placed upon the animal for sustenance. The Katua eat the cow, but all their feasts turn out when the beast is killed and go through much ceremony. They would not sell me a single cow.

Feminine Ideals.

Margaret Deland in Harper's Bazar.

Are we making the best of it in our own lives and the lives of our girls? Or are we, perhaps, in our fury of impatience for goodness and helpfulness, going a little too fast? Can we bear the pace? Can the fabric of society bear the assault of Individualism? There seems to be a curious arrogance in our tiny bustling haste to help the Eternal in improving His world! A strange forgetfulness of the fact that God has drawn this earth along its path among the stars, suns have burned and cooled, nations have lived and died, and human life has drawn nearer and nearer that —far-off divine event,

To which the whole creation moves without us!

This new Feminine Ideal, divine as we believe it to be, must yet be bound close to our grim and weary world by a certain old-fashioned word—duty. In that word lies the vision of a society made up of perfect units, and in it lies, also, the secret of the joy of life. In it the new ideal and the old ideal come together, and, behold! we have an ideal which is finer, and sweeter, and nobler than either the new or old could be alone.

Dog Whipper. Sluggard Waker.

From Chambers's Journal.

A dog whipper was an ancient parish official, whose duty was to drive out all the dogs from the church. The Wakefield accounts contain the items:

1616. Paid to Gorby Stork for whipping dogs ..... 2s. 6d.
1703. For hatts shoes and hoses for sexton and dog whipper.....18s. 6d.

Another official was the person appointed to arouse members of the congregation from the slumbers during divine service. The parish accounts of Castleton record:

172. Paid to Sluggard Waker.....10s. 0d.

Harlequin at Yule.

Behold! my toast is to the merry fool!
Oh, men of mighty knowledge and much wit,
When at the volume's close your name is writ,
Ask of the drained brain what profits it?

Behold! my toast is to the merry fool!
Ye men who wrangle in the crowded mart
And bite the gold and toss the dross apart,
How drags the purse that hangs upon a heart?

Behold! my toast is to the merry fool!
Oh, ye that pry into the mysteries
And scan the gate of Death with puzzled eyes,
Lo! at the end, who sifts the truth from lies?

Behold! my toast is to the merry fool!
Time, like a skull, laughs last at gain and power.
See! wine is red, and all the world's a flower.
Let us wring out the sweetness of our hour.

Behold! my toast is to the merry fool!
—McCREA PICKERING in The Smart Set.

Human Enthusiasm.

From The Saturday Review.

Vergil fancied that Augustus was bringing back the Age of Gold. The early Christians lived with all their feelings intensified by yearly or even daily anticipation of the second coming of Christ. The English Puritans looked forward to the reign of the saints on earth, and some epoch-making catastrophe which should plunge in the lake of brimstone all whose talents or manners gave grace or cheerfulness to existence. The French revolutionists indulged in a similar dream, though in place of the saints they put the Goddess of Reason, and persuaded themselves that in the formula of liberty, equality, and fraternity the meaning were revealed to them of inaugurating an immediate and satisfactory millennium. Italy imagined that when once it was united and independent, it would be a new Garden of Eden—

"White with the dew and the rime
When the morning of God comes down,"; and now it is the most over-taxed, and one of the most discontented countries of Europe. The same wondrous tale was taken up by visionaries among the Socialists, whom, under the influence of Karl Marx and his disciples, persuaded themselves that the capitalistic system would have sunk in ruins at least twenty years ago, and that a new economic régime would by this time have been established under which everybody would be as rich as he wished to be, and nobody would be any richer than his neighbor. Comte imagined that the days of the Christian Church were numbered; and that all Paris would presently be a sort of Salvation Army, skipping and singing hymns to the glory of universal humanity. And so in the same way innumerable other movements, different in shape and detail, but similar in their emotional character, are rising round us, flourishing, and coming to untimely ends.

A Chinese Girl.

From Lippincott's New Magazine.

She had been very happy with her kind missionary friends, and had been brought up as a good Methodist. At the age of fourteen, however, her mother claimed her in order to arrange a marriage for her. All this time her feet "had been neglected," and allowed to grow to their natural size; but now she and her mother determined, even at that age, to begin bandaging them, for they knew no man in a respectable position would marry a large-footed woman.

"Did you suffer, Amah?" I asked in horrified tones as I looked at her feet, now three inches long.

"Oh, yes," she answered quietly; "I thought the pain would kill me, and I could neither sleep at night nor enjoy anything during the day for months and months; but every day I asked my mother to pull the bandages tighter, and would sit in the doorway and watch the children playing and other persons coming and going, while I could only rock myself to and fro and moan."

I induced her to take off her tiny silk and embroidered slipper, to unwrap the bandages they must always wear, and show me her hideously distorted foot, with its toes bent back to the heel. Unless she had told me so herself, I could never have believed that the shape of the foot could have been so altered at the age of fourteen.

Where the Twentieth Century Will Dawn.

From Pearson's.

If the change of the centuries took place at either of the equinoxes—March 22 or Sept. 22—then, since on those days the earth's axis is at right angles to the plane of the orbit, and there is equal day and night all over the world, the matter would be very easily decided. The dawn-line would coincide with the date-line, and from pole to pole the first sun of the new century would rise at the same moment.

But, unfortunately, this is not so, and the consequence is that the line of dawn, as it sweeps round the earth, first touches the date-line to the south of the equator, and then gradually creeps up this line till it leaves it far to the north. So the first sun of the twentieth century will rise on the places along or near the date-line in the order of their position, from the south upward.

Now, there is no land along this line from the antarctic circle to Antipodes Island, hence this tiny spot of earth will first see the twentieth century dawn. A few minutes later Bounty Island will see it. Then it will sweep along the northeast coast of North Island, New Zealand; then over Vanua Levu, in the Fiji Islands. Next it will shine on the scattered coral islets of the Ellice group, and after traveling about nine degrees more to the north, the lighttide will touch the crossing of the dawn-line and date-line at 6 o'clock.

Two hours and five minutes will have to pass before it reaches the banks of the Yarra. In six hours and fifty minutes it will gild the temples and palaces of Calcutta. In nine hours and fifty minutes it will be flowing over Lion's Head, and down the rugged sides of Table Mountain. In twelve hours and twenty-five minutes it will have crossed Montmartre and touched the base of the Eiffel Tower in Paris. Five minutes later it will have passed the cross of St. Paul's and be flowing up Fleet Street, in London. In seventeen hours and twenty minutes from the time it crossed the dawn-line it will be flowing round the feet of the Statue of Liberty, and in three hours more it will have reached the Golden Gate. Thence it will cross a stretch of ocean unbroken by rock or islet back to the dawn-line, and so will be accomplished the evening and morning of the first day of the twentieth century.

The Black Bear.

At rustle of leaf the red fawn leaps—
Its mother trembles while she sleeps—
A whisper breaks the forest hush,
And both are off through the underbrush.

But not a fawn in wild wood born
So timid as he of the coat unshorn.
This mighty one who shuffles along
And never dreams that he is strong;
A cowardly bully, put to flight
By hares that romp in the still twilight,
Barked at by squirrel, by bird-cry stung,
Belabored by every forest tongue:

Gone—a black flash—ere you can make out
What all in the wood are scolding about.
—FRANCIS STERNE PALMER in Harper's Magazine.

On the Way to Peking.

From Scribner's.

Uncultivated wastes of mud stretch everywhere, tainted by putrid ponds, and filling the spaces between the vast fields of millet, which cover the greater part of the land in North China. Thousands of big and little mounds dot the country, giving it the appearance, where not concealed by vegetation, of some vast prairie dog village. Human graves are these; strange bumps of Oriental superstition, to hold the land they occupy sacred against all the needs of posterity while the Chinese govern China.

Yonder, now in touch with the crawling column, now reaching away as if to relieve the troops of its nauseous contact, only to come creeping, snakelike, back again, after having made a wide detour, is the sluggish Pei-ho. In any country but China, this tortuous, turgid stream, dragging its yellow, slimy fluid slothfully between crumbling mud banks and shores reeking with refuse, would scarcely be entitled to rank as a ditch. A ditch it is—or rather a sewer; the sewer, as well as the commercial artery, of Chihli Province. It floats endless double lines of junks, with their prows pointing to the north or to the south, in unbroken procession. It is the mother of thousands of smaller ditches, all equally yellow and contaminated, which spread out over the country like the web of an immense water spider, licking up the filth of countless villages and feeding or draining, as the case may be, their cousins, the cesspools. It now harbors, but to indecently display, cast upon its banks or floating with its current, hundreds of bloated objects that were once men and women who lived upon the earth and had souls. On it now, coolies, commandeered to serve the hated foreigners, laboriously push along, by means of poles heavily laden boats, to feeds mosquitoes by the million, disease in many forms, and death multiplied for friend and foe alike.

Broken at the Wheel.

From Notes and Queries.

In the diary of that remarkable man, Gen. Patrick Gordon, who left Scotland in 1651 a poor, unfriended wanderer, and, when he died, in 1699, had his eyes closed by the affectionate hands of his sorrowing master, the Czar Peter the Great, the following entry is to be found, under date Hamburg, March 22, 1686:

"This day, a man and a woman, a burger of the towne being the womans master, for murthering, were carried from the prisone to the house where the murder was committed; and there before this house, with hotte pinsers, the flesh was torren out of their armes, and from thence were carted to the place of justice without the towne, and there broken and layed on wheeles."

An instance fifty years later than those quoted at the last reference is recorded in the "Correspondence of Mr. Joseph Jekyll," (Murray, 1894.) In April, 1775, from the balcony of his lodgings at Orleans, Jekyll saw a criminal broken on the wheel. In a letter to his father (p. 13) he enters minutely into the sickening details, adding that "the crime of the unfortunate creature was burglary, as we learnt from his sentence, which is posted up at every corner of the streets."

Poverty.

If four blank walls be mine, and every wind
That goes careening through the vasts of sky
Makes free with my shrunk casement, and my hearth
Shows but a feeble flame, and the rough floor
Has but the dust for carpet, am I poor?
Nay, I am very Croesus! that, and more!
For no swart Mede can rob me of the dreams
Wherewith I hang a rapt Madonna there—
A face Murillo painted—drape rich folds
Of gold-shot damask round yon oriel,
And heap about me rugs of velvet pile
Deft-wrought upon the looms of Kermanshah!
Poor! Is he poor who has God's gift of dreams?
—CLINTON SCOLLARD in The "New" Lippincott.

Amalfi.

From The Catholic World.

Amalfi at the present day shelters some seven thousand souls and is a relatively lively little place, macaroni, paper, and soap being its chief products. The manufacturing of these articles forms an interesting study and shows how machinery can be employed to reduce manual labor without necessarily involving unpicturesque tall chimneys, black lowering clouds of smoke, or inartistic sights, noises, or odors.

A ravine behind the city is called "the Valely of Mills." It is a cool and shady retreat and a delightful place for an afternoon walk. It is the subject of the following interesting and brilliant description by Dean Alford: "The valley is full of mills, each going with its deafening clack and its great splash of water, each variously contrived so as to borrow the descending motive power and to pass it on, and thus presenting a series of arches and aqueducts and bridges, and stone stairs and piled-up roofs, such as I should think can nowhere else be found. Add to all this diversity of form the colors of stone and wet wood and brick and clinging vegetation and chemical matter employed in the mills, insert here and there a cottage door with a family group—the old man on his staff, the old woman spinning, the half-naked children, the curious mummy-like chrysalis of an infant in its swathing clothes, break the series now and then with a pergola or trellised canopy of lemon trees, bright green in the leaf, violet purple in the young shoot, hanging their pale gold fruit almost thicker than the leaves, and then let all the scene be dappled with the dark, cool shadows of the south, cut clear into the white mass of sunshine—let it all be towered over by fantastic rocks of every shape and tint, leaving only a broad stripe above for the blue heaven to look down through, and you have but the vain struggle of words with the unparalleled strangeness and overpowering beauty of the glen of the mouth at Amalfi."

In the chief piazza of the town is the Cathedral of St. Andrew, a beautiful and interesting structure in Lombard-Norman style of the eleventh century. The bell tower dates from 1276. The bronze doors were executed by Byzantine masters in the year 1066 and were the gift of two members of the noble Pantaleone family of Amalfi, who at this period were famous for the founding of hospitals at Jerusalem, Antioch, and various parts of Italy.

Drains and Sanitation.

From The Contemporary Review.

The basis of knowledge on which sanitation rests is furnished chiefly by the observation of facts on a large scale as they occur in actual life. Its aim has been the removal of conditions which experience has shown to be favorable to the propagation and spread of disease, and the substitution of other conditions. In general this means the removal of what we call dirt. Hence we get the purification of the ground by drainage, by refuse disposal, by impervious paving, and so on; the purification of drinking water by subsidence and filtration, or by having recourse to unpolluted sources, deep wells and springs; the purification of food stuffs by inspection, and the destruction of unwholesome articles; the purification of the air by ventilation and regulations as to space; the purification of rivers by the diversion of polluting materials, and so on. Such was the line of activity, the aim being the improvement of the general conditions of life. It acts in two ways; it removes those agencies by which disease is fostered and spread and it promotes health, thereby rendering individuals less susceptible to such risks as they may encounter. Another measure must be added, of a different character—namely, the segregation of the sick as centres of infection; hence isolation hospitals. But this movement was carried a very little way during the first period; its development belongs to the second, of which it is a very important feature. Twenty years ago isolation hardly existed; nobody went to the fever hospitals—there were scarcely any to go to; and the only infectious disease not received and treated in the general hospital was smallpox.

Germany and the Sea.

From The Fortnightly Review.

The growth of a naval policy in Germany has received more attention from publicists than the growth of the German mercantile marine. We need not stop to discuss whether it is wise for Germany to aim at being a first-class naval power. The fact is that her development as an ocean carrier and colonizer compels her to increase her naval strength. The two largest merchant fleets in the world are now sailed under the German flag, and these fleets have lately been, and are still being, increased. In effective sea tonnage Germany now ranks next, though longo intervallo, to Great Britain. The United States may have a larger registered tonnage, but a considerable proportion is in sailing vessels, and another large proportion is on the great lakes, and does not come into international competition at all. Germany has but a limited seaboard and few ports in proportion to her territorial area, but the development of her maritime enterprise is not the least striking feature in the economic expansion of the empire. The advent of the age of iron destroyed the old North German wooden shipbuilding industry. With the age of steel has come a new birth, and Germany is now building vessels for half a dozen other countries besides herself. It is true that she has still to come to us for some of her first-class liners and for some of our discarded liners to do her ocean tramping, but she aims at being entirely self-supporting in the matter of ocean tonnage. There is no reason why she should not be, with the mechanical genius of her people, the intelligence of her workmen, and her own coal and iron resources.

The finest specimens of marine architecture and mechanical skill are to be found in the transatlantic trade, and several of the most noteworthy of these are the products of German shipyards. These German lines, of course, are subsidized, but they have to render services in return for their subsidies, and it is doubtful if they receive more proportionately than Great Britain pays for similar services. They do, however, receive State assistance in the way of preferential railway rates on inward and outward cargo, and they are required to give a preference to the goods of German shippers.

Travelers' Guide—Railroads.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAILROAD

Leave New York City. Liberty St. South Ferry.

Chicago, Pittsburg & Wash. Limited	4:30 AM.	12:10 Nt. Diner.
Chicago, Pittsburg	*12:15 Nt.	*12:10 Nt. Diner.
Chicago, Columbus	* 1:30 PM.	* 1:25 PM. Diner.
Pittsburg, Cleve.	* 1:30 PM.	* 1:25 PM. Diner.
Pittsburg Limited	* 7:00 PM.	* 6:55 PM. Buffet.
Cincinnati, St. Louis	*12:15 Nt.	*12:10 Nt.
Cincinnati, St. Louis	*10:00 AM.	* 9:55 AM. Diner.
Cincinnati, St. Louis	* 7:00 PM.	* 6:55 PM. Buffet.
Norfolk	† 1:00 PM.	†12:55 PM. Diner.

ROYAL BLUE TRAINS.

Washington, Balto.	* 8:00 AM.	† 7:55 AM. Buffet.
Washington, Balto.	*10:00 AM.

The New York Times.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

PUBLISHED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR.

NEW YORK, SUNDAY, DEC. 30, 1900.

OFFICES:

NEW YORK:
Publication Office.....41 Park Row
All American District Telegraph Offices.
WASHINGTON.....515 Fourteenth St.
SWITZERLAND, Geneva: P. Drehmann, Librairie Nouvelle, Rue du Mont Blanc.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.
BY MAIL, POSTAGE PAID.

DAILY, per Month	$0.50
DAILY, per Year	6.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, per Year	7.50
SUNDAY, per Year	1.50
MONDAY, with Financial Supplement, per Year	1.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, per Month	0.65
THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW, per Year	1.00

For postage to foreign countries add 80 cents per month.

TWENTY-FOUR PAGES.

THE EMPEROR OF CHINA.

We do not think it likely that the boy named by the Empress Dowager to be actual Emperor of China, subject to her intrigues, is the son of Prince TUAN, one of the chief anti-foreign politicians of China, and one of the justest objects of the vengeance of the Powers, whose paternal relation has so often been adduced as a reason why he should not be delivered up to condign punishment. The appointment just now would be a wanton defiance of the Powers, whom the Chinese authorities are engaged not in openly defying, but in trying secretly to circumvent.

It is plain enough that there is a good deal of "politics" of the Court kind in China. But there is no reason why the Powers should pay very much attention to its manifestations. We know that it is the Chinese Government which is mainly concerned to put a stop to the present state of things by which it is daily "losing face." We know also that the titular Emperor, whose title has never been taken away in all the intrigues that have revolved around him, is one of the Chinamen who are most convinced that the exclusive external policy of the empire has been disadvantageous to China. To get KWANG-SU back to Peking, under guarantees of his personal safety, and there to treat with him, ought therefore to be prime objects with the representatives of the Western World. It is not very likely that the Chinese plenipotentiaries left at Peking will give any zealous assistance to this project, but there is little doubt that the Emperor himself would welcome it, both as an escape from the tutelage to which he has been subjected by the Empress Dowager and her accomplices during the past five years, and also as an opportunity to do what he would regard as a public service to China.

It seems certain that better terms could be obtained from the Emperor than from the clique which has usurped his functions. It is at least extremely likely that a settlement to which he assented would be in less danger of being upset by popular violence than any other. Of course, the maintenance of a stable Chinese Government, which can be held to account for its engagements, must be one of the chief conditions of a durable peace. The outlook for such a result is brighter through the restoration of the legitimate head of the dynasty than through any other visible agency. And such a settlement would have the advantage of inflicting upon the Empress Dowager and her evil counselors indirectly the humiliation which it seems to be agreed it would not do to inflict upon them directly.

THE TWO COMMITTEES.

It is plain that the Tammany Committee for the Suppression of Vice is doing a certain amount of effective work. It has already secured proof of violations of law that ought to have been detected and punished or prevented by the police. Some of this proof has been submitted to the Police Commissioners, and is understood to be in part the basis of action in the trial of Capt. HERLIHY and that of Inspector CROSS, one of which is going on and the other is soon to follow. It is reported that the committee is also engaged in using the evidence that it has accumulated to bring about the resignation or dismissal of Chief DEVERY. It appears to have secured the co-operation of one of the commission who has heretofore stood by the Chief. The means by which this has been done seems to have been in the line of the time-honored trade and dicker in police patronage, but that does not change the fact that for the first time in two years the police are for the moment not taking orders without question from the Gamblers' Syndicate or its agent.

Some question has been raised as to the relations that ought to exist between this committee and the Committee of Fifteen. It is doubtless a question that has been considered on both sides. The Tammany committee set out with the avowed intention of co-operating with any or all organizations engaged in the work of purifying the city. If, in pursuance of that intention, it should lay before the Committee of Fifteen trustworthy evidence of the evils that are notorious, and of the participation in the protection thereof of persons in the City Government or in the Tammany organization, we have no doubt that the Committee of Fifteen would honestly and vigorously try to bring about punishment for the past and security for the future. That committee was appointed without the least partisan purpose. Its work must necessarily be directed against those who are responsible for the evils that exist, and the party predilections or associations of these persons, whether nominally Democratic or Republican, cannot be considered. The committee understands perfectly, we believe, the obligation of entire impartiality that it has assumed, and will be guided by it in its relations with the Tammany committee as with all other bodies.

THE NEGRO AND THE THREE R'S.

According to Prof. BARRINGER of the University of Virginia there is danger in educating the negro in the South because it will increase his capacity to compete with the whites in industry, and, since he can live much more cheaply, will convert him into an "economic menace." All the education that the professor would advise for the negro is "moral training, supplemented by the three R's and such simple training in agriculture and the domestic arts as all will need."

In the paper in which this doctrine is laid down there is shown a spirit not exactly such as we might expect from a university professor, and there are some flaws in his demonstration that seem to indicate more vigor of emotion than of reasoning. The statement is not on this account less significant. It is, indeed, rather more so, for these things are evidences of sincerity, and sincere expressions of opinion and of sentiment from men enjoying the confidence and esteem of their section are especially valuable as to this question of negro education. It is not a sectional question solely, by any means, but in a serious sense is a National question, and every part of the country is interested in its rational solution.

The feeling in the South of industrial jealousy of the negro is entirely natural. It is, as Prof. BARRINGER points out, found in the North as well when there are enough negroes to give rise to it. Some of the most cruel and cowardly outrages on negro workingmen in all our history were committed in the President's own State, and there have been instances of the same sort in other States with Republican Governors, who have shamefully failed in the performance of their plain duty. It is a feeling that has existed without regard to color or nationality toward all workers likely to accept low wages, in all countries and at all times. It is intense in its nature and savage in its manifestation in direct ratio to the ignorance and low level of civilization of those showing it. That it prevails more in the South than in the North—if it does, and of that we are not so sure as Prof. BARRINGER seems to be—it is undoubtedly due to the greater number of the negroes and the correspondingly greater pressure on the labor market.

As to Prof. BARRINGER'S suggestion for meeting the situation as he describes it, we think that it is an extremely sensible one, which would work very well, but not at all as he predicts. If the negroes in the South are provided by the State with good moral training, with thorough schooling in reading, writing, and arithmetic, and with the training in agriculture and the domestic arts which all will need, or, let us say, which all could use, the hopes of the most earnest friends and advocates of negro education will be in a great degree realized. And we risk nothing in saying that all the true friends of negro education would be greatly gratified if equally good schooling were provided for the whites as well. The plan would be an excellent one, because it would be a substantial beginning in the right direction. Apparently Prof. BARRINGER might put a narrower construction on training in agriculture and the domestic arts than we should. Such training might and ought to include all the arts that a farmer can use with advantage, such as carpentry, the simpler forms of masonry and ironworking as required in farming, and would, of course, extend to the teaching of the best methods of farming and of the handling and treatment of farm products.

Now this is no mean education, and in some important regards is far better than is provided in some of the largest and most costly public schools of the country. In our judgment, it fully meets the requirements of the South for either race, and goes to the limit of what the State should do for its citizens until it has more money for that purpose than is at present available in that section. We heartily approve of the plan, not, as Prof. BARRINGER suggests, because it is so limited, but because, properly carried out, it is so generous and practically beneficial. We do not think that in the long run it would repress industrial competition, which we regard as both uninteligent and hopeless. It would rather develop it; but it would steadily tend to make the negroes a sober, law-abiding, self-supporting element in the community, not at all an "economic menace," but an assured source of economic and moral and social strength.

GEN. ALGER ON BEEF.

An army officer the other day in a burst of confidence observed that, in his opinion, President MCKINLEY had preserved a pretty fair average in Secretaries of War. What this commentator evidently meant was that Secretary ALGER was so much below the average and Secretary ROOT so far above it that the average between them was a fair balance. That is no doubt the general judgment of the army, and also of the country.

The moral of this small story is that there is nothing that so becomes the late Secretary of War as modest stillness and humility. His friends must therefore be sorry to see him coming forward with a "vindication" of his administration of the War Department. This is announced as shortly to be published, and an installment of it, relating to the supply of beef during the campaign in Cuba, actually appears in the current number of The North American Review. As to the specific merits of this particular case he does not make such a bad showing. He is candid enough to quote the report of the court of inquiry, made after examining every officer who could be got at who had command of troops during the campaigns in Porto Rico and Cuba, that the issue of the canned beef in such quantities as were issued of it was "a colossal error, for which there is no palliation." He argues against this conclusion, but against a conclusion so supported by testimony it is useless to argue. What is the use of issuing food which nobody will eat who is not actually compelled by the pangs of hunger so to do? As to the refrigerated beef, he seems to make out a pretty clear case that most of it, at all events, was not injected with the same fluids that are used in embalming, or with any similar fluids. But he also makes it clear that Gen. MILES had probable cause for believing that it had been so treated, and was not to be blamed, but contrariwise commended, for endeavoring, on such evidence as was accessible to him, to prevent the issue of it to the army under his command.

But Gen. ALGER'S chief mistake is to assume that these specific charges covered or made up the public case against him. The case against him was, in effect, that he was a very small politician in a place which at that time imperatively required a person of much larger dimensions. At a picnic of the G. A. R. we have no doubt that he would cut a fairly respectable figure. At the desk of the Secretary of War, in times which made that place unexpectedly important and critical, he cut a very poor figure. If there had not been a war he might have averaged fairly well with the other politicians who have held the place since STANTON. His conspicuousness was largely his own fault, but perhaps still more largely his misfortune. Now that the amiable President himself has long been convinced of his impossibility and has filled his place with a man of much larger pattern, we do not know of anybody who is taking the trouble to disparage or criticise him. Why should he not be satisfied? Why should he not let sleeping dogs lie, or, if he insists upon that inversion, let lying dogs sleep? The only explanation that occurs to us is that he must think that he has still a political future. His delusion to that effect would be one of the most remarkable instances of "the pathetic fallacy" on record.

THE CENTURY CHANGE OF 1801.

What thoughts were in people's minds a hundred years ago with regard to the change of the century? An inspection of old books and periodicals gives an answer to the question. With the foundation of the American Republic and the astonishing results of the French Revolution, the people of that day were so accustomed to the rapid succession of mighty events that they were perhaps not so much impressed with the change of the century as we are. And yet their newspapers seem to have been as busy with the dispute as to the initial year of the century as a certain part of the public was a year ago.

The Connecticut Courrant, January, 1801, begins the year with the following "Ode to the Century":

Precisely twelve o'clock last night
The eighteenth century took its flight,
Full many a calculating head
Has racked its brains, its ink has shed,
To prove by metaphysics fine,
A hundred means but ninety-nine,
While at their wisdom others wondered,
But took one more to make a hundred.
Strange at the eighteenth century's close
While light in beams effulgent glows,
When bright illuminated ray
Has chased the darkness far away,
Heads filled with mathematic lore,
Dispute if two and two make four.
Go on, ye scientific sages,
Collect your light a few more ages,
Perhaps as swells the vast amount,
A century hence you'll learn to count.

While the political world was engaged in an exceedingly fierce Presidential contest, the Jefferson-Burr campaign, a few wiseacres were stoutly contending over the century dispute. The dispute had begun in 1799. The first number of The Porcupine asserts: "We are now in the last year of the century, and whoever denies this has no more brains than an oyster."

A correspondent writes to The Columbian Centinel, published at Boston, Jan. 1, 1801: "There are some disputes which for want of satisfactory evidence will probably be everlasting. Such, for example, is the daily altercation known as the Century Dispute. I verily believe that if we could be indulged with a peep upon earth a hundred years hence we should find our children as warmly engaged untying this knotty point as ever we have been."

The periodicals, both English and American, were full of congratulations upon the achievements of their respective countries. The Gentleman's Magazine for January, 1801, says: "To prove that this century is unequaled by any of the preceding ones, especially in England, we need but remark that it boasts a Newton, Locke, Johnson, a Handel, Wren, Chambers, Reynolds, Henway, Howard, and many others." The youthful American journals were still more energetically engaged in boasting the National achievements. The Baltimore Gazette said: "Of all this vast continent, which comprises more than a fourth of the globe, that part which we have the felicity to inhabit greatly anticipates the rest. All the North continue in the leading strings, closely restrained under the vigilant eye of a jealous stepmother, while all the South exhibits a dreary prospect of ignorance, slavery, and superstition. If any one is with us who lived at the beginning of the last century, it must certainly be an entertainment to him to see the different state of things of 1701 to that of the present time. It would, I imagine, be a much more desirable object to live till the year 1901, because a greater change in the affairs of the world seem to be promised."

In the first number of the year The Columbian Centinel boasts: "The eighteenth century has been illuminated by a Washington and an Adams, let the nineteenth be made resplendent by a Jefferson and a Burr. And peradventure other stars may arise before its end to add to the list of great names. The temple of fame is not yet crowded. Come forward, ye American geniuses, and bend your course to its portals."

It is interesting to compare the above with the list of the great Americans of the century selected recently for the Hall of Fame, not to speak of the great Americans not included in that list.

BRYANT'S parents, living in the same State, probably read the paragraph; perhaps their minds turned to their own seven-year-old boy. And if the paper came into the hands of young FENIMORE COOPER, then in his thirteenth year, did he even dream it might mean him?

We wish we could find in the periodicals some record of Jan. 1, 1801. In London we learn that it was a "pleasant day" and that "the thermometer in the shade and in northern aspects" stood at 40 degrees. Of the weather in New York on that day we have seen no record. The papers of that time had no weather reports. New York had but few newspapers. Of course, the day had one feature which it has lost now. The New Year's calls gave the occasion a festivity which the opening day of the twentieth century cannot have. It is interesting to find that Gen. WASHINGTON, while living in New York, expressed great satisfaction with this custom. We hear much of the farewell injunctions of WASHINGTON, but these words of his are perhaps less familiar: "Whatever changes take place, never forget the cordial and cheerful observance of New Year's Day."

GENERAL NOTES.

The City of Detroit, Mich., tried standard time for just one week. Then the astute Common Council voted to abandon it and return to local time, regardless of railroad timetables.

* * *

The school children of Mississippi have voted in favor of the magnolia as the State's flower. The Legislature is expected to accept their choice as decisive and formally to make the magnolia the State's floral emblem.

* * *

Danger of fire from pipes, cigarettes, and other means has caused the Mayor of New Orleans to issue an order prohibiting the presence of cotton on drays in the streets of that city at night. Especially are no loaded drays to be left standing outside the warehouses.

* * *

A Western passenger agent says that his experience has shown that Friday is the best day in the week for railway passenger travel and Wednesday the worst. City hotel people would likely say that their best days in the week for transient guests are Wednesday and Thursday.

* * *

Auditor Hon. W. Q. Cole of Mississippi has published a comparative statement of assessments in that State for the years 1899 and 1900, showing a grand total in 1899 of $188,275,909, and in 1900 $215,765,947, the increase being $27,490,088, or 14.60 per cent.

* * *

The people of the Santa Clara Valley are preparing for a floral festival to be held in San Jose, Cal., next Spring, probably the last week in April, and hope to have present President McKINLEY, whom they expect to visit "the coast" at that time. The San Jose Mercury says that the last week in April is the very prime of the rose season there, and sweet peas and carnations also then bloom by the millions.

* * *

Already the W. J. Bryan Association of Cleveland, Ohio, which fought valiantly in the Presidential campaign, has formally changed its name to the Cuyahoga Association of Democratic Clubs. But before doing this they communicated with Mr. Bryan and received a letter from him, saying: "I think it is better that they should drop my name in order that no mistakes that I may make may embarrass the cause in which we are all enlisted. Circumstances will determine who should lead the next fight, but all who believe in the principles set forth in the Kansas City platform must take a hearty part in the fight somewhere."

* * *

President Thomas made a pleasant little address to the students of Bryn Mawr College just before they separated for the Christmas holidays, in which she incidentally informed them of a prospective new scholarship in the college, to be known as the Mary Eastman Brooke Hall Memorial Scholarship. To found it $2,000 has been contributed, for the most part in sums of less than $10, by graduates and former pupils of Brooke Hall, Media, Penn. Many well-known women, among them Mrs. McKINLEY, wife of the President, have been pupils of this school. The scholarship is to be awarded for excellence in college work, irrespective of financial need, and it is to be established as a fitting memorial of the woman who won for the school a high reputation among the minor educational institutions of the country.

A PLEA FOR THE CANTEEN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I see an article in your to-day's issue relating to the canteen, signed "J. W.," from which I quote the following:

"If the canteen is an abomination in the navy, how can it be otherwise in the army? If the canteen is the place to tempt the recruit that never drank liquor it should be abolished."

Does the writer of the above think for a minute that a change for the better has been made by abolishing the canteen in the navy? A visit to the navy yard gate at the foot of Sands Street, Brooklyn, on pay days will convince him of the contrary. Another visit to the grogshops that abound in that neighborhood will recall certain things hitherto unknown to him.

Every man, or almost every drinking man, hides a "dog" (bottle of whisky) in his clothes before returning on board, because they know they cannot get a drink of any kind on board ship. Others that do not drink, or only drink very moderately, smuggle whisky on board for those that do use it, receiving of course a higher price for the "dog" than what was paid for it.

Another remarkable thing is the naval temperance league. You can see almost daily when the ships are in the yard a lot of young men strolling out of the gate with the temperance button on their blue shirts and steer right and left into the saloons on each side of the street. They simply join that league for various reasons too long to enumerate here, but always with the intention of obtaining some personal gain.

As to the canteen being a place to tempt a recruit that never drank liquor, I would respectfully state that I served in the United States Army, and, although there were about 600 men in the post, among whom I had a great many friends, I never got one drink in the canteen, nor in any of the numerous saloons surrounding the reservation. The canteen did not tempt me in the least; and there were many young men like myself in the regiment at the time, and there always will be a good many of the same pattern. I had been used at home to have wine at the table, but for almost ten years I have not touched a drop of liquor of any kind. For some people one or two drinks are like a medicine, and cannot hurt any one. "Whisky builds up the strong but kills the weak," was what one Irishman said every time he lost his senses from excess of alcohol.

That man was eight years with me in the army, and as he could not get his whisky in the post he walked eight miles to the nearest place when off duty to lay in a provision for the days he could not leave the post.

All the talk about the canteen is done by people who never did see an army post and do not know anything at all about the canteen or the United States Army soldier. As soon as the canteen will be abolished saloons and bad resorts will spring up around the reservations like grass, where the boy in blue, instead of being allowed only two glasses of wholesome beer, can "fill up" with poison and thus spend all his money, ruin his health, and get him in trouble of all kinds.

COMPANY G, FIFTEENTH INFANTRY.
Brooklyn, Dec. 28, 1900.

THE NEW CENTURY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Not more than seventy-five people now living in the United States will behold the dawn of the twenty-first century, and it therefore need not concern us very much what that period of time may have in store for us; but we may take a deep interest in what might be accomplished in the new century into which we will be fairly launched next Tuesday.

Should the reform of the civil service proceed at a little more rapid rate than during the last fifteen years we might reasonably hope that long before the end of the coming century the conduct of the business affairs of the country would be wholly separated from politics.

Then, the conditions being favorable, we might hope with profit to the people to municipalize the telephone service, street cars, gas, water and electric light, and nationalize railways and telegraph lines.

The Government might also establish postal savings banks and a life insurance department. Why should not the Government offer to insure every man who has dependents during the productive period of his life, say, until age sixty-five, at actual cost, leaving the business of investment insurance in the hands of private corporations as at present?

The inauguration of such reforms as herein outlined would tend to abolish the poverty about which we hear so much, and with which we will have sooner or later to reckon, if matters go on as at present. Where is the statesman who is able to tear down, originate, and build up better? With the abolition of the spoils system, the occupation of the "boss" in politics would be gone and we would have leaders instead. There is no advantage to the people in exchanging a Democratic boss for a Republican boss. If not as bad at first, he soon would be or worse, because of the system and the temptations to corruption incident thereto.

The Christian Church might lend a helping hand in matters which so vitally concern the masses, but its ministers, who otherwise would be the natural leaders, are for the most part too busy perpetuating the peculiar beliefs of their denomination, or trying to save it from decay. Why should the country at large be required to support a dozen or more different kinds of Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians, and Lutherans? What good do they do that could not be better done if they were united? And what a tremendous waste would be saved both at home and in the foreign missionary field! To be sure, like the boss in politics, the occupation of many of the ministers would be gone should there be a consolidation of the churches; but it would be cheaper for the people to pension such as were disabled for other work. It is a pity the great financier of Wall Street could not lend a helping hand in the consolidation of the churches, since he has won such distinguished success in consolidating the railways and the anthracite coal interests. H.
New York, Dec. 29, 1900.

PROF. AGASSIZ'S DREAM.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. W. J. Stillman, in a letter to The London Spectator in the year 1898, and, I think, in the number of the 8th of January of that year, tells the following extraordinary story upon the authority of the late Prof. Agassiz:

"Sir: The letters on sleep and dreams in The Spectator remind me of a case in the experience of Agassiz, and which he told me himself, though it is recorded in his work on the American fishes. He was studying a fossil fish in the Jardin des Plantes, but had never been able to determine the species to his satisfaction. After a time he dreamed that he caught the very fish, and without difficulty determined the question, thinking, as he woke from the dream, that he would now have no difficulty. But on returning to the fossil something in the dream had escaped him, and he could no more determine the species than before. The next night he had the same dream, and again forgot the essential point. He then determined to take a pencil and paper with him to bed, and make his note as soon as he awoke. The dream came the third time, but to his surprise on fully awaking he found the drawing made and dying on the table at his bedside, with three bones displayed in it which were not visible in the fossil, and which solved the problem. On returning to the Jardin des Plantes he obtained permission of his friend, the director, to chip away a scale of stone which lay on the spot where the bones were in the drawing, and found them as there his drawings had given them. It is thirty years since Agassiz told me the incident, but those who have access to his history of the North American fishes will be able to read it in his own words in the introduction, and correct my version if my memory has in any detail failed me."

There was something so marvelous about this story, coming as it purports to from such a high authority, that I was impelled to go to the fountain to which Mr. Stillman directs the reader to verify his record, and also, if I could, to extract any additional light from the context. I first applied to the New York Public Library, but I found no trace of the book referred to in the story, nor, in the most complete biographical lists of the works of Prof. Agassiz given by Prof. Marcou in his biography of the naturalist was there any work of the title of "North American Fishes" discovered. I then addressed myself to Mr. Worthington C. Ford of the Boston Public Library, presuming that there, if anywhere, I should get the information I was in quest of. Mr. Ford writes me: "Nothing that we have of Agassiz's clears up your question, and Mr. Stillman's memory may have played him false. The story is not in his work on American fishes, nor in the work on fossil fishes. In all we have looked through some twenty volumes of Agassiz's writings, as well as two biographies; so, to my regret, I confess failure."

I do not know the address of Mr. Stillman, who resides mostly in Europe, and, as he did not think it worth his while to take the trouble to look up and give to the readers of The Spectator a reference to the work in which the professor's story is recorded I should hesitate, even if I knew his address, to ask him to take that trouble for me; so I submit my question to the readers of THE TIMES, especially to the class most familiar with the publications of Prof. Agassiz, in the hope that some one of them will be able to tell us when and where Agassiz made himself responsible for the story for which Mr. Stillman cites him as authority. JOHN BIGELOW.
New York, Dec. 26, 1900.

A Call to Devonshire Families.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As President-elect of the Devonshire Association for 1901, I am desirous of submitting to the association, at its meeting in the coming year, some notes on the history and the distribution of the descendants of Devonshire families permanently or temporarily settled in the British colonies or in the United States of America.

I also wish to invite any such who may chance to be visiting the old country in August, 1901, to become members of the association, and to attend the three days' meeting in Exeter.

I shall feel greatly obliged to any persons of Devonshire descent or Devonshire connections now in the colonies or in the United States who may see this invitation, if they would be so good as to write me, as soon as possible, to the following address:

SIR ROPER LETHBRIDGE,
The Manor House,
Exbourne, R. S. O.,
Devon,
England,

with any particulars they can give me of the emigration of their family and its subsequent history, together with the names and addresses of its living members.

I hope you will be so good as to aid me in making this invitation known by kindly inserting this letter. ROPER LETHBRIDGE.
The Manor House, Exbourne, Devon, England, Dec. 5, 1900.

Condition of the Streets.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you permit me to add my word to those others speaking of the condition of the streets? I should suppose the street-cleaning force dismissed and only an occasional member retained. Cleaning is so rare, and when done, so superficial, both by sweeper and remover, that the thought occurs to me that the men are not intended to be efficient in carrying off dirt. The spread of influenza and its duration are doubtless aggravated by the dirty streets. It is poison to throats and eyes.

A short walk fills one's clothes with dirt, and it cannot be kept out of the houses, for it blows from the streets to the sidewalks, and through every crack of door and window. It seems as if the Street Cleaning Department awaited patiently for a snowstorm to spread a thick veil over its shortcomings. Even Central Park is in this same condition, and I wonder that handsomely dressed people are satisfied to take their daily drives in the midst of it.
New York, Dec. 28, 1900. L. P.

Says Blasting Continues.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While reading TIMES article this morning, entitled "Palisade Park Commissioners," I can distinctly hear the boom of the gigantic blasts across the river, from One Hundred and Third Street and Amsterdam Avenue. I also heard them last evening from the corner of One Hundred and Sixteenth Street and Broadway. The article above mentioned said in referring to option secured to the commission that blasting ceased on Christmas eve, not to be resumed before June 1 next. Have not the owners who gave this option for money consideration violated their agreement? G.
New York, Dec. 29, 1900.

The Sayre Family Tree.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Patience has ceased to be a virtue in regard to the incorrect statement that Mr. Monell-Sayre is related to the Sayre family of Kentucky. He was a connection by marriage. Mr. Monell-Sayre's family was related to the wife of the late philanthropist, David A. Sayre of Lexington, Ky., but she had no children, and therefore no lineal descendants. Mr. Monell-Sayre resembles several generations of his family, in no way related to any branch of the Sayre family.
New York, Dec. 28, 1900. C.

No Smallpox at This Number.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to call your attention to an error in THE TIMES of Wednesday, Dec. 26, of a case of smallpox at 2,704 Broadway. There is no one living in 2,704. It is used only as a carpenter shop by me.
C. E. EICKHOFF.
New York, Dec. 29, 1900.

HARM IN MANY BIG DINNERS.

Washington Letter in Chicago Inter Ocean.

An old man with spare, bent figure and gray-tinged whiskers drooping from a sad, serious face, entered the House chamber Monday morning, just before the House was called to order, and scores of members looked up with a start as they saw him walk into the Republican cloakroom and then pass down the centre aisle. He looked enough like the late Mr. Dingley, who was leader of the House until his death, two years ago, to have been mistaken for him. For a moment some of the absent-minded were about to greet him as their old leader, forgetting that Mr. Dingley was dead, and that there had not been a masterful and tactful leader on the floor since his day.

"Do you know that Mr. Dingley sacrificed his life to social dinners and banquets?" one of his most intimate friends asked. "He was a man of the simplest tastes and most methodical ways. He was a serious and indefatigable worker. There never was a man who worked with more method and regularity than he. He ate the simplest food, his luncheon being invariably a bowl of bread and milk.

"But when Mr. Dingley became a member of the joint High Commission he killed himself eating. He was compelled to attend the social functions and elaborate dinners given by and to the Commissioners. He was always thinking of his work and ate unconsciously what was placed before him. He gave no thought to what he was eating. He abstained from wine, but he ate many things which would have been easier digested had he taken wine with them. He never took any physical exercise. His simple living had for years enabled him to give his whole time to brain work without bad results.

"But the new life into which he entered unconsciously killed him. Dingley was a martyr to the elevated dinner. He would have lived on for years in his own simple way. He died because he did not know how to attend banquets without eating."

"Vice President Hobart was another victim of big and fashionable dinners," said a United States Senator. "Before he came to Washington Mr. Hobart was a tremendous worker. He had a great business and he was compelled to keep on the go. He took much exercise without being conscious of it. He was a good liver, but the exercise he took in rushing about his business appointments saved him from any bad effects.

"When he came to Washington as Vice President he devoted himself to his new duties. He presided over the Senate faithfully through the long sessions of the Fifty-fifth Congress, during the tariff debates and the war discussions. He had many social engagements, and tried to attend them. He was at a big dinner nearly every night, and he ate as he had always done. But the pace was too much for him. He could not endure it. He had no way of evening up the scale with physical exercise.

"From dinners and other social engagements he went to the Senate, and from the presiding chair of the Senate he went to more dinners. He was unconscious of the tax he was placing upon his liver. He was absorbed in his duties, both official and social, and he did not realize his danger until he was a very sick man and within a short space of his grave. He was a victim of the banquet as much as Mr. Dingley, though of entirely different temperament and habits."

"Secretary Folger and Justice Stanley Matthews were also victims of the dinner habit," an old member of the House said. "Both were great workers, and they worked in the old way. Folger wrote all his reports, and with his own hand. He did not know how to dictate. Matthews had the same weakness. They came to Washington, and as members of the official set they had to attend many dinners and other social functions. Then they went to their rooms and worked over a desk, painfully writing hour after hour to keep up their work. They had no time for outdoor life. They killed themselves, and they were victims of the dinner habit."

Savages' Eyesight Not so Wonderful.

Letter to the Editor of The London Spectator.

It has been asserted that, in a general way, the Boers' eyesight is two miles longer than the British. School Board authorities have hinted that a large percantage of London children grow up short-sighted because their vision is bounded by the end of the street. I cannot help thinking that there is a good deal of misconception as to the cause of the alleged inferiority of sight. If is not mere range or acuteness of sight which is wanting so much as education in the art of seeing as apart from staring. If an entomologist and a person with no knowledge of insects (their power of sight being equal) look at an old oak paling at the range of a few feet, the chances are that where the latter sees nothing but lichen-covered wood, the former will see flattened against it certain moths. If the moths are pointed out to the unpracticed person he will immediately see them as distinctly as the other does, which proves that the physical power of sight is there, but not the mental education which puts that power into intelligent motion. Again, a very distant flagstaff will often be perfectly inviable even to a long-sighted person until it is pointed out to him, and then perfectly visible. Successful scouting and woodcraft consist, to a great degree, in the scientific and logical use of sight, which may, after all, have nothing very abnormal about it, and we all know that we may pass a conspicuous object every day for weeks, seeing it, but so completely failing to apprehend it as to be aware of its presence. A wonderful improvement can be made in children's sight by a little training on sensible lines, and there is abundant exercise for the longest sight in the shortest street. If inducements to educate the sight were held out to the British soldier and the British child, this matter would take a turn for the better. The most favorite maxim of the late Joseph Wolf, the animal painter, was, "We see distinctly only what we know thoroughly." It has been said that as far as art is concerned, the eye, even of a Benjet Wrangler, may be quite "illiterate," and in proportion as sight is illiterate in any branch of study to which it may be applied, so will it fail, and so many of board school in which the use of mere physical sight is encouraged will turn out vision of the highest order of merit. The writer of the article on "The Eyesight of Savages," suggests the trial of the sight of a dozen Zulus against the sight of a dozen sailors. If each squad were tested with entirely unfamiliar objects there would probably be but little difference between the failures of both sides.
A. H. PALMER.

AMERICAN LIBERALITY.

From The Chicago Tribune.

The benefactions of the year 1900 to educational institutions, libraries, art museums and galleries, charities, and churches by personal donations and bequests amount to the large total of $60,264,030 to date, or between $19,000,000 and $20,000,000 less than last year. This total may be increased somewhat during the coming week, but approximately it represents what has been contributed to these various objects during the year.

It is in no way discouraging that the record shows this year a falling off as compared with 1899, for last year was a record-breaker. Its total ($79,749,956) was a round fifty millions greater than the average of the preceding ten years, and that of the present year is fully thirty-two millions greater, showing that, while the wave has naturally receded a little, it is still far in advance of the total reached in any year prior to 1899.

Of this $60,264,030 educational institutions have received $30,669,644, and more than half of this has been received by thirty-six of the larger colleges and universities. The smaller colleges, academies, and seminaries have been given $9,061,405, and the Methodist twentieth century thank offering has enriched educational institutions with $3,142,332 more. Libraries and art museums and galleries should be classified as educational. The former have received $6,448,000. Nearly the entire amount has been given for the building of new libraries in sixty-four different cities and towns, and seventeen of these are to be credited to Mr. Andrew Carnegie, who has given $4,195,000 for this purpose during the year. For art galleries and museums there has been donated $856,000.

Charities and churches have received a generous proportion of the total benefits. Charities have taken $13,390,176, which is about $150,000 more than last year, and the various churches and church enterprises $8,799,605, which is nearly $6,000,000 more than last year. When it is considered that these figures only represent gifts or bequests where the amount is over $1,000 in each case, and that private subscriptions or collections, of which no record can be kept, are not included, there is every reason for the pessimist to take courage. "This world's not half so bad a world as some would like to make it."

Heresy About Malaria and Mosquitoes.

Letter to the Editor of The London Standard.

Sir: I ask leave to confirm the gist of the statement made over the signature of "Africa" in The Standard of the 3d inst., to the effect that malaria can exist without mosquitoes and vice versa. I spent three years, from 1842 to 1845, at Rio de Janiero, where there was a large English colony, and mosquitoes were prevalent in the evening and at night nearly all the year round, but I never heard of a case of malaria. From 1846 to 1861 I lived at New Orleans, where mosquitoes were extremely troublesome both by day and night during seven months of the year; there were large areas of stagnant water in the swamp behind that city, but among my numerous acquaintances I never heard of any one being afflicted with malarial fever or, as the Americans call it, chills and fever.

I afterward contracted tertian ague (chills and fever) in a severe form through living at a country house on high, dry land, within ten miles of the City of New York, land that had been cultivated for centuries, where mosquitoes were few and unimportant. Many years passed before I was rid of the poison. I am, Sir, your obedient servant. C. T. GOSTENHOFER.
Birkenhead, Dec. 4.

Trade with Canada.

From The Buffalo News.

THE NEW YORK TIMES makes the statement that the trade of Pennsylvania with Canada exceeds the entire trade of the United States with South America, and that the one feature that distinguishes our relations with Canada from those with any other country is that they have grown up naturally in obedience to the form of mutual necessity and advantage, without the slightest factitious aid, and, indeed, in spite of arbitrary obstacles imposed from one side and from the other.

It is quite clear that the trade of the United States with Canada is natural and sympathetic. We are good neighbors and like to trade one with the other, the advantages being anything like reciprocal. Canada is building up manufactories just as we are doing. She enters into competition with an adventurous spirit, just as the United States competes for trade. But the competition referred to is not offensively presented. It is for local advantage and local pride is in it. Whatever tariff changes therefore that may be made in the future will be made by each country in obedience to the law of self-protection. But it is well to consider the fact that the forces that have been able to produce the results referred to under adverse circumstances will be able to improve the conditions of mutual and reciprocal trade.

Coincidences in Names.

From The London Globe.

A correspondent tells us that an uncle of his once had as curates at the same time a Mr. Butcher and a Mr. Bullock. Near Bury St. Edmunds some years ago, we remember that the rectors of three neighboring parishes were Mr. Fox, Mr. Lamb, and Mr. Wolf. These three excellent clergymen dined together with the greatest amiability. Another correspondent tells us that when he was at school there were three boys and a master whose names were respectively Hill, Dale, Mountain, and Vale. Imagine Mr. Vale telling Mountain to bend down! Another case: In the south of London some years ago there were two churchwardens whose names were Mr. Swears and Mr. Odam.

Both Menaces to Good Government.

From The Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal.

THE NEW YORK TIMES is right when it places Platt in exactly the same category as Croker. Both are a menace to good government.

NUGGETS.

Serious Results.

"Was it a bad accident?"

"Well, I was knocked speechless and my wheel was knocked spokeless."—Boston Christian Register.

The Wheel of Fortune Whirls.

The wheel of fortune turns very rapidly in our country. It often happens with us, for instance, that a man becomes rich enough to own a carriage before he has fairly had time to learn how to get into the same without knocking his plug hat.—Detroit Journal.

The Uses of Adverse Criticism.

"Has he any show at all in public life?" asked one politician.

"Only one. There is the remote possibility that his enemies will abuse him so continuously that a lot of people will get sorry for him and vote for him out of sympathy."—Washington Star.

Not Their Kind of Talk.

"I never saw anything more absurd and inappropriate."

"Than what?"

"Why, here is a pugilistic column headed 'Small Talk of the Fighters,' and every one knows that they indulge in nothing but big talk."—Chicago Post.

HOSPITAL SUNDAY.

Ripley D. Saunders in St. Louis Republic.

The poor that here within our reach have need,
Stricken in body, helpless all elsewise,
It is for them this day the churches plead,
God's suffering ones, the souls in dreary guise;
It was their kind that to the Master's feet
For healing crept, kissing His garment's hem—
Ah, fortunate ones, to whom this life is sweet,
Help them!

Glad in your health, make them a little glad
Who have not health, but sickness and decay;
Rich in your goods, make them less poor and sad,
That from the shadows note your manlit day;
For them the sackcloth and the ashes drear—
O ye of costly garb and sparkling gem,
Make answer to the poor that call so near,
Help them!

Letters From Readers on Various Timely Topics

A WORKINGMAN'S VIEWS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a workingman I have been very much interested, as have my shopmates, in the letters in THE TIMES on the question as to why more people do not go to church. The result of my observation is that Catholics go to church and are faithful to their religious duties because they recognize their Church as a divine institution whose laws and clergy must be obeyed. Protestantism in its various forms, on the other hand, inculcates no such theory, but appeals to the "private judgment" of the individual, and this "private judgment" leads thousands of workingmen and their wives to cease churchgoing because they are convinced that the Church and her clergy are no longer on the side of working people and their interests and do not properly represent the teachings of Him who "spake as never man spake." Workingmen are thinking more now than ever before, and their eyes are keenly observing the startling changes of our political and social life.

They see what is called "organized wealth" laying unholy hands on educational institutions and professors being dismissed from colleges and "universities" for refusing to sacrifice truth as they see it—dismissed for teaching according to their consciences, dismissed because the convictions arrived at by scholars whose lives have been devoted to the study of the truth are offensive to the men whose lives are devoted to the acquirement of money.

Workingmen also believe that the Church and her teachers are mainly against them in the fierce industrial battle now waging in this home of the brave and land of the free, and they can give ample reasons—from their standpoint—for the faith that is in them. I will give just one, which has been a fruitful source of discussion among my shopmates. A few weeks ago a man of wealth in this city announced a line of battle for the next municipal campaign. To workingmen that remarkable paper, coming from such a source, was a revelation. It struck home; like a bolt from the blue, it was startling. They rejoiced at this influential man holding out the hand of brotherly love and advocating some of their most cherished doctrines, and their hearts warmed to him when, after sharp investigation, they found he was wholly disinterested and had no little axe of his own to grind.

That paper—and I would advise every one who expects to make any progress in his intercourse with working people to get it and "read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest" its contents—that paper was assailed right and left. Workingmen expected that it would be, especially by what, for want of a better name, they have come to call the "capitalistic press." As I say, they expected this, for it was in accordance with the principles and policies which those papers represent, and workingmen knew that from the viewpoint of those editors it was their duty to combat the principles advocated by Mr. Robert Fulton Cutting, whom I do not know, have never seen, but whom I look up to and admire as a man in whom our cause has found a valiant champion.

Workingmen did not expect, however, that he would be assailed by the clergy, for he advocated nothing but the betterment of the social conditions of his less fortunate fellows. Yet the letter written to THE TIMES on this subject by the Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler was marked by the almost indifference to the wise suggestions of Mr. Cutting, and if its writer were not a wearer of the cloth I would say that his letter was an unjust, discourteous, almost virulent assault upon that gentleman. I have heard it so characterized by workingmen, but an ingrained respect for the clergy restrains my own pen and I shall only say that it shows a lack of sympathy with us.

In the midst of the recent campaign this same reverend gentleman took the stump in advocacy of a political party in a speech which amazed thousands of workingmen. That speech, as one of my fellow-workmen put it, "reeks with money, money, money! nothing but money." No word for the acute industrial conditions around us, no word as to the great problem of the trusts, no word as to the unchristian shedding of blood now going on throughout the world. Nothing but money—and an honest dollar! I am not in turn assailing Dr. Cuyler, and I hereby apologize if I have given him offense. If he will pardon me for saying so, Dr. Cuyler personally is of no account, and I am sure Mr. Cutting will pardon me for saying that he as an individual is no account; certainly the writer of this letter is of no account. But the principles under discussion are of the utmost account. Fifty years from now the good Doctor may be entirely forgotten; so may Mr. Cutting; I certainly will be; but the logical development or non-development of those principles will then have been accomplished.

Unfortunately I have not the literary skill to express myself less clumsily, but I mean that I am speaking impersonally. Dr. Cuyler represents a class, I represent another. He represents the privileged class. He speaks from the snug shelter of a parsonage where he has been comfortably housed for forty years. I represent the working class, have always had to hustle to hold my job, and have been without work and without the price of the usual "three square meals" a day, but I have managed to keep my independence and my self-respect.

Many of the workingmen of my acquaintance who do not go to church are still keenly alive to the beauties of Christ's teachings; it is with modern churchianity they are at war. The religion itself is vital, and where properly presented it holds the masses with the keenest grip. Certainly a religion is very far indeed from being effete when it produces such exponents as the late Dr. Muhlenberg, whose great benevolence and works of charity have endeared his memory to his fellow-men, whose St. Luke's Hospital, begun so humbly in a few rooms fifty years ago, has grown to the beautiful Hotel Dieu now adorning Morningside Heights, while there are scores of St. Lukes throughout our land, all owing their origin to the simple faith and brotherly love of this great man, who was born rich and died poor, who spent himself and all his substance in the service of suffering humanity; as Phillips Brooks, broad-minded, generous, widely tolerant, and magnetic, by the simplicity and beauty of his own daily life and character winning men to the truths he came to teach; as that modern Savonarola Edward McGlynn, the people's tribune, who defied the tremendous power of the Church he so dearly loved and went down into the valley of the shadow bravely but with a broken heart in defense of the principles the establishment of which he deemed essential to the welfare of the common people—the common people who heard him gladly, even as they also heard that Great Expounder who went about doing good 2,000 years ago, and whose "Life and Work" is the most precious heritage of a great part of the human race. WORKINGMAN.

405 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 26, 1900.

THE CANAL TREATY.

EFFECT OF THE AMENDMENTS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems to me that your editorial of Sunday on "The Effect of the Amendments" to the inter-oceanic canal involves a very obvious "non-sequitur," when you say in your criticism of Senator Lodge's explanatory term "derogate" that "We draw up a treaty declaring that the canal" shall be always open and neutral, and then "we insert an amendment" providing for the very opposite course on our part in time of war.

The emphasis is on the "we." In the first case it is Mr. Hay or the Anglo-American State Department that comprises the collective pronoun. Yet it cannot be denied that there are other agencies to be considered in the matter of treaty making. "Split hairs" as the word-mongers may, the Senate is a part, and a very important one, of the treaty-making power of this Government. There was no doubt from the hour that the State Department made public the terms of the Hay-Pauncefote document that there would be weighty objections to its recommended ratification in the Senate.

In all courtesy, then, may not a layman ask if the "we," as used in your editorial, is designed to imply distinctly, as on the face it certainly does, that the only "we" in the making of a treaty is the executive branch of this Government, acting in and through its subordinate diplomatic agents or agencies?

For my part, apart from certain convictions I hold, based on some knowledge, too, of the effects on our interests of a wide-open canal across Nicaragua or Panama, the interest I feel in the virile amendments of the pending treaty lies in the very distinct denial given by the Senate's action to the growing arrogance of "executive" will theory and practice. The Senate says distinctly "we" are a part of the treaty-making power of this Government, and our function is far more than that of registering the imagination of Mr. John Hay, or, it may be, the assumptions of an Executive who has come to regard that branch of this Government as "we"—in short, "the whole thing."

Congress ought to be and was designed so to be something more than the ministerial recorder of the White House. The present Senate has certainly shown that it means to be. Whether its amendments are wholly wise or not, its resistance to the assumption that it can only record in diplomacy the expressed will of the superior clerks who draft diplomatic documents is in my judgment wholly wise and eminently conservative.

It is a nice game that for the past two and a half years we have been "up against," that of permitting the executive department alone to make issues, organize involvements, systematize complications, and then demand of Congress that the "will" it has thus embodied be registered as legislation under penalty of being derided as "unpatriotic."

Executive orders and department regulations have wrought many a doubtful situation in the history of this land. That policy has now gone far on the road of substituting authoritarian dogma for Constitution, past administrative practices, and the whole line of democratic processes and republican theories of our Government. Governing by manipulation and not by law is what your editorial "we" seems to imply. R. J. H.

New York, Dec. 24, 1900.

The Nicaragua Canal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The cost of the Nicaragua Canal is estimated at over $200,000,000. The history of great engineering undertakings in connection with water show that estimates are generally considerably exceeded. It is estimated, I understand, by the Bureau of Statistics that the traffic that the canal would probably attract would be about 1,000,000 tons annually. It would therefore appear that while the problem is capable of being grappled from an engineer's point of view, that commercially the success is very doubtful.

The Panama Railway carries goods at a cost, including trans-shipment at both ends, which is considerably less than could be charged on the Nicaragua Canal. Yet, if the canal secured the whole of the Panama trade, it would not amount to more than 600,000 tons of shipping. English trade would not be likely to use the Nicaragua Canal, as the dues would not be less than the Suez Canal and the journey longer—to Calcutta 9,000 miles, to Hongkong 4,000 miles, to Melbourne 1,600 miles, to Yokohama 800 miles longer (from the British Isles) than via Suez. Then the Suez route to the East is better provided with coaling stations.

The great bulk of the trade carried on with Chile and other States on the Pacific Slope is done by sailing vessels, but owing to the help of Colono, called the Doldrums, such craft would not use the Nicaragua Canal, while to transfer the trade from sail to steam would meet many difficulties.

It is a mistake to compare the Suez Canal with the proposed Nicaraguan one. The Suez Canal lies in one of the greatest trade routes of the world. The Nicaragua Canal has no such advantage. The Suez joins great trading communities. The Nicaragua would only join two oceans. The Suez has no railway rivals. The Nicaragua would have at least a dozen transcontinental lines to compete with.

Compare the cost of the Suez Canal, under $40,000,000, with the estimate and the probable excess of the Nicaragua Canal.

G. ARMSTRONG.

New York, Dec. 27, 1900.

YULETIDE OBSERVANCES.

THE HOLIDAY HOLY DAYS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your account of the religious celebration of Christmas, just past, you omit the distinctive feature of the occasion. You mention some of the services held during the day, but not those had before daylight. The 11 o'clock mass at the cathedral is noticed, without intimation of the early morning paeans sounded there over the Nativity, or of the continuous worship intermedial. As at the cathedral, so wherever a Catholic cross is raised, the entire morning (apart from evening services) was a succession of celebrations, beginning with the hours of the night.

As a day of religious observance, Christmas is first and foremost Catholic—not exclusively, indeed, as once, but chiefly it is our festival. And with us it is the chief festival, the Sunday over all Sundays. The spirit of Adeste and Venite Adoremus rouses tens of thousands in this city and hurries them along the streets. Stars light their passage, as for the first shepherds, and every Catholic church and chapel is a magnet for the throngs that come to render Christ His divine worship. Any account of the Church observance of Christmas that neglects the leading feature of it is too incomplete.

Another holiday is coming, of peculiar import in its present recurrence. There is a feeling for something more than ordinary on this New Year's, for something more in ratio with the dignity of the occasion. At the break of the century it is indeed proper that we should

"Nothing common do or mean
Upon the memorable scene."

Yet the average secular idea is to pack the public square and blow horns. This escapes the meanness of certain other gatherings, but still it is rather common and hardly adequate. When the purely secular idea is more serious, it turns to speechmaking and laudatory comments on our progress and power.

What makes that tubication small is the contracted range of its reference; it stays so close to its little self. But here the religious idea stands out remarkably grand. Voice and music and light are poured forth, ceremony and ornation are lavished, with direct relation to the Creator as the First Cause, who prompts and permits and sustains every worthy act, and who holds every second and atom of the new century, each galaxy and each rearrangement of molecules, as in the hollow of His hand.

It is the midnight worship that is equal to the extraordinary hour, in that outburst of joyous and triumphant submission: Gratias agimus tibi, propter magnam gloriam tuam, Domine Deus—We give Thee thanks, Lord God, for Thy great glory. HENRY.

Feast of the Holy Innocents, 1900.

CHRISTMAS CHURCH MUSIC.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You are so fair and generous in your views of things of passing interest in musical matters and the musical critic of your paper is possessed of so much critical acumen and scholarly thought in everything relating to the higher study of musical art that I am a little surprised at the meagre account you give of the musical doings at Christmastide in the various churches of this great city.

St. Patrick's Cathedral and Trinity Church, to which you referred in Wednesday's issue, are not now the only churches where sacred music in its highest ferm can be heard. Indeed, in many city churches the incidental music appertaining to the performance of divine service is equal, if not in some cases superior, to that performed in those places of worship.

In making this remark I have in mind the churches of St. Francis Xavier, West Sixteenth Street, and St. Bernard's, a beautiful little church, highly favorable in its acoustic properties to musical performances, over by Eighth and Ninth Avenues, on West Fourteenth Street, where a choir of from fifty to sixty voices frequently sings the compositions of the old contrapuntal writers, with scholarly accompaniment of organ (built especially for choral performances) and sometimes a la capella. I attend at intervals both these churches, and no more beautiful performances of scholarly Catholic church music have I ever heard on this continent or on the Continent of Europe. The organists in both these churches are well educated and talented musicians. The one at St. Bernard's, Dr. James Pech, being eminently so; a gentleman full of the traditions of the Church and most accomplished in the wide field of musical art. In both these churches masses by Gounod were given on Christmas Day. The "Mass Solennelle" of Gounod, under the direction of Mr. Deshe, (a pupil of M. Guilmant,) a distinguished organist and composer, took place at St. Francis Xavier's. At St. Bernard's a choral mass dedicated to the League of the Sacred Heart of Jesus was rendered, probably for the first time, in its complete form, in this country. I am only able to speak of the performance of this mass at St. Bernard's Church, where I attended. The Mass of the Sacred Heart being written almost entirely for chorus, with but one exception, the part assigned to the "Benedictus," there were fine opportunities for the chorus of giving mystic and emotional effects and of observing the characteristic light and shade demanded by this composer in his school of sacred writing. The style of Gounod was evidently somewhat new to the choir of this church, but its members, in their efforts, gave forth a fullness and grandeur of tone color and a highly religious dramatic effect which cannot easily be forgotten.

It seems to me that these conscientious and really fine performances of Gounod's masses merit the recognition of public approval as much as those of the more prominent churches noticed in the edition of THE NEW YORK TIMES above referred to.

VERITAS.

Jersey City, Dec. 27, 1900.

"SWAPPING CATS."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

How many of THE TIMES's readers ever heard of the swapping of cats? If the emphatic utterances of my Aunt Cynthia could be believed, this is the particular season of the cat-swappers, although, according to her sayings, a large number of them use birthdays and wedding days for the exchange of felines. My relative may seem rather pessimistic on this subject, but what a heart she has! The "swapping of cats" is really the only fly in the good creature's ointment. The holiday time is a time of cheer all over the civilized world. Sunlight, even if it be somewhat cold and official in character, enters the gloomiest prison in some gentle shape, and an all-conquering friendship mingles its gracious softness with the hard life-struggle around us. What stirring weeks precede the two leading days of the year! On all sides there are evidences of unusual interest. The shop windows are gorgeous, the markets overflow, the express wagons stagger under burdens not like common every day loads, for these parcels are filled with sentiment.

On the eve of the precious day it is real enjoyment to take a walk in the streets or a ride in the cars. Every man and almost every woman carries a parcel, and the deepest affection is tied up perhaps within the greatest number of them. What a time is the holiday season for the little ones! Their hands are full of Santa Claus, their hearts full of joyful expectancy. And what other delight can equal that with which they receive the Christmas morning stockings! In every home, even the humblest, there are hours of light and merriment.

But what about the swapping cats? ask THE TIMES readers. Well, to most of us come remembrances in these days, and memory pictures my kindly aunts, Cinty and Maudy—as they were affectionately called in the family. They live in a pleasant home in a beautiful village not very far from Roxbury, Mass., and I am sure that at this very time Aunt Cinty is saying:

"I tell you, Maudy, as I have told you many times 'afore, there's a great deal o' foolishness, if not hypocrisy, in this gineral givin' o' gifts. You've often heard me say, and I say it ag'in, 'its nothin' 'tween wimmin but a swappin' of, cats."

"Oh, Cinty, you don't think your own sisters and nieces feel that way about gift givin', I'm sure you're more ginerous."

"'Bout the sister's offsprin's, I know it's not a-swapping of cats; but about the nieces I'm not so sartin. They give me somethin' looking for somethin', and that's what riles me 'bout kit an' crew. O' the outside wimmin neighbors and friends, I don't object to givin' 'mong the wimmin in fam'lies, whar the fam'ly is lovin' an' relatives air few. But even then that's too much of it. I don't see as how you, to prove yer love, must give me a box o' new hankerchers that I don't keer for an' don't need, w'en I got enough ter last me five years, an' they will only git yaller a-layin' by. Now, isn't that foolishness, Maudy?"

"Well, the way you put it looks like a piece o' onthinkinness surely."

"An' here, another thing, Maudy, that isn't right, an' that wouldn't never happen 'ithout this air gineral habit o' swappin'. Thar, Jinks the foreman at Scudder factory, he gits a great gift every year from these poor men workers, 'cause they 'fraid he'll do 'em some hurt, dischargin' or findin' fault with their work. He don't give them nothin', and he knows well they need the money for, thar fam'lies they spend on him, an' he don't need thar gift any more'n I need them handkercher's."

"Cinty, that's not a swoppin' of cats, is it? The men don't git nothin' back from Jinks."

"Oh, thar's not much swoppin' o' that kind 'mong the men. It's a wimmin habit. You give me your gray cat an' I'll give yer my gray cat; an' neither of us gains or loses. It's jist foolishness."

"An' isn't it better, Cinty dear, ter swap cats 'mong wimmin than to swap scratches? It's a innicent foolishness, an' it's good fer business. Best think of what work it makes for the people what must work ter live. Sartin thar's a great many Jinks; but thar's Merritt, that keeps the shoe factory, he gives his men, every one a big tarkey—never failin'—on Christmas Day, an' he don't take no gift. We must take the Jinkses with the Merritts, in this surprising world. Cinty, you know that 'weeds come in the tarty gardens, that's a fact' with the wheat, and thorns with the sweet-smelling roses'—and our old Pete is a kind, useful horse, but he will stand still in the road sometimes, w'en he knows you're in a hurry, till he gets ready."

DEL.

New York, Dec. 27, 1900.

She Remembered Her Dolly.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of the sweetest things that ever I saw or heard of took place on Christmas evening.

My husband and I were sitting in the dining room, about 10 o'clock, talking over the happy day our children had spent, when, suddenly, our five-year-old daughter, Myrtle, pattered in in her nightgown and with her feet bare.

"Why, Myrtle," I said, "what is the matter?"

She never made reply, but going over to her doll, which she had placed on a chair before going to bed, began to take off one of its shoes and stockings.

"Never mind, little dolly, she said, don't cry. I won't hurt you." She then took the dolly's stocking to the mantelpiece and pinned it to the lambrequin.

"Why, Myrtle!" I exclaimed, "there is no use of your doing that. Santa Claus won't be here any more this year." "Oh, I don't know, Mamma, maybe he will, because everybody has got something from Santa Claus, and my poor little delly did not get anything." She then went back to her crib, no doubt satisfied that she could sleep peacefully.

My little girl was right and I was wrong, for the next morning, bright and early, she ran to the stocking, and, sure enough, Santa Claus had come again, for in it there was a penny and a small piece of candy. It would not hold any more.

Mrs. JOHN GOODWIN.

267 West One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Street, New York, Dec. 28, 1900.

COMPENSATION OF TEACHERS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The comment of THE TIMES upon public affairs is so bread and convincing that teachers read with great interest its remarks upon the public schools, although not always assured that the conclusions are drawn from a practical or sympathetic acquaintance with their work. The latter fact would not be unaccountable, for, judging from the space allotted to the public school administration, neither the press nor the people at large overestimates the importance of the schools to the success of democratic government.

Consequently, THE TIMES's disapproval of the repeal of the Davis law as recommended by the Charter Revision Commission was deeply gratifying; and such recognition of the justice of the teachers' claims is the more fully appreciated because of the daily misrepresentation as to the operation and cost of the law.

Formerly extravagance in other departments was offset by cutting down the educational appropriation, but with unbridled extravagance—as witness the public baths—the City Government has found it extremely irritating and embarrassing to have the Davis law close the usual avenue of escape. Hence they have the more eagerly determined to make it the scapegoat of a ninety-eight-million-dollar budget in order to turn aside the wrath of the already groaning taxpayer.

Said a gentleman, in addressing the Twenty-third Ward Property Owners' Association: "The Davis law has increased expenses $6,000,000. There are Principals sixty years old receiving $6,000. Teachers work five hours daily, five days a week; they are overpaid." The facts are that the law has cost about $2,000,000; that Principals receive at most $3,500; that, as in other walks of like, no criteria exist for determining the hours of labor; that teachers are not overpaid, as will be seen.

Upon festive occasions the orator delights to eulogize the school and the teacher, but grudgingly rewards the labor he lauds so highly. No complaints are made of the high salaries of confidential clerks, stenographers, firemen, police, drivers, &c. A comparative examination of the files of The City Record gives, however, abundant materials to support the teacher. In commercial life a man's ability is reflected in his remuneration. To successfully conduct a school ranging from 1,000 to 2,000 pupils requires expert knowledge and skill. The compensation of the manager of a factory or business of equal magnitude is usually several times as great as the Principal's. In other fields meagre compensation is complemented by social honors and respect; seldom in the teacher's calling.

When 96 of every 100 boys attend only the elementary school, the inculcation of high standards of citizenship becomes the imperative duty; and, when thoughtful men and women look for an expansion of the school's social activities to strengthen the moral forces of the community it is axiomatic that the character and ability attracted to the profession of teaching should be excelled in no walk of life. Under the Davis law, a man's average annual salary for twelve years' teaching is about $1,600, and a woman's for fifteen years' service about $900. It is unlikely that the resulting standard of living of such educated men and women will exceed the bounds of mere decency and self-respect.

No man with a family—and a man should not be condemned to celibacy merely because he is a teacher—can hope to be more than own a modest home in the suburbs, for whose payments many years must pass. Such prospects are none too alluring to men and women of ability.

Certainty of payment has produced contentment not otherwise obtainable; but this been insured by the Davis law is also recommended for withdrawal. Appropriations are again to be referred to a Board of Estimate, which, as formerly, will curtail the amount for education to meet extravagance elsewhere. The evils of inadequate accommodations, overcrowded classes, and stationary salaries will reappear. Such powers are to be given the Board of Education that an inadequate appropriation will compel the dismissal of needed teachers and the consolidation of classes in order to pay a fixed schedule to the teachers remaining. Thus, tenure of office becomes a thing of the past. So many times has the needed appropriation been curtailed in the past that in the mandatory statute of the State rests the only sure reliance.

With incommensurate salaries no complaint of ineffectiveness can be urged; with fair salaries the best work may be demanded and obtained. Herein is found the strongest argument for the retention of the Davis law. Teachers are eager to justify the granting of fair salaries. Never has discussion and study of improved methods of instruction and organization been so general as now. Principals and teachers alike are studying harmoniously and zealously the peculiar educational problems of this cosmopolitan city. New societies with these objects are forming and old organizations are taking on new life. The meeting of the Society for the Study of Practical School Problems, to instance one, drew a large and enthusiastic attendance. Such a spirit will regenerate any system, and in it the Davis law finds ample justification.

GEORGE H. CHATFIELD.

New York, Dec. 27, 1900.

POLITICAL DISCUSSION.

"THE RANK AND FILE."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Cleveland writes about the "plight of the Democracy" as the once familiar "veteran observer" who in retirement and ease occasionally fans into transient flame the dying embers of a burned-out enthusiasm. His own summary of his academic essay is like the adjurations in the newspapers, bello-flagrante, to the Generals in the field. "Give the rank and file a chance" is the application to politics in 1900 of the journalistic cry so familiar on both sides from 1861 to 1865, "Give the boys a chance."

In politics, however, as in war, success can be secured only by means of organization and leadership, and the National Democracy lost both during Mr. Cleveland's second Administration. This historical fact is one of the antecedants, if not one of the primary causes, of the party's present plight.

The lax organization, the feeble leadership under which the delegates to the 1896 convention were chosen, gave to the rank and file the only sort of chance that can come to them under our political adjustments, and on that occasion they used the chance to flout their leaders and their party creed as well by acclaiming Mr. Bryan their dictator, and by fraternizing with the Populists and Silver Republicans, thus opening the way for the doing of all the other things so eloquently described by Mr. Cleveland as instances of party aberration.

Mr. Cleveland obviously intends his publication to serve as a formal renunciation of whatever claims to leadership may still be accorded to him by any portion of the rank and file, expecting thus to be relieved of any share of responsibility for the future guidance of the party. How happy should we all be if Mr. Bryan would publish a like renunciation! Then the Cleveland Democrats and the Bryan Democrats would be alike shepherdless, and might huddle together. The rank and file of both sections would at least have one interest in common, and that is to find out to whom Mr. Cleveland is appealing to give them a chance—to Mr. Bryan or to Santa Claus?—and what sort of a chance he would like them to have.

Allow a member of one of these sections to suggest that whatever constitutes a chance for the rank and file must be antecedently a "chance for the future success of the National Democracy, and that such a chance can come only with the advent of a leader who will compel us all to follow him by formulating a winning issue involving fundamental Democratic principles. Such a leader will never be found by any ranker and filer, or any number of the rank and file peering about like Diogenes with a lantern. If he comes at all, it will be, as was said of the Saviour of mankind, "like a thief in the night." He will simply arise, as Moses, Cromwell, Napoleon, Washington, arose, the product of the crisis, the "man of the hour."

If no such Democrat appears within the next four years, there will be but little chance for the continued existence of the party as one of the factors in our National politics, and no chance at all for the political happiness of

THE RANK AND FILE.

New York, Dec. 24, 1900.

Bryan and Beveridge Compared.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Have you ever observed how strikingly Senator Beveridge resembles William Jennings Bryan? There is exhibited in both cases the same superabundance of language and paucity of thought, the same catchy phrases, the same specious arguments which capture the gallery, but vanish into thin air on the slightest analysis. Is it a coincidence only that both are graduates of small Western colleges, and that both are winners of the first prize in the Inter-State collegiate oratorical contest? Or, is it possible that these contests tend to produce men of the mental calibre and attitude of Bryan and Beveridge? At any rate, both are immature and sophomoric, and promise to remain so. Yet one was twice a candidate for the Presidency, and the other is a United States Senator, high in the favor of the Administration!

Just one word more. Anent Senator Beveridge's speech at the New England Society's banquet, I am just as good a Republican and annexationist and imperialist as he. I would annex the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific Ocean, as he has done. (An amendment might be added to the Ship Subsidy bill imposing an export duty on the Gulf Stream.) When I had built a trans-Isthmian canal, I would, of course, annex Central America, as Senator Beveridge proposes to do; and Mexico and Canada, too, come to think of it, or else make an alliance with England. But to manage the affairs of this country, would select men who think, and act, and accomplish, instead of highfalutin tommyrotters.

New York, Dec. 23, 1900. DIOGENES.

Principles of True Democracy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On reading your editorial of the 22d on "Strange Symbols and Unfamiliar Hands," I am impelled to ask the following questions:

1. Does not the fear of "throwing away votes like Prohibitionists" hinder the formation of new party organizations and tend to the indefinite continuance of old ones?

2. Are not the primaries of the two parties, considered together, the nearest thing we have to a public preliminary election?

3. If the two organizations had been framed for issues long since dead, might not the fear of throwing away votes give them perpetual existence as tools for preliminary election?

4. Where are we to look for the "principles of true Democracy," and what are they?

5. If the party has any permanent principles, in how many of its campaigns have they been the chief aim of its members?

J. DE L. VER PLANCK.

Fishkill-on-Hudson, N. Y., Dec. 26, 1900.

MR. VAN WYCK'S REPUTATION.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial article of to-day, "Fixing the Responsibility," you are a little too easy on the people of this city when you simply accuse them of "amazing folly in accepting a Chief Magistrate of whom they knew nothing at the hands of a big and very dirty boss about whom they knew much, and all of it bad." As a matter of fact, the people of New York City did know of Robert A. Van Wyck, little, it is true, but "all of it bad," and what they knew of him should have made them doubly averse to accepting him from the "big and very dirty boss."

As one of the Tammany Judges of a minor court, Mr. Van Wyck had the opportunity of venting a diseased spleen and a dyspeptic temper, aggravated by innate "cussedness," upon the unfortunate lawyers who were compelled to try cases or make motions before him; but this was at best a limited sphere, showing him to those comparatively few only who (very much against their own inclination) were forced to appear in his bailiwick. The public at large, however made his acquaintance in a different field, and he became a person of general notoriety when the press of the city found his name on the blotter of one of the police stations, after his arrest as a "drunk and disorderly." This arrest took place at an entertainment which the purveyors of French wines annually tender to the prostitutes of both sexes.

Considering the character of the attendance on these occasions and the social standing of the intended beneficiaries of the entertainment, it may be fairly assumed that considerable latitude is permitted to the "guests" by our faithful police, and it must be a good deal of a "drunk and disorderly" who is found the subject of an arrest at a "French ball." It was Robert A. Van Wyck who achieved this distinction, and you see that we did know something about him when the "big and very dirty boss" presented him to us as the best thing Tammany could offer in the way of a Mayor.

I do not know whether the entry on that police blotter has ever been erased, although I do know that poor Schmittberger has had an uneasy life of it ever since his "subject" rose to municipal honors. But the description was no doubt a correct one, and would scarcely need to be amended today.

J. W. M.

New York, Dec. 26, 1900.

THE GARDINER AND WISE REMOVALS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Governor's action in the Wise and Gardiner cases appears to have been hasty. I doubt if any one knowing Dr. Wise believes that he would intentionally use a public position improperly, and the hasty action in his case within so short a time of the expiration of his term of office does not seem warranted from any explanations yet made public. That he may have erred in his judgment of men or of values is not surprising. What man of active affairs has not been mistaken? But that this should be the occasion for using the power of the State intrusted with the Executive for use in emergency cases appears unjust, and from one having so recently been the recipient of the second highest honor in the gift of the Nation would seem ungenerous, to say the least.

Was the comparatively trivial matter of testing the ice plant so serious as to warrant executive action, while the Ice Trust could drift along as a stock jobbing enterprise without interference, and finally receive through non-action what might be considered executive approval. Your able and forcible editorials on the Gardiner case will be read with interest and I believe with general approval by conservative people who respect the fundamental principles upon which our whole National, State, and Municipal Government rests—the declared wish of the majority of the electorate—and the indorsement of all fair-minded men who believe that executive appointments and removals should be made free from personalities. F. W. K.

New York, Dec. 27, 1900.

Approves of the Governor's Course.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your article of this morning on "Gov. Roosevelt's Error" was unfortunate. It does him an injustice. So far as I can see, he has conformed strictly to the law which authorizes him to remove, after giving an accused official an opportunity to be heard. Surely the Governor has been slow enough in deciding to remove an official who for three years has been carrying out his motto, "To h—l with reform." The mass of corruption which has been associated with his name can never be known. The Governor's good name and the minds of many excellent citizens have been tarnished by his refusal to protect the community through the exercise of his power.

Considering the malignant forces which the Governor has dared to face by this executive act, he is to be commended by all good men, and THE TIMES particularly, should utter only words of approval. He has shown at last that he is not afraid to do his duty. A. P. LYON.

Brooklyn, Dec. 24, 1900.

CURE FOR TIPPING EVIL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is to be hoped that the word spoken by you and "L. W." against the "tipping" custom will arouse a widespread feeling in opposition to the baneful practice. Established usages come to an end slowly, and this because they usually have for their foundation something beneficial, some good purpose to serve, whatever painstaking search one may be compelled to make in finding it.

A custom like that of tipping can be done away the sooner and more effectually if some practicable substitute can be devised for it, one that shall preserve what good there may have been in the old, and, at the same time, avoid its injurious effects. It seems to me that these things can be accomplished in manner something like the following:

Proprietors of the leading hotels and restaurants might put up in conspicuous places about their premises notices like this:

"With the view of destroying the evil effects of the tipping system and retaining and increasing the benefits to be derived from it, we would respectfully request our guests who are desirous of compensating employes beyond the amount paid as wages, not to give money personally, but to deposit their contributions in the boxes provided for the purpose. Whatever may be given will be distributed by the proprietor among the employes."

I believe that hotel and restaurant keepers can be trusted to make equitable distribution of such contributions. It is clearly to their interest to do so, and their knowledge of the capacity and deserts of the beneficiaries makes them the most competent agents for such work.

A plan of this kind would, I think, tend to encourage civility and industry in employes, and it would not interfere with personal relations. It is only after long acquaintance between guests and employes that gifts become in any sense personal. Instances of this kind are comparatively rare. Every employe would feel that he was to share in the good will expressed by contributors. Special favors could not be monopolized by those whose duties place them in the more favorable relations with wealthy patrons, nor by those whose moral sense is on the level with toadyism. You have cited the strong objections to the custom. "L. W." alludes to the guest as being expected to pay the cost of his meal and the wages of the waiter. As a matter of course all help to do that. The entire expense is paid from the receipts. The evils of tipping consist in the exactions which it silently imposes. The system of taxing those dependent upon the good graces of employes can have no other than a corrupting influence.

One need not be a traveling man to experience these annoyances. It seems to me that a plan similar to this would increase the general efficiency of service; secure to proprietors better control of their business (placing the responsibility for management where it should be); create a sense of equity among employes, and establish more salutary relations between guest and host. The plan is not offered as a cure cure for the acknowledged evil, but is proposed as a remedy for some of the troubles. It would be interesting to know what hotel proprietors think of it. I believe it to be entirely practicable if the public would lend co-operation. Right here would possibly be the obstacle to its application. Managers of places where the pernicious system of tipping prevails are most competent, it seems to me, to judge of any method devised to do away with its abuses. Why may not this or some similar method be set in operation? STOWELL.

Brooklyn, Dec. 27, 1900.

THE ORIGIN OF TIPPING.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent "L. W.," complaining of the "tipping" nuisance, will find that it has come to stay with us, because it is grounded in our frail human nature. The trend of our Anglo-Saxon civilization is to differentiate society into, not simply rich and poor, but the would-be rich and the must-be poor—the well-to-do and the servile classes. To give a tip is not an act of benevolence or charity or good-will toward the receiver, but a blackmail assessment upon our pride and claim to belong to the well-to-do.

In other words, we are moral cowards and cannot withstand the snub and sneer of the servant who thereby makes known to us that he does not respect us for what we would have him take us for. Not one man out of 450 can afford to pay a tip; not one man out of 4,000 likes to pay it, and nearly every one who pays it despises himself for his moral weakness—and yet we all do it. And why? Because we will pay for the satisfaction of being taken as above the fellow who does us service. No, the tip has come to stay, whether some of us like it or not.

Perhaps the word "sham" expresses the true condition of men's (and women's) minds—we are all leading sham lives.

A. F. N.

Montclair, N. J., Dec. 25, 1900.

THE PERIPATETIC PUP.

Would Banish Dogs from City.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I quite agree with the views of your correspondents which have recently appeared in THE TIMES as to the dog nuisance in this city. It is a crying evil, and one that some measures should be taken at once to eradicate. Some years ago hogs, (four-legged ones, I mean,) goats, and other live stock were allowed to roam at will in our streets and befoul them, but this privilege was stopped by a city ordinance. The litter and filth with which the numerous dogs in this city befoul our sidewalks with their disgusting excreta, is perhaps not quite as great as that of hogs and goats, but it is quite bad enough to have some law passed for its suppression. My own personal views would even go so far as to banish dogs entirely from the city, as were our hogs and goats, but this is probably too extreme, but I hope something may at any rate be done to at least keep our sidewalks and stoops clean.

New York, Dec. 29, 1900. CITIZEN.

The Dirty Sidewalks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am glad the dog nuisance is at last receiving the attention it deserves. Every morning I see women leading out their pets. The condition of the sidewalks in some localities is filthy and disgusting, and the practice should be at once stopped for the sake of health and decency. READER.

New York, Dec. 28, 1900.

Disgusted with Dogs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

That there is "no accounting for tastes" is quite apparent when the spectacle is so often seen on the streets of a woman at one end of a string and a dog at the other. It seems sometimes that the quadruped has the better sense of the two. For decency's sake as well as health's, if there is a law regulating this habit in this city it should be enforced; if there is no such law, one should be enacted. If people have no sense of decency they should be taught it vigorously. And under this law would come some who pass for men, but who evidently are quadrupeds that walk upright in posture, and use the streets and public places for all purposes, thereby coming under the head of "nuisances."

Agitate this subject, and perhaps good results will follow.

ANOTHER DISGUSTED ONE.

New York, Dec. 28, 1900.

The Dog Nuisance.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is there no means of preventing women from leading their dogs out on the sidewalks to defile them? There is one woman who habitually turns Lexington Avenue, near Forty-third Street, into a dog's water closet, to the disgust and discomfort of pedestrians. The writer has seen on the upper east-side mobs of little boys and girls watching the love-making of male and female dogs. The sidewalks are defiled; eyes and nose offended by these women and their dogs every day and night, yet neither the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals nor the Health Board nor the police seem to be able to stop the nuisance. Can THE TIMES do it and oblige

MANY CITIZENS.

New York, Dec. 28, 1900.

Would Arrest Dog Owners.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In regard to "Dog Nuisances" in THE TIMES of the 24th inst., I beg to suggest that the New York City ordinances are sufficient to cause the owners of dogs who cause a nuisance to be arrested and fined. Said owners are very careful to take their dogs beyond the line of their own residences. Let 500 men unite together and employ an officer to cause the arrest of all owners of dogs committing a nuisance, and the nuisance would soon be abated.

A HATER OF DIRTY DOGS.

Iselin, N. J., Dec. 26, 1900.

THE RAT-INFESTED HOUSE CASE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the article which appeared in your paper to-day containing an

AT THE THEATRES

Hail and Farewell to the French Players—New Plays for the New Year.

The late Alexandre Dumas, the younger, once wrote a play called "L'Etrangère," in which he embodied a study of certain social conditions existing in France about the time the Second Empire gave way to the Third Republic. One of the prominent characters in this was the Duc de Septmonts, representing a type of humanity which in these days would be termed "degenerate." Septmonts is, or perhaps one should say was, as the play has not survived, a man of some outward polish, but utterly bad, governed entirely by depraved passions and appetites. He was not set forward as the handsome, unscrupulous charmer of so many popular plays. His young wife had been married to him wholly against her will. She had always loathed him.

Dumas asked Coquelin to "create" this rôle when the comedy was acted at the Théâtre Français, and highly praised the actor's portrayal, which, he said, exactly satisfied his own idea of the traits and manners of his vibrion, as he called the degenerate Duke. But when M. Coquelin dared to act the Duc de Septmonts in New York he was gravely informed that he was far out of his depth.

What, he act "society villains"? Had he ever seen Mr. J. B. Studley, or the late Mr. George Jamieson? They were the polished villains for you.

MM. Erckmann-Chatrian, the story-tellers, once told, in their simple way, a tale of life in Alsace, in which the protagonist was an ignorant little burgomaster, who, under great provocation, had committed a murder, and had thrived prodigiously on his victim's money. Late in his life, when his physical powers had begun to fail, an officer of gendarmes was established in his neighborhood who was much smarter and more alert than any of his comfort-loving predecessors had been. This young officer heard about the mysterious murder of the Polish Jew, years before, and asked questions concerning it that frightened the murderer a great deal. At a fair, too, a mesmerist, who pretended that he could put folks to sleep and make them tell the whole truth about their lives, frightened him still more. He began to fear discovery of his crime and punishment for it. He had bad dreams, and was afraid he would talk in his sleep. He fancied that he could hear sleigh bells ringing, as the bells of the Polish Jew's sledge rang the night of the murder. Finally he died in a fit.

There was no hint of remorse in this strange tale, which was founded on fact, nor was there any outward sign in the demeanor of the little burgomaster to distinguish him from the other well-to-do peasants of his neighborhood. A dramatization of this story, called "Le Juif Polonais," was often acted in Paris, and the actor who played the burgomaster was praised if he accurately denoted the traits the authors had ascribed to that personage.

An English adaptation of "Le Juif Polonais," called "The Bells," made by one Leopold Lewis, an "adapter" of the Moncrieffe type, was long in the possession of Charles Fechter while he was director of the Lyceum Theatre in London, and was still among the archives of that historic house when it passed into the control of H. L. Bateman. This manager, under circumstances often narrated, produced "The Bells," with Henry Irving as Mathias. The performance will always be remembered, not because it is the best work of Irving, but because it revealed his extraordinary ability and placed him in the front rank. His Mathias, however, has always been a very different sort of personage from the Mathis of the French actors and the stolid burgomaster of Erckmann-Chatrian. One line in the English play, "Oh, the agony of remorse!" was interpolated. In this Irving's friends have always said he found a "keynote." That does not matter. The expression of remorse in Irving's Mathias was never visible except to an ardent Irvingite. But the splendid pictorial force of the portrayal and the thrill he put in the dream scene were always notable, though he walked and talked all through the play as no other human being ever walked and talked in all the world.

Woe came to that fine comedian Constant Coquelin, when he tried to portray the real, pig-faced Mathis in London, and the English fellows on the New York press "laid for him" when he once acted the rôle here.

So it seems that from a certain point of view French actors cannot act characters designed and written for them by Frenchmen. What is to be expected, therefore, when a French actor tries to act a character in English classic drama? Out upon him, or her!

Of course, no Frenchman could stand Irving's spectacular Mathias for a moment. Of course, no Parisian could understand the spirit that prompted the English and English-American denunciation of Coquelin's Duc de Septmonts. On the other hand, the French all thought Coquelin's Petruchio a masterly portrayal.

But why cannot stage art, like other forms of art, be viewed with moderation and dispassionately? Let the heathen continue to rage and the people persistently imagine a vain thing, but let us (there are only a few of us) purge our visions, restrain our prejudices, and try to get at the right point of view.

What is the sense of crying all the time that Shakespeare is the greatest of poets and belongs to all the world and all epochs, if we do not mean it? If he belongs to all the world, he belongs to the French; if to all ages, to the present age! Surely, then, we ought to respect the French interpretation of him and, if it differs from ours, "as a stranger, give it welcome."

When the late Dr. Damrosch was waging the war of right with the banner of Richard Wagner uplifted, I met an enthusiastic German who loved music and inclined to Wagnerism, and commented on the fact that the New Yorkers were crowding the big Opera House to hear "Siegfried" and "Walküre." "Ach!" he cried, "you cannot understand Fogner here in this country."

"But," he was told again, "the music dramas are given many times and to crowded and enthusiastic audiences." But that, he declared, made no difference; we could not comprehend Wagner, and that was an end to the matter.

Why, to be sure, should we comprehend Wagner? He was a German. To say we comprehended him was to talk like imbeciles. To prove that we not only comprehended but loved his work was to be eternally damned.

Sarah Bernhardt's Hamlet ranks well with the Hamlets of Fechter, Salvini, Rossi, Sonnenthal, Barnay, Kainz, and Mounet-Sully. Its reading and "business" is not quite so queer as any one of them. Personally, I liked Mounet-Sully's better, though it was vastly less "Shakespearean" in the restricted English sense than Mme. Bernhardt's. Mme. Bernhardt's Hamlet does not shed tears or wear a beard or a hat like Lillian Russell's at Weber & Fields's; but the portrayal is not so continuously interesting and forcible, in my opinion, as her distinguished countryman's.

In the first view of the Ghost she is very womanish and hysterical. In all the second act, until the last soliloquy, she is extravagant and fantastical. Her scene with Ophelia is flat and dry. She sticks her sword through the curtain clear through the body of Polonius and leaves it there while the Prince asks his mother, "Is it the King?" She positively drones through the graveyard scene until "the fair Ophelia," and then acts the rest of it in too violent a manner.

On the other hand, she is beyond approach and almost beyond comparison in the opening scenes, acts the scene with the Ghost and the succeeding passages beautifully, is particularly impressive and touching with the "old mole in the cellarage," gives the "To be or not to be" all its due effect, is forcible, from her own point of view, in the play scene, is admirable in the episode of Hamlet's intrusion on the King at prayer, and is wonderfully impassioned and pathetic in most of the scene with the Queen.

I hope I have no prejudices. I do not object seeing a woman in a male rôle if she can act it. Sarah Bernhardt certainly can act Hamlet well enough to justify her attempt to act that character. One is glad to have seen her in it.

Hail to the French players and farewell! They will look in upon us once more in April. After that we may never see them again. Both stand at the head of the dramatic art of their era, and they have both been seen at their best in this visit. Bernhardt's art has never been clearer or more beautiful. She has never acted with more variety, delicacy, or strength. Coquelin's Cyrano is the crowning effort of his brilliant career, a piece of acting fairly matchless on the contemporary stage. Hail and farewell!

The theatre managers are going to welcome the new century with a hullabaloo! Four plays new to this town will be acted here for the first time to-morrow night. At the Garden Theatre, too, Edward S. Willard will return to us in an old play. The new plays and the old actors are welcome, but no professional theatregoer will have time to welcome the twentieth century by blowing a tin horn or listening to the Trinity chimes.

EDWARD A. DITHMAR.

AT THE VAUDEVILLE SHOWS.

Women are conspicuous in this week's vaudeville lists at the continuous houses, and the performances, like the previous week, are extended from two to three hours on New Year's Day, and the music halls are to give matinées. Miss Lole Fuller begins at Koster & Bial's to-morrow her first engagement in America since her visit here four years ago. She returns with an outfit of new spectacular dancing specialties employing in their presentation of intricate, exquisite paraphernalia a large corps of electricians and a special orchestra. Miss Fuller's engagement is limited. When it ends she will take her exhibition to Japan, and will not be seen in America again for several years.

For the information of Americans who may have witnessed Miss Fuller's exhibits at her own theatre at the exposition in Paris last Summer, she announces sixteen dances in four series of four each that have never before been presented anywhere. Matinées will be given daily, as usual, during the Fuller engagement, but the dancer's afternoon appearances will be limited to Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday. The remaining part of the programme will include George Fuller Golden, Bert Coote and company, Josephine Sabel, the Original August, the Clarenze Quintet, the Fauvette Twin Sisters, Burke, Moller and Fuller; John Harty, Kelly, Yeager and Kelley; Ford and Cantwell, and La Belle Kita di Lorenza.

An ideal bill of stars is assured for New Year's week at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre. The Jean Marcel living art reproductions of bas reliefs and paintings, Rose Coghlan and company in a new playlet, Papinta, the illuminated dancer, in new creations; James and Marie Finney in a novelty swimming act, Zazel and Vernon, Maxwell and Simpson, Jane Whitbeck, Gilbert Girard, the Kalatechnoscope, Lew Hawkins, and Sisters Whiting constitute the entertainment. At Mr. Proctor's Twenty-third Street house the programme ought to be an excellent one, with such notably fine vaudeville artists as Staley and Birbeck in the musical transformation act, Clifford and Huth in a sketch called "A Chappie's Visit," George W. Monroe, "My Aunt Bridget," Ralph Johnstone, a daring bicyclist; Charley Grapewin and Anna Chance, Linton and McIntyre, McCale and Daniles, Clemence Sisters, Charley Case, Josephine Harvey, Thurman, and others.

The Palace will offer an abundance of novelties, where the stars are the Newsky troupe of Russian dancers, the three Yoscarys, acrobats, and Sam, Clara, and Kittie Morton. Others are George W. Day, St. Onge Brothers, Fields and Wand, Lawrence Crane, Budd Brothers, Florine O'Brien, and Herold. The Harlem Theatre programme includes the Russell Brothers, who fill their first Harlem engagement; Lew Sully, Banks and Winona Winters, John E. Camp, John Donohue and Matie Nicols, Mimic Four, Mack and Armour, Kalatechnoscope, Barr and Evans, Jefferson, the magician, and others.

The New Year bill at Keith's includes R. G. Knowles, whose reintroduction to American audiences has been accompanied by the most emphatic marks of approval that have ever greeted a vaudeville performer. Mr. Knowles and his wife present an entertainment which is rich in humor and popularity. The new star will be Johnstone Bennett, whose peculiar talent as a comedienne will be displayed in a new sketch called "A Quiet Evening at Home," in which she will have the assistance of Tony Williams. Cushman, Holcomb and Curtis will give their laughable skit, "The New Teacher;" the Streator Zouaves will do their expert drill and sensational wall-climbing, and Johnson and Dean, a really talented couple of negro dancers and singers, will appear. With the American Quartette and the usual rich supply of dancers, acrobats, and comedians, the New Year bill will be remarkably good.

The first week of the new year will be fittingly celebrated with an exceedingly strong bill at Huber's Museum. The list of offerings includes a large number of strong attractions, some of which have never been seen here before. Yucca, the strong woman, will be the star, her prize feat being that of lifting a horse high in midair, without the use of any harness other than that necessary to afford her the necessary grip. Francisco Lentine, the three-legged boy, is a favorite, and will be continued for the present at least; A. V. Barriel, with his mysterious cabinet; Mamie Smith, the long-haired marvel; the Dexters, handcuff experts; J. Paige, clay modeler; Allen's Punch and Judy, and the Zulu glass dancer are a few of the others that will be seen during the week. In the theatre the colored minstrels will enter upon the third and last week of their engagement, and the company of white vaudeville talent is headed by Ada Jones.

Daniel E. Bandman and his company will be the headliner at Hurtig & Seamon's Music Hall this week. He will present a sketch taken from "The Merchant of Venice." The remaining part of the entertainment will include Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew in their sketch, "When Two Hearts Are Won"; Maude Nugent in some new songs, Gus Williams, the Three Nevaros, acrobats; Keough and Ballard, Edward F. Reynard, and the O'Meers Sisters.

THIS WEEK'S PLAYBILLS.

The present week will carry attractions at the theatres from the old year into the new, and with it will offer five new dramatic productions, one musical comedy, and a revival. Charles Frohman's Empire Theatre Company will appear at the Empire Theatre in a new play entitled "Mrs. Dane's Defense," which is by Henry Arthur Jones; Miss Ada Rehan will make her first New York appearance in three years at the Knickerbocker Theatre in Paul Kester's comedy, entitled "Sweet Nell of Old Drury," and at the Garden Theatre E. S. Willard, after an absence of two years, returns to begin a limited engagement. He will appear to-morrow night for the first time in this city in Tom W. Robertson's comedy, "David Garrick," and will retain this as his evening attraction all through the week.

At the New Year's Day and Saturday matinées he will present J. M. Barrie's comedy, "The Professor's Love Story." In addition to these plays Mr. Willard during his engagement will offer "Tom Pinch," "The Middleman," and "The Rogue's Comedy."

Miss Viola Allen will be seen at the Theatre Republic in her new play, entitled "In the Palace of the King," by Lorimer Stoddard. At the Academy of Music a revival of Stanislaus Stange's dramatization of "Quo Vadis" will be made, and a new musical comedy named "The Burgomaster," will be presented at the Manhattan Theatre. Its authors are Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders.

At the Irving Place Theatre to-morrow Manager Conried will offer his new play, called "Die Strengen Herren," (Strict People,) the most recent farce of Blumenthal and Kadelburg.

The theatrical bills at the other houses include many that now pass into their final weeks. They are Augustus Thomas's play, "Arizona," which will have achieved a record run of 140 performances at the Herald Square Theatre when the play ends its engagement next Saturday night. John Hare has but two weeks more to continue at the Criterion with "The Gay Lord Quex," when he will give way to Miss Julia Marlowe, who will produce her new play, "When Knighthood Was in Flower." Miss May Irwin will also terminate her season on Jan. 12 at the Bijou Theatre, when she will be succeeded by Miss Amelia Bingham in Clyde Fitch's play, "The Climbers."

Almost 200 performances have been given by Miss Annie Russell of "The Royal Family" at the Lyceum Theatre, and the play promises to occupy this house for a long time to come. William H. Crane at the Garrick with "David Harum" likewise has no cause to complain, as he keeps right on playing to big audiences with no apparent end to his engagement in sight. John Drew and his company with "Richard Carvel" move to the Harlem Opera House for the week, and will then take to the road for a long tour. Mary Mannering's appearance in "Janice Meredith" was no disappointment to her admirers, and a long continuation of the play is contemplated. "Florodora" runs merrily on at the Casino, with no material change in the performance. "Miss Prinnt" is likely to remain at the Victoria for some little time, as it has proved an enjoyable entertainment for those who go to the theatre for light and jovial diversion. At the Broadway Theatre the Jefferson De Angelis company in a "Royal Rogue" has given the theatrical going public of the city a most entertaining musical comedy, which also enables Mr. De Angelis to display his talents as a comedian.

The advent of the new year will still find Henrietta Crosman and "Mistress Nell" at the Savoy Theatre. The one hundredth performance of the play will be given on Wednesday night. The new farce at the Madison Square Theatre, "The House that Jack Built," will enter its second week to-morrow night. Lady Francis Hope and the new burlesque, "The Giddy Throng," along with the vaudeville bill, have been attracting large audiences to the New York Theatre. For Weber & Fields the new century opens auspiciously with an unbroken record of successes. Unless some startling theatrical sensation should be produced in this city within a reasonable time, "Fiddle-Dee-Dee" as now played will remain the attraction until the season is on the wane. Denman Thompson, with "The Old Homestead," will continue for a second week at the Grand Opera House, and "The Village Postmaster," at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, will conclude its limited engagement Saturday night. A revival of "Trilby" will be made at the American Theatre, with Miss Isabelle Evesson in the title rôle, one thoroughly familiar to her, having played it many times before. Mr. Donnelly's company will be seen at the Murray Hill Theatre in Broadhurst's farce, "Why Smith Left Home." The Dewey Theatre will continue the living pictures and also offer the Twentieth Century Company of burlesquers. Manager Rosenberg of the Metropolis will have "In Wall Street," and the Third Avenue Theatre will give its patrons the melodrama entitled "Fogg's Ferry."

The Adams Pantomime Company, in "Humpty-Dumpty" will remain the special attraction at the Eden Musée during the coming week. Among the moving pictures shown hourly are many mysterious subjects, introducing Christmas scenes and characters. The afternoon and evening concerts will have choice programmes of vocal and instrumental selections. The wax groups are at their best, and many additions have been made.

CHARLES FROHMAN'S PLANS.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon to Appear at the Madison Square.

Charles Frohman's plans for the rest of this season at the Madison Square Theatre have been announced. Following Mr. Broadhurst's production of "The House That Jack Built," Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon will appear in Madeline Lucette Ryley's comedy, "My Lady Dainty," on Jan. 8. This will be the first new play they will be seen in since they produced "The Moth and the Flame" at the Lyceum Theatre.

Following this engagement the Frohman comedians will return, presenting the most recent comedy by Alexandre Bisson, now being played at the Odéon Theatre, Paris, under the title of "A Historical Château." A sketch of the plot of this play and an announcement of its early production here appeared in last Friday's TIMES.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR MEETING.

Both Factions to Assemble in Albany to Plan for Labor Legislation.

The two factions of the Knights of Labor in New York State have each issued a call for a State congress to make plans for labor legislation, to begin in Albany on Jan. 8. Delegates will be elected to-day.

The call for the "anti-Hayes" faction has been signed by Patrick McMahon of this city, who will preside. It will meet in Hibernian Hall. The "Hayes" faction will assemble in Pythian Hall. Each faction contends that it is the bona fide order of the Knights of Labor and that it has expelled the other faction.

The Annual Poultry Show.

The Madison Square Garden Poultry Show comes a month earlier than usual this year, opening on Jan. 23, but as the change was announced in time for exhibitors to plan for it, it is not thought that the change of date will affect the number of exhibitors. In connection with the show the following specialty meetings will be held:

Jan. 23—6 P. M., Water Fowl Club of America.
Jan. 24—11 A. M., Rosecomb Brown Leghorn; 2 P. M., Black Minorés; 3 P. M., White Rock; 7 P. M., National Bantam; 7:30 P. M., American Wyandotte.
Jan. 25—10 A. M., Leghorn; 2 P. M., Eastern Fantail; 2 P. M., Eastern Magpie; 8 P. M., American Jacobin; 3 P. M., Carrier and Barb; 5 P. M., exhibition game and game Bantam.
Jan. 26—3 P. M., American Owl.

In the pigeon division the entry fee has been increased to $1 and the prizes reduced. In classes of four or more entries the prizes will be $3 and $1.50; with three or two entries the first prize will be $1.50.

The cat classes number thirty-eight and provide for short and long haired. Kittens must be under six months old.

A new feature is the canary and cage bird section, under the auspices of the New York Ornithological Society. The Secretary of this is W. W. Hill, 1,173 Tinton Avenue, New York. The Secretary of the show proper is H. V. Crawford, Montclair, N. J.

The Hungarian Peasant Ball.

Madison Square Garden on Friday evening next will be the scene of the Magyar festival and dance. The Hungarian Peasants' Ball Association is working with a will to make the ball a success, artistically and socially. The scene of the Hungarian village, with the election day ceremonies, the infantry and cavalry on guard, the villagers full of fun, the mock marriages, and the pretty bride making her entrée in a Hungarian four-in-hand briscka, and the divorce court and jail in operation against the men who court and kiss the pretty women, all are in the scene which precedes the ball.

Press Club's President's Reception.

The following guests have accepted invitations and will be present at President William Cullen Bryant's reception at The Press Club on Monday afternoon, Dec. 31: Alfred C. Harmsworth, Count de Sahuhe del Lafayette, and Chinese Vice Consul Chow. There will be an entertainment by artists in the theatrical profession and an elaborate collation will be provided.

AMONG MUSICIANS

Production of Puccini's "La Boheme" at the Metropolitan—Traits of the Score.

The introduction of an opera new to the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House might be called an event in the world of music. Puccini's "La Bohème" pleased the audiences which heard it on Wednesday night and yesterday afternoon, chiefly because it contained an abundance of flowing, sentimental melody. Any work which is deficient in this kind of writing is not to the taste of the general public. The more love songs there are in an opera the more popular it will be. That accounts for the success of "Faust" and "Romeo et Juliette," and in a measure for that of "Lohengrin," though the last-named work delights rather by the ceaseless outpour of pretty tunes than by its insistence on the expression of love. Now "La Bohème" is filled with love music, and on Wednesday night the audience went into raptures over it. Again, scores of this sort give abundant opportunity for the display of the singers, and this, too, is to the liking of the public. There is not much glory for Puccini at the Metropolitan, but if he has made good tunes for Melba and Saleza or Cremonini, then shall there be general rejoicings.

"La Bohème" is not a great work. It is not even a good one, and it will not live long. It is full of absurdities, musical and dramatic, and its morals are infinitely worse than those of the Wagner drama. The celebration of the scarlet woman seems to be almost unavoidable in the drama of to-day. We do not appear to have any real tragedies in our modern life except those under the baneful influence of Aphrodite. These subjects are the material of the theatrical dramatists, but they are not quite essential on the operatic stage, where the poetic drama should be found in its highest form. It seems depressing, however, to find the glorification of the imperfect woman accepted as a theme for the inspiration of divine song. Verdi's "La Traviata" is so utterly insincere that it makes no lasting impression. One receives it as a pretty show, with pretty tunes. But the application of the realistic method to the subject brings out much of its inherent nastiness. Mimi is a drab, and all the tears shed over her unfortunate fate are wasted. Camille left Armand, or Violetta left Alfredo, if you prefer the operatic version, for his good. She was (according to the story) capable of the sacrifice of her own passion. But Mimi leaves Rodolph simply because they do not get on well together, and the next thing we hear of her is that she is riding in her carriage. She returns to Rodolph's room to die, probably because the other man objected to tuberculosis.

The musical treatment of the text in this opera is remarkable for its insincerity. No pretense is made of intimate relation between tone and word. The whole force of the composer is devoted to making the melody fluent. To be sure, he need not be blamed for this if he was in search of easy favor, but his book should have been made consistent with such treatment. In the first scene the music does not, because music cannot, convey the feeling of the speech and action. Rodolph and Marcel are cold in their room. They decide to burn the former's drama to warm themselves. Then we get this:

Rodolph—Here, you take the first act.
Marcel—Well?
Rod.—Tear it.
Mar.—And light it.
(They burn the manuscript and warm themselves at the fire.)
Rod.—How joyous the rays!
Mar.—How cheerful the blaze!

Most of the first scene is made of fragmentary dialogue of that sort, and the result is that the music is disjointed and devoid of expression. In later episodes the composer makes no attempt to convey the form of the book to the hearer. At the end of Act III., for example, Rodolph and Mimi sing a lot of sentimental stuff, while Marcel and Musetta quarrel:

Marcel—I'm not going to be your blockhead,
Just because you're fond of flirting.
Musetta—I shall flirt just when it suits me.
Mar.—You're most frivolous, Musetta.
Mus.—Yes, I shall! Yes, I shall!
I shall flirt just when it suits me.

That is the tenor of the conversation. Yet these two join with the other two in a quartet which is filled with flowing melody and which does not convey the idea of such brief speeches at all. The personages might as well be singing Spenserian stanzas, for the music is built in long and sinuous phrases. Of course the composer desired to have an effective finale to his act, and he succeeded. On Monday night this scene aroused the warmest enthusiasm of the evening. The singers were called out again and again, but it is quite safe to say that the majority of the audience did not know what they had been singing about, and did not care. Melba was singing a new part, and Saleza was a most impassioned lover. Puccini had provided them with their opportunities. That was his business. A composer is only a musical tailor who makes melodic garments for great performers.

It must have astonished many to see the new scenery and the action in the finale of the second act. There was really a considerable amount of movement on the stage, and most of it was well managed. But it is very hard to induce the Italians of the chorus to act. They are accustomed from their infancy in the opera to regard themselves as so many sticks. They have two gestures and one position. It is hard for them to learn new ones. One thing they cannot be taught, and that is to act and sing at the same time. As soon as they have a passage to sing they line up in the old familiar line, face the footlights, and attend strictly to the business of singing. When that is over they move about and do things again. They are a fine, hardy lot of century plants, these Italian choristers, but opera cannot well be carried on without them because of their enormous repertory.

'Twas midnight, and in his unguarded tent the musical editor was dreaming of the hour when the public would sneer at Puccini and reverence the "Fidelio" of Beethoven. At the same time he was writing a commentary on a performance of the Beethoven opera and saying unkind things of the public for not going to hear it. As he wrote he ruminated on the strange impulse which had led to the custom of playing the "Leonora" overture, No. 3, after the first scene of the second act, to which, if anything, it is an introduction. And thus ruminating he noted in his article that the overture had been played in this place. In doing so he carefully, yet absentmindedly, indicated the number of the overture in heavy Roman numerals, three successive letters I. And when he took up his paper on the following morn to see if, as usual, he had writ himself down an ass, sure enough he had, for there it was stated to a trusting public that the orchestra had performed the overture known as "Leonora, No. 111."

And then the musical editor's mind went back to the conscientious Beethoven writing four overtures to the opera and yet not being wholly satisfied. And he dreamed a dream of Beethoven in Paradise still writing "Leonora" overtures and dropping them down as dew upon the hungry earth till they had reached the extraordinary number of 111. And when he thought of that, he felt that at last there was some consolation for the deaths of Heidi and von Bülow, for had either been still living, he would have given a concert and played the whole 111 in their order of composition for the edification of students and to the everlasting glory of art.

Mr. Franko's Symphony Concerts.

Sam Franko's third concert will take place at the Lyceum Theatre on the afternoon of Jan. 15, at 3:30. Judging from the success of the two previous concerts given by Mr. Franko and his American Symphony Orchestra, they may look forward to a large attendance. Certainly no more delightful concerts have been given in this city, and all true lovers of music who fail to take advantage of this, which will, perhaps, be the last opportunity of hearing Mr. Franko's orchestra at its best, will regret the lost opportunity.

As in the two previous concerts, Mr. Franko will arrange to present a soloist, whose name will be announced later.

Overture, "L'Hotellerie Portugaise," Maria Luigi Cherubini, (1760-1842) (First time in America.)
Sinfonia concertane, for oboe, clarinet, horn, and bassoon, with accompaniment of orchestra.....Wolfgang A. Mozart, (1756-91) (First time in America.)
Airs de ballet, from "Cephale et Procris," Andre Ernest Modeste Gretry, (1741-1813) (First time in America.)
Suite, op. 49.....Camille Saint-Saens, (1835—)

The Week at the Opera.

The programme for the week at the Metropolitan Opera House is as follows:

Monday, "Lohengrin," Mmes. Nordica and Schumann-Heink, Messrs. Jean and Edouard de Reszke, Bertram, and Muhlmann.

Wednesday evening, "Mefistofele," Miss MacIntyre, Mme. Homer, Messrs. Cremonini and Plançon.

Friday, "Faust," Mme. Melba, Miss Bridewell, Messrs. Jean and Edouard de Reszke and Scotti.

Saturday afternoon, "Die Walküre," Mmes. Ternina, Gadski, and Schumann-Heink, Messrs. Van Dyck, Blass and Bertram.

Saturday night, "Il Trovatore," Mmes. Nordica and Olitzka, Messrs. Dippel and Campanari.

Mr. Jean de Reszke will make his first appearance of the season to-morrow night. Miss MacIntyre's appearance on Wednesday night will be her first in this country.

The usual Sunday night concert will take place to-night; soloists, Miss Ternina, Mme. Schumann-Heink, Messrs. Dippel, Scotti, and Plançon.

MME. SEMBRICH'S CONCERT.

The operatic concert to be given to-morrow night at Carnegie Hall will mark the last appearance of Mme. Sembrich in New York this season, and the début of the leading members of her opera company, among them Signor de Lara, Signor Rossi, Signor Bensaude, and Signor Dado, who will support her on the tour. A most attractive programme has been arranged, and Mme. Sembrich will sing "Ah fors e' lui," in a duet from "Don Pasquale," and the Strauss Waltz, which latter number has been put on the programme in response to many requests. The programme in full is as follows:

Overture, "Guarany".....Gomez
Aria, "Mel Rampolli," (Cenerentola)....Rossini
Signor Arcangelo Rossi.
Romanza, "Salve dimora," (Faust).....Gounod
Signor de Lara.
Aria, "Ah, fors e' lui," (Traviata).....Verdi
Mme. Sembrich.
Entr'acte, "La Colombe".....Gounod
Sevillana.....Massenet
Duo, "Pronta io son," (Don Pasquale).Donizetti
Mme. Sembrich and Signor Bensaude.
Overture, "Mignon".....A. Thomas
Prologo, "I Pagliacci".....Leoncavallo
Signor Bensaude.
Brindisi, "Chi mi dira," (Martha).....Flotow
Signor Dado.
Waltz, "Voce di primavera".....J. Strauss
(By request) Mme. Sembrich.
Trio, "Pappatoci," (L' Italiana in Algeri)... Rossini
Signors de Lara, Dado, and Rossi.
"Marcia alla Turca," (Ruins of Athens)... Beethoven

Notes of Musical Doings.

Ossip Gabrilowitsch gives his third recital at Mendelssohn Hall, Jan. 5, and on that occasion will play Rubinstein's last composition for the piano, the E flat minor Polonaise, Opus 118.

Hugo Becker, the distinguished German 'cellist, sailed from Europe on Wednesday last on the steamer Maria Theresa, and is expected to arrive here about the 4th. His American debut will be made in Boston. His first New York appearance will be on the evening of Jan. 17.

Maud Powell, the American violinist, is expected to arrive here next month after an absence of three years. She will make her reappearance with the Philharmonic Society, in Carnegie Hall, on Friday afternoon, Jan. 11, and the evening of the 12th.

Mr. and Mrs. George Henschel will inaugurate their farewell tour in this country on Tuesday evening next with a recital in Brooklyn. Their dates for the next two weeks are as follows: Jan. 3, Boston; 4th, Hartford; 5th, Boston; 7th, New York, Ethical Culture; 8th, New York, first recital; 9th, Albany; 10th, New York, farewell recital; 11th, Buffalo; 12th Jamestown, N. Y.; 13th, Utica. Every other date during the balance of the month is filled. On the 31st they will sing in Topeka, Kan., immediately after which they leave for the Pacific Coast, where they will open on Feb. 5.

THE VANDERBILT HONEYMOON.

The Young Couple Will Rent a House Here in the Spring.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 29.—Alfred G. Vanderbilt and his future wife will be back in New York from their honeymoon trip to participate in some of the gayety there in the Spring, much of which will doubtless be given in their honor. They will take a house in New York, and one will be rented shortly.

The young couple will not go abroad on their wedding tour, as was at first supposed, but instead will visit some of the interesting points in this country. They will therefore be able to return to New York at any time they please, and doubtless will be there by March at the latest. Mr. Vanderbilt has important duties in connection with the New York Central Railroad, and will not be able to absent himself for any length of time.

The special train which will come to Newport with guests on Sunday will be met at Wickford by a special boat, which Mrs. French has arranged for. Those guests who come by the special train of Saturday will come to Newport by the regular boat.

VANDERBILT DAUGHTER SUED.

Has Failed to Pay All of a Contract Agreement for $100,000 on a "Kinetic" Patent.

Godfrey Morse of Boston has been appointed by Justice Leventritt of the Supreme Court a Commissioner to take the testimony of Charles E. Hurd and Warren S. Hill of Boston, to be used in a suit in this city brought by Arthur P. Dodge against Alicia V. Le Bau. The action is for the recovery of $20,000, alleged by Dodge to be the balance of a one-hundred-thousand-dollar contract entered into by Mrs. Le Bau and Dodge. Mrs. Le Bau is a daughter of the late Commodore Vanderbilt.

Dodge asserts in his complaint that the money involved in the contract, which was entered into in May, 1897, was for certain patent rights in a "kinetic motor," invented and owned by Dodge.

Mrs. Le Bau, in answer to the suit, charges that the contract was obtained by false representations on the part of Dodge. She had, however, paid him $80,000 on the contract. The final payment of $20,000, she says, was to be made at her own convenience, and that as yet it has not been convenient to settle.

The defendant further alleges that she found many of the statements made by Dodge concerning the company, of which he was President and Hurd was Secretary, to be false, and she asks the Court to cancel the contract which she entered into, to compel Dodge to account to her for the money he received, and, finally, to compel him to return the money.

Dr. Stark's Automobile Trip.

Dr. Henry S. Stark of 156 East Seventy-second Street, whose overcharge complaint against Automobile Driver Edward Barrett, employed by the Electric Vehicle Company, caused Barrett's conviction of larceny in Special Sessions Friday, desires the impression created by the publication of the story that he was on a sight-seeing trip through Chinatown on the night of Nov. 19 corrected. Dr. Stark states that he was making professional calls in Orchard and Mulberry Streets in the afternoon, and not in the evening, of the day in question.

The Pianola Yourself and Your Piano.

Have you a piano?
If you have spent your money for a piano, how much good do you realize from it?
Do you use it yourself?
Do half the members of your family use it?
Is it ever used?
How many selections are included in the aggregate repertory of all who use it—more than ten, fifteen or twenty-five?
Do they play well—well enough to entertain musical people?

Do You Know that With the Pianola

You and every member of your family can play the piano—
You can play anything you wish to hear—Liszt's Rhapsodies, Chopin's Nocturnes, Sousa's Marches, Coon Songs, etc—
You have complete control of the expression and can get an artistic, vivifying effect?
Paderewski has a Pianola—he has two Pianolas. After having one for several months in his home in Paris, he has just ordered another for his residence in Switzerland.

Nobody is getting the full value from his piano unless he has a Pianola. Many never expected to get much use from it. They bought it because they thought they had to have a piano. The Pianola has changed all this. The piano becomes a "live pleasure" and every member of the family a participant and thereby enjoys an intimate acquaintance with the great composers.

PRICE $250.

Can be bought by moderate monthly payments.

The Aeolian Co., 18 West 23d St., New York. 500 Fulton St., Brooklyn.

CAPT. BLAKE EXPECTS FORTUNE

Well-Known New York Sportsman's Address Sought by English Relative.

Capt. Robert Jex Blake, who is known to almost all the noted horse owners and patrons of the turf in the East, and who has a wide circle of friends among clubmen and promoters and patrons of outdoor sports, has reason to believe that he will soon come into possession of a snug fortune through the death of a relative in England.

Capt. Blake is a scion of the well-known family of that name which for over 300 years has lived on an estate at Swanton Abbotts, in the County of Norfolk, England. His paternal ancestors figured prominently in public affairs in that section of England, and on several occasions their services to the Crown were acknowledged by the bestowal of royal favors.

Not having been in communication with his English relatives for a number of years, Capt. Blake is unaware of what has happened, but from the language in which the following advertisement is couched he surmises that a member of some branch of the family, which is prolific in soldiers and men of other exalted vocations, has died and left a will making him an heir:

IF CAPT. ROBERT JEX BLAKE (LAST ADdress in the year 1885, Box 6, Rockaway, Long Island, New York,) will apply to the Rev. Philip Miles, Oldstock, Salisbury, he will hear of something to his advantage. Any information regarding Capt. Jex-Blake will be gratefully received by Mr. MILES.

The advertisement appeared in a local morning newspaper Friday. Capt. Blake saw it and at once cabled the Rev. Mr. Miles, who is the husband of the Captain's oldest sister, giving his city address.

The Captain occupies a pleasant suite of rooms at the Hotel Clarendon, which he has made his home for the past year. He was found there yesterday afternoon by a reporter for THE NEW YORK TIMES, and he said in relation to his probable good fortune:

"I cannot imagine what business of so great importance my brother-in-law wishes to communicate with me about, unless it is the settlement of some will. I have relatives, near and distant, in England, who are very well to do, as 'Burke's Landed Gentry' will show, and I am of the opinion that one of them has died, and that it is necessary to communicate with me in order to hasten a settlement of the estate. I surmise it is an aunt who has died, but am not sure. I will, in all probability receive a letter within two weeks giving the particulars. Should my presence be required in England, I will hasten thither as soon as I receive notice, but I shall return to America to spend the rest of my life.

"I have made many friends here that it would be poignant grief to part with, and I do not feel that I could live away from them."

Capt. Blake made his first visit to America in 1871. He was accompanied by Lord Parker, son of the Earl of Macclesfield. They came to hunt buffalo, which at that time abounded on the Western plains, and expected to take back to England interesting trophies of the hunt. On their way West they stopped over in Chicago, and were numbered among the list of sufferers from the great fire that laid the city in ruins. The Sherman House, where they stopped, was totally destroyed, and they barely escaped with their lives. The hounds and bird dogs, of which there was an extensive retinue, together with every piece of their hunting paraphernalia, were destroyed. Nothing daunted by their misfortune, they purchased another but less expensive outfit and spent several weeks in the mountains and plains.

Capt. Parker returned to America the next year, and has made it his home. He served in the Crimean War and bore the rank of Captain at the close of hostilities. He was a great lover of horses from his early youth, and on coming here at once became associated with prominent breeders and racing clubs. He laid out the polo grounds and steeplechase course at Rockaway, and managed the same for some years. He also revised the plans of Monmouth Park, and made the alterations of that famous course and became its manager. He was also for ten years the manager of the polo grounds at Newport, and in 1893 became the manager of the Manhattan Club at the solicitation of Mr. Hermann Oelrichs and a number of other influential members. The Captain's last achievement of note was the laying out and building of the polo grounds at the country place of George Gould at Lakewood, N. J.

The author of the above advertisement is the rector to Lord Pembroke at Oldstock, Salisbury, England, universally known as Salisbury Plains. Mr. Miles was a college mate of the present Lord Pembroke, and has a life annuity at Oldstock.

Capt. Blake is a brother of Dr. Jex Blake, who succeeded Dr. Arnold as Head Master of Rugby on the latter's death. Although not rated as rich, the Captain, a hearty, rugged, broad-shouldered man of sixty-eight years, is comparatively well off. "I have enough," he says, "for all my needs, and one thing that I cannot be deprived of, viz.: the satis

ANNOUNCEMENTS OF DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENTS.

PROCTOR'S

Five Beautiful Play Houses
Devoted to High Class Continuous Vaudeville—A Policy Established in 1883.
By F. F. PROCTOR, Sole Proprietor & Manager. J. Austin Fynes, General Manager.

23D ST.

12:30 to 10:45 P. M.
Open New Year's Day, 10:30 A. M.
First Appearance Here of

GEO. W. MONROE,

"My Aunt Bridget."
LINTON & McINTYRE in "The Doctor's Patience"; CLEMENCE SISTERS, operatic duets.
Return Engagement of

CLIFFORD & HUTH,

In their farce-comedy, CHARLEY GRAPEWIN and ANNA CHANCE in "Above the Limit."
McCALE & DANIELS, Irish comedians; JOSEPHINE HARVEY, trombone soloist.

STALEY & BIRBECK,

Musical Transformation Act.
RALPH JOHNSTONE, daring cyclist.
CHARLEY CASE Tells About Father.
YOUNG AMERICA QUINTET, singing specialty; THURMAN, card manipulator; KALATECHNOSCOPE—NEW MOVING PICTURES.
PRICES ALWAYS:—Orchestra, 50c.; Balcony, 25c.; Dress Circle, 15c.; Box Seats, $1.00.
Continuous Concert To-day. 1 to 10:45 P. M.

5TH AV.

Broadway and 28th St.
12:30 SHARP to 10:45 P. M.
Open New Year's Day, 10:30 A. M.
Town's Artistic Hit.

JEAN MARCEL'S LIVING STATUARY AND MARVELOUS BAS-RELIEFS.

THE FINNEYS, JAMES & ROSE, IN THEIR AMAZING SWIMMING ACT; LEW HAWKINS, CHESTERFIELD OF MINSTRELSY; JANE WHITBECK IN CUTE SPECIALTY.
Return Engagement of

PAPINTA

BEST OF ALL ILLUMINATED DANCERS, IN A BRAND NEW SERIES OF THE MOST BRILLIANT DANCE CREATIONS EVER SEEN, CHALLENGING COMPARISON WITH ALL OTHERS.
ZAZEL & VERNON, IN COMICAL BAR FEATS; KALATECHNOSCOPE — NEW MOVING PICTURES; MAXWELL & SIMPSON, ILLUSTRATED SONGS; GILBERT GIRARD, IMITATIONS; SISTERS WHITING, MUSICAL ACT; McCLOUD & MELVILLE, TRAVESTY; TILL'S MANNIKINS. SPECIAL EXTRA STAR,

ROSE COGHLAN

ASSISTED BY LOUIS MASSEN AND ROSALIND COGHLAN, IN "THE ACE OF TRUMPS."
BROADWAY'S LOWEST PRICES, 25 AND 50c. BOX SEATS, $1.00.
Continuous Concert To-day. 2 to 10:45 P. M.

PALACE.

58th St. & 3d Av. 2 to 10:45 P. M.
Open Noon New Year's Day.
First Appearance of the

NEWSKY TROUPE.

EIGHT FAMOUS DANCERS.
ST. ONGE BROS., COMEDY CYCLISTS; LAWRENCE CRANE, MAGICIAN; KALATECHNOSCOPE, NEW MOVING PICTURES.

THE MORTONS

SAM, CLARA, AND KITTIE, IN THEIR DANCING NOVELTY.
GEO. W. DAY, MONOLOGIST; BUDD BROS., ACROBATS; FLORRINE, SINGING COMEDIENNE; THE DU MUTHS, TERPSICHOREAN TOURBILLONS.

3 YOSCARYS,

DARING ACROBATS.
FIELDS & WARD, TALKING JESTERS; MARIE ROSE, VOCALIST; O'BRIEN & HEROLD, COMEDY DUO.
BARGAIN PRICES:—AFTERNOONS, 15 AND 25c. TO ALL PARTS OF HOUSE. EVENINGS, 15, 25, & 50c.
Continuous Concert To-day. 2 to 10:45 P. M.

125TH ST.

2 to 10:45 P. M.
Open Noon New Year's Day.
Only Harlem Engagement

RUSSELL BROS.

in "The Irish Servant Girls."
JOHN E. CAMP, "WHO NEVER SMILES;" THE MIMIC FOUR, TRAVESTY COMEDIANS; KALATECHNOSCOPE, WITH NEW MOVING PICTURES.

LEW SULLY.

BLACK-FACE JESTER.
JOHN DONOHUE AND MATTIE NICHOLS, ACROBATIC DANCERS; BARR & EVANS, FARCICAL COMEDIETTA.

BANKS AND WINONA WINTERS.

Singing Specialty.
JEFFERSON, novelty act; Camera Snap Shots Abroad.
YAMAMOTA BROS., from Japan.
HARLEM'S LOWEST PRICES:—AFTERNOONS, 15 AND 25c. TO ALL PARTS OF THE HOUSE. EVENINGS, 15, 25, 50c.
Continuous Concert To-day. 2 to 10:45 P. M.

THEATRE Evgs., 8:15. Mats., 2:15. REPUBLIC 42d St., just west of B'way.
OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN....Owner and Manager
—Telephone 3940—38.—
TO-MORROW, MONDAY, EVENING
WITH
Mats. New Year's Day, Wed. and Sat.

VIOLA ALLEN

And Company, presenting Lorimer Stoddard's Dramatization of F. Marion Crawford's Romantic Novel,

IN THE PALACE OF THE KING.

A Love Story of Old Madrid.
—Liebler & Co., Managers.

WALLACK'S

B'way & 30th St. Evenings at 8:30.
Regular Mats. Wed. and Sat. at 2:15.
SPECIAL MATINEE NEW YEAR'S.
FRANK McKEE PRESENTS

MARY MANNERING

IN

"JANICE MEREDITH"

Dramatized by Paul Leicester Ford & E. E. Rose.
SEATS ON SALE 4 WEEKS IN ADVANCE.

BROADWAY, B'way & 41st St. at 8:15.
Matinée Sat. at 2:15.
JACOB LITT.....PROPRIETOR
Matinée New Year's Day. Prices, $1.50, $1.00, 75c., 50c.

A ROLLICKING ROYAL SUCCESS.
JEFFERSON

De Angelis.

In Klein & Francis's Operatic Comedy,

A ROYAL ROGUE.

KEITH'S

CONTINUOUS PERFORMANCE. E. F. ALBEE.....General Manager
ALWAYS THE BEST VAUDEVILLE SHOW IN NEW YORK.
TUESDAY, NEW YEAR'S DAY, DOORS OPEN AT 9:30 A. M.
ANOTHER SUPERB HOLIDAY BILL!
R. G. Knowles. Second Week and Big Success, assisted by Mrs. R. G. Knowles.
Johnstone Bennett, assisted by Tony Williams, in "A QUIET EVENING AT HOME."
Cushman, Holcomb & Curtis, presenting their funny comedy sketch, "The New Teacher."
Johnson & Dean, America's greatest colored comedy couple. Ward & Curran.
The Streator Zonaves, in their drill and sensational wall climbing. Biograph.
AND A LONG LIST OF POPULAR FAVORITES OF THE VAUDEVILLE STAGE.

KOSTER & BIAL'S

25c. Mats. this Wk., Mon., Wed., Fri. Evgs., 25, 50, 75, $1.00.

25c. Sunday Mat. To-day—To-ngt. Kita di Lorenza, Etta Butler, Dolan & Lenharr, Jess Dandy, Holloway Trio; Fred Niblo, Nichols Sisters, Stella Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, Musical Colbys, Burton & Brooks, O'Neill & Torp, Herbert's Dogs, Addie Bishop; others.
ORC. 25c. Daily Matinee Monday and All Week. 50c. George Fuller Golden, La Belle Kita di Lorenza, Bert Coote & Company, Josephine Sabel, The Original August, The Clarenze Quintette, Fauvette Twin Sisters, John Harty, Kelly, Yeager & Kelley, Ford & Cantwell, Nellie De Veaux; others.
—AND—
FULLER MATINEES THIS WEEK ONLY ON TUESDAY, THURSDAY & SAT. Orch. 50c.

LOIE FULLER.

HERALD SQUARE THEATRE.

Management Sam S. Shubert.
Evgs. 8:15. Mats. New Year's Day, Wed. & Sat.
Last 9 times of Augustus Thomas' Peerless

ARIZONA

Get seats now if you desire a choice.
Special New Year's Matinée Tuesday.

Charles Frohman's MUSICAL COMEDY COMPANY
MONDAY, JAN. 7,
with
EDNA MAY
Presenting with an All-Star Cast

THE GIRL FROM UP THERE

By Hugh Morton and Gustave Kerker.
Seat sale Thursday.

HUBER'S 14TH ST. MUSEUM

Visit the Early Shows and Avoid the Crowds.
HOLIDAY BILL ALL WEEK
Something New Daily.
Strongest Woman on Earth,
Mme. YUCCA
Remarkable feats of strength. Lifts horse weighing 1,300 lbs; a female Samson. The king of all freaks, Francisco Lentine,

3-LEGGED BOY.
Three legs, one body.
COLORED MINSTRELS.
Southern darkies in grand Creole cakewalk; Barriel, man of mystery; Mamie Smith, long-haired wonder; Dexters, handcuff manipulators; J. Paige, clay modeler; Allen's Punch; Zulu glass dancer.
2 CO.'S. ADA JONES. SUNDAY CONCERTS.

DEWEY THEATRE 14 ST 3RD & 4TH AVS

TO-NIGHT!
GRAND HOLIDAY "POP,"
GEO. FULLER GOLDEN, SMITH & CAMPBELL, JENNY EDDY TRIO, ICE CITY QUARTETTE BARTEL & MORRIS, CARMEN SISTERS, REIDY & CURRIER, ETHEL ROBINSON, HENRY & GALLOT, Robt. Recker's Harmonists.
COM. TO-MORROW (MON.) MAT. & ALL WEEK
RAMBLERS' BURLESQUERS, Headed by Burke Bros.
2nd Edition NEW LIVING PICTURES.

HURTIG & SEAMON'S MUSIC HALL 125 E. 14 ST.

TO-NIGHT. Rossow Midgets, Blanche Ring, Edgar Atchison Ely, Ward & Curran, Young America 5, Hall & Staley, Lawson & Namon, &c.
NEXT WEEK. EXTRA DANIELS. EXTRA
BANDMAN & CO.
In Trial Scene Merchant Venice
MR. & MRS. SIDNEY DREW,
Maud Nugent, Gus Williams.
MAT. NEW YEAR'S DAY, WED & SAT.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC, 14th St. & Irving Pl.

E. G. Gilmore & Eugene Tompkins, Props. & Mgrs.
MATINEE NEW YEAR'S DAY.
Whitney & Knowles' Original London Production,

QUO VADIS,

With Wilton Lackaye, Elita Proctor Otis, Aubrey Boucicault, Bijou Fernandez, Frank Mordaunt, Samuel Edwards, and 200 others.
PRICES 25-50-75-1.00.
Regular Mats. Wed. & Sat., 2. Eve., 8 Sharp.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

Grand Masquerade Ball

of the

Cercle Francais de l'Harmonie

TUESDAY, JANUARY 8.
Boxes and tickets at Clubhouse, 24 West 26th St., and principal hotels.

1884. 1900.
THE AMERICAN ACADEMY OF THE DRAMATIC ARTS and EMPIRE THEATRE DRAMATIC SCHOOL,
Franklin H. Sargent, President. A practical training school in connection with Mr. CHARLES FROHMAN'S Empire Theatre and traveling companies. Apply to E. P. STEPHENSON, Gen'l Mgr., Room 145, Carnegie Hall.

METROPOLIS THEATRE, 142d St. & 3d Av. Ev'gs, 8:15. Mats. Wed. & Sat.
IN WALL STREET.
EXTRA MATINEE NEW YEAR'S DAY.

GRAND XTRA MAT. NEW YEAR'S, 2:30
Denman Thompson. LAST WEEK. The Old Homestead.
Sunday Aft. and Evg. Big Concert.

WEBER & FIELDS' FIDDLE-DEE-DEE MUSIC HALL Evgs, 8:15, Sharp. Mats. Tues., Sat., 2 and Burlesques of Gay Lord Quex and a Royal Family.

CARNEGIE HALL. NEW YEAR'S EVE. Monday Evg., Dec. 31, at 8:15
Grand Popular Operatic Concert

SEMBRICH

(Her last appearance in New York this season) assisted by artists of the SEMBRICH OPERA COMPANY, under the direction of MR. C. L. GRAFF.
GRAND ORCHESTRA.
Conductor.....SIGNOR BEVIGNANI
Popular Programme:
Overture, "Guarany".....Gomes
Aria, "Miei rampolli, Cenerentola".....Rossini
Signor ROSSI.
Romanza, "Salve dimora," (Faust).....Gounod
Signor DE LARA.
Aria, "Ah fors e' lui," (Traviata).....Verdi
Mme. SEMBRICH.
{ Entr'acte, "La Colombe".....Gounod
{ Sevillana.....Masenet
{ Duo, Pronta io son, (Don Pasquale).....Donizetti
Mme. SEMBRICH and Signor BENSAUDE.
Overture, "Mignon".....A. Thomas
Prologo, "I Pagliacci".....Leoncavallo
Signor BENSAUDE.
Brindise, "Chi mi dira," (Martha).....Flotow
Signor DADO.
Waltz, "Voce di primavera".....J. Strauss
(by request) Mme. SEMBRICH.
Trio, "Pappataci," (I Italiani in Algeri).....Rossini
Signori DE LARA, DADO, and ROSSI.
Marcia alla Turca (Ruins of Athens).....Beethoven
POPULAR PRICES—75 cts., $1, $1.50, $2. Boxes, $12, $15. Tickets on sale to-morrow at Schuberth's, 23 Union Square; to-day and to-morrow at box office, Carnegie Hall.

METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE
GRAND OPERA SEASON 1900—1901
Under the direction of Mr. Maurice Grau.
TO-NIGHT at 8:15 o'clock,
SECOND GRAND SUNDAY NIGHT CONCERT.
Soloists: Mmes. Ternina and Olitzka; MM. Dippel, Scotti, and Plancon. Entire Opera Orchestra. Conductor, Mr. Damrosch.

Mon. Ev'g, Dec. 31, at 7:45 precisely—LOHENGRIN, (in German.) Mmes. Nordica and Schumann-Heink; MM. Jean and Ed. de Reszke, Muhlmann, and Bertram. Conductor, Damrosch.
Wed. Ev'g, Jan. 2, at 8—MEFISTOFELE, (in Italian.) Mmes. Marguerite Macintyre and Homer; MM. Cremonini and Plançon. Conductor, Mancinelli.
Fri. Ev'g, Jan. 4, at 8—FAUST, (in French.) Mmes. Melba, Bridewell; MM. Jean and Ed. de Reszke and Scotti. Conductor, Mancinelli.
Sat. Aft., Jan. 5, at 1:45—DIE WALKURE, (in German.) Mmes. Gadski, Schumann-Heink, and Ternina; MM. Van Dyck, Blass, and Bertram. Conductor, Damrosch.
Sat. Ev'g, Jan. 5, at 8, at Popular Prices—IL TROVATORE, (in Italian.) Mmes. Nordica and Olitzka; MM. Camponari, Journet, and Dippel. Conductor, Mr. Flon.
WEBER PIANOS USED.

MENDELSSOHN HALL
SATURDAY AFTERNOON, Jan. 5, at 3 o'clock,
THIRD PIANOFORTE RECITAL

GABRILOWITSCH.

J. P. Rameau (1682-1764.) Gavotte et Variations, A minor.—Beethoven, Sonata, Op. 110, A flat major.—Chopin-Liszt, Chant Polonaise, G flat major, (Nocturne).—Chant Polonaise, G major.—Chopin, Ballade, G minor, Op. 23.—Rubinstein, Polonaise, E flat minor, Op. 11?, (Rubinstein's last composition for the piano).—Raff, Rigaudon.—Dvorak, Humoresque, G flat, Op. 101.—Mendelssohn-Liszt, Wedding March and Elfin Dance, from "Midsummer Night's Dream."
Everett Piano Used.

CARNEGIE HALL.

MATINEE SATURDAY, JAN. 5th.
EV'GS SAT. & SUNDAY, Jan. 5th & 6th.

Sousa AND HIS BAND.

BLANCHE DUFFIELD.....SOPRANO
BERTHA BUCKLIN.....VIOLINISTE
POPULAR PRICES.
SALE OPENS MON., DEC. 31, BOX OFFICE

MENDELSSOHN HALL.
Tuesday Afternoon, January 8, at 3. and Thursday Afternoon January 10, at 3.
MR. and MRS. GEORG

HENSCHEL

VOCAL RECITALS.
Res. seats, $1 & $1.50, at Schuberth's, 23 Union Sq. Management .....Henry Wolfsohn

---

KREISLER

WIZARD OF THE VIOLIN.
Available January and February. Address WOLFSOHN, 131 East 17th St.

HARLEM OPERA HOUSE Ev'gs 8:15. Mats. New Year's Day & Sat., 2:15.
JOHN DREW as RICHARD CARVEL.
Week of Jan. 7th, PETER F. DAILEY.

AMERICAN 42D ST., & 8TH AV. Evgs, 8:15. 25c., 35c., 50c.
Matinee Daily (except Mon.) 25c. TRILBY. Next Week, QUO VADIS.

3D AVENUE THEATRE. Matinée Monday. Melodrama—FOGG'S FERRY.

CASINO

Broadway and 29th Street.
SHEE BROS..... Mgrs.
DUNNE, BYRLEY & FISHER'S
Every Eve. at 8:15. Matinées New Year's & Saturday.

FLORODORA

TUNEFUL! WITTY! DASHING!
THE MUSICAL SUCCESS OF THE SEASON!
Great Star Cast.
WILLIE EDOUIN, EDNA WALLACE-HOPPER, CYRIL SCOTT, FANNIE JOHNSTON, R. E. GRAHAM, MAY EDOUIN.

CARNEGIE LYCEUM 57th Street & 7th Av.
"A real success."—Sun.
CHILDREN'S THEATRE
FAIRY PLAY "THE FOREST RING"
Journal—"'Forest Ring' is fine—A delightful novelty—an excellent entertainment. Boys and girls roared with laughter."—Alan Dale.
World—"An afternoon of solid enjoyment."
Herald—"Young and old enjoy it."
Ev. Sun—"A capital play for youngsters & grown-ups."
Eve. Telegram—"It taught a useful lesson."
Eve. Jour.—"Decided success. Won instant pop'ity."
Eve. Post—"Well suited to childish imaginations."
Mail & Express—"No greater dramatic success this season. Carried delight to every childish heart."
EVERY AFTERNOON AT 3 O'CLOCK.
No Evening Performance.

Hammerstein's 42d St., Bway. and 7th Ave. VICTORIA Evgs. 8:30. Mat. Sat. Gen. Adm., 50c. Mat. Prcs. 50c., 75c., $1.
SECOND WEEK. NEW YEAR'S MATINEE.

Marie DRESSLER

In Musical Comedy, MISS PRINNT.

ADMISSION 25c. SUNDAYS.
WORLD IN WAX

EDEN MUSEE

—NEW TO-DAY—
SPECIAL GROUPS AND FIGURES.
This Afternoon and Evening.
THE NEW TROUBADOURS AND ORCHESTRA.
To-morrow and all the Week
CHILDREN'S HOLIDAY ATTRACTION.
HUMPTY DUMPTY.
JAS. R. ADAMS PANTOMIME CO.
Extra Cinematograph
CINDERELLA'S Glass Slipper.

DALY'S

B'way & 30th, at 8:15. Dan'l Frohman, Mgr. Mats. Wed. & Sat. 2. Matinée New Year's.
PERFORMANCE BEGINS 8:15.
"A ripping success."—Eve. Sun.
"A credit to Daly's."—Press.
"A triumph."—Eve. World.
"So good a play sure to last."—Times.

Lady Huntworth's Experiment.

By R. C. Carton, Author Lord & Lady Algy

LYCEUM 4th Av. & 23d.....At 8:30
Daniel Frohman.....Manager
Matinées Thurs. & Sat., 2:15.
EXTRA MATINEE NEW YEAR'S DAY.
ANNIE RUSSELL in A ROYAL FAMILY.

BIJOU B'way & 30th St. Mat. Sat. Tel. 2224 Mad. Ev'g, 8:20. | XTRA MAT. NEW YEAR'S. Only Two More

Good Bye Weeks,
of the Novel and Extraordinary Entertainer,

Maylrwin. Madge Smith.

THEATRE Evgs., 8:15. Mats., 2:15. EMPIRE THEATRE. B'way & 40th St. Evgs., 8:20. Matinées, 2:15.
To-morrow (Monday) Evg. at 8:20.
Matinées New Year's, Wednesday & Saturday.
Empire Theatre Company in MRS. DANE'S DEFENCE.
Matinées Tuesday, Wednesday & Saturday.

GARDEN THEATRE. 27th St. & Mad. Av.
E. S. WILLARD.
Every Evening This Week, DAVID GARRICK.
Mats. Tuesday and Saturday, THE PROFESSOR'S LOVE STORY
Next Week—Mr. Willard in "Tom Pinch."

Charles Frohman's CRITERION THEATRE, Broadway & 44th St.
MATINEES TUESDAY & SATURDAY.
JOHN HARE | Last 12 Nights at 8. The Gay Lord Quex

GARRICK THEATRE. 35th St. & B'way. Evgs. at 8:15. Matinées, 2:15.
3 Matinées—Tuesday, Wednesday & Saturday.
WM. H. CRANE as David Harum

MADISON SQ. THEATRE. 24th St., nr. B'way. Last Week—Mats. To-morrow, Wed. & Sat.,
THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT.
Tuesday, Jan. 8, Seats Ready Thursday,
Kelcey & Shannon in "My Lady Dainty."

MANHATTAN THEATRE, 33d & B'way. Ev'gs, 8:15. Mats. Tues., Wed. & Sat.
To-morrow Night. Spl. Mat. New Year's.

THE BURGOMASTER

An Up-to-Date Musical Comedy.

IRVING PLACE THEATRE To-morrow & Tues at 2:30, last 2 Mats. of "SCHNEEWITTCHEN"
To-morrow, Dec. 31, SYLVESTER-EVE. and every evening and Saturday Mat., first time.
"Die Strengen Herren," (Strict People)
Comedy in 3 acts, by Blummenthal & Kadelburg.

MURRAY HILL THEATRE, Lex. Av. & 42d St. Evgs. at 8:15. Mats., 2.
One Block East of Grand Central Depot.
3rd YEAR, YEAR, YEAR, YEAR, YEAR — MATINEE 25c. EVERY DAY — HENRY V. DONNELLY STOCK CO.

WHY SMITH

THIS WEEK.
BY GEO. H. BROADHURST
LEFT HOME
HENRY V. DONNELLY as LAVINIA DALY (The Cook.)
Week of Jan. 7th, EVENING PRICES, 25c., 35c., 50c.
ARISTOCRACY.

KNICKERBOCKER THEATRE, B'way & 38th St
AL. HAYMAN & CO.....Proprietors
TO-MORROW NIGHT AT 8:15.
ADA REHAN | SWEET NELL OF OLD DRURY.
PAUL KESTER'S COMEDY.
MANAGEMENT KLAW & ERLANGER.
MATS. NEW YEAR'S and SAT'Y, 2:15.

MADISON SQ. GARDEN

The HUNGARIAN PEASANT BALL | FRIDAY, JAN. 4TH. Village Life, Csikos and Hussars on Horseback, Four-in-Hand Driving, Mock Marriages, Divorces, and Jail in full operation. Tickets at Tyson's, Rullman, leading hotels.

SAVOY B'way & 34th St. Ev'gs, 8:20. Reg. Mats. Wednesday & Saturday, 2:15.
EXTRA MATINEE NEW YEAR'S.
HENRIETTA CROSMAN
In the Merry Play, MISTRESS NELL.

ON LOCAL BOWLING ALLEYS

Changes in Standing as a Result of the Week's Games.

LONG ISLAND TIES DECIDED

Oriental Team Secures First Place in National League—Bank Clerks and Empires Make Advances.

As no games were rolled in the local bowling tournaments on Christmas Eve and the following evening, fewer changes than usual were made in the standing of the clubs as a result of the week's games. In the National League tournament the Oriental team completed its schedule by winning three games from the Golden Rod five. The Orientals are now assured of first prize in the tournament, unless the Fidellas should win their last three games, in which case the result would be a tie.

The ties in the Long Island League tournament were decided on Wednesday evening. The tie for fifth and sixth places between the Reinecks and the Kings County Wheelmen was decided in favor of the Reinecks, and the Echoes won out in the play of the quadruple tie for seventh prize.

In the Columbia League the Bank Clerks moved from sixth to third place as the result of two games won during the week, and in the Greater New York tournament the Empires went up from seventh to third place.

The standing of the clubs in the principal local leagues is as follows:

NATIONAL BOWLING LEAGUE.

Club.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Oriental Bowling Club	25	8	1,014
Fidelia Bowling Club	22	8	977
Roseville Athletic Association	22	11	981
Metropolitan Bowling Club	14	10	1,011
Golden Rod Bowling Club	14	10	1,002
New York Athletic Club	14	13	972
Our Council, Royal Arcanum	11	13	966
Cortlandt Bowling Club	11	19	965
Berkeley Bowling Club	13	20	952
Spartan Bowling Club	9	18	987
America Bowling Club	9	18	914
Germania Bowling Club	8	23	925

COLUMBIA BOWLING LEAGUE.

Club.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Corinthian Bowling Club	15	1	957
Delando Bowling Club	14	2	983
Bank Clerks' Bowling Club	12	4	947
Cyclone Bowling Club	11	5	902
Royal Arcanum Wheelmen	11	5	887
Rosedale Bowling Club	11	7	908
Belvidere Bowling Club	9	5	898
Oriental Bowling Club	9	7	945
Phoenix Bowling Club	8	6	913
Lotus Bowling Club	8	8	939
Standard Bowling Club	8	8	959
Grove Hill Bowling Club	8	8	854
Empire City Bowling Club	8	10	944
Yonkers Council, Royal Arcanum	8	10	892
Enterprise Bowling Club	7	9	845
Audubon Bowling Club	6	10	844
Friendship Bowling Club	4	12	875
Linwood Bowling Club	4	14	896
Owl Bowling Club	4	12	841
Century Wheelmen	3	13	882
Wang Bowling Club	3	15	832

HARLEM BOWLING LEAGUE.

Club.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Belvidere Bowling Club	14	2	974
Knickerbocker Bowling Club	13	3	964
Empire Bowling Club	11	3	943
Phoenix Bowling Club	10	4	988
Morris Club Bowling Club	10	4	978
Corinthian Bowling Club	11	5	975
Lotus Bowling Club	11	5	970
Standard Bowling Club	9	5	944
Lafayette Bowling Club	9	7	951
Auburn Bowling Club	7	7	948
Friendship Bowling Club	8	8	970
Century Wheelmen	7	7	924
Central Park Bowling Club	8	8	911
Eclipse Bowling Club	6	8	928
New Rochelle Bowling Club	6	10	869
Cyclone Bowling Club	5	11	884
Grove Hill Bowling Club	5	11	862
Hyperion Bowling Club	3	9	865
Harlem Wheelmen	3	13	840
Prentice Bowling Club	3	13	998
Colonial Bowling Club	0	16	842

AMERICAN NATIONAL TOURNAMENT.

Club.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Columbia Bowling Club	13	3	940
Metropolitan Bowling Club	11	3	1,016
Fidelia Bowling Club	14	4	990
Monarch Bowling Club	12	4	1,943
Corinthian Bowling Club	12	4	983
Manhattan Bowling Club	10	4	933
Rosedale Bowling Club	10	6	904
Spartan Bowling Club	10	8	977
Arlington Bowling Club	9	7	898
Bleecker Bowling Club	7	7	918
American Owl Bowling Club	7	9	917
Golden Rod Bowling Club	7	9	881
Orchard Bowling Club	6	10	951
Palace Bowling Club	7	9	909
Germania Bowling Club	5	9	861
Bank Clerks' Bowling Club	5	11	864
E. M. Bowling Club	4	12	987
Central Bowling Club	4	11	931
Empire Bowling Club	6	12	939
Surprise Bowling Club	5	15	939
Glendale Bowling Club	4	14	895

NORTH SIDE BOWLING LEAGUE.

Club.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Morris Wheelmen	13	5	959
Hyperion Bowling Club	15	6	921
Knickerbocker Bowling Club	14	7	949
Hooker Bowling Club	11	7	918
Prospect Bowling Club	13	8	887
Bronxdale Bowling Club	11	10	932
Claremont Bowling Club	9	9	883
Liberty Bowling Club	5	16	874
Tremont Bowling Club	3	15	824

BANK CLERKS' LEAGUE.

Bank.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Bank of Manhattan Company	5	1	829
Mercantile National Bank	5	1	794
Kountze Brothers	5	1	723
National Bank of the Republic	6	2	864
American Exchange National Bk.	5	3	823
Ladenberg, Thalmann & Co	3	3	804
United States Sub-Treasury	2	2	791
National Park Bank	3	3	775
Chase National Bank	1	1	763
Seaboard National Bank	2	2	734
Continental National Bank	2	2	734
Plaza Bank	3	5	799
Mechanics & Traders' National	2	4	834
J. P. Morgan & Co	2	4	765
Hanover National Bank	2	4	739
Importers & Traders' Bank	2	4	779
Mount Morris Bank	1	5	762
Hudson River Bank	1	5	718

FIRE INSURANCE LEAGUE.

Company.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
German-American Fire Ins. Co	9	1	853
N. Y. Fire Underwriters' Agency	6	2	775
Norwich Union Fire Ins. Co	6	3	869
Home Fire Insurance Co	6	5	774
Northern Fire Assurance Co	5	4	778
Phenix Fire Insurance Co	5	5	885
Lloyds' Plate Glass Ins. Co	4	5	782
Lancashire Fire Insurance Co	5	6	765
Caledonian Fire Insurance Co	4	6	790
Liverpool and London and Globe	4	6	883
Greenwich Fire Insurance Co	3	8	769
Hanover Fire Insurance Co	2	8	725

LIFE INSURANCE LEAGUE.

Company.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Mutual Life Insurance Co	5	2	821
Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co	5	3	859
Prudential Life Insurance Co	5	3	859
Equitable Life Assurance Society	4	3	859
Fidelity and Casualty Co	4	4	868
Metropolitan Life Insurance Co	3	5	809
Germania Life Insurance Co	1	6	815

COMMERCIAL BOWLING LEAGUE.

Firm.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Manning, Maxwell & Moore	2	0	851
Passavant & Co	1	1	887
R. G. Dun & Co	1	1	796
Borgfeldt & Co	1	1	790
American Woolen Co	1	1	755
S. Oppenheim & Levy	0	2	658

ROYAL ARCANUM TOURNAMENT, BOROUGH OF THE BRONX.

	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Suburban Council	3	0	825
Fordham Council	2	1	719
Morrisania Council	3	3	740
Claremont Council	1	2	759
Bronx Council	0	3	725

ARCHDIOCESAN UNION LEAGUE TOURNAMENT.

Club.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Cathedral Catholic Club No. 1	6	0	859
Spalding Literary Union No. 1	4	0	810
Cathedral Catholic Club No. 2	5	1	804
Columbus Catholic Club No. 1	3	1	873
St. Monica's Catholic Club	4	2	771
Holy Cross Catholic Club No. 1	1	1	770
Spalding Literary Union No. 2	3	3	755
Holy Cross Catholic Club No. 2	3	5	754
Columbus Catholic Club	2	4	770
Loyola Catholic Club	1	5	707
Leo Catholic Club	1	5	710
Holy Rosary Catholic Club	0	6	658

INTER-CLUB LEAGUE, BROOKLYN.

Club.	Won.	Lost.	Total.
Crescent Athletic Club	7	0	5,106
Carleton Club	4	3	5,220
Knickerbocker Field Club	4	3	5,045
Brooklyn Bicycle Club	3	4	5,123
Columbian Club	2	5	4,886
Aurora Grata Club	1	6	4,783

ASSOCIATED CYCLING CLUBS OF LONG ISLAND BOWLING TOURNAMENT.
CLASS A.

Club.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Orient Wheelmen	4	0	941
Bushwick Wheelmen	3	1	932
Greater New York Wheelmen	4	2	936
Logan Wheelmen	4	2	884
Twenty-sixth Ward Wheelmen	4	2	873
Brooklyn Bicycle Club	2	2	922
Mutual Wheelmen	2	4	893
Tamaqua Wheelmen	1	3	794
Unknown Wheelmen	0	8	837

CLASS B.

Carroll Park Wheelmen	4	0	940
Macon Wheelmen	3	1	795
South Brooklyn Wheelmen	4	2	772
Royal Arcanum Wheelmen	2	1	694
Oxford Wheelmen	2	3	682
Defender Wheelmen	1	3	687
Williamsburg Wheelmen	2	4	724
Montauk Wheelmen	1	5	727

BROOKLYN BANK CLERKS' BOWLING LEAGUE.

Bank.	Won.	Lost.	High Score.
Williamsburg Savings Bank	10	2	810
Franklin Trust Company	9	3	838
Broadway Bank	8	4	774
Manufacturers' Trust Company	7	5	821
People's Bank	7	5	787
Sprague National Bank	6	8	773
Queens County Bank	3	9	693
Manufacturers' National Bank	2	10	759
Hamilton Trust Company	2	10

FINANCIAL.

Hanover National Bank
Capital $3,000,000. Surplus and profits, $5,000,000.
9 and 11 Nassau St.

Central National Bank
320 Broadway.

The Nassau Bank
Corner Beekman and Nassau Streets.

Colonial Trust Company
CAPITAL, SURPLUS, AND UNDIVIDED PROFITS, $1,800,000.00.
ST. PAUL B'LD'G. 222 B'way.

Washington Trust Company
Stewart Building, 280 Broadway.

Bankers' Cards.

KOUNTZE BROTHERS,
BANKERS,
Broadway & Cedar St., NEW YORK,
BUY AND SELL
Investment Securities.
Receive accounts of Corporations, Firms and Individuals on favorable terms.
Make loans against approved collateral.
LETTERS OF CREDIT.

DOUGLAS & JONES,
Members New York Stock Exchange.
ESTABLISHED 1886.
24 Broad St., New York City.
STOCKS AND BONDS BOUGHT AND SOLD ON COMMISSION AT THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE AND CARRIED ON MARGIN.
Daily Market Letter on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.

C. Sidenberg & Kraus,
BANKERS & BROKERS,
20 BROAD ST., NEW YORK.
Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.
Orders Executed for Stocks and Bonds for cash or on margin.
INTEREST ALLOWED ON DEPOSIT.
Investment Securities.

HENRY CLEWS & CO.,
BANKERS,
11, 13, 15, and 17 Broad St.
MEMBERS N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE.
Orders executed for investment or on margin. Interest allowed on deposits, subject to check at sight. Act as Financial Agents for Corporations and Investors. Industrial Combinations Organized. Government and other Investment Bonds bought and sold.
BRANCH OFFICES:
72 W. 23d St., cor. Madison Av. 252 5th Av., cor. 25th St.
487 B'way, Silk Ex. Bldg. 56 Wor'th & 39 Thomas St.
87 Hudson St., Mer. Ex. 16 Court St., Brooklyn.

Vermilye & Co.,
BANKERS,
New York and Boston.

SIMON BORG & CO.,
BANKERS,
No. 20 Nassau St., New York
INVESTMENT SECURITIES.

Henry L. Wardwell. Edward L. Adams.
Telephone 3243 Broad.
WARDWELL & ADAMS,
STOCK BROKERS,
16 BEAVER ST., NEW YORK.
Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.
Stocks, Bonds, & Investments

I. F. MEAD. T. H. CURTIS.
I. F. MEAD & CO.,
44 & 46 BROADWAY, N. Y.
Twenty-five years' membership in N. Y. Stock Exchange.
STOCKS AND BONDS
Bought and Sold for Cash or on Margin.

P. J. Goodhart & Co.,
Dealers in
Bank & Trust Co. Stocks
Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.
38 WALL STREET.

R. J. JACOBS & CO.,
41 New Street, New York.
Members New York Stock Exchange.
Orders Executed for Investment or on Margin
INVESTMENT SECURITIES.

JACOB BERRY & CO.,
Members Consolidated Stock Exchange.
44 & 46 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
ESTABLISHED 1865.
STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, COTTON.
A commission house working in the interest of clients, executing all orders upon the Exchange and giving names of Brokers with whom transaction is made in every instance. We issue upon request a book describing accurately the above markets and influences governing them. Also monthly fluctuation sheets and market reports.
COMMISSION 1-16. MODERATE MARGINS.

Established 1868. Tel. call, 2335 Cortlandt.
FRED. H. SMITH,
STOCK BROKER, 8 BROAD ST., N. Y.
Member New York Con. Stock Exchange.
Stocks, Bonds and Grain.
Bought, sold, and carried on margin.
COMMISSION 1-16TH.
Book of Railway Statistics upon application.

Stoppani & Hotchkin,
Members New York Consolidated Stock Exchange,
66 BROADWAY, N. Y.
Telephone, 3078 Cortlandt.
Orders executed for investment or on margin.
STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, COTTON
Branch Office: N. E. cor. Broadway and 30th St.

FINANCIAL.

The Investor's Guide
contains valuable information for mining investors. January number now ready. Subscription price 60 cts. per year. Sent free for three months. Enclose stamp for postage. Address
THE INVESTOR'S GUIDE
Seventh Floor, 220 Broadway, New York City.

CAPITAL SECURED
for railroad, industrial, and business projects. Corporations organized and financed.
Corporation Bonds and Stocks bought and sold on commission.
HILLYER, CLARKE & CO.,
Bankers and Brokers, 11 Pine St., New York.

MORTON TRUST CO.
38 NASSAU STREET.
Capital, Surplus & Undivided Profits, $5,000,000
Levi P. Morton, President. Thomas F. Ryan, V.-Pres.
James K. Corbiere, 2d V.-P. H. M. Francis, Sec.
W. Redmond Cross, Treas. H. B. Berry, Trust Officer.

EXPERIENCED FOREIGN EXCHANGE SOLICITOR with clientele wishes to engage with banking house; reference furnished. F., Box 116, Times Up-Town Office, 1,269 Broadway.

WE LOAN MONEY TO PEOPLE IN ANY kind of business; also on salaries. 150 Nassau St. Office 729.

FINANCIAL.

INASMUCH as the Government will discontinue the refunding of the United States 3's, 4's and 5's on Monday next, December 31st, I have completed arrangements and am now prepared to take—

U. S. 3's, due August, 1908-1918 on a 1.35% basis
U. S. 4's, due July, 1907 . . . . on a 1.25% basis
U. S. 5's, due February, 1904 . . on a 0.50% basis in exchange for United States Gold 2's of 1930, on a 1.65% basis, this offer being subject to previous sale and to acceptance and delivery before 3 P. M. on Monday, December 31st, which gives holders of the old bonds a last opportunity to effect this advantageous exchange, it being very evident that the United States Gold 2's will be henceforth the most desirable of all Government bonds, being payable in Gold and not redeemable until January, 1930. Furthermore, National Banks will save one-half per cent. on new circulation based thereon, and both banks and individuals will increase their annual income $\frac{3}{10}$ of 1% on the 3's, $\frac{2}{5}$ of 1% on the 4's, and $\frac{15}{100}$ of 1% on the 5's, by means of the exchange.

J. NEWTON,
36 Wall Street, New York City.

TO THE FIRST MORTGAGE BONDHOLDERS OF THE
Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company.

The interest on the first mortgage bonds of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company, which, by agreement of October 12th, 1895, between a Committee of the Bondholders and the Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf Railway Company and its Receiver, was reduced for a time to four per cent., will, after December 1, 1900, accrue and be payable at the original rate of six per cent.

The control of the Company through stock ownership is in the Colorado and Southern Railway Company, and it appears from published reports that the present earnings of the property are not sufficient to pay the full interest on the bonds. Under these circumstances it becomes essential that the bondholders unite in securing all the consideration to which they are entitled, and, if need be, enforcing their rights under the mortgages and otherwise protecting their interests.

The undersigned have been requested by the principal bondholders to act as a bondholders' committee, and in order to confer upon the committee necessary authority, the bondholders are respectfully urged to deposit their bonds at once with the United States Trust Company under a bondholders' agreement lodged with it.

Engraved certificates of deposit will be issued by the Trust Company, and application will be made to the New York Stock Exchange to list the same.

Copies of the agreement can be obtained either from the Trust Company or from the Committee.

HENRY K. McHARG, 40 Wall St.
SIDELL TILGHMAN, 40 Wall St.
FRANKLIN B. LORD, 120 Broadway.
LORD, DAY & LORD, Counsel.

January Investments.
OUR LIST OF
Municipal and Corporation Bonds,
netting the investor from 4 to 5½%, will be sent to any address upon request.
W. J. HAYES & SONS
111 Congress Street, Boston, Mass. Chamber of Commerce, Cincinnati, O. Chamber of Commerce Bldg, Cleveland, Ohio.

To the Stockholders
OF THE
AMERICAN STEEL AND WIRE CO.
PROXIES.
At the request of the holders of a large amount of the preferred and common stocks of this company, we solicit the co-operation and support of all stockholders who desire the election of an efficient Board of Directors at the next annual meeting to be held on the 21st day of February, 1901. We are prepared to receive proxies entitling us to vote stock at said meeting.
Blank forms of proxies can be obtained at our office.
WELLES, HERRICK & HICKS,
15 Wall St., New York.

BROWN BROTHERS & CO.,
NO. 59 WALL ST.,
ISSUE INTERNATIONAL CHEQUES, COMMERCIAL and TRAVELERS' CREDITS AVAILABLE IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

UNLISTED MARKETABLE SECURITIES
A SPECIALTY.
DAVID PFEIFFER, 18 WALL ST.

Savings Banks.

MANHATTAN SAVINGS INSTITUTION,
NO. 644, BROADWAY.
NEW YORK, Dec. 24, 1900.
99th Semi-Annual Dividend.
The Trustees of this institution have declared interest at the rate of THREE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. per annum on all sums not exceeding $3,000 remaining on deposit during the three or six months ending on the 31st inst., payable on and after the third Monday in January next.
JOSEPH BIRD, President.
FRANK G. STILES, Secretary.
GEORGE H. PEARSALL, Asst. Secretary.

EMIGRANT
INDUSTRIAL SAVINGS BANK,
51 Chambers St., New York.
New York, Dec. 19th, 1900.
DIVIDEND.—The Trustees of this Bank have ordered that interest be paid to Depositors entitled thereto for the six and three months ending December 31st, 1900, at the rate of Three and One-Half Per Cent. per annum on all deposits up to the limit of Three Thousand Dollars, ($3,000.)
Interest will be credited under date of January 1st, 1901, and will be payable on and after Monday, January 21st.
JAMES McMAHON, President.
DAVID LEDWITH, Comptroller.

CITIZENS' SAVINGS BANK,
56 and 58 BOWERY, COR. CANAL ST.
51ST SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND.
The Trustees have ordered that interest at the rate of THREE AND ONE-HALF (3½) PER CENT. per annum be paid to depositors on and after January 14th on all sums of $5 and up to $3,000 which have remained on deposit for the three or six months ending December 31, 1900, in accordance with the by-laws and rules of the bank. Money deposited on or before January 10th will draw interest from January 1st. HENRY HASLER, President.
CHARLES W. HELD, Secretary.
HENRY SAYLER, Assistant Secretary.

NORTH RIVER SAVINGS BANK
236 West 34th Street, (Near Eighth Avenue.)
70th SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND.
The Board of Trustees have directed that interest be credited depositors on Dec. 31st, 1900, at the rate of THREE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. per annum on sums of $5.00 to $3,000.
Deposits made on or before January 10th will draw interest from January 1st.
SAMUEL D. STYLES, President.
ALEXANDER C. MILNE, Treasurer.
IRVING M. SHAW, Secretary.

FINANCIAL.

Dividends.

John B. Stetson Company.
Philadelphia, Dec. 27, 1900.
The Board of Directors of the JOHN B. STETSON COMPANY have this day declared a semi-annual dividend of FOUR PER CENT. upon the Preferred Stock and an annual dividend of TWELVE PER CENT. upon the old Common Stock, and an extra dividend of THREE PER CENT. upon said old Common Stock; also a regular dividend of SIX PER CENT. upon the new issue of Common Stock, and an extra dividend of ONE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. upon said new issue of Common Stock, all payable January 15, 1901, to stockholders of record January 9, 1901. Books will be closed from the close of business January 9 until January 15. Dividend checks will be mailed to stockholders.
J. HOWELL CUMMINGS, Secretary.

Garfield National Bank,
23d St. and 6th Av.
New York, Dec. 21st, 1900.
The Board of Directors has this day declared a quarterly dividend of TEN PER CENT. and an extra dividend of FIVE PER CENT. upon the capital stock of this bank, payable, free of tax, on and after December 31st, 1900. The transfer books will be closed until Wednesday, Jan. 2d, 1901, at ten o'clock.
R. W. POOR, Cashier.

Office of Wells, Fargo & Co.,
63 Broadway,
New York, Dec. 20, 1900.
THE REGULAR SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND of THREE PER CENT. has been declared by the Directors of the company, payable Jany. 15, 1901, at our office, as above.
The transfer books will close Dec. 31st, 1900, and reopen Jan'y 16, 1901.
H. B. PARSONS, Assistant Secretary.

The Fourth National Bank
of the City of New York.
New York, Dec. 24th, 1900.
The Board of Directors has this day declared a semi-annual dividend of THREE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT., free of tax, payable on and after January 2d, proximo.
The transfer books will close at 3 P. M. this date, reopening January 2d, 1901.
CHARLES H. PATTERSON, Cashier.

Continental National Bank.
New York, Dec. 21st, 1900.
EIGHTY-FOURTH DIVIDEND.
The Directors of this Bank have to-day declared a semi-annual dividend of THREE (3) PER CENT., free of tax, payable January 2d, to which date from December 24th the transfer books will be closed.
ALFRED H. TIMPSON, Cashier.

United Traction and Electric Company.
Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 13, 1900.
A dividend of ONE PER CENT. on the Capital Stock of this Company will be paid to the registered holders on the 2d day of January, 1901. Transfer books will be closed on the 19th inst., and will reopen January 3d, 1901.
C. S. SWEETLAND, Treasurer.

Leather Manufacturers National Bank,
29 Wall St.
135th Dividend.
New York, December 26th, 1900.
The Board of Directors has this day declared a semi-annual dividend of FIVE PER CENT., free of tax, payable January 2d, 1901.
The transfer books will be closed until that date.
G. W. McGARRAH, Cashier.

National Broadway Bank,
102D DIVIDEND.
New York, December 19th, 1900.
The Board of Directors have this day declared a semi-annual dividend of Six Per Cent., free of tax, payable on the 2d day of January, 1901. The transfer books will be closed on December 10th, 1900, at 3 o'clock P. M., and reopened January 2d, 1901, at 10 o'clock A. M.
CHAS. J. DAY, Cashier.

Montana Ore Purchasing Co.
The Trustees of the Montana Ore Purchasing Co. have declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.00 PER SHARE and an extra dividend of $2.00 PER SHARE, payable at the New York office of the Company on January 21st, 1901. Books close January 10th.
ARTHUR F. HEINZE, Secretary.
New York, December 27th, 1900.

The National Citizens' Bank of the City of New York.
New York, Dec. 21st, 1900.
A dividend of THREE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. out of the earnings of the last six months has to-day been declared by this bank, payable on and after Jan. 2d, 1901. The transfer books will remain closed till that date.
W. M. WOODS, Cashier.

The Exploration Co. of New York,
Mills Building, 15 Broad St.
DIVIDEND NO. 12.
The Board of Directors of this corporation have this day, December 19th, declared a semi-annual dividend of $5 per share, payable January 15th, 1901. Transfer books close December 31st, 1900, and reopen January 16th, 1901. Checks will be mailed to stockholders of record.
FREDERICK G. CORNING, President.

The Chatham National Bank,
QUARTERLY DIVIDEND.
A Quarterly Dividend of FOUR PER CENT. out of the earnings of the past three months has this day been declared by the Board of Directors, payable on and after January 2d, 1901, until which date transfer books will be closed.
H. P. DOREMUS, Cashier.
New York, December 21st, 1900.

The Hanover National Bank
OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK,
9 and 11 Nassau St.
New York, December 21st, 1900.
The Board of Directors have this day declared a dividend of FIVE PER CENT., free of tax, payable on and after January 2d, 1901. The transfer books will remain closed until that date.
WILLIAM LOGAN, Cashier.

The Eleventh Ward Bank,
New York, December 21, 1900.
The Board of Directors have this day declared a semi-annual dividend of FOUR (4) PER CENT., free of tax, payable on and after January 2d, 1901. The transfer books will remain closed until that date.
CHARLES E. BROWN, Cashier.

The Bank of America,
New York, December 21st, 1900.
The Board of Directors have to-day declared a semi-annual dividend of seven (7) per cent., free of tax, payable January 2d, 1901, to stockholders of record of this date.
The transfer books will remain closed until January 3d, 1901. W. M. BENNET, Cashier.

Interest on Mobile City Bonds.
The January, 1901, coupons of Mobile City bonds, issue 1881, will be paid on and after January 1, 1901, in New York by the Mercantile National Bank, and in Mobile by the First National Bank of Mobile.
Z. M. P. INGE, Trustee, &c.

East River National Bank.
New York, Dec. 22, 1900.
A dividend of Four (4) Per Cent. has been declared payable on and after Wednesday, January 2, 1901.
Z. E. NEWELL, Cashier.

The Triple-State Natural Gas and Oil Co.'s
Coupons due January 1st, 1901, will be paid on or after January 2d by the CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY.

Meetings and Elections.

The Lawyers' Surety Company of New York,
No. 32 Liberty Street.
New York, December 28th, 1900.
The annual meeting of the stockholders of this Company will be held at this office on January 8th, 1901, at 12 M. for the election of Directors and the transaction of such business as may come before it.
JOEL RATHBONE, Secretary.

The State Bank,
378 Grand St.
Election.—The Annual Election for Directors of this Bank and Inspectors of Election will be held at the Banking House, No. 378 Grand St., on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.
A. I. VOORHIS, Cashier.

Office of the Eagle Fire Co.,
NEW YORK, December 29, 1900.
The Annual Election for Directors of this Company and for Inspectors will be held at the Company's office, No. 71 Wall Street, on TUESDAY, JANUARY 8, 1901, commencing at 12 o'clock M., and closing at 1 o'clock P. M.
THOS. J. GAINES, Secretary.

FINANCIAL.

Meetings and Elections.

New York Produce Exchange Bank.
Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of said corporation will be held at the New York Produce Exchange Bank, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, on TUESDAY, the 8TH DAY OF JANUARY, 1901, at one o'clock P. M., to elect twelve Directors to serve as such during the ensuing year, also to act upon the proposition to amend the Articles of Association so as to authorize the opening and maintaining of one or more branch offices for the purposes permitted by Chapter 410 of the Laws of 1898, and of amending the several sections of the Articles of Association relative to the number and qualification of Directors, and to change the time of the annual election to correspond with existing laws. Also for such other business as may lawfully be brought before such meeting.
Yours, respectfully,
WM. A. SHERMAN, Cashier.

Ohio & Indiana Consolidated Natural & Illuminating Gas Co.,
45 Broadway, Room 95,
New York, December 7, 1900.
The annual meeting of the stockholders of this company will be held at 11 o'clock A. M., on Wednesday, the 2nd day of January, 1901, at the office of the company, corner of Greene and Grand Streets, Jersey City, N. J., for the purpose of electing Directors and for the transaction of any other business authorized to be done at an annual meeting.
The polls will remain open one hour.
The transfer books will be closed from December 15th, 1900, to January 3d, 1901.
A. B. PROAL, Treasurer.

Lincoln National Bank,
32-42 East Forty-second Street.
New York, December 24, 1900.
The annual meeting of the shareholders of this bank for the election of Directors for the ensuing year will be held at the banking house on Tuesday, January 8, 1901, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.
W. T. CORNELL, Cashier.

The Bank of America.
New York, December 24th, 1900.
The Annual Election of Directors and Inspectors of Election of this bank will be held at the banking house on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901. The polls will be opened at 1 o'clock P. M. and will close at 2 o'clock P. M.
The transfer books will be closed from January 5th to January 9th. W. M. BENNET, Cashier.

The Western National Bank
OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.
New York, December, 1900.
The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of this Bank, for the election of Directors, will be held at the Banking House, No. 15 Nassau Street, on TUESDAY, January 8th, 1901. The Polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 P. M.
H. A. SMITH, Cashier.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders and a meeting of the Trustees for the election of officers of the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company will be held at the office of the Company, 120 Broadway, New York, on WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1901, at 1 o'clock P. M.
The polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. for the election of Trustees for the ensuing year.
LYMAN RHOADES, President.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders and a meeting of the Directors for the election of officers of the Mercantile Electric Company will be held at the office of the Company, 120 Broadway, New York, on WEDNESDAY, JANUARY, 9, 1901, at 1 o'clock P. M.
The polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. for the election of Directors for the ensuing year.
LYMAN RHOADES, President.

The Mechanics' National Bank
of the City of New York,
Dec. 8th, 1900.
The annual election for Directors of this Bank will be held at the banking house, No. 33 Wall St., on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.
G. W. GARTH, Cashier.

The Bank of New York,
National Banking Association,
New York, December 7th, 1900.
The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking house, No. 48 Wall Street, on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901.
The polls will be open from 12 M. to 1 o'clock P. M.
CHAS. OLNEY, Cashier.

The Hanover National Bank
OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.
New York, December 7th, 1900.
The annual election for Directors of this Bank will be held at the banking house, 9 and 11 Nassau Street, on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901, between the hours of 12 o'clock M. and 1 o'clock P. M.
WILLIAM LOGAN, Cashier.

The National Citizens' Bank of the City of New York.
New York, Dec. 21st, 1900.
The annual election for Directors of this bank will be held at the banking house, No. 401 Broadway, on TUESDAY, Jan. 8th, 1901, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.
W. M. WOODS, Cashier.

The Plaza Bank,
New York, December 28th, 1900.
The annual election for Directors of the Plaza Bank will be held at the Banking House, 5th Avenue and 58th Street, on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901. Polls open from 12 M. to 1 o'clock P. M.
C. W. PARSON, Cashier.

The National Butchers and Drovers' Bank.
New York, December 7th, 1900.
The Annual Election for Directors of this Bank will be held at the Banking rooms, No. 683-685 Broadway, on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901, between the hours of 12 M. and 1 P. M.
WM. H. CHASE, Cashier.

Copartnership Notices.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE.
The firm of AARON YOUNKER & CO. has been dissolved by mutual consent, J. W. KASKEL withdrawing from the firm. The business will be conducted as heretofore at 24 and 20 West 4th St., under the name of AARON YOUNKER & CO., by AARON YOUNKER.
AARON YOUNKER, J. W. KASKEL.

CARNEGIE COMPANY'S WAGES.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 29.—The employes of the Oliver Mining Company, H. C. Frick Coke Company, Carnegie Natural Gas Company, Youghiogheny Northern Railroad, Union Railroad, Pittsburg, Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad, Pittsburg and Conneaut Dock, Union Supply Company, Pittsburg Limestone Company, Mingo Coal Company, Youghiogheny Water Company, Pleasant Valley Water Company, and the Pittsburg Steamship Company, which concerns form a portion of the Carnegie Company, will on Jan. 2 be notified that the same wages as paid this year will be continued for one year more. The company has also decided to make no change in the wages paid the workmen in its steel and blast furnace plants.

The outlook for the coming year in this particular, the Carnegie Company officials declare, is at least as good as last year, so that the 14,000 employes will begin the new century with bright prospects.

The American Iron Works of the Jones & Laughlins Company has already made a wage agreement with the unskilled labor by which a grant of 10 per cent. advance was made.

Increase in Savings Bank Deposits.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 29.—The Bank Commissioners' report for the year ended Oct. 1, published to-day, shows an increase in deposits in savings banks of $9,646,747, which, while more than $1,000,000 less than the previous year's deposits, is much larger than in any year before this one. The total increase of deposits for the two years is more than $20,000,000, the increase in the number of depositors being 34,532.

Norwegian Finances.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 29.—The Norwegian financial situation shows great improvement. At the year's end the Swedish banks have sufficient funds for all purposes. The interest is high, but business is good. Much Christmas money has arrived from the United States.

NEW CORPORATIONS.

North Brookfield Milk Producers' Association of North Brookfield, Madison County; capital, $6,000. Directors—Alexis York, J. A. Moore, and E. T. Wells of North Brookfield.

The Saturday Night Publishing Company of New York City, to publish a weekly newspaper; capital, $5,000. Directors—B. T. Youte of New York City; G. W. Bailey and C. G. Hill of Brooklyn.

The Drennan-Briggs Hardware Company of Syracuse, to manufacture iron, steel, and hardware; capital, $30,000. Directors—Thomas C. Drennan, M. Josephine Drennan, and J. E. Briggs of Syracuse.

Incorporated in New Jersey.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 29.—The Stony River Coal and Coke Company, with a capital of $1,000,000, was incorporated here to-day. The company is empowered to mine coal. The incorporators are F. R. Hansell, George H. B. Martin, and Max Phillips, all of Camden.

The Tontine Surety Company, capital, $500,000, was also incorporated to deal in jewelry. Incorporators—R. J. Farmer, C. W. Perkins, and K. K. Maclaren, all of Jersey City.

Incorporated in Delaware.

DOVER, Del., Dec. 29.—Certificates of incorporation were filed here to-day for the Hocking Valley Brick and Coal Company of Nelsonville, Ohio; capital, $500,000.

The Art Metal Company, Cleveland, Ohio; capital, $5,000.

FINANCIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Triple-State Natural Gas and Oil Company's coupons will be paid by the Central Trust Company after Jan. 1.

Details of dividends declared by the following companies will be found in another column: John B. Stetson Company and the Montana Ore Purchasing Company.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

A year of phenomenal Wall Street records is closing. At the opening of business to-morrow—the last day of the year—quotations will be at a range not merely higher on an average than ever before recorded for standard American securities, but they will represent recent appreciation beyond precedent.

It has been a notable feature of Wall Street business during the past week that securities of the highest character have been active and have advanced most. In the list of net gains for the week—a list that is long—the leaders of prominence are stocks like St. Paul, Burlington, Rock Island, Northwest, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson, Union Pacific, and Consolidated Gas. Some of these have risen in an extraordinary way. St. Paul for the week is up more than 10 full points. In each instance excellent reasons are quoted for appreciation; but the effective fact which most signifies in this particular is that the stocks gaining most, being stocks of high price, must have been bought by financial interests of great consequence. Little men cannot handle deals in stocks where to buy a single hundred shares requires the payment of from $10,000 to $20,000, where thousand-share lots mount to the figures of fortunes—and on the Stock Exchange tape throughout the past week thousand-share lots in shares of the highest class have been ordinary daily incidents. About $1,000,000 of Lackawanna, for example, was bought yesterday on straightaway orders wherein a rise from $190 per share close to $195 was scored. Abundant other evidences there are of activity in the market on the part of the strongest financial interests that Wall Street knows, but in the prominence of the high-priced stocks is ample proof of the fact of their presence, their earnest participation in the market's betterment—and veteran Wall Street observers agree that such market symptoms could not be improved.

It has been the pessimistic theory that little folks were loading up with stocks, and that any misadventure, any disturbance of market equanimity, any interruption of the market's upward course, however temporary, would be sufficient to scare the market's leaders into hurried liquidation. Many short contracts have been entered into by some of the lesser professional speculators on the basis of this apprehension, for so confident has been the buying, so much larger has been the taking of stocks at higher prices than was discernible at lower figures, that most of the wiseacres of Wall Street have felt that reckless pyramiding processes were being pursued and that sooner or later enforced liquidation must be caused by some accident or another. But such adverse ideas have been based upon the view that the chief buyers of stocks were buyers who banked rather upon their hopes than cash surpluses. And that view is incompatible with the exhibits which the past week has presented.

Next to the character of the buying the most significant factor in evidence has been the failure of adverse prophecies. Two things have been much counted upon by bear speculators to help them in bringing about a market reaction. One has had to do with money market conditions. All the professional pessimists were sure at the beginning of December that the close of the year would be marked by such a tying up of funds that hurtful stringency must be produced. They remembered the bad conditions and sensational developments of a year ago and were persuaded that danger attended extensive stock market commitments. Not only the speculators who work to bring about declines were of this opinion, but they found a following of considerable proportion in the lists of timid folks, who (being always on the lookout for an excuse to be scared) exalt themselves as "conservatives." Yet the December record for 1900 is 6 per cent. as a maximum rate. No squeeze in this, no warrant for nervousness on anybody's part, altogether a normal status—the money market bugaboo has fallen flat.

The other theory upon which bearishness counted was that general business must so slacken at the close of the year as to upset the confidence of business interests and find especial reflection in declining railway earnings. But railway earnings do not decline. Not only will the 1900 record surpass all other records in the healthfulness and largeness of railway progress, but the closing month of 1900 seems likely to be the banner month of the year. So far forty important companies have reported for the first three weeks of December with a showing of close to $2,000,000 increase, the returns for the third week showing gains close to $800,000 and decreases short of $100,000. Here in detail is the extraordinary exhibit—only one week since September showing net decreases and that being merely reflective of shrinkage in traffic from the anthracite coal strike:

40 roads, 3d week Dec.	Inc.	$696,378
61 roads, 2d week Dec.	Inc.	788,319
66 roads, 1st week Dec.	Inc.	413,560
71 roads, 4th week Nov.	Inc.	518,867
66 roads, 3d week Nov.	Inc.	81,020
68 roads, 2d week Nov.	Inc.	40,770
67 roads, 1st week Nov.	Inc.	64,165
72 roads, 4th week Oct.	Inc.	1,881,580
66 roads, 3d week Oct.	Inc.	544,266
66 roads, 2d week Oct.	Inc.	419,264
67 roads, 1st week Oct.	Inc.	319,239
65 roads, 4th week Sept.	Dec.	278,480
64 roads, 3d week Sept.	Inc.	437,252
64 roads, 1st week Sept.	Inc.	324,829

Wall Street is full of rumors of impending deals. Hints are heard of extraordinary possibilities that impend in a long list of properties. Consolidation projects bigger than any hitherto heard are discussed in quarters where ordinarily idle gossip is not indulged in. What Northern Pacific securities recently have done stands as an example of what may develop elsewhere—tremendous advance in market values being scored without the disclosure of any actual tangible change in conditions. The one thing plain in Northern Pacific has been that powerful interests were devoting themselves to plans intended to produce new results, and all the time there has been visible the fact that the same financial interests were persistent absorbers of the company's securities. Outsiders have been dazed, unable to comprehend the warrant for almost doubling Northern Pacific common stock's value. Outsiders are aware that bad crop conditions confront the property and Northern Pacific's own President was on record when the stock was $50 per share as taking something very different from optimistic views of the outlook. But the rise in market value, disregarding the known things, has been maintained with hardly an interruption. And so in other parts of the market similar dominating influences seem at work—and herein appears the warrant for giving heed to the abounding representations of new and important deals whereby inspiriting changes are to be brought about.

Developments in the Vanderbilt quarter are probably close at hand. The buoyancy of New York Central is believed to presage official announcements which will have bearing upon almost the entire Vanderbilt group. It has been determined that the second preferred stock of the Nickel Plate system shall go upon the dividend list, and some current reports have it that the first preferred stock will be retired, while an officer of the property makes the prediction that Nickel Plate common stock itself will be a dividend payer within a very short time. Extraordinary revolution, indeed, is represented by progress like this, even under Vanderbilt management.

SATURDAY.

Stocks strong.

STOCK TRANSACTIONS:

	Shares.
Dec. 29	668,946
To date this year	136,956,100
Corresponding date last year	175,073,855

BOND TRANSACTIONS.

Dec. 29	$2,170,250
To date this year	$573,969,730
Corresponding date last year	$836,198,990

Money rate: Collateral loans on call, 5 per cent.; at three months, 4½ per cent.; at six months, 5 per cent. Commercial paper, sixty to ninety days, 4¾@5 per cent.

***

Net changes in stocks of one-half of 1 per cent. or more were:

Stocks Advanced.

Am. Car & F. pf.	⅞	Met. Street Ry.	⅝
Am. Express	4	Mo. St. P. & S. S. M.	¾
Am. Sugar Ref.	2½	Mobile & Ohio	1¼
At., T. & S. F. pf.	⅝	Nat. Lead pf.	⅝
Balt. & Ohio	¾	Nat. Steel pf.	¾
B'klyn R. T.	⅝	Nat. Tube	1⅞
Canada South	⅝	N. Y. Central	1⅝
Ches. & Ohio	⅝	Northern Pac.	⅝
Chi., M. & St. P.	3⅝	Pennsylvania	1¼
Chi., M. & St. P. pf.	½	People's Gas	⅝
Chi. & N. West	1¾	Peoria & East	1
Chi. & N. W. pf.	5	Pressed S. C. pf.	½
Chi., R. I. & Pac.	¾	Texas & Pac.	⅝
C., C., C. & St. L.	1¼	Union B. & P. pf.	1½
Del. & Hudson	1⅝	Union Pacific	1¼
Del., L. & W.	3¼	Un. Pacific pf.	¾
Den. & Rio Gr. pf.	⅝	U. S. Leather pf.	1
Glucose Sugar	¾	U. S. Rubber	2¼
Gt. North. pf.	1¼	U. S. Rubber pf.	3½
Hocking Valley	½	Wells-Fargo	2
Illinois Central	2	West. Union Tel.	½
Int. Paper pf.	½

Stocks Declined.

Am. Linseed pf.	¾	N. Y., C. & St. L. 2d pf.	⅝
Am. Tobacco	⅛	Nor. & West. pf.	⅞
B'klyn Un. Gas	½	North Amer.	¾
Canadian Pacific	1	P., C., C. & St. L.	1⅝
Chi., Bur. & Qy.	¾	Pressed S. Car	½
Col. So. 1st pf.	½	St. L. & S. F. 1st pf.	1¾
General Electric	½	Third Avenue	1¼
Int. Power	⅝	Wabash pf.	1
Int. Silver	¾	W. & L. E. 1st pf.	1
Louis. & Nash.	½	Wis. Central pf.	1
Mo., K. & T.	⅝

Net changes in bond quotations of 1 per cent. or more were:

Bonds Advanced.

Ill. Cent. 4s, 1953	1
Int. & G. N. 1st	2
Long Isl. unif. 4s	1
Ore. R. R. & N. 4s	1
St. L. & S. F. 1st	1
Sher., Shreve. & S. 5s	1

Bonds Declined.

Am. Dock Imp. 5s	1⅛
N. Y. C., L. S. 3½s, r.	1⅛

YESTERDAY'S MARKET.

At the opening yesterday the stock market showed irregularity, and in some departments heaviness, due to the lower prices sent over by London, where a state of semi-demoralization was said to exist because of the failures in the West Australian markets. Prices opened down all through the list, and, for the reason that arbitrage houses reported large selling orders for London account, the opinion was general that still lower prices would follow here. Yet it is a fact, and it but proves how strong and substantial is the support behind the present market, that in less than fifteen minutes—the sales, foreign and local, absorbed—the market began to move up, nor did it stop in its upward course until the sounding of the gong at noon announced the close of business. As on the previous day, the standard railway stocks led in the advance, such issues as St. Paul, Lackawanna, Northwest, Delaware and Hudson, Illinois Central, New York Central, Three C's, Union Pacific, and Pennsylvania showing exceptional strength.

In St. Paul the buying was of the best, and the general opinion in the Street was that the special dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES, published yesterday, anent St. Paul's affairs was true. This, briefly put, told that President Hill of Great Northern and Norman B. Ream of Chicago are to enter the St. Paul Directorate and that Mr. Hill may even become President. There was also the statement, though this has been semi-officially admitted for some time, that the dividend on the stock is to be increased to 6 per cent.

The probability of dividend increases in Delaware and Hudson and Union Pacific, and buying by banking interests identified with both properties, contributed materially to the strength of those issues.

Vanderbilt buying was in evidence in New York Central, Three C's, and Nickel Plate, the second prefer sales, the depressing effect here lasted not more than fifteen minutes, being succeeded then by buoyancy almost unexampled.

Discussing the matter, a member of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. says:

"Of course the failures are not serious ones, but they were clearly consequential enough to disturb the London market. Our market, however, is more and more becoming independent of the London market—a fact well illustrated by the movement of prices here. Though London sent lower much lower figures and sold many stocks, the effect was all over in the first fifteen minutes, after which this market went steadily ahead and upward. This is due in the first place to the fact that we now hold more of our own securities than ever before, and in the second place, because, financially, this country is in a very strong position. Wall Street daily grows more independent of foreign influences."

A member of the firm of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., on the same subject, says: "If these failures and this semi-demoralization in the London market had happened several years ago, the effect on the local market might have been serious. As it is, we have grown so strong financially that we now move with much more independence and are little influenced by the price fluctuations on the foreign markets. It is a striking illustration of our growth and prosperity."

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call, 3 per cent.

Time money, 4@4½ per cent. for thirty days, 4½ per cent. for sixty days, 4½ per cent for four months, and 4½@5 per cent. for five to six months. Mercantile paper, 4¾@5 per cent. for sixty to ninety days' indorsements, 5@5½ per cent. for choice four to six months' single names, and 5½@6 per cent. for others.

Clearing House statement: Exchanges, $310,117,211; balances, $13,245,956; Subtreasury debit balance, $1,009,838.

Money on call in London, 4@4½ per cent. Rate of discount in the open market, 4 1-16@4¼ per cent. for short and 4¼ per cent. for three months' bills.

Foreign exchange was firm. Nominal rates were $4.82 for sixty days and $4.86 for demand. Rates for actual business closed as follows: Sixty days, $4.81¼@$4.81¾; demand, $4.85@$4.85½; cables, $4.85⅞@$4.86; commercial bills, $4.80¼@$4.81⅜.

Continental exchange was quoted as follows: Francs, 5.20@5.20 less 1-16 and 5.17½ less 1-16@5.17½; reichsmarks, 94¼@94 5-16, and guilders, 40 and 40⅛.

Exchange on New York at domestic centres: Chicago—20c premium. Boston—Par. New Orleans—Commercial, 75c discount; bank, par. San Francisco—Sight, 17½c premium; telegraphic, 20c premium. Charleston—Buying, par; selling, 1-10c premium. Savannah—Buying, ⅛c discount; selling, par. Cincinnati—Between banks, 14½@15c premium; over the counter, 50c premium.

THE LONDON MARKET.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Money was in strong demand to-day. Most of the discount business goes to the Bank of England. It is expected that after the year-turn rates will be much easier, but they cannot be expected to fall far while Continental exchanges are so adverse.

The attention of the Stock Exchange was centred on West Australians, business commencing at an early hour. There was much excitement and anxiety. Home rails were steady. Americans were easier and closed weak on further profit taking. Northern Pacifics were especially offered. Southern railroads were heavy. Kafirs were easier.

Though improbable, speculation is rife as to whether the bank rate will rise before Jan. 1. The gold reserve is the lowest since 1895, and small packets of gold are leaving almost daily. The Investors' Review says:

"The symptoms are ominous in many directions. Trade is shrinking and bringing therewith the collapse of values, not only for the Stock Exchange, but for coal, iron, and textiles. The effect must be to seriously impugn banking credit. The Government is steadily pulling away our means and is still unable to cope with its liabilities. The burden of increased war taxation begins to press severely upon the community, whose incomes have already been curtailed by the derangement of business which the fighting has caused."

Owing to the holidays, the week's business on th Stock Exchange was small, the tone, however, was wonderfully good in most directions, without adequate reason being assigned, as nothing has happened to improve the outlook fundamentally. But dealers are preparing for the expected easier money after Dec. 31. Americans maintained their excitement in spite of the holiday distractions, and the settlement disclosed a heavy bill account. The position looks decidedly dangerous. Canadians were benefited by the strength of Americans, and the satisfactory traffic returns.

India was a steady purchaser of silver throughout the week, and the position of the India currency department points to heavy purchases at a not distant date. Examining the money outlook, The Statist says:

"The large sum borrowed by the Bank of England at 4½ (2) disclosed that the reserve amounted to only £16,500,000, which indicates that rates have been maintained for some time. As the French check rate has again fallen to 25f. 5c. and Berlin exchange to 20 marks 41 pfennigs, the Paris Exchange almost permits gold to be taken from the Bank of England and enables gold in the open market to be shipped profitably."

The Statist expects money from New York will be plentiful at the opening of the year, with active stock markets. The fall in silver to 29¾. The Statist ascribes to American pressure of sales for cash, but adds that immediately after the year's turn American holders will no longer press sales, and that a sharp recovery is anticipated.

Consols for money, 97 9-16; consols for the account, 97⅝; Atchison, 47; Canadian Pacific, 93½; St Paul, 146¾; Illinois Central, 134; Louisville, 89¾; Union Pacific preferred, 85; New York Central, 147½; Erie, 23¾; Pennsylvania, 75¾; Reading, 12¾; Erie first preferred, 58¾; Northern Pacific preferred, 89; Grand Trunk, 7¼; Anaconda, 16; Rand mines, 39⅝.

Bar silver steady at 29 9-16d per ounce.

Money, 4@4½ per cent. Rate of discount in the open market, for short bills, 4 1-16@4¼ per cent.; three months' bills, 4⅛ per cent.

In Continental Centres.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—On the Boerse to-day little business was done in Internationals owing to the absence of demand, and the tendency was dull. Locals were quiet, but prices were fairly maintained. Banks fluctuated much, but finished unchanged. Mines declined on realizations and unfavorable reports from the American iron market. Americans were easier.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 41 pfennigs for checks. Discount rates: Short bills, 3½ per cent.; three months' bills, 4⅜ per cent. The advance in the rate for short bills from 3½ to 7 per cent. was due to the settlement.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—Operators on the Bourse to-day were entirely occupied with the settlement. Realizations caused declines, but prices subsequently rallied and closed steady. Kafirs were weak. Three per cent. rentes, 100f. 25c. for the account. Exchange on London, 25f. 7½c. for checks. Spanish 4s closed at 70.

TREASURY BALANCES.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—To-day's statement of the Treasury balances in the General Fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the Division of Redemption, shows:

Available cash balances	$143,456,607
Gold	95,366,382
Silver	9,105,704
United States notes	10,086,810
Treasury notes of 1890	84,140
National banknotes	7,552,587
Total receipts this day	1,729,099
Total receipts this month	44,428,602
Total receipts this year	280,424,015
Total expenditures this day	2,132,000
Total expenditures this month	38,492,000
Total expenditures this year	273,281,834
Deposits in National banks	102,010,716

The condition of the Treasury Divisions of Issue and Redemption, at the beginning of business to-day, was as follows:

RESERVE FUND.

Gold coin and bullion	$150,000,00

TRUST FUNDS, DIVISION OF REDEMPTION.

Gold coin	$264,337,379
Silver dollars	427,354,000
Silver dollars of 1890	4,408,782
Silver bullion of 1890	57,171,218
United States notes	1,570,000
Total	$754,841,370

DIVISION OF ISSUE.

Gold certificates outstanding	$264,337,379
Silver certificates outstanding	427,354,000
Treasury notes outstanding	61,380,000
Currency certificates outstanding	1,570,000
Total	$754,841,379

GENERAL FUND.

Gold coin and bullion	$63,201,762
Gold certificates	32,074,620
Silver coin and bullion	4,304,148
Silver certificates	4,801,566
United States notes	10,086,810
Other assets	12,372,581
Total in Treasury	126,831,481
Deposits in National banks	102,010,716
Total	$228,842,196
Current liabilities	85,385,590
Available cash balance	$143,456,607

OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Yesterday's short session of the market for outside securities developed scarcely more activity than the market showed on the earlier days of the week. Prices, however, in several quarters showed improvement, and some substantial advances resulted from the day's trading. Apart from this strengthening of quotations, nothing new appeared in the market, and no stocks were sufficiently active to attract very much attention.

***

DISTILLING OF AMERICA preferred opened at 30½, but subsequently declined, at 30, and closed unchanged for the day at 30 bid. Total transactions amounted to about 500 shares. The common stock sold at 6¾, but later was offered slightly below that figure.

***

OTIS ELEVATOR showed much strength, and on the purchase of about 500 shares the common stock advanced to 28. At the close none was offered under 29. The preferred stock showed a net gain of 1 point, closing at 90 bid.

***

INTER-STATE OIL, which since the break in the stock the other day has been watched with considerable interest, yesterday sold for the first time since the price fell below 80. One hundred shares sold at 93¼, but later 10 was bid for the stock. It was offered after the sale at 15.

***

HIDE AND LEATHER bonds sold to the extent of $10,000 at 90¾. For some days past these bonds have been very quiet. No sales in the stocks were recorded.

***

NEW ENGLAND GAS AND COKE bonds continued strong, and sold 2 points above the best price of the previous day. They closed at 70 bid, showing a net gain of 1 point. The stock advanced to 14½, a net gain of three-quarters of a point.

***

CONSOLIDATED EQUIPMENT was stronger at 13½ bid, but trading in the stock was light.

***

ST. LOUIS TRANSIT sold down to 18, but almost immediately after this sale it was 18¼ bid. The stock was in demand at this price at the close. United Railways of St. Louis preferred suffered a fractional net loss, as did also the bonds.

***

SEABOARD AIR LINE securities were stronger, and the stocks, as well as the bonds, closed with net gains, the preferred stock advancing three-quarters of a point.

***

Closing quotations yesterday, compared with these of the previous day, were as follows:

Industrial and Miscellaneous.

	Dec. 29. Bid.	Asked.	Dec. 28. Bid.	Asked.
Am. Agricultural Chem.	27¼	28	27¼	28
Am. Agricult. Chem. pf.	79½	80½	79½	80½
American Banknote	50	53	50	53
American Bicycle	6½	7	6¾	7
American Bicycle pf.	26	28	26	28
American Bicycle bonds	73	75	73	75
American Bridge	45¼	45½	45¼	45⅝
American Bridge pf.	95	95½	95	95½
American Chicle	85	90	85	90
American Chicle pf.	75	82	75	82
Am. Hide & Leather	10	11	10	11
Am. Hide & Leather pf.	37½	39	37½	39
Am. Hide & Leather 6s.	90½	91	90½	91
*American Thread pf.	4	4½	4	4½
Am. Typefounders	57	62	57	62
Anthracite Coal	85	87⅝	85	87⅝
Arlington Copper	4	5	4	5
British Columbia Copper	21	21¼	21½	21¾
British Exch. 3s	98½	99	98½	99
California Copper	1⅝	2	1⅝	2
Cast-Iron Pipe	5	6¼	5¾	6¼
Cast-Iron Pipe pf.	30½	31½	30½	31½
Central & Sp. Am. Tel.	102	104	102	104
Central Fireworks	22	25	22	25
Central Fireworks pf.	70	75	70	75
Compressed Air	44	46	44	46
Con. Ry. N. & E.	13½	14	13¾	13¾
Con. Rubber Tire	2½	3	2½	3
Con. Rubber Tire pf.	29	30½	29	30½
Continental Tobacco deb.	104	106	104	106
Crucible Steel	21¼	22⅛	21⅜	22⅛
Crucible Steel pf.	78	81	78	79½
Cramps' Shipyard	81	83	79	81
Diet. Co. (La. tr. certs.	64	65	63	64½
Dist. Co. of Am. pf. tr. rcts
Electric Boat	30	30½	30	30½
Electric Boat pf.	27	29	28	29
Electric Vehicle	48	50	49	50
Electric Vehicle pf.	10½	21	18½	21
Electric Vehicle 1st pf.	45	47	82	83½
Electric-Pneumatic	2¾	3	3	3½
Flemington Coal & Coke	18	20	18	20
General Carriage	4	4½	4½	4⅝
General Chemical	60	62	60	62
General Chemical pf.	93	97	94	100½
German Treasury 4s	100½	100⅝	100	100½
Havana Commercial	10	11	10	11
Havana Commercial pf.	44	46	44	46
Hudson River Tel.	115	118	115	118
Illinois Transportation	⅝	1¼	⅝	1¼
International Silver pf.	45	50	45	50
Inter-State Oil	10	15	10	30
Iron Steamboat	2	3	2	3
Iron Steamboat bonds	55	65	55	65
Joseph Ladue Mining pf.	½	1	½	1
Lorillard pf.	100	105	100	105
Markwell Copper	1½	2	1½	2¼
Mex. Nat. Construct. pf.	13½	14	13½	14½
Nat. Enamel & Stamp	17	20	17	20
Nat. Enam. & Stamp. pf.	80	84	80	84
National Grammophone	5	12	5	12
Nat. Sugar pf.	100	102	100	102
New England Transport.	3½	3½	3½	3½
N. Y. Transportation	40	44	40	44½
Otis Elevator	27¾	28	27	28
Otis Elevator pf.	90	92	89	90
Pen., Dec. & Evansv.	½	1	½	1
Phila., Bess. & L.-Erie	28	29	28½	28⅞
Retsof	32	35	32	35
Retsof bonds	78	85	78	85
Royal Baking Powder pf.	94	95	94⅜	95½
Royal Copper	11	12	11	12
Rubber Goods Mfg.	30	30⅜	30¼	30¾
Rubber Goods Mfg. pf.	80	81	81	82
Safety Car Heat. & Light.	113	116	115	118
St. Louis Transit	18½	19¼	18¼	19¼
Seaboard Air Line	48¾	49	48½	49
Seaboard Air Line pf.	70½	71	69½	70½
Seaboard Air Line 4s	10	11	9½	10
Seaboard Air Line pf.	27½	28	26½	27½
Sheet Steel pf.	76	78½	76½	78⅝
Southern Light & Trac.	32	35	32	35
Standard Coupler	34	37½	36	40
Standard Coupler pf.	120	123½	120	125½
Standard Oil of N. J.	800	808	800	810
Storage Power	10	13	10	13
Tennessee Copper	15	17	17	17½
Tel., Tel. & C. of A., $10 paid	2	2¼	2	2⅜
Trenton Potteries	4	6	4	6
Trenton Potteries pf.	55		55	60
Union Copper	5	5¼	5⅝	5⅝
Union Typewriter	35	37	33½	36½
Union Typewriter 1st pf.	110½	112½	110½	112½
Union Typewriter 2d pf.	110	112	110	112
United Rys. of St. L. 4s	85½	85¾	85⅝	86¼
United Rys. of St. L. pf.	68	68¼	68¼	69½
Va. Coal, I. & C.	5	7	5	8
Va. Coal, I. & C. bonds	38	40	38	40
Westinghouse Air Brake	370	380	370	380
Worthington Pump pf.	111	114	111	114

*Selling dollars per share. Par value $5.
‡Selling dollars per share. Par value $10.

Street Railways.

Broadway & 7th Av.	230	235	230	235
Broadway & 7th Av. 1st	102½	102½	102½
Broadway & 7th Av. 2d	110	113	110	113
Broadway Surface 5s	115	116	115	116
Broadway Surface 2d	102½	103½	102½	103½
Brooklyn City R. R.	231	233	231	233
Brooklyn B. & W. E. 5s	101½	102	101½	103
Cent. Park, N. & E. R.	200	202	199½	201
Cent. Park, N. & E. R. 7s	104½	105½	104½	105½
Columbus Railway pf.	37	42	32½	35
Columbus Railway pf.	90	92	89	92
Con. Traction of N. J.	58	60	58	60
Con. Traction 5s	108	109	108	109
Eighth Avenue Railroad	390	400	390	400
42d St., M. & St. N. Av.	113½	115	113½	115
42d St. M. & St. N. A. 2d	99	100	99	100
Grand Rapids St. Ry.	25	30	25	30
Grand Rapids St. Ry. pf.	75	80	75	80
Jersey City, Hob. & Pat.	20	21¼	20	21¼
Jersey C., H. & P. 4s	82¾	83	82¾	83
Nassau Electric 4s	86½	89	87	90
New Orleans Traction	22		22
New Orleans Traction pf.	94	98	94	98
9th Av. R. R.	198	205	198	205
North Jersey St. R. R. 4s	83½	84½	83½	84½
North Jersey St. Ry.	25	26	25	26
Orange & Pas. V. bonds	93	95	93	95
Second Av. R. R. consols	118	119	118	119
Sixth Av. R. R.	200	210	200	210
Steinway Ry. Co. 1st 6s	116½	118	116½	118
Syracuse Rapid Transit	15	20	15	20
Syracuse Rap. Transit pf.	37	43	39	43
28th & 29th St. 5s, 1996	113¾	114½	113¾	114½
Union Ry. 1st 5s	111	113½	111	113½
United Trac., Providence	109	111	109	111
United Traction bonds	113½	115	113½	115
Worcester (Mass.) Trac.	33½	35½	33½	35½
Wor. (Mass.) Trac. pf.	107	108	107	108

Gas Companies.

Bay State Gas	1	1½	1	1¼
Buffalo (N. Y.) Gas	6	8	6	9
Buffalo (N. Y.) 1st	65	70	65	70
Central Union 5s, gtd.	108½	109¼	108½	109¼
Columbus Gas 5s	106	107	106	107
Con. Gas of Newark		55		55
Con. Gas of Newark bds.	104	106	104	106
Con. Gas of N. Y.	10	15	10	15
Con. Gas bonds of N. J.	80	85		80
Con's'rs Gas (J. C.) bds.	105¼	106	105¼	106
Denver Gas	18½	20	18½	20
Denver Gas 5s	61	63	63	65
Essex & Hudson Gas	35	40	35	40
Indianapolis Gas	50	60	50	60
Indianapolis Gas bds. 6s	80	91	89½	90¼
Mutual Gas of N. Y.	295	299	295	299
Madison (Wis.) stock	70	75	70	75
New Amsterdam 5s	109	110	108½	110
N. E. Gas & Coke	14½	15½	12¾	15
N. E. Gas & Coke 5s	70	71	69	69½
N. Y. & E. R. Gas Co. 1st.	112½	114	111	114
N. Y. & E. R. Gas Co. con.	105	109	106	109
Northern Union 5s	105½	106	105½	106
Nor. Hud. L., H. & P. Co.	55	58	55	58
Nor. H. L., H. & P. Co. bds.	107	109	107	109
Peo. Gas & El. (Oswego)	25	30	25	30
Peo. G. & E. (Os.) 5s, 1930	99	101	99	101
St. Joseph (Mo.)	31	38	31	38
St. Joseph (Mo.) 5s	91	93	91	93
St. Paul Gas stock		50		50
St. Paul Gas bonds	75	80	77	81
Standard Gas, New York	131	133	130	133
Standard Gas, N. Y., pf.	151	153	150	153
Standard Gas 1st	115	117	115	117
Syracuse Gas stock	8	10	8	10
Western Gas	96	100	96	100
Western Gas 1st 5s	106	107	106	107

Ferry Companies.

Brooklyn Ferry	13	19	18	19
Brooklyn Ferry 5s	84	87	84	87
East River Ferry	68	71	69	71
East River Ferry 5s	96	98	96	98
Hoboken Ferry con. 5s	94½	95	94½	95
Hoboken Ferry 1st	110¼	112½	110¼	112½
Hoboken Ferry	80	81	80	81
Metropolitan Ferry 5s	106	110	106	110
Union Ferry	30	31½	30	31½
Union Ferry bonds	91	92	91	92

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

Complete Transactions in Stocks—Saturday, Dec. 29, 1900.

Closing Bid.	Closing Asked.	Sales.		First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Net Change.
93⅜	93⅝	3,260	Amalgamated Copper	93⅜	93⅝	93½	93⅝	− ⅛
22⅝	22½	1,350	Am. Car & Found. Co.	22¼	22½	22¼	22½	+ ⅛
71⅝	72	1,403	Am. C. & F. Co. pf.	71	71⅝	71	71⅞	+ ⅞
31	31½	100	American Cotton Oil	31⅜	31⅝	31⅜	31⅝
180	193	600	American Express	186	190	186	190	+4
30⅜	40¼	100	American Ice Co.	30⅝	30⅝	30⅛	30⅝	− ⅝
70	72	100	American Ice Co. pf.	71½	71½	71½	71½	− ⅝
7	7⅝	100	American Linseed Co.	7	7	7	7
37	37¾	200	Am. Linseed Co. pf.	36⅜	37	36¾	37	− ⅝
5	5¼	200	American Malting Co.	5⅛	5⅛	5⅛	5⅛	+ ⅛
54	54½	610	Am. Smelt. & Ref. Co.	53¾	54	53⅝	54	− ⅛
31¾	32	100	Am. Steel Hoop Co.	32	32	32	32
45¼	45½	13,850	Am. Steel & Wire	46	46¼	45¼	45¼	− ⅛
88	88½	400	Am. Steel & Wire pf.	87⅝	88	87⅝	88
142⅜	142¾	53,450	Am. Sugar Ref. Co.	139½	143⅝	139	143¼	+2½
117	118	230	Am. Sugar Ref. Co. pf.	117½	117⅝	117½	117⅝	−
55⅞	55⅞	3,080	American Tin Plate	55½	56	55½	55⅞	− ⅜
111⅜	112	3,000	American Tobacco	112	112½	111¾	111⅝	− ¾
		110	American Woolen	21½	21½	21½	21½
		200	American Woolen pf.	76½	76½	76½	76½
48¼	48⅜	400	Anaconda Cop. M. Co.	48½	48⅝	48	48⅛
57½	58⅛	100	Ann Arbor pf.	57¾	57¾	57⅜	57⅜	− ⅛
46	46⅛	13,000	At., T. & S. F.	45⅜	46½	45⅜	46	− ⅜
88⅜	88½	9,350	At., T. & S. F. pf.	87½	88⅞	87½	88⅝	+ ⅞
83	83½	3,225	Baltimore & Ohio	82⅝	83⅝	82⅝	83¼	+ ⅛
85½	86	900	Baltimore & Ohio pf.	85½	85⅞	85½	85½	− ¼
85⅞	86	21,002	Brooklyn Rapid Tran.	84½	86¼	84	86	+ ⅝
178	180	100	Brooklyn Union Gas	178½	178½	178½	178½	− ½
80	85	100	Buff., Roch. & Pitts.	85	85	85	85
58⅞	59¼	1,300	Canada Southern	58	58⅞	58	58⅝	+ ⅛
91⅛	92⅜	500	Canadian Pacific	91½	91¼	91¼	91¼	− ¼
41⅜	42	5,700	Chesapeake & Ohio	41⅝	42	41⅜	41⅝	+ ⅝
39¾	40	1,450	Chicago & Alton	39⅜	40	39⅜	39⅞	+ ⅝
74½	74⅞	700	Chicago & Alton pf.	74½	74⅝	74½	74⅝
142⅛	142¼	15,450	Chi., Bur. & Quincy	141⅝	143½	141¾	142¼	− ⅛
17⅜	17½	1,900	Chicago Great West.	17⅛	17½	17⅛	17¼
42	43⅛	500	Chi. Gr. West. pf., B.	43½	43½	42⅝	42⅝	− ⅜
25	26	800	Chi., Ind. & Louis.	25	25¼	25	25½	+ ⅜
62	62½	300	Chi., Ind. & L. pf.	61½	62	61½	62	+ ⅜
146⅞	147	71,225	Chi., Mil. & St. Paul	142¼	147	142¼	146⅞	+3⅝
187	188¼	320	Chi., Mil. & St. P. pf.	187	187½	187	187½	+ ½
171¾	172	2,750	Chicago & Northw.	170⅝	172½	170¾	172½	+1¾
217½		300	Chi. & Northw. pf.	216	220	216	220	+5
120⅞	121¼	9,750	Chi., R. I. & Pac.	120	121½	120	121	+ ⅝
73⅝	74¼	1,200	C., C., C. & St. L.	73	74	73	74	+1¼
114	118	60	C., C., C. & St. L. pf.	118	118	118	118
69¾	70¼	1,300	Cleve., Lor. & W. pf.	68	70	68	70	− ½
55¼	55½	2,900	Colorado Fuel & Iron	54¾	55⅝	54¾	55¼	+ ½
7⅝	7⅞	700	Colorado Southern	7⅝	7⅞	7¼	7¼	− ⅛
42½	42¾	110	Col. Southern 1st pf.	42½	42½	42½	42¾	+ ⅛
17	17¼	600	Col. & H. C. & Iron	17	17½	17	17⅜	+ ⅜
195	196	725	Consolidated Gas	194¾	195	194¾	195	− ¼
39	39¼	3,625	Con. Tobacco Co.	38¼	39¼	38¼	39
92½	93¼	410	Con. Tobacco Co. pf.	93	93	93	93	− ⅛
130⅜	131	9,360	Delaware & Hudson	129	132	128½	130⅜	+1¾
193⅞	194	5,760	Del., Lack. & West.	190	194¾	190	194½	+ 3¼
32⅜	33	3,000	Denver & R. G.	32¼	33⅜	32	33⅛	+ ⅜
86½	86¾	1,880	Denver & R. G. pf.	86	86⅝	86	86⅜	+ ⅛
20¼	20¼	1,000	D. M. & Ft. Dodge	19⅞	20⅜	19⅞	20¼
23⅞	24	25,700	Erie	23½	24¼	23⅝	24
58	58⅛	5,900	Erie 1st pf.	57¼	58½	57¼	58¼
39¼	40	1,200	Erie 2d pf.	39½	40	39½	40
56¾	57	9,450	Federal Steel	56¼	57⅝	56¼	56⅞	+ ⅛
77½	77⅝	3,100	Federal Steel pf.	77¼	77⅝	77¼	77½	+ ⅛
191	193	300	General Electric	191	193	191	193	− ½
51	51½	850	Glucose Sugar Ref.	50½	51	50	51	+ ¾
190	191	3,310	Great Northern pf.	188½	190	188½	190	+1¼
		500	Hocking Valley	42½	42¾	42½	42½	+ ½
		600	Hocking Valley pf.	72⅞	73⅛	72⅞	73	+ ⅛
132	132½	3,260	Illinois Central	131	132⅝	131	132¼	+2
25	25¼	400	International Paper	25⅛	25¼	25	25¼	− ¼
74	74½	100	Internat. Paper pf.	74	74	74	74	+ ½
55	55	400	Internat. Power Co.	55	55	55	55	− ½
7	7⅛	700	International Silver	7⅛	7⅜	7	7	+ ⅛
24½	24⅞	700	Iowa Central	24½	24⅞	24½	24⅝	+ ⅛
48⅞	49	120	Iowa Central pf.	48⅞	48⅞	48⅞	48⅞	− ⅛
14½	14⅝	700	Kansas City Southern	14½	14⅝	14¼	14⅜	− ⅛
37¼	38⅜	700	Kansas City South. pf.	37¼	38⅜	37⅜	37⅜	+ ⅛
	9⅞	500	Kingston & Pembroke	9⅞	9⅞	9⅞	9⅞
45⅞	46	600	Lake Erie & West.	45⅞	46	45⅞	46	+ ⅛
		215	Lake Erie & West. pf.	114	114	114	114
233	235	217	Lake Shore	233	235	235	235
87⅞	88	4,935	Louisville & Nashville	87⅞	87⅞	87	87½	− ⅛
114	115⅜	9,300	Manhattan Elevated	114	115⅜	114	115	+ ⅛
169⅜	171½	4,600	Met. Street Railway	169⅜	171½	169½	171	+ ⅝
	1⅜	1,155	Met. St. Ry., rights	1⅜	1½	1⅜	1½
30	30	50	Met. W. S. El., Chi.	30	30	30	30
16¼	16⅝	1,200	Mexican Central	16¼	16⅝	16	16
71	71½	600	Minn. & St. Louis	71½	71½	71	71¼
103½	103⅝	300	Minn. & St. L. pf.	103½	103⅝	103¼	103⅜	+ ⅛
21⅜	21⅝	1,200	Minn., S. P. & S. M.	21⅜	21⅝	21⅜	21⅝
16⅛	16⅜	3,900	Mo., Kan. & Texas	16⅛	16⅜	16⅛	16⅛	− ⅛
45	45⅛	9,900	Missouri Pacific	71	71⅞	70⅝	71¼	− ⅛
46	48	1,550	Mobile & Ohio	46	48	46	48	+1⅝
37½	37⅝	154	National Biscuit Co.	37½	37½	37½	37½
92	92	110	Nat. Lead Co. pf.	92	92	92	92	+ ⅛
41	42	41	National Steel Co.	41	42	41	41⅜
92½	93½	100	National Steel Co. pf.	92½	93½	92½	92¼	+ ¾
67	69	67	National Tube Co.	67	69	67	68⅝	+1
105	105¼	1,400	National Tube Co. pf.	105¼	106	105	105
145⅝	146	460	New Jersey Central	145⅝	146½	145⅝	145⅝
143⅝	144	19,700	New York Central	143⅝	146	143⅝	145⅝	+ ⅛
23	23⅛	780	N. Y.,

THE BANK STATEMENT.

The weekly bank statement of the New York City banks showed an increase in the surplus reserve of $2,028,900. The banks now hold a surplus of $11,525,900 above the legal requirements.

The following is a comparison of the statement issued yesterday with that of the previous Saturday:

	Dec. 22	Dec. 29.	Increase.
Loans	$787,008,700	$790,457,200	$3,358,500
Deposits	838,804,400	854,189,200	15,384,800
Circulation	20,902,500	21,040,800	138,300
Legal tenders	60,157,100	63,353,500	3,196,400
Specie	159,041,000	161,719,700	2,678,700
Reserve	219,198,100	225,073,200	5,875,100
Res. required	209,701,100	213,547,300	3,846,200
Surplus	9,497,000	11,525,900	2,028,900

The following table shows the amounts of surplus reserve held by the Clearing House banks at the end of each week in the present year and the corresponding dates in 1899 and 1898:

	1900	1899.	1898.
Jan. 6	$14,757,725	$23,550,375	$22,264,575
Jan. 13	16,727,350	28,263,075	25,908,775
Jan. 20	24,186,075	34,603,675	21,275,200
Jan. 27	29,277,975	39,252,025	35,001,450
Feb. 3	30,871,275	37,452,975	31,781,425
Feb. 10	27,897,375	35,511,925	32,437,050
Feb. 17	24,015,675	34,378,925	25,688,450
Feb. 24	19,678,550	30,334,000	22,850,325
March 3	13,011,550	24,578,125	20,823,500
March 10	6,676,375	23,291,900	22,721,425
March 17	2,886,425	19,074,775	28,060,050
March 24	5,817,300	18,557,425	33,851,475
March 31	9,536,150	15,304,850	35,720,800
April 7	7,964,800	15,018,925	33,036,475
April 14	10,950,275	19,471,525	32,715,075
April 21	14,804,550	24,175,900	45,925,100
April 28	17,074,275	25,524,075	44,504,075
May 5	15,978,175	19,351,350	43,916,475
May 12	15,332,725	27,137,625	46,997,225
May 19	16,765,225	34,693,525	50,715,250
May 26	18,812,200	42,025,725	53,704,500
June 2	20,122,275	42,710,600	52,240,700
June 9	18,374,250	39,322,100	50,841,100
June 16	17,408,750	39,083,200	50,272,800
June 23	15,526,850	25,097,800	42,206,250
June 30	16,820,075	14,271,550	42,913,550
July 7	15,578,300	5,982,175	52,145,300
July 14	19,969,125	10,038,750	49,095,825
July 21	24,081,900	12,055,600	45,012,000
July 28	27,575,975	10,811,125	41,904,475
Aug. 4	29,141,575	8,110,600	39,881,600
Aug. 11	27,125,550	14,232,575	32,111,850
Aug. 18	20,575,050	15,082,250	28,829,250
Aug. 25	15,888,925	12,378,925	21,343,500
Sept. 1	27,078,175	9,191,250	14,991,650
Sept. 8	26,956,250	2,158,925	7,076,775
Sept. 15	26,836,175	275,450	4,240,400
Sept. 22	16,572,275	2,092,700	2,952,875
Sept. 29	12,912,500	1,724,450	15,327,150
Oct. 6	6,241,900	643,200	18,743,600
Oct. 13	4,463,925	1,177,550	19,601,550
Oct. 20	2,917,700	1,441,075	23,412,325
Oct. 27	6,651,825	3,038,525	26,091,550
Nov. 3	5,950,400	*228,550	19,027,050
Nov. 10	4,606,050	*2,788,950	15,011,800
Nov. 17	7,060,775	5,815,925	16,992,575
Nov. 24	12,278,275	6,052,200	18,557,575
Dec. 1	10,865,675	8,536,700	17,097,950
Dec. 8	5,701,125	6,859,025	16,743,300
Dec. 15	6,225,375	7,023,825	16,975,375
Dec. 22	9,497,000	10,288,675	19,019,650
Dec. 29	11,525,900	11,488,075	19,180,975

*Deficit.

The following shows the surplus reserve at this time for a series of years:

1900	$11,525,900	1895	$18,779,050
1899	11,488,075	1894	35,268,850
1898	19,180,975	1893	8,815,150
1897	15,788,750	1892	6,829,550
1896	19,180,975	1891	17,232,050

MINING STOCK QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29. The official closing quotations for mining stocks today and yesterday were as follows:

	Saturday.	Friday.
Alta	.01	.04
Alpha Con.	.01	.02
Andes	.07	.07
Belcher	.11	.10
Best & Belcher	.23	.22
Bullion	.02	.02
Caledonia	.18	.16
Challenge Con.	.14	.14
Chollar	.13	.12
Confidence	.50	.55
Con. Cal. & Va.	1.90	1.75
Con. Imperial	.01	.01
Crown Point	.09	.09
Gould & Curry	.30	.31
Hale & Norcross	.19	.17
Julia	.03	.03
Justice	.02	.02
Kentucky Con.	.02	.01
Lady Washington Con.	.06	.06
Mexican	.34	.32
Occidental Con.	.03	.03
Ophir	.67	.63
Overman	.08	.08
Potosi	.12	.10
Savage	.13	.13
Sag Belcher	.02	.02
Sierra Nevada	.22	.21
Standard	3.25	3.25
Syndicate	.12	.12
St. Louis	.10	.10
Union Con.	.19	.18
Utah Con.	.06	.06
Yellow Jacket	.13	.14
Silver Bars	65¾	65¾
Mexican dollars	50@51	50@51
Drafts, sight	12½	12½
Telegraph	.15	.15

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Dec. 29.—Gardner & Co. report closing quotations as follows:

	Saturday. Bid.	Asked.	Friday. Bid.	Asked.
Acacia	28½	28¾	29½	29¾
Alamo	11	12	11	11½
Argentum	26½	28	26¾	27
Anaconda	47	48	48	48½
Anchoria	75	100	75	100
Battle Mountain	190	200	195	200
Blue Bell	14	14½	13¾	14½
C. C. Cons.	12½	13	12½	12¾
C. C. & M.	8¾	9	9	9¾
Columbine Victor	10	11	10½	11
Coriolanus	18	18½	17½	18¼
Dante	9	9½	9	9¾
Damon	13¾	14½	13¾	14
Doctor Jack pot Con.	98	100	95	100
Elkton	186	186¾	185½	186½
El Paso	44½	45	43½	43¾
Findley	12½	12¾	12	13
Golden Flower	25	27	25	26
Gibson	18	21	15	22
Gold King	100	102	100	102
Gold Knob	11	11½	11	11¼
Gold Coin	325	600	450	550
Gold Dollar	21½	22	21	21½
Garfield	7	8	7	9
Gold Sovereign	7¾	8	7¾	7¾
Gould	31	33	31	33
Hart	15	16	15	17
Ida May	23	24	23	24
Ingham	21	21½	21	21½
Isabella	680	687	68	685
Independence	32	33	32	32½
Jackpot	70	70½	70	70½
Keystone	12	14	12	14
Last Dollar	65	70	65	70
Lexington	11	16½	10	10¾
Mount Rosa	30	40	37	40
Maton	15	20	15	20
Mary Cashen	12	12½	12	12½
Moon Anchor	20	30	28	28
National	9¾	9¾	9¾	9¾
New Haven	7½	8	7¾	8¾
Nugget	22½	24	24	24
Ophir	31½	33	31½	33
Orphan	15½	15¾	14	15
Pharmacist	8¾	8¾	8¾	9
Pinnacle	16	16½	16	16½
Portland	330	350	325	325
Rose Nicol	10½	10¾	10½	10¾
Rawlings	18	20	18	20
Vindicator	130	133	130	133
Work	21	21¾	21¾	21¾

Imports of Specie, Port of New York, Dec. 22 to 28, 1900, Inclusive.

Steamer.	Where From.	Amount.
American Gold Coin—
Caracas	La Guayra	$1,400
Caracas	San Juan	75
Foreign Gold Coin—
Alps	Kingston	507
Foreign Silver Coin—
Alps	Kingston	609
Gold Bullion—
Ithaka	Tampico	3,342
Altai	Porto Colombia	27,589
Silver Bullion—
Ithaka	Tampico	23,858
Yucatan	Vera Cruz	6,274
Altai	Porto Colombia	10,390
Silver Ore—
Advance	Colon	2,971
Total		$77,015

Specie Exports from the Port of New York from Dec. 24 to Dec. 29, Inclusive.

Date.	Steamer	Destination.	Character.	Amount.
Dec. 24	St. Louis	London, S. B.		$568,690
Dec. 24	St. Louis	London, (Mex.)	S. C.	69,000
Dec. 27	Lauenburg	Inagua, (U. S.)	S. C.	1,000
Dec. 28	Madiana	Georgetown, (Mex.)	S. C.	487
Dec. 28	Campania	London, (Mex.)	S. C.	56,300
Dec. 28	Campania	London,	S. B.	310,000
Total				$1,006,377

Too Late for Last Week's Statement.

Dec. 19	Oranje Nassau	Aux Cayes, G. C., (U. S.)	$6,000
Dec. 21	Umbria	London, S. B.	329,930
Dec. 22	New York	Puerto Plata, S. C., (U. S.)	18,600
Dec. 22	New York	Puerto Plata, G. C., (U. S.)	40,175
Total			$1,401,082

Coachman Sues for $50,000 Damages.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Dec. 29.—Joseph Faulkner, manager of a printing establishment at 14 Jacob Street, New York, is the defendant in a suit brought by Edmund J. Weston, formerly his coachman, for $50,000 damages for alleged alienation of the affections of Weston's wife. This action has been brought by Bruce & Runyon, a Plainfield law firm, acting in behalf of Weston, in the Supreme Court of New York State. Weston charges that while he and his wife were employed at Faulkner's Summer home, near Dunellen, a year ago. Faulkner wrote her many letters, and finally, it is charged, Mrs. Weston left her husband and is now being supported by Faulkner.

THE NEW PHARMACY LAW

Radical Changes Will Be Effected by Its Enforcement.

State Board Invested with Wide Powers, Including the Regulation of Hours of Work.

The first general pharmacy law in the history of the State will go into effect on Tuesday. Its enforcement will work radical changes and conditions, as it is considered the most sweeping and comprehensive statute of the kind ever enacted. Extraordinary powers are conferred on the State Board of Pharmacy created by the act to enforce such regulations as may be necessary to protect the public health; to regulate the sale of poisons, the character and standard of drugs and medicines, the hours of work, and other matters.

The board, which will meet quarterly in Albany, is composed of the following members: Clarence O. Bigelow, George C. Diekman, and Sidney Faber of New York; Dr. William Muir and Dr. Albert H. Brundage of Brooklyn, Warren L. Brada of Albany, Willis G. Gregory, George Reimann, and Robert K. Smither of Buffalo; Byron M. Hyde of Rochester, George H. Merritt of Newburg, Charles B. Sears of Auburn, J. C. Smith of Plattsburg, Edgar M. Jewell of Batavia, and Alfred M. Palmer of Olean.

It is stated that the first act of the board, and for which informal steps have been taken, will be the sending of a circular to every dealer in drugs in the State asking him to fill out an accompanying blank giving the names of pharmacists, assistants, and apprentices employed, how and where registered, their age, experience, and other minutiae. The State will be divided into three sections. New York, Kings, Queens, Nassau, Suffolk, Richmond, and Westchester will comprise the eastern; Erie, Niagara, Orleans, Genesee, Wyoming, Allegany, Cattaraugus, and Chautauqua the western, and the third section will embrace the other forty-six counties.

Authority is given to the State board to investigate all complaints as to the quality and strength of drugs and medicines and to prevent the sale of those that do not conform to the required standard. It has also the power to regulate the working hours, which in cities with a population of 1,000,000 or more must not exceed 136 hours in two consecutive weeks. The board may also employ inspectors to inspect all pharmacies, dispensaries, stores, or places in which drugs, medicines, and poisons are compounded, dispensed, or retailed. The new law has a stringent provision requiring that a licensed pharmacist or druggist must have supervision of any pharmacy or drug store where drugs, medicines, and poisons are sold. There must also be an annual registration or all stores dispensing drugs, &c., for which a fee of $2 will be exacted. Licenses may also be revoked for cause.

The board is further required to examine all applicants for licenses or registration and to issue two grades of licenses, to be shown, respectively, as "Licensed Druggist" and "Licensed Pharmacist," and a certificate of "Registered Apprentice," except that in cities having a population of 1,000,000 or more, a license for the grade of "Licensed Druggist" shall not be issued. It also has the right to investigate all alleged violations of the new law or any other law of the State regulating the dispensing or sale of drugs, medicines, or poisons, or the practice of pharmacy, which may come to its notice, and, whenever there appears reasonable cause therefor, to take testimony, and in the discretion of the board to bring the matter before the proper prosecuting authorities or to bring action in the name of the State Board of Pharmacy to recover penalties in such cases as may be proved.

The board will be formally organized this week.

LEGAL NOTES.

EVIDENCE TO PROVE CAUSE OF DEATH.—The Supreme Lodge, Knights of Honor, has been unsuccessful in its appeal to the Court of Appeals from judgments rendered against it in the courts below, in the suit brought by Alice A. Davis to recover $2,000, the sum for which her husband was insured in this fraternal organization. The husband, who became a member on July 19, 1895, died on Oct. 16, 1896. The defense of the association was breach of the warranty in the certificate, that neither of decedent's parents, paternal or maternal grandparents, or any of their descendants, so far as he knew, had consumption; while in fact two of his aunts died of consumption. The jury, upon these issues of fact, found a verdict for the plaintiff, which was unanimously affirmed by the Appellate Division, in Brooklyn. The defendant sought to prove by a physician who had attended one of the aunts in her last illness, that she had died of consumption. The question asked of him, what her last illness was, was excluded because, under Section 834 of the Code, a physician is precluded from testifying, voluntarily or involuntarily, to secrets acquired by him while attending a patient in his professional capacity.

Another physician, who attended another aunt, was not allowed to testify as to her last illness. The records of the Board of Health of Brooklyn were offered to prove, by the original certificate filed by the attending physician, the cause of death of these two aunts. The exclusion of this evidence was sustained by the Court of Appeals. Judge O'Brien, giving the unanimous opinion, holds that such a certificate was not competent evidence to prove the cause of the patient's death. The provisions of the charter of the City of New York making authenticated copies of the records of the Health Board presumptive evidence in any court of justice of the recitals therein contained, the court holds were not intended to work a repeal of, or to interfere with, the Code provisions against allowing an attending physician to disclose facts acquired by him in a professional capacity.

***

IMPLIED COVENANTS IN BUILDING CONTRACTS.—Henry C. Weeks agreed with the Trinity Church Corporation, in June, 1895, to furnish the mason work on a building it was about to erect, and he was to finish the work and complete the building ready for occupancy before Feb. 1, 1896. A penalty was imposed for non-completion within such time. Although Mr. Weeks finally finished the work and received the contract price, he brought suit against Trinity Church for damages because of the alleged failure of the latter to perform the contract on its part. The plaintiff alleged that the defendant did not obtain the permit from the Building Department of the city in time so that he could proceed with his work as he had agreed to do, but that on the 7th of August, 1895, he was directed by the architect to stop the work, and was not permitted to resume until the 18th of September.

The plaintiff also alleged that the approval of the plans was not obtained from the Superintendent of Buildings, so as to allow the work to be proceeded with. The dismissal of the complaint on the trial has been reversed by the Appellate Division, which holds, unanimously, in an opinion by Justice Rumsey, that the defendant—Section 503 of the Consolidation act being then in force—impliedly covenanted either that it had filed and obtained approval of the plans for such building, or would do so in time to permit the contractor continuously and advantageously to perform his contract, and was liable in damages for failure in the performance of such covenant.

***

APPARATUS GUARANTEED TO BE SATISFACTORY MAY NOT BE ARBITRARILY REJECTED.—James Hummel in contracting to furnish and set up certain ventilating machinery upon the premises of Isaac Stern and others guaranteed "to ventilate the receiving room to your satisfaction, otherwise we will remove the wheel and other material without cost to you." In a suit for the price agreed to be paid the defense was set up that the plaintiff wholly failed to make good the offer of guaranty. The defendants claimed that by the terms of the contract they had a right to reject the machinery and compel its removal upon expression of their dissatisfaction with it. A judgment on a verdict for the plaintiff on the trial was affirmed by the Appellate Division in this city. Justice Patterson, who gave the opinion, held that the rule that where the object of a contract was to gratify taste, serve personal convenience, or satisfy individual preference the person for whom the article was made or the work done might properly determine for himself (if the other party had so agreed) whether it should be accepted did not apply to a contract in such a case as this. The Court of Appeals has recently affirmed the judgment.

Brooklyn Advertisements. | Brooklyn Advertisements. | Brooklyn Advertisements. | Brooklyn Advertisements. | Brooklyn Advertisements.

The Best Restaurant In Brooklyn.

Frederick Loeser & Co.

BROOKLYN.

Ask for Our New Magazine, FASHIONS The Authority on Women's Dress. Free on Request at Our Book Store.

An Avalanche of Muslin Underwear.

Our Annual Midwinter Sale Eclipsing Anything Ever Attempted.

Never was there a better opportunity given you to judge between words and merchandise—never such a chain of circumstances making it easy for you to verify our claim of best undergarments at the lowest prices ever offered. In the case of a vitally important event of this kind it is absolutely necessary for the really alert merchant to study natural conditions and time its movement so as to best serve your convenience, comfort and good. A sale of this magnitude and importance must be real—it cannot be overhurried and at the same time serve you economically. The further we all get away from the commonplace, rushed-together, factory-made garments, gotten out to be ahead of some one else, the better for consumer and maker.

This sale must needs be of conservative growth—it hasn't sprung up in a night, but has taken months and months of time, care, patience, study, planning and work—a gathering of garments that are the nearest approach to the painstaking finish and worth of hand-made home work that has ever been offered for sale.

This midwinter event, which originated with us years ago, has really attained a national reputation, of so much importance, in fact, that every year greatly increases the competition (almost to a clamor) for our trade among the great makers all over this country. Consequently, every year increases our ability to give you more and better and cheaper merchandise—and this year particularly, you will find, has far eclipsed anything ever attempted.

As in the past, we sacrifice profit; indeed, in many cases, sell away below cost. The very newest things in Muslin Underwear, the future fashions in Shirt Waists, the stylish Wrappers, the most approved Corsets, the delicate Coverings for Infants, the Muslins, the Cambrics, the Nainsooks; not a skimp in the shaping, whatever the price; not a shortcoming in fabric or finish; neat trimmings, substantial, dainty, tasteful, durable, and all made in clean, neat factories by well-paid, happy operatives. Just like home-made, only better, because our experts have the world in which to study daintiness and can give you greater variety. On the second floor—every convenience and comfort to make shopping a genuine pleasure.

Corset Covers.

AT 5c.—Muslin corset covers, two shapes, felled seams.

AT 12c.—Cambric covers, two styles; one with embroidery across front, the other lace edge.

AT 19c.—Cambric covers, in five styles, high neck and V shape, lace and embroidered edges.

AT 25c. AND 29c.—Cambric corset covers, low and high neck and V shape; also French bodies, lace and embroidery trimmed.

AT 39c., 49c. AND 59c.—Nainsook and cambric covers, in a variety of styles, high and low neck, lace and embroidery trimmed; these also in the French body covers.

AT 79c. AND 98c.—Still finer lots of the best nainsook and cambrics; some made to the waist line, others made with shirr strings, French effect, elaborately trimmed with lace or embroidery.

Flanelette Gowns.

AT 45c.—Flanelette gowns, in assorted stripes, rolling collar.

AT 79c.—Extra quality, some lace trimmed, others rolling collar, finished with narrow satin trimming.

AT 98c.—Elaborately trimmed with embroidery and lace; high neck and Empire styles.

Night Gowns.

AT 23c.—Good muslin gowns, in three styles, two insertings in yoke; others plain tucked.

AT 39c.—Good muslin gowns, V shape and square neck, tucked; also with embroidery and lace insertings.

AT 49c.—Gowns of heavier muslin, empire square neck and open V neck, lace and embroidery trimmed.

AT 59c.—Fine cambric and muslin gowns, V shape, square neck and high-neck yokes, prettily trimmed with embroidery.

AT 79c.—Excellent lot of fine nainsook and cambric gowns, in a variety of styles, dainty and pretty lace and embroidery trimming.

AT 98c.—A large variety of styles, in nainsook, cambric, and fine muslin gowns; fifteen styles to choose from, elaborately trimmed with fine laces and embroideries.

AT $1.19, $1.39, $1.59 AND $1.98—Still finer gowns, of nainsook and cambric, square and round effects; also some open necks.

Underskirts.

AT 19c. AND 25c.—Outing flannel underskirts, extra quality, assorted stripes, deep hem yoke band.

AT 29c.—With silk crocheted edge.

AT 39c., 49c., 59c., 79c. AND 98c.—Finer quality, mostly lace trimmed.

Chemises.

AT 23c.—Good muslin chemises, corded band, pearl buttons.

AT 39c. AND 59c.—Good muslin and cambric chemises, in a number of styles, prettily trimmed with embroidery.

AT 79c. AND 98c.—Fine nainsook and cambric, round and square neck; some trimmed with lace inserting and edge, others with fine embroidery.

AT $1.19, $1.39 AND $1.59—Fine nainsook chemises, long and short, shirt effect, trimmed bottoms with lace and embroidery.

Drawers.

AT 12c. A PAIR—Good muslin drawers, hem and tucks, yoked band.

AT 19c. A PAIR—Good muslin drawers, embroidered and hemstitched effects.

AT 25c. AND 29c.—Good muslin drawers, hemstitched and embroidered ruffles.

AT 39c. AND 49c.—Muslin and cambric drawers, embroidered and lace trimmed.

AT 59c. AND 79c.—Fine cambric and muslin drawers; some umbrella shape, others regular, trimmed prettily with lace or embroidery.

AT 98c.—Nainsook and cambric drawers, in a variety of styles, elaborately trimmed with Val. or torchon lace; others with embroidery.

Makers' Samples,

And at Lowest Prices Known.

The very best lot we have ever shown—3,000 garments made of fine nainsooks and cambrics, daintily trimmed with laces, Val., Point de Paris or cluny; others with dainty fine embroideries; among these are high and low neck gowns, petticoats and underskirts, corset covers, chemises and drawers, slightly soiled from handling, at extraordinary prices.

White Dressing Sacques.

AT 98c., REGULAR $1.59 AND $1.75—Fine white lawn dressing sacques in three styles; one made with fancy collar, trimmed with insertings of embroidery; the others, Empire style, deep ruffles of embroidery on collar, sleeve and bottom of sacque.

AT $1.89 AND $1.98, REGULAR $2.50 AND $3.50—Finer lot of dressing sacques, elaborately trimmed with inserting and deep ruffle of Point de Paris lace and satin ribbon.

White Petticoats.

AT 39c.—Muslin petticoats, deep cambric ruffle.

AT 49c.—Good muslin petticoats, cambric ruffle, hemstitched.

AT 59c.—With embroidered edge.

AT 79c.—Muslin skirts, umbrella ruffle, with embroidery.

AT 98c.—In a variety of styles, deep embroidered ruffles; also lace inserting and edge and hemstitched effects.

AT $1.19, $1.39, $1.59, $1.98 AND $2.98—Still finer, with deep flounce of fine embroidery or elaborately trimmed with laces.

Aprons.

AT 5c.—2,000 white lawn aprons, hem and tucks, with strings.

AT 9c.—Gingham kitchen aprons, blue and brown checks.

AT 19c., 25c., 29c. AND 39c.—Large variety of maids' and nurses' aprons, deep hem and embroidery trimmed.

Colored Petticoats.

AT 69c., REGULAR $1.00—Extra quality black sateen petticoats, made with a 12-inch accordion pleated ruffle.

For the Baby.

We've made an extraordinary provision for the baby in every way in keeping with the magnitude of our underwear sale and at prices just as advantageous.

AT 7c. A PAIR, REGULAR 15c.—Children's muslin drawers, hem and tucks, well made, 5 sizes.

AT 15c., REGULAR 25c.—Better grade, hem and tucks and umbrella ruffle, 6 sizes.

AT 25c., REGULAR 39c.—With embroidered edge, 8 sizes.

AT 47c., REGULAR 75c.—Umbrella ruffle, lace insertings and edge.

AT 39c., REGULAR 49c. AND 59c.—Misses' muslin gowns, cluster of tucks, with cambric ruffle, neck and sleeves, 6 sizes in this lot, some with embroidered insertings.

AT 49c., REGULAR 79c.—Extra fine muslin with 4 insertings of embroidery and tucks, embroidered edge on neck and sleeves, 6 sizes.

AT 12c., REGULAR 29c.—Infants' nainsook long slips, plain ruffle.

AT 19c., REGULAR 35c.—With hemstitched ruffle.

AT 39c., 49c., 59c., REGULAR 59c., 79c., 89c.—Finer lot of long slips, nainsook and cambric embroidered and hemstitched trimmings.

AT 25c., REGULAR 59c.—White short dresses of nainsook, yoke of hemstitching, trimmed with embroidery.

AT 59c., REGULAR 89c.—White short dresses of nainsook, more elaborately trimmed with embroidery.

AT 79c., REGULAR $1.25—A choice lot of extra fine nainsook dresses, in a variety of styles, hemstitched and embroidered.

AT 47c., REGULAR 79c.—Fine colored lawn dresses, in dainty stripes and figures.

AT 59c., REGULAR 89c.—Same material, trimmed with ruffle over shoulder, lace edge, hemstitched ruffle on neck and sleeves.

AT 98c., REGULAR $1.59—Fine gingham and lawn dresses in a variety of styles; dainty and pretty high neck and long sleeves; also gulmp effects; all new.

AT 19c., REGULAR 35c.—Lawn caps made of all-over, embroidered, with lace ruche.

AT 23c., REGULAR 39c.—Finely tucked, with lace ruche.

AT 49c., REGULAR 79c.—Handsomely tucked all over, ribbon trimmed.

Also a sample lot of fine nainsook and cambric dresses, short and long, very daintily trimmed with wide lace, and embroidered edges and insertings, slightly soiled from handling but not a particle injured for all practical purposes, at a very great reduction.

Splendid Showing of Wrappers.

The best lot of wrappers ever offered—thoroughly well made specially for this sale—10,000 of them, flannelettes and percales, even the smallest priced ones have large and full skirts.

AT 37c., REGULAR 75c.—Fancy print and percale wrappers in light, medium and indigo, also mourning effect, braid trimmed on yoke.

AT 59c., REGULAR 98c.—Good percale wrappers in choice colorings, made with yoke front, ruffle over shoulder, French flounce on bottom.

AT 79c., REGULAR $1.25—Fine percale wrappers in the newest spring colorings, pretty and dainty, made with circular yoke, edged with embroidery, deep flounce on skirt.

AT 98c., REGULAR $1.59 AND $1.79—Extra quality percale wrappers, fancy scalloped yoke front and back, made with epaulette over shoulder, edged with fine lawn embroidery, deep flounce on skirt.

AT 79c., REGULAR $1.25—Flannelette wrappers in medium colorings, circular yoke trimmed with deep ruffle, edged with braid, French flounce on bottom.

Corsets at Phenomenal Prices.

50c. for the $1.00 R. & G. and Sonnette.

1,200 pairs of the celebrated R. & G. corsets and Sonnette corsets. The R. & G. is made of white batiste, well boned, trimmed on top with lace; the Sonnette is white and gray, coutille top with silk edging; medium length, all sizes. In this lot 250 sample corsets of the R. & G. make in coutille, satin and batiste, assorted sizes; sold up to $1.50 a pair; all at 50c. a pair.

98c. for the Regular $2.50.

375 pairs of genuine Angustine corsets in white, light blue, pink and black, 4 hooks; a splendid medium waist; corsets well boned, flossed on top with silk flossings and finished with silk edge; sizes, 18 to 30.

Fine imported ZZ. & P. D. corsets in white, gray and black; medium length; exceptional value, $1.69; regular $2.50, $2.75 and $3.25.

An Extraordinary Movement in Silks.

69c. for Regular $1.00 and $1.25 Printed Foulards.

There are 9,085 yards of these, 27 inches wide (note the width), the very best quality of Foulard silk, made in Japan and printed in Lyons, France, where the best printing in the world is done. An immense variety of splendid designs and colors, and not more than two pieces of a kind. The largest house importing these printed Foulard silks is making a partnership change, and our cash for this lot was easier to handle in making their settlement than the goods. An offer like this, particularly in the beginning of the season, would be impossible without some such very unusual circumstance. These extra wide Foulard silks have never been sold at less than $1.00 and $1.25. If all our customers really knew them, there wouldn't be a piece left by noon.

49c. for Regular $1.00 Fancy Silks.

And this is an alluring lot, too—in fact, we wish we could show them to you in the paper; nothing more would be necessary—and this is the lowest price, too, that such silks have ever been sold for. The shades are splendid, and lots of them, including white and cream.

Annual Sale of Women's Shoes.

$1.98 for Our Regular $3.00 Kinds.

Second Floor. Take Rear Elevators.

This is always an event that adds greatly to the fame of our shoe store, because every year betters the advantage to you. These are not a job lot of shoes, but shoes made on our own exclusive up-to-date lasts, and made exclusively for us and for this annual event. These shoes are better than the average $3.00 shoes and are matchless at the price anywhere.

AT $1.98, REGULAR $3.00—Women's glace kid lace shoes, medium full round toes, broad soles, straight kid tips, military heels.

AT $1.98, REGULAR $3.00—Women's glace kid button shoes, medium full round toes, broad soles, straight patent leather tips, military heels.

AT $1.98, REGULAR $3.00—Women's glace kid button shoes, medium full round toes, broad soles, straight kid tip, military heels.

EDUCATION IN NEW YORK STATE.

Increase in Public School Attendance and Decrease of Private Institutions.

ALBANY, Dec. 29.—The annual report of the State Department of Public Instruction will show that during the last school year the total expenditures for school purposes in this State increased $5,368,500, that the value of school sites increased $6,614,880, that the number of school children increased 19,574, that the number of teachers employed increased 856, and that the number of volumes in school libraries increased 16,688.

The statistics also show that the number of private schools are on the decrease, fifty-seven of them having ceased to operate during the year. In compliance with the policy of the State school authorities to reduce the number of school districts, four were dissolved and their territory united with other districts. The total statistics for the State are as follows:

School districts, 11,740; schoolhouses, 11,981; value of schoolhouses and sites, $81,768,495; children of school age, (five to eighteen years,) 1,589,663; children attending school some portion of the year, 1,209,574; average daily attendance, 857,488; aggregate days' attendance, 159,439,145; average length of school term, 176 days; average number of days each pupil attended, 132; private schools, 944; children attending private schools, 166,946; licensed teachers employed 160 days or more, 31,768; teachers employed during year, 34,848; teachers licensed, 24,320; average annual salary of teachers, $604.78; volumes in school libraries, 1,560,858; expended for teachers' salaries, $19,218,892.63; expended for buildings, sites, furniture, repairs, &c., $8,548,643.66; expended for school libraries, $142,158.33; total expenditures, $33,421,491.37.

$1,300,000 Item in Boston Bill Approved.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—Mayor Hart to-day approved the item of $1,300,000 in the Loan bill, which was passed by the Common Council Thursday evening in concurrence with the Board of Aldermen. This loan is made for highway construction and laying out and the building of sewers therein. The provisions of the act had to be taken advantage of before the expiration of the year or not at all, hence the Mayor's haste in approving it.

Office for Bernard Stark.

ALBANY, Dec. 29.—Governor-elect Odell has finally decided to appoint Bernard Stark, a prominent Hebrew manufacturer of this city, to the vacancy in the State Board of Arbitration. Mr. Stark is a Democrat and is indorsed by Louis Stern and other prominent merchants of New York City. Salary, $3,000.

FIRE IN BIG CHICAGO STORE.

$25,000 Worth of Damage Done in Marshall Field & Co.'s Emporium.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Fire which for a time threatened with destruction the vast retail store of Marshall Field & Co. was discovered in the white goods and cloak repairing rooms on the third floor shortly after 7 o'clock this morning.

Before the Fire Department arrived the flames had spread to other departments, and had eaten its way into the upholstery department, on the fourth floor. A general alarm was turned in, and by hard work the fire was confined to the third and fourth floors of the old Field Building on State Street, the flames not reaching the Wabash Avenue annex.

The fire apparently originated in the cable shaft of the elevators. General Manager Belfridge estimated the damage at about $25,000, mostly by water. That portion of the building known as 81 State Street was closed for the day.

Deaf Woman Killed by a Train.

BUFFALO, Dec. 29.—Mrs. Mary Webb was struck and killed by a Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg train at Cowell's crossing last night. She was deaf and was walking on the track.

WATCH NIGHT IN CHICAGO.

W. C. T. U. to Discuss Mrs. Nation's Attack on a Saloon.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold a "Watch Night of Two Centuries" in Willard Hall, in the Woman's Temple, Monday night. The occasion will be made a temperance rally, in which there will be a musical programme, a consecration service, and an open parliament, in which the following resolution will be discussed: "That under the existing circumstances Mrs. Nation was justified in her attack upon a Wichita saloon."

Roman Catholics throughout the city are also making preparations for the service which will bid farewell to the old year and century and welcome the new, in accordance with the edict of Pope Leo XIII.

Appointed to Central's Law Department

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 29.—George H. Walker, member of the law firm of Purcell, Walker & Burns of this city, has been elected by the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company to take charge of and have general supervision of the real estate branch of the law business in New York of that railroad.

DIAMOND THIEVES CAUGHT.

New York Crook Confesses to a Robbery in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Daring diamond robberies have been of a recent occurrence in this city of late. More than $8,000 worth of jewels were taken from three residences.

The police have now in custody three men believed to be well known Eastern crooks. They are Eugene Chanzino and Fred Ranquest of New York City and Charles Lowell of Washington. Chanzino and Lowell have confessed to one of the recent burglaries.

May Extend Foreign Parcels Post.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Lord Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, had a conference with the Second Assistant Postmaster General to-day upon the proposed establishment of a parcels post with Great Britain. The convention established with Germany has been largely experimental, and the department is gathering data upon its

SUNDAY, THREE CENTS. DAILY, ONE CENT.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

The New York Times.

THE WEATHER. Rain or snow; fresh west winds.

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY.

VOL. L...NO. 15,906. NEW YORK, MONDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1900.—Twelve Pages and Supplement. ONE CENT In Greater New York, Jersey City, and Newark. Elsewhere, TWO CENTS.

BOERS TAKE BRITISH POST

Was a Very Strong Position, Kitchener Reports.

Loss Was 50 Killed and Wounded and 200 Prisoners—Two More Commandoes Enter Cape Colony.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—The War Office has received the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener:

"Pretoria, Dec. 30.—Gen. Lyttleton reports that our post at Helvetia was captured yesterday morning by the Boers. About 50 were killed and wounded and 200 taken prisoners.

"Col. Kitchener reports that he is following with a small force in the track of the enemy. Helvetia being reoccupied by Reeves, who has been reinforced from Belfast.

"Helvetia was a very strong position on the Machadodorp-Lydenburg Railway, and was held by a detachment of the Liverpool regiment. Am asking for further information."

Lord Kitchener, wiring from Pretoria Dec. 29, says:

"There is not much change in the situation in Cape Colony. The eastern force of the enemy appears to have broken up into small parties at Utrecht, and to be moving about rapidly in the same district, evidently waiting for support from the north.

"The last report states that the western force is moving to Carnarvon. De Lisle and Thorneycroft are in close pursuit.

"French has occupied Ventersdorp. Clements reports that he is opposed on the road to Rustenburg. The eastern line was blown up near Pan, and a train was held up this morning on the Standerton Line, near Vaal Station.

"White's column has arrived at Senekal. Knox's column and Boye's brigade are holding De Wet from breaking south."

Commenting upon the Helvetia disaster, The Daily Mail calls upon the Government to send out at least 50,000 additional mounted men.

While Lord Kitchener sends bad news for England on the closing day of the year, the press generally takes a surprisingly hopeful view of a grave situation and of revelations of an enormously wide field of Boer activity.

Gen. De Wet is still at large. Kimberley is isolated. The Boers are in force enough to have captured a strong position at Helvetia, in the Lydenburg district, while, judging from Lord Kitchener's very recent advices, no progress is being made against the Boer invaders in Cape Colony.

According to further telegrams received yesterday, Zeerust is practically besieged, but has provisions sufficient for five months. The garrison at Ottoshoop has been withdrawn to Lichtenburg.

A dispatch from Carnarvon, dated yesterday, reports that the Boers who have been threatening that point were driven off and are being pursued.

"It is evident," says a belated message from Krügersdorp, dated Dec. 23, "that the Boer commissariat in the direction of the Magalies Berg is well supplied, and that until the country between here and the Magalies Berg is properly cleared of Boers they will continue to concentrate there, the ground being particularly adapted to their methods of warfare."

The Boers admit that in their fight with Gen. Clements at Nooitgedacht they lost 130 men.

"It is understood that Lord Kitchener cannot ask the colonies officially to send troops," says a Durban dispatch, dated Dec. 29, "but he desires it to be known in Australasia and Canada that Australians and Canadians arriving in Natal will be eligible for immediate enlistment in an irregular corps, which is proceeding to Johannesburg for five months' service."

To emphasize Lord Kitchener's covert admission that no progress is being made against the invasion of Cape Colony, a correspondent at Burghersdorp, wiring Saturday, reports as follows:

"Two fresh commandoes are entering the colony. One has already crossed near Knaapdaar, and the arrival of another is momentarily expected in the Steynsburg district. The Boers are said to have two or three horses each, though in bad condition. They have no guns or transport, but are well supplied with Lee-Metford rifles and ammunition. Captured Boers say that the intention of these commandoes is to roam about, and wait until Gen. De Wet appears upon the scene."

All dispatches arriving in London agree that the Cape Dutch show no inclination to rise, but, on the contrary, appear to be tired of the war and desirous of peace. Many refuse to supply the Boers with food, and are willing to give information to the British regarding Boer movements.

Details of the Greylingstad affair show that while Colville's column was pursuing the Boers, a second force of 400 of the enemy was seen moving toward the camp where the British transport was inspanned. The small British force made a plucky stand until reinforcements arrived with artillery, and, after severe fighting, the Boers were defeated. The British losses altogether were 9 killed and 63 wounded and missing. The Boers are said to have 31 killed.

MORE ARRESTS FOR SEDITION.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—"A warrant has been issued against Dr. Te Water, a member of the late Schreiner Cabinet, who is under arrest on charge of delivering a seditious speech at Graaf-Reinet, inciting to rebellion, in connection with the recent Boer invasion of the colony.

"This," says the Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, "is the commencement of a series of arrests, heralding a wide extension of martial law."

OFFER OF MAORIS DECLINED.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—Mr. Chamberlain, according to a dispatch from Wellington, New Zealand, has declined the service of Maoris for South Africa.

South Africa a Future Great Market.

James H. Birch, Jr., a manufacturer, of Burlington, Vt., who has been in South Africa during most of the present year, was among the passengers who arrived on the Atlantic transport liner Minneapolis from London yesterday. While in South Africa he toured the country as far as Buluwayo. After the war Mr. Birch says that South Africa will be one of the greatest markets in the world for American-manufactured goods. He expects to see the situation cleared by March now that Lord Kitchener is directing the course of the British. Lord Roberts was too lenient, he said, while Lord Kitchener is just the opposite, and will push the present guerrilla conflict to a speedy finish. He said that the stories of the atrocities committed both on the part of the British and the Boers had been greatly exaggerated.

Sympathy for Gen. Colvile.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—The elaborate statement given to the press Saturday by Major Gen. Sir Henry Colvile, whose resignation has been demanded by the War Office, but who has refused to resign and has demanded a trial by court-martial to establish the responsibility for the Yeomanry disaster at Lindley last May, excites considerable sympathy and a tendency to make further attacks upon the War Office. It is generally conceded that he has been harshly treated, but, as his statement is ex parte, the papers withhold final judgment.

TO-DAY.

TWELVE PAGES,

WITH FINANCIAL REVIEW

AND QUOTATION SUPPLEMENT.

INDEX TO DEPARTMENTS.

Wheat, No. 2 red, 80c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 45⅝c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 28c; cotton, middling, 10 5-16c. Iron, Northern, No. 1 foundry, $16; butter, Western creamery, 25c. Commercial affairs—Page 11.
Amusements—Page 7.
Arrivals at Hotels and Out-of-Town Buyers.—Page 3.
Court Calendars.—Page 10.
Losses by Fire.—Page 3.
Marine Intelligence and Foreign Mails.—Page 3.
Real Estate.—Page 11.
Weather Report.—Page 2.
Yesterday's Fires.—Page 3.

LINER FORCED BACK TO PORT.

The Lake Megantic Returns to Queenstown After a Terrible Experience in the Gale.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 31.—The British steamer Lake Megantic, Capt. Taylor, from Liverpool, Dec. 25, and Queenstown Dec. 26, for St. John, returned to Queenstown Harbor yesterday morning after a terrible experience in the gale.

She left Queenstown Wednesday carrying the Canadian mails, forty-five saloon and second cabin passengers, and about 500 steerage passengers, principally foreigners. She had reached a point about 400 miles west Thursday night when she encountered a strong gale. The steamer behaved splendidly, and would have got through had not the steering gear become damaged badly, placing her in a dangerous position. The crew rigged hand-gear, and the vessel was again brought under control. Unfortunately the hand-gear also became damaged.

The gale lasted twenty hours, and an immense sea broke over the vessel, smashing the booby hatch and flooding her between decks, where the steerage passengers were located. It also washed away a greater portion of the fittings, and did considerable deck damage. Three lifeboats were smashed. Some of the crew were seriously injured, and one seaman was killed on deck.

When the storm moderated Capt. Taylor decided to return to Queenstown. It was difficult work to steer the big ship, but she managed to come to anchor here without assistance.

The Beaver Company directed Capt. Taylor to take the Lake Megantic on to Liverpool, and she proceeded this evening with all her passengers and mails, to be transferred to the Lake Superior, which will leave the Mersey Tuesday. The company ordered a tug to accompany her, but none was available here. Tugs will be sent from Liverpool to meet her. There will be considerable anxiety as to her safety in her present disabled condition, especially as the weather has again broken into a high northwest gale.

PHILIPPINE REBELS TAKEN.

Many Insurgents Captured as the Result of Successful Scouting by the Americans.

MANILA, Dec. 30.—Many insurgents have been captured, as the result of scouting throughout Luzon. The American troops sustained no casualties.

A detachment of the Fourth Regiment captured sixty natives in the Province of Cavite, while Gen. Wheaton reports having captured and burned Gremorio's camp in the peninsula, near San Antonio.

Gen. Funston reports that five insurgents were killed and several captured near Guyanan.

Near Moriones yesterday a dozen insurgents were killed and eight wounded.

Gen. Grant telegraphs that he has detachments covering the lower portions of Mount Arayat, in the hope of catching Alejandrino. He says that last Friday a detachment of the Forty-first Infantry raided the camp of the insurgent leader and secured some of his papers.

Near Alinja to-day Capt. Mendoza, with thirty men of Sandico's command, surrendered.

Detchments of the Eleventh and Ninth Cavalry killed twelve insurgents and destroyed several camps in the Camarines district.

SKINNED AN AMERICAN ALIVE.

Capt. H. W. Newton Gives an Instance of Filipino Ferocity.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Dec. 30.—In a letter written from the Philippines just before the recent election to his relatives in this city Capt. Harry W. Newton says that at that time the encroachments of the natives were worse than they had been at any time during the year previous. As an instance of their ferocity he writes:

"Just the other day they jumped a detachment of our Twenty-fourth, numbering twenty-two men, and captured sixteen of them. One of them was found terribly mutilated, showing signs of being skinned while yet alive."

MEXICAN BANDITS KILLED.

Shot While Attacking an American Mining Man in Mexico.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 30.—A dispatch from Chihuahua, Mexico, says:

G. E. Keerney, an American mining man, while on the way to his mine, situated in the Paral district of this State, with several thousand dollars with which to pay off the miners, was attacked by two Mexicans, whose object was robbery.

Keerney fired at the men at close quarters with his pistol and succeeded in killing both.

NEW MATRIMONIAL SWINDLE.

Agency Woman Becomes Engaged to Many Men to Secure Presents.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 30.—Charles Bach and Emma Bucher, who have many aliases, were arrested yesterday charged with working a new form of the matrimonial agency swindle.

Whenever one of their advertisements was answered by a man, Miss Bucher corresponded with him and became engaged to him if she thought anything was to be gained, and later dropped him after getting all the money or jewelry he could be induced to part with. Bach, it is charged, dealt similarly with women correspondents.

In this way the Bucher woman became the fiancée of a great number of men. The police have the names of three who will appear against her.

A young fellow from a farm in Michigan gave the woman a diamond ring. The engagement was broken, and she gave him back a paste gem worth 25 cents.

RESULT OF FLYING LEAP.

Street Car Passenger Badly Hurt While Trying to Save Another.

Jacob Stockinger of 44 Sutton Place was riding west last night on a Forty-second Street car. Between Second and Third Avenues he signalled the conductor, William McNamara, to stop. Then he tried to get off.

As he did so Timothy Carlos, a nurse, of White Plains, N. Y., made a flying leap to get on the car. He caught a partial hold only and was about to fall when Stockinger tried to save him.

Carlos pulled Stockinger down with him in his frantic effort to save himself. Stockinger had a leg broken and his skull may be fractured. The other man's nose was broken and he was otherwise injured. Both were taken to Flower Hospital. The conductor was arrested on the technical charge of disorderly conduct.

CUDAHY KIDNAPPER IS FULLY IDENTIFIED

Man Who Saw Him Rent House Says It Was Pat Crowe.

Mr. Cudahy Receives a Letter Threatening Another Abduction If Reward Is Not Withdrawn.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 30.—John Smith, a broommaker employed by the Schneiderwind Broom Factory, has positively identified "Pat" Crowe as the man who in his presence rented the Schneiderwind house on Grover Street, which was used as a prison for "Eddie" Cudahy while he was being detained for the $25,000 ransom. This is the first positive personal recognition of any of the bandits and establishes the most important point yet developed in the case. When asked to identify the picture of "Pat" Crowe in connection with the case, Smith said:

"You need not show me any picture. I know that man. It was Pat Crowe. I could have told any police officer the same thing had he called upon me. I was busy at the broom machine when Pat Crowe called to rent the house, and paid no attention to him during his talk with Mrs. Schneiderwind. Then I thought I recognized the voice, and stopped my machine long enough to get a good look at him. I saw at a glance that the man was none other than Pat Crowe, a man whom I have known for ten years. I am as positive as to the identity of Pat Crowe as I would be of my own brother."

Smith has lived in Omaha twelve years, during which time he has known Crowe and seen him at frequent intervals.

E. A. Cudahy, the millionaire packer, has received another communication from the men who kidnapped his son. The orthography of the letter is poor, as is also the writing, which is in the same hand as the letter of Dec. 19 demanding the ransom. The letter was addressed "E. A. Cudahy, 518 South Thirty-seventh Street, Omaha." The address, as well as the letter, is printed in lead pencil.

The letter was written on common note paper, ruled with blue ink which is scarcely traceable. The postmark shows that the letter was mailed at the Post Office at 6 P. M. Monday, Dec. 22, showing clearly that one of the gang of abductors was in the Post Office on that date if the letter had the same origin as the letter demanding the ransom. That the origin was the same is attested by Gen. John C. Cowin, who saw both missives. The letter reads:

Cudahy, if you value the Boy's life at the Price of A Bullet you will withdraw the Reward at once. And let well Anough alone, if You don't do this we will finish the Job with a Bullet. If any man, Another Gilty or Innicent, Is ever arested A bulet will close the Boy's mouth. You will think of this warning when it is to late.

The only marked difference between this letter and the one demanding a ransom is in the greater number of mis-spelled words. This, however, may be an affectation, for the most difficult words are spelled correctly, while some of the simple words are mis-spelled.

The letter was given out by Gen. John S. Cowin, attorney for Mr. Cudahy. Speaking of it Gen. Cowin said:

"The day after the reward was offered Mrs. Cudahy received a letter printed in lead pencil, the same as the letter that was left on the lawn, but this letter came through the mail and was delivered by the carrier.

"The letter was immediately shown to me, and I thought that the Chief of Police ought to see it, as it might help in the investigation, but I advised strenuously that nothing whatever be said about it, because I thought it was to the interest of all that until these parties had been captured the letter should be withheld. Mr. Cudahy states that he has not withdrawn the reward, and does not propose to do so."

Detectives to-day secured information which they expect will result in locating the buggy used by the men in the abduction.

BOY KIDNAPPED IN MICHIGAN.

Posse Scouring the Country for Abductors of Mrs. Thiery's Son.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Dec. 30.—The five-year-old son of Mrs. Raymond Thiery of Dollar Bay, has been kidnapped, evidently in the hope of securing a ransom.

It is believed the boy was taken by a well-known character in the copper region, and the Sheriff, with a large posse of citizens, is scouring the country, hoping to catch him before he gets beyond the State line. It is thought he is heading for Canada.

INDIANA'S OIL OUTPUT.

Closing Year the Most Prosperous in the Industry's History.

Special to The New York Times.

WABASH, Ind., Dec. 30.—The year just closing has been the most prosperous in the history of the Indiana oil field, notwithstanding the slump in the price of crude oil early in the Summer.

The record of the year 1895 was phenomenal, but it has easily been surpassed during 1900, when 2,923 oil wells were drilled in the field, of which 740 were dry—that is, non-producers.

The increase in the number of completed wells over that of 1899 was 740. The cost of the wells put down in Indiana in the last year was $4,740,800, and the amount expended in drilling dry holes was $1,624,000.

DIVORCES IN MAINE.

Bill Prepared to Remedy Evils of Present Too Easy System.

Special to The New York Times.

BANGOR, Me., Dec. 30.—For many years the State of Maine has borne the reproach of being a second Dakota in respect to the ease and celerity with which persons from other States have been able to procure divorce here, and this Winter the Legislature will pass a bill intended to remedy the evil.

A commission appointed to suggest means for promoting legislation uniform with that of other States has drawn up a measure relating to procedure in divorce cases and it is likely that it will be passed without objection.

This bill attempts to furnish a remedy for some of the evils that have attended divorce procedure, especially the evils of what are known as "migratory" or "carpet-bag" divorces. It is designed to defeat the purpose of those persons who come into the State to reside temporarily with the object of securing here a divorce for a cause that arose in another State and which would not in that State be deemed sufficient. This would cut off a large number of "quick" divorces.

The proposed measure prohibits "star chamber" proceedings in divorce cases, requiring that all hearings shall be held in open court. In cases where no defendant has appeared and notice has been given by publication only, a decree nisi is to be entered, which is not to become final until after six months have elapsed, thus giving the absent party an opportunity to show cause, should any exist, why the divorce should not be granted, and also serving as a safeguard where false testimony has been introduced.

THE DANISH ANTILLES SALE.

Denial that Germany Is Negotiating to Purchase the Islands.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 30.—In Danish official circles the report that Germany is negotiating to purchase the Danish Antilles is denied.

"If the islands are to be sold," said a high official to-day, "the purchaser will be the United States, and no other power. All will be sold or none."

SPEEDY SERVICE TO ST. LOUIS.
The Pennsylvania Railroad offers a short line to the West and Southwest in its daily service from New York.—Adv.

LONDON AWAITS MORE CRASHES

It Is Expected that Six Additional Firms Will Suspend To-day.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—London stock brokers are very apprehensive as to the results of to-morrow's dealings. Bear traders for the last fortnight had been concentrating their attacks on the Whitaker Wright shares, and, had these assaults failed, the results must have been quite as sensational as was the suspension of the London and Globe Finance Corporation, Limited.

As affairs stand now, it is expected that no fewer than six additional firms will suspend to-morrow. The feeling this evening is very gloomy. It is feared that the general markets must become affected.

Those who take this view think that the climax may be postponed until the next settlement, but the prospect is far from hopeful unless the bears themselves come to the rescue of the brokers, who have been prominent in this attack.

The Daily Telegraph says: "The bear orders to sell for a fall in Lake View and other shares emanated chiefly from Adelaide, where the condition of the properties was presumably better known.

"So persistent did these operations become that an opposing group, headed by the London and Globe Finance Corporation, Limited, tried to create a corner in the shares to squeeze out the bears; but they were unable to pay for the large blocks of shares purchased."

The Financial News, which is inclined to the view that the London and Globe Finance Corporation will yet get the accommodation it requires, mentions a report that one group actually offered £500,000 to assist in dealing with the crisis, but was informed that at least £800,000 would be required.

NEW VANCOUVER RAILROAD.

Victoria, Vancouver and Eastern to Run Through Kootenai Mining District.

Special to The New York Times.

TACOMA, Washington, Dec. 30.—The Victoria, Vancouver and Eastern Railway Company has been organized to build a railroad from Vancouver eastward through the Kootanai mining district.

The new corporation will operate under its old Dominion and provincial charters. The Government of British Columbia stands pledged to reinstate the subsidy of $4,000 per mile for 330 miles. This subsidy recently lapsed, but will be renewed at the coming session of the provincial Parliament.

The country to be opened by the new road is one of the richest in mineral wealth in British Columbia. Its projectors announce that the surveyors will commence as soon as the subsidy is restored. The route will be from Vancouver to New Westminster, across Frazer River and up Frazer to Hope, thence following the Coquehala River to the headwaters of Coldwater River, thence to the junction of the Otter and Tulameen Rivers, and thence to Princeton, Midway, and Grand Forks.

READY TO WED NINTH HUSBAND

Three Spouses of an Indiana Woman Drowned Themselves In a Cistern.

Special to The New York Times.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 30.—Mrs. George Boyden, whose husband committed suicide in Newburg, Warwick County, last night by leaping into a cistern, has had eight husbands in the last twenty years.

Two of her husbands died natural deaths within a year after their marriage, three obtained divorces because they could not live in peace with the woman, and three committed suicide.

The three husbands who committed suicide ended their lives by leaping into a cistern Last evening Mrs. Boyden's husband ate a hearty supper, and, kissing his wife good-bye, went into the back yard and jumped into a cistern. He had recently obtained a divorce from her and a reconciliation had taken place, but the wife refused to marry him the second time.

Mrs. Boyden to-day intimated that she might marry again if the right man came along.

COLORADO'S GOLD PRODUCTION.

Total Breaks the Record Again with Nearly $30,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 30.—Colorado closes the nineteenth century with a record of gold production amounting to $29,226,198. While this does not come up to the predictions of a year ago—$30,000,000—it is much closer to that figure than conservative estimates made at that time. In 1899, accepting the revised figures of the Denver mint, the State produced $26,265,487 in gold, an increase over 1898 of of above 10¾ per cent., the largest percentage of increase recorded up to that time.

This year the record has been broken again, the percentage of increase being slightly about that of last year, while the actual gain is $2,960,711. A like gain during 1901 will make the production nearly $32,500,000. These are conservative figures made up from the books of the several smelting companies, the chemical plants, and the United States Mint, and may be relied upon as substantially correct.

The bullion produced, compiled from the official reports on the treatment of Colorado ores by smelters and mint bullion receipts is as follows:

	1900.	1899.
Gold	$29,226,198	$26,265,487
Silver	12,433,785	13,993,508
Copper	1,425,816	1,401,722
Lead	6,294,617	5,902,155
Zinc, smelted	173,748	1,000,000
Zinc, shipped	750,000	.....
Total output	$50,303,964	$49,562,872

This does not represent the value of the ore actually taken out during the year, which would make an additional showing of $5,000,000 or $6,000,000.

The gain in production has not been confined to any one or two districts, there having been no phenomenally rich finds made in new camps during the year, but every section has contributed to the increase.

GAVE UP RELIGION FOR LOVE.

Young Woman Renounces Catholic Faith for Man of Her Choice.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 30.—Bessie Small, a pretty eighteen-year-old girl and a Catholic, gave up her religion to-day and renounced her former friends and possessions to marry Isaac Alpert, a young Jew. The girl lived with her mother and became infatuated with Alpert some months ago.

The two loved in vain, as neither could marry the other under ban of the Church. The girl insisted on marrying Alpert, however, and after much argument succeeded in getting permission from her mother to become a Jew.

She became a pupil of Rabbi Frommer of a local synagogue, and was put on ninety days' probation, after fulfilling the rules as to novitiates. The probation ended last week, and this afternoon the pair were married in the Commerce Street Synagogue with full Jewish rites. There was a large attendance from all parts of the city at the novel ceremony.

According to the rules of the Jewish faith the girl was married under another name than her own, Lee, and all her possessions and clothing were burned to signalize her withdrawal from the Christian Church. The case has stirred up great interest in this city among the Catholics.

THE CENTURY'S PROGRESS
Is exemplified in the equipment of the Pennsylvania Limited. Leaves New York daily for Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis.—Adv.

CHINA ACCEPTS THE POWERS' JOINT NOTE

Foreign Ministers at Peking Formally Notified.

THE EMPEROR'S INSTRUCTIONS

Authorizes Agreement, but Wants Best Terms Possible.

The Court, It Is Said, Wishes to Return to the Capital in February—No Negotiations Yet as to Indemnity.

PEKING, Dec. 30.—The Chinese plenipotentiaries have been unexpectedly ordered to sign the preliminary joint note, and have notified the foreign envoys to that effect.

The Chinese themselves were greatly astonished at receiving the imperial instructions. Neither Li-Hung-Chang nor Prince Ching had expected success in persuading the court under ten days.

The Emperor's instructions are to agree fully to the note, but to endeavor to get the best terms possible, particularly in the matter of limiting the number of the legation guards, and also as to the places where these are to be located.

The plenipotentiaries are instructed to endeavor to limit the number of army posts along the line of railway to as few as possible, and, finally, to request the powers not to destroy the forts, but merely to disarm them.

Li-Hung-Chang's health is bad, and it is doubtful whether he will be able to do more than affix his signature to an instrument delegating his powers to Prince Ching until another plenipotentiary has been appointed. He was dressed this morning and carried in a chair to the residence of Prince Ching, with whom he held a long consultation.

Prince Ching then called upon the Doyen of the Diplomatic Corps, the Spanish Minister, Señor de Cologan, and requested him to notify the other envoys that instructions had been received from the Emperor to sign the note.

The foreign communities in Peking are greatly satisfied at the decided tone of the collective note and the assertion that the Powers are determined to entertain no proposals for the modification of their demands. It is understood that Li-Hung-Chang sent a memorial to the throne couched in very strong terms, urging complete compliance.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—The Havas Agency has received the following dispatch from Peking:

"Prince Ching and Li-Hung-Chang have communicated to the foreign envoys an imperial edict, in which the Emperor declares that China accepts the joint note and authorizes Prince Ching and Li-Hung-Chang to negotiate, and to ask for a suspension of hostilities."

Prince Ching and Li-Hung-Chang, according to another dispatch to the Havas Agency, say that Emperor Kwang Su has expressed a desire that the court should return to Peking at the end of February.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—Wiring to The Times from Peking yesterday, Dr. Morrison says:

"The Chinese have accepted all the conditions of the joint note. They are sending formal acceptance by an envoy, and ask that negotiations should commence forthwith and military operations cease.

"Li-Hung-Chang is much better, although greatly shaken.

"Five expeditions are now operating. Every report tells of increasing unrest. The policy of depriving the Chinese of all power to exercise authority is spreading disorder broadcast and forcing peaceful Chinese into opposition."

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 30.—There have been no negotiations regarding the arbitration of the China indemnities between the United States and Russia, which first proposed arbitration, and the raising of this question, it is understood, will not be regarded timely until the negotiations in Peking have proceeded further. It is believed, however, that Russia is still inclined to support the arbitration proposal.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 31.—There are persistent reports in circulation here that the Imperial Court is preparing to return to Pekking. Chinese advices from the capital say that ninety carts with mules and horses have been dispatched to Tai-Yuen-Foo to meet and bring back the imperial personages and their entourage.

It is also asserted that Emperor Kwang-Su has summoned Hu-Ping-Chih, formerly Governor of the Province of Shan-Si, to Sian-Foo to accompany him to Peking.

The Mohammedan rising in the Province of Kan-Soo is spreading, and the troops of the Viceroy of the Province of Hu-Nan are alone able to hold their own against the rebels.

MISSIONARIES' LONG JOURNEY.

From Kalgan, China, via Siberia to St. Petersburg, and Thence to New York.

Secretary and Treasurer Rodgers of the Albany City Tract and Missionary Society was waiting on the American Line pier when the steamship New York arrived yesterday morning. He had gone to meet his daughter Mary, who is the wife of Frans August Larsen, a missionary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance. Mr. Larsen, who was born in Stockholm, Sweden, and has never been in America before, has spent the last eight years in China and Mongolia. He was stationed at Kalgan, from which city his family and twenty-four other persons escaped on the morning of June 11, just a day or so prior to the massacres by the Boxers.

Mr. Larsen, who does not speak very good English, asked his wife to relate the incidents of their flight. The Larsens have two little girls, which were born at Kalgan, on the borders of Mongolia and China, and just inside of the Great Wall. The children are named Mary, two and one-half years old, and Catherine, eight months.

"My husband had been requested by the British Vice Consul, Mr. Campbell, to organize and conduct an exploration expedition into the interior of Mongolia," said Mrs. Larsen. "With this object in view, he purchased a herd of carefully selected horses and camels. It is to the prime condition of the animals that we and the other twenty-four men, women, and children who escaped from the Boxers at Kalgan owe our lives. Consul Campbell's expedition had to be abandoned on account of the uprising.

"The men rode on the horses and camels; the women and children were transported in camel carts. We started from Kalgan very quietly and very early in the morning, and rode into Mongolia, where, about fifty miles from Kalgan, we encamped near some Mongolian huts to make more extensive preparations for our long journey of two months. The natives of this village were friendly to us, as we had done missionary work there, and they sold us some more camels. We remained there a few days, but, at the request of the Mandarin, who was fearful of losing his head if he permitted us to remain, we recommenced our flight.

"From Kalgan, which is a large city, through which immense caravans, consisting of thousands of camels heavily laden with tea for the Russian markets, annually pass, we proceeded by way of the village I have mentioned to Kiatchka, in Siberia. From Kiatchka we took the Trans-Siberian Railroad to St. Petersburg. The fare on this road is the cheapest in the world. You can travel at the rate of four miles for 1 cent. From St. Petersburg we went to Stockholm, where we visited my husband's relatives. We are going to Albany and to my father's house, at 76 Livingston Avenue."

PROTEST AGAINST GERMANS.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—In a dispatch from Peking dated Dec. 28 Dr. Morrison sends The Times a long protest against German harshness, which, he says, is creating instead of checking disorder. He accuses the Germans of harrying the country, and punishing the innocent and the guilty indiscriminately in order to levy fines for defraying their own military expenses, and to form an excuse for continued hostile occupation.

He also charges Count von Waldersee with a breach of faith, on the ground that he gave Li-Hung-Chang a map defining the area of the occupation in the Province of Chi-Li and indicated the district beyond which the allies would not operate, and yet allowed the German troops to inflict severe punishment upon the Chinese at Tsang-Chau and Yung-Ching, both of which are outside the area.

Repeating his statement that the Germans are preparing for an expedition to Sian-Foo in the Spring, and also fomenting trouble in the Yang-tse Valley, Dr. Morrison says:

"The question arises whether the occasion should not be seized to separate the British troops from Count von Waldersee's command."

Germans Kill Forty Chinese Troops.

PEKING, Dec. 29.—The Germans killed forty Chinese troops near Man-Chang, a few miles northwest of Pao-Ting-Foo. They had no casualties. Among the natives a feeling of great mistrust is being caused, apparently, by the high-handed action of the Germans, as the Chinese suspect them of an intention to force a serious engagement with the Chinese troops.

MINISTER WU IS SURPRISED.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The report that the Chinese plenipotentiaries had been directed to sign the joint note is a source of satisfaction to officials here, although Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese Minister here, is somewhat puzzled as to just what construction to place on the Peking dispatches. All along he has regarded the demands conveyed in the joint note as harsh and severe, and the statement that it has been signed causes him surprise.

He is inclined to believe that in all probability what the Emperor has directed is that the Chinese plenipotentiaries proceed to discuss in a friendly manner with the envoys the terms of the agreement, with a view, as stated in the Peking dispatch, to obtain the best terms possible along certain specified lines, and also in others not contained in the cablegram.

The inquiries said to have been made by the Chinese Government of the envoys, of which inquiries, however, no official intimation has been received from Mr. Conger, have been regarded by the officials of this Government as reasonable and because of this more delay than has occurred was expected in the Court's direction for the signature of the note.

Nothing has come from Mr. Conger regarding the status of the note since a cablegram from him some days ago announcing that it had been presented to the Chinese.

PENNSYLVANIA GAME PRESERVE

The State Will Buy 40,000 Acres—Clash with Private Clubs.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Dec. 30.—The State of Pennsylvania for some time past has been purchasing large tracts of unsettled lands at the annual tax sales in the Townships of Bloomingrove and Porter, Pike County, for the purpose of establishing a public game preserve. For several years the clubs and park associations, composed principally of wealthy New York men, have been absorbing many acres of excellent game land for their own use, and the resident sportsmen of Pike County have been prohibited from hunting and fishing on these grounds. The Forestry Commission did not expect to allow all the best hunting ground in the county to be purchased by the associations, and, as a result of their recent purchases, 23,901 acres have already been obtained, and the buying will be continued until 40,000 acres are secured.

This preserve the commission expects to use for a public camping ground, subject to certain restrictions. Recently hunters requested permission to camp on State ground from which they had been expelled by the clubs and associations. The clubs, it was stated, were preventing the poorer classes from enjoying the pleasures of the hunt. The following reply was made by the Forest Commissioner:

Of course you understand that as an officer of the State I must request you to be very careful to destroy no property. Allow no fire to escape you and do no hunting and fishing except that which the law allows. It is my desire to have every citizen of this State feel that the lands which the State purchased are for the good of all the citizens, and that you have just as much right there as anybody else so long as you observe the laws.

This announcement is greeted by the local sportsmen of Pike County with much delight, especially when they recall the case of Charles Hazen against the Bloomingrove Park Association, composed largely of New Yorkers, now pending in Pike County courts. Hazen was arrested some time ago for carrying the carcass of a deer from the preserve of that association in Bloomingrove Township, and the citizens of Milford, Penn., intend to bring action in the Pike County Court to revoke the charter of that association.

MRS. NATION REFUSES BAIL.

Says She Will Demolish Saloons In Other Cities If Released.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 30.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union woman who broke mirrors and destroyed a valuable painting in a Wichita saloon, has refused bail secured by her coworkers.

She now says that under no circumstances will she step out of jail until cleared of the charge against her and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has practically abandoned its effort to secure her release. Mrs. Nation says if she is released from imprisonment she will demolish saloon furniture in other Kansas cities.

FIRE TO AID ESCAPE FROM WHITE PLAINS JAIL.

Prisoners Pile Straw Ticks on the Floor and Burn Them.

Jailer Refused to Enter the Cage and Told the Prisoners to Extinguish the Fire or Suffocate—Burnz Cheerful.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Dec. 30.—The one hundred prisoners locked up in the Westchester County Jail at White Plains, who were the companions and friends of Edgar Channing Burnz, the nineteen-year-old murderer, who was sentenced by Justice Keogh to Sing Sing Prison, for life, when they heard on Saturday night that he had been convicted, made a desperate effort to escape, but the attempt proved ineffectual.

The prisoners formed into two separate companies and kept guard while two leaders went down in the lower tier and piled a dozen straw ticks from the cell cots in a heap on the floor. Then two burglars, Randall Ward of Peekskill and Gus De Weil of Mount Vernon, it is charged, set fire to the heap. Instantly the jail was in an uproar. The cry of fire was shouted, but Jailer Johnson, who was in his office, thought the prisoners were planning an outbreak, so he paid no attention to it.

Several minutes later, Myndert Starin Jarvis, the ten-year-old son of Deputy Sheriff Frank Jarvis, rushed into the office and said the jail was burning up. The turnkey unlocked the heavy steel door leading to the corridor surrounding the cages, and learned that the two burglars had driven all of the prisoners out of their cells and forced them to aid in adding fuel to the fire.

"Say, Jailer, come in and put out the fire," shouted one of the prisoners, "we are suffocating." Jailer Johnson saw that the entire jail was filled with blinding smoke and flames, but he knew if he attempted to enter the prisoners' cage alone the men intended to seize him and take away his keys. "You will have to roast," he shouted back. "You started the fire, now bake or put it out."

The burning material lay on the cement floor, and the turnkey knew the fire could do no damage to the jail, but it might do some of the prisoners good to suffer in the stifling smoke. When he closed the door again, the prisoners set to work with their bare hands, though many were burned, and extinguished the fire.

Burnz did not have anything to do with the attempt at jail breaking, as he was in the women's department, but he smiled when he heard the cry of "Fire." "I would just as lief burn up as die in jail," was his only comment.

The locks on the cell doors in the White Plains jail, the jailer says, are worthless, because, as fast as the men are locked in with the automatic lever, they pick the locks and walk out, and it is almost impossible to prevent an escape at any time.

Several months ago six prisoners, led by Burnz, sawed away two bars in a cell and were caught on the roof of the jail by Deputy Sheriffs Jarvis and Breese and the guards.

Brunz spent a quiet Sunday. He told his guard that he was glad the trial was over. "I knew I would not be electrocuted," he remarked. "I felt sure of going to Sing Sing or the State insane asylum. It doesn't make any difference to me. I am contented. I believe that I may yet be sent to an insane asylum. If I am not, my relatives may get a pardon for me within ten years."

Mrs. Burnz, the mother of the prisoner, called at the jail to-day, but Sheriff Molloy would not allow her to see her son. He said Burnz belonged to the State now, and he did not purpose taking any risk of allowing any one to see the prisoner, who must now spend the rest of his life in prison. Young Burnz appeared very happy to-night. He sang several comic songs, smoked cigarettes, and expressed the wish to be taken to Sing Sing immediately.

CHICAGO'S PENNY LUNCHROOM.

First One Is a Great Success, and Nineteen Others Will Be Added—Man Can Live for Five Cents a Day.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Twelve hundred men satisfied their hunger yesterday at the "Penny" Lunchroom," 290 Clark Street, which has just been opened as an experiment by the St. Luke's Society. The undertaking has proved so successful that nineteen other rooms will be opened in different parts of the city during the next few days.

The amount taken in yesterday was $45, an average of 3¾ cents for each check. Every article on the bill of fare is 1 cent, which includes coffee with sugar and cream

STATEHOOD FOR ARIZONA

Gov. Murphy Will Urge It, While Corporations Are Indifferent.

Rich in Minerals and Semi-Tropical Products—Population Greater than 23 of the States When Admitted.

Gov. Nathan O. Murphy of Arizona is at the Holland House, and will go to Washington to-morrow to continue his efforts to have that Territory admitted as a State.

"We have a hard fight on our hands," he said yesterday, "but we purpose keeping it up until success crowns our efforts. Our people want self-government, and the other advantages of Statehood. Freedom is the underlying sentiment which urges us on. We believe it entirely wrong for a people to be taxed directly or indirectly without representation. We are tired of Territorial vassalage.

"Arizona has a population of more than 122,000, having increased over 100 per cent in the last decade. We have more people and more money than twenty-three of the States had when they were admitted. Wisconsin had only 35,000, Minnesota 6,000, and Illinois 12,000.

"Statehood has at all times been treated as a political question by Congress. That is wrong. The Republicans have a large majority in both branches of Congress, with little likelihood of that majority being lessened for years. Both National platforms favored the admission of Arizona. The Territory is very close politically. I want to say further that every Territory which has been admitted as a State has increased very much within a short time after its admission in population and taxable wealth, except Nevada and Maine. Nevada was admitted as a war measure, with 39,000 people, and almost wholly dependent upon mineral resources. Maine was cut off from Massachusetts, and has not advanced to the degree as have younger States. The great Northwestern States increased very rapidly after admission, and some of them, notably the State of Idaho, have increased 100 per cent. in the last decade. I do not think that Arizona will advance as she should with her limitless resources until admitted, although our population has doubled in ten years.

"It is a great misfortune that the multi-millionaires, whom we have in Arizona take little or no interest in this question. Their principal purpose seems to be to have men elected to the Territorial Legislature who will oppose anti-corporation legislation and taxation measures relating to railroads and mines. It is also said that some of our Federal officials seem to think that if Arizona is admitted as a State there will be legislated out of office, but I doubt such narrow views are held by many. The great mass of the people want to be taken into the Union. The great corporations sometimes say that they can get along better as a Territory than as a State, because they can better control taxation.

"I contend that if we are admitted as a State the corporations and non-resident property owners will take more interest and help to build up a greater Commonwealth. Immigration would come to us, and our population and material wealth would increase wonderfully.

"The value of taxable property on the tax books is $22,000,000, without the assessment of the great mines, aggregating $100,000,000, except to a nominal extent. I believe Arizona will very soon be one of the wealthiest mining districts in the United States.

"Arizona has incalculable wealth in undeveloped precious metals. Agricultural products, alfalfa, and grazing are not excelled anywhere. Then we produce canteloupes, all kinds of melons, grape fruit, oranges, lemons, and all the horticultural products of semi-tropical climes, including the date palm.

"We have 1,100 miles of first-class railroad, and the largest area of unbroken pine forest in the Union. There can be no possible danger of retrogression.

"Our resources will certainly increase to marvelous dimensions with development. Our Territorial debt is inconsiderable, compared with our property valuation, and the expense of operating a State Government can never be burdensome, nor our assets ever be less."

ADMIRAL HICHBORN'S SUCCESSOR.

Friends of Capts. Hanscom and Bowles Working for the Appointment.

There is much interest in the navy over the appointment of a successor to Rear Admiral Philip Hichborn, Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, at the Navy Department, who will be retired on March 4 next.

Capt. John F. Hanscom, now on inspection duty at the Cramps' shipyard, at Philadelphia, is at the head of the eligible list, but Capt. Francis T. Bowles, attached to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, is being strenuously urged for the place. Capt. Hanscom will be retired on May 21, 1904, while Capt. Bowles will remain on the active list until Oct. 7, 1920.

Capt. Hanscom, who served with distinction in the civil war, was appointed from civil life, while Capt. Bowles is a graduate of Annapolis Academy.

Politicians and naval officers are taking a part in the fight, which promises to develop into something like the Schley-Sampson controversy. Messrs. Hanscom and Bowles were promoted to Captaincies on the same day, Oct. 10, 1898. Capt. Hanscom is the last and youngest of a long list of constructors who were appointed from civil life.

While Capt. Hanscom served in the war, Capt. Bowles was not appointed to a cadetship at the Naval Academy until 1875, from which time his date of entry into the service begins.

CENTURY SERVICES IN ENGLAND.

Archdeacon Farrar Takes a Gloomy View of the Future.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—All the religious denominations arranged for "end of the century services," some of which were held yesterday and others will be held to-day.

At Westminster Abbey Archdeacon Frederick W. Farrar, preaching yesterday, took a very gloomy view of the future. He said he thought it by no means improbable that early in the coming century England would have to meet a combination of European powers.

Referring to the "serious trade competition of Germany and the United States," he appealed to England to rouse herself. Alluding to the national curse of intemperance, he said that the Rev. Charles Sheldon had told him that he had seen more drunkenness in England in one year than in his own country, the United States, in a whole lifetime.

Lexington, Ky., to Greet the Century.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 30.—All Lexington will welcome the new century here to-morrow night. Elaborate preparations have been made by the city officials, secret orders, &c., for an immense street parade with torches at 10 o'clock, and addresses at the Opera House, Court House, and at other points in the city. The leading churches have prepared to hold midnight services, and at St. Paul's Catholic Church for the first time in its history there will be a midnight mass. The Masonic order will hold a banquet lasting until 2 o'clock.

Boy at Funeral of His Alleged Victim.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Dec. 30.—The funerals of Rosie Croiovoinski and Mamie Mobile, the little girls who died as a result of being pushed into bon fires by boys on the same day last weeek, took piace today. At the funeral of Rosie Croiovoinski about one hundred little boys and girls attended, among them Frank Wenzell, who is alleged to have caused the child's death.

Dangerous Derelict at Sea.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The British steamer Dora, Capt. Golding, from Wilmington, N. C., Dec. 11 for Queenstown, has arrived there and reports having propeller injured. On Dec. 22, in latitude 44, longitude 40, she passed a submerged wreck with three mast stumps showing fifteen feet out of water and a great danger to navigation.

Coke Oven Company in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Dec. 30.—A company is being formed here to establish extensive coke ovens. Cape Breton coal will be utilized, and the product shipped to the smelters at and near Sudbury, Ontario. From July to November these smelters imported nearly 700 cars of coke from Everett, Mass.

ORTHODOX JEWS MEET.

Organization to Retain the Ancient Jewish Rites and Ceremonies.

The biennial meeting of the Union of Orthodox Hebrew Congregations was held yesterday at the Eldridge Street Synagogue, with representatives from ninety-six orthodox congregations in the United States and Canada.

The Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes, the President of the union, occupied the chair, and the Rev. Dr. B. Drachman, Max Cohen, Isadore Hirshfield, and J. Buchhalter acted as Secretaries. Among those who were present were L. N. Dembitz of Louisville, Dr. S. Solis Cohen of Philadelphia, Dr. A. Friedenwald of Baltimore, H. K. Sarasohn of New York, the Rev. M. De Sola of Montreal, the Rev. Dr. P. Klein, Joseph Blumenthal, Dr. Cyrus Adler, L. Napoleon Levy, I. Silverman, Max Deutschman, and Jacob Hecht.

The Rev. H. P. Mendes, the President, in his opening address, said: "The evil of reform Judaism is that changes are made frequently by men who do not claim to be experts. The standard of learning among the older ministers was very high, but among the younger ones who have received their Hebrew education in this country only, the standard is not so high as it should be. Even laymen, as Trustees of congregations, presume to introduce innovations, and the logical result of this is that as individuals they carry the principle of liberty to do as they please into their homes and personal lives. The Jewish features of orthodoxy are gradually omitted and sooner or later nothing Jewish remains."

Dr. Mendes then dwelt at some length on the fact that many Jews are content with such divorces as they can obtain from the civil courts of the country, the custom of widows marrying the brothers of their deceased husbands, and of the intermarriage of Jews and Gentiles, all of which he denounced as being inimical to the interests of Judaism.

Dr. Mendes reported that the State Board of Law Examiners had granted permission to Hebrew candidates to present themselves for examination on some other day than the Jewish Sabbath. The University of the State of New York had omitted reproductions of works of art, certain pictures in accordance with their desires.

Resolutions providing that a committee be appointed to form lessons to instruct the young in English; that on the eve of all Jewish festivals and holidays an explanation of the significance of the same be sent to The Associated Press, together with a request that they publish the same, and that a committee be appointed to communicate with the National Government at Washington asking that to provide Chaplains in the United States Army and Navy to minister to the religious instruction of the Hebrews in that branch of the public service, were adopted.

The officers elected for the two years were: The Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes, President; the Rev. M. De Sola of Montreal, L. N. Dembitz of Louisville, Dr. A. Friedenwald of Baltimore, and Dr. H. K. Sarasohn of New York, Vice Presidents; Jacob Hecht of New York, Treasurer; Albert Lucas, Max Cohen, Isadore Hirshfield, and J. Buchhalter, all of New York, Secretaries, and the Rev. Dr. P. Klein of New York, the Rev. Dr. Schaffer of Baltimore, the Rev. Dr. Schneeberger of Baltimore, S. H. Roeder of New York, Joseph Blumenthal of New York, Dr. Cyrus Adler of Washington, L. Napoleon Levy of New York, Dr. S. Solis Cohen of Philadelphia, Nathan Hyboft of New York, Harris Aisthuil of Jersey City, the Rev. Philip Jaches of New York, the Rev. H. S. Morais of Newport, R. I.; the Rev. D. M. Kabian of Montreal, Julius H Greenstone of Philadelphia, A. Fein of New York, and the Rev. Dr. B. Drachman of New York, Trustees and members of the Executive Committee.

THOS. G. SHEARMAN MEMORIAL.

William Lloyd Garrison the Principal Speaker in Plymouth Church Services.

Memorial services in honor of Thomas G. Shearman of Brooklyn took the place of the regular service at Plymouth Church last evening. Mr. Shearman was long a Trustee of the church and Superintendent of its Sabbath school. Included in the list of speakers were William Lloyd Garrison of Boston, Henry George, John S. Crosby, and Edward M. Shepard. The Rev. Dr. Lindsay Parker of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, presided.

Mr. Garrison paid a high tribute to the personal worth of the deceased, and said in part: "Mr. Shearman, although not wanting in tenderness of heart or pity for the unfortunate, was by temperament circumspect, cautious, and wary, demanding that exact demonstration which admits of measurement by rule and compass. Sentiment was well enough if backed by statistics. He had been for long years a student of social phenomena, and ready with his pen on a score of civic questions. His articles, if they rarely caused the blood to pulsate more swiftly, always appealed to cool reason and judgment.

"It was therefore all the more astonishing that he satisfied Theodore Parker's definition, showing greatness in recognizing without delay one so different from himself in gifts as Mr. George. He was truly an exception among men of his own mode of thought, such as David A. Wells and Edward Atkinson who, though indefatigable and useful men, laboring unceasingly and unselfishly for the common weal, were yet blind to the importance of the great cause and its luminary then flushing the horizon. They underrated and antagonized Henry George, as if resenting his intrusion upon ground measurably preempted by themselves. They in turn stood apart from the professors who looked askance at them for assuming authority on a so-called science without academic preparation.

"I recall with feelings of grateful admiration his willingness to sacrifice personal comfort when called upon for time, voice, and pen. Whether it was a dinner, a lecture, a debate, or a legislative hearing, with what cheerful and generous acquiescence he answered the Macedonian call!

"At a future day, when true civilization shall supersede this reign of social injustice; when artificial laws that breed immorality shall be blotted out and natural law unfettered; when festering centres of corruption, driving men to social aggression and women to unspeakable vice, shall be extinguished by plenty—when, in short, the earth shall yield its fruitfulness to unchecked labor and landlordism be known only in tradition, this era of the single tax birth will fascinate the student."

PARTS OF WOMAN'S BODY FOUND.

Head and Arms, in a Box, Taken from River Near Rochester.

ROCHESTER, Dec. 30.—Following closely upon the finding of the dismembered remains of a woman floating in the river near Summerville, comes to-day the report that the head and arms of a woman, nailed up in a wooden box, have been found some distance up the river from Charlotte, almost buried in the mud of the river bottom.

The man who told the story of the find at one of the hotels in Charlotte late last night seemed to know more about the case than he cared to tell. He would not give his name, and tried to ascertain if any one else knew of the matter. It is said some boys who were gull hunting along the river bank first discovered the box, and dug it out of the mud.

No one, so far as can be learned to-day, knows where the mysterious box is, and it is thought the matter has been hushed up by the officials.

ROASTED IN A PRAIRIE FIRE.

Family in Oklahoma Overtaken by the Flames While Asleep.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 30.—Gotlieb Stacker and his family, moving from Stillwater, Oklahoma, to Rogers Mills County, were caught, while asleep in their wagon, in a prairie fire Friday night. A seventeen-months' old baby was roasted to death and a boy will die. A young woman will lose both her legs, and no hopes are entertained of saving the mother's life. In their roasted condition and with the eyes and hair of their horses burned, they reached a dugout a few miles away.

The fire was fanned by a wind traveling sixty miles an hour.

Changes in State Board of Health.

A great shake up is predicted in the personnel of the State Board of Health. Secretary Baxter T. Smelzer, it is said, will be succeeded by William E. Johnson of Waverley. Dr. Johnson was surgeon, in the One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Regiment, New York Volunteers, of which Gen. B. F. Tracy was Colonel.

RACE WON BY THE ETRURIA

Cunard Steamship Beats the New York in a Two Days' Run.

For a Day and a Half the Two Ocean Liners Were Abreast at Full Speed, but the Single-Screw Vessel Then Forged Ahead.

To the passengers on the American liner New York and Cunarder Etruria who were compelled to spend the Christmastide on the Atlantic, the season of festivities was made unusually memorable by a magnificent race in which the ocean steamers were the competitors. Both liners sailed on their westward passage Dec. 22, and had not sighted each other until about 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, when the watch on the Cunarder made out the outlines of the three funneled clipper-bowed American, dashing across the sea abeam a few miles off.

Somebody whispered to the engineers that a rival was abreast, for the Cunarder from this on logged off the nautical miles at an increased rate and the trail of smoke from her funnels became blacker. The officers on the American vessel noted the increased speed at which the Englishman was logging, and gave orders which caused extra tons of coal to be thrown into the furnace that generates the steam in the monster boilers. Accepting the challenge of the single-screw ship, the Americans decided, if possible to land passengers in New York in time for Sunday school yesterday morning. Wednesday night, all day Thursday, until the afternoon of Friday there was no perceptible advantage gained by either of the liners, and those of the passengers who had wagered as to the speeding qualities of their respective vessels began to think that the sprint would result in a tie.

But it was only a short time after this that the passengers on the New York noted that their vessel seemed to be falling astern of the Cunarder. At midnight the outline of the Englishman had been lost to view, once more a Cunarder had out-distanced an American rival. The St. Louis and the Campanla had raced on their last westward passage, and the Campania won.

The people on the Cunarder said that the Etruria simply made a spurt and slipped away from the American, while those on the New York said that the officers of that vessel seeing that it was impossible to reach New York in time for early breakfast yesterday, simply slowed down as they did not see the use of burning up so much extra coal, especially as fuel purchased on the other side costs so much more than on this side. Capt. Mills of the New York said that no such thing as a race occurred, and Capt. McKay of the Cunarder would most certainly have said the same had he been seen, for as every one knows, "It's against the rules of the company to race under any circumstances."

THE COFFEE FLASK EXPLODED.

Ticket Chopper's Cheer Was Lost and the Agent Expected Burglars.

The next time William Grossman, a ticket clopper on the down-town station of the Third Avenue Elevated Railroad, at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, starts to heat coffee for his evening meal, his companions assert that they will give him a wide berth. The agents and porters do not object to coffee in itself, but when it takes on the qualities of saltpetre, dynamite, and gun cotton, they say it ceases to belong to the category of comfort, and becomes decidedly objectionable.

Mr. Grossman likes coffee, and he likes it hot. So last night, as usual, he placed the tin flask containing his allowance of the beverage on the stove in the station, as he has done many nights before. But the rain brought an unusual number of passengers to the station, and, in the exercise of his duty of chopping the little pink tickets, Grossman forgot all about his coffee.

Suddenly there was a terrific explosion. A shower of black liquid was thrown about the place, causing exclamations of pain from all upon whom it fell, men and women alike without distinction.

Thomas Brady, the ticket agent, did not utter any heroics, but with rare presence of mind, slammed the door of the safe shut, grabbed his revolver, and stood on guard. A policeman, who had heard the noise, came running from the street.

"Smells to me like the coffee's burning," he said.

"City Hall train!" yelled the ticket chopper, looking sheepish.

Brady laid down his revolver.

"How many, please?" was all he said, and the crowd left the station in disgust.

DOSORIS POND CASE SETTLED.

Court of Appeals Gives Decision to the Dosoris Company.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Dec. 30.—The long-drawn-out contest over the ownership of Dosoris Pond, begun in 1896, has been ended by a decision of the Court of Appeals. This decision affirms the judgment of the Appellate Division, which affirmed the judgment of the Special Term on the opinion of Judge Wilmot M. Smith, before whom the action was tried. The suit was brought by the Dosoris Pond Company, leesee, whose claim is sustained. Edward J. Campbell and eleven others were made defendants in a prayer for an injunction to restrain them from fishing and shellfishing on the east of Dosoris's Millpond.

The defendants asserted their right to take fish and clams from the pond on the ground that the town of Oyster Bay had title to the pond, and as they were citizens and taxpayers of the town of Oyster Bay they had a common right to fish and clam in the pond with every other citizen and taxpayer.

The pond is a large body of tide water bordering upon the estates of Leonard Jacob, Charles A. Dana, Charles Pratt, Percy Chubb, and others, and is about three miles from Glen Cove. The town was much interested in the action, as by the leasing the clamming rights, &c., considerable revenue could be obtained. Like a hundred other land and water disputes on Long Island, the ancient grants of the Crown of England to settlers and of the English Colonial Governors of New York, figured. A grant by Gov. Andrus was in this case arrayed against a grant by the English Crown.

Leonard Jacob, from whom the Dorsoris Pond Company leased the fishing and clamming rights, is the owner of East Island and the East Beach, connecting it with the mainland, and asserted himself to be the owner of the misnamed bay of water known as Dosoris Millpond.

The decisions all turned upon the claim of Mr. Jacob, and his contentions have been sustained, as a whole.

SMALLPOX IN BROOKLYN.

Mother and Little Daughter Sent to North Brother Island.

Mrs. Denedetta Denear and her daughter Amelia, seven years old, were removed from their home in the tenement at 116 Middleton Street, Brooklyn, yesterday, and taken to North Brother Island suffering from smallpox. It is not known where they contracted the disease.

The police took charge of the tenement, and this morning the dozen persons living there will be vaccinated and the house fumigated.

No new cases of smallpox were reported in the Borough of Manhattan or the Borough of the Bronx.

Quarantine Against Winona Raised.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 30.—Dr. Justus O'Hage, Health Commissioner of St. Paul, having been satisfied that the new Health Board formed at Winona has taken proper measures to guard against the spread of smallpox, which is said to exist there, has raised the quarantine, and intercourse between the two cities is now of its normal character.

Smallpox Case in Elmira.

ELMIRA, Dec. 30.—Elmira has one case of smallpox, the patient being the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Outt of Beach Street. The Board of Health has taken the strictest precautionary measures to prevent the spread of the disease.

A BLACKMAILER TRAPPED

Arrested at Rendezvous He Gave to Receive Hush Money.

Demanded $15,000 from Father of Girl He Slandered—Believed to be Member of a Gang.

The Brooklyn police have in custody a blackmailer who is accused of slandering for many months past Miss Augusta Stutz, daughter of Louis Stutz, a wealthy provision dealer, of 809 Broadway, Brooklyn. The man, who described himself as John Hanna, nineteen years old, of 362 Broadway, was arrested Saturday night at a rendezvous he gave to take $15,000 as hush money.

On Thursday last he sent a letter to Mr. Stutz, in which he referred in a scandalous manner to his daughter, and informed Mr. Stutz that the writer could be kept quiet for $15,000; also, that, to prevent further scandal, he would marry the girl. In the letter Hanna quoted two chapters from the Bible, both dealing with charitable acts performed. He advised Mr. Stutz to pay the money, which must be in gold, and not say any more about it. Mr. Stutz consulted his lawyer, Frank Abernit, and it was decided to place the matter in the hands of the police of the Hamburg Avenue Station.

A trap was laid by Detectives Leonard and Fegnersia for the capture of the blackmailer. At the instigation of the police Mr. Stutz communicated with Hanna, agreeing to his terms and arranging for a meeting at 11 o'clock Saturday night at the junction of Bushwick and Myrtle Avenues. Fearful lest his temper might get the better of him and that he might do Hanna bodily harm, thus injuring his chances of getting at the bottom of the affair, Mr. Stutz prevailed upon William F. Weger, an intimate friend, to keep the appointment. In a hallway near by the detectives secreted themselves, and when Hanna appeared and prepared to receive the $15,000, stepped out and made him their prisoner.

At the police station Hanna admitted being the author of the letter to Mr. Stutz, giving as a reason that he did it to obtain money, he being out of work and in a position he believed to make Mr. Stutz come to terms. He added that the secret he possessed was told him by a friend, and that he had made up his mind that Mr. Stutz should place him "on easy street" or he would make known to the public the skeleton supposed to be hidden in the Stutz family closet. In the Ewen Street Police Court yesterday morning, Hanna, who is very tall and wears a boyish face, again admitted having written the letter. He was held in $5,000 bail pending a hearing on Wednesday.

Mr. Stutz's lawyer believes that Hanna was only a tool for a gang of blackmailers.

"Miss Stutz," said he, "is an only daughter. She is twenty years old, and is engaged to be married to John Auer, the son of a highly respected builder. We believe that it was Hanna and his gang that started certain rumors about her with the object of getting money. About a year ago the Stutz family began to receive postal cards on which were demands for money. I was in consultation with the police from time to time, but it was utterly impossible to trace the author.

"When Hanna was arrested he declared that he had written the letters to oblige somebody else, and that he was an innocent party to it. Previously when asked to reduce the amount of his blackmail from $15,000 to $10,000 he refused to do so, saying that he had heard that Mr. Stutz had once offered $50,000 to suppress the rumors."

TRAGEDY IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Three Men Killed in Abbeville, Where a Drunken Man Started a Shooting Affray.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 30.—Three men were killed in Abbeville, this State, last night as the result of a drunken man's spleen and malice. Two of them were the Sheriff of the county and a highly respected Northerner, William Kyle of Massachusetts, who had been superintending the building of a cotton mill in Abbeville.

Kyle and others were playing cards for pindars at the hotel, when John Dansby threw two dollars on the table and said, "Play for this." This was refused and an altercation ensued. Dansby suddenly drew a pistol and shot Kyle in the abdomen. He then backed out of the room, declaring that he would shoot any man who attempted to stop him. He was followed by two policemen, but held them at bay with his pistol until Sheriff Kennedy and several citizens arrived. The Sheriff called to Dansby to come out of the house of his father-in-law, whither he had fled. Dansby came out, and with the remark, "Well, we'll all go to hell together," commenced firing.

Dansby was shot twice in the leg and full in the chest, the Sheriff was struck once in the left breast, and fell as soon as hit. Dansby walked some fifty steps, and was reloading his pistol when he was shot again, some say by the dying Sheriff. The Sheriff and his slayer died within a few minutes. Kyle lingered until 2 o'clock to-day.

WANTED TO CHARGE $5.

Fare Refused to Pay the Price Demanded by a Cab Driver, Who Finally Got $1.75.

A man who said he was Dr. Alexander Campbell of 537 Fifth Avenue, engaged a hansom cab last night at Central Park West and Seventy-sixth Street. The driver said his name was James Ryan, and that he lived at 521 West One Hundred and Thirtieth Street. He said he worked for Thomas Woods of 518 West One Hundred and Thirtieth Street, who owns cabs.

Dr. Campbell was driven to the Beresford Hotel, Central Park West and Eighty-first Street; then to the Hotel Netherland, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street; then to a nearby drug store, and then he ordered the driver to take him to the Endicott Hotel, Columbus Avenue and Eighty-first Street. On the way up the doctor asked the driver what his bill was.

"Five dollars," replied the latter through the little trap door in the roof.

"Not for me," said the doctor. "I've used these cabs before."

"Youse has been out a good while, and it's rainin'," said the cabman.

"I will give you $2.50," said the doctor.

"Naw, youse won't. I'll drive youse to the station," said Ryan.

"That suits me exactly. Drive me to the station."

Dr. Campbell said Ryan then offered to take the $2.50. Dr. Campbell said he declined to give it then, believing his duty to the public prevented, and he insisted on going to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station.

The men agreed upon arriving there that the cab had been in service an hour and a half. The legal charge is $1 an hour.

"I'll give you $1.75, not a cent more," said the doctor.

Ryan protested, but the Sergeant said it was take that much or get out, as it was all he was entitled to. He finally took it and drove away. Dr. Campbell went on his way in another cab, declaring he will make it his business to go this morning before the City Marshal and have the cabman's license rescinded.

SPECIAL ATTORNEYS WILL FIGHT.

Governor-Elect Odell's Move for Economy Will Be Resisted.

The special attorneys who have been drawing pay from the State for services to the different departments do not purpose to relinquish their positions without a fight.

Governor-elect Odell has announced his intention of removing their names from the payrolls.

There are about forty of these lawyers, and their fees amount to many thousands of dollars. It is the purpose of Mr. Odell to have the work, which has been performed by them, turned over to the Attorney General's office.

Ex-Assemblyman George C. Austin, who led the fight against Abraham Gruber, receives $4,500 as attorney for the Manhattan State Hospital and it is said he is organizing opposition to defeat the Governor-elect's plan.

SAILORS' SNAKE STORIES.

Regiment of Reptiles That Threatened a British Cruiser.

A new batch of deep-sea stories came to light a few days ago. Tebo's Basin, at the foot of Twenty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, was the scene of the revelations and three grizzled men of the sea who had not been long paid off were responsible for the promulgation of the yarns. These were respectively a blue-bloused man-of-warsman, who, prior to his enlistment in the American Navy, was similarly connected with her British Majesty's service, another was an imaginative 'fore-the-mast man of an old and well-known bark, while the third was one of the "snake-story" kings who, trading in the Orient, bring back with them remarkable stories of a reptilian nature. Some one had been foolish enough to refer to the sea serpent. This started the discussion. No one claimed to have seen the monster, so the conversation shifted to snakes, and the half dozen longshoremen and two or three sightseers who were fortunate enough to be on hand listened with ever-increasing interest to the stories told until the one-hundred-and-ten-foot reptile of Amazonian nativity was cold. This was the limit, and its partial narration by the old sailing ship man, with every indication of authenticity, brought the discussion to an end. Its telling had been preceded by a story of the seas of Java by the man of naval vocation and another by the Down-Easter, in which the Straits Settlements had formed the scene of action, the truthfulness of which he had emphasized with the well-known quotation, "and that ain't no lie."

As the tale of Javanese origin went, the British cruiser was off the harbor of Bantam on a social visit to this the most splendid of the Dutch Pacific possessions. "With three or four of the boys," he began, "I was lying on thir forward deck, talkin' about th' people at home and tellin' yarns generally. For some cause or other McDougall, a Scotch lad, and as good a one as ever chewed navy plug, stretched hisself and got up. Suddinly, and without er word, he looked ercross the harbor, his eyes got big as moons, and reachin' down and grabbin' me by the collar he says, sorter coarse like and wid er look about him that was calculated ter make me think of 'Home, Sweet Home': 'Jimmie,' he didn't never call me Jim like you boys do, 'git up and look. I seen an epperition or else a bigger liar never wore the uniform of the Queen.' Well, I didn't do a thing but git up and I seen what he seen."

"What wuz it he seen?" timorously inquired a deeply interested longshoreman.

"All I seen was up an' lookin' by this time, and what we seen we will never forgit and I don't reckon we will ever see its like agin this side of eternety. About er mile ter the west, what seemed to be about fifty awful, terible things wuz headin' fur us. Wid long shiny bodies so long I am ashamed ter tell yer how long-jumpin' and wriggin', now you could see 'em, then yer couldn't. Closer and closer they got, keepin' perfect time wid their heads, then duckin' agin fer a minit, and raisin' up still agin, gitten bigger as they got closer, and I mus' confess we wuz gitten shaky, not knowin' what it wuz eggsactly, fer expitin' that they looked like snakes, and that they hed ovry epperance of gitten ready fer a tough ingagement. Well, they kep' on comin', until they wuz in a hundred yards about, and then, thank Hevin, they must hev concluded that we wuz braver than we looked, fer they a sudden, an' the Northumberlan's couldn't er done it better, turned round like they do when the Captin ses, I fergit what, but its like the turning of a greased gate, and waggling thelr tales in farewell, went a floppin' and a-slashin' on out ter sea. If you don't believe this, ask Willie MacDougall, he seen it first."

"That's er pipe dream sure and sartain," said the Down-Easter, "an' I can't remember havin' seen any sich congrergashun of reptils, but I distinctly riccerlict steerin' up agin er snake or a sarpint that wuz big ernough, mean ernough, and tough ernough fer me. It wuz in the Straits and we wuz westward bound. It wuz near on to two bells, and I wuz on watch. It wuz a ded calm, an' not a whiff of a breeze wuz blowin'. I wuz thinkin' of the wife at home and the kid, sorter dreamin' like, when the ship give a lurch an' I almos' fell overboard from the collishun. I looked down inter the water, but I didn't see er thing, an' wuz wonderin' what on airth it wuz, when I gits a look from the two biggest, greenest, an' most outragious lookin' eyes me or inybody else ever looked inter. The light from the moon struck him square all over, an' he wuz, he must ha' been, 40 foot in length, an' near onto 5 foot through; knotty, rough-cornered here an' ther like a house on the shore, an' wid fins, thet's what they looked like, big ernough ter swing the Keyser Willam inter the river. Suddinly I got mad, and, swingin' round, struck the ship with all his might a powerful lick on the starboard quarter. She shuk from bow ter stern, and down I went agin. Then I scrammeled up agin and peeped over. Kersmash, he hit her agin. I wuz gitten' ready ter pray, when I spied a bucket of blue paint. Grabbin' the paint, I gits up easy and cautiouslike, looks over agin, raises the bucket, takes aim, an' lets her go. I never expects to make another shot lak that. It hit him in the head full and squar; he blinked, an' hissed, an' squirmed, buried his head in the water, an' I thought I heerd him groan. Then, givin' the ship another slap, he went away, and as sure as I'm a-liven', I berleeve that the biggest snake that swims under the waters of the seas is a blue un."

"Whin I wuz las' in the Amazin," began the last of the vision seers, "I seen a snake in the lily regions that I seen meself swallow whole a thousand-pound fresh wate, seal. He wuz over 100 foot—"

"Now youse started ter jokin'," said the Down-Easter, in an aggrieved voice, and the three went away in search of a new supply of the latest snake-producing concoction.

DREW UP TWO BODIES.

Life Savers Found Missing Fishermen Entangled in an Anchor Chain.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA ISLE CITY, N. J., Dec. 30.—The bodies of Thomas Carlson and Charles Petersen, two cod fishermen who have been missing since last Wednesday, were found today, tangled in the anchor chain of their overturned boat.

Samuel Shick was scanning the ocean with his marine glass this afternoon, when he caught sight of a dark object bobbing up and down. Closer study convinced Shick that the object was an overturned boat, and he quickly notified Capt. John Cole of the Life Saving Station.

A lifeboat was manned, and the overturned boat proved to be that of the lost fishermen, with the anchor cable out. The life savers proceeded to haul in the cable, and they found the bodies of both Carlson and Petersen caught in it.

How the fishermen met their death is a mystery. When they started out Wednesday afternoon friends endeavored to keep them ashore, as both were considerably under the influence of liquor, and in no condition to manage their boat.

BUYS AMERICAN PICTURES.

Two Works Purchased for the Luxembourg Museum.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—The Luxembourg Museum has just purchased several pictures that were displayed in the foreign sections of the Paris Exposition. Among these are Walter MacEwen's "A Sunday in Holland" and Humphrey's Johnson's "Portrait of a Woman," both from the United States section.

Fire Devastates Canadian Village.

WEST LORNE, Ontario, Dec. 30.—A disastrous fire visited this village to-night, wiping out one of the principal business blocks of the village. The loss will reach $125,000. In default of fire appliances the citizens organized a bail brigade. Assistance was sent from St. Thomas and Ridgetown and the fire checked.

Mother Burned in Rescuing Her Baby.

ENGLISH, Ind., Dec. 30.—While rescuing her one-year-old baby from her burning home at St. Croix, Mrs. Cornelia Barth was fatally burned this afternoon. Mrs. Barth had left her child in the house asleep in its cradle, and was at the home of her mother, less than 100 yards away, when the fire was discovered.

Refuses Call to Rockefeller's Church.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30.—The Rev. Dr. W. W. Weeks of Toronto, Ont., has declined a call to the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church in this city. This is the church of which John D. Rockefeller is a leading member. It has been without a pastor since last Summer.

SUICIDE CAUSED BY FEAR

Beckerman Thought He Had Killed His Brother-in-Law.

He Had Shot Julius Cohn Twice, but the Wounds Were Slight—Killed Himself Rather than Be Arrested.

Terror-stricken at the thought that he had killed his brother-in-law, Abraham Beckerman, a cigarmaker, thirty-one years old, who lived at 107 East Eighty-eighth Street, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by shooting.

Ten years ago Beckerman came to this country from Russia and entered the employ of Julius Cohn, his brother-in-law, who has a cigar factory at 2,340 Third Avenue. He began as a packer, and worked his way up to the position of foreman.

On Saturday night Cohn discharged him and a quarrel followed. Beckerman drew a revolver and fired two shots, one of which grazed Cohn's right temple and the other his left temple. Neither wound was serious.

Backerman fled, and yesterday the police of the East Eighty-eighth Street Police Station heard that Beckerman had committed suicide in a flat on the second floor of 107 East Eighty-eighth Street, where he rented a room from Mrs. Joseph Green.

Beckerman fled, and yesterday the police on Saturday. He got up early yesterday morning and left the house, returning later in the day. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Annie Schwartz, who lives in the flat above the one occupied by the Green family, read in a morning newspaper an account of the shooting of Cohen.

She immediately started down to tell Mrs. Green about it, carrying the paper in her hand, with the flaring headline telling of the shooting. When she knocked at the door of the Greens' apartment, Beckerman looked out over the transom. He caught sight of the paper and immediately remarked that the family were not at home. Then he locked the door.

Mrs. Green, in the meantime, had gone to the flat below to visit her brother-in-law, Martin Cohen. The Cohens had not heard the story in the paper, and told her of it. She said that she feared to go up stairs, and while Martin Cohen was arguing with her that there was no reason for her to be afraid, Miss Julie Schwartz ran down and said she had just heard a pistol shot in the Green apartment.

When Cohen and Mrs. Green got up stairs they found the door locked and barricaded. They broke it open and found Beckerman sitting in a rocking chair before a mirror with a wound in his right temple. An ambulance was summoned from the Presbyterian hospital, and Dr. Dorman, the surgeon, pronounced the man dead.

A revolver was found on the floor beside Beckerman, and on the bed was a life insurance policy for $2,000 in favor of his mother. There was also a note requesting that the money be forwarded to his mother in Russia.

It is believed that Beckerman feared that he had killed his brother-in-law and that the police were about to arrest him.

ANOTHER VOTE FOR QUAY.

Senator Washburn, Populist, Joins His Forces—Quay's Election Assured, His Friends Say.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Dec. 30. — State Senator Washburn of Crawford County, who was elected two years ago as a Populist with Democratic and Prohibition indorsement, issued a formal statement to-night, announcing that he had allied himself with the Republican Party, and will participate in its councils and organization.

Mr. Washburn voted with the Democrats at the last session for George A. Jenks for United States Senator, and took part in their councils and voted for all party measures.

In his statement Mr. Washburn says he was elected as a Populist, with Democratic support. He says he co-operated with the Democrats during the last session of the Legislature, but was disappointed in the outcome.

The Democrats, he says, were more intent upon partisan and personal advantage than in a desire to secure needed legislation. The same spirit prevails in this Commonwealth, he says, as dominated the National Democratic Convention in, refusing to Indorse Towne. The "insurgent Republicans," in his opinion, also aim only at personal or partisan gain for themselves.

"The disrepute into which the regular Republican organization was brought previous to 1898," he continued, "was caused by scandals and corruption, of which the members of the Pittsburg and Philadelphia political rings were guilty. It was not Quay as much as the unscrupulous work of his followers in the two cities that precipitated the factional fight in the Republican Party."

He concludes by saying that, while he does not regret his support of Bryan, he wishes to be "a co-operator rather than a fault finder, and recognizing that the People's Party in Pennsylvania is extinct as a State organization, and that the overwhelming majority of the people of this Commonwealth desire an instant cessation of the factional strife that has for years corrupted the politics and prevented the proper administration of the affairs of the State, I shall henceforth ally myself with the Republican Party and participate in its councils and organization."

Mr. Washburn's declaration created much surprise, as he was counted on by the Democrats to vote with them on the organization of the Senate and for the party nominee for United States Senator. His desertion gives the friends of Col. Quay control of the Senate, and practically insures the election of William P. Snyder of Chester as President pro tem.

United States Senator Penrose, who is here aiding Col. Quay in his canvass for United States Senator,

GOV. ROOSEVELT'S PLEA FOR BROTHERHOOD

Address Delivered in Carnegie Hall Sent to Over 100 Towns.

Spirit of Fraternity Is Needed to Solve the Nation's Problems, He Says, but Each Man Must Also Hustle for Himself.

A gathering filled every available inch of space in Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon at the mass meeting for men, held under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. Gov. Roosevelt was the principal speaker, and copies of his address had been sent in advance to more than 100 cities and towns of the United States and Canada, to be read before similar meetings.

William E. Dodge presided, and there was singing by the New York Festival Chorus, under the direction of Tali Esen Morgan. Mrs. Ballington Booth, the only woman present outside of the members of the chorus, occupied a seat in the front row of the orchestra, where were also gathered detachments of men from the navy yard, Fort Hamilton, Fort Wadsworth, and Fort Columbus. Among those on the platform were Major Gen. John R. Brooke, Gen. O. O. Howard, Col. Davis, commandant of Fort Columbus; Col. Rogers, commandant of Fort Hamilton; Col. Kiernan, commandant of Fort Wadsworth; Lieut. Gatchell of Fort Wadsworth, Lieut. Woodruff of Fort Columbus, Cleveland H. Dodge, President of the Young Men's Christian Association of this city; Richard C. Morse, General Secretary of the International Committee, Young Men's Christian Association, and George A. Sanford, Chairman of the Army Branch, Young Men's Christian Association.

The exercises began with the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldier," and the voices of the 400 singers on the stage were reinforced by those on the lower floor, gradually attaining tremendous volume, as each successive tier of people took up the strain.

William E. Dodge, in the opening address, said, in part:

"We are in the closing days of the most wonderful century the world has ever seen. During the last half of the century, as never before, the value of young men to the community has been understood. About fifty years ago a movement was started in London out of which has grown this wonderful work of the Young Men's Christian Association. There is no more wonderful sign for the new century than that so great a body of young men are bound together."

Mr. Dodge then briefly touched upon Gov. Roosevelt's public career, referring to him as, "like myself, among the young men." Applause followed the statement "as a member of the Police Commission we loved him for the enemies that he made."

A TALK TO SOLDIERS.

After the applause which greeted him had subsided, Gov. Roosevelt began by saying that he did not think that he would be grudged an opportunity of first saying a word of special greeting to the officers and enlisted men of the army and navy.

"While we owe most to the men who fought in the great war," he continued, "and threefold over to those who were mighty in time of battle, but stood for what was right in time of peace, the next share of praise goes to you who uphold the army's standard. I've none here who wears the yellow stripes, but I do see plenty of cavalry. Well I served in the cavalry myself, but always on foot."

Addressing himself to the body of the house, he added:

"To you, my fellow-citizens, I want to say that the man is a mighty poor man who tries to make you afraid of Uncle Sam's army and navy."

Then Gov. Roosevelt delivered the address, which was, in part, as follows.

"Your organization recognizes the vital need of brotherhood, the most vital of all our needs here in this great continent. The existence of a Young Men's or a Young Women's Christian Association is certain proof that some people, at least, recognize in practical shape the identity of aspiration and interest both in things material and in things higher, which with us must be widspread through the masses of the people, if the National life is to attain full development. This spirit of brotherhood recognizes of necessity both the need of self-help and also the need of helping others.

"Every man of us needs help at some time, and each of us should be glad to stretch out his hand to a brother who stumbles. But no man can afford to let himself be carried, and it is worth no man's while to try thus to carry some one else. The man who lies down, who will not try to walk, has become a mere cumberer of the earth's surface. Don't ever make the mistake of thinking that the passing of certain laws is going to upset the old law that a man's bread is to be eaten out of the sweat of his brow. For a man's own courage and individual capacity there is no substitute. There is no place in the body politic of American life for the man who does not work. And that work is most satisfactory which counts most for the Nation.

"Under the conditions of modern life, we cannot allow an unlimited individualism which may work harm to the community; it is no less evident that the sphere of the State's action should be extended very cautiously and, so far as possible, only where it will not crush out healthy individual initiative. Voluntary action by individuals in the form of associations of any kind for mutual betterment or mutual advantage often offers a way to avoid alike the danger of State control and the dangers of excessive individualism.

"It is only by working together in a spirit of brotherhood that it is possible for us to solve the tremendous problems with which, as a Nation, we are now confronted. Our industrial life has become so complex, its rate of movement so very rapid, and specialization and differentiation so intense, that we find ourselves face to face with conditions that are practically unknown in this Nation half a century ago. The power of the forces of evil has been greatly increased, and it is necessary, for our self-preservation, that we should similarly strengthen the forces for good.

SENTIMENTALITY NOT WANTED.

"It ought not to be necessary for me to warn you against mere sentimentality. It is eminently desirable that we should none of us be hardhearted, but it is no less desirable that we should not be softheaded. As a whole, taking the mass of Americans, we do not want charity, we do not want sentimentality; we merely want to learn how to act, both individualy and together, in such fashion as to enable us to hold our own in the world.

"The Tenth Commandment is a mighty good rule yet. From the days when the chosen people received the Decalogue to our own, envy and malice have been recognized as evils, and woe to those who appeal to them. The vice of envy is not only a dangerous, but also a mean, vice, for it is always a confession of inferiority. It is far safer to accept for a motto, in the words of Lowell, 'all men up,' rather than 'all men down.' Sometimes there must be pulling down, too, and where the knife must be used it should be used unsparingly, but intelligently. Normally, however, a pound of construction is worth a ton of destruction."

After saying that the basic virtues were those that make up home life, Gov. Roosevelt added:

"Each one of us has in him certain passions and instincts, which, if they gain the upper hand in his soul, would mean that the wild beast had come uppermost in him. Envy, malice, and hatred are such passions, and they are just as bad if directed against a class or group of men as if directed against an individual. Woe to us as a Nation if we ever follow the lead of men who seek not to smother, but to inflame, the wild-beast qualities of the human heart! In social and industrial, no less than in political, reform we can do healthy work, work fit for a free country, fit for self-governing democracy, only by treading in the footsteps of Washington and Franklin and Adams and Patrick Henry and not in the steps of Marat and Robespierre."

Robert E. Speer, the concluding speaker, said that every man knew what he ought to do, but the difficulty was to follow out that knowledge.

"The Gospel of Christ," he said, "is the revelation of what a man should be and how he can be what he should be."

DIVIDENDS IN CHICAGO.

Very Large Payments to be Made in Next Few Days.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Millions of dollars in dividends on stocks and bonds will be paid out to Chicagoans within the next few days.

Among the largest concerns that will make their annual disbursements of dividend and interest payments before the end of the present week are the following: Chicago City Railway, $390,000; Chicago Telephone, $150,000; National Biscuit, $292,-393; South Side Elevated, $309,714; Knickerbocker Ice, $80,000; Otis Elevator, $67,500; American Steel and Wire, $1,566,667; American Sugar Refinery, $1,293,880; Chicago Great Western Railway, $598,301; Federal Steel, $798,000; General Electric, $783,816; Metropolitan Street Railway, $786,667; National Steel, $472,500; Republic Iron and Steel, $364,910; Northern Pacific, $800,000; Swift & Co., $350,000; Western Union Telegraph, $243,351; total, $9,368,567.

Other dividends in which Chicagoans are largely interested are the following: Chicago and Northwestern, $336,100; Twin City Rapid Transit, $700,000; Union Bag and Paper, $192,500, and Chicago and Alton, $400,000.

UPRISING FEARED IN KOREA.

United States Representative Sends an Appeal to Seoul.

Special to The New York Times.

TACOMA, Washington, Dec. 30.—Symptoms of unrest continue in Korea. There have been anti-Christian riots in the neighborhood of Pyongyang. The present situation has caused much uneasiness at the United States Legation at Seoul, as the missionaries in Pyongyang consist chiefly of Americans. It is feared that preparations for an uprising against foreigners similar to that in China are in progress.

The representative of the United States has made a strong appeal to the Korean Government, and detachments of troops have been sent.

BOSTONIAN COMMITS SUICIDE.

Crawls from a Baltimore Hotel Window and Leaps Three Stories.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 30.—John Riley, aged forty, of Boston, committed suicide in a sensational manner early this morning in this city.

He was stopping at the Levering House and about 5 o'clock got out of bed, stripped himself naked, crawled out the window, crept along the frost-covered, slippery eaves to the roof of a three-story adjoining building, and then leaped head foremost to the street.

Two men found the crushed and mangled man groaning and shivering in a pool of blood on the sidewalk. He was removed to the City Hospital, where he died in an hour, after telling the story of his terrible leap.

Riley gave the name of Adam Curtliver to the doctor, though he registered at the Levering House last night as Frank Clark. Several men, who said they knew him, identified the man by different names. Another, however, positively identified him as John Riley of Boston.

The man talked intelligently to the physicians, but seemed anxious to conceal his identity, and refused to speak of his family connections. He insisted that the physicians do nothing to save his life, as he wanted to die, and declared with his dying breath that it was nobody's business who he was.

JAPANESE OFFICER ARRESTED.

A Captain Charged with Selling Military Secrets to Germany.

Special to The New York Times.

TACOMA, Washington, Dec. 30.—A sensation has been caused in Japan by the arrest of Capt. Nimura and a bank clerk on the charge of divulging military secrets to Germany.

It is said that Nimura caused an accurate copy to be made of a map showing the whole district occupied by the First Division of the Japanese Army, together with all the details of its organization. This map was turned over to the bank clerk, who employed a man in Yokohama to sell it to a German officer for a large sum. The plan was discovered before its consummation.

AN EMPEROR IS HUNT'S PARTNER.

Ruler of Korea Joint Owner in the Gold Mines at Usang.

Special to The New York Times.

TACOMA, Washington, Dec. 30.—Korean advices received to-day state that it has become known at Seoul that the Korean Emperor is a partner with Leigh Hunt of New York in his ownership of the gold mines at Usang.

Mr. Hunt was the first foreigner to obtain mining concessions in Korea. He went there eight years ago and obtained an audience with the Emperor himself before getting all he wanted. The scruples of the Government were overcome by transferring a portion of the capital stock to the imperial household which is receiving a share of the monthly profits.

THE LOSER ARRESTED, TOO.

Complained to the Police and Was Caught with Fifteen Other Men.

Samuel Stein, a restaurant keeper of 2,005 Second Avenue, and fifteen other men were arrested by Detectives Rosenfelt and Lewis of the East One Hundred and Fourth Street Station in a raid upon the restaurant Saturday night. Stein was arraigned before Magistrate Meade in the Harlem Police Court yesterday morning and was held in $500 bail for trial on the charge of keeping a gambling house. The others were discharged.

The police learned of the place through Abraham H. Bushman of 300 East One Hundred and Second Street, who called at the police station early Saturday night and complained that he had been swindled out of $4 in a game of cards at 2,005 Second Avenue. The police informed him they would investigate. Later in the evening the raid was made. Among the prisoners taken was Bushman. He said he had gone back to the place in the hope of recovering his money.

Will See His Third Century To-morrow.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, Dec. 30.—Abraham E. Elmer will to-morrow witness for the second time the birth of a new century and attain the distinction of having lived in three centuries. Mr. Elmer was born in Warren, Herkimer County, Jan. 26, 1782, and on his next birthday he will be 119 years old. He is in good health, his only affliction being blindness. He is still able to walk about his home and has a good appetite. Mr. Elmer uses tobacco freely and liquor in moderation. He ascribes his long life to heredity and regular living. Events which took place early in the closing century still remain fresh in his mind.

Will Have Lived in Three Centuries.

PATERSON, N. J., Dec. 30.—Mrs. Harriet De Hart, a negress, and her small circle of friends are making preparations to celebrate the unusual event of a person living in three centuries. Mrs. De Hart, who lives with Mrs. Lottie Benjamin, also colored, on Graham Avenue, claims the age of 118 years. She is yet keen of eye and quick of action, and her voice is firm and clear. She says life is still sweet to her, and she hopes to greet many another year.

Wave of Reform in Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, Dec. 30.—As a sequel to the recent moral reform wave, the faro banks in this city are closed to-night for the first time in months, in response to an order from the District Attorney's office.

With Horns Interlocked.

From The Kissimee (Fla.) Gazette.

While hunting on the St. John's last week, Messrs. L. P. Hughey and E. B. Griffin came across the bodies of two large bucks which had fought to a death finish, and lay with their horns tightly locked together. Each had pronged the other in the middle of the forehead. One was stone dead and had been attacked by buzzards, and the other still showed faint signs of life. The surface of the prairie for an area of a quarter of an acre around them was torn up, telling of the intensity of their mortal struggle. The horns, still locked, may be seen at Mr. Hughey's house in town.

GOOD YEAR FOR THE BANKS

Report of Superintendent Kilburn to the Legislature.

TENDENCY OF BANKS TO UNITE

Protest Against Proposed Tax on Savings Bank Deposits—Abuses in Building Associations.

ALBANY, Dec. 30.—State Superintendent of Banks F. D. Kilburn has completed the annual report of his department for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1900, and has forwarded the same to be submitted to the Legislature.

A strong protest against the taxing of savings banks deposits by the State is a feature of the report, which opens with the statement that the growth and prosperity of the institutions under the supervision of the Banking Department during the past four years has been unexampled and marvelous. The total resources of the institutions as shown by their reports as of the dates stated are as follows:

Banks of deposit and discount September 4, 1900	$351,080,252
Savings banks, July 1, 1900	1,037,869,160
Trust companies, July 1, 1900	796,383,887
Safe deposit companies, July 1, 1900	5,297,905
Foreign mortgage companies, January 1, 1900	5,230,422
Building and loan associations, January 1, 1900	66,034,789
	$2,262,002,415
In comparison with the previous year the gain is	$115,018,554

The report continues:

The foreign mortgage companies licensed to do business in the State have decreased in number as business has improved, interest rates gone lower and indebtedness diminished. The aggregate resources of the banks of deposit and discount, the savings banks, the trust companies, the safe deposit companies and the building and loan associations are larger now by more than seven hundred million dollars than at the date of of the first annual report which I had the honor to submit to the Legislature four years ago. Nearly one and a half million dollars of this gain has been made by the safe deposit companies, about eighteen millions by the building and loan associations, nearly one hundred millions by the discount banks, two hundred and thirty millions by the savings banks, and four hundred millions by the trust companies. The mere statement pictures forth a story of growth and prosperity which is both gratifying and impressive.

The year lacked, of course, the extreme activity and the unexampled movements which had obtained in the immediately antecedent months, and its course was largely one of waiting and adjustment. Enforced liquidation, which characterized a portion of the year, and a readjustment of several corporations which, through the extreme optimism of capitalists, had been overstocked, or organized upon a basis which sound judgment and conservative business experience alike should have condemned, resulted in a great shrinkage in security values as compared with the unprecedented and unwarranted prices which some securities, especially of the class known as "industrials," had reached.

This was attended by the wanton circulation of disturbing rumors and by malignant agitation and vicious attack upon one or two large financial institutions in the city of New York, from all of which escape without disaster could not possibly have been had had not the institutions subjected to the tension been inherently very strong and commanded public confidence. As it was, some repression was unquestionably felt and operations were for the time circumscribed. Then followed a Presidential campaign, wherein, upon one hand, alarming policies were threatened, constraining caution in investments and halting new enterprises until the result should be determined.

That all of these tests were borne by the banks and trust companies of the State, not only without the single failure or loss of a dollar by their customers through them, but with their condition as a whole actually improved at the close of the year, is exceedingly gratifying, and certifies their general soundness, and the usually prudent and safe management which they enjoy. It is gratifying also to be able to add that there has been no considerable loss, and indeed none at all as far as I have been able to ascertain, by defalcation in any State bank, trust company or savins bank during the year.

There continues to be manifested a tendency toward combination or consolidation of competing banks, especially in the more important financial centres. Besides actual merger or absorption as a means thereto, the method is employed of unifying interests by effecting a controlling ownership by identical parties in two or more separate institutions, which are thus made auxiliary or co-operative in their transactions, as occasion may arise. A few of the State banks in Greater New York are proceeding in a like direction by acquiring other banks by the process of merger, and then continuing them as branches, with satisfying results.

The Corn Exchange Bank has taken over four banks in this manner, and has, besides, two branches which it has opened independently. The Union Bank of Brooklyn recently acquired the Hamilton in the same borough, and is conducting it as a branch. The Bank of New Amsterdam, the Colonial Bank, the Hamilton Bank in New York, the Twelfth Ward Bank, the Brooklyn Bank, and the Bank of Jamaica, also, have opened branches, or are preparing to do so. Twelve branches in all had been opened to Sept. 30, and they reported deposits averaging nearly $1,000,000 each, while the gain in the resources of the parent institutions since they were opened aggregated $3,271,592. The system of branch banks is permissible under the law only to State institutoins, and to these nowhere outside of Greater New York, and only "for the receipt and payment of deposits, and for making loans and discounts to the customers of such branch offices only."

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE.

The number of savings banks in the State was decreased by one during the year, no new bank having been chartered, and the Fulton County Savings Bank having surrendered its charter after payment to every one of its depositors in full, with an extra dividend. The total resources of the savings banks increased $37,660,060.83 from January, 1900, to July, and there was a gain in the number of their open accounts of 54,645.

Mr. Kilburn makes the following recommendations:

Compelling incorporated banks to file their certificates of incorporation only in the offices of County Clerks and Bank Superintendents.

Striking out of Subdivision 4 of Section 25 of the banking law the implication that an officer of a savings bank may borrow money from the corporation with which he is officially connected, provided the Trustees thereof give their consent.

That every private banker, or any person, firm, or association receiving deposits, shall deposit with the Controller of the State or with the Superintendent of Banks bonds of the United States, or of the State of New York, or of some subdivision of the State, to the amount of $10,000, to be held in trust for the benefit of depositors with and creditors of the depositing banker, and to be surrendered only upon an order of court.

Subjecting personal loan associations to official examination and supervision, and reducing the charges they may make for loans so that their operations need not of a certainty intensify poverty.

A further recommendation is that Section 22 of the banking law be recast so as to show explicitly whether or not the law requiring publication of the reports of incorporated banks and individual bankers in the State paper is applicable also to the reports of trust companies, safe deposit companies, and building and loan associations.

Mr. Kilburn then makes his protest against the taxing of savings banks depositors by the State. He says:

If the Legislature is to consider this question of taxing the deposits in the savings banks it should approach it with the amplest and most reliable information obtainable, and particularly in regard to the mistaken assumption that the moneys held by these institutions consist largely of deposits by people of means. A more searching examination and analysis of accounts than has ever been attempted, or than is practicable, would be required to ascertain with precision the percentage of deposits which belong properly in that class, but from my knowledge of the policies which governs the management of most savings banks, and from such inspection as I have made of individual accounts, which almost uniformly show deposits in small sums only, indicating that they are actually savings and not investment funds, I am entirely satisfied that it is inconsiderable.

The effort to confine accounts in savings banks to the classes which may legitimately claim to be entitled to their service is, to my mind, a better treatment of the evil under discussion than to attempt to cure it by taxing such deposits out of the banks. With a simple additional restriction in the law it can, I think, be made thoroughly effective. There is at present no legal obstacle to prevent a single depositor from having accounts to the legal limit in each of two or twenty or a hundred banks. I do not beleive the practice thus suggested is common, but it should not be permitted at all.

In the attempt to stamp it out altogether I am ready to join with the officers of the banks and the Legislature in instituting and enforcing almost any measure of elimination or restriction. It might even be required that no bank shall accept a deposit exceeding some sum to be fixed by law unless the person offering it shall make and subscribe an affidavit declaring that such deposit would not make the aggregate of his credits in all savings banks more than $2,000, or such other limit as it may be thought best to establish.

BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS.

Mr. Kilburn again proclaims against the method employed by the so-called National building and loan associations, and asks for the passage of a bill giving him direct supervision over them. He alleges the following as some of the existing abuses:

The payment of free withdrawals and excessive salaries, the employment of high-priced agents, the renting of luxuriously appoined offices, speculating in real estate, that system of administration which practically ignores the mutual feature which is supposed to underlie all building and loan associations, the second-mortgage plan of investment, and, in short, ingenious schemes of all sorts which the framers of the law could never have contemplated, and which have grown up with, or out of, the so-called national system.

I contend that any financial undertaking which involves annual expenses exceeding 5 per centum of the total assets, or from 10 to 20 per centum of gross income, cannot long remain solvent, much less make money for its shareholders; and especially is this the case when there are added to the expense burden the inevitable losses which to a greater or less degree all financial institutions experience. And the large and expensively managed building and loan associations meet with greater losses comparatively, as a rule, than any other financial institutions under the control of this department.

REPORT ON MAINE BANKS.

Gain in Deposits and Assets Greater than the Average in the Past—Tax on Savings Banks.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 30.—The annual report of State Bank Examiner Fremont E. Timberlake shows there are 51 savings banks in the State, whose assets amount to $71,076,211; 17 trust and banking companies, whose assets are $13,295,402; 33 loan and building associations, whose assets are $2,862,178. This makes a total of 101 institutions of this class, with total assets of $87,233,793. This is a gain of one in the number of institutions reported and of $4,934,627 in their assets.

There is a gain of 11,428 in the number of depositors in savings banks, trust companies, and shareholders in loan and building association during the year, as against a corresponding gain of 9,927 in 1899. The returns show that favorable conditions have continued through the year, that these State institutions have made a decided gain both in deposits and assets, greater than the average in the past.

Mr. Timberlake believes that the future welfare and the good of the State generally calls for a reduction of the State tax on savings banks. He also says, in speaking of the trust companies, that some legislation in that direction is necessary as they are of recent establishment in this State and the laws touching upon them are but few.

REPUBLICAN CLUB ELECTION.

Opposition Ticket Headed by W. M. K. Olcott for President.

At the Republican Club last night, an opposition ticket was posted with the following list of candidates to be voted for at the annual election on January 21, 1901: President—William M. K. Olcott; Vice-Presidents—Charles H. Denison, E. A. Newell, Frank H. Partridge; Recording Secretary—Martin Saxe; Corresponding Secretary—Monte Cutler; Treasurer—J. Edgar Leaycraft; Executive Committee—Louis Stern, Charles H. Treat, P. C. Costello, William Einstein, A. H. Gleason, Henry C. Piercy; Committee on Membership—Herbert H. Gibbs, William Greenwood, Sinclair Tousey, Jacob Haistead; Finance Committee—Samuel Thomas, Anson G. McCook, Frank C. Loveland, Daniel O'Dell, and William C. Beer.

The twenty-five signers required for nomination of an opposition ticket are: Mortimer C. Addoms, George Clifton Batcheller, Lucien L. Bonheur, William Brookfield, Alexander Caldwell, J. H. Emory, T. St. John Gaffney, Henry Gleason, Alexander H. Hamilton, J. F. Hitchcock, Charles F. Homer, Francis E. Laimbeer, William Leary, Montague Lessler, Richard J. Lewis, Charles C. Maas, John Murray Mitchell, Frank Moss, Charles E. Patrick, James R. Sheffield, Lucius M. Stanton, Lepold Stern, Walter B. Tufts, Wilbur F. Wakeman, Charles Whitman.

Gen. H. C. Tremaine has been nominated for President by the regulars and a very hot fight is predicted.

DEMOCRATIC REORGANIZATION.

No Change to be Made in the National Committee, It is Said.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 30.—J. D. Johnson, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Democratic National Committee, who passed through this city to-day en route from Chicago to his home in Kansas, said:

"I am not in a position to say what will be done toward maintaining the Democratic organization perfected during the last campaign, but I will say that there will be no reorganization of the National Committee. The committee is organized until 1904, and will remain as it is until that time. I believe that the present precinct organization can be maintained and made entirely self-supporting."

Woman in Ill-Health Takes Poison.

Hattie Jackson, twenty-six years of age, who lived with Mrs. Matilda Mahle at 1,325 Avenue A, committed suicide yesterday morning by drinking paris green and water. There was no motive for the act so far as the friends of the young woman know, except that she was in poor health. Miss Jackson was a saleswoman in a large department store. Her family live in New Jersey.

Dr. Brown's Funeral in Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, Dec. 30.—The funeral of Dr. U. H. Brown, the well-known eye and ear specialist, who was found dead in New York City last week, was held this afternoon. Great crowds attended the services, which were in charge of the Knights of Pythias.

AT THE HOTELS.

WALDORF-ASTORIA—Robert Garrett, Baltimore.

CAMBRIDGE—Montgomery Blair, Washington.

HOLLAND—Jules Cambon, Ambassador from France to the United States.

NAVARRE—C. A. Murphy, United States Army.

IMPERIAL—Prof. W. C. Mount, University of Virginia; Dr. Thomas L. Stewart, University of Virginia; Count D. P. Sostlof, Imperial Russian Navy, Port Arthur, China.

GRAND—John B. Roach, Chester Penn.

SAVOY—Ex-Congressman L. D. Apsley, Massachusetts.

VICTORIA—Ex-Mayor W. H. Alexander, Omaha.

GILSEY—E. L. Breckinridge, United States Army.

ASTOR—Congressman Galusha A. Grow, Pennsylvania.

ARRIVAL OF BUYERS.

Representatives of Out-of-Town Firms Now in the City.

Porteous & Mitchell, Norwich, Conn.; J. Porteous, cloaks and suits; 57 White Street.

Smith & Murray, Springfield, Mass.; A. Leith, cloaks and suits; 57 White Street.

Martin, J., Gloversville, N. Y.; gloves; Hotel Navarre.

Howe & Stetson, New Haven, Conn.; Miss Klylan, gloves and handkerchiefs; 52 Franklin Street; Hotel Navarre.

Robinson, A. M., & Co., Atlanta, Ga.; A. M. Robinson, Jr., dry goods; Hotel Albert.

Foley, W. L., Houston, Texas; J. Foley, domestics; Hotel Normandie.

Conrad & Co., Boston, Mass.; S. S. Conrad, cloaks and suits; Criterion Hotel.

Posner Brothers, Baltimore, Md.; W. W. Frederick, notions and jewelry; Herald Square Hotel.

Strauss Brothers, Harrisburg, Penn.; W. Strauss, clothing; Herald Square Hotel.

Tootle, Wheeler & Motter, St. Joseph, Mo.; R. G. Wheeler, carpets, upholstery, and furnishing goods; 320 Broadway; Herald Square Hotel.

Garson, Meyer & Co., Rochester, N. Y.; T. Meyer, woolens; 722 Broadway; Hotel Navarre.

Witherill, L. A., Syracuse, N. Y.; dry goods; Hotel Imperial.

Levy Brothers, Louisville, Ky.; M. Levy, clothing; S. Levy, clothing; Hotel Imperial.

Frankel, Frank & Co., Kansas City, Mo.; D. Lyons, notions and millinery; D. Frankel, furnishing goods; 134 Spring Street; Hotel Marlborough.

Why Scott's? why not some other emulsion of cod-liver oil?

You are under-nourished; you can't get fat on a mere resemblance.

They look like Scott's, as to bottle and label—the bottle and label are nothing. Go by the contents; go by the name.

We'll send you a little to try if you like.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

POLICE BILLS AT ALBANY.

Six, Says Former Judge Cohen; but Two, Says Senator Platt.

While ex-Justice William N. Cohen has prepared five bills affecting the New York Police Department and says that a sixth is in contemplation, Senator Platt said last night that only two will be introduced in the next Legislature. These are for the single-headed Police Commission, which will be handed in on the first day of the session, and that creating a non-partisan Bureau of Elections. In each case the Commissioners are to be appointed by the Mayor and be removable on charges by the Mayor or the Governor.

Ex-Judge Cohen had a long conference with Senator Platt yesterday, and at its close refused to say anything concerning the provisions of any of the Police bills. Two of them are said to be the State Constabulary and the uniform police measures. The latter makes it mandatory upon the police officials of any city in the State to make arrests upon the request of officers of another municipality.

Senator Platt also said he knew nothing concerning the appointment of Major Davis of the Twenty-third Regiment, National Guard, New York, who is a Democratic office holder in Brooklyn, to a position on the military staff of Governor-Elect Odell. The appointment, it is said, was made on the recommendation of Major Gen. Charles F. Roe and will stand despite the protests of Lieut. Gov. Woodruff and other Brooklyn Republicans.

It is generally believed that Garret A. Benson of Albany will be made Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate. Senator Platt would not commit himself last night. He said he was keeping his hands off. Politicians say, however, that Benson will surely get the place, although Republican leaders from his own county are against him, but such influential Senators as Messrs. Ellsworth, Raines, Krum, and Brackett want him.

Senator Platt will not attend the inauguration ceremonies at Albany to-morrow, but will return to Washington on Wednesday.

Among Senator Platt's callers yesterday were ex-Justice W. N. Cohen, Senator Ellsworth, State Chairman George W. Dunn, and Robert C. Morris, President of the County Committee.

YESTERDAY'S FIRES.

(From 12 o'clock Saturday night to 12 o'clock Sunday night.)

12:35 A. M.—208 East Eighteenth Street; owner unknown; damage, $1,000.

1:10 A. M.—338 East Eighty-first Street; owner, Mary Keiser; damage, $10.

1:30 A. M.—372 Rider Avenue; owner, Ella J. Creamer; no damage.

2:50 A. M.—364 Grand Street; owner, Kuff & Co.; damage, $100.

4:30 A. M.—608 East Eighteenth Street; owner, Meyer Hellman; damage, $20,000.

5:15 A. M.—325 East One Hundred and Twentieth Street; owner, John Dehosfman; damage, $1,000.

6:20 A. M.—2,175 Third Avenue; owner, Manso Brothers; damage, $5,000.

12:15 P. M.—117 Greenwich Avenue; owner, William J. Clare; damage, $50.

12:45 P. M.—178 West Twenty-eighth Street; owner, Ernest Vechel; damage, $5.

2 P. M.—1,833 Lexington Avenue; owner, Samuel Wisansky; no damage.

3:15 P. M.—213 Hudson Street; owner, G. Lindo; no damage.

9:30 P. M.—553 West One Hundred and Eighty-second Street; James C. Byrne, owner; damage, $50.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

GRIFFIN, Ga., Dec. 30.—The brick warehouse here caught fire early this morning. Five hundred bales of cotton have been destroyed. The loss is estimated at $60,000. The cotton belongs to farmers, and the amount of insurance carried is not known. The City Clerk's and City Treasurer's offices were in the warehouse, and it is feared that all the city records have been destroyed.

Teachers for the Philippines.

MANILA, Dec. 30.—The Philippine Commission has added to the pending school bill a provision for the employment of 600 American teachers, at salaries ranging from $75 to $100 per month.

SHIPPING AND FOREIGN MAILS.

Miniature Almanac—This Day.

A. M.	P. M.	P. M.
Sun rises...7:24	Sun sets...4:43	Moon sets...2:42

High Water This Day.

A. M.	A. M.	A. M.
S. Hook...3:07	Gov. Isl'd...3:40	H. Gate...5:36
P. M.	P. M.	P. M.
S. Hook...3:36	Gov. Isl'd...4:00	H. Gate...5:56

Outgoing Steamships.

TO-DAY, (MONDAY,) DEC. 31.

	Mails Close.	Vessels Sail.
Mesaba, London	.....	.....
Princess Anne, Nortolk	.....	6:00 P. M.
Uller, St. Kitt's and Barbados	11:00 A. M.	1:00 P. M.
TUESDAY, JAN. 1.
Comanche, Charleston	.....	3:00 P. M.
El Monte, New Orleans	.....	3:00 P. M.
Guyandotte, Norfolk	.....	3:00 P. M.
Jaffa, Northern Brazil	3:00 A. M.	.....
Tauric, Liverpool	.....	.....
WEDNESDAY, JAN. 2.
Allianca, Colon	9:30 A. M.	1:00 P. M.
	*10:30 A. M.
Hamilton, Norfolk	.....	3:00 P. M.
Leon VIII., Genoa, &c.	.....	.....
New York, Southampton	6:30 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
Sabine, Galveston	.....	3:00 P. M.
Seguranca, Havana, Progreso, &c	12:30 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Teutonic, Queenstown	8:30 A. M.	12:00 M.
	*10:00 A. M.
THURSDAY, JAN. 3.
Antilla, Nassau	12:30 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
	*1:00 P. M.
Jamestown, Norfolk	.....	3:00 P. M.
Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, Bremen	6:30 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
La Gascogne, Havre	6:30 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
Mt. Vernon, Haiti and Inagua	9:30 A. M.	12:00 M.
Peninsular, Azores Island	1:00 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Phidias, Argentine Republic, Paraguay, and Uruguay	12:00 M.	2:00 P. M.
Prins Willem III., Haiti	10:00 A. M.	12:00 M.
Saratoga, Santiago, Nassau, &c	12:30 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
	*1:00 P. M.
FRIDAY, JAN. 4.
Iroquois, Charleston	.....	3:00 P. M.
Matanzas, Mexica, via Tampico	12:30 P. M.	3:00 P. M.
Princess Anne, Norfolk	.....	3:00 P. M.
Rio Grande, Brunswick, Ga	.....	3:00 P. M.
SATURDAY, JAN. 5.
Alene, Jamaica, &c	10:30 A. M.	12:00 M.
Astoria, Glasgow	10:00 A. M.	12:00 M.
Buffon, Northern Brazil, &c	8:30 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
British Queen, Antwerp	.....	.....
Concho, Galveston	.....	3:00 P. M.
Etruria, Queenstown	2:30 A. M.	6:00 A. M.
Fuerst Bismarck, Naples	9:00 A. M.	11:00 A. M.
Hildur, Curacao	9:00 A. M.	12:00 M.
	*9:30 A. M.
Jefferson, Norfolk	.....	3:00 P. M.
Martello, Hull	.....	.....
Minneapolis, London	.....	.....
Morro Castle, Havana	10:30 A. M.	1:00 P. M.
Norman Prince, Argentine Republic, &c	9:00 A. M.	11:00 A. M.
Pretoria, Hamburg	.....	6:00 A. M.
Proteus, New Orleans	.....	3:00 P. M.
San Juan, Porto Rico	9:00 A. M.	11:00 A. M.
Staatendam, Rotterdam	8:00 A. M.	10:00 A. M.
Trinidad, Bermuda	8:00 A. M.	10:00 A. M.

*SUPPLEMENTARY MAILS.—Additional supplementary mails are opened on the piers of the American, English, French, and German steamers and remain open until within ten minutes of the hour of sailing.

TRANSPACIFIC MAILS.

Mails for China, Japan, and Philippine Islands, via Tacoma, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Dec. 31, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Glenturret. Mails for Papeiti, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 1, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Australia. Mails for China, Japan, and Philippine Islands, via Seattle, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 3, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Riojun Maru, (registered mail must be directed "via Seattle.") Mails for Hawaii, China, Japan, and Philippine Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 3, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Peking. Mails for Australia, (except West Australia, which goes via Europe, and New Zealand, which goes via San Francisco,) and Fiji Islands, via Vancouver, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 5, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Warrimoo, (supplementary mails, via Seattle, close at 6:30 P. M. Jan. 6.) Mails for Hawaii, Japan, China, and Philippine Islands, via San Francisco, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 11, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Gaelic. Mails for China and Japan, via Vancouver, close here daily at 6:30 P. M. up to Jan. 22, inclusive, for dispatch per steamer Empress of Japan, (registered mail must be directed "via Vancouver.")

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

Postmaster Van Cott announces that mails from Australia arrived at Vancouver and were dispatched east Dec. 28. Due in New York on the morning of Wednesday, Jan. 2.

Incoming Steamships.

TO-DAY, (MONDAY,) DEC. 31.

Ardlethen, Rotterdam, Dec. 6.
Arkansas, Copenhagen, Dec. 2.
Astoria, Glasgow, Dec. 20.
Balilla, Gibraltar, Dec. 12.
Bristol City, Swansea, Dec. 15.
California, Glasgow, Dec. 20.
Caribbee, St. Thomas, Dec. 26.
Flaxman, St. Lucia, Dec. 22.
Guyandotte, Norfolk, Dec. 30.
Inchmarse, Algiers, Dec. 7.
John Sanderson, Sunderland, Dec. 3.
Kansas City, Queenstown, Dec. 17.
Lowther Castle, Glasgow, Dec. 14.
Moonstone, Huelva, Dec. 7.
Nomadic, Liverpool, Dec. 21.
Nor

A day of preparation for the great social holiday, then good-bye to the old year and the old century, and a glorious welcome to the new.

The store, of course, will be closed all day to-morrow.

Dress Corduroys

Velvet pile fabrics are deservedly popular. Scarce, too, we're told, though you would not think so to see this splendid assortment. Perhaps in greatest favor are the Corduroys. They make very stylish costumes. Nothing more effective can well be imagined than a suit of velvet-finish corduroy, in any of the new correct colorings. We have them—plenty of each:

Silver Gray	Mode	Beige	Beaver	Green
Stone Gray	Damson	Coquelicot	Cardinal	Black

The price is $1.10 a yard. Fourth avenue.

FUR COATS

Handsome garments for women, in a broad assortment. Furs upon which one may safely depend. Prices upon which one may safely rely as being very fair. The first item below is a positive bargain. The others, taken almost at random, fairly represent the value-giving throughout the splendid stocks.

Plain Electric Seal Eton Jackets at $30; were $37.50 and $45.
Persian Lamb Coats, plain, at $65 and $90.
Persian Lamb Coats, with collars and revers of chinchilla, at $125.
Genuine Seal Coats, at $200, $265 and $275. Second floor, Broadway.

Flarne WAISTS

There's wide variety here of these warm waists. You can choose anywhere among them and be sure of having a pretty stylish waist—a little prettier than ever before. Yet they are not elaborate. Just neat and cozy and stylish. Some are $1.50 each. They are in various shades, all attractively plaited and with dress sleeves. Others at $1.75—a better quality of flannel, but in about same style of making. At $2.25 are handsome waists with box plaits front and back, and polished steel buttons. Other styles up to $8.
Second floor, Fourth avenue.

Knit Underwear

A couple of specimen values that fairly represent these men's and women's stocks—honestly made, carefully finished goods—at very moderate prices:

For Men—

75c a garment—Heavy natural colored merino shirts and drawers; full sized; neatly trimmed; strongly finished.

$1 a garment—Mottled gray heavy merino shirts and drawers; the latter have re-inforced seats; 2 lengths of inseam; silk trimmed and finished.

For Women—

50c each—Ecru ribbed balbriggan vests; with long or short sleeves; drawers to match, with French band; side buttoned and drawing strings. Also heavy combination suits of fine cotton; sizes 5 and 6 only.

$1 each—Heavy cotton combination suits; button down front or across chest; silk trimmed throughout.

Broadway.

CLUB VELLUM

Nobody thought of trying to buy a refined, genteel correspondence paper at ten cents a pound until we accomplished the bringing out of Club Vellum. It was a marvel to the trade three years ago, and no attempt has been made to match it in these years. No other manufacturer—no other store is willing to make such a tremendous effort for such a little profit. So to-day Club Vellum stands alone in its field. A good body, excellent finish, for both appearance and writing on. Made in two shades, cream and azure; and in three popular sizes, Frances, Helen and Octavo. Price,

10c a pound
Envelopes, 15c a hundred

Balsam Fir Cushions.

Their fragrant, piney smell pervades that corner of the third floor which holds them. Close your eyes, and it's not hard to imagine yourself in the North Woods. We have just received a new shipment of these spicy cushions from the Adirondacks. Made up in three sizes:

14 x 14 in.	16 x 16 in.	18 x 18 in.
35c	45c	55c

Third floor.

Calendars at Half

Half the charm of a calendar for the New Year lies in putting it in commission on January 1st, in place of the one which has served you faithfully during the year just passed. So to-day is the day to buy a calendar, if any of your friends have been neglected hitherto. We'll help you by a price-concession of just half on the beautiful variety of calendars we've assembled for 1901. And prices were lower, originally, than usual elsewhere. 2c to $1.50; were 4c to $3. Main floor and Basement.

New Year CANDIES

Candies and toys for Christmas, but CANDIES for New Year's. Fresh, pure and delicious candies of every sort—some just from the factory to-day unless all plans fail. Freshest candy in New York, in any case—and there is none better anywhere.

60c, 30c, 20c a pound.
Salted Almonds, Glace Nuts, French Caramels, 80c a pound.
Glace Fruit, $1.50 for box of 5 pounds. Snapping Mottoes, 8c to $2 a dozen.
All sorts of dainty Table Decorations. Basement.

COFFEE POTS

They're of granite-ware, four-quart size, perfect, without blemish, and would be a good investment at fifty cents each. The secret of good coffee lies as much in the pot as in the bean—at this price there's no excuse for laying the blame for poor coffee on the pot. 25c each.

Formerly
A. T. Stewart & Co.

NEW COTTONS
Swiss and French

The most noteworthy display to-day is of the fine Robes that come from Switzerland. The daintiest Swiss muslins and batistes are exquisitely embroidered and trimmed with lace, the skirt being finished ready for the band, and sufficient material to match with which to make waist.

This hint of the range of prices:

From Switzerland—

At $18 a Pattern—Embroidered dotted Swiss Muslin, lace insertion.
At $20 a Pattern—Embroidered dotted Swiss Muslin, with Valenciennes lace trimming.
At $22 a Pattern—Embroidered dotted Swiss Muslin and lace insertion.
At $24 a Pattern—Embroidered dotted Swiss Muslin and lace insertion.
At $27 a Pattern—Mercerized Batiste with lace and embroidered insertion.
At $27 a Pattern—Embroidered fancy Swiss Muslin with Valenciennes lace flounce and insertion.
At $28 a Pattern—Mercerized Batiste, lace insertion and shirring.
At $35 a Pattern—Embroidered fancy Swiss Muslin, with lace and moire satin ribbon trimming.

From France—

At 37½c a yard—Printed fancy corded striped Muslin, in attractive floral designs, forming ribbon effects.

At 37½c a yard—Printed Pique, in some 40 of the favorite printings of polka-dots and stripes in white and black on colored grounds, and colors on white grounds.

Tenth street, near Rotunda.

FANCY CHINA and Glass

To-day's offering is an effort to make the old year clean up the fragments it has produced. This Fancy China and Bohemian Glass has figured in thousands of holiday presents, and now comes the housekeeper's opportunity to brighten her own home with these same dainty pieces, but at a third below the prices that ruled before the lines were broken:

Fancy China—

Several styles of decorations in a variety of shapes, which we will close out at a straight reduction of a third. This includes some of our best Austrian china decorations which are sold down to limited quantities. One decoration of festoon of flowers with gold, one with circle of rosebuds with gold; and several other pretty designs.

Salad Bowls were 85c; now 55c each.
Salad Bowls were 75c; now 50c each.
Salad Bowls were $1; now 65c each.
Celery Trays were 85c; now 55c each.
Celery Trays were $1.50; now $1 each.
Chocolate Pots were $1.50; now $1 each.
Cracker Jars were $1; now 65c each.
Sugars and Creams were $1; now 65c pair.
Olive Dishes were 25c; now 15c each.
Olive Dishes were 50c; now 35c each.
Olive Dishes were 75c; now 50c each.

Bohemian Glass Vases—

Richly decorated. Many of these are at half price. Some at two-thirds prices.

Vases that were 75c; now 40c.
Vases that were $1.25; now 65c.
Vases that were $1; now 50c.
Vases that were 35c; now 20c.
Vases that were 50c; now 25c.

China Store, Basement.

The VELVET SALE

There was rapid selling among those silks on Saturday. Most of the lots cannot be told of to-day—all gone. People who passed them by at $9 or $8 a yard found them far more beautiful when only $1.50 stood between them and possession of the silks. Seldom are such radical reductions made, even on left-over goods. Every piece is just right for some purpose, most pleasing to some taste, or it would never have been designed—never selected for our stock. The same is true of the Velvets; and in these the lots were larger; and they can still be bought to-day; also the Printed Silks.

The rest of the story is uncertain, and cannot be told in detail.

At $1, from $2—Printed Liberty Satin; navy blue on white, black on white, black-and-white on gray and on lavender.
At 65c., from $1.25 and $1.50—A lot of last season's Printed India Silks; lavender, gray, lilac and ciel.
At $1 to $6.50, from $3.50 to $14—A lot of French and German fancy Velvets; Panne Figure Satins, Chameleon Panne Velvets, Fancy Panne Velvet.
At $1, from $5—Plain Silk Velvets in off shades.
At $1, from $3.25—Plain colored Velvets in off colors.
At $1; from $2.25—Plain colored Velvets, in cerise, garnet, lavender, rose, yellow, violet.
At $1, from $1.50 to $5—Velvets in these colors—old rose, gray, blue, cerise and magenta.

Rotunda.

DRESS GOODS
Remnants at Little Prices

Evidences of the tremendous ante-Christmas selling. Literally thousands of short ends remain. The most desirable patterns in each of the many classes of goods, of course. Else they would not so soon have become remnants. The task of gathering up these ends is now completed, and their speedy distribution begins this morning. There's a splendid waist pattern, or a piece sufficient for an extra skirt—many large enough for a child's dress—to be had for half its actual value, in many cases. No remnant is marked higher than two-thirds regular price.

The remnants are in various lengths from 1½ to 4½ yards, and include serges, cheviots, diagonals, poplins, camel's-hair, prunellas, granites, homespuns, striped suitings, cloth plaids, cheviot plaids,

All at Half and Two-thirds Prices

Fourth avenue.

PENS and PENCILS
With Gold and Silver Mountings

These are hard-rubber goods with gold-plated mountings, sterling silver pencils, pearl pen holders with rolled gold mountings, and a number of other like articles that everybody likes to own. If you have a New Year's gift in mind you can fill it most appropriately from this lot; yet most of these articles will be taken quickly for the buyers' own use, when the remarkable prices are known.

They come from one of the most noted manufacturers, who quit business last year. The goods are of highest character, and perfect in every way, yet they came to us at most ridiculous prices—

A Third of Their Worth, and Less

The items and prices follow:

Silver Pencils, 50c, 75c, 85c, $1, $1.25 and $1.50.
Silver Tablet Pencils, 25c.
Pocket Thermometer Cases; sterling silver, with safety pin and chain attached, $1 to $1.75.
Pearl Pen Holders, rolled gold mountings, 25c and 35c.
Combination Pencil and Pen Holders, rolled gold, $1 and $1.25.
Rolled gold Pencils, 50c, 75c and $1.50.
Rubber Pencils, rolled gold mountings, 50c.
Combination Pen holder and Pencil; rubber with rolled gold mountings, 25c.
Slide desk Pen Holders; ebony with rolled gold mountings, 25c.
Ebony desk Pen Holders, rolled gold mountings, 15c.

Broadway and Tenth street.

Men's Clothing

Particular mention to-day of Prince Albert coats and vests. If there's one line in which we have greater pride than in another, it's this. So many men have felt that only a merchant tailor could properly fit a Prince Albert coat. But they didn't know Wanamaker's. Best workmen make our coats and vests. Experienced, conscientious salesmen insist in giving perfect fit.

Coats and vests of black Thibet, serge lined, at $20. Lined with silk, at $25.
Coats and vests of imported Vicuna, lined with excellent silk. Made like those for which custom tailors usually ask $60. Price, $35.
All-wool worsted trousers in new, tasteful patterns, at $5 to $8.
Second floor, Fourth avenue.

Boys' Clothing

The winter has been so unusually mild up to the present that, according to the law of averages, we may be fairly sure that real winter is yet to come. The word to-day relates of that sort of clothing with which to meet it. Heavy, durable, honestly put-together clothing—made and priced in the Wanamaker way:

Russian storm ulsters with hood, made of frieze, blue and Oxford, and lined with flannel; sizes 4 to 12 years. Price, $8.50—a very good value.
Chinchilla reefers, with fine velvet collar; lined throughout with all-wool and flannel; warm and serviceable; sizes 3 to 12 years. Price, $6.
Storm collar reefers of frieze; warm plaid lining; sizes 4 to 16 years. Price, $5.50.
Splendid suits of all-wool cheviots; trousers with double seats and knees; sewed throughout with silk; sizes 8 to 16 years. An excellent value at the price—$5.
Corduroy trousers for boys of 3 to 16 years, 95c.

Second floor, Fourth avenue.

Mattress Comfort

The French, among all nations, have probably achieved most completely the secret of comfortable beds. Care in the making of their mattresses is the chief reason for this. Comfort is the peculiar characteristic of this mattress, too, which conforms more closely to the French ideals than any we know of. It is made of long black drawings of horse-hair, with top and bottom of lamb's wool. It is laced, not tufted, with "imperial" stitched edges. Mattresses made in this way have no hollows or hummocks, but offer a soft, delightfully even surface to the weary. Covering is of art drapery ticking, and the mattress, full-sized, weighs 50 pounds. Made in one piece only. Price $37.50.
Fourth floor.

BLANKETS

Of assured excellence. Reduced in price. They all come from the best blanket makers—selected by a blanket expert. At original prices they were notable bargains. Read further of the better-than-ever advantages:

"The Raritan." Of white wool on cotton warp; 60x80 in.; 4 lbs. Were $2.50 a pair. Now $2.
"The Astoria." Excellent wool on cotton warp; all white; 70x82 in.; 5 lbs. Were $3.75 a pair. Now $3.
"The Chesapeake." All wool; 70x80 in.; 5 lbs. Were $5 a pair. Now $4.
"The Wissinoming." All wool, warp and filling; scarlet; 78x84 in.; 6 lbs. Were $7 a pair. Now $5.
"Princess Anne." Extra heavy; wool with light cotton warp; 82x86 in.; 8 lbs. Were $8 a pair. Now $6.

Third floor.

TOYS Reduced

Here's a noble chance for some fortunate little one to become possessor of splendid animals at much less—a quarter to a third less—than they would have cost the purchasers a few days ago. There are some games, too, that are slated for eviction at reduced prices.

Woolly Sheep, were $5 and $3; now $3 and $2.
Woolly Dogs, were $1 and 75c.; now 50c and 35c.
Crokinole Boards, were $1; now 75c.
Papier Mache Elephants, were $1.25 and $1; now $1 and 75c.
Chess India, were 50c and 25c; now 39c and 19c.

Toy Store, Ninth street, south side.

All Around the Store

Some large, snow-white Turkish Towels, very absorbent, 24x48 in., with fringed or hemmed ends, are splendid value at 25c. each. A new lot of huckaback towels, strictly pure linen, strong and heavy, especially adapted for hotel or boarding house use, are 12½c each.

Turkey Platters, in several sizes, and various handsome decorations, beautifully executed, have suffered a price-reduction of half. Always desirable, at their new price they offer an exceptional opportunity to the housekeeper.

Boys' Trousers. Two hundred pairs of all-wool trousers, made in the reliable Wanamaker way, are offered at 75c each.

Meat-juice Extractors. These convenient utensils furnish a safe, clean and easy way of extracting the juice from beef for making beef-tea for invalids and children. In various sizes, from 25c to $3.50.

Luxurious Capes of Irkutz Sable are reasonably priced at from $30 to $125, according to the length of the garment.

Women's 2-clasp Gloves of lambskin, soft and pliable, in tan, mode, gray, beaver, pearl and white, are splendid value at 75c a pair.

Favors for New Year dinner parties, and the holiday season festivities generally, a large assortment of original and tasteful table decorations and favors may be found in the Candy Store. Prices, 5c to $2.

Japanese Bronzes, comprising vases, incense jars, koros, and other artistic objects, are marked at prices below their value in order to hasten their departure hence. $1.25 to $300. Also handsomely carved teakwood stands, from $5 to $45, and ivories, in great variety, from $1 to $50.

Women's Jackets at $7.50. Only a few of them remain—all $12 values, at least, a good proportion worth $15. They're this winter's styles, mostly in kersey and Venetian cloth. All sizes in the lot, but not in each style.

Student Lamps. The comfortable reading lamp. Some of these mark a distinct departure from the stereotyped form. There are single, duplex and triplicate lamps, in old brass and bronze finish, and prices range from $6.50 to $35.

An Æolian Organ at a bargain. The Piano Store offers a Self-playing Æolian Organ, in Flemish oak, with cabinet to match, which was made to order, and about $200 worth of music—for $125. The cost of the whole was about $450. A splendid bargain, fully warranted.

Japanese Toilet Articles—Puff-boxes in different sizes, salve-boxes, soap-boxes, pin-trays and other objects, in red lacquer with gold ornamentation, are variously priced from 15c to $1.

Women's Neckwear. A collection of various pieces of women's neckwear, such as jabots, stocks and the like, which have become more or less mussed in the show-cases and on the shelves during the Christmas rush, are now scaled down to half their former prices.

Lillian Corsets. A few sorts in black and white sateen or coutil, which have dwindled down to small lots, have been newly priced to clear the way for the season's new arrivals, thus: Corsets that were $3.75 to $8.50 are now $1.75, $2.50, $3.50 and $5.

Wicker Handbags, for shopping and traveling, light but durable, ranging in size from small bags to dress-suit cases, with numerous intermediate styles, are 75c to $2.75.

Girls' Skirts, worth $6, at $4. They are of navy blue or gray mixed cheviot serge, trimmed with bands of silk; others plain with circular flounce around bottom; lengths 34 to 38 in. An unusual opportunity.

"Crepe Chameuse" is a Parisian novelty in dress fabrics. It is all silk, with a rich satin face and heavy twilled back. In spite of its firm texture, which prevents slipping at seams, it is pliable, clinging, with a soft sheen, and produces thus beautiful effects for evening wear. In delicate shades of ivory, heliotrope, pearl, rose pink, old rose, turquoise, ciel, light pink, Nile green and black. $5 a yard.

"French Reverings" are a new material for white waists. They are 41 inches broad, in a number of attractive patterns, ranging in price from 70c to $1.60 a yard.

Fancy Card Trays are an original foreign notion. They are composed of a mosaic of cigar bands, under glass, and with frame and back of glazed leather in red or black. $3.25 each.

Neckties Reduced. Some of the men's neckties, which have been excellent values at 25c apiece, but which are a little mussed from handling, are reduced to half price. 12½c each.

Children's Coats. The remainder of these beautiful coats, of fine cloth, velvet, and silk, including a few three-quarter length and Russian blouse coats, are now priced at $7.50 to $27.50, instead of $15 to $55.

Laundry Bags, attractively made of art ticking in various colors, with heavy drawing cord, are a great deal of comfort to buy for their little price, 25c each.

JOHN WANAMAKER

Broadway, Fourth Avenue, Ninth and Tenth Streets.

GOLF FOR NEW YEAR'S DAY

Interesting Contests Arranged by Many Local Clubs.

LAKEWOOD'S BIG TOURNAMENT

Staten Islanders Go to Atlantic City for a Team Match—Notes from Other Links.

Considerable golf activity is promised for New Year's Day, and nearly all of the local clubs have shown a decided tendency to usher in the twentieth century under the auspices of golf excitement and enjoyment. In the metropolitan district, the most elaborate plans have been made at Lakewood, where a two-day open tournament will begin this morning. The first sixteen will qualify in an eighteen-hole medal-play round, and they will finish the first match-play round this afternoon. The finals will come to-morrow. The Lakewood hotels were well filled with golfers over Sunday, and the field of starters this morning will be nearly as good as a month ago, in the annual Thanksgiving tournament on the same links. Findlay Douglas, who won both the prizes in the Saturday handicap, will be the most formidable competitor, for Walter J. Travis will probably not enter this event.

As there will be golf on other days this week beside New Year's, the programme is:

MONDAY, DEC 31.

Lakewood—Open tournament, medal play and one match-play round.

TUESDAY, JAN. 1.

Lakewood—Open tournament, finals and handicap.
Atlantic City—Team match with Fox Hills.
Nassau Country—Handicap for Class A and Class B players.
Dyker Meadow—Club handicap.
Richmond County—Club handicap.
Belmont Members' handicap.
Ardsley—Informal competition.
Van Cortlandt—Links open to the public.

FRIDAY, JAN. 4.

Lakewood Country—Mixed foursomes.

SATURDAY, JAN. 5.

Lakewood—Open handicap.
Lakewood Country—Men's handicap.

Local golfers are interested in the team match which will be played to-morrow on the Atlantic City links between that club and the Fox Hills Club of Staten Island. From twelve to twenty players will be on a side, and most of the Staten Island delegation went down on Saturday for a little preliminary practice. M. M. Singer will be the Fox Hills Captain, and among his cohorts will be George E. Armstrong, Louis Livingston, Jr., Lindsley Tappin, Charles H. Seeley, Charles Hitchcock, Jr., Bruce Price, John M. Ward, J. E. Bullen, W. C. Morrell, Alexander Holland, E. C. Talcott, P. A. Proal, W. L. Gunther, E. S. Knapp, Sumner Girard, A. K. Bournes, W. W. Lowrey, and I. T. Burden, Jr. Later in the season a return match will probably be held on the Fox Hills links.

Baltimore and Washington will not be oblivious to golf on New Year's Day. All the clubs in both cities have provided special events. At the Elkridge Hunt Club of Baltimore there will be a match and medal play tournament for both men and women to-day, finishing to-morrow. Sixteen men and eight women will qualify in the medal play round for the New Year's Cup in each class, and in addition there will be a twenty-teth century mixed foursome contest.

The Mound City Golf Club of St. Louis is pushing things right along for its ambitious world's championship tournament, which it hopes to hold in 1903. To give this the proper international tone, President George S. McGrew of the club has written to Secretary R. B. Kerr of the United States Golf Association, and to the St. Andrew's Golf Club of Scotland, for their sanction. In dubbing the event a world's championship, Mr. Kerr has received the request and he will lay it before the coming meeting of the association in February. President McGrew modestly states that as St. Louis is to hold the largest and finest world's fair ever seen, in 1903, it seems fitting that the first world's golf championship should be held there at the same time. Whether or not the foreign clubs will lend their aid to the undertaking is problematical.

The Mound City Golf Club is not yet a member of the United States Golf Association, but it will probably join at the next meeting. The officers, however, have just engaged James Foulis, professional of the Chicago Golf Club, to lay out an eighteen-hole course, and he will get it in shape after his return from Florida, where he will have charge during the Winter of the Tampa Bay links.

There will be skating as well as golfing to-day at Ardsley. The recent cold weather has frozen the big pond nicely, and the prospects are bright for a merrier day on New Year's than was the case on Christmas, when the skating enthusiasts were grievously disappointed at not finding any ice to glide over. Skating is always one of the big Winter features at Ardsley, and the moonlight parties on the ice are among the most enjoyable social entertainments of the season.

Baltusrol Wants Golf Championship.

Special to The New York Times.

SUMMIT, N. J., Dec. 30.—There will be an effort made by the officers of the Baltusrol Golf Club to secure the women's amateur golf championship for their links, and the fact that the decision last year was made as between Shinnecock and Baltusrol will be urged as one of the reasons why the latter club should be recognized. In order that the course may be in proper condition for the event, work has already been begun, and the new addition to the clubhouse is also receiving attention. Drawings are now being prepared, and in about two weeks the plans will be decided upon.

Yacht News of City Island.

Special to The New York Times.

CITY ISLAND, N. Y., Dec. 30.—The seventy-footer Rainbow arrived in the harbor from Bristol, R. I., and dropped anchor off the Hawkins yard. The Rainbow has been recently repaired at Herreshoffs' and launched to make room for the building of the new cup defender. The yacht will be hauled out and laid up for the Winter at the Hawkins yard, where her sister craft Mineola is already berthed.

At the Jacob yard, this place, indications point to a very busy Winter. The plans of a new keel yawl for Mr. Hyslop, the official measurer, have been received. The boat is from designs of Mr. Hyslop, and the dimensions are 47 feet 6 inches over all, 33 feet 7 inches water line, 10 feet 7 inches beam, and 6 feet 7 inches draught. The keel will contain 13,000 pounds of lead, and her interior plan and fittings will be similar to the sloop Audax. This makes the fourth yacht to be constructed at that yard before Spring, in addition to a number of smaller boats for the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club.

Anson Phelps Stokes's new centreboard sloop yacht Mermaid, at the Woods yard, this place, is nearing completion. The hull has been given a final coat of black paint, and the inside fittings are nearly completed. The Mermaid will be taken out of the sheds Monday and the work of rigging will begin. The rig will consist of a pole mast and short bowsprit to carry a low rig.

Indoor College Games.

The annual indoor athletic games of the College of the City of New York will be held at the Eighth Regiment Armory, Ninety-fourth Street and Park Avenue, next Saturday evening.

The closed events will be: Sixty-yard dash, 440-yard run, 880-yard run, high jump, one-mile run, one-mile bicycle, putting twelve-pound shot, and a relay race between the senior, junior, sophomore, and freshman classes.

The open events will be: Sixty-yard dash, 880-yard, (novice,) one-mile run, one-mile bicycle race, and a relay race for preparatory schools of New York and vicinity.

All events are handicapped. Entries must be forwarded to I. J. Hartmann, 1,301 Washington Avenue, or T. W. Langenbahn, 429 East Sixty-ninth Street.

Hurdler Klondyke II. Returns.

George B. Hill of Eatontown, N. J., who owns Klondyke II., the hurdle race horse, arrived on the Atlantic Transport liner Minneapolis yesterday. T. J. Donahue, his jockey, who rode the winner of the American Grand National, and who next season will ride for C. W. Wadsworth of Geneseo, accompanied him. Mr. Hill said that Klondyke II., with Donahue up, ran twice near London, once at Gatwick and once at Kempton Park. Both races were lost. He said that he had been offered a high price for the hurdler on the other side. He brought the horse across with him on the Minneapolis.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNING.

Athletes Follow the Trails in the Several Club Events.

Many teams were out yesterday on the local trails in the weekly cross country runs, and some sharp, spirited racing was witnessed. Over in Long Island City the Star Athletic Club held a big invitation run, that brought together a number of regulars, while representatives of the National Athletic Club, Brooklyn Athletic Club, Hamilton Athletic Club, Glendale Athletic Association, Atlantic Athletic Club, Montauk Harriers, competed.

The Montauk Harriers, composed of a number of well-known Brooklyn runners, held their first cross-country run yesterday from the clubhouse at Bay Ridge. There was quite an attendance of the members, and the harriers made good time over a six-mile trail. The course led down Fourth Avenue to the railroad cut; thence across lots to and about the New Utrecht farm lands, and back by way of the Shore Road and meadows to the starting point. The pace was fast all the way. John F. Gordon was first home, with Nelson Muller second, Henry McTighe third, William M. Brown fourth, E. French fifth, H. E. Richardson sixth, Henry B. Gannon seventh, and the rest straggling. Time—0:40:00.

Anthony J. McKeever was the winner of the National Athletic Club's run. William D. Wynne was second, William J. Kirkwood third, Peter Wend fourth, R. C. Wills fifth, and the rest strung out. Time—0:53:33.

There was a big turnout at the run of the Hamilton Athletic Club of Brooklyn. The runners covered a trail of some seven miles' extent. Ernest Williams was first, with T. J. Brady second, James H. Kenneth third, Walter Brown fourth, John McCarthy fifth, James J. Bennett sixth, and William J. Richards seventh. Time—0:56 11 1-5.

From the club grounds at Grand Street Park, Maspeth, the Brooklyn Athletic Club held a well-contested run. The course covered was about seven miles, and took in Corona, Newtown, Maspeth, Fresh Pond, and adjacent territory. Christopher J. Kenney, Captain of the club, surprised the boys by finishing in a hot sprint and beating out the crowd for first honors, with Bernard W. Dudley second, John C. Doyle third, Herman Classen fourth, and John McVarthy fifth. Time—0:51:48.

The invitation cross-country run of the Star Athletic Club was participated in by quite a representative gathering of athletes. The surprise of the day was the work of Leo Lawler of the Mohawk Athletic Club of Flushing, L. I., who finished up well and made a game run of it. He is the sturdy young athlete who captured the open run of the Wahneta Boat Club on Christmas Day, and looks like a champion cross-country runner. The Warlow Athletic Club of Whitestone, L. I.; Flushing Athletic Club of Flushing, Knickerbocker Athletic Club, Xavier, New West Side, Pastime, Star, and Long Island City Athletic Clubs were represented in the event. Two packs were started, the fast aggregation giving the slow pack four minutes' handicap. Samuel J. Tuomey of the Stars finished first, after a hot run with Lawler of the slow pack, the other placed men in this pack being T. J. O'Donnell, Star Athletic Club; F. J. Hussey, Star Athletic Club; J. J. Delehanty, Seventy-first Regiment Athletic Association, and J. H. Cohen, St. Bartholomew's Athletic Association. Time—0:26:51.

The fast contingent finished as follows: Owen Reilly, Star Athletic Club, first; J. E. Burns, Wahneta Boat Club, second; John Dowd, St. Bartholomew's Athletic Association, third. Time—0:24:32.

HARLEM OARSMEN ACTIVE.

Crews in Training Indoors and on the River—An Intrepid Swimmer.

Although there was a breath of Winter in the air yesterday, the weather was not too nipping for the Harlem navy oarsmen to go rowing, and several of the crews of the Harlem River flotilla took brisk spins on the river, while the warmly clad pedestrians and drivers along the Speedway shivered as the wind whistled past the rowers. Those of the crews who preferred to wait until the sun shines brighter before launching their shells staid indoors and indulged in handball. After the different matches at the various clubs have been decided and the respective champions in singles and doubles announced there will be an inter-club handball tournament for the championship of the river.

Although the various oarsmen appeared cold, they averred that it was not a frosty day, and one man, Carl Kelly of the Union Boat Club, found the day so summery that he took his annual dip and swam across the river. Most of the oarsmen, however, were quite satisfied to get no more submerged in the water than an occasional "crab" necessitated. Members of the Atalanta Boat Club were the first to appear on their float early in the morning. They quickly launched an eight-oared shell and took a lively row up the river for several miles, and then came back at a fast and snappy pace. The Atalanta eight was boated as follows: Bow, J. V. Randall; No. 2, "Jack" Dempsey; 3, R. Fensterer; 4, D. Brown; 5, P. Hoenack; 6, J. Hunt; 7, N. Westerfield; stroke, "Jack" Mulcahy; coxswain, A. Ennis. "Billy" Mulcare of this club was also on the river in a single shell.

Later in the morning the Union Boat Club bestirred themselves and sent a picked eight on the river, boated as follows: Bow, Alleman; No. 2, Herman Hjertberg, brother of the runner, "Ernie" Hjertberg; 3, Francis; 4, Effinger; 5, L. Scannell, 6, Rogers; 7, Connell; stroke, Kemp; coxswain, Webb. This crew rowed over the regular course at a lively clip. A four-oared shell was sent from the same club, manned as follows: Bow, W. Scannell; No. 2, Nonnebacker; 3, Kennelly; stroke, Lenahan. John Kemp and William Rogers accompanied the four in a pair-oared gig. Toward 5 o'clock the Atalanta Club sent out a gig four, composed of these men: Bow, "Jack" Dempsey; No. 2, J. V. Randall; 3, J. Hunt; stroke, N. Westerfield; coxswain, J. Mulcahy. The Dauntless, Nonpareil, Lone Star, Metropolitan, Crescent, and Harlem Clubs staid in their comfortable quarters, and either played handball or idled pleasantly.

Most of these clubs will begin active training work about the middle of January. The Atalantas expect, if it is possible, to have an eight on the water every Sunday during the Winter.

The Union Boat Club will hold its annual reception on Friday evening, Feb. 8. It was said at the Union Boat Club yesterday that the Columbia University 'Varsity and freshman eights would do as last year and again train from the Union Club's house until it becomes possible for the Blue and White oarsmen to use their own boathouse, at One Hundred and Fifteenth Street and Riverside Drive, when the Hudson calms down. The Columbia crews will, it is said, begin their preparatory training on Jan. 7, but the Union members did not know when the Morningside lads would commence work on the Harlem.

There is much rivalry and competition among the Harlem crews as to which will be the first on the water in the new year.

SEVENTH REGIMENT'S SHOOT.

Veteran Stein Won Diamond Badge for Best Score.

At the regular Saturday night shooting competition by members of the Seventh Regiment, on the rifle range in the basement of the regimental armory, Sixty-fifth Street and Park Avenue, bull's-eye contests practically monopolized the attention of the marksmen. The riflemen shot standing and prone. A. Stein of the regiment's veteran corps led the scores in the standing contest, while Sergt. A. Strauss of Company F made the best score, firing when prone. On the aggregate score, Veteran Stein won the prize, a diamond badge, offered for the greatest number of bull's eyes in both matches. The scores made were as follows:

BULLS' EYE STANDING.

First, A. Stein, Veteran, 10 bulls' eyes; second, W. H. Palmer, Lt., Co. G, 7; third, Lance Corp. W. B. Short, Co. D, 7.

BULLS' EYE PRONE.

First, Sergt. A. Stevens, Co. F, 19 bulls' eyes; second, Lieut. T. C. Wiswall, Co. F, 17; third, A. Stein, Veteran, 11.

Winner of the Diamond Badge, greatest number of bulls' eyes in both matches, A. Stein, Veteran, 20 bulls' eyes. Perfect score being the record.

SHARPSHOOTER.

Corp. G. A. Sacchi, Co. C.....	32	33	65

Basket Ball at Catskill.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Dec. 30.—The basketball team of the Sixteenth Separate Company last night at this place defeated the basketball team from the Twenty-third Street Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, by the score of 34 to 14. Rules of 1900 governed the contest. Thomas Smith of the Metropolitans was umpire and Mr. Kennedy of Poughkeepsie referee.

SPORT ON THE SPEEDWAY

Hontas Crooke Driven by C. K. G. Billings Shows Good Form.

TROTTERS AND PACERS BRUSH

Alice Barnes Led the Way in a Three Cornered Tilt with Franker and Teto.

There was no lack of good sport on the Harlem River Speedway yesterday morning, when the cream of New York City's trotting and pacing stock turned out in full force and flocked to the stretch ready to display their speed to the hundreds of spectators who were attracted by the bright, mild weather, and lined both sides of the roadway from Washington Bridge north to Dyckman Street, where the horses were started.

The chestnut pacer Hontas Crooke, 2:09, driven by C. K. G. Billings of Chicago, was at his best, and met all comers without suffering a defeat. This position was not an easy one to maintain by any means, for among those who challenged the pacer was the well-known and popular roan pacer Moth Miller, 2:07, driven by Dr. David Randall. After several warming jogs the pair turned together to a good start, and a nose-and-nose race followed to the quarter post, where Hontas Crooke gained a trifling lead, which he retained to the finish. David B., 2:09¼, the trotter, owned by J. W. Cornish, was started in the morning for the first time in several weeks, and showed some of his speed in a remarkably fast brush with Fairview, 2:09¾. They came down the stretch side by side, and everybody looked for a dead heat until David B. made a spurt within twenty-five feet of the finish, and won by a head.

One of the prettiest and fastest three-cornered brushes of the day was between Alice Barnes, the trotting queen of the Speedway, with a mark of 2:11½, driven by E. E. Smathers; Teto, 2:14½, driven by David Lamar, and C. K. G. Billings driving Franker. The start was a very ragged one, and the horses covered almost a quarter before they began to get together. Finally, Alice Barnes took the lead after a hot race with Franker, and crossed the line a half length in front, Teto was a half length behind Franker.

Ellert, 2:11, one of Mr. Billings's string, did some fast work with Gen. S. T. Cairns of Memphis, Tenn., handling the reins. After trotting a dead heat with Franker, Ellert was turned with West Wilkes, driven by Luke Burk. It was a good brush to the head of the stretch, where Ellert dropped his opponent and won easily. Fairview, 2:09¾, driven by J. P. Salter, came down the stretch with Hontas Crooke, who was being handled by Otto Schreyer. Fairview held on well and made an excellent race until he tried to pass Hontas Crooke. As soon as the latter caught a glimpse of Fairview he was away like a shot, and at the post had a length to the good. Richard B., 2:21¼, the chestnut trotter, driven by Charles Lloyd; Birdie R., driven by A. E. Thompson, and Hattie Walters, 2:22½, driven by George Coleman, had an interesting go, in which Birdie R. led the way home, with Richard B. a good second, Hazel, 2:26½, driven by J. C. Balsley, did some fast work in the stretch and took Teto, driven by David Lamar, into camp. Alice Barnes and Queen Wilkes, driven by George Spear, had several tilts, with honors about even.

The blind pacer Hopeful, 2:21½, driven by F. E. Durando, led the black gelding Dix, 1:16¾, and Edward W., driven by Elmer Stevens, home, after a hard race.

The crowd was anxious to see a race between Moth Miller and Hontal Crooke, and both drivers assenting, the horses were jogged up and turned to a good start. For a quarter it was a pretty a race, but just as Moth Miller attempted to close the gap that separated him from his opponent, he broke, and spoiled his chances of winning. On the next trip down, Moth Miller was started with Red Lawn, 2:16¼, who held on for a quarter and then fell a length behind. Mahlon, 2:14¾, driven by Charles Reilly, was in remarkably fine form, but seemed to be unfortunate, losing several brushes by slight margins. This was the case in a fast brush with Ed Lock and one with Little Coaster, driven by T. Timmons. Oscar, 2:20½, driven by M. Zahn, had a trifle too much speed for Richard B., 2:21¼, driven by Charles Lloyd. Birdie R., Barney Kirkland, Oscar, and Harry Davis, were started in a brush that proved a lively one from start to finish, and was won by Birdie R., who was only a head in advance of Barney Kirkland, while Oscar was a close third. Mahlon won a very creditable victory over Fairwind.

As a grand finale to the morning's sport, Alice Barnes, with E. E. Smathers driving, Franklin, with C. K. G. Billings handling the reins, and Teto, driven by David Lamar, were jogged to the head of the stretch. After several false starts, they were finally got away on fairly even terms, with Franklin in the lead. Before the first quarter had been covered, all three horses were even, and they came down the stretch under the whip three abreast. It was either horse's race until Alice Barnes made a spurt that placed her a half length in the lead. Franklin was game, and made a desperate spurt to recover the lost ground, but before he could accomplish this the Queen of the Speedway had crossed the line a winner by a length.

KINGSTON HEADS THE LIST.

Famous "Brown Whirlwind," Now in Private Service, Leads the Winning Stallions.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 30.—For the first time in ten years the leading winning stallion of America is owned by a strictly private breeding establishment. Castleton Farm belonging to Millionaire James R. Keene & Son, a firm which breeds its horses to carry its racing colors and not for the market. The breeding triumphs of this firm in 1900 are as brilliant as were the records made upon the turf by their winning stable both in England and America during the season just closed. They not only own the mighty Kingston, who heads the winning list, but they also owned the dead Domino, whose get are second, and thus outstrips all the other great star sires of the American breeding world. Such a triumph has never come to any breeding establishment, either public or private, since the brilliant days of Woodburn, two decades ago.

Kingston, although as a turf performer he ranked second on the list of winning American horses and earned $142,562 in the '89 races won, had a hard time to find a home in the stud. He was first purchased by Belle Meade Farm, but upon going to New York to settle for him and ship him to Tennessee, Gen. Jackson was informed by M. F. Dwyer that he proposed to race Kingston another year, and the trade was declared off. Then Milton Young of McGranthiana secured the refusal of him, but that trade also fell through. Finally the grand horse reached Kentucky under the care of Eugene Leigh, and through Leigh the Messrs. Keene, who bred Kingston and sold him as a colt, ultimately bought him. To-day his value cannot be estimated, and his owners, as a protection to their interests, carry a $75,000 life insurance policy on him in a London company, which makes him the most heavily insured horse in the stud in America.

Kingston's get first appeared on the turf in 1898, his oldest son or daughter now being four years old. The following table shows the winnings of his get each year, in the three seasons below summarized, he having furnished the turf with forty winners, that have earned $214,195 in stakes and purses on the turf:

KINGSTON'S STUD WINNINGS.

Year.	Largest Winner.	Amount Won.	Total Amount Won.
1898	Klogdon, $21,325		$26,899
1899	Admiration, $18,540		67,023
1900	Ballyhoo Bey, $40,240		116,303

Kingston's largest winner in 1900, as noted in the previous table, was the Futurity winner, Ballyhoo Bey, the Belmont Stakes winner, Indrim; being second on the list. Third comes The Lady, who also bears the distinction of leading all three-year-olds of 1900 in the number of races won, and her mark of twenty-one wins in a single season is also a world's record for a three-year-old filly in races won. King's Courier, who is next in line, scored his winnings in England, and was afterward sold at auction for $26,520, the highest price ever paid in England for an American-bred three-year-old. The following table gives the record of the winnings of the five best of Kingston's get in 1900, and even without the amount earned by King's Courier in England he still leads the list of American winning stallions of the present:

KINGSTON'S PRODUCE IN 1900.

Name.	Times Starred.	Times First.	Times Second.	Times Third.	Amount Won.
Ballyhoo Bey	3	2	..	1	$40,240
Indrim	11	3	2	2	19,780
The Lady	48	21	14	7	12,700
King's Courier	6	5	..	1	7,891
Vulcain	27	0	7	3	5,630

Thirty-four other horses by Kingston won 63 more races, bringing the total of races won up to 110, and the total amount of money won to $116,388.

MARCUS DALY'S HORSES HERE.

Bitter Root Farm Brood Mares Reached Morris Park Yesterday for Big Dispersal Sale.

From a special train which reached the Morris Park race track yesterday morning, all the brood mares and horses in training from the Bitter Root Stud Farm, at Hamilton, Mon., the property of Marcus Daly's estate, 170 head in all, were unloaded. They were quartered by Track Superintendent Gorman in the several large barns at the head of the Eclipse Course, to rest until the date set for the dispersal sale of the Daly breeding establishment, Jan. 30 and 31 and Feb. 1, in Madison Square Garden. The shipment was made by the Fasig-Tipton Company, horse auctioneers, who will conduct the sale, when all the thoroughbred stock of the great and famous Bitter Root Farm will be put on the market. The horses were shipped from the Daly farm a little more than a week ago, and made one stop on the way to New York, when at Galesburg, Ill., they were unloaded and permitted to rest to break the severity of the long journey.

This morning another special train will unload the eight splendidly bred stallions of Bitter Root, these having been separated from the mares when shipped, for greater safety and convenience. The stallions, which also will be quartered at Morris Park until the date of the sale, are the great race horse Hamburg, for which Mr. Daly paid $40,000, and the best two and three year old of his time; Tammany, the most famous three-year-old in a year that produced many remarkable horses; Ogden, winner of a sensational Futurity, and a good race horse afterward; Inverness, Isidor, Bathampton, The Pepper, and Butte.

Of the lot that reached New York yesterday, ninety-two are brood mares, and the others are horses in training, twelve of whom will be three-year-olds to-morrow, and sixty-six of which then will be two-year-olds. Among the coming three-year-olds are several highly tried and promising colts, including a brother to the mighty Hamburg, while the coming two-year-olds are about the best bred and most even lot of young race horses ever offered in such a sale. Of the brood mares, thirty-one have been bred to Hamburg, these including Laetitia, dam of the Futurity winner, Chacarnac; Pettie Blaise, dam of Bannockburn; Ella Gregg, dam of Mosley; Isis, dam of Isidor, and Shipmate, dam of First Mate. Fourteen each have been bred to Ogden and Isidor, twenty-six to Bathampton, ten to The Pepper, and one each to St. Angelo, son of Galopin, Trenton, son of Musket, and Scottish Chieftain. Other mares in the collection that have won fame either on the turf or in the stud, are Casseapia, Annot Tyle, Ayrshire Rose, Walnut, La Trappie, Bean Catcher, Kite Foot, Berridale, Castalia, Drusilla, Fleur d'Or, Oriole, and Meridee. The sale, in the number of horses offered, aside from the excellence of the individuals, will be the largest ever held in America.

Race Horses at Lakewood.

The completion of P. S. P. Randolph's new training track at Lakewood, N. J., has caused quite a number of changes in the arrangements of New York turfmen concerning Winter quarters for their horses, and already the Randolph stable has plenty of company on the new course. W. L. Oliver and W. C. Rollins were among the earliest trainers to take advantage of the chance to work their horses over the track, which is a six-furlong oval, with easy turns, and though Lakewood first found favor as a place for wintering race horses only a few seasons ago, it is rapidly growing in popularity. Other stables quartered near the old Long Branch track are those of Louis Stuart, F. Midgeley, Perry Belmont, B. Littlefield, and Gideon & Daly.

Racing Dates for St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 30.—Racing will be resumed at the St. Louis Fair Grounds on May 11 to continue for ninety days, the limit fixed by the Missouri Breeders' law for any single track. Although the Turf Congress permits the St. Louis course to be open on April 1 the State law does not. It fixes the opening of the season at April 15, and the close at Nov. 1. This gives St. Louis 171 days of actual racing.

$50,000 Offered for Charley Herr.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 30.—"Uncle Davy" Cahill, who advertised for sealed bids for the trotter Charley Herr, will open the bids to-morrow and announce the result. He will not intimate what has been offered him, and may to-morrow reject all bids. He has been offered $50,000 privately for the horse.

Notes for the Wheelmen.

The annual assembly of the League of American Wheelmen will be held in Philadelphia on Feb. 13.

The Islip, L. I., Board of Highway Commissioners has approved the construction of a new cycle path on the main road between Bay Shore and Islip.

During the past season over 150,000 side-path tags were sold in this State, which shows that cycle road riding still retains a good measure of popularity. The price of these tags was 50 cents, excepting in Monroe County, where they were sold for half that price.

The St. George Wheelmen at their annual meeting elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President—J. Sainsbury; Vice President—William J. Mills; Recording Secretary—J. George Payne; Financial Secretary—I. Grocott; Treasurer—Dr. E. V. Brenden; Executive Committee—Dr. J. E. M. Lordly, I. Grocott, F. G. Hayward, W. Driscoll, C. Chapman, J. Scott, and H. W. Robinson; Captain—F. G. Hayward; First Lieutenant—J. Dexter; Second Lieutenant—J. Scott; Sergeant—W. Wilson; First Colorbearer—Charles Smith; Second Colorbearer—Al. Smith; Surgeon—Dr. J. E. M. Lordly.

AMOS J. CUMMINGS BETTER.

Inflammation of the Congressman's Broken Ankle Reduced.

Congressman Amos J. Cummings, who is confined to his home, 32 Charlton Street, with a broken ankle, was reported last night as resting comfortably. The inflammation was much reduced.

Mr. Cummings fell from his bicycle near New Haven on Saturday morning. He had been on a wheeling trip since Christmas. As he was nearing New Haven his wheel slipped and he was thrown to the ground. His leg was bent under his body and the right ankle fractured. After the injury was dressed he was brought to his home in this city.

SUMATRA TOBACCO CULTURE.

Successful Growth May Be Confined to Florida and Connecticut.

The publication of the successful results of the experiments conducted by the Division of Soils of the United States Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the Conuectiut Experiment Station, in the production of Sumatra tobacco near Hartford, and the subsequent sale of the crop to a Kansas City firm, has caused widespread intsrest in the experiments among tobacco men.

Numerous communications on the subject have been received by the department, and two suggestions made as to the manner in which the tobacco should have been disposed of. The first was, that tobacco leaf grown by the Government should not have been sold, but should have been distributed in small quantities to dealers in leaf tobacco and other interested persons. The other was that if it had to be sold, it should have been auctioned off at New York, Philadelphia, and other points, so as to give all leaf dealers an equal chance.

In reply to these communications and suggestions, Prof. Milton Whitney, chief of the Division of Soils, states that the tobacco was grown by, and was the property of the Connecticut Tobacco Experiment Company, which is virtually a State experiment station, and was sold by the company, the department having no rights in the matter. The crop was merely grown under the direction of the department.

Prof. Whitney thinks the proposition to sell at auction at a number of places is a good one, and says if the work is continued next year, and a larger crop is to be handled, this method of disposing of it should be adopted, and doubtless will be by the Connecticut people.

Growers are again warned against attempting to grow this tobacco except where there is a reasonable chance of success. So far as known, the successful growth of Sumatra will be confined to Florida and Connecticut.

ON LOCAL BOWLING ALLEYS.

Schedule of Games Shortened by the Omission of Two Nights' Contests.

As was the case last week, the local bowling schedule for the coming week is lightened by the omission of all games on the first two bowling nights of the week. In the Harlem League tournament, the games scheduled for Wednesday evening will also be omitted, to make place for the final match for the championship of Manhattan, which will be rolled on Thum & Kahlsdorf's Harlem Palace alleys on that evening, between the Harlem League team, winners of the east side championship, and the National League five, winners of the west side championship.

The first game will be called at 8:15, and an entrance fee of 25 cents will be charged, the entire proceeds to be used in defraying the expenses of the New York delegates and teams which will represent this city at the National Bowling Congress and Championships, at Chicago next week.

The schedule for the week in the principal local tournaments is as follows:

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 2.

National Bowling League—Corinthian and Germania Bowling clubs. Starr's alleys.

American National Tournament—Arlington, American Owl, and Orchard Bowling clubs. Thum's Germania alleys.

North Side Bowling League—Tremont and Clermont Bowling clubs. Pump's North Side Palace alleys.

Commercial Bowling League—Passavant & Co., J. Wild & Co., and Mason & Hanson. Cadieu's Monarch alleys.

Greater New York Bowling Tournament—Manhattan, Spartan, and Empire Bowling clubs. Thum & Ehler's Palace alleys, Brooklyn.

Brooklyn Royal Arcanum Bowling League—Dauntless, Fraternity, and Iolanthe Councils. Trainor's alleys, Brooklyn.

Final match for championship of Manhattan between National and Harlem Leagues. Thum & Kahlsdorf's Harlem Palace alleys.

THURSDAY, JAN. 3.

National Bowling League—Spartan Bowling Club and New York Athletic Club. Starr's alleys.

Columbia Bowling League—Audubon, Belvidere, and Cyclone Bowling clubs. Schlusing's Columbia alleys.

Harlem Bowling League—Morris Club and Hyperion Bowling Club and Harlem Wheelmen. Thum & Kahlsdorf's Harlem Palace alleys.

American National Tournament—Germania, Palace, and E. M. Bowling clubs. Thum's Germania alleys.

North Side Bowling League—Home City and Liberty Bowling clubs. Pump's North Side Palace alleys.

Commercial Bowling League—American Woolen Company, S. Oppenheimer & Levy, and Calhoun, Robbins & Co. Cadieu's Monarch alleys.

Fire Insurance Bowling League—Northern, Caledonian, Hanover, Norwich-Union, Phenix, Liverpool and London and Globe, and German-American Fire Insurance Companies; Lloyd's Plate Glass Insurance Company, and New York Fire Underwriters' Agency. Arnd's alleys.

Twelfth Regiment Bowling League—Field and Staff and Company I. Armory alleys.

Brooklyn Bank Clerks' Bowling League—Franklin Trust Company, Sprague National, and Williamsburg Savings Banks. Knubel's Fulton Street alleys, Brooklyn.

Associated Cycling Clubs of Long Island Bowling Tournament—Bushwick, Orient, and Twenty-sixth Ward Wheelmen. Thum & Ehler's Palace alleys, Brooklyn.

Brooklyn Royal Arcanum Bowling League—Commonwealth, Gilbert, and Brooklyn Councils. Trainor's alleys.

FRIDAY, JAN. 4.

National Bowling League—Fidelia Bowling Club and Our Council, Royal Arcanum. Starr's alleys.

Columbia Bowling League—Empire City and Wang Bowling Club and Yonkers Council, Royal Arcanum. Schlusing's Columbia alleys.

Harlem Bowling League—Lotus, Friendship, and Audubon Bowling Clubs. Thum & Kahlsdorf's Harlem Palace alleys.

American National Tournament—Empire, Spartan, and Arlington Bowling Clubs. Thum's Germania alleys.

Commercial Bowling League—Edison Electric Company, Mason & Hanson, and Hoeninghaus & Curtis. Cadieu's Monarch alleys.

Greater New York Bowling Tournament—Roll off of ties and postponed games. Thumm & Ehler's Palace alleys, Brooklyn.

Brooklyn Royal Arcanum Bowling League—Long Island, Adirondack, and Bedford Councils. Trainor's alleys, Brooklyn.

SATURDAY, JAN. 5.

Twelfth Regiment Bowling League—Non-Commissioned Staff and Company E. Armory alleys.

Brooklyn Royal Arcanum Bowling League—Long Island, Pro Patria, and Burnside Councils. Trainor's alleys.

Newspaper Bowling League.

The first games in the third annual tournament of the Morning Newspaper Bowling League will be rolled on Thum's Germania alleys on Wednesday afternoon. The complete schedule is as follows:

Jan. 2, Times vs. Journal; Jan. 4, Herald vs. Bulletin; Jan. 9, Tribune vs. World; Jan. 11, Journal vs. Herald; Jan. 16, Bulletin vs. Tribune; Jan. 18, World vs. Times; Jan. 23, Herald vs. Tribune; Jan. 25, Journal vs. World; Jan. 30, Times vs. Bulletin.

Feb. 1, Tribune vs. Journal; Feb. 6, Herald vs. Times; Feb. 11, Bulletin vs. World; Feb. 13, Times vs. Tribune; Feb. 15, Bulletin vs. Journal; Feb. 20, World vs. Herald; Feb. 21, Herald vs. Bulletin, Times vs. Journal; Feb. 27, Tribune vs. World, Journal vs. Herald.

March 1, Bulletin vs. Tribune, World vs. Times; March 6, Herald vs. World; March 8, Times vs. Bulletin, Tribune vs. Journal; March 13, Bulletin vs. World, Herald vs. Times; Feb. 15, Bulletin vs. Journal, Times vs. Tribune; March 20, Herald vs. Tribune, Journal vs. World.

DISBARRED LAWYER PARDONED.

Governor of Michigan Restores Legal Standing to Charles R. Mains.

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 30.—Gov. Pingree has pardoned Charles R. Mains, a Battle Creek lawyer, who brought the pardon to the Secretary of State's office from Detroit last evening.

About two years ago Mains used language derogatory to Judge Clement Smith, whom he accused of a conspiracy to ruin him. He was given a hearing in the Supreme Court on a charge of contempt and was disbarred. Gov. Pingree, in granting the pardon, says that Mains was not given an opportunity to prove the truth of his charges and that he has suffered great loss in being deprived of the right to practice his profession.

This is the first time in the history of the State that a pardon has been issued to an attorney disbarred from practicing law and the courts may not recognize its validity.

ANTHRACITE COAL TRADE.

Vigorous Work at the Mines and a Large Output.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.—The Ledger in its coal article to-morrow will say:

"The anthracite coal trade is concluding the year 1900 with the vigorous working at the mines and large output which have characterized recent weeks. While the Christmas holiday season has interfered somewhat in different localities, yet this has been a minimum, and the work has been pushed to a point rarely reached at this season. The unusually good weather for December has also favored both the mining and shipping of coal, and it is being forwarded to market as rapidly as the railway facilities will permit.

"Shortness in the supply of cars is still complained of in various places, and most of the companies are finding it necessary to enlarge their equipment. This vigorous working is expected to go on as long as the weather permits, for the market is readily taking all the coal sent down from the mines and would absorb more."

PORTRAIT OF MARSHALL FOUND.

Authentic Painting of the Great Jurist Discovered in Illinois.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Though lost and forgotten for nearly a quarter of a century, an authentic portrait of Chief Justice John Marshall of the United States Supreme Court has been discovered. For twenty-two years the portrait has hung in the home of H. M. Underwood, Waukegan, Ill., and not until Adolph Moses, an attorney, began the agitation for an observance by the legal profession of Feb. 4 as John Marshall Day was the location of the long-lost portrait discovered.

The discovery of the portrait is rendered the more valuable because of the fact that so few really authentic portraits of the great jurist are extant. The picture, too, shows the Chief Justice in a new light. The expression of the recognized portrait, engraved copies of which are to be found in nearly every law office throughout the country, is absent, and instead it brings out the rugged strength of the features. Another difference is the presence of his spectacles pushed high up on his forehead.

The newly discovered picture is done in oils by E. L. Hammond, one of the leading artists early in the century. It is partly a reproduction of a picture by Harding for which Chief Justice Marshall sat in 1828, and it was finished in 1833. It was complet

The New York Times.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

PUBLISHED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR.

NEW YORK, MONDAY, DEC. 31, 1900.

OFFICES:

NEW YORK:
Publication Office.....41 Park Row
All American District Telegraph Offices.
WASHINGTON.....515 Fourteenth St.
SWITZERLAND, Geneva: P. Drehmann, Librairie Nouvelle, Rue du Mont Blanc.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

BY MAIL, POSTAGE PAID.

DAILY, per Month.....$0.50
DAILY, per Year.....6.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, per Year.....7.50
SUNDAY, per Year.....1.50
MONDAY, with Financial Supplement, per Year.....1.00
DAILY AND SUNDAY, per Month.....0.65
THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW, per Year.....1.00
For postage to foreign countries add 50 cents per month.

TWELVE PAGES.

with

Financial Review and Quotation Supplement.

THE FUTURE OF FOREIGN TRADE.

In the opening year of the century that passes to-day, THOMAS JEFFERSON, President of the United States, wrote to his old friend in Paris, DUPONT DE NEMOURS: "We are an agricultural people, poor in money and owing great debts." This humble, but perfectly true, statement was made in pursuance of a plan JEFFERSON then had to purchase from France the island at the mouth of the Mississippi and some land on the eastern bank, in order to secure the navigation of the mighty river and an outlet on the Gulf of Mexico, which we then held only by treaty with the very tricky and untrustworthy Government of Spain. He was pleading poverty as an excuse for not offering more for what, nevertheless, he asserted was "so indispensable that we cannot hesitate one moment to hazard our National existence" to secure and maintain it. At that moment the Republic nowhere touched the Gulf, and its slight foreign commerce was carried on from ports north of Charleston and was mostly confined to the islands of the West Indies.

Within a few days of the close of the century we have had occasion to publish evidence from the three principal business centres of Europe that a serious concern prevails on the Continent lest the manufactures of the United States shall invade the markets not merely of what we have been used to call the "Old World," but also the undeveloped markets of the still older world of the Orient, in which Europe and Great Britain are contending for an outlet. M. PAUL LEROY BEAULIEU, the leading economist of France, writes to an Austrian journal, proposing a commercial union of all the countries of Europe to establish free trade within their borders and to protect their industries by import duties on American products. In Berlin the chief financial organ complains that the very goods for which Germany used to find profitable sale in the United States are now being brought from America, and are selling at less than the cost of home manufacture. From the most conservative journal of England, The London Times, comes the frank admission: "It is useless to disguise the fact that Great Britain is being outdistanced. * * * The threatened competition in markets hitherto our own comes from efficiency in production such as never before has been seen," noted by The London Times.

Clearly we are very, very far from the stage of development at which JEFFERSON described us as "an agricultural people, poor in money and owing great debts." Great debts we have, but they are small in comparison with our wealth. The assessed value of the City of New Orleans is greater than the sum JEFFERSON paid for the vast Louisiana Purchase, and the surplus revenue of the United States Treasury for last year exceeds the amount paid for all the territory from the Gulf to British Columbia and from the Mississippi to the Pacific. Our agriculture surpasses in productiveness the wildest expectations of the men of JEFFERSON'S day, and its annual product is easily over $3,000,000,000 in value; but the wages paid in manufactures exceed even that vast sum, and the products of manufactures are fully four times as great. For these products we have only lately sought foreign markets. The most significant fact as to the great leap forward we have recently made is that it is not due to the efforts of a people crowding the limits of its own territory. It is due to the energy of a people with great areas of thinly populated territory and with almost incalculable resources still undeveloped. Our competition with the nations on the other side of the Atlantic is literally that of lusty and growing youth with relative old age. And the assurance of the future is the secret of the immediate past. It is the "efficiency in production such as never before has been seen," noted by The London Times.

It would be foolish to think that this brilliant prospect will remain always unclouded. Reaction is sure to come from the irrepressible tendency of the human mind to be guided by short and too hopeful views. Then we shall have to pause, and the interval will be distressful. But the forces that have wrought the wonderful changes do not seem to us to be temporary. They lie in the nature and extent of our territory, in the character of our people, in the energizing effect of the essential freedom of our life. These assure us for a long time to come a large share in the benefits of the evolution of the race. Happily that does not imply the loss by other countries and peoples of what we gain. The progress of honest industry is in its final effect only beneficent, and the human family need not fear the consequences of the constantly cheaper and more abundant satisfaction of its needs and desires.

SUBSTITUTES FOR SHIP SUBSIDIES.

According to Mr. LOUIS WINDMUELLER, the subsidies proposed for ships are not only mischievous in their distribution, but needless. He suggests in an article in The North American Review three modes of stimulating the building of a merchant marine which he thinks far more practical and effective.

He would pay a small export bounty on selected staples, especially those we do not now export, beginning with 25 cents a ton on coal. We cannot approve such a proposition. The bounty would be 20 per cent. on coal at prices actually paid in this port within a few years. Even a lower rate would be essentially disturbing and demoralizing. He would free ships from taxation as completely as United States bonds. Apart from the doubtful power of Congress to deprive the States of the right to tax property owned within their jurisdiction, this seems a measure of most uncertain expediency. At least it ought not to be employed unless there was free trade in ships. Mr. WINDMUELLER, however, is a believer in free ships and on principle is opposed to subsidies, and the above suggestions are in the nature of compromises to secure the defeat of the absurd and iniquitous Subsidy bill now before the Senate.

The most practical and the soundest proposition of the veteran economist is the establishment of a National Naval Reserve of trained officers like that existing in England and the granting of an American register to ships, wherever purchased, engaged in foreign commerce and commanded by officers trained in this reserve. To such a plan there could be no reasonable objection, but as there is no money in it for a small and powerful group of wealthy men, it is not likely to be pressed effectively on the attention of Congress.

FROM THE CAPE TO CAIRO.

When in the British House of Commons on May 1, 1899, Sir MICHAEL HICKS-BEACH, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced that the Government had failed to come to an agreement with Mr. CECIL RHODES in regard to its guarantee of the bonds of the Cape to Cairo Railroad Company, many people saw in it a snub to the Colossus whose intended stride of nearly seven thousand miles was straightway deemed premature or the work of an extraordinary imagination rendered impracticable by too much success. But the British Government knew why official aid of the nature sought could not then be given to the scheme, and it is likely that Mr. RHODES was at the time thoroughly enlightened on that point. Within a few months the Boer war cloud, that had been gathering, burst and the Cape to Cairo scheme lost its intense interest, and for the last year has been rarely and vaguely mentioned as one of the possible questions that might arise for adjustment when British domination throughout South Africa should be an established fact.

In the meantime, however, neither Mr. RHODES nor the British Government has been idle, and the news published last week that the telegraph line from the south was in operation to a point 100 miles "beyond the southern end of Lake Tanganyika" is simply one step in the prodigious scheme which the Boer war has rather stimulated than retarded. Although the actual laying of roadbeds has not progressed rapidly during the last eighteen months, for obvious reasons, important surveys have been carried out, and much wire has been set up. The line in the south, which then reached only as far as Mafeking, has now been constructed as far as Buluwayo, a distance of 1,360 miles from Cape Town, while in the north a line of about the same length is practically in full operation from Alexandria to Khartoum. This leaves a gap that is variously estimated at from 3,500 to 3,900 miles, most of which has been surveyed, officially or unofficially, and considerably more than half of which has been covered by telegraph wires at isolated intervals. The exact location of the equatorial portion of the line is yet to be determined. The original plan was to have it pass through German East Africa, but the result of recent surveys carried on in the Congo, coupled with German and Belgian intrigue, now indicates that the line will, in all probability, pass to the westward of the German-Congo frontier. While further north it is expected that it will be laid from the Congo into British East Africa, skirt Abyssinia, and strike the Nile at Khartoum instead of at Fashoda, as had been originally planned.

Of course, the greatest obstacles will be encountered in the Upper Soudan, but that these are by no means as seemingly insurmountable as those of the Great American Desert, forty years ago, is made clear by the record of a journey made from Cape Town to Alexandria in 1898-9, within a period of eighteen months by a young English collegian, EWART SCOTT GROGAN, an interesting sketch of whose adventures appears in the current number of The World's Work. Although Mr. GROGAN was the first white man to perform the feat, a large party under Major GIBBONS, after having traversed practically the same route arrived in Cairo six months after the Cambridge undergraduate terminated his journey. Mr. GROGAN'S report concerning the difficulties of penetrating the deadly Dinka swamps may cause a divergence of the line from its original plan, turning it still further eastward through Abyssinia, "a way out" which would be enthusiastically supported by the Negus of that country. But one thing is certain. While Great Britain has been at war the Cape to Cairo scheme has been shown to be neither impossible nor impracticable of fulfillment.

THE END OF THE LUMBER SUPPLY.

There is a growing conviction among the statisticians of the lumber industry that a timber famine is imminent in the near future, and that under the most favorable conditions of systematic forestry it will be impossible to grow wood fast enough to permit the maintenance of the current rate of consumption. Chief Geographer GANNETT of the United States Geological Survey, from the best data obtainable, estimates the total stand of timber throughout the United States at 1,380,000,000,000 feet. In 1890 the cut was about 25,000,000,000 feet, and since that time it has steadily increased. Natural growth would undoubtedly replace the annual cut if we had only lumbering operations to take into account. Contrary to the general supposition, lumbering, even of the most thorough kind, does not destroy the forest character of land. The lumberman takes only the trees available for his purposes. He selects one here and another there, and for each tree available for reduction to marketable boards he leaves a hundred, or perhaps a thousand, not available; and when he has cut down everything it pays him to fell and haul, the tract remains as much a forest as before. The disappearance of our forests is due to the manufacture of charcoal for iron smelting, to the paper stock industry, and in a less degree to the demand for firewood, but more than all to the clearing of land for farming purposes. It is for this reason that the old-time forestry statistics of replacement by natural growth do not apply in this country. The wood-destroying industries which consume everything in the shape of woody fibre for coal or pulp, have neglected all measures for reboising the areas they have worked over. If available for cultivation, they have been worth more cleared than covered; if not, the wood consumer has let nature take its course, and looked about him for new areas to denude. Unless land is held under a very different tenure from that which obtains in this country, and wood is very much more costly than it has been up to this time, it will be difficult to popularize tree planting for profit. The investment is too large and the returns too slow to make it attractive as a business proposition.

Meanwhile, however, lumber is becoming more and more scarce. Thus far this has been chiefly a matter of statistical interest, but it looks now as if the present generation would feel the pinch of scarcity. At the present rate of consumption the available supply will last not to exceed fifty years, and perhaps double in price within half that time.

Fortunately wood is no longer indispensable. Indeed, we could do very well with a fraction of that now consumed. In building operations the art of the clay worker is equal to every demand which may be made upon it, and the life of our clay beds will probably be coterminous with that of the earth. With the passing of wood as a structural material, the annual reduction in fire losses would represent a very substantial addition to the National wealth. Paper is also an available substitute for wood, with many advantages, since it can be made impervious to moisture, practically incombustible, and free from any tendency to rot. Vegetable fibre for paper of this sort can be raised in annual crops beyond the greatest requirements of consumption. It is a better use for straw than burning it. Aside, therefore, from the meteorological influence of land denudation and its effect upon the water courses, we may contemplate the enforced abandonment of wood as a structural material with great complacency. It would be better for our cities if lumber was too costly for the purposes of the builder.

DUPLEX TELEPHONY.

Among the lost arts, none are to be regretted as sincerely as the art of good listening. Few men, and it may be still fewer women, have the capacity to listen attentively to a statement until they have heard, comprehended, and inwardly digested it. In the case of men, this inability to listen well is due to the fact that the demands of modern business are exigent, and the busy man is naturally, and perhaps justifiably, impatient of prolixity in the elaboration of unnecessary detail. If one need not listen at all to what is not worth listening to, and could cut the speaker off as "Central" is in the habit of doing on what often appears to be insufficient provocation, much gray matter would be conserved for other and more useful purposes. To do this successfully, however, demands prevision. One cannot always, nor often, know what another will say until he has said it, and this happens so often in the case of things not worth saying, that the average man becomes impatient of all demands upon his attention, and, as the rule, refuses to concentrate, even when concentration is in the highest degree advantageous to him. As the result, most of us become slovenly listeners and thereby miss much useful information which the attentive listener manages to pick up and assimilate by the simple process of mental receptivity. What the genial BURROUGHS has described as "that steady aim of the eye" which is essential to perception in an inquest of nature finds its parallel in the power which the good listener possesses of opening full bore, so to speak, the channel from his ear to his brain, and hearing exactly what is told him. Those who possess this ability and know how to use it with judgment and discretion, are as the rule better informed than their fellows. Careless listening accounts for the breadth of misconception and comprehensiveness of misinformation which the average man inventories as wisdom.

Those for whom problems connected with the development of the human race have interest, have cherished the belief that the telephone was tending to the development of the listening habit among those using it habitually. As the rule, it is not used recklessly after it has ceased to be a novelty. The difficulty of getting your "call" and of holding it after you have it; the conflicting noises, from a murmur to a roar, which must be disregarded, and the fact that the average voice sounds over the wire as if the speaker's mouth was full of mush, compel the habit of close attention to telephone messages. The effect of this in a few years upon the millions using the telephone casually or habitually should have been a development of the listening faculty, with advantage to all thus differentiated. These reasonable expectations are doomed to disappointment. The telephone company operating in Chicago, after thorough test, has adopted a system of duplex telephony by which, using an auxiliary instrument, conversation with two persons may be held simultaneously on the same wire. In this baleful improvement one may see the finish of the educational influence of the telephone. The next step—if, indeed, it is not already included in that announced—will be so to arrange the apparatus that both persons in communication may talk at once. This will make the use of the instrument like ordinary conversation. Neither will more than half hear what the other is saying, but will assume to do so by maintaining a running fire of more or less irrelevant comment, explanation, elaboration, confirmation, or contradiction, as the case may be, with the result that when the receivers are hung up and the call rung off, neither will have any clear idea what the other has said, but each will cherish the mistaken conviction that he, or she, has been especially lucid in imparting his or her views to the other. This is exactly what happens in ordinary conversation. That it will reduce the value of the telephone as a means of intercommunication from maximum to zero is greatly to be feared.

But the telephone company is not in business primarily for purposes of education, and the only differentiation in the human race it cares about is that which will multiply customers. We predict for the duplex system a domestic use beyond the most optimistic dreams of its stockholders. The women with highly cultivated conversational powers, who have thus far found the telephone unsatisfactory because only one could talk at a time, will welcome the so-called improvement as making the telephone indispensable. A conversation over it will now be as entertaining and instructive as a formal call, since both can talk at once without any loss of time in unprofitable listening to what they do not care about hearing. But the business man who allows the duplex instrument to come into his office will make a mistake. His experience in the sacred precincts of his family circle should show him that what enables two people to talk at once is not always of advantage to either.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

—Instead of sharing the pleasurable emotions which we experienced on discovering in The Shipping World of London an editorial article written by somebody apparently possessed of a minute knowledge of American military history, The Richmond Dispatch demonstrates fierce rage against both the British writer and ourselves for crediting SHERIDAN with refusal to burn homes in the Valley of Virginia. The Dispatch vehemently declares that SHERIDAN did destroy occupied houses, as well as barns, mills, fences, stock, furniture, and farming implements. It says that his own accounts detail the burning of every house within five miles of one village, and adds: "SHERIDAN'S exultant declaration after he got through his work of devastation, that 'a crow, in traversing the valley, would be obliged to carry his rations,' was in no wise exaggerated. Were it necessary we could adduce additional evidence to deepen the damning blot." Then follows a curious deduction from what The Dispatch calls the ignorance of its contemporaries in the North and abroad. "What," it asks, "does all this teach? Simply that the South will not have performed her duty to herself and to history until she has seen to it that the true, unvarnished story of the war between the States is taught in our schools. We know of nothing that emphasizes more strongly than this Kitchener-Sheridan discussion the obligation that rests upon the South to root out of her schools all books that pervert or suppress the facts." There, by implication, is the old charge that history is willfully falsified by Northern authors. No allowance whatever is made for innocent and inevitable mistakes, none for the absolute inability of widely remote observers to get the same view of an object visible to them both. Does The Dispatch still really believe that any fairly respectable Northerner systematically slanders a large fraction of his fellow-countrymen?

—Something, at least, of Mr. ALFRED C. HARMSWORTH'S journalistic success is explained by the skill with which he answered, on arriving here, the embarrassing questions asked by the reporters as to the differences he saw between English and American newspapers. Without any insincere veiling of his very natural belief that London needs no lessons from New York in regard to the recording of the day's history, Mr. HARMSWORTH still managed to say several words especially pleasing to most of his interlocutors. He was cordial in acknowledging the superior "enterprise" of his American contemporaries, and that permitted him, of cours to say that he did not like what seemed to him to be the disproportion between the size and the price of our papers, and to hint that we were not always as accurate as we are enterprising. The efforts of several of the bolder reporters to elicit a definite statement as to which of the New York papers he thought the best were only moderately successful, as that was danger-ground for a courteous visitor. Mr. HARMSWORTH did admit that there was a "curious similarity" between our esteemed neighbor The Herald and The London Times, which he had already credited with the leadership of the British press so far as regards influence and authority. The charm of this compliment was decidedly reduced by the condemnation of newspaper pictures as, on the whole, useless and displeasing. In other instances Mr. HARMSWORTH contented himself with enthusiastic references to special examples of "enterprise" which he remembered as shown by the papers represented by the several interviewers. Not all were thus particularly pleased, but none was offended, and the ordeal which must have been anticipated with some dread was turned almost into a "precious season," as they say at prayer meeting. Mr. HARMSWORTH had the very good taste not to talk very much about his own papers, but he secured some extremely valuable advertisements for them, nevertheless, and he has the best of reasons to be content with his first day in the United States.

—Among the remoter consequences of the Bellevue Hospital scandals, the most serious, perhaps, is the tendency which the revelations now making will certainly have to revive the old horror of hospitals in general—a horror which of late years has been fast diminishing, even among the ignorant, and of which only a trace is left among the intelligent classes. Of course, abuses in a single institution afford no ground for condemning the hospital system as a substitute for home care, but few people fail to become sentimentalists when near relatives are ill, and facts like those now supplied by the Hilliard inquest will in all too many cases serve as an excuse for following the acknowledged, but not yet fully realized, delusion that love for the patient is the best equipment a nurse can possibly have. In the days when all nurses were either untrained or ill-trained, the patient naturally had a vastly better chance of recovery if watched and served by those who ignored all considerations of self and were capable of infinite sacrifices, even to those of health and life. Now, however, better results can be obtained without such sacrifices than with them, and enlightened affection, in accord with reason and economy, has been coming more and more to utilize the facilities and advantages of the hospital, as obviously and in every way superior to those of the best-appointed bed chamber in a private house. But the change has been slow, and there remains in many quarters the once well-justified reluctance for intrusting to the care of hired strangers those upon whom regard is centred and whose condition is one of utter helplessness. This feeling can be conquered only when there exists a high degree of assurance that the elimination of the personal element from nursing helps instead of harming the victim of dangerous diseases. One case like the Bellevue homicide counteracts a large amount of sound argument, and hence is the weight of responsibility now resting upon the hospital authorities a heavy one. Others than the accused nurses are to blame for what has happened, and the need for reform extends much further than to hospital underlings.

—However large may be the part of Mr. CUDAHY'S $25,000 which is now in the personal possession of Mr. PATRICK CROWE, it is more than doubtful if he is really enjoying the merry Yuletide season. Except for the fact that with his gold he can buy the services and silence of persons who would otherwise abandon him to the officers of the law, Mr. CROWE and his treasure might almost as well be on a desert island. He can buy none of the joys that presumably delight him, and the constant necessity for keeping every one of his wits in working order for the preservation of his precarious liberty practically enforces abstinence even from the solitary and therefore unsatisfactory cup. The number of Mr. CROWE'S acquaintances seems to be an unusually large one, and, as he has not yet been betrayed, it is safe to assume that his disposition is naturally sociable and that he is not entirely destitute of qualities attractive to those whom he desires to attract. His present imprisonment, therefore, must be at least as irksome as that to which he will be subjected after capture, and it involves, too, anxieties which he would escape in jail. He is now his own warden, and hence deprived even of the consolation to be derived from complaining about the restrictions to which he is subjected, and he is serving a "term" irreducible by good behavior. All this illustrates the often noted unprofitability of crime. Successful as was Mr. CROWE'S coup, all things considered there was nothing in it. Villains less adroit and less courageous than himself have almost certainly secured before this a considerable portion of his booty as the price of protection, and they will get the rest of it sooner or later—probably sooner. Really, it would be money in Mr. CROWE'S pocket if he would come out into the open, give up to its owner what is left of the ransom, submit to deserved punishment—and then reform, sincerely and permanently. That he does not lack the ability to make an honest living is evidenced alike by the opinions of his acquaintances and by the combined simplicity and ingenuity of the scheme by which he separated Mr. CUDAHY from his gold. The chances are that Mr. CROWE'S gravest mistake was in coming on the stage too late. In a wilder West his abilities might easily have found utilization at once congenial and legitimate. Unfortunately for men of his stamp, there is no frontier nowadays, and the more primitive forms of individual initiative are everywhere at a discount.

AN ENGLISHMAN, BUT PRO-BOER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Kindly allow me to say a word or two on the opinions expressed by Editor Harmsworth, and reported in to-day's TIMES. In the first place, is it not rather late in the day to repeat the assertion that the war in South Africa is "for the old cause of 'no taxation without representation'"? President Krüger offered a five-year residential franchise, and proposed, in addition, that it should be retrospective. How, in the face of such a fact, any well-informed journalist can say that the war is over a question of franchise is utterly beyond my comprehension.

Another statement equally astounding is the declaration that the war is all over "except a few finishing touchea." Mr. Harmsworth gives Americans credit for quickly learning the news. Well, this is news, indeed! Still more astounding is the announcement that it would not affect England if the war lasted twenty years. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, in Parliament the other day, estimated the weekly cost of the war at £1,500,000, and we are told by Mr. Harmsworth that it would not affect England if this sort of thing went on for twenty years.

He is wonderfully generous toward this country in the matter of the Nicaragua Canal, and he feels sure his countrymen would not dispute our right to fortify and control it. That is not the question. Have we a right to abrogate a solemn international compact without consulting the other contracting power? Earl Granville would not let Russia do this; neither would Mr. Gladstone consent to such a thing when the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was mooted in his day, and if England should take such a rebuff as that without a protest, it is only another evidence of the depth of degradation to which she has fallen under her Chamberlains, Salisburys and Harmsworths.

And no wonder! A bully and braggart to-day must of necessity be a coward to-morrow. If only a thousandth part of this "generosity" had been shown in her dealings with Krüger and Steyn, England would never have been in her present deplorable plight. I love England. I was born there, and not a drop of blood flows in my veins but what is English, but—

I could not love thee, dear, so well
Loved I not honor more.

And there is no honor in this miserably accursed South African war, Editor Harmsworth notwithstanding.

Even if the war were over a question of franchise, the Boers would still be in the right. Sir William Lawson in the last Parliament put this point about admirably. "We Radicals," he said, "have no great affection for the House of Lords. Many of us would be glad to see it abolished, but if it were to be abolish by the intervention of some meddlesome foreign power, there is not a Radical or a Socialist in the kingdom but would rise up and defend the House of Lords."

J. RYDINGS.
Paterson, N. J., Dec. 28, 1900.

Army Man on the Canteen.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to say that the article in THE TIMES of the 26th, headed "The Army and the Canteen," is one of the best articles—and I have read a great many in the various papers of the day—in its cold statement of facts I have seen. What is stated there about the Prohibitionists and the saloon keepers being in alliance in their efforts to have the canteen abolished is absolutely true, as is well known to officers and men stationed at posts where the canteen, or, more properly speaking, the Post Exchange, as it is officially designated, is in operation.

At Highwood, a small town just outside the confines of this reservation, the liquor sellers held a jollification, or more properly a ratification, meeting as soon as word came from Washington that the canteen feature was stricken from the Reorganization bill as it passed the House, and made their boasts that now they would get the money which heretofore had been diverted to the Post Exchange. But narrow minded and bigoted people such as largely constitute the Women's Christian Temperance Union, cannot be expected to accept as worthy of credence the statements of army officers who have spent from fifteen to twenty and twenty-five to thirty years in seeking the best solution of this question of temperance as applied to the enlisted man. They are more vitally interested in this matter than any one or more belonging to any organization outside of the army can possibly be. Why don't some of those "squawkers," as you term them, and that term aptly describes their nature, go to a military post and see for themselves how temperance is promoted through the operation of the Post Exchange. No, they don't want to see, for "seeing is believing," and they don't want to believe anything the practice or result of which does not coincide with their established theory on the subject of temperance.

AN ARMY MAN.
Fort Sheridan, Ill., Dec. 27, 1900.

Gen. Egan's Military Record.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You quote Gen. Alger as characterizing (in his North American Review article) Gen. Egan as "gallant and fearless in the battlefields of the civil war."

The official Army Register gives his record during that war as: "Appointed First Lieutenant Tenth Washington Territory Infantry, 21st June, 1862; mustered out April 1, 1865," never having attained any higher grade by brevet or otherwise.

Perhaps Gen. Alger will inform us on what battlefields of the civil war the gallantry and fearlessness were exhibited. My impression is that the regiment never left the Pacific slope, and I doubt if it was ever engaged in battle.

C. A. W.
New York, Dec. 29, 1900.

Suez Canal Enlargement.

From The London Express.

The Suez Canal is to be deepened and widened, if Mr. Linden W. Bates, the London hydraulic engineer, who is now at Suez, reports that the work can be done within a reasonable figure.

The canal company hopes that the great waterway can be enlarged by the use of dredges, which are comparatively inexpensive. There is great need of more room in the channel, for ships have been growing ever greater, while the canal has remained unchanged.

Mr. Bates, who is now going over the canal, is en route to Queensland, for whose Government he has built three colossal dredges on the Tyne. These are to be used in clearing the harbors of Queensland of mud and detritus.

The largest of the trio is the Hercules, a sea-going dredge of 5,000 horse power, and by permission of the Queensland Government it will be held in the canal for a time and experiments made under the direction of Mr. Bates.

If it proves that dredging is a satisfactory method of enlarging the waterway between the Red Sea and the Mediterranean, the Suez Canal Company will proceed forthwith to arrange for improvement on a large scale.

Both the War Office and the Colonial Office are concerned in the enlargement of the canal, and the request made to Mr. Bates to go to Suez was indorsed by the latter department.

Clergymen's Children.

From The London Chronicle.

A compiler of statistics recently announced that 50 per cent. of the personages in the "Dictionary of National Biography" were children of clergymen. This rather exaggerated estimate has inspired a zealot to suggest that all country rectories shall be reserved for married curates, with a view to the improvement of the race. This suggestion is not novel, for Dean Swift, in that masterpiece of irony, "An Argument Against Abolishing Christianity," adduced the breeding capabilities of the Anglican clergy to confute his Deist opponents. "Here are ten thousand persons," he pleads, "reduced by the wise regulations of Henry the Eighth to the necessity of a low diet and moderate exercise, who are the only great restorers of our breed, without which the nation would in an age or two become one vast hospital." Some discoveries of modern science are anticipated in "Gulliver's Travels," and it seems that we must also return to the "Mad Dean" for the last word on sociology.

NUGGETS.

Good Wishes.

"I wish you a happy new century."

"Thanks, old chap; I wish you many."—Boston Journal.

The Boa.

"Why, Madge, where are all the tassels on your new chenille boa?"

"Oh, I stepped on some of them, and other people stepped on some."—Detroit Free Press.

He Knew Where the Trouble Lay.

Kindliman—What's the matter, my little man? You seem to be in great pain.

Little Boy (groaning dismally)—No, I ain't, but dey seems ter be a great pain in me.—Philadelphia Press.

Bad Management.

Saucy Soubrette (in the "continuous")—When do you go on?

Comedian—Right after the trained donkeys.

Saucy Soubrette—Heavens! It's a wonder the stage manger doesn't try and break the monotony more than he does.—Brooklyn Life.

THE BOY WHO LIVES NEXT DOOR.

S. E. Kiser in Chicago Times-Herald.

The boy who lives next door
Has freckles on his face;
His ears are red and hang
Away out into space,
And when I hear a dog ki-yi
And see it flee in terror, I
Can quickly guess the cause—
'Tis merely that one more
Poor little victim knows
A boy resides next door!

He runs across the lawn
I've nursed with jealous care,
And, in the Summer time,
Knocks down the flowers there!
It seems to give him pure delight
To yell around with all his might,
And every week or so
A pebble finds its way
Against a light of glass
For which I have to pay!

He has no teeth in front,
His hands are cracked and brown,
Twice he has nearly burned
Our Summer kitchen down!
He calls to people, "Hey! Watch out!"
And when they jump he whoops about—
I used to think if God
Would take him from below
Up to the sky I'd try
To bravely bear the blow!

The little child whose love
Is all to me, one day
Was stricken suddenly
When I was far away—
The boy who lives next door forgot
To yell around, but ran and brought
The doctor to the bed.
And when I came, at last,
Shrank from me with a look
Of pity as I passed!

The boy who lives next door
Brought in his tops and gun,
And pocketfuls of trash
To please our little one;
He played beside my darling's bed,
Turned earthwhenisland stood on his head,
And God was good to me—
Let's wash a table before
We utterly condemn
The boy who lives next door!

HEARD ABOUT TOWN.

A party of gentlemen out for a horseback ride on Sunday made the trip through Central Park and thence over to the Riverside Drive. After luncheon at the Claremont they strolled down for a look at the new viaduct, which when it is opened at the northern end will give easy access to the handsome drives up in the vicinity of Fort Washington Park, a section of the city altogether too little known to most of the people of the town. Save by one of the party the viaduct was very generally commended. The silent one was the elder horseman of the party, though not the elder in years.

"And what have you to say about it?" asked one of the younger men, who had noted the silence of the skilled horseman.

"That it is one of the most dangerous spots in the whole City of New York. It will be but a short time after it is opened to the public before there will be a sensational accident there that will horrify the entire city. No man who is as thoughtful about handling of a horse as he should be ever had much to say as to the construction of that death-trap.

That response created a genuine sensation. None of the party had seen anything but a charming driveway, with a beautiful view. That it was a death-trap no one of them could see. So the pessimistic one was pressed for an explanation, and the reason for his forebodings of ill.

"Did none of you notice," he asked, "that the retaining or protecting fence on either side of the viaduct is scarcely breast high? Now suppose that some afternoon when you are out driving or riding there should be a runaway on that bridge? With so very much reckless driving and riding as there is in all parts of the town, especially on Sundays and holidays, there will happen to be a thoroughly frightened horse turned in at the entrance to the viaduct. Imagine for an instant what a commotion he would create on that bridge. Think of the scattering there would be before him to get out of his way. Suppose also—and this is not at all improbable—that two or three other animals should bolt as a result of the appearance of that runaway? What protection would that light and low iron fence afford? It is just the height that a runaway horse would try and leap. Any one who knows much about frightened horses will tell you that. A man could stand alongside the fence, and with one hand resting on the post vault to his death in the street below.

"I am as certain as I am that I am standing here that such an accident as I have outlined is possible, is sure to occur on that viaduct. What will be the result. Some one of the frightened horses will make a break for that fence, go flying over it to land on the street a hundred feet or more beneath. It will mean the death of the horse and possibly the injury or death of one or more persons who may be passing on the street where he lands. This is no dream of a man with indigestion, for I am far from being a dyspeptic. It struck me the instant I walked on the viaduct. It is something that everybody can see as being well in the range of probabilities. Horsemen ought to institute a public action to have the fences on the sides of the viaduct raised to such a height that they shall afford something very much more in the way of protection than they do at present."

***

Capt. R. H. Jex Blake, for whom there seems to be some sort of a fortune in waiting in England, is one of the most strikingly picturesque figures of the town. His vividly colored scarfs and his equally startling waistcoats have been features at the race tracks, where he is a regular attendant, for very many years. A portly man, with a face burned and tanned until it has taken on the color of a boiled lobster, he has always been a figure that excited curiosity among strangers at the tracks and in the lobbies of the fashionable hotels which he affects. At the horse shows of past years only the late "Fatty" Bates could rival him in the gorgeousness and brilliancy of his raiment. Blazing red scarfs and loud checks and plaids are the Captain's hobbies in fetching wearing apparel. Such clothes as he wears could come only from an English tailor, for nothing of the sort is ever shown by tailors in this country. Capt. Blake's styles have been exclusive, and it is doubtful if the man lives who has envied him their possession. Yet with all his eccentricities of dress the Captain has found a host of friends among "the horsy set," as they are called. Many of them have had very valuable hints from him both as to the sitting of a horse and in the fine points of polo, for at both in his younger days the Captain was an expert.

***

Mr. Haan's plan of serving meals in the new apartment to be erected on Fifth Avenue by Col. John Jacob Astor recalls the great number of caterers that sprang up when apartment buildings first became a mushroom growth about town. Couples without children fled to them as a relief from both the ordinary hotels and the perils of housekeeping. They depended on caterers to supply them with their breakfasts and luncheons, such pairs generally preferring to dine at one of the fashionable restaurants. This manner of living brought into being a new business—the traveling caterer, who would furnish hot meals at any fixed hour, sending them to the apartments of his patrons from a steam table on which he, usually, he drove about town. A number of negroes and Italians went into this business, for a time it was quite profitable to such as these who were satisfied with small profits. But the bills of fare were so limited and monotonous and meals were so frequently warm instead of hot, that the patronage decreased and finally fell away entirely. So the new business was abandoned shortly after it came in such prominence as being. Now most apartments that are intended as lodgings rather than as establishments where housekeeping may be carried on have a regular dining room on either the top floor or the ground floor where the occupants may be fed. The question of properly and satisfactorily feeding apartment house dwellers is one of the most troublesome the owners of the buildings have to contend with. Few of them believe that even Mr. Haan's apparently carefully worked out plan can be made to satisfy the demands of tenants who know what good living and good cooking is, and who will have it or else become thoroughly dissatisfied with the conduct of the apartment or hotel.

***

As to this problem of keeping house in one's apartments the bachelors seem to have the best of it. For those who have a fondness for that sort of thing—and their number is legion—there is the always available chafing dish to which so much attention has been paid during the last few years. There is also the combination cooking and breakfasting outfit that can be had at most of the department stores. There are handsome and compact gas stoves, on which a most respectable and tasty meal can be quickly prepared. Small sets of china and glass of either common ware or the more costly makes may be had to suit a bachelor's wants. Gas stove, china, glass and table ware can all be had at the trifling cost of $5, or from that figure up to as high a point as the bachelor's pocketbook and his tastes will permit him to go. With these he can be as jollily independent as man could wish to be. If he requires or prefers a servant there are now to be had thoroughly trained and honest men servants who will care for his room, cook his meals, and attend him as a valet, all at a very reasonable cost, considering the services rendered. With a reasonable income, comfortably quartered in a cosy bachelor apartment, the young man may thus have all the comforts of a home that are possible as long as he remains a bachelor.

TRADE WITH DENMARK GROWING.

Imports from America Reported to Have Trebled Since 1895.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 30. — Denmark's trade with the United States is growing rapidly, showing record figures in 1900.

Imports from the United States have trebled since 1896, and now exceed $20,000,000. The increasing commerce between the two countries is inducing many Danish Americans to return to Copenhagen to represent American houses, and this is doing much to introduce American goods. As a natural result new ships have been ordered for the American trade.

Lucky English Servants.

From The London Onlooker.

Nowadays householders, who wish for peace and comfort, have to study their servants quite as much as they do their friends and friends. I was hearing lately of a big country house where the domestic arrangements are really luxurious. The bedrooms are really quite equal to the ordinary guests rooms in a country house, and a set of rooms are especially allotted to them for their recreation, comprising a ballroom, a music room, a library, and billiard room. Card tables are provided in the billiard room, and a billiard table is specially kept for the servants. The music room is provided with pianos and violins, and when the house is full of people, dances are frequent.

HIRAM HITCHCOCK IS DEAD

Last of the Original Proprietors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

Had Been Ill a Short Time with Pneumonia—His Active Life in Many Fields—No Change in Management of the Hotel.

Hiram Hitchcock, the last of the original members of the firm that opened the Fifth Avenue Hotel, died there yesterday forenoon of pneumonia after a brief illness. He caught cold at the dinner given by the New England Society at the Waldorf-Astoria on Dec. 22, but attended to business matters until last Wednesday, when he was compelled to take to his bed.

Dr. Charles E. Quinby, his family physician, who attended him, noticed at midnight on Saturday a decided improvement, but he did not leave the sick room. Mr. Hitchcock, remarking his constant attendance, said to the physician with a smile: "Is this to be a continuous performance?" At daybreak a change for the worse came, and Mr. Hitchcock sank rapidly, but retained consciousness to the end.

Hiram Hitchcock was born at Claremont, N. H., Aug. 27, 1832. Ten years later his family removed to Drewsville, N. H. He prepared for Dartmouth College at the Black River Academy, Ludlow, Vt., but instead of entering, accepted a position as instructor there. In 1853 his eyes failed him. He went to New Orleans in 1853, and entered the office of the St. Charles Hotel. He passed his Winters there and his Summers at the Nahant House, near Boston, until 1859, when, with Paran Stevens and Alfred B. Darling, he opened the Fifth Avenue Hotel, in this city.

In 1866, his health failing, he retired from business and traveled extensively abroad, where he revived his interest and studies in ancient art in Egypt, Syria, Cyprus, Greece, and Italy.

In 1871 he located at Hanover, N. H., and in the following year announced to the world the famous discoveries of Gen. di Cesnola in Cyprus. He read papers on that subject before societies of New York and the Faculty and students of Dartmouth College. He published a paper on the researches in the same year which attracted marked attention in Great Britain and Europe. He always took a deep interest in the work of exploration in Egypt, Palestine, and South America, and in the American School at Athens, Greece.

In 1872 he received the degree of Master of Arts from Dartmouth College, and in 1874 he was made a member of the British Society of Biblical Archaeology. In 1876 the Governor of New Hampshire appointed him a Trustee of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts. The same year he was elected President of the Dartmouth Savings Bank, and in 1877 represented Hanover in the New Hampshire Legislature. The following year he was made a Trustee of Dartmouth College. In 1879 he resumed his connection with the Fifth Avenue Hotel, the firm becoming Hitchcock, Darling & Co.

He was largely through his personal efforts that the Madison Square Garden Company succeeded in its plans of erecting the splendid building there, and was the President of the company during its construction. He was one of the founders of the Garfield National Bank and the Garfield Safe Deposit Company, and was Vice President of both institutions. He was long associated with the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and of the New York Academy of Science. He was a Director of the New York Society for the Prevention of Crime, a Trustee and Treasurer of the Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York, a Trustee of the Black River Academy, at Ludlow, Vt.; a Fellow of the National Academy of Design, a life member of the American Geographical Society, of the New York Historical Society, and of the New England Society, a trustee of the Dartmouth Scientific Association, the New York Chamber of Commerce, the University Club, and other associations.

He was President of the Nicaragua Canal Associations, which obtained the concessions from Nicaragua and Costa Rica, and on the organization of the Maritime Canal Company, in May, 1889, he was elected its President.

Mr. Hitchcock was twice married. His first wife was Miss Mary Maynard of Drewsville, N. H. They had two children, both of whom died young. Mrs. Hitchcock's death occurred on March 25, 1887, and in her memory he erected the Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital at Hanover, N. H. In 1889, for similar reasons, he restored the College Church at Hanover to its attractive Colonial design. On March 22 of the current year Mr. Hitchcock married Miss Emily H. Howe, a distant cousin, who had for some years made her home at the hotel. She survives him.

Funeral services will be held at the Madison Square Presbyterian Church on Wednesday morning, the Rev. Dr. C. H. Parkhurst officiating. Then the body will be taken to Hanover, N. H., where it is expected President Tucker of Dartmouth College will officiate at the services on Thursday forenoon. The burial will be in the family plot.

Mr. Hitchcock's death will make no change in the management of the hotel.

Mr. Hitchcock did not have a large estate. He sank about $200,000 in the Nicaragua Canal project and made other unprofitable investments.

His special department at the Fifth Avenue was the engagement and organization of the help.

Mr. Hitchcock during his career as a hotel keeper probably entertained more notables than any other one man. Every President since 1850, with the exception of Presidents Cleveland and McKinley, have been his guests.

Charles N. Vilas, one of Mr. Hitchcock's partners, is confined to his bed, and will not be able to attend the funeral.

CZAR NICHOLAS'S PLANS.

Expected to Arrive in St. Petersburg About the End of January.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 30.—Emperor Nicholas, according to recent information from a member of the imperial family, will arrive here from Moscow about the end of January. He will not participate in the ceremony of blessing the Neva. Grand Duke Vladimir, the oldest of the Grand Dukes, will probably represent him at that function.

The plans, however, are subject to change at any moment, and, in any event, information concerning the exact time of the Czar's journeys is rarely ever obtainable, owing to the police precautions taken to insure his safety while traveling.

SPAIN'S MINISTERIAL CRISIS.

Silvela Regarded as the Only Possible Successor to Azcarraga.

MADRID, Dec. 30.—Rumors of a Cabinet crisis increase Señor Sagasta, ex-Premier, who has finally broken silence, declares that a change of Ministry is inevitable on account of the differences in the Cabinet itself, as well as in the ranks of its supporters.

Many Ministerialists assert that the Azcarraga Government will continue. Should it fall, its only possible successor would be a Silvela Ministry.

ASHANTI REBELLION ENDED.

British Officer Reports that All the Chiefs Have Surrendered.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—Col. Willcocks has cabled the Government that the Ashanti rebellion has ended, all of the rebel chiefs having surrendered.

New Trial for Banker Sternberg.

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—The Lokal Anzeiger announces that the appeal in the case of the banker, Sternberg, convicted of an offense against morality, will result in a new trial, owing to a legal flaw. It also asserts that proceedings have been begun against Dr. Bello, the leading counsel for the defense, and Dr. Werthauer, the junior counsel, for collusion with Criminal Commissioner Thiel to secure illegally the acquittal of Sternberg.

Says Kaiser Will Visit America.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—With reference to the order for Prince Henry of Prussia to repair to Berlin, which the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung explains as due to the wish of Emperor William to have him learn the affairs of Government, the Berlin correspondent of The Daily News mentions a conjecture that the summons is preparatory to a visit by the Kaiser to the United States.

THE WHITE WOMAN'S BURDEN.

The knotty problem of how to adjust relations between mistress and maid is an ever-recurring topic in the newspapers, and in the jangling duet, voiced by the alleged down-trodden slavey and the apparently irate housekeeper, no via media seems as yet to have been evolved to smooth over these difficulties. To obtain a consensus of public opinion upon existing facts as to the rights and wrongs of employers and employes, it would be necessary to secure evidence from thousands of households that value privacy beyond the vindication of a theory, and to jump at a definite conclusion upon the subject, from the ordinary newspaper stories, is, obviously, taking a one-sided view of the subject, as the employers of the largest number of domestics are precisely the people who do not air their views through the press.

A movement has been started to organize a servants' "protective union." Mrs. St. Justin Beale, the promoter, takes the ground that this is to bring about a better understanding between mistress and maid. If the "union" materializes, and establishes the proposed school for efficiently preparing servants for their work, great good must result from the undertaking, as half the help employed to-day are almost worse than none, owing to their unclean and slipshod habits. But if the "union" is to foster more antagonism on the part of the ordinary girl servant, who looks upon her mistress as a born enemy to be treated with scant courtesy, and whose one idea is to shirk work and get the better of her employer, then the union will surely be productive of evil.

As long as a "protective union" is demanded in the employes' interests, why should there not also be formed a league for protecting the countless women who daily have to endure with impertinent and incompetent servants? In a large establishment there is less danger of discomfort to the mistress, for with ten or more domestics to manage, a housekeeper generally stands between employer and employe, thus lessening personal friction. If theft by a servant is discovered, the offender is dismissed, usually without a public denouncing; if incompetent, another servant is substituted.

It is hardly necessary to remark that in the homes of the very rich servants are not starved or overworked; on the contrary, in the ordinary course of events, the man and maid servants, lay by a goodly sum for their old age, and many, after retiring from honorable years of service, still keep up a friendly relation with their former employers, who often manifest the keenest interest in their former domestics.

It is not in the houses of millionaires that the relation of mistress and maid is in need of adjustment. This narrows the area of servants' ill-treatment to the well-to-do classes, embracing people of fair and moderate means. In the smaller and poorer habitations, where bedrooms shrink in dimensions, compared with the sleeping apartments of the very wealthy, domestics find their accommodations proportionately smaller and darker; in many cases they even submit to unsanitary surroundings that should not be allowed to exist. But take the average minor household, and the average servant therein, and the moral status of the mistress will compare favorably with that of the maid.

There is no doubt about the existence of a great floating criminal class among the people who go out to service. Not to mention the rarer cases of professional burglars, kidnappers, or poisoners, who have cropped up in domestic service, there are innumerable petty thieves flourishing at their trade under the guise of servants, despoiling employers, the peculations varying from groceries to wearing apparel. Most housekeepers hesitate to embark upon the trouble and notoriety involved in securing the conviction of a dishonest girl. Hence the culprit is dismissed in silence, only to gain admittance to another family, who in turn suffers at her hands.

It is here that a protective league for ladies employing servants would find scope for work. When Socialists or misdirected philanthropists start out on a crusade for the protection of servants, let them first thoroughly sift the antecedents of the class they seek to benefit.

A gentleman in this city was surprised one day to receive a visit from a well-known detective who stated that he had come to arrest a certain criminal who he believed was hiding in the house, posing as a cook. The family were astounded at this news, declaring that "she had seemed a most respectable woman."

"But the person in question is a man, not a woman," replied the detective, and when the cook was sent for and promptly handcuffed, he made no attempt to deny his sex, although he had successfully deceived the whole household regarding it.

In a fashionable house on Fifth Avenue the hostess bemoaned the loss of a butler, whose perfect knowledge of all the appointments of a dinner party and keen appreciation of how wines should be kept and served, rendered him invaluable in a hospitable household. Later the lady learned the wherefore of the major-domo's usefulness. He had formerly been a clergyman in England and was expelled from the Church for his convivial habits.

Now consider also the number of domestics in a great city who are in service solely to get shelter, food, and wages in return for their services, if possible, or because they have failed to acquire sufficient knowledge to make them of use in any other position in life.

It does not need the perennial jokes about "Biddies" and darkies to convince thrifty matrons that the vagaries, dishonesty, and slipshodness of the average "help" are stubborn, uncomfortable facts, not easily controverted; and the burden of incompetent, impertinent servants falls heaviest upon women whose limited income enables them to keep but one servant, or to hire help by the day. The lower-priced servants with which these women must content themselves are usually the most ignorant, and, consequently, the most self-satisfied, holding employers who are not rich to be of little account.

This class of I-am-as-good-as-you servant is an unending source of annoyance to gentle folk possessed of small means. In many instances the "houseworkers by the day" will leave the dishes, &c., soiled by their own lunch, piled up for the lady to wash after they have departed.

The wastefulness of servants is another thorn in the side of careful housewives. The smaller the income, the larger, usually, is the proportion of it that must go toward household expenses, and in the hands of the ordinary "darky" or ignorant Irish girl butter, sugar, &c., seem possessed of positively miraculous powers of disappearance.

But beyond even the attack on one's pocketbooks through waste, or the desecration of one's palates by uncleanliness, the untrustworthy servant is frequently a constant imitation of a snake in the grass when children fall under her influence. Thousands of men and women have deceived their first impressions of morality or immorality, decency or indecency, honesty or deceit, carelessly conveyed through nursegirls who dressed them, fed them, talked to them, walked with them, and put them to bed.

The ingratitude of servants is a byword among employers. Sick servants have been nursed in the house where they were working instead of being relegated to a hospital, and promptly on convalescence have gone elsewhere because they thought they could "better themselves." It is not unusual for girls to wait until receiving their Christmas presents and then seek a fresh situation merely for the sake of variety.

As most servants are prone to gossip and exaggeration, many serious scandals arise from their tattling untruthfully about their masters' affairs.

While all right-minded individuals recognize the respect due to labor, realizing that one

> Who sweeps a room as by Thy laws,
> Makes that and th' action fine,

still, it is sheer nonsense to ignore the division of classes, which is the natural outcome of heredity, or education and environment. As long as such divisions exist, ways and means should be evolved to protect the just interests of each class.

The Board of Health and sanitary associations should unite with philanthropic and legal aid societies, in waging war against all employers, whether in private households or in hotels and institutions, where domestics are underpaid, underfed, overworked, or badly housed.

With new protective measures for the interests of servants, and increased efforts for the general bettering of their physical and moral welfare, there should manifestly also be an esprit de corps among the much harassed housekeepers, and a league created to equally protect their rights and, in part at least, mitigate the despair of many cultured women, who, not being able to afford the services of high-priced domestics, often bravely undertake the supervision of their own culinary department, rather than submit to the wanton waste and slovenly habits of a cheap girl.

What can be expected from the class of domestics who drift from shanties or crowded tenements to household service? What sanitary knowledge or refinement can be learned in the habitations of the great unwashed? Can cooks whose only training has been in their mothers' stuffy, unclean kitchen, where the laws of cleanliness are unknown, be blamed when they are caught in the common servants' trick of tasting a sauce or soup, and then putting back into the food the unwashed spoon they have just had in the mouth?

The only remedy for these evils is a large training school for servants, which will send out not only experienced help for millionaires, but provide properly trained servants for "the great Demos or commercial middle of the greatest mercantile city in the world."

To effect this much-needed reformation in domestic service, there should be unanimous public co-operation. Let the ladies whose names figure as patronesses of assemblies, pin the weight of their social influence with that of professional men's wives and tradesmen's wives until the proposed association becomes a fait accompli. Let all those lengthy feminine epistles daily sprinkled through the papers simmer down to a movement that will materialize into definite action.

HELOISE DURANT ROSE.

NOTES ON ART MATTERS.

The cartoons for the famous tapestries in the Vatican, designed and executed in part by Raphael, in part by his apprentices, are to be seen at the American Art Galleries, on Madison Square. Arras was the Flemish city most celebrated for tapestry weavers in Raphael's time, so that when Pope Leo resolved to have hangings for the Sistine Chapel he turned to the young master for the designs and called upon the best weaver of Arras to carry them out. Hitherto the paper models at Hampden Court and the South Kensington Museum have been considered the only originals from Raphael's atelier, but the owner of these nine canvas cartoons in colors makes out a very fair case in support of the claim that the Hampden Court models were not from Raphael, but represent the working drawings made for a second set of the same tapestries, also executed at Arras, but by another weaver, and considerably later in the century. The appearance of these full-size sketches for the Raphael tapestries warrants the belief that they may belong to the early part of the sixteenth century, but some of the groups and figures are so carelessly done, it is plain at a glance that the hand of Raphael could not have drawn them. Others, however, are not so disproportioned. Allowance being made for the fact that the purpose of the cartoons was to indicate the color scheme, there is nothing impossible in the contention that we have in the nine big canvases genuine relics of the workshop of Raphael. It is stated that they were bought in Rome at the beginning of the last century by a Pole named Jagorinsky, and were known later as the Loukmanoff cartoons. They have been brought to this country by Mme. Dobrychine, a Russian lady, who states that they are not for sale. This may be taken with a grain of salt. It is not probable that they are here out of pure philanthropy in order that the American public shall enjoy a sight of them. Doubtless a sufficiently large offer would induce Mme. Dobrychine, if she be the actual owner, to make such arrangements with our customs as are usual in such cases. If a public institution should buy them the duties would be waived by the Government. Whatever may be the origin of the cartoons, they are, to say the least, worth examining. It cannot be said that they have the merit, the sometimes superlative merit, of first sketches for celebrated paintings or sculptures, a merit that depends largely on the fact that the artist, in the first fire of his conception, works often with a virility and avoidance of the less significant portions of his design that are infinitely pleasing to connoisseurs. These are paintings, or rather stainings, on the actual scale for the guidance of the weavers—nothing more. But when the master is Raphael, that is a good deal.

The Baron and Baroness de Hirsch memorial, which was given tentatively a site at Mount Morris Park, has been allotted another site by the city authorities. It is to stand on the eastern edge of Central Park, fronting Fifth Avenue, above the Seventy-second Street gate, as the Richard M. Hunt memorial stands opposite the Lenox Library below that gate. The change was made at the instance of a number of citizens interested in the monument, who think that the new site will be more of an honor because more in the movement of the city. If the Park Commissioner sees that the monument has a good backing of trees and shrubbery the change may prove to be a wise one.

The reception next Friday in honor of the seventy-sixth annual show of the Academy of Design is likely to be as crowded a function as our oldest art society has given hitherto. The galleries of the Fine Arts Building in West Fifty-seventh Street are not ideally designed for the circulation of a great crowd, but nobody will mind that. Those who are anxious to see the pictures should go early or stay late, or try the galleries next day, for there is little chance of seeing anything at the opening reception.

Among the artists from the American colony in Paris who are passing more or less of the Winter in New York are Mr. and Mrs. Colin Cooper. Fortunate in securing a big studio in East Sixty-third Street is Mr. John W. Alexander, who will stay the Winter out in order to finish certain portraits. Permanently settled in New York after their long stay in Rome are the sculptor couple, Mr. and Mrs. McNeil, of whom the latter was known before marriage as Carol Brooke.

Mr. Herbert Vos is showing a series of types of Asiatics and other peoples at the Corcoran, in Washington. The series, largely reinforced by new material, will be seen at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo next Spring.

The little town of Egmont, in Holland, has gained celebrity in an unexpected way, merely because two American painters have settled there. Though neither of them are Dutchmen, Gari Melchers and George Hitchcock have taken Holland. They present in their brilliant canvases, Melchers the Holland boer, his huysvrouw and infant; Hitchcock, the tulip beds and peasant maids of the country. Melchers remains more strictly the realist, while Hitchcock takes occasional flights into the domains of history and religion. But Hitchcock does not touch the fields of sentiment like the venerable Israels, nor is his coloring in tune with the profoundly melancholy scenes of domestic life that Israels loves. It is a strong, gay coloring, which is kept from being hard by the skill of the painter. The moist, soft atmosphere of Holland, with its ever-present clouds, gives one a desire for strong, rich colors as a contrast and an antidote to the melancholy of horizon and sky. One of Hitchcock's latest pictures to make a sensation was the figure of a knight on horseback charging through broad beds of tulips in a vast tulip plantation. Wunderlich is the headquarters in New York for these two able young painters.

A new field for women's work that offers great possibilities is jewelry; at least, the designing of it, if not its actual fashioning. Mrs. Yale Wynne and her brother, Julian Yale, who are now residents of Chicago, have shown jewelry in gold and silver settings in New York and Boston as well as Chicago. Mrs. Wynne plies the tools of the craft like any jeweler's workman, and finds it difficult to meet the demands for her silver buckles, brooches, hairpins, and necklaces set with colored stones. Another lady of Chicago who has begun to be a professional in this art is Mrs. William H. Klapp. She has a case full of her work at the National Arts Club, where Mr. Charles H. Caffin will give an informal talk next Wednesday club night, using this jewelry in part illustration of his remarks on the arts and crafts. Some of Mrs. Klapp's designs are novel in form, and there are pleasing color combinations through the use of precious and semi-precious stones. Hereafter we may expect to find a good many amateurs pursuing this delightful line and gradually making it their life work. It is peculiarly a field for the trained artist who discovers that easel pictures do not sell readily, while articles of personal adornment are sought with eagerness; who may realize that he has a special talent for designing jewelry which has been unsuspected and neglected.

The studio building which the painter A. A. Anderson is superintending as it approaches completion ought to afford the artists relief from the scarcity of studios. It is very central, as it overlooks Bryant Park from the southwest corner. But the complaint is general among the artists that the rents are beyond their means. It appears that the cost of real estate, materials, and labor reaches so high a figure that the studios must pay well to earn the interest on the capital invested. The consequences may be that only the well-to-do artist can afford to take a studio there, and the building will be largely filled with people of artistic tastes but not artistic achievement. There is sore need of a big building not too far from the centre of things which will afford studios at a low rent. Perhaps if the land is two or three blocks away from the costliest district, and there is enough of it to allow of a very large building, the rents might be arranged to meet the slender purses of those who live by their brush, pencil, or chisel. As it is now, a great many artists are leaving the city for the suburbs, because they cannot find studios, except at exorbitant prices.

A surprise was in store for many of Claude Monet's admirers when they learned through an interview published in the Paris Temps that the leader of the "open-airists" owed his beginnings in art to his own unaided efforts—in caricature! As a boy in Havre he became locally noted for caricatures, and amassed enough money to set the determination of his family to make a merchant of him at naught. Born in Paris, he returned there as an art student. When chosen as a recruit he entered the army with pleasure, and actually asked to be sent to Africa. "I spent two really charming years in Algeria. I incessantly saw something new; in my moments of leisure I attempted to render what I saw. You cannot imagine to what an extent I increased my knowledge and how much my vision gained thereby. I did not quite realize it at first. The impressions of light and color that I received there were not to classify themselves until later; but they contained the germ of my future researches." It is not a little curious to see that even Claude Monet, innovator that he is, followed the path of Delacroix, Marilhat, Decamps, Fromentin, and Fortuny, and gained inspiration from the Orient. It is also hard to recollect that Monet is a man of sixty, so recent seems the fame he has won, so sturdily do the people who reject his discoveries and their application to painting combat him and his school. Another surprise is the influence he acknowledges to have drawn from the landscapes of Yongkind and Boudin. Very truly does he speak with gratitude of the help he has obtained from M. Durand-Ruel, a dealer who recognized his value early and has given him the backing of approval, as well as bought his pictures, ever since. The conquest of Paris by the Plein-airist School is a romance of the artist life, but perhaps more wonderful is the fact that examples of Monet's work have penetrated to that citadel of Philistia, the National Gallery at Berlin. Few things may have been more comic than Monet's entrance into the atelier of Toulmouche (!) when he came up from Havre; his transfer to the studio of Gleyre was hardly more fortunate. In 1865 Monet had two marines on the line in the Salon, and next year the "Woman in Green," which people took for a painting by Edouard Manet, thereby nearly driving that sensitive and jealous artist mad. "I threw myself body and soul into 'plien air.' It was a dangerous innovation. Up to that time no one had indulged in any, not even Manet, who only attempted it later, after me. His painting was still very classical, and I have never forgot the contempt that he showed for my beginnings. It was in 1867. My manner had shaped itself, but after all it was not revolutionary in character. I was still far from having adopted the principle of the sub-division of colors that set so many against me, but I was beginning to try my hand at it partially, and I was experimenting with effects of light and color that shocked accepted customs. The jury that had received me so well at first turned against me, and I was ignominiously blackballed when I presented this new painting to the Salon."

MISS M. MACINTYRE HERE.

English Soprano to Sing in Grand Opera, Concert, and Oratorio.

Among the passengers on the New York, which arrived at her dock yesterday, was Miss Marguerite Macintyre, the English soprano, who comes to this country under an engagement to the Maurice Grau Opera Company. Miss Macintyre was to have made her first appearance at the Metropolitan Opera House next Wednesday evening as Marguerite in Boito's opera, "Mefistofele," but her début here has had to be postponed to Monday, Jan. 14, owing to the singer's indisposition. The New York had a very rough passage, and Miss Macintyre was very ill nearly all the way over. She also contracted a severe cold.

Miss Macintyre is a daughter of Gen. Macintyre, late of the Royal Artillery, and was born in India. She studied singing under Della Valle of Milan, and made her début at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, in 1888 as Michaela in "Carmen." Since then she has sung nearly every season at Covent Garden.

Sir Arthur Sullivan selected Miss Macintyre to create the rôle of Rebecca in his grand opera, "Ivanhoe," which she sang at the Royal English Opera House, in London, on alternate nights for several months. She has also sung at the Royal Opera House in Berlin and at La Scala, at Milan, and also in St. Petersburg.

In 1894 Miss Macintyre made a concert tour in South Africa, and two years ago she made a flying visit to this country to sing at the Musical Festival in Cincinnati. During the present season at the Metropolitan Opera House Miss Macintyre may be heard in "Die Walküre," "Aïda," "Lohengrin," "The Flying Dutchman," "Les Huguenots," "Trovatore," and perhaps in "Otello." It is also her intention to appear in concert and oratorio.

CHORAL UNION GREETS BISPHAM.

The Baritone and the Big Chorus Sung to Each Other.

David Bispham surprised the People's Choral Union at its last rehearsal of the century in Cooper Union yesterday afternoon, and for an hour the baritone and the chorus had a pleasant little dialogue in music. When the baritone felt very enthusiastic he would get up and sing a song, and then the great chorus would reply with a selection.

Some weeks ago Mr. Bispham wrote from Scotland that he would like to sing for the Choral Union, as he deeply sympathized with its work. He walked on the stage yesterday afternoon without any one but the conductor knowing of his intentions. Frank Damrosch introduced him. There were a thousand singers in the hall, and they arose and sang Tennyson's "Ring Out, Wild Bells," set to music by the late Dr. Leopold Damrosch. Mr. Bispham responded with the "Erl King," by Schubert, and the "Two Grenadiers," by Schumann. Then the chorus sang the Hallelujah chorus from the "Messiah" with great spirit, and Mr. Bispham came back with two old English songs, "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" and "Pretty Creature," closing with Kipling's poem of "Danny Deever," set to music by Walter Damrosch.

Mr. Bispham warmly complimented the Union on its work, and expressed the opinion that its influence on the future of the city would be marked.

MRS. RYLEY'S NEW PLAYS.

The Authoress Tells of Those Being Brought Out In England.

Madeleine Lucette Ryley, the playright, arrived in New York on the Cunard liner Etruria yesterday morning. Her principal object in coming at this time is to be present at the initial performance of her new play, "Richard Savage," which will be produced in Rochester to-night, with Henry Miller in the title rôle. She remained in this city only a few hours, and left for Rochester yesterday afternoon.

While in England Mrs. Ryley succeeded in placing several of her plays with English managers, among them being "The Mysterious Mr. Bugle" and "An American Citizen," both of which are now on tour. Her next production in England will be "A Man from America," which will be presented at the Criterion Theatre, London, under the auspices of Charles Wyndham and Arthur Balfour. Another play, as yet unnamed, which Mrs. Riley describes as an original costume play, is also to appear in London soon, the leading parts being taken by Forbes Robertson and Gertrude Elliott.

Mrs. Ryley's stay in America will be indefinite, no date for her return to England having been decided upon. Her husband, J. H. Ryley, accompanies her.

Change of Programme at the Opera.

"The Flying Dutchman" will be sung at the Metropolitan Opera House on Wednesday evening instead of "Mefistofele." The artists who will appear are Mmes. Gadski and Schumann-Heink and Messrs. Dippel Blase, and Bertram. Walter Damrosch will conduct.

Miss Amelia Stone Here to Sing.

Miss Amelia Stone, the American diva, arrived on the New York yesterday, accompanied by her manager, James W. Slocum, and his wife. Miss Stone will at once begin rehearsals for the forthcoming production of "Vienna Life" at the Broadway Theatre on Jan. 21.

Mlle. Terese Delbosq and Her Horses.

Mlle. Terese Delbosq, the equestrienne, who has been starring with her trained horses at the Hippodrome, in London, arrived here yesterday on the Minneapolis, to appear at the Proctor circuit of theatres. She has brought with her three of her handsomest horses, Hector, Segol, and Mustaph.

Colombian Rebel Chief at Maracaibo.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Dec. 30.—Gen. Uribe, the chief of the Colombian revolution who was recently defeated at Corasel, in the Province of Bolivar, has arrived at Maracaibo. This is regarded as a death blow to the revolutionary movement.

CANADA'S LOTTERIES TO BE ABOLISHED

New Law Making Them Illegal Goes Into Force Jan. 1.

Public Opinion Aroused Against a Widespread Evil — Archbishop Bruchesi's Initiative.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—With the dawning of the new century Canada will see an end put to the lotteries which have disgraced the country for several years. By a law passed at the last session of Parliament these lotteries were made illegal, and the new law comes in force on Jan. 1, 1901.

The provincial and civic authorities whose duty it is to see that the law is enforced are determined to do their duty. In fact, the state of public opinion is such that they could not well do otherwise, and it is almost certain that the last policy drawings will take place on Monday.

There was some talk of an effort being made on their behalf to allow them to run until the civic license expired in July next, but it met with no encouragement. In fact, the Patrie, the Government organ, called upon the Attorney General to see that the law was enforced, and the Crown Prosecutor and the Chief of Police have received definite instructions to do so.

There may be some legal complications between the lotteries and the city, which granted them licenses good until the end of the present civic year, in July next, but the Dominion law takes no account of this, and it is the duty of the provincial judicial authorities to enforce the law. They have not the power of granting an extension of grace if they wished to do so.

The lottery evil is a very widespread one in Montreal and Quebec cities, and these places have long enjoyed the unenviable reputation of being the Monte Carlos of the American continent. Montreal has three lotteries proper and four policy establishments, which, besides having daily policy drawings, have periodical lotteries as well. The business has been a most profitable one, as can be judged from the fact that it is conservatively estimated that the people contributed $2,400,000 annually, and only receive back perhaps about one-half in prizes. Each year there have been 110 straight lottery and 2,504 policy drawings. The prices of these tickets ranged from 10 cents to $1. These tickets were openly hawked about the streets, and were sold in every cigar store and cheap eating place in the city.

All classes of society played policy, but the ravages of the craze were more particularly noticed among the poorer people. The thing became such a public scandal that the press carried on a crusade which resulted in a change in the law which permitted these gambling organizations to do business. The law did not openly sanction them, but advantage was taken of a clause in the old Thompson Code, designated to encourage art unions, to carry on straight lotteries.

The loophole through which these lotteries were enabled to operate is a subsection of Section 206 of the Criminal Code, this clause exempting from the penalties provided the following:

> Any distribution by lot among the members, or ticket holders, of any incorporated society established for the encouragement of art, of any paintings, or other works of art, produced by the labors of the members of, or published by or under the direction of, such incorporated society.

As a consequence of this convenient exemption there are no lotteries in the Province of Quebec, but there are many societies for the promotion and encouragement of art, sculpture, drawing, painting, and music.

As a result of the arousing of public opinion against these lotteries the law was amended last session by striking this clause from the code. This was not done without a struggle on behalf of the lotteries, but the legislators recognized that the public opinion of the country demanded the change. It is probable that this result was at least hastened by the fact that the Church in this province was behind the movement for their suppression.

Archbishop Bruchesi placed himself at the head of the movement, which began among English Protestants, and went so far as to forbid tombola drawings and bazaars for charity, remarking that "charity is ingenious," and would find means to recoup itself for the apparent loss this prohibition might entail. Not only so, but he caused a sensation in French Canadian society by advising the withdrawal of scores of families, which had become an established custom in the Monument National or Sunday evenings because they caused scandal to the Protestant community.

Among public men the lead was taken by Senator Dandurand, a close friend of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, in an open letter to the Premier, pointed out that the United States struggled a long time to get rid of the Louisiana Lottery, which was run in the old French State of the Union. They are now, he said, trying to stop the sale of our lottery tickets, which they call in their press Quebec lottery tickets. "I do not want the impression to get out to the world that these ventures can only take root in French centres. I have sufficient pride in my race to try to save it from such a stigma."

The origin of the evil dates back many years, when the St. Jean Baptiste Society inaugurated a series of drawings for the benefit of the building it proposed to erect in Montreal as the home of the society, known as the Monument National. This lottery continued for years, and had many smaller imitators, until several years ago the evil became so pronounced that the drawings were stopped by a movement from within the society itself. At that time the speculation in these tickets had become a craze, and it was shown that the operators, women and men, in nearly every factory, had formed clubs which regularly invested a large portion of their earnings in the drawings. It was even developed that an enterprising youth in one of the Protestant public schools had organized a little drawing of his own, out of which he was making a good income.

There was a lull for a time after its cessation, but its record was even surpassed by the organizations which will have to close on Jan. 1. Interviews with the managers would indicate that they recognize that closing is inevitable. However, most of them have done so well that they are able to view the matter philosophically. "I guess I shall have to go into something else, preferably mining stocks," said Mr. Shirley, manager of the Société Artistique Canadienne.

Russian Recruits Leave Odessa.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 30.—The Russian transport St. Petersburg has left Odessa with 1,500 recruits for the maritime provinces. She carries also numerous presents from the Empress to the Red Cross Society's officials and nurses in that district.

German Complaints of American Maize.

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—Much American maize, 1900 crop, is arriving here in bad condition. The Society of Berlin Grain and Produce Dealers has cabled to American exporters cautioning them to see that their goods correspond with the certificates.

From Fingers to Forks.

From The Baltimore Sun.

In olden times fingers served well enough to convey food to the mouth and a divided gourd was an acceptable drinking vessel, but when fashionable aspirations seized our ancestors they scorned these implements of nature, and even the Pacific Islanders pulled their hair, of which they had a generous abundance, in their anxiety to devise more seemly methods. They finally manufactured forks that looked like skewers, and out of the bamboo they manufactured knives. The Indians, proverbially slow in adopting modern ways, still eat without knives or forks, although they have permitted the use of spoons. These were first made of shells and the rinds of gourds; later handles were inserted, and, having passed numerous stages, knives, forks, and spoons have reached the present elaborately ornamented kinds now in general use. The cup is probably the most ancient of all domestic utensils. Its earliest form was simply the half-closed hand or the folded leaf. Then followed cups made of sea shells or rinds of fruit cut in halves. Later appeared cups of metal, lacquer, and china. For centuries the cup has been made the expression of art and luxury, and the most precious metals, combined with the artisan's most consummate skill, are now commonly employed in their manufacture.

THE VANDERBILT WEDDING.

All the Suites in Newport's Fashionable Boarding Houses Rented.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 30.—Alfred G. Vanderbilt will arrive here to-morrow to stay until Wednesday or Thursday, when he will return to New York to arrange for his bachelor dinner, which will be given on Saturday evening.

Mr. Vanderbilt has been coming to Newport every Sunday, but he was detained in New York to-day, and Miss French took her afternoon drive alone.

In a few days everything will be in readiness for the coming wedding. While it is not probable there will be more than the four ushers, Robert L. Gerry, Frederic M. Davies, William Fitz Hugh Whitehouse, Jr., and Potter Palmer, Jr., who have already been named, four others may be invited to act in that capacity.

All of the suites in Newport's fashionable boarding houses have now been taken for the occasion, and other houses will probably be opened.

Phillips—Osterhoudt.

KINGSTON, Dec. 30.—August J. Phillips, a prominent business man, was married to-night to Miss Edythe Osterhoudt, daughter of Peter C. Osterhoudt.

German Students Drink Too Much.

From The London Mail.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—The professors of the University of Bonn held a meeting on Friday to which the students were invited. The professors urged that measures should be taken to stop the excessive drinking now in vogue among the students. From their ranks drinking is spreading to all other classes of the population, and is well-nigh becoming a vicious fashion in the country.

The professors are very earnest in their attempt to stop this. They have appointed a committee, and a Government councilor, Herr Quensel of Cologne, will report on the matter. All the universities in Germany are invited to support the movement, which is chiefly intended to abolish the many rites and methods which oblige the students to drink, and which are at the bottom of the "training" for drinking.

Obituary Notes.

WILLIAM H. FULLER, proprietor of the Hotel Baltzel at Lyons, N. Y., died in that village yesterday morning after a brief illness.

Capt. EDGAR V. DENNISON, Senior Captain of the Tenth Battalion, and one of the oldest officers of the Guard, died at Albany last night.

B. L. GODDALE, a theatrical man of Los Angeles, Cal., died at Kansas City, Mo., yesterday after a short illness. The body will be sent to Kalamazoo, Mich., for burial.

GEORGE C. SNELL, who formerly lived at 203 St. John's Place, Brooklyn, died on Saturday at Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Snell was a member of the Arkwright and Montauk Clubs. The burial will take place in Greenwood to-morrow morning.

EDWIN G. BEDFORD died near Paris, Ky., yesterday, aged eighty-six years. He was a noted breeder of short-horn cattle. He paid the highest price ever given for a short-horn, $38,000, for a bull at the New York Mills sale in 1876.

JAMES B. EDMONDS, a retired lawyer, died on Saturday night at his home, in Washington, aged sixty-nine. Mr. Edmonds was a native of Saratoga County, N. Y. He was admitted to the bar in Elmira, where he was for a time in partnership with Gen. B. F. Tracy. Going West, he practiced law for twenty years in Iowa City, Iowa. He served one term as a member of the Board of Commissioners for the District of Columbia.

BIRTHS.

NEWBERY.—On the 28th inst., the wife of Beverley R. Newbery, of a son.

MARRIED.

HOFFMAN—PRESTON.—At St. Mary's-in-Tuxedo, on Dec. 29, by the Right Rev. Henry C. Potter, Bishop of New York, assisted by the Rev. George Grenville Merrill and the Very Rev. Eugene A. Hoffman, D. D., Zella Krumbhaar, daughter of Mrs. George Rutledge Preston, to Charles Frederick Hoffman of New York City.

DIED.

BINNEY.—At Morristown, N. J., on Friday, the 28th inst., Sarah Cooke, wife of Charles C. Binney of Philadelphia and daughter of James L. Dawes of Englewood, N. J., in the 44th year of her age.
Interment at Englewood, N. J. It is requested that no flowers be sent.

CARD.—On Friday, Dec. 28, 1900, in the 75th year of her age, Mary Elizabeth, daughter of the late Alex. P. W. Kinnan and widow of Stephen Card of St.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

To-day, the last of the year 1900, is likely to be marked on the New York Stock Exchange by a further exhibition of the market's independence of foreign influences and by consequent higher market values. London, still unsettled by the failures in the West Australian markets, may, as on Saturday, send over lower prices and selling orders at the opening here, but this is not likely to have any more serious or lasting effect than had Saturday's proceedings. The strongest banking and financial interests in the country are behind the present market, and the public support is steadily growing. There is neither disposition nor willingness on the part of the market controllers to see prices go off.

The truth is that it is recognized that never was time more favorable than the present for advancing market quotations. The country is wonderfully prosperous and is bettering its position at home and abroad each day. Earnings of railways, of corporations, and of enterprises large and small were never so great. More: In a very short time now there are to be released the enormous January disbursements, totaling, conservative authorities declare, not less than $135,000,000. This money will at once seek reinvestment in one form or another, and it is but reasonable to suppose that the stock market will receive a goodly portion of it. Then, too, increased dividends are likely to become the fashion. St. Paul, Delaware and Hudson, Union Pacific, among others, have shown strength for this reason. Great combinations are being effected, as witness the purchase of the Pennsylvania Coal Company by the Morgan interests, and of North American, now to be used as the selling agent of all the coal companies. It is not surprising, all the circumstances considered, that quotations continue to rise on the local market.

As for the money market, discussion on this subject is now practically without point. All fear of any stringency is removed. With the January disbursements made, relative ease must be the order.

RUBBER TRUST UNCERTAINTY.

There are persistent rumors in Wall Street that the United States Rubber Company is to reduce or wholly pass the dividend upon its preferred stock. Continued weakness in the company's securities in the face of a buoyant general market is quoted as circumstantial evidence that something of the sort may impend. It is, however, impossible to obtain any official information upon the subject.

At the office of Charles R. Flint, inquirers are referred to the company's executive officers. At the office of the corporation the only statement obtainable is:

"We do not care to anticipate what the Board of Directors may do."

GERMAN MONEY AND TRADE.

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—The prevailing tone of the Boerse last week was feeble. The Wall Street boom did not affect Berlin, except in Northern Pacifics and some other Americans. Reports from the iron and coal centres continued unfavorable, and shares fell interruptedly upon continual sales by outsiders.

The improvement in the American iron market has not elicited a corresponding response here, and the market is looked upon as quite uncertain for the future. Many works have shut down over the holidays. The pig-iron consumers, according to the Cologne Gazette, complain that the syndicate is pressing in threatening fashion for the removal from the furnaces of goods contracted for. A Breslau newspaper asserts that all the Silesian works have discharged many operatives and that new orders are quite unheard of. In a word, the general situation of the German iron market is gloomy.

Bank stock suffered in consequence of the feebleness of coal and iron shares, which also had a depressing effect upon other industrials.

Swiss railways continue very strong. Northern Pacifics weakened at the close of the week, owing to the announcement of the failure of the plan to convert preferences into bonds. The Frankfurter Zeitung says that the German holders are in part opposed to the plan.

A more quiet tone prevailed for mortgage bank obligations and shares in consequence of the improved prospects of a favorable settlement of the affairs of the Prussian Hypotheken Aktien Bank.

Money, after rising through the monthly settlement demands, began to decline. The private rate of discount reached 4⅞ yesterday, as against 4¾ a week before. It is expected that the Reichsbank return to-morrow will show heavy pressure, owing to the low official rate and to the absence of the mortgage banks from the loan market, as well as to other causes. The Reichsbank's new capital of 30,000,000 marks will become active Jan. 1, raising the limit at which the Reichsbank's notes begin to be taxed by 150,000,000 marks. A rise in the official rate of discount is still unexpected, but any reduction will be delayed owing to loans coming upon the market.

Much French money came to Berlin last week for loans and discounts. Foreign exchange is tending in Germany's favor. The monthly settlement has given no difficulty, the engagements being light. The Prussian Central Bodenkredit Company will issue 30,000,000 at 4 per cent. Jan. 4.

THE MANCHESTER MARKET.

MANCHESTER, Dec. 30.—The local markets during the closing days of last week had a holiday appearance throughout. There was a comparatively small turnover in yarns and cloths, although considerable inquiry was made. Buyers and sellers are apparently indifferent regarding business. Such producers as are well fortified with recent orders were indisposed to entertain further proposals except at advanced rates.

The position of the cotton market does not inspire the buyers with confidence that value will be maintained. Prices abroad respond slowly to the advance here. It is said that buyers for India have already operated extensively in cloths in anticipation of the Spring season. Isolated transactions for China, in staples and bleachings, are mentioned. Home-mode yarns were dull, but steady, an occasional spinner being willing to make concessions. Reviewing the cotton industry, The Textile Mercury remarks:

"One effect of the present conditions can hardly fail to be a great increase in planting next Spring, in spite of any attempts to prevent it. Should a determined and combined effort on the part of the American cotton States restrict production, so as to maintain prices at the present level, this will simply invite competitors in other lands to enter the field of cultivation."

WESTERN RAILWAY BETTERMENT.

The phenomenal rise in the market value of the stock of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company, construed by Wall Street as significant of some extraordinary deal impending, may find its warrant in the substantial improvement which the property shows in its various departments; though, of course, it is not improbable that some new financial development is at hand. It has been shown by statistical comparisons in these columns how vastly improved is the situation of representative railways of the different groups, those of the South and of the Far Northwest vying in the presentation of gains in varied important directions. Those Western roads that start from Chicago—called familiarly "the Grangers" by Wall Street—also keep pace. And herewith is the record of the most prominent of them for a period of three fiscal years—all presenting the same evidence that satisfactory net results follow good management:

CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE & ST. PAUL.

	1898.	1899.	1900.
Miles of road operated, (average for year)	6,154	6,154	6,347
Gross receipts	$34,189,664	$38,310,632	$41,884,692
Operating expenses, (except taxes)	$20,067,456	$22,776,670	$27,102,830
Taxes	$1,134,131	$1,186,166	$1,258,007
Net receipts	$12,988,097	$14,347,796	$13,493,855
Fixed charges, (less miscellaneous income)	$7,190,395	$6,772,709	$6,488,417
Surplus	$5,797,702	$7,575,087	$6,975,440
Per mile of road—gross receipts	$5,556	$6,226	$6,599
Per mile of road—operating expenses	$3,261	$3,701	$4,280
Per mile of road—taxes	$184	$193	$...
Per mile of road—net receipts	$2,111	$2,332	$2,121
Per mile of road—fixed charges	$1,168	$1,100	$1,022
Per mile of road—surplus	$963	$1,232	$1,099
Percentage of operating expenses to receipts	58.70	59.46	64.85
Percentage of operating expenses and taxes to receipts	62.01	62.55	67.85
Receipts per passenger, mile	$0.0236	$0.0234	$0.0235
Receipts per passenger train, mile	$1.10	$1.16	$1.18
Receipts per ton, mile	$0.0097	$0.0094	$0.0093
Receipts per freight train, mile	$1.90	$1.78	$1.91
Passenger miles per mile of road	41,190	47,127	51,706
Ton miles per mile of road	425,958	498,957	528,983
Tons per loaded car, (custom freight)	10.94	11.84	12.20
Tons per freight train, mile	177.80	180.83	205.13
Percentage of empty car mileage	29.21	29.37	28.26
Maintenance of way per mile of single track	$721	$796	$1,138
Maintenance of way, per train mile	$0.20	$0.21	$0.31
Maintenance of equipment, per train mile	$0.13	$0.14	$0.20
Conducting transportation, per train mile	$0.47	$0.47	$0.49
Miles of road, per locomotive owned	7.6	7.6	7.6
Miles of road, per passenger car owned	7.9	7.9	7.7
Number of freight cars owned per mile of r'd	4.9	5.5	5.7
Cost of maintenance, per locomotive	$1,688	$1,700	$1,584
Cost of maintenance, per car, passenger	.....	.....	.....
Cost of maintenance, per car, freight	.....	.....	.....
Average miles run per engine owned	34,568	36,711	37,825

CHICAGO, BURLINGTON & QUINCY.

	1898.	1899.	1900.
Miles of road operated, (average for year)	7,180	7,240	7,546
Gross receipts	$42,800,162	$43,389,424	$47,535,420
Operating expenses, (except taxes)	$26,272,218	$26,545,630	$29,816,838
Taxes	$1,538,668	$1,589,834	$1,605,503
Net receipts	$14,980,276	$15,253,960	$16,113,079
Fixed charges, (less miscellaneous income)	$8,906,483	$8,525,660	$8,184,317
Surplus	$6,082,793	$6,728,300	$7,928,762
Per mile of road—gross receipts	$5,961	$5,984	$6,299
Per mile of road—operating expenses	$3,659	$3,661	$3,951
Per mile of road—taxes	$214	$219	$213
Per mile of road—net receipts	$2,088	$2,104	$2,135
Per mile of road—fixed charges	$1,240	$1,176	$1,085
Per mile of road—surplus	$848	$928	$1,050
Percentage of operating expenses to receipts	61.38	61.18	62.73
Percentage of operating expenses and taxes to receipts	64.98	64.84	66.10
Receipts per passenger, mile	$0.0223	$0.0210	$0.0220
Receipts per passenger train, mile	$1.18	$1.21	$1.19
Receipts per ton, mile	$0.0092	$0.0086	$0.0085
Receipts per freight train, mile	$1.62	$1.60	$1.60
Passenger miles per mile of road	50,460	61,856	62,186
Ton miles per mile of road	458,995	465,308	502,651
Tons per loaded car, (custom freight)	.....	.....	.....
Tons per freight train, mile	174.83	184.76	197.66
Percentage of empty car mileage	.....	.....	.....
Maintenance of way per mile of single track	$931	$833	$1,026
Maintenance of way, per train mile	$0.19	$0.21	$0.25
Maintenance of equipment, per train mile	$0.22	$0.16	$0.17
Conducting transportation, per train mile	$0.46	$0.47	$0.47
Miles of road, per locomotive owned	6.5	7.6	7.3
Miles of road, per passenger car owned	7.8	9.0	7.9
Number of freight cars owned per mile of r'd	5.7	5.1	5.7
Cost of maintenance, per locomotive	$1,801	$1,907	$2,097
Cost of maintenance, per car, passenger	$584	$590	$601
Cost of maintenance, per car, freight	$45	$53	$50
Average miles run per engine owned	.....	.....	.....

CHICAGO & NORTHWESTERN.

	1898.	1899.	1900.
Miles of road operated, (average for year)	5,071	5,077	5,219
Gross receipts	$36,050,561	$38,016,314	$42,950,805
Operating expenses, (except taxes)	$22,643,879	$23,658,042	$25,774,410
Taxes	$1,102,606	$1,170,672	$1,219,004
Net receipts	$12,304,076	$13,187,600	$15,958,701
Fixed charges, (less miscellaneous income)	$6,548,930	$6,029,004	$10,437,278
Surplus	$5,755,146	$7,158,596	$5,519,513
Per mile of road—gross receipts	$7,109	$7,488	$8,230
Per mile of road—operating expenses	$4,466	$4,660	$4,980
Per mile of road—taxes	$217	$230	$234
Per mile of road—net receipts	$2,426	$2,598	$3,057
Per mile of road—fixed charges	$1,291	$1,188	$1,000
Per mile of road—surplus	$1,135	$1,410	$2,057
Percentage of operating expenses to receipts	62.82	62.22	60.01
Percentage of operating expenses and taxes to receipts	65.87	65.31	62.85
Receipts per passenger, mile	$0.0201	$0.0194	$0.0198
Receipts per passenger train, mile	$0.87	$0.92	$0.96
Receipts per ton, mile	$0.0080	$0.0087	$0.0083
Receipts per freight train, mile	$1.73	$1.82	$1.96
Passenger miles per mile of road	71,007	82,014	87,108
Ton miles per mile of road	597,534	686,070	737,568
Tons per loaded car, (custom freight)	12.05	12.36	13.78
Tons per freight train, mile	193.77	208.48	235.55
Percentage of empty car mileage	28.52	26.40	20.16
Maintenance of way per mile of single track	$897	$844	$957
Maintenance of way, per train mile	$0.19	$0.18	$0.20
Maintenance of equipment, per train mile	$0.16	$0.10	$0.16
Conducting transportation, per train mile	$0.49	$0.50	$0.54
Miles of road, per locomotive owned	5.0	5.0	4.9
Miles of road, per passenger car owned	6.0	5.9	5.7
Number of freight cars owned per mile of r'd	7.0	7.3	8.0
Cost of maintenance, per locomotive	$1,346	$1,562	$2,145
Cost of maintenance, per car, passenger	$451	$643	$539
Cost of maintenance, per car, freight	$36	$59	$28
Average miles run per engine owned	37,642	38,594	39,900

DECLARED DIVIDENDS.

STEAM RAILROAD STOCKS.

Company and Period.	Amount.	Payable.	B'ks Close.	B'ks Open.
Allegheny & Western (semi-annual).	3	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Dec. 24
Atch., Top. & S. F. pf. (semi-annual)	2½	Feb. 1	Jan. 10	Feb. 2
Atlantic Coast Line com.	1	Jan. 10	.....	.....
Balt. & Annapolis Short Line	3	Jan. 1	.....	.....
Beech Creek (quarter)	1	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Dec. 22
Boston & Albany (quarter)	2½	Dec. 31	Holders of record	Dec. 13
Boston & Lowell	$4	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Dec. 1
Boston & Maine common (quarter).	1¾	Jan. 1	Dec. 1	Dec. 7
Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn (semi-annual)	$1	Jan. 1	.....	.....
Canada Southern (semi-annual)	1	Feb. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 31
Chicago & Alton Railway pf.	2	Jan. 10	Dec. 20	Jan. 11
Chi. & East. Ill. com. (semi-annual).	2	Jan. 2	Dec. 15	Jan. 2
Chi. & East. Ill. com. (extra)	½	Jan. 2	Dec. 15	Jan. 2
Chi. & East. Ill. pf. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 2	Dec. 15	Jan. 2
Chi. Gt. West. pf. A (semi-annual)	2½	Jan. 31	Dec. 24	Jan. 1
Chi. Gt. West. debenture	2	Jan. 15	Dec. 24	Jan. 1
Chi. & N. western (semi-annual)	3	Jan. 7	Dec. 17	Dec. 24
Chicago & N. western pf. (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 7	Dec. 17	Dec. 24
Chic., Rock Isl. & Pac. (quarter)	1¼	Feb. 1	Dec. 28	Jan. 7
Chic. & West. Indiana (quarter)	1½	Jan. 1	.....	.....
Cin., Hamilton & Dayton pf. A & B (quarter)	1	Jan. 2	Dec. 18	Jan. 3
Cin., Ports. & Va. pf.	3	Jan. 10	Holders of record	Dec. 31
C., Cin., Chi. & St. L. pf. (quarter).	1¼	Jan. 20	Jan. 12	Jan. 22
Cumberland Valley	2	Jan. 1	.....	.....
Dayton & Michigan pf.	2	Jan. 2	Dec. 18	Jan. 3
Del., Lack. & Western (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 21	Jan. 3	Jan. 21
Denver & Rio Gr. pf. (semi-annual).	2½	Jan. 15	Jan. 2	Jan. 16
Dubuque & Sioux City	$1.50	Dec. 31	Holders of record	Dec. 20
Gila Valley, Globe & Northern	4	Jan. 1	.....	.....
Granite	$2	Jan. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 15
Hocking Valley pf. (semi-annual)	2	Jan. 16	Holders of record	Dec. 28
Lake Erie & Western pf.	2	Jan. 15	Holders of record	Dec. 31
Lake Shore & Michigan Southern (semi-annual)	3½	Jan. 28	Holders of record	Dec. 31
Little Schuylkill Nav. R. R. & C.	3	Jan. 10	Dec. 27	Jan. 10
Maine Central (quarter)	1½	Jan. 1	.....	.....
Manhattan Railway (quarter)	1	Jan. 2	Dec. 14	Dec. 24
Michigan Central (semi-annual)	2	Jan. 28	Holders of record	Dec. 31
Minneapolis & St. Louis	2	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
Minneapolis & St. Louis pf.	2	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
New York Central (quarter)	1¼	Jan. 15	Holders of record	Dec. 31
New York & Harlem R. R.	5	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Dec. 15
N. Y., N. Haven & Hart. (quarter).	2	Dec. 31	Dec. 15	Jan. 2
Norfolk & Southern (quarter)	1	Jan. 10	Dec. 29	Jan. 11
Northern Central (semi-annual)	4	Jan. 2	.....	.....
Northern of New Hamp. (quarter).	1½	Jan. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 10
Northern Pacific (quarter)	1	Feb. 5	Dec. 24	Jan. 10
Norwich & Worcester pf. (quarter).	2	Jan. 1	Dec. 15	Jan. 1
Oregon R. R. & Nav. pf.	$2	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Dec. 26
Pennsylvania & Northwestern	2	Jan. 10	.....	.....
Peoria & Pekin Union	6	Jan. 1	.....	.....
Phil., Wil. & Balt. (semi-annual)	4	Jan. 2	.....	.....
Pitts., Chi. & St. Louis pf.	2	Jan. 15	Holders of record	Jan. 5
Pitts., Ft. Wayne & Chi. (quarter).	1¾	Jan. 8	.....	.....
P., Ft. W. & C. special (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 2	.....	.....
Rich., Fred. & Pot. com and div. obl.	4	Jan. 2	Dec. 20	Jan. 3
Rio Grande West. pf. (quarter)	1¼	Feb. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 31
Rutland pf. (semi-annual)	2	Jan. 1	.....	.....
St. Joseph & Grand Island 1st pf.	2½	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
St. Louis & San Francisco 1st pf.	2	Jan. 7	Dec. 22	Jan. 7
Southwestern of Georgia	2½	Jan. 5	Dec. 18	Jan. 6
Texas Central pf.	5	Jan. 15	Jan. 5	Jan. 16
Worcester, Nashua & Rochester	3	Jan. 1	Dec. 22	Jan. 1

STREET RAILWAYS.

Capital Traction, Washington, D. C., (quarter)	1	Jan. 1	.....	.....
Chicago City Railway	3	Dec. 31	Dec. 15	Dec. 21
Cincinnati St. Ry. (quarter)	1¼	Jan. 2	Dec. 17	Dec. 24
City Ry., Dayton, Ohio, com. and pf. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 1	Dec. 20	Jan. 1
Consolidated Traction (N. J.)	1	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
Findlay (Ohio) St. Ry. (quarter)	¾	Jan. 10	.....	.....
Hestonville com.	$1	Jan. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 20
Hestonville pf.	$1.50	Jan. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 20
Metropolitan, New York, (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 15	Dec. 26	Jan. 16
Montville (Conn.) St. Ry.	3	Jan. 1	.....	.....
Nassau Electric R. R. pf.	4	Dec. 31	.....	.....
New London (Conn.) St. Ry.	2	Jan. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 20
Norwich (Conn.) St. Ry.	1½	Jan. 1	.....	.....
South Side El., Chic. (quarter)	¾	Dec. 31	Dec. 15	Dec. 21
13th & 15th Sts. (Philadelphia)	$6	Jan. 2	Dec. 21	Jan. 5
Twin City Rapid T. pf. (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 2	Dec. 27	Jan. 2
Union Passenger Railway (Phil.)	$4.75	Dec. 31	Dec. 30	Jan. 2
United Power & Transportation Co. (Philadelphia)	$1	Jan. 21	Jan. 15	Jan. 22
United Traction & Elec. Co. (N. J.)	1	Jan. 2	Dec. 19	Jan. 3
West End Street Ry. pf.	$2	Jan. 1	Dec. 18	Jan. 2
West Phila. Passenger Ry. (Phil.)	$3	Jan. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 15

BANK STOCKS.

Bank of America	7	Jan. 2	Dec. 21	Jan. 3
Bank of New York	5	Jan.	Dec. 18	Jan. 3
Brooklyn (Brooklyn)	3½	Jan.	Dec. 18	Jan.
Central National	4	Jan.	Dec. 22	Jan.
Chatham National (quarter)	4	Jan.	Dec. 21	Jan.
Columbia	4	Jan.	Dec. 20	Jan.
Continental (semi-annual)	3	Jan.	Dec. 24	Jan. 3
East River National	4	Jan.	.....	.....
Eleventh Ward (semi-annual)	4	Jan. 2	Dec. 21	Jan.
Fifth Avenue (Brooklyn)	3	Jan.	Dec. 21	Jan.
Fifth Avenue (New York)	20	Jan.	Dec. 24	Jan.
Fifth Avenue, New York, (extra)	5	Jan.	Dec. 24	Jan. 2
Fifth National (semi-annual)	6	Jan.	.....	.....
Fourth National (semi-annual)	3½	Jan.	Dec. 24	Jan.
Garfield National (quarter)	10	Dec. 31	Dec. 21	Jan.
Garfield National (extra)	3	Dec. 31	Dec. 21	Jan.
Hamilton	3	Jan. 2	Dec. 21	Jan.
Hanover National	5	Jan. 2	Dec. 21	Jan.
Irving National (semi-annual)	4	Jan.	Dec. 21	Jan.
Kings County (Brooklyn)	2½	Jan.	Dec. 27	Jan.
Leather Manufacturers' National (semi-annual)	5	Jan.	Dec. 26	Jan. 2
Manayunk National (Philadelphia)	5	Jan.	Holders of record	Dec. 31
Market & Fulton National	5	Jan.	Dec. 18	Jan.
Mechanics' National	4	Jan.	Dec. 21	Jan.
Mercantile National	3	Jan.	Dec. 22	Jan.
Merchants' Exchange National	3	Jan.	Dec. 18	Jan.
Merchants' National	3½	Jan.	Dec. 21	Jan.
Nassau National (Brooklyn)	6	Jan.	Dec. 20	Jan.
Nassau Nat., Brooklyn, (extra)	2	Jan.	Dec. 20	Jan.
National Bank of Commerce	4	Jan.	Dec. 21	Jan.
National Bank of the Republic	4	Jan.	Dec. 19	Jan.
National Broadway (semi-annual)	6	Jan.	Dec. 19	Jan.
National Citizens'	3½	Jan.	Dec. 21	Jan.
National Park	6	Jan.	Dec. 19	Jan.
Nat. Shoe & Leather (quarter)	1	Jan.	.....	.....
Oriental (semi-annual)	5	Jan.	.....	.....
People's, New York, (semi-annual).	5	Jan.	Dec. 26	Jan. 3
Seaboard National	5	Jan.	Dec. 20	Jan. 2
State (semi-annual)	3	Jan.	.....	.....
Twenty-sixth Ward (Brooklyn)	3	Jan.	Dec. 22	Jan.
Union (Brooklyn)	2½	Jan. 1	Dec. 26	Jan.
Wallabout (Brooklyn)	2½	Jan.	Dec. 22	Jan.
West Side (semi-annual)	6	Jan.	Dec. 20	Jan. 3

TRUST COMPANIES.

Brooklyn, Brooklyn, (quarter)	4	Jan.	Dec. 22	Jan. 3
Colonial	5	Jan.	Dec. 20	Jan. 3
Continental (quarter)	1½	Jan. 10	Dec. 22	Jan. 11
Fifth Avenue	4	Jan.	Dec. 20	Jan. 2
Franklin, Brooklyn, (quarter)	2½	Jan.	Dec. 24	Jan. 2
Girard (Philadelphia)	9	Jan.	Holders of record	Dec. 15
Knickerbocker (semi-annual)	3½	Jan.	Dec. 20	Jan. 2
Long Is. Loan & Trust, Brooklyn, (quarter)	2½	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Dec. 22
Manufacturers', (Brooklyn,) quarter.	2	Jan.	Dec. 22	Jan. 2
Manufacturers', (Brooklyn,) extra.	2	Jan.	Dec. 22	Jan. 2
Mercantile (quarter)	5	Jan.	Dec. 21	Jan. 2
People's, Brooklyn, (month)	1	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Dec. 3
Real Estate Trust (semi-annual)	4	Jan. 2	Dec. 24	Jan. 2
Title Guarantee & Trust Co. (quarter)	3	Jan. 2	Dec. 27	Jan. 2
Washington	5	Jan. 2	Dec. 24	Jan. 3
Williamsburg, Brooklyn, (semi-annual)	3	Jan. 2	Dec. 20	Jan. 3

FIRE INSURANCE.

Hamilton	3	Jan. 2	.....	.....

MISCELLANEOUS COMPANIES.

Alabama Steel & Shipbuilding Co. pf. (semi-annual)	3	Jan. 1	Dec. 21	Jan. 2
Amalgamated Copper Co. (quarter).	1½	Jan. 28	Dec. 27	Jan. 29
Amalgamated Copper Co. (extra)	½	Jan. 28	Dec. 27	Jan. 29
American Beet Sugar pf. (quarter).	1½	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Dec. 15
American Bridge Co. pf.	2⅜	Jan. 24	Jan. 10	Jan. 25
Am. Cement Co. (semi-annual)	3	Jan. 15	Jan. 5	Jan. 16
American Cement (extra)	1	Jan. 15	Jan. 5	Jan. 16
American Chicle Co. com.	2½	Dec. 31	Dec. 24	Jan. 21
American Chicle Co. pf.	1½	Dec. 31	Dec. 24	Jan. 21
American Express Co.	3	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Nov. 30
American Ice Co. pf. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 15	Jan. 2	Jan. 16
Am. Iron & Steel Mfg. Co. com.	25c	Jan. 2	.....	.....
Am. Iron & Steel Mfg. Co. pf. (quarter)	$1.25	Jan. 2	.....	.....
Am. Pipe Mfg., Phila., (quarter).	3	Jan. 1	Dec. 15	Jan. 2
American Pneumatic Service pf. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 10	Dec. 31	Jan. 21
American Screw (quarter)	1¼	Dec. 31	Holders of record	Dec. 21
American Sheet Steel pf. (quarter).	1¾	Jan. 15	Dec. 22	Jan. 16
Am. Smelting & Refining Co. pf. (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 8	Dec. 22	Jan. 9
American Snuff Co. pf.	3	Jan. 2	Dec. 22	Jan. 3
Am. Steel & Wire Co. (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 2	Dec. 17	Jan. 3
Am. Steel & Wire Co. pf. (quarter).	1¾	Jan. 2	Dec. 17	Jan. 3
American Sugar Ref. (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 2	Dec. 8	Jan. 3
American Sugar Ref. pf. (quarter).	1¾	Jan. 2	Dec. 8	Jan. 3
Am. Surety Co. (quarter)	2	Dec. 31	Dec. 15	Jan. 10
Am. Tel. & Tel. Co. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
Am. Tel. & Tel. (extra)	¾	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
Am. Thread pf. (semi-annual)	2½	Jan. 1	Nov. 25	Jan. 2
Am. Tobacco Co. com. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Feb. 2
Am. Tobacco Co. pf. (quarter)	2	Feb. 1	Jan. 15	Feb. 2
Am. Woolen Co. pf. (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 15	Jan. 3	Jan. 16
Androscoggin Mills (Boston)	4	Jan. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 19
Arlington Mills Co.	3	Jan. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 22
Boston Belting Co. (quarter)	2	Jan. 1	Dec. 15	Jan. 1
Bliss (E. W.) com. (quarter)	2½	Jan. 2	Dec. 27	Jan. 1
Bliss (E. W.) pf. (quarter)	2	Jan. 2	Dec. 27	Jan. 1
Boston Electric Light Co.	$2	Jan. 15	Jan. 1	Jan. 15
Boston Towboat Co. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 1	Holders of record	Dec. 20
Brooklyn Warehouse & Storage Co. (semi-annual)	2½	.....	.....	.....
Buffalo Hump Mining Co.	1	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Dec. 20
Castle Braid Co. (quarter)	1½	Dec. 31	Dec. 13	Jan. 2
Celluloid Co. (quarter)	1½	Dec. 31	Dec. 14	Jan. 2
Celluloid Co. (extra)	1	Dec. 31	Dec. 14	Jan. 2
Centennial Eureka Mining Co. (quarter)	50c	Jan. 1	Dec. 21	Jan. 2
Central Fireworks Co. com.	1	Feb. 9	Feb. 1	Feb. 11
Central Fireworks Co. pf. (semi-annual)	3½	Feb. 9	Feb. 1	Feb. 11
Central & South American Telegraph Co. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 8	Dec. 28	Jan. 9
Chicago Junc. Rwys. & Union Stock Yards (quarter)	1½	Jan. 2	Dec. 13	Jan. 3
Chicago Junc. Rwys. & Union Stock Yards pf. (quarter)	2	Jan. 2	Dec. 13	Jan. 3
Chicago Telephone (quarter)	3	Jan. 2	Dec. 26	Jan. 3
Cincinnati Gas Light & Coke (quarter)	2	Jan. 2	Dec. 18	Jan. 2
Columbus Edison Co. pf.	3	Jan. 2	Dec. 19	Jan. 22
Commercial Cable (quarter)	1¾	Jan. 2	Dec. 20	Jan. 2
Commercial Cable (extra)	1	Jan. 2	Dec. 17	Jan. 1
Continental Tobacco pf. (quarter).	1¾	Jan. 2	Dec. 12	Jan. 3
Corporation Liquidating Co. pf. (semi-annual)	3½	Jan. 1	Dec. 26	Jan. 2
Cutting Car Co. (quarter)	1	Jan. 1	.....	.....
Diamond State Steel	4	Jan. 22	Jan. 12	Jan. 23
Dominion Coal pf. (semi-annual)	4	Jan. 1	Dec. 17	Jan. 1
Electric Storage Battery pf.	6	Jan. 2	Dec. 20	Jan. 2
Empire Steel & Iron pf.	1½	Jan. 2	Dec. 26	Jan. 3
Erie Telep. & Teleg. (quarter)	1¼	Jan. 14	Dec. 31	Jan. 14
Exploration Syndicate Co. of N. Y. (semi-annual)	5	Jan. 15	Dec. 31	Jan. 16
Federal Steel pf. (quarter)	1½	Jan. 21	Dec. 26	Jan. 10
General Chemical Co. pf. (quarter).	1½	Jan. 2	Dec. 22	Jan. 2
General Electric Co. (quarter)	2	Jan. 15	Holders of record	Dec. 29
General Electric Co. (extra)	1	Jan. 15	Holders of record	Dec. 29
General Electric pf. (semi-annual).	3½	Jan. 31	Holders of record	Jan. 15
Hartford City Gas Light	4	Jan. 2	Holders of record	Dec. 24
International Paper pf. (quarter)	1½	Dec. 31	Dec. 14	Jan. 2
Jackson Gas Co.	2	Jan. 2	Dec. 22	Jan. 3
J. B. Stetson Co. old com. (annual).	$12	Jan. 15	Holders of record	Jan. 9
J. B. Stetson Co. old com. (extra).	$3	Jan. 15	Holders of record	Jan. 9
J. B. Stetson Co. new com.	$6	Jan. 15	Holders of record	Jan. 9
J. B. Stetson Co. new com (extra).	$1.50	Jan. 15	Holders of record	Jan. 9
J. B. Stetson Co. pf. (semi-annual).	$4	Jan. 15	Holders of record	Jan. 9

ON THE LONDON EXCHANGE.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The Stock Exchange last week seemed to have every prospect of passing the final settlement of the year with ease and quietude. Although business was weak, it had been fairly brisk, in spite of the holidays, with good buying for the new account. This promising outlook, however, was turned into gloom by yesterday's collapse of the London and Globe Financial Corporation, which disorganized the markets and resulted in thirteen failures, involving twenty-nine members.

It is reassuring, nevertheless, to note that other prices were but little affected, the chief movements being declines in some Americans held by the embarrassed firms.

Consols closed lower, at 97⅛. Foreigners mostly lost fractionally. Home Rails, after much irregularity during the week, closed generally lower. Americans, in spite of realization by the suspended firms, closed steady. Penns

FINANCIAL.

Hanover National Bank
Capital $3,000,000. Surplus and profits, $5,000,000.
9 and 11 Nassau St.

Phenix National Bank
68 Wall Street.

Colonial Trust Company
CAPITAL, SURPLUS, AND UNDIVIDED PROFITS, $1,800,000.00
ST. PAUL B'LD'G. 222 B'way.

Bankers' Cards.

Redmond, Kerr & Co.
BANKERS,
41 WALL ST., N. Y.
Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.
Transact a general banking business. Receive deposits subject to draft. Dividends and interest collected and remitted. Act as Fiscal Agent for and negotiate and issue loans of railroads, street railways, gas companies, etc. Securities bought and sold on commission.
DEAL IN
High-Grade Investment Securities.
Lists of current offerings sent on application.
PHILADELPHIA CORRESPONDENTS,
GRAHAM, KEITH & CO.

New York Telephone, 3790 John. Brooklyn Telephone, 391 Brooklyn.
Geo. H. PRENTISS & CO.
DEALERS IN LOCAL SECURITIES,
48 Wall Street. New York. 208 Montague St Brooklyn.
MEMBERS OF N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE.

E. C. POTTER & CO.,
BANKERS AND BROKERS,
36 WALL STREET.
Members of New York Stock Exchange

Established 1868. Tel. call. 2385 Cortlandt.
FRED. H. SMITH,
STOCK BROKER, 8 BROAD ST., N. Y.
Member New York Con. Stock Exchange.
Stocks, Bonds and Grain.
Bought, sold, and carried on margin.
COMMISSION 1-16TH.
Book of Railway Statistics upon application.

FINANCIAL.

CENTRAL REALTY BOND AND TRUST COMPANY
59 TO 65 LIBERTY ST., NEW YORK.
Capital and Surplus, $1,500,000.
Allows interest on deposits subject to check and transacts all Trust Company business.
HENRY MORGENTHAU, President.
HUGH J. GRANT, Vice-Pres. T. STALLKNECHT, 2d Vice-Pres.
W. J. B. MILLS, Treasurer. ERNEST EHRMANN, Secretary.
DIRECTORS:
Frederic P. Olcott, Augustus D. Juilliard,
James Stillman, Henry O. Havemeyer,
Anthony N. Brady, William A. Nash,
Alwyn Ball, jr., James N. Jarvie,
John D. Crimmins, James H. Post,
Michael Coleman, Frederick Southack,
Ernest Ehrmann, Hugh J. Grant
Henry Morgenthau.

January Investments.
OUR LIST OF
Municipal and Corporation Bonds,
netting the investor from 4 to 5½%, will be sent to any address upon request.
W. J. HAYES & SONS
111 Congress Street, Boston, Mass. Chamber of Commerce, Cincinnati, O. Chamber of Commerce Bldg, Cleveland, Ohio.

METROPOLITAN TRUST COMPANY
OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.
37 and 39 Wall St.
Capital $1,000,000
Surplus and profits..... $1,558,000
BRAYTON IVES, President.
FREDERICK D. TAPPEN, V. Pres.
BEVERLY CHEW, Second Vice President.
ALEXANDER S. WEBB, Jr., Secretary.
BERTRAM CRIGER, Asst Secretary.
TRUSTEES:
Morris K. Jesup, Brayton Ives,
Dudley Olcott, D. O. Mills,
Geo. A. Hardin, Fred'k D. Tappen,
Edward D. Judson, Bradley Martin,
Robert Hoe, Heber R. Bishop,
William L. Bull, Wm. H. Tillinghast,
Richard Mortimer, Geo. Henry Warren,
Samuel Thomas, Hiley Fiske,
John E. Parsons, J. Edward Simmons,
John T. Terry, George Coppell.

Oregon Railway & Navigation Co.
First Mortgage 6 Per Cent. Bonds.
Sealed proposals will be received at the office of The Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, 16, 18, 20 & 22 William Street, New York City, for the sale to the trustees of one hundred and thirty-four First Mortgage Bonds of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company for the Sinking Fund as provided in the mortgage to the undersigned securing the same, dated September 1st, 1880.
In the event of the Trustees not being able to purchase the bonds in accordance with the terms of Section 4, Article 2, of the mortgage, it will become necessary for the trustee to DRAW bonds BY LOT AT PAR.
Proposals must be presented before 12 o'clock M. on the 31st day of December, 1900, and should be directed as follows: Proposals for the Sinking Fund, The Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, Trustee, E. S. Marston, President, 16, 18, 20 & 22 William Street, New York City.
The Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., Trustee
By E. S. MARSTON, President.
December 15th, 1900.

LOUIS MESIER, Auctioneer.
BY ADRIAN H. MULLER & SON,
WEDNESDAY, JANY. 9TH, 1901,
at 12:30 O'CLOCK, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway.
FOR ACCOUNT OF THE REORGANIZATION COMMITTEE OF THE CINCINNATI, JACKSON & MACKINAW R'WAY CO.
41,900 shs. The Cincinnati Northern R. R. Co. Pref'd.
36,100 shs. The Cincinnati Northern R. R. Co. common.
1,500 shs. Jackson & Cincinnati Ry. Co. common.
15,000 shs. Detroit, Toledo & Milwaukee R. R. Co.
$300,000 Jackson & Cincinnati Ry. Co. 1st Mtge. 5 p. c. Bds., March, 1896, Coups. on.
$1,500,000 Detroit, Toledo & Milwaukee R. R. Co. 1st Mtge. 6 p. c. 50-year Gold Bds.

CHICAGO AND NORTHWESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY SINKING FUND BONDS OF 1879.—Notice is hereby given that enough of the above-entitled bonds, both SIX and FIVE PER CENT., will be drawn by lot on January 31st, 1901, at the rate of 105 and accrued interest, to absorb the sum of $144,302.50 deposited in the Sinking Fund with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, Trustee, and interest will cease to accrue upon the bonds so drawn on and after January 31st, 1901, upon publication of the numbers designating the drawn bonds, pursuant to the terms of the mortgage securing the same.
CHICAGO & NORTHWESTERN RAILWAY CO.
By S. G. HOWE, TREASURER.
December 31st, 1900.

DURHAM COAL & COKE COMPANY.
First Mortgage 6 Per Cent. Gold Bonds.
The undersigned will receive sealed proposals up to 12 M. on January 14, 1901, for the sale to it of bonds issued under the First Mortgage, dated October 6, 1899, at a price not exceeding par and accrued interest, to an amount sufficient to use the sum of Five Thousand and Forty Dollars.
Continental Trust Co. of the City of New York.
By WILLARD V. KING, Secretary.
New York, December 31, 1900.

FINANCIAL.

We herewith offer for subscription:

$10,000,000

Southern Pacific Company

2-5 Years 4½% Gold Bonds.

Due December 1, 1905.

(Redeemable at the option of the Company on and after December 1st, 1902, at par and accrued interest.)

At the price of 98% and Accrued Interest, payable as follows:

$50.00 per Bond on January 7, 1901, and
$937.50 per Bond on February 1, 1901.
$987.50 per Bond of $1,000.

The Bonds are Coupon Bonds in denomination of $1,000 each, with the privilege of registration as to principal. They are dated December 1, 1900, from which date they begin to bear interest at the rate of 4½% p. a., payable half-yearly on June 1st and December 1st. Both the principal and interest of the Bonds are payable in the City of New York in United States Gold Coin of the present standard of weight and fineness and without deduction for any tax or taxes which the Southern Pacific Company may be required to pay or to retain therefrom under any present or future law of the United States or of any State or County or Municipality therein.

Mr. Charles H. Tweed, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Southern Pacific Co., states the following in a letter to us, dated Dec. 27th, 1900:

"The $10,000,000 Southern Pacific Company 4½% Gold Bonds are a direct obligation of the Southern Pacific Company, and are secured by a Mortgage or Deed of Trust dated December 1, 1900, to the Central Trust Company of New York, Trustee. They form part of a present issue of $15,000,000 of such bonds, secured by deposit with the Trustee of $7,174,000, face value of various bonds, and $59,187,000, face value of various stocks, of companies controlled by the Southern Pacific Company, besides stock of Wells, Fargo & Co. to the amount of $1,580,000 face value.

The Mortgage contains a statement of the securities deposited with the Trustee, as well as the terms and conditions under which further issues of Bonds may be made against deposit with the Trustee of additional securities or the mortgaging of additional properties as security thereunder, but the aggregate amount of Bonds at any one time outstanding thereunder is not to exceed $30,000,000.

The Company reserves the right, upon three months' previous notice, to redeem all or any part of the Bonds at par and accrued interest on, or at any interest date after, December 1, 1902, under certain terms and conditions, as stated in the Mortgage, but if a portion only of the outstanding Bonds are at any time to be so redeemed, their distinguishing numbers are to be determined by lot.

The proceeds of the $15,000,000 Bonds will reimburse the Company for a portion of its capital expenditures during the last five years, including the acquisition of the control through stock ownership of upwards of 580 miles of railway, and of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and will furnish funds for the improvement and betterment of its properties.

THE EARNINGS AND EXPENSES OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY, in respect of its Proprietary and Leased Lines, and the Miscellaneous Income and Expenses of the Southern Pacific Company, and of all Proprietary Companies, for the year ending 30th June, 1900, as compared with the year ending 30th June, 1899, (excluding Houston and Texas Central R. R. and lines in Texas subsidiary thereto,) were, as certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co.:

	YEAR ENDING JUNE 20, 1900.	1899.
Average miles of rail-lines operated Proprietary and Non-proprietary	7,545.17	7,174.72
Gross earnings of Proprietary and Non-proprietary lines	$64,400,725.70	$56,305,351.94
Operating expenses of Proprietary and Non-proprietary lines, including taxes and rentals	44,242,979.71	38,230,813.11
NET INCOME FROM OPERATION	$20,157,745.99	$18,074,538.83
Difference between miscellaneous Income and miscellaneous Expenses	+ 1,321,887.57	— 767,740.44
	$21,479,633.56	$17,306,798.39
Interest on funded debt (including interest on Central Pacific R. R. Company notes to the United States since 1st February, 1899, and Thurman Act Requirements prior to that date)	14,226,212.88	12,828,822.84
SURPLUS	$7,253,420.68	$4,477,975.55

Out of which were appropriated for Betterments and Additions to Proprietary Lines, New Equipment, and Miscellaneous Items not chargeable to Income, $2,730,407.07 in 1900, and $3,334,789.93 in 1900."

Payment in full may be made in purchaser's option, on January 7th, 1901, under discount at the rate of 4½% p. a., against delivery of Interim Certificates issued by the Central Trust Company of New York, Trustee.

COPIES OF THE MORTGAGE, embodying the terms and conditions upon which the security for the Bonds is to be held, dealt with, and disposed of, may be obtained at the Central Trust Company of New York, or at our office.

The subscription will be opened on Friday, JANUARY 4TH, 1901, at 10 o'clock and close at 3 o'clock, or earlier, on the same day.

Allotments will be made as soon as possible thereafter, the right being reserved to reject any applications and to award a smaller amount than applied for. Default of payment of the installment due February 1st, 1901, will render the previous payment liable to forfeiture.

Subscriptions will be received simultaneously in AMSTERDAM by Messrs. TEIXEIRA DE MATTOS BROTHERS, and application will be made to list the Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

Speyer & Co.,
30 BROAD STREET.
New York, December 28th, 1900.

INASMUCH as the Government will discontinue the refunding of the United States 3's, 4's and 5's on Monday next, December 31st, I have completed arrangements and am now prepared to take—

U. S. 3's, due August, 1908-1918 on a 1.35% basis
U. S. 4's, due July, 1907 . . . . on a 1.25% basis
U. S. 5's, due February, 1904 . . on a 0.50% basis

in exchange for United States Gold 2's of 1930, on a 1.65% basis, this offer being subject to previous sale and to acceptance and delivery before 3 P. M. on Monday, December 31st, which gives holders of the old bonds a last opportunity to effect this advantageous exchange, it being very evident that the United States Gold 2's will be henceforth the most desirable of all Government bonds, being payable in Gold and not redeemable until January, 1930. Furthermore, National Banks will save one-half per cent. on new circulation based thereon, and both banks and individuals will increase their annual income 3/10 of 1% on the 3's, 2/5 of 1% on the 4's, and 1 15/100 of 1% on the 5's, by means of the exchange.

J. NEWTON,
36 Wall Street, New York City.

TO THE FIRST MORTGAGE BONDHOLDERS OF THE
Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company.
The interest on the first mortgage bonds of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company, which, by agreement of October 12th, 1895, between a Committee of the Bondholders and the Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf Railway Company and its Receiver, was reduced for a time to four per cent., will, after December 1, 1900, accrue and be payable at the original rate of six per cent.
The control of the Company through stock ownership is in the Colorado and Southern Railway Company, and it appears from published reports that the present earnings of the property are not sufficient to pay the full interest on the bonds. Under these circumstances it becomes essential that the bondholders unite in securing all the consideration to which they are entitled, and, if need be, enforcing their rights under the mortgages and otherwise protecting their interests.
The undersigned have been requested by the principal bondholders to act as a bondholders' committee, and in order to confer upon the committee necessary authority, the bondholders are respectfully urged to deposit their bonds at once with the United States Trust Company under a bondholders' agreement lodged with it.
Engraved certificates of deposit will be issued by the Trust Company, and application will be made to the New York Stock Exchange to list the same.
Copies of the agreement can be obtained either from the Trust Company or from the Committee.
HENRY K. McHARG, 40 Wall St.
SIDELL TILGHMAN, 40 Wall St.
FRANKLIN B. LORD, 120 Broadway.
LORD, DAY & LORD, Counsel.

BROWN BROTHERS & CO.,
NO. 59 WALL ST.,
ISSUE INTERNATIONAL CHEQUES, COMMERCIAL and TRAVELERS' CREDITS AVAILABLE IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

UNLISTED MARKETABLE SECURITIES A SPECIALTY.
DAVID PFEIFFER, 18 WALL ST.

North American Trust Company
135 BROADWAY, COR. CEDAR ST., NEW YORK.
Capital & Surplus, $4,500,000
Fiscal Agent of the United States for Cuba.
DIRECTORS:
Charlton T. Lewis, Henry F. Shoemaker,
John G. Carlisle, Roland R. Conklin,
E. C. Potter, Wager Swayne,
Samuel M. Jarvis, James S. Kuhn,
James B. Dill, William H. Taylor,
Alvah Trowbridge, Stanley L. Conklin,
Frank H. Ray, Heman Dowd,
Luis Suarez Galban, Archer Brown,
Fletcher S. Heath, Benjamin F. Tracy,
Oakleigh Thorne, John C. Tomlinson,
E. W. Scott, John Hone,
H. B. Hollins, F. R. Coudert, Jr.,
Frank Rockefeller, E. A. De Lima,
Wm. H. Cheesebrough, Leopoldo Carbajal,
Marquis de Pinar del Rio
BRANCHES:
LONDON, SANTIAGO DE CUBA, HAVANA, CIENFUEGOS, MATANZAS.

The Trust Co. of America,
149 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Capital and Surplus, $5,216,626.32.
ASHBEL P. FITCH..... President.
WILLIAM H. LEUPP, WILLIAM BARBOUR, Vice Presidents.
RAYMOND J. CHATRY, Secretary. HENRY B. MANNING, Vice President.
ALBERT L. BANISTER, Treasurer. LAWRENCE O. MURRAY, Trust Officer.

WE LOAN MONEY TO PEOPLE IN ANY kind of business; also on salaries. 150 Nassau St. Office 729.

FINANCIAL.

Dividends.

The Colorado Midland Railway Co.
The coupon maturing January 1st, 1901, on the first mortgage bonds of this Company, on bonds Nos. 6251 to 7261 for $20 each, and on bonds Nos. 1 to 6250 and Nos. 7301 to 8550 for $15 each, will be paid on and after that date, at the office of the Central Trust Company of New York, 54 Wall Street, New York.
The Railway Company has waived the right under the first mortgage, to make part payment in scrip for preferred stock trust certificates, of the coupons maturing July 1st, 1901, and July 1st, 1902, on Bonds Nos. 1 to 6250 and Nos. 7301 to 8550, and the amount of these coupons, $25 each, will, therefore, on maturity, be payable in cash.
New York, December 20th, 1900.
HARRY BRONNER, Treasurer.

Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad Co.
New York, December 12, 1900.
The Board of Directors this day declared a semi-annual dividend of TWO AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. (2½%) on the Preferred (formerly known as Second Preferred) Stock, and a dividend of TWO PER CENT. (2%) on the common stock of this company, payable January 15th, 1901, at the Central Trust Company to stockholders of record on the 31st day of December, 1900. Transfer books will be closed December 31st, 1900, and reopened January 16th, 1901.
F. H. DAVIS, Treasurer.

The Union Bag & Paper Company,
Chicago, Ill., Dec. 10th, 1900.
Seventh Quarterly Dividend.
A dividend of ONE AND THREE-QUARTERS PER CENT. on the preferred capital stock of this Company has been declared payable on and after Janv. 2, 1901, to stockholders of record at the close of business December 15th, 1900. The transfer books of the preferred stock will close on December 15th, 1900, at 12 M., and reopen on Wednesday, Janv. 2, 1901, at 10 A. M.
FRANK WASHBURN, Secretary.

The Central National Bank of the City of New York.
New York, Dec. 21, 1900.
SEVENTY-SECOND SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND.
The Board of Directors has this day declared a semi-annual dividend of FOUR PER CENT., free from tax, payable on and after January 2, 1901. The transfer books will be closed from 12 M. on December 22, 1900, to the morning of January 2, 1901.
C. S. YOUNG, Cashier.

New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company,
Office of the Treasurer,
New York, Dec. 19th, 1900.
The Board of Directors of this Company, at a meeting held this day, declared a dividend of ONE AND ONE-QUARTER PER CENT. on its capital stock, payable at this office on the 15th day of January next, to stockholders of record at the close of business on Monday, the 31st inst.
GEORGE S. PRINCE, Treasurer.

CONSOLIDATED GAS COMPANY OF NEW YORK, 4 Irving Place.—December 31st, 1900.—The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of this Company for the election of the Trustees to serve during the ensuing year will be held at this office Monday, Jan. 21st, 1901. Polls open from 12 M. to 1 P. M. Transfer books will close Saturday, January 5th, at 12 M., and reopen Tuesday, Jan. 22d, 1901.
O. F. ZOLLIKOFFER, Secretary.

The Chicago Junction Railways and Union Stock Yards Company.
OFFICE OF THE COMPANY,
40 Wall Street, N. Y. City.
Coupon No. 21 of the Company's Collateral Trust 5% Gold Bonds will be paid on and after January 2d, 1901, in New York at the Central Trust Company and in London at the office of Blake, Boissevain & Co.
E. M. F. MILLER, Secretary.

DIVIDEND NO. 28.
THE RIO GRANDE WESTERN RAILWAY CO. will pay the regular quarterly dividend, No. 28, of ONE DOLLAR AND TWENTY-FIVE CENTS ($1.25) per share, February 1st, 1901, to PREFERRED stockholders of record December 31st. Checks will be mailed.
WALTER HINCHMAN, Treasurer.
December 8, 1900.

Tennessee Coal, Iron and R. R. Co.
No. 80 Broadway, New York, Dec. 18th, 1900.
The regular semi-annual dividend of three per cent. on the preferred stock of the Alabama Steel and Ship-Building Company, guaranteed by this Company, will be paid by check January 1st, 1901. Transfer books will be closed December 21st, 1900, and reopened January 2d, 1901.
J. BOWRON, Treasurer.

Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis Railway Co. of Illinois.
Coupons due January 1st, 1901, from the Consolidated Mortgage 5% Thirty-Year Gold Bonds of this Company will be paid on and after that date at the office of Dent, Palmer & Co., No. 27 Pine Street, New York.
RALPH BLAISDELL, Treasurer.

The National Shoe and Leather Bank of the City of New York,
New York, Dec. 19, 1900.
NINETY-THIRD (93d) DIVIDEND.
The Directors have declared a quarterly dividend of One Per Cent., payable, free of tax, Jan. 2, 1901, until which date the transfer book will be closed.
JOHN I. COLE, Cashier.

The Chatham National Bank,
QUARTERLY DIVIDEND.
A Quarterly Dividend of FOUR PER CENT. out of the earnings of the past three months has this day been declared by the Board of Directors payable on and after January 2d, 1901, until which date transfer books will be closed.
H. P. DOREMUS, Cashier.
New York, December 21st, 1900.

The Hanover National Bank
OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK,
9 and 11 Nassau St.,
New York, December 21st, 1900.
The Board of Directors have this day declared a dividend of FIVE PER CENT., free of tax, payable on and after January 2d, 1901. The transfer books will remain closed until that date.
WILLIAM LOGAN, Cashier.

Fort Worth & Rio Grande R'way Co.
Fort Worth, Texas, Dec. 30, 1900.
The Three Per Cent. coupons on the First Mortgage Bonds of the Fort Worth and Rio Grande Railway Company, due January 2, 1901, will be paid on and after January 2, 1901, on presentation at the office of Messrs. H. H. Hollins & Co., 15 Wall Street, New York.
JOHN HORNBY, President.

The Eleventh Ward Bank,
New York, December 21, 1900.
The Board of Directors have this day declared a semi-annual dividend of FOUR (4) PER CENT., free of tax, payable on and after January 2d, 1901. The transfer books will remain closed until that date.
CHARLES E. BROWN, Cashier.

The Bank of America,
New York, December 21st, 1900.
The Board of Directors have to-day declared a semi-annual dividend of seven (7) per cent., free of tax, payable January 2d, 1901, to stockholders of record of this date.
The transfer books will remain closed until January 3d, 1901. W. M. BENNET, Cashier.

New York, December 31, 1900.
The Morton Trust Company, No. 38 Nassau Street, New York, will pay on and after January 2d, 1901, Five Dollars per Bond on each of the Class B Bonds of the AMERICAN TRANSPORTATION COMPANY on presentation and surrender to said Trust Company of coupon of said bonds, due January 1, 1901.

Central Union Gas Company.
New York, December 30, 1900.
The coupons of the first mortgage bonds of the Central Union Gas Co., due January 1, 1901, will be paid on and after January 2, 1901, at the office of H. B. Hollins & Co., 15 Wall St., New York City.
WILLIAM R. BEAL, President.

The National Bank of the Republic,
New York, December 19th, 1900.
The Board of Directors have this day declared a Dividend of FOUR (4%) PER CENT., free of tax, payable on and after January 2nd, 1901, until which date the transfer books will be closed.
C. H. STOUT, Cashier.

December 20th, 1900.
The coupons due January 1st, 1901, on the Pleasant Valley Coal Company's First Mortgage Five Per Cent. Bonds will be paid on and after January 2d, by the Morton Trust Company, 38 Nassau Street, New York.
WILLIAM F. COLTON, Treasurer.

113th Dividend
Fifth National Bank.
New York, Dec. 26, 1900.
This Bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of SIX PER CENT., free of tax, payable January 2d prox.
A. THOMPSON, Cashier.

Bridgeport Traction Company.
The Coupons of the Bridgeport Traction Company, due Jan. 1st, 1901, will be paid on presentation, on and after Jan. 2d, at the office of REDMOND, KERR & CO., 41 Wall Street, New York City.

Mechanics' National Bank.
New York, Dec. 21, 1900.
A dividend of FOUR PER CENT. has to-day been declared by this bank, payable Jan. 2d, 1901. Transfer books will remain closed until that date.
G. W. GARTH, Cashier.

San Francisco & North Pacific Railway Co.
Coupon No. 24 of the above railway, maturing January 1, 1901, will be paid on and after January 2 at the office of LADENBURG, THALMANN & CO., 46 Wall St., New York.

Consolidated Water Co. of Utica.
Coupons of the above Company falling due Jan. 1st, 1901, will be paid on and after Jan. 2d, at the office of REDMOND, KERR & CO., No. 41 Wall Street, New York.

East River National Bank.
New York, Dec. 22, 1900.
A dividend of Four (4) Per Cent. has been declared payable on and after Wednesday, January 2, 1901. Z. E. NEWELL, Cashier.

The Triple-State Natural Gas and Oil Co.'s
Coupons due January 1st, 1901, will be paid on or after January 2d by the CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY.

FINANCIAL.

Dividends.

Kountze Brothers
will pay the interest due January 2d, 1901, on the following bonds, at their banking house, corner of Broadway and Cedar Street, New York City:
ARAPAHOE CO., COLO., SCHOOL DISTRICTS.
ALBION CITY, NEBRASKA.
AURORA CITY, NEBRASKA.
BINGHAM CO., IDAHO.
BOONE CO., NEBRASKA.
BOZEMAN CITY, MONTANA.
BOISE CO., IDAHO.
BUFFALO CO., NEBRASKA.
BURT CO., NEBRASKA.
BUTLER CO., NEBRASKA.
CANTON CITY, OHIO.
CASPER, TOWN OF, MONTANA.
CENTRAL CITY, NEBRASKA.
CLAY CO., NEBRASKA.
COLFAX CO., NEBRASKA.
COLORADO STATE CAPITOL BUILDING.
COLUMBUS PRECINCT, PLATTE CO., NEB.
COSTILLA CO., COLORADO.
CRETE CITY, NEBRASKA.
CUSTER CO., MONTANA.
DAWSON CO., MONTANA.
DELTA CO., COLORADO.
DODGE CO., NEBRASKA.
DOUGLAS CO., NEBRASKA.
EAGLE CO., COLORADO.
ELGIN CITY, OREGON.
FALLS CITY, NEBRASKA.
FAIRBURY CITY, NEBRASKA.
FERGUS CO., MONTANA.
FREMONT CO., COLORADO.
GAGE CO., NEBRASKA.
GOLDFIELD CITY, COLORADO.
GRAND ISLAND CITY, NEBRASKA.
GRANT'S PASS, ORE., NEW WATER, LIGHT & POWER CO.
HASTINGS CITY, NEBRASKA.
JEFFERSON CO., COLORADO.
JEFFERSON CO., NEBRASKA.
KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI.
KANSAS CITY, MO., BOARD OF EDUCATION.
KEOKUK CITY, IOWA.
KOOTENAI CO., IDAHO.
LINCOLN CITY, NEBRASKA.
LINCOLN CO., NEBRASKA.
LOUISVILLE, TOWN OF, COLORADO.
MESA CO., COLORADO.
NUCKOLLS CO., NEBRASKA.
NEWBERG CITY, OREGON.
NORFOLK CITY, NEBRASKA.
NAT'L LOAN & INVESTMENT CO., DETROIT
OMAHA CITY, NEBRASKA.
OMAHA CITY, NEB., SCHOOL DISTRICT.
ONEIDA CO., IDAHO.
RIO GRANDE CO., COLORADO.
ROUTT CO., COLORADO.
SOUTH OMAHA CITY, NEBRASKA.
SUMMIT CO., COLORADO.
THAYER CO., NEBRASKA.
UNITA CO., WYOMING.
WASHINGTON CO., NEBRASKA.
WEST POINT PRECINCT, CUMING CO., NEB.
WESTON CO., WYOMING.
WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, TOWN OF, MONT.
WORTHINGTON, VILLAGE OF, MINNESOTA.

The Baltimore & Ohio R. R. Co.'s Prior Lien 3½% Gold Bonds.
Coupon No. 5, due January 1, 1901, from the above Bonds, will be paid at maturity upon presentation at the Office of the Company, No. 2 Wall Street, New York.
For packages of coupons left for verification on and after Saturday, December 22, 1900, temporary receipts will be given.
The books for the registration and transfer of the above-mentioned Bonds, and also those for the registration and transfer of The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company's First Mortgage Bonds, will close at noon on Saturday, Dec. 22, 1900, and will reopen at 10 A. M. on Jan. 24, 1901.
J. V. McNEAL, Treasurer.

The Baltimore & Ohio R. R. Co.'s Southwestern Division First Mortgage 3½% Gold Bonds.
Coupon No. 4, due January 1, 1901, from the above Bonds, will be paid at maturity upon presentation at the Office of the Company, No. 2 Wall Street, New York.
For packages of coupons left for verification on and after Saturday, December 22, 1900, temporary receipts will be given.
The books for the registration and transfer of the above-mentioned Bonds will close at noon on Saturday, December 22, 1900, and will reopen at 10 A. M. on January 2d, 1901.
J. V. McNEAL, Treasurer.

Consolidated Traction Company,
29 Exchange Place,
Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 26, 1900.
The Board of Directors have this day ordered paid on January 15, 1901, out of the rental payment made by the North Jersey Street Railway Company to the Consolidated Traction Company under terms of the lease between said companies dated May 25, 1898, a Dividend of One Per Cent. (1%) on the capital stock of the Consolidated Traction Company.
Payment will be made to stockholders of record on the 31st day of December, 1900. Transfer books close December 31, 1900, at 3 P. M., and reopen January 16, 1901, at 10 A. M.
E. N. HILL, Treasurer.

The Merchants' National Bank
OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.
193D CONSECUTIVE SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND.
December 20th, 1900.
The Directors of this Bank have this day declared a dividend of THREE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT., (3½%,) free of tax, payable January 2d, 1901.
The Transfer Books will be closed on and after December 21st, 1900, and reopened January 3d, 1901.
JOSEPH W. HARRIMAN, Cashier.

Garfield National Bank,
23d St. and 6th Av.
New York, Dec. 21st, 1900.
The Board of Directors has this day declared a quarterly dividend of TEN PER CENT. and an extra dividend of FIVE PER CENT. upon the capital stock of this bank, payable, free of tax, on and after December 31st, 1900. The transfer books will be closed until Wednesday, Jan. 2d, 1901, at ten o'clock.
R. W. POOR, Cashier.

The Fourth National Bank
of the City of New York.
New York, Dec. 24th, 1900.
The Board of Directors has this day declared a semi-annual dividend of THREE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT., free of tax, payable on and after January 2d, proximo.
The transfer books will close at 3 P. M. this date, reopening January 2d, 1901.
CHARLES H. PATTERSON, Cashier.

Lake Erie & Western Railroad Company.
Grand Central Station,
New York, Dec. 20th, 1900.
The Board of Directors of this Company has this day declared a dividend of TWO PER CENT. upon its Preferred Capital Stock, payable at this office on the 15th of January next to stockholders of record at 3 o'clock P. M. on Monday, the 31st of December. The transfer books will not be closed.
CHARLES F. COX, Treasurer.

The Peoples Bank of the City of New York,
New York, December 20th, 1900.
NINETY-NINTH CONSECUTIVE SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND.
The Board of Directors have this day declared a semi-annual dividend of FIVE PER CENT., free of tax, payable on and after January 2nd, 1901. The transfer books will be closed from the 26th inst. until that date.
WILLIAM MILNE, Cashier.

The Washington Trust Company of the City of New York.
2[illegible] Broadway, New York, December 19, 1900.
A dividend of FIVE PER CENT. on the capital stock of this company has this day been declared, payable on and after January 2d, 1901.
Transfer books close on December 24th and reopen January 3d, 1901.
FRANCIS H. PAGE, Secretary.

United Traction and Electric Company.
Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 13, 1900.
A dividend of ONE PER CENT. on the Capital Stock of this Company will be paid to the registered holders on the 2d day of January, 1901. Transfer books will be closed on the 19th inst., and will reopen January 3d, 1901.
C. S. SWEETLAND, Treasurer.

Leather Manufacturers National Bank,
29 Wall St.
135th Dividend.
New York, December 26th, 1900.
The Board of Directors has this day declared a semi-annual dividend of FIVE PER CENT., free of tax, payable January 2d, 1901.
The transfer books will be closed until that date.
G. W. McGARRAH, Cashier.

National Broadway Bank.
102D DIVIDEND.
New York, December 19th, 1900.
The Board of Directors have this day declared a semi-annual dividend of Six Per Cent., free of tax, payable on the 2d day of January, 1901. The transfer books will be closed on December 19th, 1900, at 3 o'clock P. M., and reopened January 2d, 1901, at 10 o'clock A. M.
CHAS. J. DAY, Cashier.

ESTABLISHED 1784.
The Bank of New York,
National Banking Association.
New York, Dec. 18, 1900.
The Board of Directors have this day declared a dividend of Five Per Cent., free from tax, payable on and after January 2d, 1901. The transfer books will remain closed until January 3d, 1901.
CHAS. OLNEY, Cashier.

The Procter & Gamble Co.,
Cincinnati, Dec. 24, 1900.
The bonds and coupons of the Procter & Gamble Co., due Jan. 1, 1901, will be paid only at the Union Trust Co., No. 80 Broadway, New York, the bonds having been called for payment. No coupons will be paid unless accompanied by the bonds.
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO.
J. H. FRENCH, Treasurer.

The National Citizens' Bank of the City of New York.
New York, Dec. 21st, 1900.
A dividend of THREE AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. out of the earnings of the last six months has to-day been declared by this bank, payable on and after Jan. 2d, 1901. The transfer books will remain closed till that date.
W. M. WOODS, Cashier.

Missouri, Kansas & Texas Ry. Co.
195 Broadway, New York.
Coupons due January 1st, 1901, of the Southwestern Coal & Improvement Company First Mortgage Bonds, will be paid upon presentation at this office on and after January 2d next.
C. G. HEDGE, Vice Pres't and Treas.

FINANCIAL.

Dividends.

St. Joseph & Grand Island Railway Co.
35 Broad St., New York, Dec. 13, 1900.
At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors, held this day, a dividend of TWO AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. on the First Preferred Stock of the Company was declared, payable Jany. 15, 1901, to the holders of record of the First Preferred Stock at the closing of the transfer books on Dec. 31, 1900.
The transfer books for First Preferred Stock will close Dec. 31, 1900, at 3 P. M., and will reopen Jan. 16, 1901, at 10 A. M.
S. W. WILSON, Secretary.

54 Wall St., N. Y., Dec. 13, 1900.
The above-mentioned dividend of TWO AND ONE-HALF PER CENT. will be payable on Jan. 15, 1901, to holders of record at the close of business on Dec. 31, 1900, on the books of the Voting Trustees for Certificates of First Preferred Stock of the St. Joseph and Grand Island Railway Company.
The transfer books of the Voting Trustees for Certificates of First Preferred Stock will close Dec. 31, 1900, at 3 P. M., and will reopen Jan. 16, 1901, at 10 A. M.
CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Agents for Voting Trustees.

TO THE HOLDERS OF
St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company
Second Mtge. Income Bond Certificates.
Notice is hereby given that on and after January 2d, 1901, interest will be paid on the above certificates at the rate of $20.00 on each $1,000 certificate upon presentation and surrender of the coupons maturing January 1st, 1901, at the office of the undersigned, at 120 Broadway, New York City.
THE MERCANTILE TRUST COMPANY,
By H. C. DEMING, Vice President.

Meetings and Elections.

Garfield National Bank,
New York, December 27th, 1900.
The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of this bank, for the election of Directors and such other business as may come before said meeting, will be held at the Banking House, 23d Street and Sixth Av., on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901, between the hours of eleven A. M. and twelve M.
R. W. POOR, Cashier.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of the Commercial Mining Company, for the election of Trustees for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting, will be held at the office of the Company, No. 99 John Street, New York City, on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901, at two o'clock P. M.
GEORGE NOTMAN, Secretary.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STOCKholders of the United Globe Mines, for the election of Directors for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting, will be held at the office of the Company, No. 99 John St., New York City, on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901, at two o'clock P. M.
GEORGE NOTMAN, Secretary.

The Colonial Bank of the City of New York.
December 5, 1900.
The annual meeting of the shareholders of this Bank for the election of Directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of any other business that may come before it, will be held at the Banking Room, 490 Columbus Avenue, on TUESDAY, January 8, 1901, from 4 to 5 P. M.
WM. C. DUNCAN, Cashier.

National Broadway Bank,
NEW YORK.
December 10th, 1900.
The annual meeting of the stockholders of this bank for the election of Directors for the ensuing year will be held at the banking house, 237 Broadway, on Tuesday, January 8th, 1901.
Polls will be open from 12 o'clock M. until 1 o'clock P. M. CHAS. J. DAY, Cashier.

Lincoln National Bank,
32-42 East Forty-second Street,
New York, December 24, 1900.
The annual meeting of the shareholders of this bank for the election of Directors for the ensuing year will be held at

SPECTACULAR EAST SIDE FIRE.

Hellman's Building Material Plant Destroyed—Broken Gas Tank Shoots a 200-Foot Flame.

The proximity of two gas tanks belonging to the Consolidated Company to a fire in the second-hand building material yard of Meyer Hellman, at Eighteenth Street and Avenue B, early yesterday morning, created a turmoil in the neighborhood and brought a large fire force to the spot. A third alarm summoned the fire boat New Yorker and the searchlight engine, together with Capt. Hasslocher and the reserves of the East Twenty-second Street Station.

The damage did not exceed $20,000, but for a time the firemen believed they had a big fire on their hands. The yard is situated in the centre of a manufacturing district, and at the beginning the firemen feared that the flames would spread to several large buildings surrounding. Adjoining it was a brick building containing woodworking machinery belonging to Mr. Hellman, and this, together with the material in the yard, was destroyed. Quick work on the part of the fire force confined the fire within bounds.

The spouting of a flame of gas high in the air from one of the tanks broken by the falling walls of the wood-working plant made a fine spectacular effect and drew thousands of people on the east side to the spot.

Thomas Cummings and Gustave King, residents of the neighborhood, discovered the flames in a storeroom at the rear of the yard. They yelled to the watchman, William Valmar, who was in another part of the yard, and he sent in an alarm. When the first engine companies arrived the fire had gained great headway. A second alarm brought Chief Croker. A thick black smoke was then pouring out over the adjoining streets, and the frightened tenants in the few nearby tenements began to think of moving out in a hurry. The chief took a hasty glance at the yard full of inflammable material, at the two tanks just in the rear of it, and then ordered a third alarm.

Long before the flames were under control, the brick walls of Hellman's plant at 208 East Eighteenth Street fell with a crash and battered a hole about two feet in diameter in the larger of the two gas tanks. This was but partly filled with gas. It at once took fire and blazed in a column of flame 200 feet high. The crowd expected an immediate explosion. Men, women, and children suddenly scattered, finding business elsewhere. Some of the police and firemen momentarily moved back, too. But there was no explosion.

The fire is believed to have been caused by overheated furnaces which are used to furnish steam for the wood-working machinery in the buildings adjoining the yard. Water was poured on the ruins until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

FIVE HORSES SUFFOCATED.

Other Firemen Worked on Stable Another Fire Started a Block Away.

Five horses were suffocated at 5 o'clock yesterday morning in a fire that destroyed a one-story frame stable in the rear of a two-story tenement at 325 East One Hundred and Twentieth Street. The fire was discovered by Simon Hechinger, who lives in the tenement.

Hechinger was aroused by hearing the screams and stamping of the horses. When the fire was subdued, it was found that the horses had been killed and four peddlers' wagons destroyed. The stable was leased by Gustav Schlomer, and was used to shelter vendors' horses and wagons.

While the firemen were working upon the smoldering stable, another fire was gaining headway in the butcher's store of Nauss Brothers & Co., on the first floor of the five-story building at 2,175 Third Avenue, a block south. Policeman Kiernam of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street Station discovered this fire and sent in an alarm, but if the engines were so tardy in arriving that he ran to the building to the rear and told the firemen. He had first rapped for assistance, and the several policemen who responded went through the upper floors of the building notifying the tenants to seek safety. A second alarm was sent in for the fire, which did $5,000 damage before it was extinguished. It is believed that defective electric wiring in the butcher's shop was the cause of the fire.

While Chief Bresnan of the Tenth Battalion was on his way to the second fire, driving furiously up Third Avenue, John Reardon, forty-five years old, a laborer, of 200 East Ninety-eighth Street, who was crossing Third Avenue at Ninety-ninth Street, believed a runaway was coming. He placed himself in the way of the Chief's wagon and was knocked down. He was slightly injured, and went to his home after being attended by Dr. Hearn of the Harlem Hospital.

AROSE TO FIND HOUSE AFIRE.

Mrs. Smith's Resolve to Attend Early Mass Saved Her Family.

Mrs. Mary Smith, a widow with seven young children living at 994 Newark Avenue, Jersey City, usually attends the 9 o'clock mass at St Joseph's Roman Catholic Church. Fortunately for herself and children she decided to attend the 6 o'clock mass yesterday morning. For this reason she arose at 5 o'clock. On going to the kitchen she found that the woodwork had taken fire and that the blaze had already made such headway as to threaten the destruction of the building.

She ran upstairs again, aroused her children, and, gathering their garments into bundles, escaped with them to the house of a neighbor. Then an alarm was turned in. The firemen were unable to do more than save Mrs. Smith's furniture. The building was destroyed. The two buildings adjoining were badly damaged. They are all two-story frame structures.

Mrs. Joseph Autenreith, who owns the property, estimates her loss at $4,000, partly insured. The origin of the fire was not learned.

COLUMBIA'S FAME ABROAD.

Students from Holland and England Because of Its Advanced Methods.

Dean J. Howard Van Amringe of Columbia University has made public the following portion of a letter received by him from a member of the Holland Corps of Royal Engineers, who visited Columbia in May, 1899, while on a tour of investigation of American educational methods.

"My opinion of the American methods of study is so very high that I recommended to my countrymen to send their boys over the ocean, and I intend to send my son, who will get his gymnasium certificate in Holland in 1902, and must then serve a year in the militia. I hope he will then be sufficiently advanced to attend an academic course in your university, which I think best satisfies the requirements of strangers, New York being a more cosmopolitan city than any other of your country."

President Seth Low received a similar letter recently from an English nobleman whose son, having completed the course in one of the best English engineering schools, will matriculate in the Columbia School of Applied Science next year.

TWO INJURED IN A FIGHT.

A Stabbing Affray Among Italians May Result Fatally.

Frank and Cantalora Axara of 63 Mott Street were stabbed, perhaps fatally, during an altercation yesterday afternoon at their home, and were removed to Hudson Street Hospital, where their ante-mortem statements were taken by Coroner Zucca.

Four Italians are under arrest at the Elizabeth Street Station, charged with complicity in the crime. The men denied that they were concerned in the stabbing. The Azara brothers charged that Antonio Calabro and his son, Cosmial, stabbed them in their room, where several men had congregated. The prisoners were identified by the wounded men.

The fight, the Azaras say, was the result of dissatisfaction they expressed with the dinner furnished by the Calabros, with whom they boarded.

Ambassador Cambon Returns.

M. Jules Cambon, the French Ambassador at Washington, who has been abroad for five months on leave of absence, returned on the French liner La Gascogne yesterday. He refused to talk for publication. M. Hermitte of the embassy and Edmond Bruwaert, Consul General for France in this city, were also passengers. M. Cambon was met at the pier by Lieut. Commander de Faramond de Lafajole, the Naval Attaché of the French Embassy, and M. Gourd, President of the French Chamber of Commerce in New York. He went to the Holland House, and expects to leave for Washington to-day.

Court Assignments.

ASSIGNMENTS SURROGATES' COURT.

We, the Surrogates of the County of New York, do hereby appoint the following terms for the Surrogates' Court of the County of New York, and make the following assignment of Surrogates to hold said terms during the year 1901. Such terms shall commence on the first Monday of each month and terminate on the Saturday preceding the first Monday of the following month:

TRIAL TERMS.

January,	Thomas, S.	June,	Fitzgerald, S.
February,	Fitzgerald, S.	October,	Thomas, S.
March,	Thomas, S.	November,	Fitzgerald, S.
April,	Fitzgerald, S.	December,	Thomas, S.
May,	Thomas, S.

CHAMBERS.

January,	Fitzgerald, S.	July 1 to Aug. 15,	Fitzgerald, S.
February,	Thomas, S.	Aug. 15 to Oct. 1,	Thomas, S.
March,	Fitzgerald, S.	October,	Fitzgerald, S.
April,	Thomas, S.	November,	Thomas, S.
May,	Fitzgerald, S.	December,	Fitzgerald, S.
June,	Thomas, S.

(Signed) FRANK T. FITZGERALD,
(Signed) ABNER C. THOMAS,
Surrogates.

Dated, December 10th, 1900.

HURT IN A MOTOR CAB.

Kaufman and Schmidt's Driver Runs Them Into an Obstruction.

Henry W. Kaufman, a liquor dealer living at 218 West Twenty-second Street, and Edward Schmidt, a broker, of 226 West Forty-fifth Street, were injured yesterday afternoon in One Hundred and Sixteenth Street, near Riverside Drive.

They were riding in a motor cab operated by James Lyons of 228 East Twenty-eighth Street. Near Riverside Drive Lyons in attempting to avoid an approaching vehicle turned short, and ran into a pile of building material. The dashboard of the cab was broken, and Kaufman and Schmidt sustained cuts and bruises on their hands and arms.

The men were taken to St. Luke's Hospital in the vehicle, where they were attended by Dr. Reynolds. They then went to their homes in trolley cars.

Sumatra's Oil Output Decreasing.

D. Muir of Titusville, Penn., Superintendent of the Royal Dutch Petroleum Works, Island of Sumatra, was among the passengers who arrived yesterday on the Atlantic transport steamship Minneapolis. The output of petroleum on the island has greatly decreased during the past few years, he says, 40 wells which formerly yielded 4,800 barrels every twenty-four hours now spouting only 1,500 barrels. Most of the Sumatra petroleum, he said, is sent to Hongkong, Batavia, Singapore, and Penang.

STATE COURTS.

New York Calendars—This Day.

SUPREME COURT—Appellate Division—Recess.

SUPREME COURT—Appellate Term—For the hearing of appeals from the City Court and Municipal Court. Recess.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Part I.—Blanchard, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Litigated motions.

1	Lawton.	39	Braman vs.
2	Corn Exchange Bk. vs. Gibany.		Nicholsburg.
3	Am. Mort. Co. vs. Burke.	40	Hatch vs. Norton.
4	Living Sav. Inst. vs. Willcox.	41	Lash vs. Lash.
5	W. L. Johnson Co. vs. Prather.	42	Wheeler vs. Cavallo.
6	Levy vs. Schwarzschild.	43	Dermott vs. McShane Mfg. Co. of Baltimore.
7	Lich vs. Lich.	44	Smith vs. Dempsey.
8	In re Farmers' L. & T. Co.	45	Stone vs. N. Y. Municipal Civil Service Commission.
9	Klein vs. Wahl.	46	Dichl vs. Beck.
10	Beinstein vs.	47	Gotteotag vs. Guttentag.
11	N. Y. Security & Trust Co. vs. Mfr. Chem.	48	Bookman vs. Bach.
12	In re Atwood.	49	Hartman vs. Koster, Bial & Co.
13	Schmidt vs. Ingersoll.	50	Mut. Reserve Fund Life Association vs. Phelan.
14	Benes vs. Met. St. Ry. Co.	51	Volk vs. Mut. Reserve Fund Life Assn.
15	Flanin vs. Marcus.	52	Met. Life Ins. Co. vs. Erdmann.
16	In re Thoesen.	53	Gray vs. Atkinson.
17	In re C. S. Trust Co.	54	Austen vs. Lanier.
18	Lewis vs. Whiting.	55	Guaranty Trust Co. vs. Birdseye.
19	In re Wales Al.	56	Lyman vs. Sullivan.
20	In re Grant Al.	57	In re Whitbeck.
21	In re E. 175th St.	58	Hopkins vs. Hopkins
22	Hopkins vs. Dressner.	59	Popular Banking, Sav. & Loan Assn. vs. Weiss.
23	Oppenheim vs. Rosenfeld.	60	Bank vs.
24	Rogers vs. Associated Press.	61	Rosenzweig.
25	Aschenbach vs. Hahn.	62	In re Grand Boulevard and Concourse.
26	In re Brush.	63	Vaupel vs. Vaupel.
27	Conterno vs. Bacigalupo.	64	Treanel vs. Welles.
28	Auerbach vs. same.	65	Hogan vs. Strauss.
29	Oswego Casket Co. vs. same.	66	Goldwick vs. Pfortner.
30	Gibbin vs. Giblin.	67	Keeler vs. Birdseye.
31	Courled vs. Witmark	68	August vs. Mut. Life Ins. Co.
32	Hymes vs. Byrnes.	69	Sophie's Trust Co. vs. Abegg.
33	Goldman vs. Derr.	70	In re Wickes.
34	Carroll vs. Met. St. Ry. Co.	71	Myers vs. Kilcoyne.
35	Dawes vs. Sheldon.	72	Smith vs. Smith.
36	Bonn vs. Railoys.	73	Price vs. Comstock.
37	Kuiser vs. Addmi.	74	Hughes vs. Hughes
38	Fragale vs. Stromberg.	75	Frank vs. Anderson.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Part II.—Leventritt, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Ex parte business.

SUPREME COURT—Special Term—Parts III., IV., V., VI., VII., and VIII.—Adjourned for the term.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Parts I., II., III., IV., V., VI., VII., VIII., IX., X., and XII. Adjourned for the term.

Highest number reached in regular call on general calendar, 2105.

SUPREME COURT—Trial Term—Part XI.—Giegerich, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. No day calendar.

SURROGATES' COURT—Chambers—Thomas, S. Held on ground floor, Court House. Wills for probate at 10:30 A. M.

Augusta Anger.	Netty Ettlinger.
Elizabeth Germaud.	Rowland F. Hill.
Jennie L. Simons.	James H. Hurst.

SURROGATES' COURT—Trial Term—Fitzgerald, S.—Held in Surrogates' Court, Trial Term, second floor in County Court House.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. No day calendar.

CITY COURT—General Term—McCarthy, P. J.; Conlan and Schuchman, JJ.—Held in General Term Room, second floor, 32 Chambers Street, (Brownstone Building.)—Opens at 10 A. M.—On call of calendar all causes must be marked either ready or off term, and those marked ready must be argued or submitted as reached. Appeals from orders.

1	Siegel vs. 3d Av. R. R. Co.	5	Sternboch vs. Rosenbaum.
2	Pakas vs. Steel Ball Co.	6	Goldberg vs. Gellis.
3	Stromberg vs. Meister	7	Tierney vs. Peerless Shoe Co.
4	Jacobs vs. Elsenbud.	8	Harbler vs. Hubbard
5	Same vs. same.	9	Reid vs. Meagher.
6	Chandler vs. Met. St. Ry. Co.	10	Blauner vs. Williams Co.
7	Early vs. same.	11	Adler vs. Met. St. Ry. Co.
8	Kalichman vs. Nadler.	12	Hamilton, Bell & Co. vs. Grimmer Transfer and Trucking Co.
9	Farbstein vs. Subin.	13	Bowns vs. Stewart.
	Appeals from judgments.	14	Heimes vs. Felst.
1	Flynn vs. Dry Dock, &c., R. R. Co.	15	Hirtenstein vs. Farrell.
2	Mahoney vs. O'Nell	16	Frost vs. Weehawken Wharf Co.
3	Turner vs. Sheridan.		Motion.
4	Twelfth Ward Bank vs. Rogers.	1	Revilion vs. Hart.

CITY COURT—Special Term—O'Dwyer, J.—Opens at 10 A. M. Held in Brownstone Building, (Chambers Street.) Motions must be made returnable at 10:30 A. M. Defaults on motions will be taken at 11 A. M.

CITY COURT—Trial Term—Parts I., II., III., and IV.—Adjourned for the term.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—Part I.—Fursman, J.—Opens at 10:30 A. M. Assistant District Attorneys Townsend and Gray for the People. No day calendar.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS—Parts II., III., and IV.—Adjourned for the term.

Referees Appointed—New York.

SUPREME COURT—Leventritt, J.
Matter of Devlin & Co.—Harold Nathan, Jacques vs. Jacques—Albert L. Sire. Matter of Hodgett—Benjamin F. Feiner.
SUPREME COURT—Andrews, J.
People ex rel. Marlborough Hotel Company vs. Feitner—Hamilton Odell.
SUPREME COURT—Blanchard, J.
Nelson vs. Velders—John A. Dutton. Bach vs. Walton—Rufus B. Cowing, Jr. Aschner vs. Lauber—Henry Grasse. Goodwin vs. Teichman—William L. Findley. Matter of Denman—George E. Morgan.

Surrogate Notices.

MAHER, ANNIE.—In pursuance of an order of Honorable Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against ANNIE MAHER, late of the County of New York, in the Borough of Manhattan, deceased, to present the same, with vouchers thereof, to the subscribers at their place of transacting business, at the office of Ronald K. Brown, Number 320 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, on or before the first day of June next.—Dated New York, November 15th, 1900.
MICHAEL J. FOX, MARY BEARL, Executors.
RONALD K. BROWN, Attorney for Executors, 320 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York.
n19-1aw6mM

SCHUMACHER, CHARLES AUGUST.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Abner C. Thomas, a surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against CHARLES AUGUST SCHUMACHER, late of the County of New York, jeweler, deceased, to present the same, with vouchers thereof, to the subscribers, at their place of transacting business, No. 40 Eighth Avenue, Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, on or before the fourteenth day of February next.—Dated New York, the 4th day of August, 1900. CHARLES A. SCHUMACHER, DAVID H. P. McCUTCHEON, HENRY W. SCHUMACHER, Executors of CHARLES AUGUST SCHUMACHER, deceased.
aug6-1aw6mM.

Court Assignments.

ASSIGNMENTS SURROGATES' COURT.

We, the Surrogates of the County of New York, do hereby appoint the following terms for the Surrogates' Court of the County of New York, and make the following assignment of Surrogates to hold said terms during the year 1901. Such terms shall commence on the first Monday of each month and terminate on the Saturday preceding the first Monday of the following month:

TRIAL TERMS.

January,	Thomas, S.	June,	Fitzgerald, S.
February,	Fitzgerald, S.	October,	Thomas, S.
March,	Thomas, S.	November,	Fitzgerald, S.
April,	Fitzgerald, S.	December,	Thomas, S.
May,	Thomas, S.

CHAMBERS.

January,	Fitzgerald, S.	July 1 to Aug. 15,	Fitzgerald, S.
February,	Thomas, S.	Aug. 15 to Oct. 1,	Thomas, S.
March,	Fitzgerald, S.	October,	Fitzgerald, S.
April,	Thomas, S.	November,	Thomas, S.
May,	Fitzgerald, S.	December,	Fitzgerald, S.
June,	Thomas, S.

(Signed) FRANK T. FITZGERALD,
(Signed) ABNER C. THOMAS,
Surrogates.

Dated, December 10th, 1900.

Surrogate Notices.

BAILEY, ELIZA MEIER.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Abner C. Thomas, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against ELIZA MEIER BAILEY, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof to the subscribers at their place of transacting business at the office of Hermann H. Cammann, No. 51 Liberty Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, the City of New York, on or before the 16th day of January next.—Dated New York, the 6th day of July, 1900.
HERMANN H. CAMMANN, FORDHAM MORRIS, LE ROY EDGAR, Executors. CHARLES E. SENTELL, Attorney for Executors, 16 Exchange Place, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York. jy9-1aw0mM

BENARY, ALBERT E.—The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to Marguerite Benary, Gertrude B. Strachan, Robert H. Benary, Charles H. Ditson & Company, George S. Bond, American Credit-Indemnity Company, Leopold Iiltelder, Max Iiltelder, and Sigmund Levy, composing the firm of S. Iiltelder & Co.; William Tonk and Charles J. Tonk, composing the firm of Wm. Tonk & Bro.; George Schenck and Arnold W. Schlichte, composing the firm of Schenck & Schlichte; Jacob Hofer, Wilhelm Spaethe, Celluloid Company, Fred Gretsch, Charles Bruno, doing business as C. Bruno & Son; Jacob Strauss and Carl Strauss, composing the firm of Strauss, Sachs & Co.; American Exchange National Bank, Louis Meisel, National Musical String Company, Angelo Mannello, Julius Kraft, F. Zimmerman Company, Evans Permanent Receiver of C. F. Zimmerman Company; Rudolph Teschner, William P. Rettberg, and William L. Lange, composing the firm of Rettberg & Lange; Charles H. Jacot and Aristides H. Jacot, composing the firm of Jacot & Son; Mathias Hofmann, Otto Eckhardt, Edward Gessler, Samuel Lederer, Philip Hano, and Jacob L. Hano, composing the firm of Phillip Hano & Co.; Bradstreet Company, Henry Hoseus, Edison Electric Illuminating Company, George D. Kuper, Charles P. Kuper, and Jacob E. W. Kuper, composing the firm of G. D. Kuper & Brothers; Henry C. Ryan, Park & Tilford, Michael H. Baron, Phonoharp Company, Frederick Menzenhauer, and Oscar Schmidt, composing the firm of Menzenhauer & Schmidt; Charles Quenzer, Lucien A. Chapin, George Cross, Joseph Dozen, John J. McKenzie, John J. Stratton, Robert V. S. Samuels, Assignee for the benefit of creditors of John J. Stratton; Johann Schick, Frances E. Winans, Herman C. Von Post, and Gustav H. Schwab, composing the firm of Doscher & Co.; John Mauldoch and George D. Whittemore, composing the firm of Mauldetsch & Whittemore; Carl Hoffman, George Minster, and Joseph Ross, doing business as Minster & Ross; George W. Plumley Company, Robert C. Gutman, doing business under the name of New York Mandolin Manufacturing Company; Buettell Brothers Company, F. G. Otto & Sons, James Weir, Jr., and James E. Weir, doing business under the name of James Weir, Jr., & Son; the Autophone Company, George Brunsdorf, doing business under the name of Manhattan Musical String Company; Snedeker Manufacturing Company, Louise Schneider, doing business under the name of Traugott Schneider & Co.; Paul Richard Schmidt, doing business under the name of Richard Schmidt; Catherine E. Colburn and Alford W. Colburn, doing business under the name of Alford W. Colburn & Co.; Larson Filstrup and Emanuel Hogenson, composing the firm of L. L. Filstrup & Co.; Kotch Sons & Company, Kotch Brother & Company, Bay State Manufacturing Company, General Insurance Company of Dresden, S. S. Stewart and George Bauer, composing the firm of Stewart & Bauer; the Ricca Manufacturing Company, John E. Brodsky, Asmayer & Co., beneficial creditors of M. Pallard & Co.; William Herman Otto, Frederick Benary, executor of the estate of Ernst Benary; American Musical String Company, Christian Weiss, Jerome Thibouville-Lamy, Leopold Thibouville, Alfred Acoulon and Emile Berger, doing business under the name of Jerome Thibouville-Lamy & Co.; Stelhweg Printing Company, Edward Owen and Wilfred Owen, doing business as Edward Owen & Co.; George W. Wells, doing business as S. Wells & Sons; John A. Oscar Pitzschler, doing business as A. Pitzschler & Sohn; R. H. Woods, C. H. Congdon, F. C. Meinel, John Kalnt, the name being fictitious, the person intended to be cited being a co-partner in the firm of Kalnt & Uhlmann; John Uhlmann, the name being fictitious, the person intended to be cited being a co-partner in the firm of Kalnt & Uhlmann; Franz Edward Ludwig, John Ludwig, the name being fictitious, the person intended to be cited being a co-partner in the firm of Gebruder Ludwig, send greeting:

You, and each of you, are hereby cited and required personally to be and appear before our Surrogate of the County of New York, at the Surrogates' Court of said County at the County Court House, in the County of New York, Borough of Manhattan, on the 25th day of January, 1901, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend a judicial settlement of the account of proceedings of Theodore Eastmans' Trust Company, as Administrator of the goods, chattels, and credits of Albert E. Benary, deceased; and such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or, if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the County of New York to be hereunto affixed.

[L. S.] Witness, Hon Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of our said county, at the County of New York, the 23d day of November, 1900.

J. FAIRFAX McLAUGHLIN,
Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

TURNER, McCLURE & ROLSTON, Attorneys for Administrator, 22 William Street, New York, N. Y. d10-1aw6WM

BURNTON, GEORGE D.—The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to JOHN W. BURNTON, Albert Burnton, Rachel Burnton, Alice Corey, Maria E. Kent, Harriot Uchtmann, Lillian Lippencott, Emma Schontag, Theodore Burnton, Ella Gray, Eben Albert Burnton, Laura B. Gillett, John Woodruff Burnton, Carroll R. Burnton, Harriot B. Wheelihan, Emma E. Tooker, Maurice E. Burnton, the only heirs and next of kin of GEORGE D. BURNTON, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas, Frank B. Corey of Passaic, New Jersey, and Gurdon S. Buck, the latter of the City of New York, have lately applied to the Surrogates' Court of our County of New York, to have a certain instrument in writing relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of the said George D. Burnton, late of the County of New York, deceased, therefore, you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York, at his office in the County of New York, on the 25th day of February, One Thousand Nine Hundred and One, at half past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last will and testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited, as are under the age of twenty-one years, are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed.

[L. S.] Witness, Hon. Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of our said County of New York, at said county, the 19th day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred.

J. FAIRFAX McLAUGHLIN,
Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.
d3-1aw7wM

WARREN, CATALINA S.—The people of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to Charles J. Warren, the next of kin of CATALINA S. WARREN, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas, Raymond Jenkins and Charles N. Lockwood of the City of New York have lately applied to the Surrogates' Court of our County of New York to have a certain instrument in writing relating to personal property duly proved as the last will and testament of Catalina S. Warren, late of the County of New York, deceased; therefore, you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York, at his office in the County of New York, on the 14th day of January, one thousand nine hundred and one, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last will and testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed.

[L. S.] Witness, Hon. Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of our said County of New York, at said county, the 19th day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred.

J. FAIRFAX McLAUGHLIN,
Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.
d3-1aw7wM

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

Referees' Notices.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK.—TITLE GUARANTEE & TRUST COMPANY and another, plaintiffs, against DOROTHEA WEIBEL et al., defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, and bearing date the 24th day of December, 1900, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 21st day of January, 1901, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Samuel Goldsticker, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that plot of land in the City and County of New York, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point in the northerly side of One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street, distant four hundred and thirty-eighth feet easterly from the intersection of the northerly side of One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street and the easterly side of Seventh Avenue; and running thence easterly along the northerly side of One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street, one hundred and eighty-seven feet; thence northerly, parallel with Seventh Avenue, one hundred and ninety-nine feet ten inches to the southerly side of One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Street; thence westerly, along the southerly side of One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Street, one hundred and eighty-seven feet; and thence southerly, again parallel with Seventh Avenue, one hundred and ninety-nine feet ten inches to the northerly side of One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street at the point of beginning, together with the buildings to be erected thereon.

Subject to a certain mortgage for one hundred and five thousand dollars and interest, now a lien on said premises, made by said Dorothea Weibel to the said Title Guarantee & Trust Company, bearing date the thirtieth day of April, one thousand nine hundred, and recorded in said Register's Office in Section 7, Liber 113 of Mortgages, Page 292.

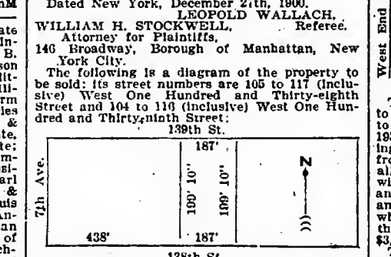
Subject also to a certain party-wall agreement contained in instrument recorded in said Register's Office in Section 7, Liber 61 of Conveyances, Page 291, and to covenants against nuisances contained in various deeds.

Dated New York, December 27th, 1900.

LEOPOLD WALLACH,
Referee.

WILLIAM H. STOCKWELL,
Attorney for Plaintiffs,
146 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold: Its street numbers are 105 to 117 (inclusive) West One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street and 104 to 116 (inclusive) West One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Street:



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above described property is to be sold, is $74,312.08, with interest thereon from the 14th day of December, 1900, together with costs and allowance amounting to $424.07, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is $1,303.53 and interest.

Dated New York, 27th day of December, 1900.

LEOPOLD WALLACH,
Referee.

d31-2aw3wM&W&ja21

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK.—THE MUTUAL BANK, plaintiff, against JOHN FARRELL and others, defendants.

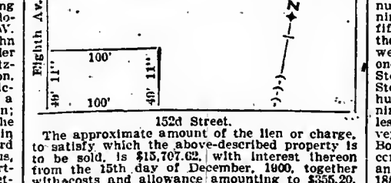
In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, and bearing date the 18th day of December, 1900, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 11th day of January, 1901, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Samuel Ehrlich, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows: All that plot of land in the City and County of New York, with the buildings thereon, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the intersection of the northerly side of One Hundred and Fifty-second Street and the easterly side of Eighth Avenue; and running thence easterly along the northerly side of One Hundred and Fifty-second Street one hundred feet; thence northerly parallel with Eighth Avenue forty-nine feet eleven inches; thence westerly parallel with One Hundred and Fifty-second Street one hundred feet to the easterly side of Eighth Avenue, and thence southerly along the easterly side of Eighth Avenue forty-nine feet eleven inches to the point or place of beginning.

Dated New York, December 20th, 1900.

JOHN H. JUDGE, Referee.

McCREA, SOMERVILLE & TAYLOR, Attorneys for Plaintiff, 90-92 West Broadway, Manhattan, N. Y.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street number is unknown;



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold, is $15,707.62, with interest thereon from the 15th day of December, 1900, together with costs and allowance amounting to $355.20, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is $264 and interest.

The premises are sold subject to a first mortgage thereon for $11,000, and interest at 5 per cent. from December 15, 1900; and also subject to two other mortgages also prior to the plaintiff's lien on which there is due for principal or advances made thereon, the sum of $6,732 and accrued interest.

Dated the 20th day of December, 1900.

JOHN H. JUDGE, Referee.

d20-2aw3wTh&M&ja11

Bankruptcy Notices.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of EDWARD OWEN, individually and as partner of the firm known as EDWARD OWEN & CO., Bankrupt.—No. 3,313.

To the creditors of Edward Owen, individually and as partner of the firm known as Edward Owen & Co., of the County of New York, and district aforesaid, bankrupt:

Notice is hereby given that on the 21st day of December, A. D. 1900, the said Edward Owen, individually and as partner of the firm known as Edward Owen & Co., was duly adjudicated bankrupt, and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at my office, No. 346 Broadway, in the City and County of New York, on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1901, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

SAMAN MILLER,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

New York, December 27th, 1900.

Legal Notices.

RECEIVER'S SALE.

In the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.

In the matter of DAVID M. WILLIAMS, bankrupt, trading as D. M. WILLIAMS & CO.

GREENWALD, KUPFERBERG, KARP & CO., JOS. SHONGOOD & SONS, United States Marshal's Auctioneers, will sell on MONDAY, DEC. 31, 1900, at 10 A. M., at 50 W. 127th St., cor. Lenox Av. and 127th St., all the horses, wagons, harness, and blankets belonging to above bankrupt, one of the finest stables ever offered at auction. Detailed account 27 horses, about 27 wagons and trucks. Dealers invited. Order of WM. TAFT, Receiver.

MYERS, GOLDSMITH & BRONNER, 302 B'way, Attorneys for Receiver.

Surrogate Notices.

BUTLER, HENRY.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against HENRY BUTLER, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same, with vouchers thereof, to the subscriber, at her place of transacting business, No. 918 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, on or before the sixth day of June next.—Dated New York, the first day of December, 1900. SARAH BUTLER, Executrix. CHARLES A. RUNK, Attorney for Executrix, 31 Nassau Street, Borough of Manhattan, N. Y. City.

HERBST, GEBHARD.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Frank T. Fitzgerald, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against Gebhard Herbst, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same, with vouchers thereof, to the subscriber, at her place of transacting business, at the office of Benjamin L. Brandner, No. 302 Broadway, in the City of New York, on or before the 25th day of March next.—Dated New York, the 17th day of September, 1900. ANNA M. HERBST, Administratrix. BENJ. L. BRANDNER, Atty. for Administratrix, 302 Broadway, New York City.

s17-1aw6mM

KOCH, HENRY C. F.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Abner C. Thomas, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against HENRY C. F. KOCH, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof to the subscribers at their place of transacting business, at the office of Boardman & Boardman, No. 155 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, on or before the 20th day of June next.—Dated New York, the 7th day of December, 1900. ANN C. KOCH, SAMUEL SLOAN, Executors of the last will and testament of Henry C. F. Koch, deceased. BOARDMAN & BOARDMAN, Attorneys for executor, 155 Broadway, Manhattan, New York. d10-1aw6mM

THE COMMERCIAL WORLD

CASH QUOTATIONS.

Wheat, No. 2 red	.80
Corn, No. 2 mixed	.45⅝
Oats, No. 2 mixed	.28
Flour, Minnesota patents	$4.10
Cotton, middling	10 5-16
Coffee, No. 7 Rio	.07
Sugar, granulated	5.60
Molasses, O. K. prime	.40
Beef, family	11.50
Beef hams	20.00
Tallow, prime	.05
Pork, mess	12.50
Hogs, dressed, 100 lb	.06¾
Lard, prime	7.25
Iron, Northern, No. 1 foundry	16.00
Butter, Western creamery	.25

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Cash quotations were as follows: Flour dull and steady; No. 3 Spring wheat, 65@71c; No. 2 red, 74@75c; No. 2 corn, 37c; No. 2 yellow, 37c; No. 2 oats, 25½@26c; No. 2 white, 26½@26¾c; No. 3 white, 25½@26c; No. 2 rye, 50@52c; fair to choice malting barley, 58@66c; No. 1 flaxseed, $1.48@$1.53; No. 1 Northwestern, $1.54; prime timothy seed, $4.65; mess pork, per barrel, $11@$12.50; lard, per 100-lb, $6.80@$6.90; short ribs, sides, (loose), $6.30@6.60; dry-salted shoulders, (boxed), 5¾@6¼c; short clear sides, (boxed), $6.70@$6.90; whisky, basis of high wines, $1.27; clover, contract grade, $10@$10.25.

COTTON.—Cotton speculation was hardly deserving of the name yesterday, and the changes in prices for the day were not sufficiently extensive to hurt either faction. There was little to the new line to afford bulls or bears an opportunity to take an aggressive attitude, and the trade which sifted in from the outside was restricted by "limits" as to make it unprofitable. The one feature of interest to "Chan," was the inherent strength manifested by the January option, due to stanch support on every sign of a reaction and to covering by nervous shorts. The fear that January cotton would be pushed to above the 10-cent mark, as was December, naturally created distrust in bear circles. Acting on the assumption that the same conditions would obtain when March became the current position, room bulls were inclined to load up that month when ever opportunity offered itself. The local market for spot cotton was dull and unchanged; middling upland quoted at 10 5-16c; middling Gulf, 10 9-16c. Sales were 25 bales. Southern spot markets, middling quoted, were officially reported as follows: Galveston firm, unchanged, at 9 7-16c; New Orleans steady, unchanged, at 9⅝c; Mobile steady, unchanged, at 9 3-16c; Savannah quiet and steady, unchanged, at 9 5-16c; Charleston firm, unchanged, at 9¼c; Wilmington quiet, unchanged, at 9⅛c; Norfolk quiet, unchanged, at 9 7-16c; Baltimore nominal, unchanged, at 9¾c; Augusta firm, unchanged, at 9½c; Memphis steady, unchanged, at 9 9-16c; St Louis quiet, unchanged, at 9 9-16c.

Contract prices ranged as follows:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Yesterday.
January	9.44	9.63	9.58	9.60@9.61	9.56
February	9.44	9.44	9.41	9.43@9.44	9.38
March	9.41	9.41	9.37	9.39@9.40	9.37
April	9.32	9.32	9.30	9.31@9.32	9.29
May	9.31	9.31	9.28	9.30@9.31	9.28
June	9.29	9.29	9.26	9.27@9.28	9.25
July	9.20	9.22	9.18	9.20@9.21	9.19
August	8.92	8.93	8.90	8.92@8.93	8.93
September	..	..	..	8.36@8.38	8.37
October	..	..	..	8.01@8.03	8.01

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 29.—Spot Cotton—Small business; prices 1-32d higher; American middling fair, 5 25-32d; good middling, 5 19-32d; middling, fair, low middling, 5 1-16d; good ordinary, 5 1-32d; ordinary, 4 13-16d. The sales of the day were 4,000 bales, of which 200 bales were for speculation and export and included 3,800 bales American; receipts, 1,000 bales, all American. Futures opened easier and closed steady: American middling, low middling clause, January, 5 62-64@5 63-64d sellers; January and February, 5 19-64d sellers; February and March, 5 13-64@5 14-64d buyers; March and April, 5 12-64@5 13-64d buyers; April and May, 5 10-64d sellers; May and June, 5 7-64@5 8-64d sellers; June and July, 5 4-64@5 5-64d buyers; July and August, 5 2-64d sellers; August and September, 4 51-64d sellers.

DULUTH, Dec. 29.—Wheat, No. 1 hard, cash, 74¾c; to arrive, 75½c; December, 74¾c; May, 79c; No. 1 Northern, cash, 72¾c; to arrive, 73½c; December, 72¾c; May, 77c; July, 77½c; No. 2 Northern, 69¾@69¾c; No. 3 Spring, 64½@64½c. Corn, 34½c. Oats, 24½@24¾c.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 29.—Wheat, No. 2 red, cash, 71⅞c; December, 72½c; January, 72½c; May, 74⅝c; No. 2 hard, 69½@69¾c. Corn, No. 2, cash, 35½c; December, 35c; January, 35c; May, 35¾@35⅞c. Oats, No. 2 cash, 23½c; December, 23½c; May, 25c; No. 2 white, 26½c.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 29.—Wheat, cash, 74⅞c; May, 76⅞c; July, 76⅝c; on track, No. 1 hard, 76¾c; No. 1 Northern, 74⅞c; No. 2 Northern, 72¾c. Flour and bran unchanged.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 29.—Wheat higher; No. 1 Northern, 74½@75c; No. 2 Northern, 70½@72½c. Rye higher; No. 1, 51½@52c. Barley firm; No. 2, 60@61c; sample, 40@57c.

FLOUR AND MEAL—Spring patents were quoted at $3.90@$4.20; Winter straights, $3.40@$3.55; Winter patents, $3.90@$4.00; Spring clears, $3@$3.25; extra No. 1 Winter, $2.70@$2.90; extra No. 2 Winter, $2.55@2.65; no grade, $18.00@$18.75, spot and to arrive. Buckwheat flour, $2.10@$2.15. Rye flour firmer; fair to good, $2.80@$3.15; choice to fancy, $3.15@$3.50. Cornmeal firm; kiln dried, $2.35@$2.45, as to brand. Bag meal firm; fine white and yellow, 98@$1; coarse, 96@98c. Feed firm; Spring bran, spot, $16.50; sacks, to arrive, 200 lb, $16.50@$17. Spring bran, bulk, $15.75. coarse Winter bran, $16@$18; city bran, $16.50@$17; cornmeal, $26; linseed oil cake, $27.50; corn oil cake, $19; hominy chop, $17; oil meal, $28.25.

FUTURES.

NEW YORK PRICES.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Yesterday.
Wheat—
Dec.	77⅛	78¼	77⅛	78¼	77⅛
Jan.	77⅝	78⅛	77⅝	78⅜	77⅝
March	79 5-16	80⅛	79 5-16	80⅛	79¼
May	78⅞	80⅛	78⅞	80⅛	79
Corn—
Dec.	45½	46	45½	46	45½
Jan.	..	..	..	43⅝	43⅝
May	42⅛	42⅝	42⅛	42⅝	42
Lard—
Dec.	..	..	..	..	$7.20

CHICAGO PRICES.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Yesterday.
Wheat—
Dec.	70⅜	72⅛	70⅜	72⅛	..
Jan.	70⅛	72⅛	70⅛	72¼	70½
May	73¼	75⅜	73¼	75¼	73⅝
Corn—
Dec.	36½	37¼	36½	37	36½
Jan.	36⅜	36⅝	36⅜	36⅝	36¼
May	36⅛	36 15-16	36¼	36⅞	36⅛
Oats—
Dec.	21⅞	22⅛	21⅞	22⅛	21⅞
Jan.	..	..	..	22¼	21⅞
May	23 13-16	24¼	23 13-16	24⅜	23½
Lard—
Jan.	$6.80	$6.90	$6.80	$6.90	$6.77½
May	6.95	7.02½	6.95	7.02½	6.92½
Ribs—
Jan.	6.32½	6.42½	6.32½	6.42½	6.30
May	6.42½	6.52½	6.42½	6.52½	6.40
Pork—
Jan.	12.27½	12.30	12.22½	12.30	12.20
May	12.25	12.42½	12.25	12.42½	12.22½

PROVISIONS.—PORK—Steady; mess, $12@$13; family, $14.50@$16; short clear, $14@$17. BEEF—Quiet; mess, $6@$8.50; family, $11@$12; packet, $10@$10.50; extra India mess, $14@$16. BEEF HAMS—Steady, $19.50@$20.50. DRESSED HOGS—Quiet; bacons, 6¾c; 180-lb, 6¾c; 160-lb, 6¾c; pigs, 7¼c. CUT MEATS—Pickled bellies dull; smoking, 6c; 10-lb, 5⅞@6c; 12-lb, 7¼c; 14-lb, 7¼c; pickled shoulders steady, 5¼@5¾c; pickled hams steady, 8½@9¼c. TALLOW—Firm; city, 5c; country, 4¾@5¼c. LARD—Steady, $7.25; city lard steady, $6.80; refined lard firmer; South America, 8¾c; Continent, $7.50; Brazil, kegs, $9; compound, dull, city, $5.75; Western, $5.75. STEARINE—Quiet; oleo, 6¼c; city lard stearine, 7⅞@8c.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 29.—Closing: Beef dull; extra India mess, 67s 9d. Pork firm; prime mess Western, 72s. Hams dull; short rib, 14 to 16 lb, 43s 3d. Bacon dull; Cumberland cut, 26 to 30 lb, dull, 45s 6d; short rib, 18 to 24 lb, 44s; long clear middles, light, 28 to 34 lb, 42s 3d; long clear middles, heavy, 35 to 40 lb, 42s; short clear backs, 16 to 20 lb, 41s 6d; clear bellies, 14 to 16 lb, 43s. Shoulders—Square, 11 to 13 lb, dull, 34s 9d. Lard—American refined, in pails, dull, 38s 6d; prime Western, in tierces, quiet, 38s 3d. Butter—Finest United States quiet, 95s; good United States dull, 81s 6d. Cheese easy; American finest white, 51s 6d; American finest colored, 52s 6d.

NAVAL STORES.—Tar, receipts, 92; do, oil bbls, $4; spirits of turpentine, 38½@39c. Resin—Common to good strained, $1.75; E, $1.80; F, $1.85; G, $1.90; H, $1.92½; I, $1.93; K, $2.05; M, $2.20; N, $2.55; W G, $3.10; WW, $3.35.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Dec. 29.—Spirits of turpentine, nothing doing; receipts, 15 casks. Resin firm, $1.20@$1.25; receipts, 234 bbls. Crude turpentine dull, $1.30 and $2.30; receipts, 12 casks. Tar steady, $1.30; receipts, 620 bbls.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 29.—Spirits of turpentine firm, 35c; receipts, 595 casks; sales, 402 casks; exports, 898 casks. Resin steady and unchanged; receipts, 5,789 bbls; sales, 116 bbls; exports, 11,642 bbls.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 29.—Turpentine firm, 34½c. Resin firm, unchanged.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29.—Resin, receipts, 60 bbls; exports, none.

COFFEE.—Contract prices ranged as follows:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Yesterday.
January	5.70	5.80	5.70	5.85@5.90	5.50
February	5.80	5.80	5.80	5.95@6.00	6.60
March	5.95	6.05	5.95	6.05@6.10	6.70
April	..	..	..	6.10@6.15	5.70
May	6.00	6.15	6.00	6.15@6.20	5.75
June	6.10	6.10	6.10	6.15@6.20	5.80
July	6.00	6.10	6.05	6.15@6.20	5.90
August	..	..	..	6.20@6.25	5.95
September	6.10	6.25	6.10	6.25@6.30	5.90
October	6.25	6.30	6.15	6.30@6.35	5.95
November	..	..	..	6.30@6.40	5.95

METALS.—Iron, Southern, No. 2 soft, $13.50; No. 1 soft, $13; pig-iron warrants, $10; lake Superior, $17; tin, $27.10; exchange lead, $4.37½; spelter, $4.15.

SUGAR.—Centrifugal, 4⅝c; muscovado, 3⅞c; molasses, 3⅜c.

Watches and Jewelry.

R. V. HURD, LATE WITH WILLIAM MOIR, saves you money on diamonds, watches, and all repairing; old gold, jewelry, gems bought, exchanged or remodeled, 126 West 23d St., bet. 6th and 7th Avs.

Purchase and Exchange.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, CONTENTS OF houses and flats, pianos, carpets, &c. J. L., 218 University Place.

Horses, Carriages, &c.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

MANUFACTURERS SELL HANDSOME SURrey Runabouts almost new, top wagon; coal trade. McGUIRE BROS., 176 East 119th St.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The following sales at auction are down for to-day at 111 Broadway:

By Philip A. Smyth, foreclosure sale, Isaac Rothschild, referee, 79 Fifth Avenue, east side, 100 feet north of Fifteenth Street, 34.by 128.4, four-story brownstone-front building. Due on judgment, $35,000; subject to another mortgage for $85,000.

By Peter F. Meyer & Co., foreclosure sale, Sampson H. Weinhandler, referee, 301 West One Hundred and Forty-first Street, northwest corner of Eighth Avenue, 24.11 by 100, five-story brick flat, with stores; 2,645 Eighth Avenue, west side, 24.11 feet north of One Hundred and Forty-first Street, adjoining the foregoing, on the north, 25 by 100, five-story brick flat, with stores. Due on judgment, $6,786; subject to other mortgages, on the corner parcel, for $40,000; on the inside parcel, for $25,000.

By William M. Ryan, foreclosure sale, Wilbur Larremore, referee, 421 West Thirty-first Street, north side, 300 feet west of Ninth Avenue, 25 by 98.9, five-story brick building. Due on judgment, $23,429.

By James L. Wells, foreclosure sale, Thomas J. Rush, referee, 716 Union Avenue and 1,007, 1,009, and 1,011 East One Hundred and Fifty-sixth Street, being the northeast corner, 86.5 by 75 by 104.10 by 95.8, three four-story brick flats, with stores in the corner. Due on judgment, $1,940; subject to other mortgages for $46,950.

By D. Phoenix Ingraham & Co., foreclosure sale, Sylvester R. H. Ward, referee, 2,246 Second Avenue, east side, 60.10 feet north of One Hundred and Fifteenth Stre 20 by 80, four-story stone-front tenement, with store. Due on judgment, $10,500.

By Thomas C. Smith, foreclosure sale, Daniel P. Ingraham, referee, tract in the west side of a proposed road running westerly from the Macomb's Dam Road, adjoining the lands of Elizabeth Schwab, 127.3 by 287 and irregular. Due on judgment, $13,781.

Real Estate.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

THE LAWYERS' TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY

OF NEW YORK.

Furnishes careful appraisements of real estate at regular rates. Apply to Bureau of Investment, 37 Liberty St.

City Real Estate for Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

ONE FOUR-STORY HOUSE, EVERY IMprovement, thirty-foot frontage; your choice of three, including corner; bakers' oven; near "L" road, trolleys, and schools; rent of stores pays all expenses; must be seen to be appreciated. OWNER, on premises, 956-958 East 165th St.

A.—DESIRABLE FACTORY SITE, OPPOSITE William's Bridge Depot; size 75x215; can be bought at a low figure.
Firm of L. J. CARPENTER, 41 Liberty St.

AMSTERDAM AV.—Elegant corner building, with stores; rented, $4,700; growing fast in value; bargain price; also adjoining houses. THOMAS P. PAYNE, 96 Broadway.

COLD-WATER TENEMENT, WITH STORES, 100th St., near 8th Av.; always rented, finest tenants; $2,100; price $21,500; easy terms. THOMAS P. PAYNE, 96 Broadway.

0TH AV., NEAR 59TH ST.—Elegant corner; old buildings, 125x100; rare bargain for investment or alteration. THOMAS P. PAYNE, 96 Broadway.

11TH AV., NEAR 48TH ST.—Fine full-sized corner building, with store; always rented; bargain; $25,000; also 8th Av. bargains. THOMAS P. PAYNE, 96 Broadway.

BARGAIN.—Handsome private dwelling, East 50th St.; price right; little cash needed; might exchange. GEORGE PURVIS, 156 Broadway.

411 WEST 218T ST.—Large, deep four-story brownstone, handsomely decorated, cheap. W. GILHOOLY 5 Beekman St.

LOTS.—Bronx bargains; Tremont, Woodycrest, Aqueduct Avs.; Fordham Road; three Woodlawn corners GEORGE PURVIS, 156 Broadway.

NO. 81 WHITE STREET, NEAR BROADWAY. —Business building; submit offers. GURNEE & HOPKINS, No. 134 West 23d St.

ATTENTION, BUILDERS! LOT 50x140; AMSterdam Av., near 130th St.; might exchange. DUROSS, 242 West 14th St.

HOUSE WEST 22D ST., SOLD TO CLOSE ESTate; $1,000 cash; bargain. ATWATER, 156 Broadway.

Brooklyn Real Estate for Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

QUEENSBOROUGH IS THE MOST VALUAble from an investment point, and the cheapest in price of any of the Boroughs of New York City. We have the best and cheapest. A single lot of one hundred acres. WHEELER BROTHERS, 16 Court St., Brooklyn.

FOR SALE OR LEASE, 680 FEET WATER front, foot 39th St. Ferry, South Brooklyn, 200x240; yard and building; 32 feet water, low tide; also, for sale, three flat houses, Clinton Av., near Fulton; bargain. PIERSON & WOLFFE, 35 Nassau St. Tel. 583 Cort.

CHEAPEST IN BROOKLYN; $3,300; EASY terms; 722 Sackett Street, near 5th Avenue, (Park Slope;) 2-story and basement; brick; 9 rooms; all improvements, decorated; cozy home; sacrifice. DEWSNAP, 160 Nassau Street, Manhattan.

6 well located corners for SALOONS.
3 desirable corners for BAKERIES.
5 promising corners for DRUG STORES.
4 special corners for GROCERS.
2 extra large corners for DRY GOODS.
JOHN H. BURTIS, Gates Av., cor. Broadway.

ONE LEFT—2-FAMILY HOUSE, 2-STORY AND basement, cellar; all improvements; 12 rooms and bath; price $4,000; cash $500, balance $30 quarterly; asphalt street. 1,249 Sterling Place; open; investigate.

WHEELER BROTHERS.

Investments Queensborough.
16 COURT STREET, BROOKLYN.

Mortgage Loans.

New York and Brooklyn Property.
DIOSSY & CO., 5 COURT SQ., B'KLYN.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO SELL OR EXCHANGE? —Have cash buyers for bargains. FAILMEZGER, 1,030 Gates Av.

WHEN YOU WANT A BARGAIN IN BROOKlyn real estate, call and see KETCHAM BROS., 1,565 Broadway.

Country Real Estate for Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

DAIRY FARM, HOUSE, AND BARN, $2,300; easy terms; 14 acres; house and barn $900; many others. Send for list. BEARDALL, 11 Willoughby St., Brooklyn.

ALL COUNTRY REAL ESTATE A SPECIALty; bargains and exchanges all directions. PHILLIPS & WELLS, Tribune Building.

New Jersey Property for Sale.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

$18 BUYS 2½ ACRES.
$35 BUYS 5 ACRES.
Almost given away, to close estate at once; installments, 50 cents weekly. APPLEBY, 10 Wall.

SALE, RENT.—Allenhurst, Elberon, Hollywood, Monmouth Beach, Rumson Road; desirable furnished cottages. WILLIAM LANE, Long Branch.

Clothing.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR LADIES', GENtlemen's, and children's fine discarded Clothing, Jewelry, Furs, Bric-a-Brac, Furniture, Carpets. Mr. or Mrs. NAFTALI, 744 6th Av.

MADAME BLUM.—Absolutely highest prices for ladies' cast-off evening and street costumes; also furs. 759 6th Av.

Lost and Found.

LOST—Several days ago, CHAIN BRACELET of turquois and diamonds, with pearl heart attached; liberal reward. 346 Lexington Av.

LOST.—STOCK CERTIFICATE, Southern R. R. Preferred; payment stopped; reward. FRANK M. SHARPE, 100 Hanson Place, Brooklyn.

Furs.

FUR GARMENTS REMADE, REDYED, BLENDed into fashionable shapes. Seal Sacques a specialty; estimates given. THE BARKER FUR CO., 111 West 39th St.

A. D. WOLF, 31 WEST 125TH ST.—Practical Furrier; Seal Garments Altered and Repaired, a Specialty. Lowest Rates.

Detective Agencies.

BAYER'S INTERNATIONAL DETECTIVE Agency, licensed and bonded, 320 Broadway, Rooms 717-718; telephone 1631 Franklin; all civil and criminal cases attended to by expert detectives; male or female; former detective Police Department.

Lawyers.

DIVORCE $50 entire expense. Lawyer GEO. ROBINSON, 99 Nassau.

Apartments to Let—Unfurnished.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

THE IOWA,

135 West 104th St.
JUST COMPLETED.
ELECTRIC ELEVATOR & HALL SERVICE. THE FINEST 6 & 7 ROOM APARTMENTS. With all up-to-date, modern improvements; every room large, light, and beautifully decorated; large, handsome entrance hall and reception room, richly and tastefully furnished, about 300 feet from 104th St. station; express trains; Broadway and Amsterdam Av. electric cars. For further particulars, apply on premises.

PAUL B. PUGH & CO., Builders and Owners.
STABLER & SMITH, AGENTS,
674 COLUMBUS AVE., 93D ST.
TELEPHONE 79 RIVERSIDE.

THE URANIA,

238 and 240 West 129th St., choice apartments, five and six rooms and bath; electric elevator, steam heat, hot water supply; every modern improvement. WILLIAM C. FLANAGAN, 53 Bond St.

71ST, 342 WEST.

New apartments, 7, 8, 9 extra large rooms, with pantry, two bath rooms each, parquette floors, elevator, electric lights, telephone; $1,200 to $1,500. SUPERINTENDENT.

BACHELOR AP'TS.

112 West 44th St.
2 large, light rooms and bath.
ASHFORTH & CO., 1,508 BROADWAY.

BROADWAY, 2,680 to 2,690, COR. 102D ST.—7 BEAUTIFUL ROOMS; BATH; all improvements; hall service; $40.00 to $55.00.

102D ST., 122 EAST, NEAR LEXINGTON:—Beautiful apartments, 5 large light rooms; all improvements; one flight; $16.

FIRE INSURANCE AT LOWEST RATES. JACOB A. KING, 81 E. 125TH ST., 491 B'WAY.

Brooklyn.

ELEGANT APARTMENTS, (new,) 404 and 406 Gold St., between Fulton and Willoughby; right in the dry goods section; 5 rooms and tiled bath; steam heated; hot water supplied; refrigerator; every room has outside window; resident janitor; private block; they just meet the demand for this section; rent $23 to $26. C. H. DENISON.

BUTLER ST., 173 TO 181, NEAR BOND.—3 handsome large rooms, newly painted; $5 to $8.

Apartments to Let—Furnished.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

44TH ST., 49 WEST, (APARTMENT 35.)—Two rooms, bath, new building, hotel service, to sublet.

Brooklyn.

QUINCY ST., 514.—Three connecting rooms, nicely furnished; housekeeping; gas range, dumbwaiter, use of bath; heated halls; every convenience; rent $3.50-$4.00 weekly.

City Flats to Let—Unfurnished.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

SINGLE FLATS AT 58 EAST 96TH ST., NEAR Madison Av., $38. SCHNUGG, 78 East 96th St.

4 and 5 rooms at 91st St. and 1st Av.; new houses; $16-18; all improvements; also at 304 to 310 East 92d St.

21 and 23 East 99th St., near 5th Av.—Six rooms and bath; private halls; from $23 to $26; 10 rooms and bath, $40.

4 and 5 rooms and bath, $16-21, at 2 East 119th St., corner 5th Av.

New buildings, s. e. cor. 118th St. and Madison Av., 4 and 5 rooms and baths; hot water supply, &c., $15 to $25.

A CORNER APARTMENT, SEVEN ROOMS, bath, every modern improvement; finest location on Washington Heights; rent, $47.50. Apply 100 Convent Av., corner 146th St. Agent, POCHER, 595 Lexington Av.

HALF MONTH RENT FREE.
ELEGANT APARTMENTS; $37.50 TO $40.
122D ST., BETWEEN 7TH AND 8TH AVS. 8 rooms and bath; newly papered and decorated; hall service; hot and cold water; steam heat.

35TH ST., 223 EAST.—New apartments, 3, 4, 5 rooms; baths and bedrooms heated; hot water; open plumbing; ranges; hardwood finish; decorated; $12 upward. Janitor.

10TH ST., 224 EAST.—Three-room apartments; hot water, gas, and coal ranges; decorated; $12-$14.

JONES ST., 7, NEAR WEST 4TH ST., 0TH AV. —3-4 room apartments; decorated; $10-$14.50.

124TH ST., 230 WEST.—Large apartment; 6 rooms, bath; newly decorated; price, $16.

Brooklyn.

ELEGANT CORNER FLAT, 6 ROOMS, $19.00, Ralph and Putnam Avs.; 583 Park Place, near Franklin, $14.00. Janitors.

HICKS ST., 383.—Desirable apartments of two and three rooms; prices, $7 and $8.

Coal and Wood.

THOMAS STOKES,

Coal Dealer. Best grades of house coal, fresh mined, standard weight, lowest prices. Yards, 10th Av. and 32d St., 10th Av. and 54th St., 9th Av. and 34th St. Telephones 244 38th St., 203 Columbus.

STOKES BROS.'

HARLEM COAL YARD.
121st St. and 8th Av. Telephone 131 Harlem. A trial will insure best of service at lowest prices. Superior quality and weight guaranteed.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GUEST & CO.,

COAL AND WOOD.
Yards, 7th Av., cor. 49th St. Telephone, 435 Columbus. 306 West 43d St. Telephone, 2,279 38th St.

When in Need of Coal, Remember

LEONARD BROTHERS,

COAL AND WOOD.
245 WEST 125TH STREET.
Tel., 344 Harlem. Yard and Wharf, Mad. Av., 135th & 136th Sts., (Harlem River.)

BUY YOUR COAL & WOOD AT

THEDFORD'S,

27th St. and 9th Av. Quantity, quality, service. Telephone, 388-18th St.

Try J. DOBBINS for COAL AND WOOD.

138th St. and Madison Ave., Harlem River. Telephone, No. 537 Harlem.

T. H. Thorn & Co.

Best grade of red and white ash coal. Yard, 2d Ave., cor. 29th St. Tel. 1422 Madison sq.

MURRAY HILL WOOD YARD

36TH ST. AND FIRST AV. Tel. 279 Madison Sq. Selected Pine and Oak for kindling. Pine Knots and extra dry Hickory for Grates and Andirons. Inspection solicited. Satisfaction guaranteed.

To Let for Business Purposes.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

STORES, LOFTS, AND OFFICES TO LET AT LOWEST RATES.
JACOB A. KING, 491 B'WAY—81 E. 125TH ST.

LIGHT OFFICE—12x20, in fireproof building; elevator, heat, telephone, &c. JACOB A. KING, 491 Broadway.

A STORE AND BASEMENT TO LET.—Large windows; 16 Beekman St.; near Nassau. RULAND & WHITING, 5 Beekman St.

DOWNTOWN CORNER, PARLOR FLOOR; excellent business location; living rooms attached; $60. 88 2d Av., 5th St.

16TH ST., 423 WEST.—Large store, with three rooms and plate-glass front; newly decorated; $18.

40TH ST., 438 AND 440 WEST.—Large stores, with plate-glass fronts; two rooms; decorated; $15.

Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, 368 HICKS ST.—Large store, with dwelling rooms; will decorate to suit; $16.

Business Property Wanted.

FACTORY LOFTS WANTED.
We have more calls for lofts than we can supply.
If you have lofts to let send us particulars, or manager will call.
Now is the time to lease.
CHAS. H. EASTON & CO.
Tel. 795—38. 118 West 42d.

Storage.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

AT MORGAN & BROTHER'S STORAGE WAREHOUSE, 232, 234 & 236 WEST 47TH ST., near Broadway, separate rooms for furniture, pianos, baggage, &c. PADDED VANS FOR REMOVAL OF FURNITURE, &c. Boxing, shipping promptly attended to; estimates furnished. Telephone, 113—38th.

UNIVERSAL STORAGE WAREHOUSE COMpany, 202-208 East 88th St., near 3d Av.—Storage of furniture, pianos, &c.; separate compartments; estimates given for packing, shipping, moving, city or country. Telephone, 26-79th.

Pianos and Organs.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

WISSNER PIANOS

Used by Eminent Artists.

BROOKLYN: COR. FULTON ST. & FLATBUSH AV. NEW YORK: 25 EAST 14TH ST.
Second-Hand Uprights of Good Makers.
$85—$125. Grands, $175—$300.

CALENBERG PIANOS

Are among the
VERY BEST
Over 16,000 in use
Tuning, Repairing, Renting
Easy Terms. Open evenings.
23 East 14th St.

BEFORE DECIDING ON A PIANO IT will be to your interest to consult us and ascertain the great advantages in price, terms, and quality of the Hardman. "A word to the wise is sufficient." If in town call on us, if not, write. Hardman, Peck & Co., Mfrs., 5th Ave. and 19th St.

THE PIANOTIST

PIANO PLAYER.
An Ideal Holiday Gift.
The Only Player Awarded Medal at Paris Exposition of 1900.
Plays Any Piano. Any One Can Play It. Easily fitted to any piano. Endorsed by leading musicians. Recitals daily. Cash or Installments. THE PIANOTIST, 503 Fifth Av., Cor. 42d St.

MATHUSHEK & SON AND OPERA PIANOS

This is bargain week with us, and we offer our patrons the rarest bargains of the year, including Chickering Grand, Steinway Upright, Decker Brothers', and our own new Holiday Stock at reduced prices; a small cash payment and balance in easy monthly payments; rents, $4 up. MATHUSHEK & SON, B'way, cor. 47th St.

THE BIG WEST SIDE PIANO HOUSE.

A small cash payment secures for you a fine piano, stool, and scarf, delivered free; balance on easy monthly payments. In addition to elegant Holiday Stock, we have Steinway, $150; Chickering, $185, and many other rare bargains; rents, $4 up.
741-743 5TH AVE., NEAR 46TH ST.

Buy of manufacturer; reliable Conner Pianos; easy terms; renting; exchanging; repairing. Open evenings. 4 East 42d St.

$200 New Piano, stool, and scarf, $7 per month. Call at 1,569 Broadway, corner 47th St.

WINTERROTH PIANOS, CASH, INSTALMENTS, $125 UPWARD. 105 EAST 14TH ST. & 98 5TH AV. Open Evenings

MARSCHEIDER, 19 East 14th St.—Guaranteed high-grade pianos; easy terms; bargains in used pianos; price on every piano. Open evenings.

BARGAINS—New and second-hand upright pianos; fine makes, all improvements, mahogany, walnut, oak, or rosewood cases; fully warranted; $125 up; open evenings. WHITNEY & CO., 112 West 125th St.

EMERSON PIANOS.—Beautiful new designs; several slightly used; at unusually low prices; Steinway Parlor Grand; rare bargain. GEO. W. HERBERT, 10 East 17th St.

BARGAINS.—Pianos, new and second-hand; Steinway, Chickering, $100 up; rent $3 up; also self-playing pianos. MYLIUS, 12 Union Square, between 14th and 15th.

BEFORE RENTING OR PURCHASING A piano call and examine our stock; rents $3 up; old pianos exchanged. DEWEY & CO., 5 East 14th St.

BARGAINS.—Upright pianos, $100 upward; more value for money than elsewhere guaranteed; square, $20 upward; rented, exchanged; easy payments. CHRISTMAN, 21 East 14th St.

ELEGANT MAHOGANY UPRIGHT PIANO, slightly used, for $175; easy payments if desired; fully guaranteed. W. F. TWAY PIANO CO., 94 5th Av.

$10.00 FIRST PAYMENT, BALANCE EASY installments; elegant new uprights, delivered free. WESER BROS., 524 West 43d St.

STEINWAY, EVERY IMPROVEMENT, BEAUtifully carved, great sacrifice. Elegant Upright only $75. BIDDLE'S, 7 East 14th St.

SQUARE PIANO, $15; PEDAL BASS ORGAN, $20; 50c. weekly installments. TIFFANY PIANO CO., 129 5th Av.

WALTERS PIANOS, 105 WEST 33D ST., NEAR Broadway.—Large assortment, various makes; installments, exchange, repairing, tuning.

BARGAINS IN NEW AND SLIGHTLY USED pianos; easy payments; squares exchanged. WESER BROS., 524 West 43d St.

SPECIAL SALE OF FINE UPRIGHT PIANOS this week; extraordinary bargains for cash. HAHN, 105 W. 23d St.

UPRIGHT, ROSEWOOD CASE, FULL-SIZE, $50; snap. O'REILLY, 109 Franklin Av., near Myrtle Av., Brooklyn.

RENTS $3 TO $5 MONTHLY FOR PIANOS with orchestra and tremolo attachments. WESER BROS., 524 West 43d St.

Religious Notices.

BELGIAN HARES—BUY FROM FIRST hands; largest breeders in the world; fancy stock; low prices. ROCKY MOUNTAIN BELGIAN HARE COMPANY, 208 Quincy Building, Denver, Col. Agents wanted.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH, N. Y., STUYVESANT Square, Rev. W. S. Rainsford, D. D., Rector.—Watch night service New Year's Eve, at 11 o'clock, followed by holy communion at 12 M. All seats free. Doors will be closed at 11:30 P. M.

THE TWENTIETH CENTURY UNION WATCH Night Service will be held at Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, cor. 60th St., on Monday evening, Dec. 31st, 1900, at 10 P. M. Churches uniting are the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, the Epiphany Episcopal Church, the First Reformed Episcopal Church, and the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. Addresses will be made by the pastors of the uniting churches. All are cordially invited to attend.

WATCH NIGHT SERVICES IN HANSON Place Baptist Church, Brooklyn, to-night from 8 to 12. John Humpstone, C. L. Rhoades, A. B. Sears, Hartwell Pratt, R. H. Baker, H. Wood, and A. C. Dixon will speak.

Auction Sales.

10c. per line 3 times 24c 7 times 42c Double for display.

SLAUGHTER SALE OF HOLIDAY BOOKS Closing out entire stock of rich standard books at 148 Fulton Street, near Broadway. Auction sale begins every day, excepting Sundays, at 12 o'clock, and will be continued until entire stock is sold. Among other choice works are samples and remainders of the publications of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Appleton & Co., Harper & Brothers, Dodd, Mead & Co., and other leading book houses. A few slightly damaged sets of Huxley, Darwin, Tyndall, and Spencer. Visitors invited. Sale positive. 148 Fulton Street, New York.

E. W. AYERS AND A. SANDERS SELL books at auction at 12 M. and 8 P. M. to-day. 7 Astor Block.

ED. SIMMONS SELLS BOOKS AT AUCTION at 12 M. and 8 P. M. today. No. 148 Fulton St.

J. W. CAMPBELL, JR

THE PARTING OF THE CENTURIES

Recapitulation and Prophecy by Rabbi Kaufman Kohler.

The Penalty of Progress—Readjustment of Social Inadequacies the Great, Task of the Future.

At Temple Beth-El, Fifth Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street, yesterday morning, the Rev. Dr. Kaufman Kohler delivered a lecture entitled "The Parting of the Centuries." Dr. Kohler took his text from the book of Habakkuk, iii., 2: "O Lord! revive Thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known." Dr. Kohler said, in part:

"We stand on the watch tower to watch the doings of God in the midst of the years. A century mighty in its achievements, gigantic in its forward stride, matchless in its intellectual expansion, industry, and invention, in its manifoldness and vastness of human enterprise—perhaps of all the centuries in history the grandest—is sinking into the grave to give birth to another century of which we know not whether it means ascent or descent, regeneration or degeneration of mankind.

"We heard the Cassandra voices, prophecies of whom, foreboders of storm and disaster such as were uttered by Alfred Russel Wallace in his work, 'The Wonderful Century,' or more recently by Frederic Harrison in The North American Review, both of whom pointed to the curse of militarism and greed, the vulgarity of thought and taste in art and literature, the coarseness of life and language, the unblushing worship of Mammon, and the insolent rule of Moloch, the tiger and the flesh, while the nobler instincts and higher ideals have receded during the last quarter of the century.

"Yet we refuse to chime in in this cry of pessimism, this wholesale condemnation of the century. I admit that the greatness of a blessing certainly consists not so much in its wondrous achievements as in the still greater tasks and the problems it sets down for coming centuries to grapple with and to solve. Progress has been the guiding star of the closing century. This was the motive power which transformed our entire mode of living, thinking, and acting, and gave the stimulus to our undreamt-of material prosperity, the unrivaled intellectual progress, and the wondrous improvement of the entire status of man. Yet this very progress is also the cause of all the unrest and worry, the moral and intellectual incongruity, the dying century labors under.

"The first thing that strikes us is the invention of machinery, the powers that called the giant forces of nature to the aid of the workingman and to make him the equal of his neighbor, to provide better food, raiment, and shelter for all classes of society alike, was the object, the promise, of the nineteenth century science. Was the promise fulfilled?

"In the eagerness and rush after comfort and opulence the one class neglected to look after the well-being of the other. Wealth, accumulated in the hands of one rich man, brought want into the homes of hundreds of the less fortunate. Ex-Mayor Hewitt, out of the noble impulse of his philosophic soul, could therefore well exclaim the other day, 'It were better that all the industries of the country were destroyed than that the curse of an ever-increasing misery for the struggling poor should continue forever.'

"Still, it would be doing an injustice to the age were we to deny that the maxim of altruism enounced in the beginning of the century has taken hold of many, even of the wealthy. The sense of responsibility and duty is felt in a higher degree by those who control large fortunes than at any time before this, even though they have, as ex-Mayor Hewitt said, 'hardly begun doing their duty.' At any rate, the conscience is stirred, the spirit of righteousness has been roused, and we may feel certain that the twentieth century will take up the great task of readjusting the inadequacies of social life in a way to make each one's success a source of satisfaction also to those defeated in life's battle.

"The nineteenth century, however, has done more than furnish means of life's enjoyment. It has lent man a dignity he has never had before. It has removed all inequalities of caste, class, and sex by offering opportunities of harmony to each and all. But, intoxicated by his success, the man of the nineteenth century became a worshipper of self. Insisting on his right to think, he dropped all regard for authority, lost faith in the unseen God. The masses lost with their religion their moral stronghold, and the enlightened ones turned skeptics, and as consequence of all this is the increase of suicide, crime, and insanity.

"Still greater and more wonderful is the humanitarian progress of this closing century. Never before was the unity of man, the interdependence of all classes, nations, and sects so fully recognized as to-day. The nineteenth century has done more than any of its predecessors in building highways of commerce, pathways of human intercourse across the deserts and the seas. There is no longer a dark continent on the globe, no wilderness but will speedily be turned into a habitation for civilized man. What has been begun in those great world expositions and world parliaments in the last century will lead to greater and more lasting results in the twentieth century. The nineteenth century was but the pathfinder of the new humanity, the twentieth century will lead toward those heights which Israel's prophets pointed to twenty-seven centuries ago."

HYMNS FOR PRISONERS.

Evangelist Sankey Sings in the Tombs and Is Photographed There.

Ira D. Sankey, the revivalist, sang at the regular morning services yesterday in the Tombs Prison. There was a cornet solo, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," in which Mr. Sankey joined. The 250 men locked up in the old prison pressed their faces against the heavy iron bars in an effort to see Sankey. Half a dozen paces away was Dr. Samuel J. Kennedy, who, after a death sentence for the murder of Dolly Reynolds, was granted a new trial. Dr. Kennedy occupies Cell No. 36, which Roland B. Molineux, now in the death house in Sing Sing, had during his detention in the Tombs prior to his conviction. In Cell No. 50 was Albert T. Patrick, accused of having forged the name of the late William M. Rice to a will and also to checks aggregating over $130,000. He stopped reading the Sunday newspapers and became an attentive listener to the services. At the remote end of the tier, in Cell No. 69, was John McDonnell, accused of homicide in connection with a shooting affray in a Harlem saloon three days ago. The prisoners all applauded vigorously at the close of each hymn.

At the close of each solo there was a little talk on the goodness of God. "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "Throw Out the Life Line, There Is Somebody Sinking To-day," and a Scotch hymn composed by an American woman, in which the dialect is perfect, were all sung by Mr. Sankey. Mr. Sankey was photographed for a religious publication just before he left the Tombs.

A CENTURY'S ADVANCEMENT.

Rev. Dr. Eaton Finds a Higher Spiritual and Moral Condition of Life.

"The Closing of the Nineteenth Century" was the theme of the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Eaton's sermon yesterday morning at the Church of the Divine Paternity, Central Park West and Seventy-sixth Street. "The evidence shows," he said, "that at the beginning of the twentieth century we are standing at a far higher spiritual altitude than had been attained at the beginning of the nineteenth century."

Dr. Enton instanced the abolition of slavery and of dueling, the rescue of women and children from labor in the mines in England, the concession of the right of free contract, the development of the social consciousness, and the preaching of great prophets. He asserted that there had been an immense growth in the century in personal honesty and that the evidence was against the idea that there was more trickery now in trade. "At the beginning of the century," he said, "for every $1,000 spent for public purposes, $21 was lost through fraud or dishonesty; now only 26 cents is so lost out of each $1,000."

Intemperance, the preacher said, was almost universal at the beginning of the century, and he instanced the statement of a Massachusetts minister that out of 123 Deacons in his experience 40 died sots, that forty ministers of his acquaintance were intemperate. Such conditions were now impossible.

"We have heard," continued Dr. Eaton, "a great deal about divorce in high life. Luxury has undermined the family idea. But conditions in this respect are infinitely above what they were at the beginning of the century. Then there were few divorces, but there were a great many runaway wives and a great many runaway husbands."

GROWTH OF CHRISTIANITY.

Since the Days of Wesley and Whitfield There Has Been a Gain of 345,000,000.

"The dawn of the twentieth century is the brightest hour in the Kingdom of God," declared the Rev. Dr. Cortland Myers, in the Baptist Temple, Brooklyn, yesterday. "In 1800 the total number of Christians was 200,000,000; in 1900, above 500,000,000. Two centuries ago there were only 30,000,000 under Protestant Governments. Now there are 500,000,000. During the nearly ten centuries of papal dominion Christianity gained only 85,000,000. Since the birth of Protestantism, a period one-third as long, it has gained about six times as much. Since the days of Wesley and Whitfield it has gained 345,000,000 souls.

"In this country the census of 1890 reported a Church membership of 20,000,000, a gain of 34 per cent., while the population had gained only 13 per cent. Who can prophesy the progress in these coming years?"

Invested with Title of Monsignor.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., Dec. 30.—The Rev. E. A. Garvey, pastor of St. John's Catholic Church, Pittston, and Vicar General of the Scranton Diocese, was invested with the title of Monsignor by Bishop Hoban this morning. Mgr. Garvey was formerly rector of St. Mary's Church, at Williamsport, and when Bishop O'Hara of the Scranton Diocese died his name was one of the three sent to Rome to fill the vacancy. The Rev. M. J. Hoban, however, was named for the place. Mgr. Garvey was then transfered from Williamsport to Pittston and made Vicar General of the diocese.

Universalist Pastor at Albion Resigns.

ALBION, N. Y., Dec. 30.—The Rev. Charles Flahrer, pastor of the Universalist Church which was built by the late George M. Pullman in 1895 at a cost of $75,000, tendered his resignation to-day. The Rev. Mr. Flahrer has been in feeble health from paralysis since May last. He came here from Grand Rapids, Mich., and is a leader in the denomination, being President of the Universalist State Convention.

STRIKERS WILL SELL BREAD.

Fifty Wagons Will Dispose of Union-Made Loaves in the Affected District.

Two hundred recruits were added to the striking Hebrew bakers yesterday. A continuous series of meetings was held in Liberty Hall, 257 East Houston Street. As the new strikers came into the hall they were received with whoops of delight, some of the bakers throwing their hats up into the air, while others made speeches of welcome.

Pickets came in with tales of scarcity of bread in the tenements. A committee was appointed to go to the Hebrew quarters in Brooklyn and get bread from the union bakers with money supplied by the union. The members of the committee came back in two hours with bread, which they sold from pushcarts. It was all taken in a short time, and more was sent for.

This gave the Executive Committee of the Hebrew Bakers' Union, which has charge of the strike, a new idea. It was decided to hire fifty wagons to be put in use today in selling bread from Brooklyn to the customers of the bakers against whom the strike is directed.

"This is going to be a big thing," said one of the strike leaders. "The bosses will know how earnest we are when we are turning salesmen as well as strikers."

"We'll never go back to work eighteen and twenty hours a day if we stay out for six months," said another. "We'll work only ten hours a day. That is the law, anyway."

The tie-up in the bakeries will be complete to-day, when 400 more bakers will quit work. Arrangements were made yesterday evening for the carriers, who are on strike, to deliver bread in baskets to customers as well as from wagons.

The delivery of the bread to the customers of the bakeries by the strikers was so successful the strike was declared to be the most popular one that has taken place for ten years.

The strikers said yesterday that they will apply to the Board of Health for an official inspection of the east side bakeries.

TEST OF LABOR LAWS.

Central Federated Union Wants to be Represented in Court Cases.

The Central Federated Union yesterday decided to take a hand in the fight of the Controller against contractors who are trying to nullify the effect of the labor laws relating to city work. The union passed a resolution requesting the Controller, who is defendant in two suits to test the constitutionality of the law, to ask the Corporation Counsel to permit associate counsel to act with him in the suits to be named and paid if necessary by organized labor, so that its interests may be properly protected.

William J. O'Brien of the granite cutters, who introduced the resolution, said: "I am in favor of employing the very highest professional talent if the Controller is willing to take our help, even if it costs $1,000. We cannot see the laws which cost organized labor so many years of fighting trodden down in this way. If the city officials do not comply with our request to have an associate lawyer with the Corporation Counsel I have other irons in the fire."

TRIED TO STRIKE PHYSICIAN.

Then Deaf-Mute, Who Was Knocked Down by Car, Signified an Apology.

Edward F. Breen, a printer, deaf and dumb, living at 239 East Ninety-third Street, while crossing One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street at Park Avenue last night was struck by a crosstown car and knocked down. He was carried into the New York Central Station at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and attended by Dr. Levy of Harlem Hospital.

Breen pointed to his feet, indicating they had been injured. When the physician stooped down the man attempted to strike him. He was prevented by Policeman Ward, and, by writing, told the Breen that Levy was a physician. Breen apologized by shaking Dr. Levy's hands. He was found to be uninjured, save a few bruises, and went home.

Palisades Commission's Work Praised.

The Trustees of the Society for the Preservation of Scenic and Historic Places and Objects, which secured the legislation last Winter creating the Inter-State Palisades Park Commission, adopted resolutions at a meeting held Saturday evening, expressing satisfaction at the conclusions and recommendations of the commission. The society thinks that the result reached by the commission, aided, as it has been, by liberal personal contributions, would seem to make the work of preserving the Palisades for all time practicable by the indicated appropriations, "which are insignificant as compared with the magnitude of the interests and value of the objects to be attained thereby."

Leaped from Window to Save Lives.

The two-story frame building at Fourth and Garden Streets, Hoboken, occupied by Naughton Brothers as a saloon, was destroyed by fire at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The occupants of the second floor were obliged to leap from the windows owing to the rapidity with which the flames spread, but none of them was injured. The building belong to the Astor estate. Two adjoining houses were badly damaged. The loss is $4,000. The cause of the fire was not learned.

Collection for Presbyterian Hospital.

At the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. C. H. Parkhurst is pastor, a Hospital Sunday collection was taken up yesterday, realizing $2,890.44. This sum will be given entirely to the Presbyterian Hospital and not to the general fund.

A CENTURY OF RELIGION

Clergymen Tell of the Leading Movements for 100 Years.

Bishop Potter Names the Growth of Candor—Others Mention Revivals, Salvation Army, and Missions.

A symposium of ideas and opinions as to the distinguishing features of the Christian life and work of the century just closing was presented last evening to his congregation by the Rev. Dr. John F. Carson, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn. Dr. Carson preached on "The Conspicuous Religious Movements of the Nineteenth Century." In his sermon he quoted the opinions of sixty prominent clergymen of this country, expressed in answer to this question sent to each of them by Dr. Carson: "What do you consider the conspicuous features of the religious life and work of the nineteenth century?"

Following are extracts from a number of the letters:

Right Rev. H. C. Potter, Bishop of New York—"The growth of candor as to the defects of present systems of ecclesiastical life and work. The wide endeavor to rise to the demands of the modern social situation upon the part of Christian people."

The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D.—"The great revival movements, without which the membership of the churches would have been comparatively insignificant."

The Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus, pastor of the Central Church, Chicago—"The Christianization of Christian theology. The new sense of the obligation of strength to weakness. The renaissance of the revival spirit. The progress of missions. Endowment for Christian education."

The Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., President of the World's Christian Endeavor Union—"The missionary awakening. The uprising of the young people and their enlistment in Christ's service."

The Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn—"The great Finney revival. The religious awakenings under Moody. The rise of the bread-school party in Great Britain. The message of Bushnell and Beecher. The rise of the Salvation Army. The Young Men's Christian Association and the Christian Endeavor movements. The foreign mission movement."

The Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, D. D., pastor of the Metropolitan movement in New York, and recently called to succeed the Rev. Dr. Behrends as pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn—"The Oxford movement, (despite its deterrents, the most remarkable of the century.) The establishment of world-wide missions. The simplification of Christian doctrine around the New Testament's idea of Christ and His teaching."

The Rev. Dr. D. Babcock, D. D., pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, New York—"The awakening and developing in the individual Christian of the social conscience."

Joseph Cook, the eminent teacher of Boston—"The evangelical revivals of 1800, 1825, 1837, 1857, and onward to the present time, particularly those under President Finney and Mr. Moody. Home and Foreign Missions. The abolition of slavery. Young people's work. Christian scope and tone of many reforms."

The Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, D. D., pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, named "Foreign missions, the work of historical criticism, young people's movements, the revivals under D. L. Moody, and efforts to come closer together in Christian thought and work."

The Rev. George Alexander, D. D., pastor of the University Place Presbyterian Church—"A deepened interest in the person and ministry of the historic Christ, the reconstruction of theological conceptions, the decline of ecclesiastical conflict, the magnifying of the humanitarian and social aspects of the Church's mission, missions."

The Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D., named missions, arbitration, and reform movements.

The Rev. David R. Breed, D. D., Professor in the Presbyterian Seminary, Allegheny, Penn.—"The growing unification of Christendom on an evangelical basis and missions."

The Rev. George T. Purves, D. D., pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York—"I think the most distinguishing feature in the progress of Christianity in the nineteenth century has been: (1) foreign missions; (2) the advance in the Churches' knowledge of the Bible along the lines of sound scholarship and the popularization of the Book; (3) the progress made in securing the activity of Christian laymen and young men; (4) the acknowledgment by thinkers of all schools of the necessity and the vitality of Christianity; (5) the increased application of Christian truth and the principles of the Gospel to the life of society and the redress in some measure of social evils."

The Rev. Dr. R. Heber Newton of Manhattan—I should name among the conspicuous features of religious life and work of the nineteenth century, or at least the latter part of the nineteenth century, not to go too far afield, what is known as Christian Socialism and the new thought movement or the movement for spiritual healing.

George B. Stevens, Professor of Theology at Yale University—The ethicizing of theology; great humanitarian movements, missions, educational and rescue work among the lost and degraded of every sort.

The Rev. Dr. Minot J. Savage—The decree of papal infallibility and the high church reactionary movement in the Church of England were indications of retrogression or a back-water tendency.

McGLORY'S HALL NOW A CHURCH.

Dr. MacArthur Delivers an Address at the First Service in the Place.

What has become known as "Billy" McGlory's dance hall in West Fifty-ninth Street entered upon a new career yesterday, the place being used for a church. The dance hall was forced out of business owing to the protests of the Paulist Fathers. The services held yesterday were brought about through the efforts of S. H. Pratt, an evangelist, who has been in charge of the tent meetings held in the neighborhood throughout the Summer.

The Rev. R. S. MacArthur of the Calvary Baptist Church delivered an address at the morning service in which he said that it was delightful to think that the building should finally have been devoted to the worship of God and the reclamation of sinners. He hoped that McGlory himself would attend one of the meetings, and if he did he would probably have glory in his heart and soul as well as in his name.

After the services Mr. Pratt announced that nearly $500 had been promised toward the movement, but as the rent asked for the place was $6,000 per year, a great deal more would have to be subscribed before it would be an assured success. The property owners in the neighborhood should subscribe, because the running of the place as a dive had depreciated the value of their property and it would not rise until the building had been put to some other purpose.

At the evening service the speaker was the Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Smith of Savannah, Ga.

Among those interested in a movement to transform the hall permanently into a church are the Rev. J. W. Chapman of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, the Rev. John H. Elliott of the Thirty-fourth Street Reformed Church, and the Rev. Dr. D. A. Blackburn of the Church of the Strangers.

CROW HILL'S SUNDAY SCARE.

Negroes Thought They Saw a Ghost, but It Was Only a Sleepwalker.

The negro residents of Crow Hill, Brooklyn's "Darktown" district, who were abroad in the early hours of yesterday morning received a scare which sent the superstitious of them scurrying wildly to their homes. In the dark hour just before dawn a white-robed figure was seen in Atlantic Avenue, near Ralph Avenue. The negroes took it for a ghost and fled in terror. The figure in white kept slowly on until it had reached the corner of Ralph Avenue. Patrolman McGowan of the Atlantic Avenue Station, turning the corner, almost ran into the figure.

"Hello, what's this?" he exclaimed in surprise.

The figure before him was that of an old man. He was dressed in a long white nightshirt, and carried over his arm a pair of trousers. The old man was walking in his sleep. The policeman woke him up, and later sent him to St. Mary's Hospital, as he was suffering from exposure. He said he was John Felix, eighty-five years old, and that he lived with his son Frank on Prescott Place, near Atlantic Avenue. The son called at the hospital later, and took his father home.

THE NEW YORK HOSPITALS

A Boon Not Only to the Poor, but to the Well-to-Do.

Many Wealthy Persons Now Take Advantage of Conveniences of the Private Wards.

The general relation of the people at large to the hospital has greatly changed within recent years. The hospital is now considered a beneficent institution, not only for the poor, but for the people of moderate means and even for the wealthy. Going to a hospital does not mean, either, that the case is practically hopeless. It means better care for the patient, with a great relief to the family from physical as well as mental strain, and it may mean a lessening of expense. Investigation in different hospitals shows a marked increase in the number of private patients. This is appreciated by the hospital authorities, for the bulk of their work being purely benevolent and conducted with a large outlay, the private patients, who pay for their comforts and the attention they receive, help to support the other work.

"There is an increase of at least 75 per cent. in the number of private patients we receive at this hospital," the Superintendent of the Roosevelt Hospital said, speaking of the private patients the other day, "within a comparatively few years. There were six rooms for private patients when I came here, seventeen years ago, and we have at the present time twenty-eight of our thirty-nine private rooms occupied. Private patients were not encouraged at that time.

"We do not emphasize the point of economy to a patient who comes to the hospital. In the private rooms there is paid something more than the cost, and in this way we obtain a certain income for the benevolent work in the wards where the patients may or may not pay a cent. There is no doubt but there is a great advantage in many cases for the patient who comes to a hospital. In the ordinary dwelling, where there are many draperies and much upholstered furniture, there is no chance for the antiseptic conditions that are so essential in case of sickness. In the hospital there is everything that is required for any emergency, and there are always members of the house staff at hand when the visiting physician is away. Then take a case of typhoid fever; the special treatment is with cold baths, into which the patient is placed to reduce the temperature. We have here portable bathtubs, which are used for this purpose, and which would not be found in a private house, and the work is greatly simplified.

"The rooms range in price from $25 to $75, the greater number being $25 and $30 rooms. If the case is not serious there need be no extra expense for a special nurse, and the patient is attended by one of the regular nurses of the hospital. If it is necessary to have special treatment, we have always on our list a number of graduate nurses, sometimes as many as twenty-five, who can be called upon at short notice to do the work. For each twelve hours the nurse is paid $4. Of this she receives $3, the remainder paying her board. The nurse is necessary in serious cases, and often the presence of a special nurse is a great comfort to a nervous patient.

"In case of friends who desire to enter the hospital with the patient, they can take a room at the regular price and remain in the hospital until the recovery of the patient. A wife sometimes comes with her husband, or a mother with her daughter. We have a wealthy Fifth Avenue woman, who has taken one of the best suites in the hospital, here now, and who has brought with her her husband and her companion. They probably will have been here six weeks before they leave. The woman and her companion have one room, and the husband another, and he comes and goes as he pleases. It is a great convenience. A person of wealth can of course create proper conditions in a case of illness if there is time, but it means a great amount of effort, and by coming to the hospital they can go home comfortably when they are convalescent and not find it necessary to disinfect the house.

SOLVES A PROBLEM FOR MANY.

"The possibility of going to the hospital solved a problem for people living in hotels. I have in mind one case of a young man above his majority who was living with his parents at a hotel when he was taken sick. The three came to this hospital, the father and mother staying the entire time that the son was ill."

There is a special pavilion for the private patients at the Roosevelt Hospital, and the rooms are fitted up with every convenience. There is the little metal bedstead in each room, pretty furniture of either birch or mahogany, with a wardrobe, bureau, a big easy chair and couch, and pretty rugs on the floor. The two pieces of upholstered furniture are covered with denim and have over this pretty slips of figured chintz which can be removed and laundered. In some cases of fever, like typhoid, these pieces are removed from the room.

There is a diet kitchen and serving room on each floor from which meals are served after being sent from the kitchen and where the pretty china and silver tea and coffee services are kept. There is an attractive reception parlor in which the visitors are received.

At St. Luke's Hospital they tell the same story of the increasing demand for private rooms. The figures of their last report show the increase in the past year.

"I do not see why treatment in a hospital should not be an economy as well as a benefit in other ways," said the Superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital. "Take a surgical operation for instance. In an ordinary household there is not the complement of effects required for the work. When an operation is performed there is not only the surgeon to pay but the etherizer, and the assistant as well as the nurse. In other cases, such as pneumonia and typhoid fever, and where baths are required, treatment can be given in a hospital that it is very difficult to give in a private house.

"Our charges here are from $3 to $6 a day. Take a medium price, $4 a day, and estimate what the patient will receive for it. In a serious case the physician would feel it necessary to call at the house several times a day, while in a hospital he can leave the patient in charge of the members of the house staff, and they are always ready in case of an emergency. One nurse has charge of four patients where there is no special attendant, and in cases where the illness is not very serious or does not require constant attention it may not be necessary to have a special attendant, perhaps only a night nurse. After the most serious part of the illness is over, the special nurse can be discharged, and one of the regular nurses take the case. Medicines and dressings in a surgical case are included, and there are the delicacies for the sick which are given the patient which would add materially to the cost of caring for a patient at home. The patient is better off and the house is not upset.

"Friends coming with the patient is discouraged here. When patients are very ill temporary accommodations can be arranged for them. It can be put down as one of the advantages of a hospital that the relatives and friends do not take care of the patients. It is much better for them not to be under the care of any one who is overconcerned for them. We have no special pavilion for private patients, and no accommodations for their friends. Possibly they would be admitted more freely if we had greater accommodations. The income from the rooms benefits the general work. The charitable work is the chief work of the hospital. The big work done at the Roosevelt and the New York Hospital for the poorer people is the primary work, and it is growing more and more expensive every year.

"It cost us last year 1.82 per capita for our ward patients, that is $12 plus per week. The largest sum taken from any patient is $10.50. We do not turn any one away who cannot pay; all are treated alike, and nurses and doctors do not know one from the other. Modern surgery, modern medicine, and modern sanitary conditions are expensive, and even the method of building makes an additional first cost. This building is put up in the pavilion form, and in every one of our wards the sun shines some part of the day on every pleasant day."

AT THE NEW YORK HOSPITAL.

At the New York Hospital the new private patient pavilion opened a couple of weeks ago speaks for itself as to the demand for rooms for private patients. It is a large building, facing Sixteenth Street, and will accommodate sixty patients. Half of the rooms were engaged within the first week after the opening, and it is expected that there will be another influx of patients after New Year's, as people, when it is possible, put off leaving home until the holidays are past.

The new building has everything that modern sanitary knowledge can suggest and is like a great hotel, with its rooms prettily furnished with brass bedsteads, couches, Morris chairs, writing desks, open fireplaces, double doors to each room, diet kitchen, and serving rooms, lavatories and bathrooms on each floor. There is pretty china for the service of meals, with every convenience for keeping the stores and cooking. A cold-storage plant will be put in soon.

In addition to the private rooms there are semi-private wards, four of them with eight beds, and ten in the remainder. Patients pay $14 a week for beds in these rooms, and this includes the attendance, with only the additional expense of the surgeon's fee. These semi-private wards are to be found in other hospitals in the city.

In the maternity as well as the general hospitals there is noticed an increased tendency among people of means or in comfortable circumstances to take advantage of the opportunities offered them in such places. There are private rooms in the Sloane Maternity Hospital, and in some cases the wives of physicians have been treated there. At the Mothers and Babies' Hospital, Lexington Avenue, they say that the demand for private rooms is increasing, and noticeably so within the last year. The increased tendency of people to live in a limited space in the city makes hospital treatment desirable. Many of the patients have been women living in flats, boarding houses, or hotels.

Women can have rooms for $10, $20, and $30 a week, and there is one suite of rooms for which there is a charge of $50. There are two patients in the $10 room, which is off one of the wards, and there is a more elaborate bill of fare for the patients in the more expensive rooms, and special attendants. In the $50 suite there are separate rooms for tending the mother and baby.

Many people who have had the experience of being ill in and out of the hospital are greatly in favor of the former, especially where, as in many cases, the breaking down of some member of the family from overwork and anxiety follows, where the patient has been ill at home, although the trained nurse may also have been in attendance.

CITY HAILS THE CENTURY.

Elaborate Electrical and Bunting Decoration on the City Hall.

If any one does not find himself in a proper twentieth century New Year's humor this morning he needs to go down town and look at the old City Hall and see how it has been coyly decked for the new century reception. All day yesterday and all last night decorators and electricians were working on the building, and the work will not be finished until 6 o'clock to-night.

The decorations are the most elaborate that have ever been put on the building. Hundreds of Sunday pedestrians halted to admire the spectacle yesterday and to watch the flag hangers and the electricians at work. Over 400 flags were used in the decoration, and at that there is not a space that seems overcrowded. Nearly 4,000 red, white, and blue incandescent lights strung on lines reaching from the tower in the middle to the tops of the four flag poles and criss-crossing one another from pole to pole and running from there to the corners of the roof, will be used for illumination. Besides these, twelve five-foot and one eight-foot star in red, white, and blue lights will be affixed in the corners of the building and among the garlands of flags and bunting.

Over the main entrance is the electric inscription:

1900—WELCOME—1901.
20TH CENTURY.

Between these signs are garlands of evergreen and American flags, and beneath them a maze of red, white, and blue, which sets off the green cables surrounding a shield of the City of New York. Twelve other shields backed by crossed American flags are distributed among the nooks and corners, and between these are streamers of the National colors, while the whole is set off against the sky by streamers of signal and navy flags, running from pole to pole.

Methodists' Watch Night Services.

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 30.—Bishop Charles B. Galloway, President of the General Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South, has received advices that the watch night services Monday night in the churches throughout the South will be the most enthusiastic in the history of the Church. Services also will be held in the northern branch of the churches in New England. Bishop Galloway announces that $1,400,000 has been raised by the Southern Church as the twentieth century fund for educational purposes.

FRITZ BRENN'S $2 JOKE.

Had Fun with His Friend Abraham and Landed in Police Court.

Magistrate Olmsted, in Yorkville Police Court, yesterday morning, gave to Fritz Brenn of Third Avenue, near Twenty-sixth Street, the definition of a joke. It was in the nature of a two-dollar fine, which Brenn, with a wry face, paid, afterward delivering a harangue against jokes in general and the two-dollar article in particular.

Leopold Abraham, who keeps a store at 182 Third Avenue, had Brenn arrested for disorderly conduct on Saturday. He said that Brenn was continually playing tricks upon him and joking with him in a manner that was calculated to ruin the store and its stock of goods.

"He would come into my place," said Abraham, "and buy a half dozen shirts, taking seven for the half dozen and telling me that it was a good joke, and why didn't I laugh? I couldn't see the joke, I told him, and then he got mad because I wouldn't laugh. I don't want him to buy any more goods at my store. I'm afraid he'll come in some day and buy a dozen shirts and take fifteen, and tell me that that's a bigger joke than the other. Then, sometimes, when I would not be looking, he would come in and hit me with one of my lay figures. Maybe he would break the figure all to pieces, maybe he would only crack it. But it was always a joke. His jokes cost me money. Judge, and I'm getting tired of them. Won't you please make him stop playing jokes?"

Brenn admitted that he did take seven shirts for a half dozen, and said it was "a joke," just as Abraham had thereunto related.

"But I never throw any of his old figures at him except when he would call me 'thief' for taking the one shirt," said Brenn. "He also threatened my life and ran at me with a pair of scissors. To protect myself I threw one of his figures at him. That's why I was arrested on Saturday."

After a lecture from the Magistrate Brenn promised not to play any more jokes. He reluctantly paid his fine and he and Abraham left the room together.

"Jokes are expensive," said Brenn, upon reaching the sidewalk. "They're no good at $2 a piece. Leopold, I thought you was a better friend to me."

Mr. Abraham returned a smile of satisfaction.

WHITE'S IDEA OF SPORT.

Pointed Harmless Weapons at Elevated Passengers, but Paid $10 Therefor.

Samuel L. White, a young man living at 225 Edgecombe Avenue, employed as a paymaster by the Consolidated Gas Company, says he has a sister who is making a collection of firearms, old and modern. Consequently, according to the story he told Magistrate Pool in the West Side Court yesterday morning, he eagerly accepted a pistol and revolver, one ancient and one modern, but both out of order, which were offered to him on Saturday evening by friends whom he was visiting.

Late that evening while on his way home in an elevated train he gave the trainmen and passengers a scare by pointing the revolver and pistol at them and snapping the hammers. Many of the women in the car were on the verge of hysterics when the train men interfered. White refused to desist from his sport, and when forced to do so showed fight. He was overpowered and removed from the train at the Sixty-sixth Street Station, where he was held until Policeman Simms of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station arrived and placed White under arrest.

The Magistrate fined White $10, which was paid.

Vance Thompson Here on a Visit.

Vance Thompson, the journalist and playwright, was among the arrivals on the French liner La Gascogne yesterday. He will remain in America three weeks, dividing his time between New York, Boston, and Philadelphia. Mr. Thompson says that he has recently completed a five-act play for Mrs. Leslie Carter, which will be produced in London, Paris, and New York next season. The name of the play, he said, had not yet been selected.

We anticipate the coming of new things,

They're here before they "arrive"—the new things in clothing, shoes, hats and furnishings, whether for man or boy.

ROGERS, PEET & COMPANY.

258 Broadway, cor. Warren, and 7 and 9 Warren St.
569 Broadway, cor. Prince.
1260 Broadway, cor. 32d, and 54 West 33d St.

We fill orders by mail.

Amusements.

KNICKERBOCKER THEATRE, B'way and 38th St.
AL HAYMAN & CO.....PROPRIETORS
TO-NIGHT AT 8:15.
Matinees To-morrow & Saturday.

ADA REHAN
IN PAUL KESTER'S COMEDY,
SWEET NELL OF OLD DRURY.
MANAGEMENT KLAW & ERLANGER.

METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE.
GRAND OPERA SEASON 1900—1901.
Under the Direction of Mr. Maurice Grau.
TO-NIGHT, at 7:45 precisely—LOHENGRIN, (In German.) Mmes. Nordica and Schumann-Heink; MM. Jean and Ed. de Reszke, Muhlmann, and Bertram. Conductor, Damrosch.
Wed. Ev'g., Jan. 2, at 8—DER FLIEGENDE HOLLANDER, (The Flying Dutchman.) Mmes. Gadsky and Schumann-Heink; MM. Dippel, Blass, and Bertram. Conductor, Damrosch.
Fri. Ev'g, Jan. 4, at 8—FAUST, (in French.) Mmes. Melba, Bridewell; MM. Jean and Ed. de Reszke and Scotti. Conductor, Mancinelli.
Sat. Aft., Jan. 5, at 1:45—DIE WALKURE, (in German.) Mmes. Gadski, Schumann-Heink, and Ternina; MM. Van Dyck, Blass, and Bertram. Conductor, Damrosch.
Sat. Ev'g, Jan. 5, at 8, at Popular Prices—IL TROVATORE, (in Italian.) Mmes. Nordica and Olitzka; MM. Campanari, Journet, and Dippel. Conductor, Fion.
WEBER PIANOS USED.

To-N'g't at 8:15. Grand Popular Operatic Concert

CARNEGIE HALL
Sembrich
(Last N. Y. Appearance) assisted by
Mm. De Lara, Eensaude, Rossi, and Dado of the SEMBRICH OPERA COMPANY
GRAND ORCHESTRA.
Sig. BEVIGNANI.....Conductor
Direction.....C. L. GRAFF
POPULAR PRICES: 75c., $1, $1.50, $2.
Boxes, $12, $15.
GENERAL ADMISSION, 50 CENTS.
Tickets on sale at Schuberth's, 23 Union Square, and at Box Office, Carnegie Hall.

HERALD SQUARE THEATRE | Every Eve'g 8:20. Reg. Mat. 2:20. Wed. & Sat.
Farewell Week. Special Mat. New Year's.
Augustus Thomas' Masterwork, ARIZONA
MONDAY, JAN. 7.
Charles Frohman's MUSICAL COMEDY COMPANY with EDNA MAY
Presenting with an All-Star Cast
THE GIRL FROM UP THERE
By Hugh Morton and Gustave Kerker.
Seat sale Thursday.

Proctor's | Continuous Performance. | 15, 25, 50c. Vaudeville.
OPEN 10:30 A. M. NEW YEAR'S DAY.
23d St. | Geo. Monroe, Clifford & Huth, Staley & Birbeck, Grapewin & Chance.
5th Ave. | Papinta, Marcel's Living Statuary; Rose Coghlan & Co., Finneye, Lew Hawkins.
58th St. | Newsky Troupe, 3 Mortons, 3 Yoscarrys, Geo. Day, St. Onge Bros., Etc.
125th St. | Russell Bros., Lew Sully, Sanks & Winona Winters, John E. Camp, Etc.

BROADWAY Theatre, 41st St. & B'way. Evgs. 8:15. Sat. Mat. 2:15.
BIG HIT! BIG HIT!
JEFFERSON DE ANGELIS
In Klein & Francis' Operatic Comedy,
A ROYAL ROGUE.
Laughing New Year's Matinée To-morrow.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC 14th St. & Irving Pl.
E. G. Gilmore & Eugene Tompkins, Props. & Mgrs.
EXTRA MATINEE NEW YEAR'S
Whitney & Knowles' London Production,
QUO VADIS.
With Wilton Lackaye, Elita Proctor Otis, Aubrey Boucicault, and over 200 others.
Prices 25, 50, 75, 1.00. Mats. Wed. & Sat., 2. Ev., 8.

TO-NIGHT
HUNGARIAN PEASANT BALL.
GRAND CENTRAL PALACE.
43d Street Lexington Ave.

KEITH'S R. G. KNOWLES, JOHNSTONE BENNETT, JOHNSON & DEAN, CUSHMAN, HOLCOMB & CURTIS, Streator Zouaves, Ward & Curran, etc.
To-morrow, New Year's Day, Open 9:30

CASINO B'way & 39th St. Ev., 8:15. Mats. N. Year's & Sat. FLORODORA

THE NEW YORK, B'way, 45 St. | Ev. 8:15. Mats. N. Year's, Wed. & Sat. New special vaudeville features Followed by Sydney Rosenfeld's Successful review, The GIDDY THRONG.

IRVING PLACE THEATRE. To-day & Tues. (New Year's Day) Last Children's Mat. at 2

The New York Times.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW AND QUOTATION SUPPLEMENT.

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY.

NEW YORK, MONDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1900. EIGHT PAGES.

THE WEEK'S CHANGES.

The following is a list of stocks in which there were last week net changes of 1 per cent. or more.

Stocks Advanced.

Amal. Copper	2¼	H. B. Claflin	3
Am. Express	3	Illinois Central	1¾
Am. Ice pf.	1½	Int. Paper pf.	1½
Am. Sugar Ref.	2½	Int. Silver	2
Am. Sugar Ref. pf.	1¼	Iowa Central	4⅜
Am. Tin Plate	1¼	Iowa Central pf.	1⅜
Am. Tin Plate pf.	1¾	Manhattan	1¼
Ann Arbor	3	Mexican Central	1¼
Ann Arbor pf.	2¼	Minn. & St. L.	1¼
Balt. & Ohio	2½	M., St. P. & S. S. M.	1
B'klyn R. T.	1⅝	Missouri Pacific	1¾
B'klyn Union Gas	2½	Mobile & Ohio	1½
Can. Pacific	1¾	Nat. Tube	5⅞
Chi. Great West.	1⅛	Nat. Tube pf.	1½
Chi. Gt. West. deb.	1	N. Y. Central	3¼
Chi., M. & St. P.	10⅛	N. Y., Ont. & W.	2
C., M. & St. P. pf.	5½	North American	1½
Chi. & N. W.	3½	Pennsylvania	2½
Chi. & N. W. pf.	4	People's Gas, Chi.	2¾
Chi., R. I. & Pac.	1⅝	Pressed Steel Car pf.	1
C., C., C. & St. L.	3	Reading 1st pf.	1¼
Cleve., L. & W.	1	Reading 2d pf.	1
Col. & Hock. Coal	2⅝	St. L. S. W. pf.	1⅞
Consol. Gas	5	Texas Pacific	2¾
Del. & Hudson	8⅜	Tex. Pac. Land Tr.	1⅝
Del., L. & W.	4½	Union B. & P. pf.	1
Den. & Rio Grande	3½	Union Pacific	1¾
Den. & R. G. pf.	2⅝	Union Pacific pf.	1
Federal Steel	1¼	U. S. Leather pf.	3½
Ft. W. & D. C.	2⅛	Wells-Fargo Exp.	3
Glucose Sug. Ref.	4	Wis. Central	1
Gt. Northern pf.	1½

Stocks Declined.

American Ice	1½	Lacl. Gas pf.	1⅝
Am. Tobacco	1	Lake Erie & W.	1¾
Chi. & Alton	1	Long Island	5½
Chi. & Alton pf.	1⅝	Nat. Lead pf.	1
Chi. & East. Ill.	3¼	N. Y. Air Brake	4
C. & E. Ill. pf.	1¼	N. Y. C. & St. L. 1st pf.	1
Chi., Ind. & L.	2	Nor. Pac. pf.	1⅛
Chi., I. & L. pf.	1	Pacific Mail	1
Chi. Term. Trans.	1	Peo. & East	1½
Chi. Term. Tr. pf.	2	Pere Marquette	1
C., C., C. & St. L. pf.	3⅛	P., C., C. & St. L.	3⅜
Col. South. 1st pf.	1	St. L. & S. F.	2⅜
Dul., S. S. & A. pf.	1½	St. L. & S. F. 1st pf.	1¼
Erie	1⅛	St. L. & S. F. 2d pf.	2
Erie 2d pf.	1⅜	Sloss-Sheff. S. & I.	1½
Evans. & T. H.	1½	Southern Pacific	1¼
Fed. Steel pf.	2	Wh. & L. E. 1st pf.	2½
Glucose Sug. R. pf.	4¼	Wh. & L. E. 2d pf.	1⅞
Int. Steam P. pf.	1½

Net changes in bonds of 1 per cent. or more were:

Bonds Advanced.

Am. Sp. Mfg. 6s	6	Int. & G. N. 3d	4
B. & O., P. J. & M. Div. 3½s	1½	Kings. Co. El. 1st	2½
Brooklyn Un. El. 1st	1⅝	Long Island Unif. 4s	1
Cent. Br. U. Pac. 4s	1	Long Isl., N. S. 5s	4
Cent. of Ga. con. 5s	2	Louis. & Nash. coll. tr. 5s	1½
Cent. of Ga. 1st pf., inc.	6	Mex. Cent. 1st. inc.	1½
Cent. of Ga. 2d pf., inc.	1½	Mo., K. & T. 1st	1⅜
Cent. of Ga. 3d pf., inc.	1	Mobile & Ohio gen.	1½
Cent. of N. J. 5s, r.	2⅝	Ore. & Cal. 1st	2½
Cent. Pac. ref. 4s	1¼	Ore. R. R. & N. 4s	1⅝
C., B. & Q. conv. 5s	2⅛	Pac. Coast 1st	1
C., M. & St. P. con. 7s	7	Peo. & Pekin Un. 1st	2½
Chi. & E. Ill. 1st	1	St. J. & G. I. 1st	1
C., C., C. & I. gen. 6s	3	St. L. & I. M. 4s	1
Col. Mid. 1st 4s	1¼	St. L. & S. F. 4s	1
Det., M. & M. l. g. 5½s	1¼	St. P. & D. 1st 5s	4
D. & R. G. con. 4s	1	St. P. & D. 2d 5s	4½
Dul. & R. G. imp. 5s	1	St. P. & D. con. 4s	4
Dul. & I. R. 1st	1	Sher., Shrev. & S. 5s	1¼
E. T., Va. & Ga. con. 5s	1	San A. & A. P. 4s	1⅝
Erie 1st ext. 4s	1½	Term. St. L. con. 5s	2
Ft. W. & D. C. 1st	1	Texas Pac. 1st	1
Int. & G. N. 1st	2	Texas Pac. 2d	8
		Third Avenue 3s	1
		Va. Mid. gen.	1
		Wabash deb., B.	1
		West Shore 4s	1½
		Wheel. & L. E. con.	1½

Bonds Declined.

Am. D. & Imp. 5s	1⅜	Erie gen. lien 4s	1⅜
Det. & Mack. gold 4s	1	Green Bay deb., A.	1⅜

STOCK EXCHANGE SUMMARY.

	Shares.
Stocks week ended Dec. 29	5,013,690
Same week last year	2,624,187
To date this year	136,956,100
Corresponding date last year	175,073,855
Bonds for the week	$20,028,950
Same week last year	$9,715,000
To date this year	$573,969,730
Corresponding date last year	$836,198,990

Money rate range for week: Collateral loans on call, 3@6; at three months, 4½; at six months, 5 per cent. Commercial paper, sixty to ninety days, 4¾@5 per cent.

OUR LONDON CABLE.

HIGH BANK RATE AVOIDED

But Not the Slightest Prospect of Cheap Money—Foreign Exchanges Still Threatening—Significance of the Increase in the Income Tax—Cause of the Stock Exchange Failures.

Cable Correspondence.

Copyright, 1900, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—We are ending the year rather pleased with ourselves at having escaped a 5 per cent. bank rate. That, however, will be our bugbear still when the new year comes, for I see not the slightest prospect of cheap money.

It nearly always happens in the last few days of the year, when so much business is brought to a focus, that the pressure upon our supplies of banking credit is excessive, necessitating more or less severe drafts upon the Bank of England fountain. The end of the year over, however, adjustment comes, and dividends, Government and other, again pour credit into the market, the Bank is paid back its loans, and rates frequently fall rapidly away.

Nothing of the kind can happen this year, as far as I am able to judge. We may have short credits back to 3 per cent. or thereabout early in the month, because some millions of the market's money now being created at the Bank of England are the product of bills discounted at all dates running to sixty days. For short times, therefore, we shall have dividend money and part of this extra supply to work upon, and therefore short credits may be cheap. This merely means the continuation of market cross purposes similar to those we have endured these three months back.

Foreign exchanges, especially German and French, still threaten us in a manner that precludes the possibility of easy discount rates, and bill brokers will continue to be tremulous every day of their lives lest the lump of gold should be taken from the Bank for export and a 5 per cent. rate ensue. So they may be terrified to discount below 4 per cent. Then, the Government is disbursing less money for dividends this January than it did a year ago, thanks to the suspension of the sinking funds, at the same time that its demands for the use of market credit swell without ceasing. It is either issuing fresh debt or renewing bills already afloat almost every week, and the very day before January the dividends which come out may sweep away at least £1,500,000 of the market's money, that being the amount renewed in bills sold on Friday to replace a like sum now falling due and held by the Bank of England.

Moreover, a 50 per cent. increase in the income tax must sensibly lessen the available resources of the market in the New Quarter. This falls payable on Jan. 1 and will be collected with unusual speed, so every week will the market, for one or more days, be short of credits according as the Exchequer is collecting money or paying it out, and all the time the cash reserve, upon which our magnificent system of credit revolves, grows smaller. Last week's banking reserve was the lowest the country has seen since January, 1894.

I have nothing important to say about the stock market, which is all dead except the American railroad section, and that maddest of gambles, the West African. Since the holidays business in your shares has not been so furious here, partly because of the breakdown of our land telegraph lines, but, such as it is, it remains the same type already often described.

"We are steadily selling for our clients," a broker said to me on Friday, "shares they have held for years and met all assessments upon and they are promptly paid for and taken away."

As a nation we are extremely obliged to you for this valuable help. But for these purchases, which have run into many millions sterling, I fear you would have carried off some of our precious gold.

Friday thirteen Stock Exchange firms stopped payment, involving the withdrawal of twenty-nine members. The cause was the collapse of the London and Globe finance hocuspocus company. That concern turned out subsidiary companies, like sausages, in increasing lengths, as it calculated the public capacity to swallow had expanded. For many months the shares of these concerns had been held up at quite artificial prices, and the parent company has bought against all comers. Friday night it was asked for bank notes to the tune of about £700,000, and could not pay, hence a sharp blow to the Stock Exchange which it has borne with serenity but anxiety.

A. J. W.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK.

Monday, Dec. 31.

American Chicle Company—Dividend payable on common and preferred.
American Pneumatic Service Company—Books close for dividend on preferred.
American Screw Company—Dividend payable.
American Surety Company—Dividend payable.
American Telephone and Telegraph Company—Books close.
Boston and Albany Railroad—Dividend payable.
Castle Braid Company—Dividend payable.
Celluloid Company—Dividend payable.
Chicago City Railway—Dividend payable.
Columbus Edison Company—Books close for annual meeting.
Consolidated Traction Company, New Jersey—Books close.
Dubuque and Sioux City Railroad—Dividend payable.
Erie Telegraph and Telephone Company—Books close.
Exploration Syndicate—Books close.
Garfield National Bank—Dividend payable.
International Paper Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Lake Erie and Western Railroad—Dividend payable on preferred Jan. 15 to holders of record this date.
Lake Shore Railroad—Dividend payable Jan. 18 to holders of record this date.
Manchester Mills, Boston—Dividend payable.
Mergenthaler Linotype Company—Dividend payable.
Mexican Telegraph Company—Books close.
Michigan Central Railroad—Dividend payable Jan. 28 to holders of record this date.
Milwaukee and Chicago Breweries—Dividend payable on preferred.
Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad—Books close for dividend on common and preferred.
Nassau Electric Railroad—Dividend payable on preferred.
National Enameling and Stamping Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
National Steel Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad—Dividend payable.
Pennsylvania Steel Company—Dividend payable Jan. 15 to holders of record this date.
People's Trust Company, Brooklyn—Dividend payable Jan. 2 to holders of record this date.
Pittsburg Plate Glass Company—Dividend payable on common.
Procter & Gamble Company—Books close for dividend on preferred.
Railway Automatic Sales Company—Dividend payable on common and preferred.
Rio Grande Western Railroad—Dividend payable Feb. 1 to holders of record this date.
St. Joseph and Grand Island—Books close for dividend on first preferred.
South Side Elevated, Chicago—Dividend payable.

Continued on Page 6.

Sales of Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange Week Ended Dec. 29, 1900.

Range for Year 1900. Highest.	Lowest.	Closing Sat., Dec. 29. Bid.	Ask'd	Net Ch'nge Past Week.	STOCKS. Sales Week Ended Dec. 29, 5,013,690.	Amount Cap'l Stock Out-standing.	Last Dividend. Date.	Per Cent.	Period.	Week Ended Dec. 29. First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Closing a Year Ago.	Sales Week Ended Dec. 29, '00.
99¼ November 23.	89¾ December 15.	98¾	99½	+ 2½	Amalgamated Copper Company	$75,000,000	Oct. 29, 1900.	2½	Q	93¼	98	92¼	98¾	...	62,655
25½ November 12.	12½ January 15.	23⅝	23¾	...	American Car & Foundry Company	30,000,000	Nov. 1, 1900.	¼	Q	22½	23½	22	22½	18¾	10,850
72 December 20.	57⅜ June 25.	71½	72	+ ⅝	American Car & Foundry Company pf.	30,000,000	Nov. 1, 1900.	1¾	Q	71¾	71½	70¾	71½	56½	5,088
37⅜ April 7.	30 June 25.	31	31½	— ⅝	American Cotton Oil	20,227,100	Dec. 1, 1900.	3½	A	32½	32¾	31⅝	31⅝	33⅜	2,350
100 April 5.	88¾ September 19.	90	93	...	American Cotton Oil pf.	10,198,680	Dec. 1, 1900.	3	SA	92¾	94	91	94	88	175
87 November 27.	34½ January 4.	36½	38	...	American District Telegraph	3,645,000				36½	36½	36½	36½	...	300
190 December 20.	145 January 18.	189	198	+ 9	American Express	12,000,000	July 2, 1900.	5	SA	186	190	186	190	146	1,085
49¾ April 4.	27½ June 28.	39¾	40¼	— 1½	American Ice Company	25,000,100	Nov. 1, 1900.	1	Q	40¾	40¾	39¾	39¾	35¾	600
78½ February 3.	60¼ June 19.	70	72	+ 1½	American Ice Company pf.	12,440,000	Oct. 15, 1900.	1½	Q	71½	71½	70¾	71½	72¾	900
16¼ February 6.	6 November 19.	7	7¾	...	American Linseed Company	14,700,000				7	7¼	6¾	7	18	2,275
40 February 5.	34½ December 20.	37	37¾	...	American Linseed Company pf.	14,700,000	Sept. 15, 1900.	1½		36¼	36½	36¾	37	35¾	5,100
7¾ January 2.	5 June 12.	5	5¼	+ ⅛	American Malting Company	14,500,000				5¼	5¾	5	5¼	7¾	610
21¾ January 2.	12¾ June 27.	20	21	...	American Malting Company pf.	14,400,000	Oct. 15, '98.	3½		21	21½	21	21	17¾	800
56¾ December 11.	34½ June 18.	54	54½	— ¾	American Smelting & Refining Company	37,000,000				55¾	56¾	53¾	54	56¾	10,175
99 November 17.	85 June 25.	96¾	97¼	+ ¼	American Smelting & Refining Company pf.	37,000,000	Oct. 2, 1900.	1¾	Q	96¾	97¼	96	96½	100¾	4,175
60½ February 6.	17 June 25.	31¾	32	+ ¼	American Steel Hoop Company	10,000,000				32¾	33¾	32¾	33	42¾	3,200
86 February 6.	64½ September 28.	77¼	78	+ ¼	American Steel Hoop Company pf.	14,000,000	Oct. 31, 1900.	1¾	Q	77	78	77	77¾	81	1,400
52¾ April 2.	35½ June 26.	45¾	45¾	+ ¼	American Steel & Wire Company	30,000,000	Oct. 2, 1900.	1	Q	45¾	47¾	45¾	45¾	48½	122,400
98 February 1.	80¾ June 26.	86	86¼	+ ¼	American Steel & Wire Company pf.	20,000,000	Oct. 2, 1900.	1¾	Q	86	86	85	85	89	3,000
145½ December 28.	95¾ March 3.	143¾	143¾	+ 3¼	American Sugar Refining Company	65,000,000	Oct. 2, 1900.	1½	Q	141½	145¾	138	145¾	128¾	288,425
118 July 14.	107 March 2.	117	118	+ ¼	American Sugar Refining Company pf.	35,000,000	Oct. 2, 1900.	1¾	Q	117¾	118	117¾	117¾	112¾	1,200
67½ December 27.	18 June 23.	65¾	65¾	+ 1¾	American Tin Plate Company	15,000,000				64¾	67¾	64¾	65¾	25¾	51,200
93 December 27.	70¾ June 25.	91¼	91¾	+ ¼	American Tin Plate Company pf.	15,000,000	Oct. 31, 1900.	1¾	Q	89¾	92	89¾	91¾	50	7,200
114¾ December 28.	94¾ June 25.	111¾	112	— ¼	American Tobacco Company	24,000,000	Nov. 1, 1900.	1¾	Q	112¾	114¾	111¾	111¾	99	28,000
140 February 15.	126 May 17.	135	137	— 1	American Tobacco Company pf.	24,000,000	Nov. 1, 1900.	1	Q	137	137	135	135	126	2,000
22½ December 17.	11¼ December 28.	...	...	— ¼	American Woolen Company	35,000,000				13	13½	11¾	11¾	...	1,810
76¾ December 19.	74 December 18.	...	...	+ ¼	American Woolen Company pf.	35,000,000				74¾	74¾	74¾	74¾	...	100
54¾ April 3.	31¾ June 25.	46¾	46¾	+ ¾	Anaconda Copper Mining Company	24,000,000	Oct. 27, 1900.	2½		45¾	47¾	45¾	46¾	33¾	13,200
23 December 27.	10 September 12.	22½	23	+ 2	Ann Arbor					22	23	22	23	3	2,000
50 December 27.	40½ July 24.	47½	48¼	+ 2¼	Ann Arbor pf.					47¾	48¼	47¾	48¼	18¾	2,000
45¾ December 24.	12¾ January 4.	44	45	— ¾	Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe					44	45	44	45	34¾	1,200
82¾ December 24.	54¾ January 11.	80¾	80¾	+ ¾	Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe pf.					80	81	80	80¾	68	1,000
87½ April 12.	65¼ January 8.	85	85¾	+ 2¼	Baltimore & Ohio					85	86	85	85¾	70¾	1,000
90 April 12.	77¾ January 8.	85¾	86		Baltimore & Ohio pf.					85¾	86	85¾	86	77¾	1,000
95¾ December 28.	78¾ September 25.	94	95	+ ¾	Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company					93¾	95	93¾	94¾	61¾	1,000
181 November 12.	142 January 2.	178	179	+ 2½	Canadian Pacific					178	179	178	178	140	1,000
14¾ January 26.	9¼ February 27.	11¾	12	+ ¾	Canada Southern					11¾	12	11¾	11¾	11	1,000
88 December 13.	83 February 27.	86	88		Central of New Jersey
					Central Pacific
					Chesapeake & Ohio
					Chicago & Alton
					Chicago & Alton pf.
					Chicago, Burlington & Quincy
					Chicago Great Western
					Chicago Great Western pf.
					Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul
					Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul pf.
					Chicago & North Western
					Chicago & North Western pf.
					Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific
					Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha
					Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha pf.
					Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis
					Colorado & Southern
					Colorado & Southern 1st pf.
					Colorado & Southern 2d pf.
					Consolidated Gas
					Delaware & Hudson
					Delaware, Lackawanna & Western
					Denver & Rio Grande
					Denver & Rio Grande pf.
					Detroit, Toledo & Ironton
					Detroit, Toledo & Ironton pf.
					Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic
					Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic pf.
					Erie
					Erie 1st pf.
					Erie 2d pf.
					Evansville & Terre Haute
					Fort Wayne & Jackson
					Great Northern pf.
					Hocking Valley
					Illinois Central
					Iowa Central
					Iowa Central pf.
					Kansas City Southern
					Kansas City Southern pf.
					Lake Erie & Western
					Lake Erie & Western pf.
					Lake Shore & Michigan Southern
					Long Island
					Louisville & Nashville
					Manhattan Elevated
					Metropolitan Street Railway
					Mexican Central
					Michigan Central
					Minneapolis & St. Louis
					Minneapolis & St. Louis pf.
					Missouri Pacific
					Mobile & Ohio
					Missouri, Kansas & Texas
					Missouri, Kansas & Texas pf.
					Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis
					National Lead
					National Lead pf.
					New Jersey Central
					New York Central
					New York, Chicago & St. Louis
					New York, Chicago & St. Louis 1st pf.
					New York, Chicago & St. Louis 2d pf.
					New York, Lake Erie & Western
					New York, Lake Erie & Western pf.
					New York, Lake Erie & Western 2d pf.
					New York, New Haven & Hartford
					New York, Ontario & Western
					New York, Susquehanna & Western
					New York, Susquehanna & Western pf.
					Norfolk & Western
					Norfolk & Western pf.
					Northern Pacific
					Ontario & Western Pacific Coast
					Pacific Coast 1st pf.
					Pacific Coast 2d pf.
					Pacific Mail
					Pennsylvania
					People's Gas, Chicago
					Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis
					Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis pf.
					Pittsburg & Western
					Pittsburg & Western pf.
					Pressed Steel Car
					Pressed Steel Car pf.
					Pullman Palace Car
					Reading
					Reading 1st pf.
					Reading 2d pf.
					Rio Grande Western
					Rio Grande Western pf.
					Rock Island Company
					Rock Island Company pf.
					St. Joseph & Grand Island
					St. Joseph & Grand Island 1st pf.
					St. Joseph & Grand Island 2d pf.
					St. Louis & San Francisco
					St. Louis & San Francisco 1st pf.
					St. Louis & San Francisco 2d pf.
					St. Louis & San Francisco 4th pf.
					St. Louis Southwestern
					St. Louis Southwestern pf.
					Southern Pacific
					Southern Railway
					Southern Railway pf.
					Texas & Pacific
					Texas & Pacific Land Trust
					Toledo, St. Louis & Western
					Toledo, St. Louis & Western pf.
					Union Pacific
					Union Pacific pf.
					United States Leather
					United States Leather pf.
					United States Rubber
					United States Rubber 1st pf.
					United States Rubber 2d pf.
					Wabash
					Wabash pf.
					Wabash deb., B.
					Wells-Fargo Express
					Western Union
					Wheeling & Lake Erie
					Wheeling & Lake Erie 1st pf.
					Wheeling & Lake Erie 2d pf.
					Wisconsin Central
					Wisconsin Central pf.

220	December	29.	195⅛	May 0.	217½	...	+ 4	Chicago & Northwestern pf
122¾	December	28.	102	June 25.	120⅞	121¼	+ 1⅜	Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific	50,000,000	Nov. 1, 1900.	1¼	Q	110¾	122¾	119	121	103⅝	87,670
126	November	17.	110	October 0.	124	126	+ ¼	Chicago, St. Paul, Minn. & Omaha	21,408,200	Feb. 20, 1900.	5	A	125	126	125	126	119½	600
147⅜	December	19.	8½	October 18.	12	12½	— 1	Chicago Terminal Transfer	18,000,000	.....	..	..	12½	18½	12½	13½	10½	1,340
39¾	April 27.		26½	October 18.	34½	35	— 2	Chicago Terminal Transfer pf	17,000,000	.....	..	..	26	36	34½	35	24¾	1,700
74	December	29.	55	June 19.	73¾	74¼	+ 3	Clavaland, Cin., Chicago & St. Louis	28,000,000	Sept. 1, 1900.	1½	SA	71½	74	71½	74	61½	7,960
118	December	20.	103¼	June 1.	114	118	— 3⅞	Cleveland, Cin., Chicago & St. Louis pf	10,000,000	Oct. 20, 1900.	1¼	Q	114½	114½	114½	114½	103	240
30	November	15.	14½	January 10.	27	29	+ 1	Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling	3,000,000	.....	..	..	28	28	28	28	...	300
72	April 13.		46	January 2.	69⅜	70½	+ ⅛	Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling pf	5,000,000	Oct. 2, '96.	1¼	..	70	70½	66	70	45½	2,300
56½	December	26.	2.0¼	September 24.	55½	55½	+ ½	Colorado Fuel & Iron	17,000,000	.....	..	..	55	56½	54⅜	55¾	44	24,225
8¾	December	17.	5	September 25.	7⅝	7⅝	— ½	Colorado Southern	30,095,000	.....	..	..	8⅞	8¾	7½	7¾	5¼	8,000
47½	March 27.		36	September 22.	42½	42¾	— 1	Colorado Southern 1st pf	8,500,000	Feb. 15, 1900.	2	..	43½	44	42¼	42½	41¼	1,110
20¾	March 21.		14	September 24.	16½	17½	— ½	Colorado Southern 2d pf	8,500,000	.....	..	..	18¾	18¾	17½	17½	16	900
21	April 2.		11¼	June 23.	17	17¼	+ 2⅜	Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron	4,700,000	.....	..	..	15	17¾	14½	17⅜	17	5,300
201	November	17.	164	September 21.	195	196	+ 5	Consolidated Gas	71,612,800	Dec. 13, 1900.	2	Q	191	197⅜	190½	195	191½	19,445
40¼	December	19.	21½	May 21.	39	39¼	— ⅝	Continental Tobacco Company	43,845,000	.....	..	Q	40	40¾	38½	39	32	25,215
95	November	20.	70	May 12.	92¼	93¼	+ ⅛	Continental Tobacco Company pf	48,845,700	Oct. 1, 1900.	1¾	Q	93¾	94	93	93	85	4,400
132	December	29.	106½	September 20.	130¾	131	+ 8¾	Delaware & Hudson	35,000,000	Dec. 15, 1900.	1½	Q	123	122	122½	130⅝	118½	38,980
194⅝	December	29.	171½	September 19.	193¾	194	+ 4½	Delaware, Lackawanna & Western	26,200,000	Oct. 20, 1900.	1⅝	Q	189	194⅝	189	194½	178	7,980
34½	December	28.	16½	June 22.	32¾	33	+ 3¼	Denver & Rio Grande	38,000,000	.....	..	..	29¾	34½	29½	32¾	18¾	39,685
86⅞	December	28.	64½	June 18.	86⅞	86⅞	+ 2⅝	Denver & Rio Grande pf	23,650,000	July 6, 1900.	2	SA	84½	86⅞	84½	86⅝	70⅝	13,933
21	December	21.	12	June 30.	20⅛	20¼	+ ¼	Des Moines & Fort Dodge	4,283,100	.....	..	..	20	20¼	19¼	20¼	15	5,475
17⅛	March 5.		12	July 16.	14	15¼	— 1½	Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic pf	10,000,000	.....	..	..	14	14	14	14	14	100
27¼	December	20.	10¼	September 26.	23⅞	24	— ⅛	Erie	112,347,400	.....	..	..	26¼	26¾	23⅝	24	11½	118,710
60	December	27.	36⅜	September 22.	58	58½	— ¼	Erie 1st pf	42,882,800	.....	..	..	58½	60	57¼	58¾	32¾	64,108
42⅜	December	20.	15	September 24.	39½	40	— 1⅜	Erie 2d pf	18,000,000	.....	..	..	42	42	39½	40	16¾	14,980
54⅜	March 15.		38½	October 9.	43	43½	— 1½	Evansville & Terre Haute	4,000,000	Nov. 1, 1900.	1½	SA	44	44½	43	43	40	740
94½	April 10.		74	October 9.	82	83	+ ¾	Evansville & Terre Haute pf	1,284,000	Oct. 16, 1900.	2½	SA	82¼	82½	82	82½	82	673
58¼	December	28.	28⅝	June 25.	56¾	57	+ 1¼	Federal Steel Company	46,464,800	Mar. 20, 1900.	2½	Q	58¼	58¼	53½	56⅝	53½	112,115
79½	December	22.	60¾	June 26.	77¼	77¾	— 2	Federal Steel Company pf	58,261,000	Oct. 20, 1900.	1½	Q	78¼	78¼	77⅜	77½	74¾	10,405
19⅞	December	28.	14½	April 4.	...	...	+ 2⅝	Fort Worth & Denver City	2,555,000	Mar. 15, '98.	2	..	18⅝	19⅞	18⅝	19¼	...	200
27¼	December	14.	15	June 1.	...	...	..	Fort Worth & Rio Grande	3,108,100	.....	..	..	27	27	26	27	...	700
81	July 17.		64	May 17.	...	...	— ⅛	Gas & Electric Co. of Bergen County	2,000,000	.....	..	..	71⅝	71⅝	71½	71½	...	200
200	December	26.	120	January 10.	191	193	..	General Electric Company	20,413,400	Oct. 15, 1900.	2	QQ	199	200	191	193	125⅜	3,388
60	November	12.	44	May 15.	51	51½	+ 4	Glucose Sugar Refining Company	24,027,300	Dec. 1, 1900.	1½	QQ	48	51	47⅜	51	45	6,870
103	November	14.	92	December 27.	96	98	— 4½	Glucose Sugar Refining Company pf	13,638,300	Dec. 1, 1900.	1½	QQ	97	97	92	95¼	95	1,760
190	December	22.	144¾	June 22.	190	191	+ 1⅛	Great Northern pf	98,417,250	Nov. 1, 1900.	1½	Q	188⅞	190	188¾	190	173	4,580
47	December	6.	40	November 27.	...	...	..	Green Bay & Western	2,500,000	Fen. 1, 1900.	2½	..	49½	49⅝	49½	49½	...	10
115½	January 11.		105	October 29.	...	...	+ 3	H. B. Claflin Company	3,829,100	Oct. 15, 1900.	2	Q	113	114	113	113	112½	350
42⅞	December	17.	30	September 21.	42	42½	..	Hocking Valley	11,372,300	.....	..	..	42⅜	42⅝	41½	42½	34	2,778
74¾	December	17.	58	January 8.	73	73¼	..	Hocking Valley pf	13,265,100	July 16, 1900.	2	SA	74¼	74¾	71¾	72	61	4,245
132⅝	December	29.	110	June 25.	132	132½	+ 1⅜	Illinois Central	00,000,000	Sept. 1, 1900.	3	SA	130¼	132⅝	129½	132¼	112¼	10,206
26½	November	9.	14½	March 6.	25	25¼	+ ½	International Paper Company	7,442,000	July 1, '00.		Q	24½	26½	24½	25¼	23	13,050
75	November	12.	58	March 0.	74	74½	+ 1½	International Paper Company pf	22,539,700	Dec. 31, 1900.	1½	Q	73¼	74⅝	73	74	67½	5,907
55¾	December	28.	24	June 30.	54	56	+ ½	International Power Company	6,400,000	.....	..	..	54½	55⅝	54½	55	...	1,900
10⅝	June 25.		3¼	August 2.	6½	8	+ 2	International Silver Company	10,000,000	.....	..	..	5½	7⅜	5¼	7	10⅜	2,520
29¾	December	18.	28	December 17.	28	29	+ ⅛	International Steam Pump	12,262,500	.....	..	..	29	29½	29	29	...	1,338
77½	December	14.	76	December 28.	75	77¼	— 1½	International Steam Pump pf	8,850,000	Nov. 1, 1900.	1½	Q	76	76	76	76	...	160
25	December	28.	11⅞	January 12.	24½	24½	+ 4⅜	Iowa Central	8,512,000	.....	..	..	20½	25	20¾	24⅝	11⅜	10,918
58	March 30.		39	September 27.	48½	49	+ 1⅜	Iowa Central pf	5,871,600	Mar. 1, 1900.	1½	..	47⅜	49	47⅜	48¼	50	2,930
25	December	18.	10	January 2.	21	21¼	..	Kanawha & Michigan	9,000,000	.....	..	..	22	22	22	22	10¼	222
17¼	April 19.		7	September 10.	14½	14¾	+ ¼	Kansas City Southern	20,993,500	.....	..	..	14¼	14⅝	14¼	14½	...	3,300
43⅜	April 3.		27¼	September 10.	37	37¼	+ ⅝	Kansas City Southern pf	21,000,000	.....	..	..	37¼	39⅝	36⅜	37⅜	...	1,900
6	December	28.	3½	May 24.	6	6¼	+ ¼	Keokuk & Des Moines	2,600,400	.....	..	..	5¾	6	5⅝	6	...	200
9⅝	December	22.	7	December 18.	9	9½	— ⅛	Kingston & Pembroke	2,500,000	.....	..	..	9½	9⅝	9¼	9¼	...	2,000
100	January 4.		96	January 11.	95	100	— 1⅜	Laclede Gas pf	2,500,000	Dec. 15. 1900.	2½	SA	98	98	97¼	97¼	100	200
52	December	19.	20½	March 16.	45	46	— 1¼	Lake Erie & Western	11,840,000	.....	..	..	48	49½	45½	46	23½	1,980
115	December	18.	83¼	February 2.	114	116	..	Lake Erie & Western pf	11,840,000	July 16, 1900.	2	SA	113⅞	114	113⅞	114	85	645
230	November	1.	206	April 26.	230	230	..	Lake Shore	49,466,500	July 28, 1900.	3½	SA	235	235	235	235	...	17
89	May 5.		47½	January 4.	67	70	— 5½	Long Island	12,000,000	Nov. 2, '96.	1	..	65	65	65	65	50	200
89	December	28.	68¾	September 22.	87¼	87½	+ ⅝	Louisville & Nashville	52,500,000	Aug. 10, 1900.	2	SA	87⅜	89	86¾	87½	80½	33,415
116⅞	December	26.	84	June 25.	114⅞	115	+ 1¾	Manhattan Elevated	48,000,000	Oct. 1, 1900.	1	Q	113¼	116⅞	113⅞	115	96¼	135,855
182	February 13.		143¾	September 26.	170⅞	171	..	Metropolitan Street Railway	45,000,000	Oct. 15, 1900.	1¼	Q	172½	173¼	169⅝	171	175⅝	21,913
1¾	December	26.	1⅜	December 28.	...	...	..	Metropolitan Street Railway rights	.....	.....	..	..	1½	1⅝	1¼	1⅜	...	11,215
37½	April 5.		24½	January 29.	30	31	— ¼	Metropolitan West Side El. of Chicago	7,498,700	.....	..	..	30¾	30¾	30¾	30¾	25	240
84⅛	November	21.	76	February 27.	83	84	— ½	Metropolitan West Side El. of Chicago pf	9,000,000	Aug. 31, 1900.	2	SA	83¼	83½	83½	83½	75¼	100
17⅜	December	27.	10½	January 8.	16	16¼	+ 1	Mexican Central	36,000,000	.....	..	..	14⅞	17⅜	14⅝	16	11½	45,850
5	March 17.		2⅜	September 26.	4⅝	4½	+ ⅛	Mexican National certificates	33,350,000	.....	..	..	4¼	5	4¼	4⅝	4	10,100
71¼	December	28.	45½	June 18.	71	71½	+ 1¼	Minneapolis & St. Louis	6,000,000	July 16, 1900.	1½	SA	70	71½	70	71½	60	5,592
104¼	November	10.	87½	June 18.	103½	104	+ 5⅛	Minneapolis & St. Louis pf	4,000,000	July 16, 1900.	2½	SA	102¾	104	102¼	103⅞	93¾	2,025
27	April 24.		14	September 20.	21	22	+ 1	Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie	14,000,000	.....	..	..	20¾	21⅜	20¾	21¾	...	900
17⅜	December	27.	9	September 19.	16	16¼	— ⅝	Missouri, Kansas & Texas	55,181,000	.....	..	..	17	17⅜	16⅞	16½	10¼	7,450
47½	December	26.	25⅜	September 22.	45½	45¾	..	Missouri, Kansas & Texas pf	13,000,000	.....	..	..	46	47¼	44	45¾	33⅜	59,535
72½	December	28.	..	January 11.	71¼	71⅝	+ 1⅜	Missouri Pacific	50,432,150	July 1, '93.	1	..	70	72½	69¼	71¼	40¾	103,220
48½	April 2.		35	June 25.	47¾	48	+ 1½	Mobile & Ohio	5,320,600	Feb. 28, '98.	1	..	46	48	45½	48	30½	3,280
40¼	February 7.		27½	June 18.	37½	37¾	— ¼	National Biscuit Company	29,000,000	Oct. 15, 1900.	1	Q	37¾	38	37½	37½	36¼	1,989
96	February 7.		70½	June 18.	91	92	+ ½	National Biscuit Company pf	23,000,000	Nov. 30, 1900.	1¾	Q	92	92	92	92	90¾	785
28½	February 5.		15⅞	August 11.	10	20	— ½	National Lead Company	14,905,400	Mar. 1, 1900.	1	A	20	20	19½	19½	25	1,050
106½	February 20.		83	August 11.	91	93	— 1	National Lead Company pf	14,904,000	Dec. 15, 1900.	1¾	QQ	91⅜	92	91⅜	92	104	210
46	November	15.	32¼	October 19.	...	...	+ ⅛	National Salt Company	7,000,000	Dec. 1, 1900.	1½	QQ	43	43⅞	43	43¾	...	1,550
76¼	November	14.	69	November 5.	...	...	..	National Salt Company pf	5,000,000	Nov. 1, 1900.	1¾	QQ	73½	73½	73¼	73½	...	201
53½	February 6.		20	June 25.	41¾	42	+ ⅝	National Steel Company	2,000,000	.....	..	..	41½	43	40¾	41¾	42¼	37,300
97	February 6.		79¾	June 26.	92½	93	— ¼	National Steel Company pf	27,000,000	Dec. 31, 1900.	1¾	QQ	92¾	92¾	91½	92½	92⅞	1,950
69	December	29.	40¾	June 25.	68½	69	+ 5⅞	National Tube Company	40,000,000	Nov. 15, 1900.	1½	QQ	64	69	63¾	68¾	....	34,010
105¼	November	17.	86¾	May 14.	105	105¼	+ 1½	National Tube Company pf	40,000,000	Oct. 1, 1900.	1¾	..	104	105¼	104	105	....	2,700
37	April 30.		30	November 30.	33½	35	+ ¼	New Central Coal Company	1,000,000	April 1, 1900.	2	Q	34	34	34	34	....	1,040
150½	December	1.	115	January 6.	146	146½	..	New Jersey Central	27,139,800	Nov. 1, 1900.	1½	Q	146	146⅞	145½	146	116⅝	1,760
175	November	30.	112	September 25.	158	162	— 4	New York Air Brake	6,250,000	Oct. 15, 1900.	2	QQQ	165¾	165⅞	158	162	135	700
145⅜	December	29.	125⅝	June 25.	145⅛	145⅜	+ 3½	New York Central	115,000,000	Oct. 15, 1900.	1¼	QQQ	143	145⅜	142¼	145⅜	131	62,075
215¼	May 1.		210	October 8.	211	213	+ ½	New York, New Haven & Hartford	53,684,000	Dec. 31, 1900.	2	A	212	212	212	212	211	162
24½	December	26.	11	June 20.	23¼	23¾	+ ¾	New York, Chicago & St. Louis	14,000,000	.....	..	..	23	24¼	22½	23¼	12½	8,135
110	December	19.	75	June 29.	104	108	— 1	New York, Chicago & St. Louis 1st pf	5,000,000	Mar. 1, 1900.	5	..	106	108½	106	106¾	...	1,200
58¼	December	19.	29	June 20.	52½	53	— ½	New York, Chicago & St. Louis 2d pf	11,000,000	.....	..	Q	53	54	52¾	52¾	32	3,760
134	February 28.		130	February 2.	134	136	..	New York, Lackawanna & Western	10,000,000	Oct. 1, 1900.	1¼	..	134	134	134	134	...	20
32¼	December	27.	18½	June 20.	30¾	30¾	+ 2	New York, Ontario & Western	58,113,900	.....	..	..	29¾	32½	28¾	30⅞	22½	176,425
45¾	December	27.	22⅞	January 10.	45	45¼	+ ¼	Norfolk & Western	66,000,000	.....	..	..	44⅞	45¾	44	45	25¾	43,875
81	December	27.	67	January 8.	82	83¼	— ⅝	Norfolk & Western pf	23,000,000	Aug. 24, 1900.	2	SA	82⅝	83	82¼	82¼	69	550
22¾	December	28.	13⅝	January 23.	20½	20⅝	+ 1½	North American	39,776,800	.....	..	..	19	22⅜	19	20½	14	51,970
85½	December	26.	45¾	September 20.	83⅞	83¾	— ¾	Northern Pacific	80,000,000	Nov. 30, 1900.	1	Q	84½	84½	81¼	83½	54	152,775
91½	December	20.	67	September 27.	87	87¼	— 1⅝	Northern Pacific pf	75,000,000	Sept. 1, 1900.	1	Q	89⅞	89¾	86	87⅝	74½	26,901
62	November	20.	46	May 12.	59½	60	— ½	Pacific Coast	6,809,600	Nov. 1, 1900.	1	Q	61	61	60	60½	52	500
90¼	December	18.	82½	September 20.	89	92	..	Pacific Coast 1st pf	1,515,500	Nov. 1, 1900.	1¼	..	44¼	44½	43½	43¾	46	1,697
57	November	10.	25¾	June 11.	43½	44	— 1	Pacific Mail	20,000,000	Dec. 1, '99.	1½	SA	740	740	740	740	...	31
740	December	13.	*420	June 11.	780	...	..	Pennsylvania Coal	5,000,000	Nov. 1, 1900.	4	SA	145	147½	143¾	147¼	130½	94,199
147½	December	29.	124¾	September 20.	147	147¾	+ 2¼	Pennsylvania Railroad	151,700,000	Nov. 30, 1900.	3½	Q	103	110	102¼	104¾	104¾	185,040
111½	April 2.		81⅝	October 11.	104⅝	104¾	+ 2¾	People's Gas, Chicago	28,668,800	Nov. 24, 1900.	1½	..	17¼	17¼	14	15¾	5	1,105
18	December	20.	5	June 19.	15	17	— 1½	Peoria & Eastern	10,000,000	.....	..	..	72	73½	72	72½	...	600
73¼	December	20.	54¼	March 22.	71	73	— 1	Pere Marquette pf	10,512,200	.....	..	..	59½	59½	55⅜	55⅞	79½	600
80½	January 2.		49¾	September 29.	57	59	— 3⅜	Pittsburg, Cin., Chi. & St. Louis	24,347,100	.....	..	SA	90	90	90	90	90¾	100
94	January 8.		78	June 25.	89	90	..	Pittsburg, Cin., Chi. & St. Louis pf	22,649,200	July 16, 1900.	2	Q	51	52	49½	50	55½	3,680
58¾	January 17.		32½	September 26.	50	51	— ½	Pressed Steel Car	12,500,000	Nov. 19, 1900.	1½	Q	83	83½	82	83	66	2,300
89½	November	10.	70¾	September 26.	83	84	+ 1	Pressed Steel Car pf	12,500,000	Nov. 26, 1900.	1¾	Q	200½	202	200	201	189¾	1,683
204	December	3.	176	June 25.	201	202	..	Pullman Company	24,000,000	Nov. 15, 1900.	2
26	December	19.	15	September 22.	24⅝	24¾	..	Reading	69,900,000	.....	..	SA	25	25⅞	24⅜	24¾	18⅞	19,300
71	December	27.	49	January 9.	70	70½	+ 1¼	Reading 1st pf	28,000,000	Sept. 10, 1900.	1½	..	69¾	71	68½	70¼	52¾	121,062
38¼	December	28.	23⅝	September 24.	37¼	37½	+ 1	Reading 2d pf	42,000,000	.....	..	..	36¾	38¼	36⅛	37¼	28½	32,680
27½	February 6.		8¾	June 25.	16½	16¾	..	Republic Iron & Steel	27,191,000	.....	..	Q	64⅝	64⅝	63	64	65	5,963
70¾	February 6.		49	August 1.	64	64½	..	Republic Iron & Steel pf	20,306,900	Oct. 1, 1900.	1⅝	Q	95	95	95	95	81	200
95¼	December	12.	80	January 16.	...	...	..	Rio Grande Western pf	7,500,000	Nov. 1, 1900.	1¼
8¾	December	6.	5	May 24.	8	8¾	..	St. Joseph & Grand Island	4,600,000	.....	..	..	7¾	7¾	7¾	7¾	6	50
64½	December	17.	38½	May 26.	63½	63¾	+ ¼	St. Joseph & Grand Island 1st pf	5,491,000	Aug. 15, 1900.	1	..	62½	63¾	62½	63¾	48	1,060
21½	December	6.	11⅝	June 26.	20	21	+ ⅛	St. Joseph & Grand Island 2d pf	3,500,000	.....	..	..	20¼	21	20½	21	...	600
24¼	December	26.	8¾	June 25.	21¾	22	— 2⅜	St. Louis & San Francisco	27,408,700	.....	..	SA	24¼	24½	21¾	21¾	9¾	5,430
78½	December	27.	64	September 25.	76¾	78	— 1¼	St. Louis & San Francisco 1st pf	5,000,000	July 16, 1900.	2	SA	78	78½	76¾	76¾	66¾	844
55	December	20.	31½	June 23.	51⅞	52	— 2	St. Louis & San Francisco 2d pf	14,335,700	Sept. 5, 1900.	1	..	54¼	54½	51½	52	32¾	4,800
18½	December	27.	8⅝	June 20.	17½	17⅝	+ ⅛	St. Louis Southwestern	16,500,000	.....	..	..	17¼	18½	16¾	17½	10½	10,800
45½	December	27.	21⅞	June 23.	44½	44¼	+ 1⅞	St. Louis Southwestern pf	20,000,000	.....	..	..	43½	45½	43	44⅞	25	33,368
26	November	21.	17½	October 20.	22	23	— 1	Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Company	7,500,000	.....	..	Q	23	23	23	23	...	100
71	November	20.	59¼	June 25.	68½	69¼	+ ¼	Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Company pf	6,700,000	Oct. 2, 1900.	1⅝	..	69	69¼	68	69¼	...	700
45⅝	December	26.	30¾	June 18.	43¾	43¾	— 1¼	Southern Pacific	197,832,100	.....	..	..	45¼	45⅝	43½	43⅝	38¼	204,075
26⅜	December	26.	10¾	June 25.	21¾	22	— ⅝	Southern Railway	119,900,000	.....	..	..	23½	23⅝	21½	22	12	86,252
73¼	December	22.	39½	June 25.	72	72¼	— ½	Southern Railway pf	60,000,000	Oct. 16, 1900.	1½	SA	72¾	73	71½	72	54⅜	33,590
10¼	January 4.		4½	March 6.	...	...	+ ¼	Standard Rope & Twine	12,000,000	.....	..	..	5	5¼	5	5¼	0	209
104	February 2.		49	October 3.	64	64¼	+ ⅛	Tennessee Coal & Iron	67,000,000	.....	..	Q	67	69½	63¼	64¼	53¾	36,950
26⅝	December	29.	13½	June 25.	25½	25½	+ 2	Texas Pacific	22,553,600	Nov. 1, 1900.	2	..	24½	26⅝	23¾	26¼	15¼	98,550
19½	December	28.	11½	January 17.	19¼	19⅝	+ 1⅝	Texas Pacific & Land Trust	38,706,700	.....	..	..	17¾	19½	17¾	19½	...	3,600
135¼	January 3.		45¼	March 2.	118	120	+ ½	Third Avenue	8,840,000	.....	..	..	118	121½	118	118	132	3,983
70½	December	17.	61½	July 5.	69	70	..	Twin City Rapid Transit	16,000,000	Nov. 29, '99.	1¼	SA	69⅞	69⅞	69⅝	69¾	64½	720
									15,010,000	Aug. 15, 1900.	1½
25	February 7.		10	June 18.	17½	18	— ⅝	Union Bag & Paper Company	16,000,000	.....	..	Q	17⅝	18	17⅜	17⅝	21¾	1,000
77¾	February 2.		56¼	May 9.	70	73	+ 1	Union Bag & Paper Company pf	11,000,000	Oct. 1, 1900.	1¾	SA	77⅜	79½	76¾	79½	48¼	190,110
79½	December	29.	44⅜	January 10.	79½	79¾	+ 1⅜	Union Pacific	95,955,800	Oct. 1, 1900.	2	SA	83⅜	84⅜	82¼	84⅛	75⅝	28
84⅝	December	29.	70½	June 25	84	84¼	+ 1	Union Pacific pf	99,120,700	Oct. 1, 1900.	2	SA	58⅞	58⅞	57¼	58	45	1,030
59	December	21.	45¼	August 23.	55	58	..	United States Express	10,000,000	Nov. 15, 1900.	1½	..	14	15½	13¾	14⅝	13⅞	60,745
19	January 3.		7¾	June 25.	14⅝	14⅞	+ ⅝	United States Leather	61,509,900	.....	..	Q	75½	78⅞	75½	78¼	73¾	14,050
79¼	November	12.	65	June 26.	77	78½	+ 3½	United States Leather pf	60,909,000	Oct. 1, 1900.	1½	Q	27½	29¼	24¾	28¼	42¼	20,056
44	January 2.		21	July 6.	28	28¼	+ ¼	United States Rubber	23,066,000	Apl. 30, 1900.	1	Q	80½	81	74¼	79½	101¼	5,350
104¾	January 3.		74½	December 27.	78¾	79	— ¾	United States Rubber pf	23,525,500	Oct. 31, 1900.	2
14	December	14.	6½	March 13.	12¼	12½	+ ⅛	Wabash	28,000,000	.....	..	..	12⅛	13	11¼	12¼	7¼	31,085
27	December	14.	16	September 20.	25⅝	26	+ ⅝	Wabash pf	24,000,000	.....	..	..	25⅝	26¾	24½	25⅞	21¼	75,800
140	December	29.	123	February 21.	141	144	+

Bond Transactions New York Stock Exchange Week Ended Dec. 29, 1900

BONDS.

Sales Week Ended Dec. 29. $20,028,950

	Week Ended Dec. 29. First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.
Adams Express 4s	104¾	105	104½	105	18
American Cotton Oil 4½s	99½	99¾	99½	99½	34
American Dock & Improvement 5s	115¼	115¼	115¼	115¼	1
American Spirits Mfg. Co. 6s	76	82	76	81	33
American Tobacco scrip	99½	100	99¼	100	102
Ann Arbor 4s	96⅞	97	96⅞	97	45
Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé 4s	102⅝	103	102¼	102¾	3961½
Atchison, T. & S. F. adjustment 4s	88½	88½	88	88¼	330
Baltimore & Ohio 3½s	97⅞	98¼	97¾	97¾	122
Baltimore & Ohio 4s	100⅞	101⅛	100⅞	101½	2771½
Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Div. 3½s	90¾	92	90¾	91½	2681½
Balt & Ohio, Pitts. Junc. & Mid. Div. 3½s	88½	90	88½	98	79
Brooklyn Ferry 5s	88	88	88	88	2
Brooklyn Rapid Transit 5s	108	108	107¾	107¾	12
Brooklyn Union Elevated 1st 4-5s	98¼	100	98¼	99⅝	102
Brooklyn W. & W. 5s, trust receipts	70	70	70	70	4
Canada Southern 1st 5s	100	109	109	109	3
Central Branch, Union Pacific, 4s	91	91	91	91	3
Central of Georgia consol. 5s	98¼	99⅞	98⅛	99¾	1,039
Central of Georgia 1st pref. income	60	61½	60	61½	201
Central of Georgia 2d pref. income	19½	20⅛	19½	20	357
Central of Georgia 3d pref. income	8½	9⅝	8½	9¼	102
Central of New Jersey general 5s	129¼	129¼	129¼	129¼	5
Central of New Jersey general 5s, reg	127½	127½	127½	127½	5
Central Pacific gtd. 3½s	83¾	84¼	83¼	84¼	131
Central Pacific gtd. 4s	100½	101⅝	100½	101⅝	382
Ches. & Ohio, Rich. & Alle. 1st con. 4s	107¼	107¼	107¼	107¼	10
Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s	104¼	104¼	103¾	104¼	44
Chesapeake & Ohio consol. 5s	121	121	120½	120½	12
Chicago & Alton 3½s	86	86	85¾	86	184
Chicago & Alton 3s, certfs	91⅝	91⅞	91⅝	91⅞	55
Chi., Bur. & Quincy, Nebraska ext. 4s	111½	111⅝	111¼	111⅝	42
Chi., Bur. & Quincy, Illinois Div. 3½s	105¼	105¼	105¼	105¼	2
Chicago, Burlington & Quincy conv. 5s	140⅞	140⅞	140⅞	140⅞	2
Chicago, Burlington & Quincy consol. 7s	111½	111½	111½	111½	3
Chicago & Eastern Illinois general 5s	115¼	115¼	115¼	115¼	1
Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville ref. 6s	120	120	120	120	5
Chi., Mil. & St. P., So. Minn. Div. 6s	120¼	120¼	120¼	120¼	2
Chicago, Mil. & St. Paul Terminal 5s	116⅝	116⅝	116⅝	116⅝	5
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul consol. 7s	185⅝	185¾	185⅝	185¾	7
C., M. & St. P., Chi., Pac. & West. Div. 5s	122	122	122	122	5
Chi., Mil. & St. P. gen. 4s, Series A	114¼	114⅝	114¼	114⅝	21
Chicago & Northwestern gold 7s	106¾	106¾	106¾	106¾	6
Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific gen. 4s	109¼	109¼	109	109½	74
Chicago, St. Paul, Minn. & Omaha 6s	134½	134½	134½	134½	8
Chicago Terminal Transfer 4s	95	95½	94½	94¾	59
Cincinnati, Dayton & Ironton 5s	112	112	112	112	2
Cleve., Cin., Chi. & Indianapolis gen. 6s	136	137	136	137	8
C., C., C. & St. L., St. Louis Div. 4s	103¾	103¾	103¾	103¾	5
Colorado Fuel & Iron general 5s	97½	97½	97	97½	41
Colorado Midland 3-4s	80¼	80½	80¼	80½	71
Colorado Midland 1st 4s	80¼	91	81	81	2
Colorado & Southern 4s	85	85	84½	85	116
Denver & Rio Grande consol. 4s	102	102¾	102	102¾	82
Denver & Rio Grande Improvement 5s	106½	108	106½	108	4514
Detroit City Gas 6s	98	98	98	98	2
Detroit & Mackinac gold 4s	87	87	87	87	5
Detroit, Mackinac & Marquette land gr. 3½s	29½	30¼	29½	30¼	30
Duluth & Iron Range 1st 5s	110½	111	110½	111	17
East Tenn., Va. & Ga. 1st consol. 5s	118	119	118	119	23
Edison Elec. Ill. Co. of N. Y. 1st conv. 5s	109	109	100	109	6
Erie 1st extended 4s	119	119	119	119	1
Erie 1st consol. 4s	98¾	99	98⅛	99	450
Erie general 4s	86¼	86½	85	85	347
Evansville & Terre Haute general 5s	108	108	108	108	5
Flint & Pere Marquette consol. 5s	107	107	107	107	1
Fort Worth & Denver City 1st 4-6s	83	84	82½	82½	148
Fort Worth & Rio Grande 1st 3-4s	69	69½	69	69	52
Gal., Har. & San An., Mex. & Pac. 5s	100	100⅛	100	100	33
General Electric debenture 5s	165	165	164	164	2
Gila Valley, Globe & Northern 5s	104½	104½	104½	104½	2
Green Bay & Western debenture, A	59½	60¼	59½	60¼	20
Green Bay & Western debenture, B	8	8¼	7¾	7¾	265
Hannibal & St. Joseph consol. 6s	121	121	121	121	2
Hocking Valley 4½s	106	106¼	106½	106	84
Illinois Central 4s, 1953	103½	104½	103½	104½	6
International & Great Northern 1st 6s	125	125	125	125	5
International & Great Northern 2d 5s	95¾	96½	95¾	96½	52
International & Great Northern 3d 4s	65	66	65	66	11
International Paper Co. 6s	108	108	108	108	2
Kansas City & Pacific 1st 4s	86	86	86	86	25
Kansas City Southern 3s	68	68	67¾	68	47
Kings County Elevated 4s	87¾	90	87½	90	181
Laclede Gas 1st 5s	107⅞	107⅞	107	107	12
Lake Erie & Western 1st 5s	125	125	125	125	5
Lake Shore 2d 7s	110	110⅛	110	110⅛	3
Lehigh & Wilkesbarre gtd. 4½s	103	103	102⅞	103	21
Long Island unified 4s	98	99	98	99	21
Long Island, North Shore 5s	113	113	113	113	2
Louisville & Nashville collat. trust 5s	111	111	111	111	1
Louisville & Nashville unified 4s	101½	102	101½	102	64
Manhattan Elevated consol. 4s	104½	104⅞	104½	104¾	86
Metropolitan Street Railway 5s	122½	122⅝	122½	122½	12
Mexican Central 1st income	27½	29⅝	27½	28⅞	1,672
Mexican Central 2d income	13¾	15¼	13¾	14⅝	1,121
Mexican International consol. 4s	84½	84⅝	84½	84⅝	10
Michigan Central consol. 7s	105	105	105	105	5
Michigan Central 5s, 1902	102	102	102	102	10
Minn. & St. Louis 1st & refunding 4s	98	98⅛	98	98	73
Missouri, Kansas & Texas 1st 4s	94¼	97	94½	96⅛	3104
Missouri, Kansas & Texas ext. 5s	97	98	97	98	28
Missouri, Kansas & Texas 2d 4s	77¼	77⅝	77	77⅛	340
Missouri Pacific consol. 6s	120	120	119⅝	119⅝	21
Missouri Pacific 1st collateral 5s	104	104	103½	103½	31
Missouri Pacific trust 5s	103	103⅛	102⅛	103	352
Mobile & Ohio general 4s	87	87¾	87	87¾	76½
Morris & Essex 7s, 1901	103¾	103¾	103¾	103¾	2
Morris & Essex 1st 7s	127½	127½	127½	127½	2
Morris & Essex gtd. 7s	128¾	128¾	128¾	128¾	1
Mutual Fuel Gas 5s	102	102	102	102	51
Nash., Chat. & St. Louis consol. 5s	110	114	110	110	26
National Starch Manufacturing 6s	107	107	107	107	5
N. Y. Central, Lake Shore col. 3½s, coupon	97½	98¼	97½	98	139
N. Y. Central, Lake Shore col. 3½s, reg	96	96	96	96½	40
New York Central 6s, 1887-1904	103¾	103¾	103	103	4
New York, Chicago & St. Louis 4s	106⅞	106⅞	106	106	7
N. Y. Gas, El. L., H. & P. coll. trust 5s	100⅞	101⅛	100⅞	100⅞	4
N. Y. Gas, El. L., H. & P. pur. money 5s	97⅝	97⅝	97⅝	97⅝	94
New York, Lack. & Western consol. 7s	121½	121½	121½	121½	2
New York, Lack. & Western 1st 6s	132	132	132	132	1
New York, Ontario & Western ref. 4s	100½	100⅝	100	100⅝	11
New York, Sus. & Western gen. 5s	101	101	101	101	1
Norfolk & Western consol. 4s	100	100	100	100	1
Norfolk & Western, New River 6s	120	120¼	120	120	1
Northern Pacific general 3s, coupon	72	72	72	72	1104
Northern Pacific prior lien 4s, coupon	103	103⅛	103	103	2074
Northern Pacific Terminal 6s	112	112⅜	112	112⅜	2
Oregon & California 1st 5s	103	103⅛	103	103⅛	2
Oregon Railroad & Navigation 4s	100	100⅛	100	100	20
Oregon Short Line 1st 6s	129⅝	130¼	129	130	33
Pacific Coast 1st 5s	110	110	110	110	1
Panama 1st 6½s	104½	105⅛	104	104	15
Peoria & Pekin Union 1st 6s	125½	126⅝	125½	125½	12
Peoria & Eastern 1st 4s	90¾	91	90¾	91	12
Peoria & Eastern income	46	46	46¼	47¼	20
Reading general 4s	94¼	94⅝	94	94⅝	62
Rio Grande Western 1st 4s	100⅞	101	100½	101	22
St. Joseph & Grand Island 1st 4s	98	98	98	98	7
St. Louis & Iron Mountain 5s	114	114	114	114	20
St. Louis & Iron Mountain gen. 5s	114	114	114	114	10
St. Louis & San Francisco gen. 6s	119	119	119	119	10
St. Louis & San Francisco gen. 5s	114	114	114	114	10
St. Louis & San Francisco consol. 6s	120	120	120	120	10
St. Louis Southwestern 1st 4s	97	97	97	97	10
St. Louis Southwestern 2d 4s	87	87	87	87	10
St. Paul & Duluth 5s	114	114	114	114	10
St. Paul & Duluth 1st 5s	114	114	114	114	10
St. Paul & Duluth 2d 5s	114	114	114	114	10
St. Paul, Minn. & Man. Montana ext. 4s	114	114	114	114	10
St. Paul, Minn. & Man. Montana 1st 6s	114	114	114	114	10
St. Paul, Minn. & Man. Dakota ext. 4s	114	114	114	114	10
St. Paul & Kansas City Short Line 5s	114	114	114	114	10
San Antonio & Aransas Pass 4s	114	114	114	114	10

BONDS.

	Week Ended Dec. 29. First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.
Texas & Pacific 1st 5s	114½	115¼	114	115¼	149
Texas & Pacific 2d income 5s	85¼	90	85¼	90	3
Third Avenue 4s	106¾	107	106¾	107	46
Third Avenue 1st 5s	127	127	127	127	1
Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo 1st 4s	98⅝	98½	98⅝	98½	25
Union Pacific 1st 4s	107¾	108	107¾	107⅞	3551½
United States Leather deb. 6s	113½	113½	113½	113½	2
Virginia Midland general 5s	113½	113½	113½	113½	2
Wabash 1st 5s	117½	117⅝	117¼	117⅝	20
Wabash 2d 5s	107⅝	108¼	107⅝	108¼	30
Wabash debenture, Series B	42½	43⅝	41½	42⅝	2,438
West Shore guaranteed 4s	115¼	116⅞	115¼	116½	26
West Shore guaranteed 4s, registered	113½	113½	113	113½	14
West, New York & Pennsylvania 1st 5s	122½	122⅞	122½	122⅞	90
West. New York & Pennsylvania gen 3-4s	95	95¼	95	95¼	5
Western Union collateral trust 5s	113¼	115	113¾	115	46
Western Union funding & real estate 4½s	106	106	105½	105¾	40
Wheeling & Lake Erie, Wheeling Div. 5s	114½	114½	114½	114½	10
Wheeling & Lake Erie consol. 4s	89¾	91	89¾	91	241
Wheeling & Lake Erie 1st 5s	115¾	118	115¾	118	13
Wisconsin Central general 4s	89¾	89¾	89	89¼	173

Total sales $19,890,000

GOVERNMENT BONDS.

Bond Transactions New York Stock Exchange Week Ended Dec. 29, 1900.

	Week Ended Dec. 29. First.	High.	Low.	Last.	Sales.
United States 4s, 1925, registered	139	139	138½	138½	16
United States 4s, 1907, coupon	116¾	116¾	116¼	116¾	*82
United States 4s, 1907, registered	116¾	116¾	116¾	116¾	*47½
United States 5s, registered	115	115	115	115	20
United States 2s, coupon	106	106	106	106	14½
United States 2s, registered	107	107	107	107	50
United States 3s, coupon	111¼	112	111¼	111¾	20½

Total sales $128,950

STATE BONDS.

Bond Transactions New York Stock Exchange Week Ended Dec. 29, 1900.

Virginia 6s deferred, certfs	7	7	7	7	10

Grand total $20,028,950

*In $100.

GOVERNMENT BONDS.

HIGHEST, LOWEST, AND LAST PRICES, YEAR 1900.

	Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale.
United States 2s, registered	107	Dec. 29	104	Oct. 19	107	Dec. 29
United States 2s, coupon	100	Dec. 26	103⅛	May 8	106	Dec. 28
United States 4s, 1907, registered	117½	Mar. 12	114	Jan. 3	116¾	Dec. 29
United States 4s, 1907, coupon	118½	Mar. 12	114	Jan. 2	116¾	Dec. 28
United States 4s, 1925, registered	130	Dec. 27	132⅝	Apr. 16	138½	Dec. 28
United States 4s, 1925, coupon	139¼	Dec. 3	131¾	Aug. 10	138	Dec. 11
United States 5s, 1904, registered	116¾	Mar. 12	112½	Apr. 24	115	Dec. 28
United States 5s, 1904, coupon	116¾	Mar. 7	112½	May 18	113¾	Dec. 17
United States 3s, 10-20, 1918, coupon	112¾	May 9	108¾	Aug. 21	111¾	Dec. 28
United States 3s, 10-20, 1918, small	111¾	Mar. 13	108¾	May 11	110	Dec. 18
United States 3s, 10-20, 1918, reg	112	Feb. 27	108¾	Apr. 30	110¾	Dec. 18
District of Columbia 3-65s	121	Apr. 17	121	Apr. 17	121	Apr. 17
United States of Mexico s. f. 5s	98	June 5	98	Apr. 16	97¼	Dec. 12

STATE BONDS.

HIGHEST, LOWEST, AND LAST PRICES, YEAR 1900.

	Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale.
Alabama, Class A	116¼	Mar. 9	108½	Jan. 9	110	Nov. 7
Alabama, Class B	109¼	Oct. 6	109¼	Oct. 6	109¼	Oct. 6
Alabama, Class C	102¾	Sept. 10	102	Jan. 10	102¾	Sept. 10
Louisiana consolidated 4s	108½	June 5	106½	July 6	108	Aug. 30
North Carolina consolidated 4s	106¾	May 21	104	Oct. 4	104	Oct. 4
South Carolina 4½s	120	Mar. 15	120	Mar. 15	120	Mar. 15
Tennessee settlement 3s	96¾	June 7	95¾	Sept. 20	96	Dec. 15
Tennessee settlement 3s, small	96¾	June 7	90	Sept. 5	90¾	Oct. 14
Virginia deferred 6s, trust receipts	10	Mar. 15	6	Dec. 4	7	Dec. 28
Virginia funded debt 2-3s, 1991	96⅝	Dec. 22	85	Jan. 5	96⅝	Dec. 22

TREASURY BALANCES.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Following is a statement of the United States Treasury on the 29th day of December, 1900:

CASH IN THE TREASURY.

In Divisions of Issue and Redemption.

RESERVE FUND.

Gold coin and bullion in Division of Redemption $150,000,000

TRUST FUNDS.

Held for the redemption of the notes and certificates for which they are respectively pledged:

DIVISION OF REDEMPTION.		DIVISION OF ISSUE.
Gold coin	$264,337,379	Gold certificates outstanding	$264,337,379
Silver dollars	427,354,000	Silver certificates outstanding	427,354,000
Silver dollars of 1890	4,408,782	Treasury notes outstanding	61,580,800
Silver bullion of 1890	57,171,213
United States notes	1,570,000	Currency certificates outstand'g	1,570,000
Total	$754,841,379	Total	$754,841,379

General Fund.

Gold coin and bullion	$63,291,762.50
Gold certificates	82,074,620.00
Standard silver dollars	2,442,681.00
Silver certificates	4,801,556.00
Silver bullion	3,861,267.85
United States notes	10,088,819.00
Treasury notes of 1890	94,140.90
National bank notes	7,582,247.82
Subsidiary silver coin	4,272,132.32
Fractional currency	128.85
Minor coin	443,709.28
		$125,931,481.69
In National Bank Depositories—
To credit of the Treasurer of the U. S.	$60,433,585.72
To credit of disbursing officers	6,358,990.80
Total	$66,792,576.52
Awaiting Reimbursement—
Bonds and interest paid	5,218,211.21
		102,028,787.65
Total		[illegible]
Liabilities—
National bank 5 per cent. fund	[illegible]
Outstanding checks and drafts	[illegible]
Disbursing officers' balances	[illegible]
Post Office Department account	[illegible]
Miscellaneous items	[illegible]
		[illegible]
Add silver coin balances		[illegible]
Gold reserve		[illegible]
Treasury notes, Act July 14, 1890		[illegible]
Fractional silver coin		[illegible]
Minor coin		[illegible]
Fractional currency		[illegible]
Total available cash	[illegible]	[illegible]
EXPENDITURES.
Civil and miscellaneous	[illegible]	[illegible]
War	[illegible]	[illegible]
Navy	[illegible]	[illegible]
Indians	[illegible]	[illegible]
Pensions	[illegible]	[illegible]
Interest	[illegible]	[illegible]
Total expenditures	[illegible]	[illegible]
Excess of expenditures over receipts	[illegible]	[illegible]
Balance Last Year	[illegible]
Gold reserve	[illegible]
Treasury notes, Act July 14, 1890	[illegible]
Fractional silver coin	[illegible]
Minor coin	[illegible]
Fractional currency	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]
Deficit	[illegible]
Gold reserve fund	[illegible]
Treasury notes, Act July 14, 1890	[illegible]
Fractional silver coin	[illegible]
Minor coin	[illegible]
Fractional currency	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]

Complete Bond Quotation List, New York Stock Exchange, for the Week Ended Dec. 29 1900.

Where a bond does not appear in the following table in its proper place alphabetically, it can be found under the head of the system at which the road is lian ed. On Page 8 is printed a "key to bond list," which gives such bonds in regular order and the name of the system under which they may be found.

	Range for Year 1900. Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale.		Bid.	Ask'd.
Ann Arbor 1st g. 4s, July, 1995...Q J	97	Dec 7	90	Jan 3	97	Dec 28	96¾	97
At., Top. & S. F. gen.g.4s,1995.A O	103	Mar 31	96½	Jan 4	102¾	Dec 29	102¾	102⅞
Do registered.....A O	100½	Sep 24	96½	Oct 8	98½	Oct 8	..	..
Do adjust. g. 4s, July, 1995.....Nov.	90	Nov 30	78½	Jan 10	88¼	Dec 29	87¾	88
Do do registered.....Nov.	..	....	..	....	79¾	De 11,99	..	..
Do stamped.....J	84½	Nov 22	84½	Nov 22	84¼	Nov 22	..	..
Atl., Knox. & North. 1st g.5s,1946.J D	106	Apr. 23	105	Dec. 4	105	Dec 4	104	..
Baltimore & Ohio—
Do prior lien g. 3½s, 1925.....J J	98¼	Dec 27	92¼	Jan 10	97¾	Dec 28	97⅜	98¼
Do g. 4s, July 1, 1948.....A O	102¾	Mar 27	97½	Jan 9	101¾	Dec 29	101¾	101⅞
Do do registered.....Q	101	Apr 3	99¾	Oct 10	99¾	Nov 21	..	..
Do S. W. Div. 1st g. 3½s.....J J	92	Dec 29	85½	Sep 25	91¼	Dec 29	91½	92
Do P. J. & M. Div. 1st g. 3½s.....M N	91	Apr 16	83	Sep 22	90	Dec 29	89	90
W. Va. & Pitts. 1st g. 5s, 1990...A O	..	....	..	....	105½	Oct., 95	..	..
Mon. River 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1910..F A	112	May 11	111	May 22	111	May 22	..	..
Cen. Ohio rec. 1st g. 4½s, 1930..M S	..	....	..	....	111	Jne 5, 99	..	..
Buff., R. & Pitts. gen. g. 5s, 1937.M S	115	Dec 29	109	Jan 18	115	Dec 20	114	..
Roch. & Pitts. 1st g. 6s, 1921....F A	131	Apr 3	120	Jul 10	130¼	Dec 11	130	..
Do con. 1st g. 6s, 1922.....J D	128	Nov 17	124	Jun 20	127½	Dec 21	128	..
Clearf. & Mah. 1st gtd.g.5s,1943.*J J	..	....	..	....	103	Ap 14,07	..	..
Buffalo & Sus. 1st g. 5s, 1913.....A O	..	....	..	....	100	No 18,00	..	..
Bur., C. R. & N. 1st 5s, 1906.....J D	109	Mar 2	103	Jun 20	106¾	Dec 21	106½	107
Do con. 1st and col. tr. 5s,1934.*A O	118¾	Aug 24	115	Jan 19	118	Nov 27	118¼	..
Do do registered.....*A O	117¼	Aug 23	115	May 26	117	Nov 20	..	..
M. & St. L. 1st gtd. g. 7s, 1927..*J D	..	....	..	....	140	Fe 14,97	..	..
C.R., I. F. & N.W. 1st g.5s,1921.A O	113½	Dec 9	113½	Dec 6	113¾	Dec 3	113½	..
Can. South. 1st gtd. 5s, 1908....*J J	109½	Dec 19	105	Jul 3	109	Dec 26	109	..
Do 2d 5s, 1913.....*M S	108½	Jan 24	106	Jun 12	108¾	Dec 12	109	..
Do do registered.....*M S	104	Apr 24	104	Apr 24	..	....	..	..
Cen. Br. U. P. 1st g. 4s, 1948.....*J D	92	Nov 13	87½	Jan 5	91	Dec 28	91½	93
Cen. R. & Bk.Co.Ga col.g.5s,1937.*M N	96⅝	Dec 11	91	Jan 15	96⅝	Dec 11	..	..
Cen. R. of Ga. 1st g. 5s, Nov.,1945.F A	120	Jan 15	117	Aug 16	120	Nov 20	120¼	..
Do con. g. 5s, 1945.....M N*	99⅞	Dec 29	83½	Feb 23	99⅜	Dec 29	99⅜	99¾
Do do reg., $1,000-$5,000.....M N*	96	Oct 30	96	Oct 30	96	Oct 30	..	..
Do 1st pf. inc. g. 5s,Nov.,1945.Oct 1	61½	Dec 29	32½	Feb 24	61¾	Dec 29	60	62
Do 2d pf. inc. g. 5s,Nov.,1945.Oct 1	20¾	Dec 26	9¾	Jan 3	0¼	Dec 27	..	..
Do 3d pf. inc. g. 5s,Nov.,1945.Oct 1	9⅜	Dec 26	4½	Jan 5	9¼	Dec 27	..	..
Do M. & N. Div. 1st 5s, 1946...*J J	..	....	..	....	95	De 27,99	..	..
Do Mid. Ga. & At. Div. 5s,1947.*J J	..	....	..	....	102	Jne 29,99	..	..
Do Mob. Div. 1st g. 5s, 1946....*J J	106	Oct 24	105	May 22	106	Oct 24	..	..
Cen. of N. J. 1st conv. 7s, 1902...M N*	111¼	Apr 10	106¾	Dec 4	106¾	Dec 4	106	..
Do conv. deb. 6s, 1908.....*M N	130	Jul 5	130	Jul 5	130	July 25	..	..
Do gen. g. 5s, 1987.....J J*	129¾	Dec 26	117½	Jan 3	129¾	Dec 26	129½	..
Do do registered.....Q J	127½	Dec 26	116	Jan 10	127½	Dec 26	127½	..
Leh. & Wilk. Coal 5s, Nov.1,1912.M	105	Aug 30	100	Apr 16	105	Aug 30	..	..
Do consol 7s, ext. at 4½ to June 1, 1910.....Q March	103½	Nov 28	100	Sep	4	103	Dec 28	..
Am. Dock & Imp. Co. 5s, 1921...J J*	117	Dec 11	112¼	Jul 10	115¼	Dec 28	114½	..
Ches. & O. g. 6s, Ser. A, July,1908.A O	118	Mar 30	113	Oct 2	117	Dec 20	..	116¾
Do g. 6s, Jan., 1911.....A O	120	Nov 23	115¼	May 18	117½	Dec 6	..	..
Do 1st con. g. 5s, 1939.....*M N	121¾	Apr 16	115	Jan 5	121½	Dec 27	..	..
Do do registered.....*M S	117	Jun 11	117	Jun 11	117	June 11	..	..
Do gen. g. 4½s, 1992.....*M S	104¼	Dec 22	95½	Jan 2	104¼	Dec 28	104	104½
Do do registered.....*M S	96	May 10	93	May 4	94½	Aug 23	..	..
Do R. & A. Div. 1st g. 4s, 1989..*J	107¼	Dec 26	101	Jan 8	107¼	Dec 28	106½	..
Do do 2d g. 4s, 1989.....*J J	99½	Apr 5	92	Jul 3	98	July 23	..	..
Do Craig Val. 1st g. 5s, 1940...J J*	103	Nov 26	100	Jul 5	103	Nov 26	103	..
Do Warm Sp. Val. 1st g. 5s,1941.*M S	..	....	..	....	101¼	Ap 23,99	105	..
Ellz., Lex. & Big S. 5s, 1902.....*M S	103	Feb 14	100¼	Mar 5	102	Dec 21	102	..
Chi. & Alton s. f. g. 6s, 1903...*M N	106½	Sep 24	104½	Dec 7	104½	Dec 7	104¾	..
Miss. R. Bdge. 1st 6s, s. f., 1912..A O*	..	....	..	....	105½	Oct., 95	..	..
Chi. & Alton ref. 3s, 1940.....A O*	93	Nov 15	92⅞	Nov 15	93	Dec 1	..	..
Do certificates of interest.....J J*	92	Dec 1	91¾	Dec 5	91½	Dec 20	..	..
Chi. & Alton Ry g. 3½s, 1950.....J J*	86	Dec 17	81⅛	Oct 27	86	Dec 29	85¼	85¾
Chi., Bur. & Q. con. 7s, 1903.....J J*	113¼	May 23	109¾	Jul 2	111½	Dec 28	111¾	111¾
Do s. f. 5s, 1901.....A O*	103	Aug 14	100⅝	Oct 2	101	Dec 3	100¾	..
Do deb. 5s, 1913.....*M N	112	Mar 30	108½	Jan 10	110¼	Dec 8	..	..
Do conv. 5s, 1903.....M S*	140⅞	Dec 27	120½	Jan 18	140⅞	Dec 27	..	..
Do Iowa Div. s. f. 5s, 1919.....A O*	117	Mar 28	113¾	Nov 9	113¾	Nov 30	115	..
Do do do 4s, 1919.....A O*	107	Mar 28	103	Jan 5	104⅝	Dec 7	105	..
Do Denver Div. 4s, 1922.....*F A	103	Sep 10	100¼	Feb 2	102¼	Dec 10	102	..
Do Southw. Div. 4s, 1921.....M S*	102	Jan 31	100¼	Oct 15	100¼	Oct 15	100¾	..
Do Chi. & Iowa Div. 5s, 1905..*F A	104¾	Apr 11	104¾	Apr 11	104¾	Apr 11	..	..
Do Illinois Div. 3½s, 1949.....J J*	105½	Dec 22	100¾	Jan 5	105¼	Dec 29	104½	..
Do Nebraska ext. 4s, 1927....*M N	113	Apr 23	108¾	Jan 2	111⅝	Dec 27	111⅝	..
Do do registered.....*M N	..	....	..	....	111¼	Jne 2,99	..	..
Han. & St. Jo. con. 6s, 1911.....*M S	122	May 17	118½	Sep 27	121	Dec 28	121	..
Chi. & E. Ill. 1st s. f. 6s, 1907....J D*	116	Mar 21	112	Jun 2	114⅝	Nov 24	112½	..
Do 1st con. g. 6s, 1934.....A O*	138	Jan 23	133½	Apr 10	134	Nov 15	135	..
Do gen. con. 1st 5s, 1937.....M N*	117	Apr 4	112	Jan 2	115¼	Dec 28	115	..
Do do registered.....M N*	115	May 11	115	May 11	115	Aug 28	..	..
Chi. & Ind. Coal R. 1st 5s, 1936..*J J	115½	Dec 19	105¾	Apr 18	115½	Dec 19	114	..
Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville—
L., New Alb. & Chi. 1st 6s, 1910.J J*	117	Dec 7	113	Jan 24	116½	Dec 13	116	..
Chi., Ind. & L. ref. g. 5s, 1947....J J*	107	Apr 10	100	Jan 31	107	Dec 12	102½	..
Do ref. g. 6s, 1947.....J J*	120	Dec 17	111½	Jan 12	120	Dec 27	118	..
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul—
C.,M. & St.P. 7s,$ gold,R.D.,1902.J J*	179	Dec 12	166½	Jul 13	179	Dec 12	184	..
Do 7s, £, 1902.....J J*	172¼	Apr 10	172¼	Apr 10	172¼	Apr 10	184	..
Do 1st C. & M. 7s, 1903.....*J J	131	Dec 18	106¼	Jan 12	131	Dec 18	184	..
Do con. 7s, 1905.....*J J	185¾	Dec 29	166	Jul 11	185¾	Dec 29	184	..
Do 1st I. & D. ext. 7s, 1908.....J J*	174½	Nov 26	166	Jan 17	174½	Nov 26	184	..
Do Southwest. Div. 6s, 1909.....J J*	120¼	Dec 10	116¾	Jul 12	120¼	Dec 10	119½	..
Do 1st Lac. & Dav. 5s, 1919.....J J*	119½	Apr 12	117⅝	Feb 14	118¾	Nov 12	120⅝	..
Do 1st So. Minn. 6s, 1910.....*J J	121½	Jun 18	117¾	Jan 6	120¼	Dec 28	120⅝	..
Do 1st H. & D. Div. 7s, 1910....*J J	127⅞	Jan 29	124¼	Aug 15	126⅝	Nov 13	128¼	..
Do do 5s, 1910.....*J J	111½	Apr 5	109	Jul 19	109¼	Aug 9	112½	..
Do Chi. & Pac. Div. 6s, 1910...*J J	120¼	Apr 20	117	Jul 19	119⅞	Dec 4	120¾	..
Do Chi. & Pac. W. g. 5s, 1921..*J J	122¼	May 4	118	Jan 2	122	Dec 20	122½	..
Do C. & M. Riv. Div. 5s, 1926..J J*	124	Dec 11	120	Jul 25	124	Dec 11	124⅝	..
Do Mineral Pt. Div. 5s, 1910.....J J*	111½	Feb 16	110¾	Sep 10	110¾	Sept 10	113¼	..
Do C. & L. Sup. Div. g. 5s,1921.J J*	120¼	Nov 28	117⅝	Jan 23	120¼	Nov 28	121¾	..
Do Wis., Min. Div. g. 5s, 1921. J J*	120¾	Mar 10	117	Jan 3	119	Oct 18	121¾	..
Do terminal g. 5s, 1914.....J J*	116⅝	Dec 27	112	Apr 2	116⅜	Dec 27	116⅝	..
Do Far. & So. assu. g. 6s, 1924.*J J	..	....	..	....	137½	Jul 18,99	138	..
Do Dak. & Gt. So. g. 5s, 1916....*J J	117⅛	Dec 19	110½	Jan 2	117⅛	Dec 21	117⅝	..
Dn gen. g. 4s, Ser. A., May,1989.J J	114⅝	Dec 27	109	Jan 10	114⅝	Dec 27	..	..
Do do registered.....Q J	..	....	..	....	105½	Fe 19,98	..	..
Mil. & N. 1st, main line 6s, 1910.*J D	121	Sep 21	118	Jan 12	118½	Dec 3	117	..
Do 1st con. 6s, 1913.....*J D	122	Feb 8	120	Aug 9	120	Aug 9	120	..
Cbl. & N. W. con. 7s, Feb. 1, 1915..Q F	144	Mar 14	137½	Nov 3	137½	Nov 3	139	..
Do gold 7s, 1902.....J D*	112¼	May 17	106½	Dec 3	106¾	Dec 29	106½	..
Do do registered.....J D*	111¼	Apr 2	106½	Dec 17	106¼	Dec 17	..	..
Do sink. fd. 6s, 1879-1929.....A O*	119¼	May 10	114¼	Nov 15	116½	Dec 3	..	..
Do do registered.....A O*	117	Mar 7	111	Oct 18	111	Oct 18	..	..
Do sink. fd. 5s, 1879-1929.....A O*	110	Feb 10	107	Apr 26	108½	Nov 28	..	..
Do do registered.....A O*	107½	Nov 22	107	Dec 18	107	Dec 18	..	..
Do sink. fd. deb. 5s, 1933.....*M N	122	Apr 18	118	Nov 13	121⅝	Dec 19	..	..
Do do registered.....*M N	120	Nov 30	120	Nov 30	120	Nov 30	..	..
Do debenture 5s, 1909.....M N*	100⅞	Oct 26	107	Jan 3	108	Nov 27	..	..
Do do registered.....M N*	..	....	..	....	105	De 26,99	..	..
Do deb. 5s, April, 1921.....A O 15	119	Apr 7	116	Nov 2	116½	Nov 8	..	..
Do do registered.....A O 15	..	....	..	....	117¾	Fe 7, 98	..	..
Do ext. 4s, Aug., 1886-1926..F A 15	111¼	Mar 30	103¼	Jan 23	108½	Sept 21	..	..
Do do registered.....F A 15	107	Mar 7	107	Mar 7	107	Mar 7	..	..
Do gen. g. 3½s, 1987.....M N*	110⅞	Mar 21	105¼	Jsn 9	110	Dec 21	..	..
Do do registered.....Q F	..	....	..	....	103	No 19,98	..	..
Escanaba & Lake Su. 1st 6s,1901.J J*	103¼	Feb 26	103¼	Feb 26	103¼	Feb 26	102	..
Winona & St. Peters 2d 6s,1907.M N*	123½	Sep 21	120	Jan 4	120⅛	Nov 10	120	..
Mil. & Mad. 1st 6s, 1905.....M S*	112⅝	Apr 24	112⅝	Apr 24	112⅝	Apr 24	111	..
Ottum., C. F. & S. P. 1st 5s,1909.*M S	111¼	Apr 24	110	Mar 20	111¼	Apr 24	110	..
Northern Illinois 1st 5s, 1910....*M S	112¼	Apr 24	112¼	Apr 24	112¼	Apr 24	111	..
Mil., L. S. & W. 1st 6s, 1921....*M N	130¼	Feb 10	133⅜	Nov 14	135⅜	Dec 12	135¼	..
Do conv. deb. g. 5s, 1907.....*F A	107½	Nov 16	105	Jul 9	107½	Nov 16	108	..
Do ext. and imp. s. f. 5s, 1929..*F A	127¾	Jul 30	122⅝	Feb 8	126	Dec 19	125⅝	..
Do Mich. Div. 1st g. 6s, 1924....J J*	137¼	Aug 13	137½	Aug 13	137½	Aug 13	140	..
Do Ashland Div. 1st 6s, 1925..*M S	139½	Apr 5	139½	Apr 5	139½	Apr 17	139	..
Do incomes, 1911.....*M N	..	....	..	....	112	No 13,99	..	..
Chi., Rock Isl. & Pac. 6s, 1917....J J*	134	May 3	129	Jul 2	133	Dec 17	133	..
Do registered.....J J*	132¾	May 4	127	Jan 8	130	Nov 7	..	..
Do gen. g. 4s, 1988.....*J J	109¾	Dec 1	103½	Jan 8	108½	Dec 29	109¼	109½
Do do registered.....*J J	107⅝	Nov 8	105⅞	Feb 1	107⅝	Nov 8	..	..
Des Moines & F. D. 1st 4s, 1905..*J J	96	Mar 31	96	Mar 31	98	May 25	99	..
Do 1st 2½s, 1905.....*J J	86¾	Aug 2	86¼	Aug 25	86¼	Aug 25	..	..
Do extension 4s, 1905.....*J J	97	Dec 19	96	Dec 18	97	Dec 19	..	..
Keo. & Des M. 1st 5s, 1923.....A O*	114	Feb 19	107	May 14	112	Dec 4	111	112½
Do small bonds, 1923.....A O*	..	....	..	....	100	Ap 15,97	..	..
C., St. P. M. & O. con. 6s, 1930...*J D	136¾	Apr 16	131	Jan 8	134½	Dec 26	134	..
C., St. P. & M. 1st g. 6s, 1918...*M N	135	Feb 9	131	Oct 3	133	Nov 27	134	..
St. P. & Sioux C. 1st g. 6s, 1919..J J	132¾	Mar 20	127	Jan 10	130	Dec 27	..	132½
North. Wis. 1st 6s, 1930.....*J J	140	May 31	140	May 31	140	May 31	..	..
Chi. Term. Trans. g. 4s, 1947.....J J*	97⅛	Apr 17	91	Sep 29	94¾	Dec 29	94¾	96
Chi. & W. Ind. 1st sk. fd. 6s,1919.M N*	..	....	..	....	106	Oct 4, 99	105	..
Do gen. g. 6s, Dec., 1932.....Q M	120	Feb 6	118	Jan 22	120	Dec 14	..	..
Chi. & W. Mich. 5s,1921, coup.off.J D*	..	....	..	....	100	Oc 28,99	..	..
Choc., Okla. & G.gen.g.5s,Oct.1,1919.J J	103	Jan 17	103	Jan 17	103	Jan 17	..	..
C., H. & D. con. sk. fd. 7s, 1905...A O*	117	Sep 20	115	Dec 14	115	Dec 14	..	..
Do 2d g. 4½s, 1937.....*J J	113½	Sep 5	112¼	Oct. 6	112½	Oct 10	..	..
Cin., D. & Int. 1st gtd. 5s, 1941.*M N	114	Apr 24	111	Nov 23	112	Dec 28	111⅛	..
C., C., C. & St. L. gen. g. 4s, 1993.*J D	102	Dec 5	94	Jan 2	101½	Dec 20	..	..
Do Cairo Div. 1st g. 4s, 1939...*J J	..	....	..	....	97	Jne 20,99	100¼	..
Do St.L. Div. 1st col.g.4s,1990.M N*	104½	Apr 20	100	Jun 13	103⅜	Dec 28	102	104
Do do registered.....M N*	..	....	..	....	99	May 4,99	..	..
Spring. & Col. Div. 1st g.4s,1940.M S*	94	Oct 12	94	Oct 12	94	Oct 12	95	..
White W. Val. Div. 1st g.4s,1940.J J*	..	....	..	....	83	No 22,95	..	..
C., W. & M. Div. 1st g. 4s, 1991..J J*	100¼	Dec 12	93	Jan 18	100¼	Dec 12	100¼	..
C., I., S. L. & C.1st g.4s,Au.,1936.Q F	105½	Apr 5	105	Mar 24	105½	Apr 5	104	..
Do con. 6s, 1920.....*M N	..	....	..	....	100	Nov., 94	..	..
C., San. & Clev. cn. 1st g.6s,1928.*J J	115¾	Mar 21	114	Aug 17	114	Aug 17	115¼	..
Peo. & East. 1st con. 4s, 1940...*A O	95	Dec 29	84½	Jan 4	95	Dec 29	94¾	95½
Do income 4s, April, 1990.....A	50	Dec 21	24	Jun 18	47¼	Dec 27	45	47
C., C., C. & I. con. 7s, 1914.....*J D	136	May 29	134	Dec 18	134	Dec 18	..	..
Do gen. con. g. 6s, 1934.....*J J	137	Apr 18	123½	Jul 24	137	Dec 28	..	..
Cin., Laf. & Chi. 7s, 1901.....M S*	..	....	..	....	105¾	No 24,99	..	..
C. & S. 1st gtd. C.C.C. & I.,1901.*A O	101¾	Dec 7	101⅜	Oct 20	101¾	Dec 7	100½	..
C., L. & W. 1st con. g. 5s, 1933...A O*	111	Sep 5	106	Jan 20	111	Sept 5	..	..
Clev. & Msh. Val. g. 5s, 1938.....*J J	132	Dec 19	128	Jan 5	132	Dec 19	..	..
Col. Mid. Ry 1st g. 3-4s, 1947.....J J*	80½	Dec 28	63	Jan 4	80½	Dec 29	80	80½
Do 1st g. 4s, 1947.....J J*	81	Dec 27	71½	Jan 2	81	Dec 27	81	82
Col. & Southern 1st g. 4s, 1929....*F A	87	May 31	78⅝	Sep 26	85	Dec 29	84½	85
Conn. & Pass. Riv. 1st g. 4s, 1943.*A O	..	....	..	....	102	Dec., 95	..	..

	Range for Year 1900. Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale.		Bid.	Ask'd.
Del., Lack. & West. 7s, 1907..M S*	124¾	Aug 14	122¾	Nov 10	122¾	Nov 10	..	..
Syr., B. & N. Y. 1st 7s, 1906....A O*	122	Feb 8	119¾	Nov 15	119¾	Nov 15	119⅝	..
Morris & Essex 1st 7s, 1914....*M N	142	Jan 23	136	Jan 4	137½	Dec 27	137	..
Do 7s, 1871-1901.....A O*	107½	Feb 13	102¾	Oct. 30	103⅞	Dec 27	103	..
Do 1st con. gtd. 7s, 1915.....*J D	141¼	Apr 16	138	Jun 19	139¼	Dec 28	137½	..
Do do registered.....J D	..	....	..	....	140	Oc 24,99	..	..
N. Y., Lack. & W. 1st 6s, 1921...*J J	139	Dec 28	133	Jul 18	138	Dec 28	130½	..
Do registered.....*J J	135½	Sep 14	135½	Sep 14	135½	Sept 14	..	..
Do construction 5s, 1923.....F A*	122	Dec 6	119	May 1	121¼	Dec 27	..	..
Do term. and imp. 4s, 1923....*M N	106	Mar 7	105½	Oct 15	106⅝	Oct 15	102	..
Del. & H., 1st Penn. Div. 7s, 1917..M S*	142	Feb 13	140¾	May 2	140¾	May 2	..	..
Do registered.....M S*	141	Oct 22	141	Oct 22	141	Oct 22	..	..
Alb. & Sus. 1st con. gtd.7s,1906.*A O	121	Sep 12	116⅜	Dec 5	116⅜	Dec 5	117	..
Do registered.....*A O	..	....	..	....	122	Jne 3,99	..	..
Do g. 6s, 1906.....*A O	115	Jan 12	111¾	Nov 22	112	Dec 4	112¾	..
Do do registered.....*A O	112¾	Aug 27	112¾	May 23	115½	Aug 27	..	..
Ren. & Saratoga 1st 7s, 1921..*M N	148¾	Jul 16	147	Dec 4	147	Dec 4	149	..
Do registered.....*M N	148¾	Jul 16	148¾	Jul 16	148¾	July 16	..	..
Den. & Rio G. 1st con. g. 4s, 1936..*J J	102⅜	Dec 28	96¼	Jan 4	102⅜	Dec 29	102¼	102⅝
Do con. g. 4½s, 1936.....*J J	100¾	Dec 20	106	Aug 29	106¾	Dec 20	109	..
Do improvement g. 5s, 1928...*J D	108	Dec 28	101½	Jun 18	108	Dec 28	108	..
Des Moines Un. Ry 1st g.5s,1917.M N*	109	Feb 20	108¼	May 7	108¾	May 7	105	..
Det. & Mack. 1st lien g. 4s, 1995..*J D	98¼	Nov 20	96	Nov 19	98½	Nov 20	..	..
Det. & Mack. gold 4s, 1995.....*J D	90	Nov 24	76¼	Jan 8	87	Dec 28	..	..
Dul. & Iron Range 1st 5s, 1937...A O*	111	Dec 15	107	Feb 27	111	Dec 27	110½	111
Dul., Red W. & So. 1st g.5s,1928..*J J	..	....	..	....	92¼	Fe 11,98	..	..
Dul., So. Shore & Atl. g. 5s, 1937..*J J	115	Oct 22	110	Feb 16	115	Nov 1	..	..
Elgin, Jol. & E. 1st g. 5s, 1941.*M N	113	Apr 18	107¼	Jan 9	109¾	Dec 6	..	..
Erie 1st ext. g. 4s, 1947.....*M N	119	Dec 28	116½	May 22	119	Dec 28	119	..
Do 2d ext. g. 5s, 1919.....M S*	119¾	Jan 4	119¾	Jan 4	119¾	Jan 4	121	..
Do 3d ext. g. 4½s, 1923.....*M S	118¾	Jun 25	113¾	Jan 5	116¼	Nov 21	118	..
Do 4th ext. g. 5s, 1920.....A O*	123¼	Mar 30	123¼	Mar 30	123¼	Mar 30	124	..
Do 5th ext. g. 4s, 1928.....*J D	..	....	..	....	..	....	106¾	Ap 14,99
Do 1st con. g. 7s, 1920.....M S*	142	Jan 22	134½	Sep 5	140¾	Dec 15	140¾	142
Do 1st con. g. fund. 7s, 1920...M S*	..	....	..	....	143	De 30,98	..	..
Long Dock con. g. 6s, 1935.....A O*	130¼	Feb 15	136¼	Jun 22	138½	Dec 17	..	..
Buff., N. Y. & Erie 1st 7s, 1916..*J D	..	....	..	....	140	Fe 6, 99	..	..
Jefferson 1st gtd. g. 5s,Jan.,1909.A O	104¼	Oct 22	104¼	Oct 22	104¼	Oct 22	103	..
Chicago & Erie 1st g. 5s, 1982..*M N	123	Dec 13	114	Feb 5	121½	Dec 22	121¾	..
N.Y., L.E.& W.D.&I.1st c.ds,1913.J J*	118	Sep 27	118	Sep 27	118	Sept 27	116¾	..
N. Y. & Gwood L. gtd.g.5s,1946.*M N	..	....	..	....	109	Oc 27,98	108	..
Erie 1st con. g. 4s, pr. bds., 1996.*J J	99	Dec 21	87	Sep 26	99	Dec 29	98¾	99
Do registered.....J J	..	....	..	....	98¼	My 25,99	..	..
Do 1st con. gen. lien g. 4s, 1996.*J J	88½	Dec 22	67	Jan 3	85	Dec 29	85	85¼
N.Y., Sus. & W. 1st ref. g.5s,1937.*J J	111	May 5	107¼	Jan 8	111	Dec 11	112	..
Do 2d g. 4½s, 1937.....*F A	99½	Apr 9	98	Feb 28	99½	June 12	..	..
Do gen. g. 5s, 1940.....F A*	105¼	Dec 29	90	Oct 11	105¼	Dec 29	105¼	..
Do term. 1st g. 5s, 1943.....*M N	113	Apr 27	108¼	Jan 3	113	Apr 27	112	..
Wilk. & East. 1st gtd. g.5s,1942.*J D	108	May 31	104	Jan 4	106¾	Nov 5	106	..
Midland R. of N. J. 1st g.6s,1910.*A O	120	Mar 14	115¼	Oct 2	118	Dec 21	117¼	..
Eureka Springs R. 1st g. 6s, 1933.*F A	..	....	..	....	65	No 10,97	..	..
Ev. & T. H. 1st con. 6s, 1921.....J J*	125½	Jun 14	120	Jul 30	124	Dec 4	125	..
Do 1st gen. g. 5s, 1942.....*A O	110	Mar 27	102¾	Oct 2	108¼	Dec 26	..	..
Do Mt. Ver. 1st g. 6s, 1923.....*A O	..	....	..	....	110	May, 98	..	..
Do Sul. Co. Br. 1st g. 5s,1930...*A O	..	....	..	....	110	Sept., 91	..	..
Ev. & Ind. 1st con. gtd.g.6s,1926.*J J	106	Apr 18	100	Feb 16	105	Sept 25	..	110
Flint & Pere Marq. g. 6s, 1920.A O*	125	Dec 3	120	Jan 17	125	Dec 3	124	..
Do 1st con. g. 5s, 1939.....*M N	108¼	Apr 26	102	Jan 12	107	Dec 27	107	..
Do Pt. Huron D. 1st g.5s,1939.*A O	110	Apr 21	105	Jan 18	107	Dec 8	107	..
Fla. Cen. & Penin 1st g. 5s, 1918..J J*	100	Sep 6	100	Sep 6	100	Sept 6	..	..
Do con. g. 5s, 1943.....*J J	..	....	.

	Range for Year 1900. Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale.		Bid.	Ask'd.
Do 2d ext. g. 5s, 1938 J J*	115¼	Sep 8	112¾	Mar 12	115¼	Sept 8	115¼	..
St.L. & I.M. gn.con.l.g.g.5s,1931.*A O	114¼	Dec 21	108	Oct 13	114	Dec 20	..	..
Do do gtd. g. 5s, stamped,1931.*A O	113	Nov 28	108	Oct 18	112¼	Dec 22	..	..
Do do unified & ref. g. 4s,1929.J J*	88	Dec 26	76	Sep 24	88	Dec 29	..	..
Mobile & Birm. prior inc. 5s,1945..J J*	110¼	Feb 20	110¼	Feb 20	110¼	Feb 20	110	..
Mobile & Ohio new g. 6s, 1927....J D*	130	Nov 23	122¼	Jul 3	127½	Dec 15	127	..
Do 1st ext. g. 6s, July, 1927....Q J	124	Apr 20	120½	Jul 31	120½	July 31	..	..
Do gen. g. 4s, 1938.....M S*	87¾	Dec 28	83	Jan 8	87¾	Dec 28	87½	88
Do Mont. Div. 1st g. 5s, 1947..*F A	110	Dec 18	106½	Aug 9	110	Dec 21	110	..
St. L. & Cairo gtd. 4s, 1931.....*J J	96½	Dec 3	96½	Dec 3	96½	Dec 3	..	..
Nash., Chat. & St. L. 1st 7s,1913. J J*	130¾	Dec 19	126	Jan 8	130¾	Dec 19	130¾	..
Do 2d 6s 1901.....*J J	100½	Jul 11	100¼	Jul 11	100½	July 11	..	..
Do 1st con. g. 5s, 1928.....*A O	110	Dec 27	104½	Apr 11	110	Dec 27	..	..
Do T. & P. Bch. 6s, 1917.....*J J	..	....	..	....	111	De 20,99	..	..
Do 1st 6s, McM., M. W. & Alb..*J J	..	....	..	....	106	Mar., 96	..	..
Do 1st g. 6s, Jasper Bch., 1923..*J J	..	....	..	....	116	De 1, 99	..	..
N. O. & N. E. pr. lien 6s,Nov.,1015.A O	..	....	..	....	108½	Aug., 04	..	..
N. Y. Cen. & Hud. 1st 7s, 1903....J J	112	Apr 0	106¾	Oct 11	110	Dec 19	100¾	..
Do registered.....*J J	111	May 25	108½	Jul 25	100¾	Dec 20	100	..
Do deb. 5s of 1884-1904.....M S*	108	Feb 21	104¾	Nov 14	105	Dec 28	103	..
Do do registered.....M S*	107½	Feb 1	105	Oct 26	105	Nov 21	..	..
Do reg. deb. 5s, 1889-1904.....M S*	..	....	..	....	108½	Fe 21,98	..	..
Do deb. g. 4s, 1890-1905.....*J D	103¾	May 14	101⅞	Jun 6	103	Nov 7	101	..
Do do registered.....*J D	..	....	..	....	104¾	Fe 25,98	..	..
Do deb. certs., ext. g. 4s, 1905.*M N	105¾	Apr 27	101	Jan 11	101	Dec 0	101	..
Do do registered.....*M N	..	....	..	....	102¾	Au 1, 90	..	..
Do g. mtge. 3½s, 1997.....J J*	111½	Jun 12	108¼	Jul 6	110¾	Dec 21	110¾	111
Do do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	112½	Ap 14,99	..	..
Do Mich. Cen. col. g.3½s,1998.*F A	98	Apr 0	95	Sep 6	97	Dec 20	..	..
Do do registered.....*F A	96½	Dec 10	94	Jun 5	96½	Dec 10	..	..
Do Lake Shore col.g.3½s,1998.*F A	99	Jan 27	95½	Sep 28	98	Dec 20	97½	98¾
Do do registered.....*F A	98	May 2	93	Oct 9	96¼	Dec 20	96	97
West Shore 1st gtd. 4s, 2361.....*J J	116½	Dec 20	110	Jan 2	116¼	Dec 29	116	..
Do registered.....*J J	114½	Dec 12	110	Jan 4	113¼	Dec 29	..	..
Beech Creek 1st g. 4s, 1936.....J J*	110½	May 24	108	Jan 4	109¾	Aug 2	112	..
Do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	108	Jne 17,99	..	..
Clear.Bl.C. 1st s.f.gtd.is,S.A.,1940.J J	..	....	..	....	95	Jul 28,98	..	..
Do do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	104	Jul 26,97	..	..
N. Y. & Harlem 3½ per cent. 100-year g. c., 2000.....*M N	115¾	May 2	115¾	May 2	115¾	May 2	..	..
N. J. Junc. R. gtd. 1st 4s, 1986..*F A	102	Feb 3	102	Feb 3	102	Feb 3	..	..
R.,W.& O.con.1st ext.5s,July,1922.A O	129½	Feb 13	125¾	Oct 1	126¾	Dec 16	126	128
Do Ter. R. 1st g. 5s, 1918.....*M N	..	....	..	....	100	Jan., 97	..	..
Os. & Rome 2d gtd. g. 5s, 1915..*F A	..	....	..	....	113	Ap 13,99	..	..
Utica & B. Riv. gtd. g. 4s, 1922..J J*	110	Oct 15	108	Oct 1	110	Oct 15	..	..
Mo. & Mal. 1st gtd. g. 4s, 1991..M S*	107½	Jul 3	106¾	Feb 8	107½	July 6	..	..
N. Y. & North. 1st g. 5s, 1927...A O*	122½	Sep 28	121	Oct 25	121	Oct 25	120¾	..
Lake Shore & Michigan Southern—
Det., Mon. & Tol. 1st 7s, 1906...F A*	121	Jan 13	110	May 3	119	Dec 7	..	..
Lake Shore con. 2d 7s, 1903.....J D*	116½	Apr 4	109¾	Dec 8	110¾	Dec 28	109¾	..
Do do registered, 1903.....J D*	114¾	Apr 17	111¼	May 31	112¾	Nov 7	..	..
Do g. 3½s, 1997.....*J D	111¾	May 25	109	Dec 7	109¾	Dec 19	109¼	110
Do do registered.....*J D	110½	Mar 17	110¼	Mar 16	110½	Mar 17	..	..
C. & Sp. 1st gtd.,L.S.&M.S.,1901.*A O	..	....	..	....	108¼	De 1, 97	..	..
Mshoning Coal R. 1st 5s, 1934....J J*	130	Nov 14	120	Sep 7	130	Dec 17	..	..
Pitts., McK. & Y. 1st gtd.6s,1932.J J*	..	....	..	....	117	Mar., 85	143	..
Michigan Cen. 1st con. 7s, 1902.*M N	103¾	Apr 10	104½	Nov 8	105	Dec 27	105	..
Do 1st con. 5s, 1902.....*M N	104¾	Apr 25	101⅞	Nov 22	102	Dec 27	101¼	102
Do 6s, 1909.....M S*	121	Aug 1	110¼	Apr 16	121	Aug 1	..	..
Do 5s, 1931.....*M S	128	May 14	126	Oct 30	126	Oct 30	127	..
Do do registered, March, 1931..Q M	127½	Nov 8	127½	Nov 8	127½	Nov 8	..	..
Do 4s, 1940.....*J J	105	Jan 4	105	Jan 4	105	Jan 4	106¾	..
Do registered.....J J	106½	Nov 26	106½	Nov 26	106¼	Nov 26	..	..
N. Y., C. & St. L. 1st g. 4s, 1937...A O*	106½	Mar 28	104¼	Jan 3	106	Dec 29	..	..
Do registered.....A O*	106¾	Dec 10	103½	Jan 8	106¾	Dec 10	..	..
N. Y., N. H. & H. 1st reg. 4s,1903.*J D	..	....	..	....	104½	Oc 7, 97	..	..
Do con. deb. certs., $1,000.....A O*	195	Oct 27	185¾	Jan 6	195	Dec 18	..	..
Do registered.....	..	....	..	....	187	No 17,99	..	..
Do do small certs., $100.....	189¼	Jun 11	185	Feb 27	189	Aug 4	..	..
Housatonic R. con. g. 5s, 1937..M N*	135½	Dec 12	132	Nov 7	135½	Dec 12	135	..
N. H. & Derby con. 5s, 1918....*M N	..	....	..	....	125¾	Fe 6, 97	113½	..
N. Y. & N. E. 1st 7s, 1905.....J J*	114	Jan 5	113	Jan 5	114	Jan 5	114½	..
Do 1st 6s, 1905.....J J	..	....	..	....	113	Jul 29,99	110¾	..
N.Y.,O. & W.ref.1st g.4s,June,1992.M S	107⅞	Dec 1	102	Jan 10	107½	Dec 27	106¾	107½
Do do registered, $5,000 only...M S	..	....	..	....	101½	No 30,98	..	..
Norfolk & South. 1st g. 5s, 1941..*M N	114¼	Jun 9	110	Jan 15	110¾	Dec 14	..	..
Nor. & W. R. gen. g. 6s, 1931....*M N	135	Sep 5	129	Jan 2	133	Dec 13	133	..
Do New River 1st g. 6s, 1932..*A O	133	Mar 28	130	May 18	131¼	Dec 26	131	134
Do imp. and ext. 6s, 1934.....*J D	131¾	Dec 18	129	Oct 18	131¾	Dec 18	130¾	132
Col., C. & T. 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1922..*J J	107	Nov 28	107	Nov 28	107	Nov 28	107	..
Scl. V. & N.E. 1st gtd.g.4s,1989. M N*	103	Apr 16	95	Feb 14	101¾	Dec 21	101½	..
Nor. & W. R. 1st con. g. 4s,1996.A O*	100	Dec 3	90¼	Jan 3	100	Dec 28	99¾	100
Do registered.....A O*	97¾	Jul 18	97¾	Jul 18	97¾	July 18	..	..
N. P. Ry p.in.ry&l.g.g.4s,Jan.,1997.Q J	106¾	Dec 28	102¼	Oct 1	106	Dec 20	105¾	106¾
Do registered.....Q J	105¾	Mar 13	101	Jun 22	104¾	Sept 18	..	..
Do gen. lien g. 3s, Jan., 2047....Q F	72½	Nov 21	64	Sep 20	71¾	Dec 29	71½	71¾
Do do registered.....Q F	70¾	Dec 5	65½	Oct 18	70¾	Dec 10	..	..
St. Paul & N. P. gen. 6s, 1923...*F A	132½	May 3	131½	Mar 22	131¾	Nov 23	130	..
Do registered certificates.....Q F	..	....	..	....	132	Jul 28,99	..	..
Wash. Cen. 1st g. 4s, Mar., 1948.Q M	88¾	May 31	88¾	May 31	88¾	May 31	88	..
St. Paul & Dul. 1st 5s, 1931.....F A*	130	Dec 28	124	Oct 31	130	Dec 28	125	130
Do 2d 5s, 1917.....A O*	116½	Dec 27	109	Apr 19	116½	Dec 27	118¼	..
Do 1st con. g. 4s, 1968.....*J D	105	Dec 27	97½	Apr 19	103	Dec 27	100	..
Nor. Pac. Ter. Co. 1st g. 6s, 1933...J J*	120	Mar 12	113	Aug 27	117¾	Dec 29	117¾	..
Ohio Riv. R. R.1st g. 5s, 1936...*J D	110	Jul 24	109	Apr 25	110	July 24	108	..
Do gen. g. 5s, 1937.....*A O	95½	Nov 22	90	Aug 13	95	Dec 12	..	..
Omaha & St. L. 1st g. 4s, 1901.....J J*	77	Mar 12	60	Jan 3	75	Apr 4	..	..
Pac. Coast Co. 1st g. 5s, 1946...*J D	112	Nov 30	104¼	Jan 6	110	Dec 28	108¾	110
Panama sk. fd. sub. 6s, 1910..M N*	105	Jan 16	101	Dec 15	101	Dec 15	100¾	..
Do do 4½s, 1917.....*A O	105	Oct 17	103½	Dec 21	104	Dec 28	104½	105
Penn. Co. gtd. 1st g. 4½s, 1921.....J J*	117	Sep 11	111½	Jan 19	116½	Dec 18	116¼	117
Do registered, 1921.....J J*	116	Oct 19	111½	Jan 19	116	Oct 19	..	..
Do gtd.3½s,col.tr.reg.cfs.,1937.M S*	..	....	..	....	102	No 11,98	..	..
C., St. L. & P. 1st con. 5s, 1932...A O*	124	Dec 5	121	Jul 10	124	Dec 5	121	..
Cleve. & Pitts. gen. gtd. g. 4½s, Ser. A, 1942.....*J J	121	Oct 22	117½	Feb 2	121	Oct 22	124	..
Erie & Pitts. gen. 3½s, 1940....J J*	102	Nov 7	101¼	Apr 11	102	Nov 7	..	..
P.,C.,C. & St.L. cn.g.gt.4½s,A,1940.O*	117¾	Aug 31	114	Jan 9	116¾	Dec 7	116¾	..
Do Series B, gtd., 1942.....*A O	117¼	Sep 19	113¾	Jan 12	116¾	Dec 19	..	..
Do Series C, gtd., 1942.....M N*	..	....	..	....	112	No 28,98	..	..
Do Series D, 4s gtd., 1945.....M N*	100	Apr 12	106¼	Apr 8	108	Apr 12	..	..
Do g. 3½s, Series E, 1949.....F A*	101¾	Jul 14	99	Dec 21	99	Dec 21	..	..
P., Ft. W. & C. 1st 7s, 1912.....J J*	139¼	May 5	135	Jan 12	137¾	Dec 6	137	..
Do 2d 7s, 1912.....J J*	137¾	Nov 27	135½	Aug 25	137¾	Nov 27	138	..
Do 3d 7s, July, 1912.....A O	134	Feb 15	131	Jul 9	131	July 9	131	..
Penn. R. R. Co. re. est. g.4s,1923.*M N	..	....	..	....	106	My 12,97	..	..
Un. N. J. R. R. & C.gen.4s,1944.*M S	117	May 1	117	May 1	117	May 1	116	..
Clev. & Mar. 1st gtd. 4½s, 1935.*M N	112¾	Mar 7	109	Jan 12	113¾	Mar 7	..	..
G.R. & I. ext. 1st gtd.g.4½s,1941.J J*	112¼	Dec 11	106	Jan 15	112¼	Dec 11	..	..
Alle. Val. gen. gtd. g. 4s, 1942...*M S	..	....	..	....	102	Fe 10,97	..	..
Peo. & P. Uo. 1st g. 6s, Feb., 1921.Q F	132½	Dec 28	130	Aug 28	128¼	Dec 28	131	133
Do 2d 4½s, Feb., 1921.....M N	101	Sep 19	98	Jun 6	101	Oct 21	99¾	..
Pine Creek reg. gtd. 6s, 1932.....J D*	..	....	..	....	127	Oc 17,97	..	..
Pitts., Clev. & T. 1st g. 6s, 1922...A O*	..	....	..	....	107¼	Oc 31,98	..	..
Pitts. Junc. 1st g. 6s, 1922.....J J*	..	....	..	....	121	Oc 31,98	..	..
P. & L.E.2d g.5s,Ser.A&B,Ja.,1928.A O	..	....	..	....	114	Mar., 98	113	..
P., P. & F. 1st g. 5s, 1916.....J J*	..	....	..	....	99	Jne 24,98	99	..
P., S. & L. E. 1st g. 5s, 1940.....A O*	116½	Jul 28	112¾	Jan 16	114¾	July 28	115	..
Do 1st con. g. 5s, 1943.....J J*	..	....	..	....	114	Jly 24,97	..	..
Pitts. & West. 1st g. 4s, 1917.....J J*	101	Jun 1	99¾	Jan 18	100¾	Dec 11	100¾	..
Do J. P. M. & Co. certs.....*J J	101¼	Jun 12	99¾	Jan 11	100¾	Dec 12	..	..
Reading Co. gen. g. 4s, 1997.....*J J	94¾	Dec 27	88	Jan 2	94¾	Dec 27	89¾	90
Do registered.....J J	88	Nov 15	87¾	Aug 24	88	Nov 15	87	88
Rio Grande West. 1st g. 4s, 1939...J J*	101	Dec 15	94¾	Jan 2	98¾	Dec 15	98	99
Utah C.1st gtd.g.l.g.4s,Jn.1,1918.A O	88¾	Sep 27	80	Feb 24	88	Sep 27	..	..
Rio Gr. Junc. 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1939..J J*	..	....	..	....	110	Mar 9	..	..
Rio Gr. South. 1st g. 4s, 1940.....J J*	81¼	Apr 25	71	Mar 2	81	Dec 27	80	..
Do guaranteed.....J J*	94	Nov 13	87¾	Jul 25	94	Dec 27	93	..
St. J. & G. I. 1st g. 6s,ig. 1947...*J J	99	Dec 20	91	Jul 9	99	Dec 20	98	..
St. L. & S.F.2d g.6s,Cl.A,1906.M N*	..	....	..	....	111	Jne 20,99	..	..
Do g. 6s, Class B, 1906.....M N*	112¾	Feb 15	110¾	Nov 7	111	Dec 27	110	111¾
Do g. 6s, Class C, 1906.....M N*	113¾	Oct 3	110¾	Nov 7	111	Dec 27	110	..
Do 1st g. 6s, R. C. & O., 1919..F A*	..	....	..	....	111	Dec 27	110	..
Do gen. g. 6s, 1931.....J J*	120	Dec 22	114¾	Aug 1	119	Dec 27	118	119
Do gen. g. 5s, 1931.....J J*	118¾	Dec 22	112	Sep 7	118	Dec 27	116	118
Do 1st tr. g. 5s, 1987.....A O*	104	Apr 30	100¾	Oct 17	103	Dec 27	102	..
St. S. & V. E. R. 1st g. 6s, 1910.*A O	..	....	..	....	110	Dec 27	109	..
St L. & S. F. R. R. g. 4s, 1996.....J J*	92¼	Dec 20	78	Jan 2	92¼	Dec 20	90	92
Do Southw. Div. g. 5s, 1947.....A O*	109	Jun 7	99	Jan 2	109	Dec 27	107	..
Do Cen. Div. 1st g. 4s, 1929...*A O	98	Feb 15	89¾	Oct 15	98	Dec 27	96	..
St. L. & W. 1st g. 4s,bd.cts.,1989.M N*	94¾	Dec 21	85	Jan 2	94¾	Dec 21	93	..
Do 2d g. 4s,inc.bd.ctz.,Nov.,1989.J J	78	Dec 21	68	Jan 2	78	Dec 21	76	..
St P., Min. & Man. 2d 6s, 1909....A O*	131	Mar 15	130¾	Nov 9	131	Dec 27	130	..
Do Dak. ext. g. 6s, 1910.....M N*	137½	Apr 30	137½	Nov 7	137½	Dec 27	137	..
Do 1st con. g. 6s, 1933.....J J*	147½	Dec 14	136	Jan 2	147½	Dec 27	146	..
Do do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	140	Jan 2,99	..	..
Do do reduced to 4½s.....J J*	112¾	Dec 27	112¾	Jan 2	112¾	Dec 27	111	112
Do do do registered.....J J*	112¾	Nov 30	112¾	Nov 30	112¾	Nov 30	..	..
Do Mont. ext. 1st g. 4s, 1937.....J J*	108	Dec 10	103¾	Nov 7	108	Dec 10	107	..
Do 1st terminal.....*J J	..	....	..	....	110	Dec 27	109	..
Minn. Union 1st g. 6s, 1922.....J J*	118	Jan 3	118	Jan 3	118	Jan 3	117	..
Minn. Cen. 1st gtd. g. 6s, 1934.....J J*	130¾	Dec 20	130¾	Dec 20	130¾	Dec 20	130	..
Do 2d gtd. g. 6s, 1937.....J J*	120	Dec 20	120	Dec 20	120	Dec 20	120	..
Do 1st g. 5s, 1949.....J J*	110	Dec 20	110	Dec 20	110	Dec 20	110	..
St. P. & N. P. gen. g. 6s, 1923...*F A	132½	May 3	131½	Mar 22	131¾	Nov 23	130	..
Do registered certificates.....Q F	..	....	..	....	132	Jul 28,99	..	..
Wash. Cen. 1st g. 4s, Mar., 1948.Q M	88¾	May 31	88¾	May 31	88¾	May 31	88	..
St. Paul & Dul. 1st 5s, 1931.....F A*	130	Dec 28	124	Oct 31	130	Dec 28	125	130
Do 2d 5s, 1917.....A O*	116½	Dec 27	109	Apr 19	116½	Dec 27	118¼	..
Do 1st con. g. 4s, 1968.....*J D	105	Dec 27	97½	Apr 19	103	Dec 27	100	..
Nor. Pac. Ter. Co. 1st g. 6s, 1933...J J*	120	Mar 12	113	Aug 27	117¾	Dec 29	117¾	..
Ohio Riv. R. R.1st g. 5s, 1936...*J D	110	Jul 24	109	Apr 25	110	July 24	108	..
Do gen. g. 5s, 1937.....*A O	95½	Nov 22	90	Aug 13	95	Dec 12	..	..
Omaha & St. L. 1st g. 4s, 1901.....J J*	77	Mar 12	60	Jan 3	75	Apr 4	..	..
Pac. Coast Co. 1st g. 5s, 1946...*J D	112	Nov 30	104¼	Jan 6	110	Dec 28	108¾	110
Panama sk. fd. sub. 6s, 1910..M N*	105	Jan 16	101	Dec 15	101	Dec 15	100¾	..
Do do 4½s, 1917.....*A O	105	Oct 17	103½	Dec 21	104	Dec 28	104½	105
Penn. Co. gtd. 1st g. 4½s, 1921.....J J*	117	Sep 11	111½	Jan 19	116½	Dec 18	116¼	117
Do registered, 1921.....J J*	116	Oct 19	111½	Jan 19	116	Oct 19	..	..
Do gtd.3½s,col.tr.reg.cfs.,1937.M S*	..	....	..	....	102	No 11,98	..	..
C., St. L. & P. 1st con. 5s, 1932...A O*	124	Dec 5	121	Jul 10	124	Dec 5	121	..
Cleve. & Pitts. gen. gtd. g. 4½s, Ser. A, 1942.....*J J	121	Oct 22	117½	Feb 2	121	Oct 22	124	..
Erie & Pitts. gen. 3½s, 1940....J J*	102	Nov 7	101¼	Apr 11	102	Nov 7	..	..
P.,C.,C. & St.L. cn.g.gt.4½s,A,1940.O*	117¾	Aug 31	114	Jan 9	116¾	Dec 7	116¾	..
Do Series B, gtd., 1942.....*A O	117¼	Sep 19	113¾	Jan 12	116¾	Dec 19	..	..
Do Series C, gtd., 1942.....M N*	..	....	..	....	112	No 28,98	..	..
Do Series D, 4s gtd., 1945.....M N*	100	Apr 12	106¼	Apr 8	108	Apr 12	..	..
Do g. 3½s, Series E, 1949.....F A*	101¾	Jul 14	99	Dec 21	99	Dec 21	..	..
P., Ft. W. & C. 1st 7s, 1912.....J J*	139¼	May 5	135	Jan 12	137¾	Dec 6	137	..
Do 2d 7s, 1912.....J J*	137¾	Nov 27	135½	Aug 25	137¾	Nov 27	138	..
Do 3d 7s, July, 1912.....A O	134	Feb 15	131	Jul 9	131	July 9	131	..
Penn. R. R. Co. re. est. g.4s,1923.*M N	..	....	..	....	106	My 12,97	..	..
Un. N. J. R. R. & C.gen.4s,1944.*M S	117	May 1	117	May 1	117	May 1	116	..
Clev. & Mar. 1st gtd. 4½s, 1935.*M N	112¾	Mar 7	109	Jan 12	113¾	Mar 7	..	..
G.R. & I. ext. 1st gtd.g.4½s,1941.J J*	112¼	Dec 11	106	Jan 15	112¼	Dec 11	..	..
Alle. Val. gen. gtd. g. 4s, 1942...*M S	..	....	..	....	102	Fe 10,97	..	..
Peo. & P. Uo. 1st g. 6s, Feb., 1921.Q F	132½	Dec 28	130	Aug 28	128¼	Dec 28	131	133
Do 2d 4½s, Feb., 1921.....M N	101	Sep 19	98	Jun 6	101	Oct 21	99¾	..
Pine Creek reg. gtd. 6s, 1932.....J D*	..	....	..	....	127	Oc 17,97	..	..
Pitts., Clev. & T. 1st g. 6s, 1922...A O*	..	....	..	....	107¼	Oc 31,98	..	..
Pitts. Junc. 1st g. 6s, 1922.....J J*	..	....	..	....	121	Oc 31,98	..	..
P. & L.E.2d g.5s,Ser.A&B,Ja.,1928.A O	..	....	..	....	114	Mar., 98	113	..
P., P. & F. 1st g. 5s, 1916.....J J*	..	....	..	....	99	Jne 24,98	99	..
P., S. & L. E. 1st g. 5s, 1940.....A O*	116¼	Jul 28	112¾	Jan 16	114¾	July 28	115	..
Do 1st con. g. 5s, 1943.....J J*	..	....	..	....	114	Jly 24,97	..	..
Pitts. & West. 1st g. 4s, 1917.....J J*	101	Jun 1	99¾	Jan 18	100¾	Dec 11	100¾	..
Do J. P. M. & Co. certs.....*J J	101¼	Jun 12	99¾	Jan 11	100¾	Dec 12	..	..
Reading Co. gen. g. 4s, 1997.....*J J	94¾	Dec 27	88	Jan 2	94¾	Dec 27	89¾	90
Do registered.....J J	88	Nov 15	87¾	Aug 24	88	Nov 15	87	88
Rio Grande West. 1st g. 4s, 1939...J J*	101	Dec 15	94¾	Jan 2	98¾	Dec 15	98	99
Utah C.1st gtd.g.l.g.4s,Jn.1,1918.A O	88¾	Sep 27	80	Feb 24	88	Sep 27	..	..
Rio Gr. Junc. 1st gtd. g. 5s, 1939..J J*	..	....	..	....	110	Mar 9	..	..
Rio Gr. South. 1st g. 4s, 1940.....J J*	81¼	Apr 25	71	Mar 2	81	Dec 27	80	..
Do guaranteed.....J J*	94	Nov 13	87¾	Jul 25	94	Dec 27	93	..
St. J. & G. I. 1st g. 6s,ig. 1947...*J J	99	Dec 20	91	Jul 9	99	Dec 20	98	..
St. L. & S.F.2d g.6s,Cl.A,1906.M N*	..	....	..	....	111	Jne 20,99	..	..
Do g. 6s, Class B, 1906.....M N*	112¾	Feb 15	110¾	Nov 7	111	Dec 27	110	111¾
Do g. 6s, Class C, 1906.....M N*	113¾	Oct 3	110¾	Nov 7	111	Dec 27	110	..
Do 1st g. 6s, R. C. & O., 1919..F A*	..	....	..	....	111	Dec 27	110	..
Do gen. g. 6s, 1931.....J J*	120	Dec 22	114¾	Aug 1	119	Dec 27	118	119
Do gen. g. 5s, 1931.....J J*	118¾	Dec 22	112	Sep 7	118	Dec 27	116	118
Do 1st tr. g. 5s, 1987.....A O*	104	Apr 30	100¾	Oct 17	103	Dec 27	102	..
St. S. & V. E. R. 1st g. 6s, 1910.*A O	..	....	..	....	110	Dec 27	109	..
St L. & S. F. R. R. g. 4s, 1996.....J J*	92¼	Dec 20	78	Jan 2	92¼	Dec 20	90	92
Do Southw. Div. g. 5s, 1947.....A O*	109	Jun 7	99	Jan 2	109	Dec 27	107	..
Do Cen. Div. 1st g. 4s, 1929...*A O	98	Feb 15	89¾	Oct 15	98	Dec 27	96	..
St. L. & W. 1st g. 4s,bd.ctz.,1989.M N*	94¾	Dec 21	85	Jan 2	94¾	Dec 21	93	..
Do 2d g. 4s,inc.bd.ctz.,Nov.,1989.J J	78	Dec 21	68	Jan 2	78	Dec 21	76	..
St P., Min. & Man. 2d 6s, 1909....A O*	131	Mar 15	130¾	Nov 9	131	Dec 27	130	..
Do Dak. ext. g. 6s, 1910.....M N*	137½	Apr 30	137½	Nov 7	137½	Dec 27	137	..
Do 1st con. g. 6s, 1933.....J J*	147½	Dec 14	136	Jan 2	147½	Dec 27	146	..
Do do registered.....J J*	..	....	..	....	140	Jan 2,99	..	..
Do do reduced to 4½s.....J J*	112¾	Dec 27	112¾	Jan 2	112¾	Dec 27	111	112
Do do do registered.....J J*	112¾	Nov 30	112¾	Nov 30	112¾	Nov 30	..	..
Do Mont. ext. 1st g. 4s, 1937.....J J*	108	Dec 10	103¾	Nov 7	108	Dec 10	107	..
Do 1st terminal.....*J J	..	....	..	....	110	Dec 27	109	..
Minn. Union 1st g. 6s, 1922.....J J*	118	Jan 3	118	Jan 3	118	Jan 3	117	..
Minn. Cen. 1st gtd. g. 6s, 1934.....J J*	130¾	Dec 20	130¾	Dec 20	130¾	Dec 20	130	..
Do 2d gtd. g. 6s, 1937.....J J*	120	Dec 20	120	Dec 20	120	Dec 20	120	..
Do 1st g. 5s, 1949.....J J*	110	Dec 20	110	Dec 20	110	Dec 20	110	..

	Range for Year 1900. Highest.		Lowest.		Last Sale.		Bid.	Ask'd.
Do con. g. 6s, int. gtd., 1912....A O*	113	Feb 21	110¼	Nov 26	110½	Nov 26	110	..
Do gen. g. 4s, int. gtd., 1921...*A O	87	Mar 28	81	Aug 21	85½	Dec 14	86½	..
Hous., E. & W. T. 1st g.5s,1933.*M N	103	Mar 28	100	Jan 24	105	Aug 20	104	..
Mor. La. & T. 1st g. 6s, 1920.....J J*	120¾	Feb 28	120¼	Feb 28	120¾	Feb 28	124	..
Do 1st 7s, 1918.....J J*	..	....	..	....	134	No 22,99	138

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK.

Continued from Page 1.

Standard Gas Light Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Swift & Co.—Dividend payable.
Trenton Potteries Company—Books close for dividend on preferred.
Union Passenger Railway, Philadelphia—Dividend payable.
Union Switch and Signal Company—Books close for dividend on common and preferred.
United Fruit Company—Books close.
Wells-Fargo Express Company—Books close.
Westinghouse Air Brake Company—Books close.
Wisconsin Telephone Company—Books close.

Tuesday, Jan. 1.

Alabama Steel and Shipbuilding—Dividend payable on preferred.
American Pipe Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia—Dividend payable.
American Thread—Dividend payable on preferred.
Androscoggin Mills, Boston—Dividend payable.
Arlington Mills, Boston—Dividend payable.
Baltimore and Annapolis Short Line Railroad—Dividend payable.
Boston Belting Company—Dividend payable.
Boston Electric Light Company—Books close.
Boston and Maine—Dividend payable.
Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn—Dividend payable.
Boston Towboat Company—Dividend payable.
Capital Traction Company, Washington, D. C.—Dividend payable.
Centennial Eureka Mining Company—Dividend payable.
Chicago and West Indiana Railway—Dividend payable.
City Railway, Dayton, Ohio—Dividend payable on common and preferred.
Corporation Liquidating Company—Dividend payable.
Cumberland Valley Railroad—Dividend payable.
Dominion Coal Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Gila Valley, Globe and Northern Railroad—Dividend payable.
Granite Railroad—Dividend payable.
Hestonville and Fairmount Pass. Railway—Dividend payable on common and preferred.
Maine Central Railroad—Dividend payable.
Montville (Conn.) Street Railroad—Dividend payable.
New England Cotton Yarn Company—Dividend payable.
New London (Conn.) Street Railway—Dividend payable.
Northern Railroad of New Hampshire—Dividend payable.
Norwich (Conn.) Street Railway—Dividend payable.
Norwich and Worcester Railroad—Dividend payable.
Peoria and Pekin Union Railroad—Dividend payable.
Quincy Railroad Bridge—Dividend payable.
Rutland Railroad—Dividend payable on preferred.
St. Louis Breweries—Dividend payable.
Standard Coupler Company—Dividend payable on common and preferred.
Street's West Stable Car Line Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Union Bank, (Brooklyn)—Dividend payable.
United States Breweries—Dividend payable on preferred.
Washburn Wire Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
West End Street Railway, Boston—Dividend payable on preferred.
Westinghouse Machine Company—Books close for dividend on common and preferred.
West Philadelphia Passenger Railway—Dividend payable.
Worcester, Nashua and Rochester Railroad—Dividend payable.

Wednesday, Jan. 2.

Allegheny and Western Railway—Dividend payable.
American Beet Sugar Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
American Express—Dividend payable.
American Ice—Books close for dividend on preferred.
American Iron and Steel Company—Dividend payable on common and preferred.
American Snuff Company—Dividend payable.
American Steel and Wire Company—Dividend payable.
American Sugar Refining—Dividend payable on common and preferred.
Bank of America—Dividend payable.
Bank of New York—Dividend payable.
Beech Creek Railroad—Dividend payable.
Bliss (E. & W.) Company—Dividend payable.
Boston and Lowell—Dividend payable.
Brooklyn Bank—Dividend payable.
Brooklyn Trust Company—Dividend payable.
Buffalo Hump Mining Company—Dividend payable.
Central National Bank—Dividend payable.
Chatham National Bank—Dividend pabable.
Chicago and East Illinois—Dividend payable on preferred stock.
Chicago Junction Railways and Union Stock Yards—Dividend payable on common and preferred stocks.
Chicago Telephone Company—Dividend payable.
Cincinnati Gas—Dividend payable.
Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton—Dividend payable on preferred A and B shares.
Cincinnati Street Railway—Dividend payable.
Colonial Trust Company—Dividend payable.
Columbia Bank—Dividend payable.
Columbus Edison Company—Dividend payable.
Commercial Cable—Dividend payable.
Continental National Bank—Dividend payable.
Continental Trust Company—Books close for dividend.
Continental Tobacco Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Dayton and Michigan—Dividend payable on preferred stock.
Denver and Rio Grande Railroad—Books close for dividend on preferred.
East River National Bank—Dividend payable.
Electric Storage Battery Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Eleventh Ward National Bank—Dividend payable.
Empire Steel and Iron Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Fifth National Bank—Dividend payable.
Fifth Avenue Bank, New York—Dividend payable.
Fifth Avenue Bank, Brooklyn—Dividend payable.
Fifth Avenue Trust Company—Dividend payable.
Fourth National Bank—Dividend payable.
Franklin Trust, Brooklyn—Dividend payable.
General Chemical Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Girard Trust, Philadelphia—Dividend payable.
Hamilton Bank—Dividend payable.
Hamilton Fire Insurance Company—Dividend payable.
Hanover Bank—Dividend payable.
Hartford City Gas Light Company—Dividend payable.
Irving National Bank—Dividend payable.
Jackson (Mich.) Gas Company—Dividend payable.
Kings County Bank, Brooklyn—Dividend payable.
Knickerbocker Ice Company, Common and preferred payable. Knickerbocker Trust Company—Dividend payable.
Leather Manufacturers' Bank—Dividend payable.
Long Island Loan and Trust Company—Dividend payable.
Manayunk National Bank, Philadelphia—Dividend payable.
Manhattan Elevated—Dividend payable.
Manufacturers' Trust Company, Brooklyn—Dividend payable.
Market and Fulton Bank—Dividend payable.
Mechanics' National Bank—Dividend payable.
Mercantile National Bank—Dividend payable.
Mercantile Trust Company—Dividend payable.
Merchants' National Bank—Dividend payable.
Merchants' Exchange National Bank—Dividend payable.
Nassau National Bank, Brooklyn—Dividend payable.
National Bank of Commerce—Dividend payable.
National Bank of the Republic—Dividend payable.
National Broadway Bank—Dividend payable.
National City Bank, Brooklyn—Dividend payable.
National Park Bank—Dividend payable.
National Shoe and Leather Bank—Dividend payable.
National Sugar Refining—Dividend payable on preferred.
National Tube Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
New York and Harlem—Dividend payable.
New York Air Brake Company—Books close.
Northern Central Railroad—Dividend payable.
Ohio and Indiana Consolidated Natural and Illuminating Gas Company—Annual meeting.
Old Dominion Steamship Company—Dividend payable.
Oregon Railroad and Navigation—Dividend payable on preferred stock.
Oriental Bank—Dividend payable.
People's Bank—Dividend payable.
People's Trust Company, Brooklyn—Dividend payable.
Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad—Dividend payable.
P. Lorillard Company—Dividend payable on preferred stock.
Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway—Dividend payable.
Real Estate Trust Company—Dividend payable.
Republic Iron and Steel Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad—Dividend payable.
Royal Baking Powder Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Seaboard National Bank—Dividend payable.
Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
State Bank—Dividend payable.
Thirteenth and Fifteenth Streets Passenger Railway, Philadelphia—Dividend payable.
Title Guarantee and Trust Company—Dividend payable.
Torrington Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Twenty-sixth Ward Bank, Brooklyn—Dividend payable.
Twin City Rapid Transit Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Union Bag and Paper Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
Union Ferry Company—Dividend payable.
Union Passenger Railway, Philadelphia—Dividend payable.
United States Leather Company—Dividend payable on preferred.
United States Mortgage and Trust Company—Dividend payable.
United States Projectile Company—Dividend payable.
Victoria Coal and Coke Company—Dividend payable.
Wallabout Bank, Brooklyn—Dividend payable.
Washington Trust Company—Dividend payable.
West Side Bank—Dividend payable.
Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company—Dividend payable.
Williamsburg Trust Company—Dividend payable.

Thursday, Jan. 3.

American Wooden Company—Books close for dividend on preferred.
Conley Foil Company—Annual meeting.
Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad—Books close.
Swift & Co.—Annual meeting.

Friday, Jan. 4.

Chicago City Railway—Books close for annual meeting.
Metropolitan West Side Elevated Railroad of Chicago—Annual meeting.
Western Gas Company—Dividend payable.

Saturday, Jan. 5.

American Cement Company—Books close.
Bank of America—Books close for annual meeting.
Cosmopolitan Range Company—Books close for annual meeting.
National Biscuit Company—Books close for dividend on common.
New York and New Jersey Telephone Company—Dividend payable Jan. 15 to holders of record this date.
Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad—Dividend payable on preferred Jan. 15 to holders of record this date.
Rubber Goods Manufacturing Company—Books close for dividend on common.
Southwestern Railroad of Georgia—Dividend payable.
Texas Central Railroad—Books close for dividend on preferred.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call during the week loaned at 3½@4 per cent., closing on Saturday at 4 per cent.

Time money, 4@4½ per cent. for thirty days, 4¼ per cent. for sixty days, 4½ per cent. for five to six months. Commercial paper rates 4½@5 per cent. for sixty to ninety days' indorsements, 4@5½ per cent. for choice single names, and 5½@6 per cent. for others.

The Bank of England lost £1,501,000 bullion during the week, and the proportion of reserve to liabilities, which in the previous week was 40.23, became 37.32 per cent. The rate of discount remained unchanged at 4 per cent. The Bank of France gained 7,375,000f gold and lost 2,700,000f silver.

Foreign exchange market was firm. Posted rates were $4.82 for sixty days and $4.86 for demand. Actual rates on Saturday were $4.81½@4.81¾ for sixty days, $4.85@$4.85⅛ for demand, $4.85½@4.86 for cable transfers, and $4.80¾@4.81¼ for commercial.

In Continental Paris francs were quoted at 5.20⅝@5.20 less 1-16 for long and 5.17½ less 1-16@5.18¾ for short, reichsmarks at 94¼@94 5-16 and 94 15-16, and guilders at 40 and 40⅛.

New York exchange was quoted as follows: Chicago, 5c premium; Boston, Par; San Francisco, Slight, 17½c premium; telegraphic, 25c premium; New Orleans, Commercial, 75c discount; bank, par.

OUTSIDE MARKETS.

Net changes for the week of 1 point or more in the more active securities were:

Advances.

Am. Chicle	1	Colo. Fuel & Iron	3
Electric Vehicle	2	Int. Paper pf.	2
Elec. Vehicle pf.	2	Leather pf.	2
Internat. Salt	2	Met. Sec.	2
N. Eng. Gas & C.	2	Va.-Car. C.	2
New Eng. Gas & C. pf.	2

Declines.

Am. Sugar pf.	1	U. S. Rub.	1
Electric Boat	1	Leonard bonds	1
Electric Boat pf.	1	Leonard pf.	1
Inter-State Oil	1	Standard Oil	1

The four days of trading last week developed little activity in the outside market, and although a number of substantial changes occurred, the movement of the market was an irregular one. The phenomenally large transactions on the Stock Exchange seemed to withdraw to some extent interest in the outside market, and curb trading was smaller than during any recent week. One or two days were the dullest probably that the market has had since the revival of business after election. There was not much news to lead the market in one direction or the other and such movements as occurred were in few cases attributable to specific causes. The irregularity of the market was most apparent in several active issues which moved about quite erratically. Distilling of America was notable on this score. The market was also narrower than it has been recently and oftentimes sharp movements occurred on very small transactions. Nevertheless few issues were really weak and in some parts of the market considerable strength showed. The market was particularly strong during the first part of the week, when a number of advances occurred which were subsequently wiped out or considerably reduced.

It seemed to be the opinion of some observers of the market that a diminution in Stock Exchange transactions would result in more attention being given to outside stocks and thus a more favorable market produced. During the past week the outside market was much less active than when trading on the board was on a considerably smaller scale than it has been on recent days. The only group of stocks that showed much more activity than other parts of the list were the industrials of which several showed considerable price movements.

Distilling of America the most active issue of the week followed a very irregular course. Having closed the previous week fractionally under 20 the preferred stock sold as high as 34½, but subsequently most of the gain was lost. The common stock shared the early advance of the preferred but later it also declined rather sharply. There were no definite reports to account for the advances and at times these had the appearance of being due in large part to an effort to improve the quotations for these shares. Nevertheless it was intimated in well-informed quarters that developments of some importance presumably favorable ones are under way and it may be that the buying of the stocks forecasted the announcement of these developments.

Several of the steel stocks were in fairly large demand which resulted in substantial advances, but in nearly every case reactions followed. Crucible Steel, Sheet Steel preferred, and American Bridge, all shared at times in the strength of this group, and in a few of them transactions on some days were larger than any recently recorded. But in none were strength and activity sustained throughout the week. Consolidated Equipment showed some strength, but was not more than fairly active. Sales were made as high as 13¾. American Chicle common continued its upward course, and during the week sold in an odd lot as high as 99, the record price for the stock. It seems to be expected that the already large dividends are to be still further increased. In some quarters a monthly dividend of 1 per cent. on the stock is predicted. The preferred stock seems in much less demand, and has been selling about 10 points below the common. Cramps' Shipyard sold up sharply and scored a substantial gain for the week.

Copper stocks were more or less neglected and on some days the trading in these issues was insignificant. No changes of any moment showed at the close in any of them.

Bank stocks were quieter and showed more irregularity than during recent weeks.

Following are the latest quotations for securities not listed or inactive on the Stock Exchange. These quotations are compiled from reports made to The New York Times by many of the most active and reputable commission brokers. Information is solicited from all persons interested. Ad-

	Bid.	Asked.
Banks.
Atlantic
Bowling Green
Brooklyn
Century
Central Realty Bond & Trust
City
Colonial
Continental
Farmers Loan & Trust
Fifth Avenue
Flatbush
Franklin
Gallatin
Hamilton
Hide & Leather
Importers & Traders
Irving
Leather Manufacturers'
Liberty
Lincoln
Manhattan
Market & Fulton
Mechanics'
Mechanics & Traders
Mercantile
Merchants'
Merchants' Exchange
Metropolis
Mount Morris
Mutual
Nassau
New Amsterdam
New York
New York County
New York Nat. Exchange
New York Produce Exchange
North
Nineteenth Ward
North America
Oriental Pacific
Park
People's Phenix
Plaza
Republic
Riverside
Seaboard
Second
Seventh
Shoe & Leather
State
State of New York
Twelfth Ward
Union Square
Western National
West Side
Yorkville
Trust Companies.
Atlantic
Bowling Green
Brooklyn
Century
Central Realty Bond & Trust
City
Colonial
Continental
Farmers Loan & Trust
Fifth Avenue
Flatbush
Franklin
Gallatin
Hamilton
Kings County
Knickerbocker
Manhattan
Manufacturers
Mercantile Metropolitan
Morton
N. Y. Life Ins. & Trust
Nassau
N. Y. Security & Trust Fund
North American
People's Trust
Real Estate
Standard
Title Guarantee & Trust
Trust Company of America
Trust Company of New York
Union
U. S. Mortgage & Trust
United States
Washington Trust
Williamsburg
Ferry Companies.
Brooklyn Ferry
Brooklyn Ferry bonds
East River Ferry
East River Ferry bs.
Hoboken Ferry 1st
Hoboken Ferry
Hoboken Ferry con. bs.
Tenth & Twenty-third Street
Tenth & Twenty-third St. bds.
Union Ferry
Union Ferry bonds
Insurance Companies.
Citizens'
Commonwealth
Continental
Eagle
Empire City
German-American
Germania
Globe & Rutgers
Greenwich
Hamilton
Hanover
Home
Kings County
Manhattan
New York
Niagara
North River
Pacific
Peter Cooper
Phenix, Brooklyn
Stuyvesant
United States
Westchester
Williamsburg City
Street Railways.
Atlantic Avenue con. tr. ctfs.
Atlantic Avenue con. tr. bs.
Atlantic Avenue imp. bs.
Brooklyn St. R. R. Ferry stock
Brooklyn St. R. R. Ferry con. bs.
Broadway & Seventh Avenue
Broadway & Seventh Av. 1st

Continued on Page 9.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Continued from Page 6.

Street Railways—Continued.

	Bid.	Asked.
Broadway & Seventh Av. 2d	110	113
Broadway Surface 1st 5s	115	118
Broadway Surface 2d	102	103
Brooklyn, Bath & W. E. 6s	100	102
Brooklyn City R. R. 1st m. 5s	113	114
Brooklyn City Railroad	233	234
Brooklyn City & New. 1st	115	117
B'klyn, Queens Co. & Sub. 5s	108	110
Buffalo Crosstown 5s	112	115
Central Crosstown	265	280
Central Crosstown 1st 6s	123	125
Central Park, N. & E. River	200	202
Central Park, N. & E. River 7s	104½	105½
Christopher & Tenth St.	185	...
Cleveland Electric con. 5s	104	106
Coney Island & Brook. stock	328	332
Coney Island & Brook. 1st 5s	103	104
Consolidated Traction of N. J.	58	60
Con. Traction of N. J. 5s	108	109
Columbus Railway	32½	35
Columbus Railway pf	91	92½
D. D., E. B. & B. stock	120	128
D. D., E. R. & B. 5s	115	118
D. D., E. B. & B. 5 p. c. scelp	100	102
Eighth Avenue Railroad	390	410
Eighth Ave. 6 per cent. scrip	106	109
42d St. & Grand St.	398	405
42d St., Man. & St. N. Av. 1st	113	115
42d St., Man. & St. N. Av. 2d	99	101
Jersey City, Hoboken & Pat	20	21¼
Nas Elec. 1st 5s, Brooklyn	107	111
Nassau Electric 4s	88	90
New Orleans Traction com.	22	...
New Orleans Traction pf	94	96
Ninth Avenue	198	205
North Jersey Street Ry.	24½	25½
North Jersey Street Ry. 4s	83	84
North Shore Traction com.	15	19
North Shore Traction pf	84	86
Orange & Passaic Val. bonds	93	95
Rochester Railway	20	23
Rochester Railway con. 5s	106½	108
St. Louis Transit	19½	20
Second Avenue stock	202	205
Second Avenue consol. 5s	118	119
Second Avenue 1st m. 5s	106½	107½
Sixth Avenue stock	200	210
Southern Boulevard 5s, 1945	110¼	113½
South Ferry 1st 5s	106	108
Steinway R. R. Co. 6 p. c. 1st	117	118
Syracuse Rapid Transit	11	15
Syracuse Rapid Transit pf	34	37
Twenty-third Street	395	410
Twenty-third Street deb. 5s	102½	103½
23th & 29th St. 5s, 1996	114	115
Union Railway 1st 5s	113	114
United Rys. of St. Louis pf	69	71
United Rys. of St. Louis 4s	83	86½
United Traction, Providence	109	111
United Trac., Prov., boods	113½	114½
Weatchester Electric 5s, 1943	108	110
Worcester Traction common	34½	35½
Worceater Traction pf	107	108

Industrial and Miscellaneous.

	Bid.	Asked.
Acker, Merrall & Condit	100	102
Am. Agricultural Chemical	27½	28
Am. Agricultural Chem. pf	79½	80½
American Bank Note	50	53
American Bicycle	6½	6¾
American Bicycle pf	26	28
American Bicycle bonds	73	75
American Bridge	45¼	45½
American Bridge pf	95	95½
American Chicle	85	90
American Chicle pf	75	82
American Hide & Leather 6s	90½	91
American Hide & Leather	10	11
American Hide & Leather pf	37½	39
American Thread pf	4	4½
American Type Founders	57	62
Anthracite Coal	8¾	8½
Arlington Copper	4	5
Barney & Smith Car	15	18
Barney & Smith Car pf	103	108
Barney & Smith Car bonds	107½	...
British Columbia Copper	21	21¼
British Exchequer 3s	98	90
California Copper	1¾	2
Cast Iron Pipe	5	5½
Cast Iron Pipe pf	30½	31½
Central & South Am. Tel	102	104
Central Fireworks	22	25
Central Fireworks pf	70	75
Chesebrough Mfg	300	300
Compressed Air	44	48
Consolidated Equipment	13½	14
Consolidated Fireworks	10	15
Consolidated Fireworks pf	60	70
Consolidated Rubber Tire	3	5
Consolidated Rubber Tire pf	25	32
Continental Tobacco deb	104	105
Cramps' Ship and Engine Bldg.	77	79
Crucible Steel	21¼	22¾
Crucible Steel pf	78	81
Distilling Co. of America	6¾	6¾
Distilling Co. of America pf	20	20½
Electric Boat	27	30
Electric Boat pf	68	80
Electric Vehicle	19¾	21
Electric Vehicle pf	45	50
Electro-Pneumatic	3¾	5
Flemington Coal & Coke	18	20
General Carriage	4	6
General Chemical	69½	72
General Chemical pf	95	98
German Treasury 4s	100	100½
Havana Commercial	10	11
Havana Commercial pf	44	46
Hecker-Jones-Jewell bonds	75	80
Hudson River Telephone	118	120
Illinois Transportation	¾	1¾
International Silver pf	45	50
Inter-State Oil	10	15
Iron Steamboat	2	5
Iron Steamboat bonds	55	60
Lorillard pf	100	...
Markeen Copper	1½	2
Mexican Nat. Construction pf	13½	14½
Nat. Enameling & Stamping	17	20
Nat. Enameling & Stamp. pf	50	60
Nat. Gramophone	5	12
Nat. Sugar pf	100	105
New England Transportation	3¼	3¾
New York Transportation	5	7
N. Y. & N. J. Telephone	170	175
Otis Elevator	37¾	38
Otis Elevator pf	69	70
Pitts., Bess. & Lake Erie	27½	30½
Procter & Gamble, new	220	225
Procter & Gamble pf	100	105
Royal Copper	11	12
Retsof	10	15
Retsof bonds	14	20
Royal Baking Powder pf	110	115
Rubber Goods	10	12½
Rubber Goods pf	80	85
Safety Car Heat. & Lighting	113	115
Seaboard Air Line 4s	70¼	70¾
Seaboard Air Line com	10	12
Seaboard Air Line pf	23¼	24
Singer Manufacturing, (new)	240	250
Southern Light & Traction	60	70
Standard Coupler	30	40
Standard Coupler pf	120	130
Standard Oil	650	660
Storage Power	11	15
Swift & Co.	100	105
Swift & Co. 5s	100	102
Tel. Tel. & C. A., $10 paid	4	5
Tennessee Copper	17	17½
Texas & Pacific Coal	30	40
Trenton Potteries	60	65
Trenton Potteries pf	80	90
Union Copper	4	5
United Fruit	90	95
United Fruit pf	100	105
United States Envelope	30	40
United States Envelope pf	90	100
United States Envelope 2d pf	50	60
United States Envelope bonds	90	95
United States Rubber	10	12
United States Rubber 1st pf	70	75
United States Rubber 2d pf	30	35
United States Rubber bonds	90	95
Va.-Carolina Chemical	70	75
Va.-Carolina Chemical pf	110	115
Va.-Carolina Chemical bonds	100	105
Western Union	90	95
Western Union 5s	100	102
Wheeling & Lake Erie 2d pf	20	25
Wheeling & Lake Erie bonds	70	75
Wheeling Steel	10	15
Wheeling Steel pf	50	60
Wheeling Steel bonds	80	85
Wickwire Spencer Steel	5	10
Wickwire Spencer Steel pf	30	40
Wickwire Spencer Steel bonds	70	75
Yukon Gold	2	3

INACTIVE STOCKS—LAST TRANSACTIONS NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

The following table gives the range of prices in 1900 for stocks in which there have been no dealings during the past week. Where no sale has occurred this year the date of the last transaction is given:

Closing Dec. 20. Bid.	Asked.	STOCKS.	Amount Outstanding.	Last Dividend.	Range, in 1900 Highest.			Lowest.			Last Sale.
150	155	Adams Express	$12,000,000	Dec. 1, 1900	4	140	Nov.	12	114	Jan.	9	*150 Dec. 19, 1900
198	..	Albany & Sus	3,500,000	July, 1900	3½	*205	Dec.	15	*204	July	6	*205 Dec. 15, 1900
..	..	American Beet Sugar	15,000,000			*28	Nov.	13	*28	Nov.	13	*28 Nov. 13, 1900
..	..	American Beet Sugar pf	4,000,000	Oct. 1, 1900	1½	76	Nov.	17	75	Nov.	17	75 Nov. 17, 1900
175	200	Americal Coal	1,500,000	Sep. 1, 1900	4	175	Dec.	18	130	Sept.	24	175 Dec. 18, 1900
..	..	Am. Spirits Mfg	27,983,300			4	Feb.	15	1¼	Sept.	6	*8 Sept. 25, 1900
..	..	Am Spirits Mfg pf	8,985,300			*14	Sept.	26	*14	Sept.	26	*14 Sept. 26, 1900
94	97	Am. Tel. & Cable	14,000,000	Dec. 1, 1900	1½	98½	Dec.	6	80	Oct.	3	98½ Dec. 6, 1900
..	..	At. & Charlotte Air Line	1,900,000	Sept. 6, 1900	3	..			..			*121 Nov. 28, 1900
..	..	Beech Creek	5,025,000	Oct., 1900	1	..			..			100 Oct. 31, 1900
108	..	Boston & N. Y. Air Line pf	1,000,000	July, 1900	2	..			..			108½ Nov. 14, 1900
..	..	B'lyn Wharf & W pf, Series B	5,000,000			..			..			21 Feb. 16, 1900
120	125	Buff., Roch & Pitts pf	6,000,000	Aug 15, 1900	3	125	Dec.	18	95¾	Mar	31	125 Dec. 18, 1900
130	..	Bur., C. R. & Nor.	2,500,000	Aug 1, 1900	6	137½	Nov	14	137½	Nov	14	137½ Nov 14, 1900
102¾	..	Capital Traction	12,000,000	Oct 1, 1900	1	*101½	Oct	11	91½	Feb	26	*101½ Oct. 11, 1900
..	..	Central Coal & Coke	1,500,000			44	Jan	15	37	April	25	38 Oct. 25, 1900
..	..	Chi Con. Traction	15,000,000			4¾	Mar	3	172	Feb	8	173 Dec. 17, 1900
178	182	Chi., St. P. M. & O. pf	12,000,000	Aug 25, 1900	3½	..			..			102½ May 22, 1900
..	..	Chicago Stock Yards	6,500,000	Oct 1, 1900	2	..			..			120 June 4, 1900
..	..	Chicago Stock Yards pf	6,000,000	Oct 1, 1900	1½	104	Dec	3	*104½	July	3	*107½ Dec. 3, 1900
187	..	Cleveland & Pittsburg	11,263,700	Dec 1, 1900	1½	95	April	10	2	Nov	26	1 Nov. 26, 1900
..	..	Col Coal & I Dev	5,500,000			25	Mar	28	2	Sept	24	2 Oct. 24, 1900
..	..	Col. Coal & I. Dev pf	5,000,000			25	Jan	17	117	Oct	10	121 Dec. 17, 1900
120	122	Col Fuel & I. pf	2,000,000	Dec 20, 1900	6	121½	May	4	9	Jan.	4	11½ June 12, 1900
..	..	Colorado Midland	3,630,200			25	May	21	23	Jan.	5	25 June 12, 1900
..	..	Colorado Midland pf	6,984,400			25	Jan.	3	25	Jan.	5	25 June 12, 1900
..	..	Col & Hock. Coal & Iron pf	2,500,000			100	Jan.	17	*100	June	7	*100 June 7, 1900
165	..	Commercial Cable	13,333,300	Oct. 1, 1900	1½	60	Dec	10	50	Feb	16	60 Dec. 10, 1900
60	..	Consolidation Coal	10,250,000	Feb 1, 1900	2	..			..			100 June 28, 1900
100	115	Des Moines & Ft. D. pf	700,000	Aug 1, 1900	7	100	June	14	90	Sept	25	100 Dec. 20, 1900
..	..	Detroit City Gas	2,941,500	Nov 15, 1900	3½	6¾	Mar	5	4	June	2	5¾ Dec. 10, 1900
5¼	6	Dul., S. S. & Al.	12,000,000			..			..			..
375	425	Eighth Avenue	1,000,000	Oct	3½	*400	Jan	26	*385	July	9	*385 July 9, 1900
..	..	Erie Tel. & Tel	10,000,000	Oct 1, 1900	1½	175	Feb	28	150	Jan	3	*150 Dec 28, 1900
..	..	Gold & Stock Tel	5,000,000	Oct.	1½	..			..			*100½ Dec. 14, 1897
..	..	H. B. Claflin 1st pf	2,000,000	Nov 1, 1900	1½	*105½	July	17	*101	June	28	*105½ July 17, 1900
..	..	H. B. Claflin 2d pf	2,500,000	Nov 1, 1900	1½	*100	Sept	13	*100	Sept	13	*100 Sept. 13, 1900
..	..	Hawaiian Sugar	10,000,000	Nov 24, 1900	2½	3			2			*2 May 28, 1900
70	80	Homestake	21,000,000	Dec 28, 1900	20c	70½	Nov	30	65	Dec	6	65 Dec 17, 1900
102	106	Ill. Central leased line	10,000,000	July	2	103½	one	7	100½	Sept	25	*102 Nov 7, 1900
22	25	Keokuk & Des Moines pf	1,324,000	July 2	3½	28	Dec	20	14½	Oct	10	28 Dec. 20, 1900
..	..	Keokuk & Western	4,000,000	Jan. 1, 1900	1	..			..			25 Jan 25, 1900
..	20	Knickerbocker Ice (Chi)	1,000,000	Jan. 1, 1900	1	40	Feb	16	10	Nov	20	15 Nov 20, 1900
47	55	Knickerbocker Ice pf (Chi)	3,000,000	July 2, 1900	4	60	Feb	6	50	Nov	20	50 Nov. 20, 1900
73	74	Laclede Gas	9,011,400	Sep 15, 1900	2	80	Jan	6	65	May	10	70 Dec 12, 1900
12	16	Manhattan Beach	1,000,000			10½	May	26	6¼	June	20	16 Dec. 17, 1900
75	80	Maryland Coal pf	1,875,000	Dec 28, 1900	3	81	Mar	22	74	Sept.	10	79 Dec. 4, 1900
..	..	Mergenthaler Linotype	10,000,000	Dec 24, 1900	5	..			..			*182 May 31, 1900
106	..	Michigan Central	18,720,000	July 20, 1900	2	*115	June	6	105	July	23	*105 Dec 10, 1900
53	58	Minn., St. P. & S. S. M. pf	7,000,000			60	April	24	47	Nov.	1	52 Dec. 10, 1900
190	192	Morris & Essex	15,000,000	July 1, 1900	3½	180½	May	8	184	June	25	180½ Nov. 10, 1900
..	..	Nash., Chat. & St. L.	10,000,000	Nov 1, 1900	1	45	June	29	43	June	27	*39 Dec. 19, 1900
..	..	National Linseed Oil	1,000,000			..			..			5¾ June 5, 1900
..	..	New Jersey & New York Tel	5,000,000	Oct. 15, 1900	1½	..			..			*120 Jan. 26, 1897
..	..	New York & Harlem	2,000,000	Oct. 1, 1900	2	415	July	12	405	July	1	413 July 12, 1900
..	..	N. Y. Mutual Gas	3,500,000			200	Dec.	3	200	Dec.	3	200 Dec. 3, 1900
..	..	Norfolk & Southern	2,000,000	Oct. 10, 1900	1	..			..			65¾ Nov. 14, 1900
25	33	Ohio & Ind. Nat. & Ill. Gas	9,000,000	Dec. 1, 1900	1	31½	May	15	25	May	21	*24 Dec. 15, 1900
..	..	Omaha & St. Louis	621,000			..			..			7 Nov. 6, 1900
6	7	Ontario Mining	15,000,000	Apr. 20, 1900	30c	9	Feb.	3	6	Nov.	26	6 Nov. 26, 1900
..	..	Oregon R. R. & Navigation	16,357,000	July 2, 1900	1	..			..			*95 Nov. 15, 1900
..	..	Oregon R. R. & Navigation pf	1,155,400	July 2, 1900	2	..			..			75½ Oct. 7, 1900
60	68	Pacific Coast 2d pf	3,914,400	Nov. 1, 1900	1	60½	Oct.	15	57	May	10	*98 Dec. 18, 1900
..	..	Panama	7,000,000	Jan. 3, 1896	2	..			..			*98 Sept. 22, 1897
..	..	Park Steel Co. pf	5,000,000	Dec. 1, 1900	1½	..			..			*110 June 28, 1900
..	..	Père Marquette	14,145,300			25	Dec.	20	20	Jan.	20	25 Dec. 20, 1900
..	..	Philadelphia Company	14,719,950	Jon. 20, 1900	2½	74	Jan.	19	74	Jan.	19	74 Jan. 19, 1900
..	..	P. Lorillard pf	2,000,000	Oct. 1, 1900	2	..			..			*117 May 16, 1900
187	..	Pitts., Ft. W. & Chi	19,714,200	Oct. 2, 1900	1¾	188	Feb.	16	186	Mar.	16	*185 Nov. 5, 1900
..	..	Pitts., McKeesport & Yough	4,000,000	July, 1900	3	..			..			*187 Mar. 3, 1899
..	..	Quicksilver	5,708,700			2½	Mar.	29	1½	Aug.	1	1¾ Sept. 5, 1900
..	..	Quicksilver pf	4,291,300	July 16, 1900	½	10½	Mar.	28	7¾	Oct.	22	9 Nov. 20, 1900
195	..	Rens. & Saratoga	10,000,000	July 1, 1900	4	200	Dec.	10	200	Dec.	10	200 Dec. 10, 1900
65	..	Rio Grande West	10,000,000	Sep. 1, 1900	5	65	Aug.	17	43½	Jan.	27	65 Nov. 19, 1900
134	..	Rome, Wat. & Ogdensburg	10,000,000	Nov. 15, 1900	1½	133½	Dec.	11	131¾	Mar.	29	133¼ Dec. 11, 1900
200	225	Sixth Avenue	2,000,000	July 1, 1900	2½	..			..			*200 Mar. 15, 1900
..	..	Southern & Atlantic Tel	600,525	July, 1900	2½	..			..			200 Feb. 17, 1900
..	..	Texas Central	2,000,000			2¼	April	11	2¼	April	11	2¼ Apr. 11, 1900
..	..	Texas Central pf	1,000,000	Jan. 15, 1900	4	4½	April	9	4½	April	9	4½ Apr. 9, 1900
..	..	Tol., Pen. & West	1,000,000			20	Jan.	24	20	Jan.	24	20 Dec. 24, 1900
142	145	Twin City R. T. pf	3,000,000	Oct. 1, 1900	1½	148	Dec.	7	138	Jan.	3	138 Dec. 7, 1900
..	..	Union Ferry	2,000,000	Oct. 1, 1900	½	..			..			..
..	..	United N. J. R. & C. Canal	21,000,000	Oct. 15, 1900	2½	272½	Jan.	11	260	Oct.	9	260 Oct. 9, 1900
..	..	U. S. Flour Milling	2,000,000			15	May	15	5	Nov.	26	5 Nov. 26, 1900
..	..	U. S. Flour Milling pf	4,000,000			100	May	15	50	Nov.	26	50 Nov. 26, 1900
..	..	Utica & Black River	2,000,000	Sep. 15, 1900	3½	135	Jan.	3	135	Jan.	3	135 Jan. 3, 1900
..	..	Wagner Sleeping	1,000,000	July		..			..			*115 Nov. 11, 1900
..	..	West Chicago Street	10,000,000	Nov 15, 1900	2½	..			..			90 Dec. 14, 1900
..	..	Western Gas	4,000,000	July 15, 1900	2½	..			..			100 Dec. 14, 1900

*Sales of less than 100 shares. All stocks in the table are $100 except Beech Creek, New York and Harlem, Philadelphia Company, Pacific Coast 2d pref. and Preferred, Wagner Sleeping, Pere Marquette, Cleveland and Pittsburg, Detroit City Gas, and the Issues of which the Southern and Atlantic Telegraph and American Coal are $50 par.

[redacted]

Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities.

[redacted]

THE WEEK'S TRANSACTIONS.

[redacted]

Sales at the Stock Exchange for One Hour Each Day.

[redacted]

BANK STATEMENT.

The weekly statement of the New York City Associated Banks, issued Saturday, showed as follows in the actual figures of the banks:

[redacted]

The following is a comparison of the averages of the last week with the week preceding and with last year:

[redacted]

Sales at the end of each week in the present year and the corresponding dates in 1899 and 1898.

[redacted]

CITY TRUST CO

OF NEW YORK.

36 WALL STREET.

CAPITAL..... $1,000,000
(Entirely Invested in City of New York Bonds.)
SURPLUS..... $1,000,000

OFFICERS.

Jas. Ross Curran, President.
John D. Crimmins, Vice-President.
George R. Sheldon, 2d Vice-President.
Arthur Terry, Secretary.
Walter W. Lee, Asst. Secretary.

DIRECTORS.

John D. Crimmins, Henry O. Havemeyer
Frank H. Platt, Homer N. Hayes
George R. Sheldon, Alfred G. Jones
Edward Kyle, William H. Gelhorn
Peter Doelger, Eugene Kelly
William Halls, Jr., Edwin Wm. Gould
James D. Layng, Elverton R. Chapman
William R. Grace, Charles V. Fornes
Hugh Kelly, Frank R. Lawrence
Charles W. Morse, Jas. Ross Curran

KEY TO BOND LIST.

The following is a list of bonds which do not appear in their proper alphabetical order in the "Complete Bond Quotation List" on Pages 4 and 5, but are here so arranged. Opposite each is placed the name of the system under which they are given in the table referred to:

Railroad Bonds.

Road.	System
Alabama Central—	Southern Ry
Alabama Midland—	Sav., Fla & Western
Albany & Susq.—	Delaware & Hudson
Allegheny Valley—	Penn R R
Allegheny & Western—	Buff., Roch & Pitts
Am. Dock & Imp.—	Central of N J
Atlantic & Danville—	Southern Ry
Atlantic & Yadkin—	Southern Ry
Austin & Northwestern—	Southern Pacific
Battle Creek & Stur.—	Michigan Central
Beach Creek—	N. Y. Central & Hud
Belev. & Carondelet—	Illinois Central
Booneville Bld. Co.—	Mo., Kan & Tex
Brooklyn & Montauk—	Long Island
Brunswick & Western—	Sav., Fla & West
Buffalo, New York & Erie -	Erie
Buffalo & Southwestern—	Erie
Carb. & Shawneetown—	Illinois Central
Carolina Central—	Seaboard & Roanoke
Carthage & Adirondack—	N. Y. Central & Hud
Ced. Rap., Ia. F. & N.—	Bur., C. R. & N.
Central Ohio—	Baltimore & Ohio
Central Pacific—	Southern Pacific Co
Chicago & Erie—	Erie
Chicago & St. Louis—	Atch., Top. & Santa Fe
Chi., St. Louis & New Orleans—	Illinois Cent
Chi., St. Louis & Pittsburg—	Penn Co
Cin., Ind., St. L. & C.—	C., C., C. & St. L.
Cin., Sandusky & Cleve.—	C., C., C. & St. L.
Clearfield & Mahoning—	Buff., Roch & Pitts
Cleveland & Marietta—	Penn R R
Cleveland & Pittsburg—	Penn Co
Columbia & Greenville—	Southern Railway
Col. & Hocking Valley -	Hocking Val Ry
Col. Connect. & Term.—	Norfolk & Western
Dakota & Great Southern -	C., M. & St. P.
Dallas & Waco—	Mo., Kan & Texas
Del. Riv. R. R. & Bdge Co —	Penn R R
Des Moines & Fort Dodge—	C., M. & St. P.
Des Moines & Minneapolis	Chi. & N. W.
Detroit, Minn. & Toledo	L. S. & M. S.
Eastern Railway of Minn	N. P. M. & M.
East Tenn., Va. & Ga.	Southern Ry
Elix., Lex. & Big Sandy	C. & O.
Elmira, Cortland & Northern -	Lehigh Valley
Erie & Pittsburg -	Penn Co
Escanaba & Lake Superior	Chi. & N. W.
Fargo & Southern—	Chi., M. & St. P.
Fort Smith & W. R. R.—	St. L. & S. F.
Gal., Harrisburg & S. A.—	South. Pac. Co.
Georgia Pacific—	Southern Railway
Gila Val., G. & Northern	South. Pac. Co.
Gouverneur & Oswego 1st gtd g. 5s	N. Y. C.
Grand Rapids & Ind.	Penn Co
Grey's Point Terminal -	St. L. Southwn
Hannibal & St. Joseph -	C., B. & Quincy
Housatonic R. R.—	N. Y., N. H. & H.
Houston, E. & W. Texas -	Southern Pacific
Houston & Texas Central	Southern Pacific
Iowa Midland—	Chicago & Northwest
Jefferson R. R.—	Erie
Kalamazoo, All. & G. R.—	L. S. & M. S.
Kanawha & Michigan—	Toledo & Ohio Central
Kansas City & Pacific-	Missouri, Kan & Texas
Kansas Midland—	St. Louis & San Francisco
Kentucky Central—	Louisville & Nashville
Keokuk & Des Moines—	C., R. I. & P.
Knoxville & Ohio—	Southern Railway
Lake Shore & Michigan Southern	N. Y. C. & H.
Lehigh & Hudson River—	Central of New Jersey
Lehigh & Wilkesbarre—	Central of New Jersey
Leroy & Caney Valley—	Missouri Valley
Long Dock—	Erie
La. & Mo. River—	Chicago & Alton
Lo., New Albany & Chicago	Chicago, Ind. & Lo.
Mahoning Coal—	L. S. & M. Southern
McKeesport & B. Varnon—	N. Y. C. & Hudson
Metropolitan Elevated—	Manhattan Railway
Michigan Central-	New York Central & Hudson
Midland of New Jersey—	Erie
Mil., Lake Shore & Western—	Chicago & N. W.
Mil. & Madison—	Chicago & N. W.
Mil. & Northern—	Chicago, Mil. & St. Paul
Mil. & St. Paul—	Chicago, Mil. & St. Paul
Minn. & St. L. gtd —	Bur., C. R. & N.
Minneapolis Union—	St. P. & M.
Mississippi River Bridge—	Chicago & Alton
Mohawk & Malone—	N. Y. C. & H.
Monongahela River—	Baltimore & Ohio
Montana Central—	St. P. & Man.
Morgan's Louisiana & Texas—	S. Pacific Co
Morris & Essex—	Del., Lack. & W.
Nash., Flor. & Shef.—	Louisville & Nashville
New H. & Derby—	N. Y., N. H. & H.
N. J. Junction R. R.—	N. Y. & H.
Newport & Cincinnati Bridge Co.	Penn Co.
N. Y., B. & Man. Beach—	Long Island
N. Y. & Greenwood Lake—	Erie
N. Y. & Harlem —	N. Y. C. & H.
N. Y., Lack. & Western—	Del., L. & W.
N. Y., Lake Erie & Western	Erie
N. Y. & New England—	N. Y., N. H. & H.
N. Y. & Northern—	N. Y. C. & H.
N. Y. & Putnam—	N. Y. C. & H.
N. Y. & Rockaway Beach—	Long Island
N. Y., Sus. & Western	Erie
N. Y., Texas & Mexico—	Southern Pacific Co.
Northern Illinois—	Chicago & Northwestern
Northern Ohio—	Lake Erie & Western
Northern Railway, Cal.—	South Pacific
North Wisconsin—	C., St. P., M. & O.
Northern & Montreal—	N. Y. C. & H.
Ohio, Ind. & W.—	C., C., C. & St. L.
Oregon Railwa. & Navigation	Union Pac
Oregon & Cal.	Southern Pacific
Oregon Short Line—	Union Pacific
Oswego & Rome—	N. Y. C. & H.
Ottumwa, C. F. & St. P.—	Chi. & N. W.
Pacific of Missouri—	Missouri Pacific
Pensacola & Atlantic—	Louisville & Nash.
Peoria & Eastern—	C., C., C. & St. Louis
Pitts., Cin., Chi. & St. L.—	Penn Co
Pitts., Fort W. & Chi.—	Penn Co
Pitts., McKeesp. & Yough. -	N. Y. C. & H.
Rensselaer & Saratoga—	Del. & Hudson
Richmond & Danville—	Southern Railway
Rochester & Pittsburg -	Buff., Roch. & Pitts
Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg	N. Y. C. & H.
St. Louis & Cairo—	Mobile & Ohio
St. Louis & Iron Mount—	Missouri Pac
St. L., K. C. & N., St. Chas. Bge —	Wabash
St. L. Merch. Bge.—	Term. R. R. of St. L.
St. Louis Southern—	Illinois Central
St. Paul & Duluth—	Northern Pacific
St. Paul & North. Pacific—	Northern Pacific
St. Paul & Sioux City—	C., St. P., M. & O.
San Antonio & Aransas Pass—	South Pac Co
Scioto Val. & N. E.—	Norfolk & Western
Sherman, Shreveport & South —	Mo., K. & T.
Silver Springs, O. & G.—	Sav., Florida & W.
South Carolina & Ga.—	Southern Railway
So. & No. Alabama—	Louisville & Nashville
Sunbury & Lewistown—	Pennsylvania R. R.
Syracuse, Binghamton & N. Y.—	Del., L. & W.
Tebo & Neosho—	Missouri, Kansas & Texas
Texas & New Orleans—	Southern Pacific Co.
United N. J. R. R. & C. Co.—	Penn R. R.
Utah Central—	Rio Grande Western
Utah Northern—	Union Pacific
Utica & Black River—	N. Y. Cent. & Hud.
Verdigris Val., Ind. & W.—	Missouri Pacific
Virginia Midland—	Southern Railway
Warren Railroad—	Del., Lack. & Western
Wash., Ohio & Western —	Southern Railway
Washington Central—	North'n Railway
Western North Carolina—	Southern Railway
West Shore—	N. Y. Central & Hudson
West Virginia & Pittsburg -	Baltimore & Ohio
Wilkesbarre & Eastern—	Erie R. R.

FIDELITY TRUST COMPANY,

NEWARK, N. J.

Capital $1,000,000.00
Surplus and Undivided Profits, 1,201,555.93

ALLOWS INTEREST ON daily balances of $1,000 or over, subject to check at sight, and transacts a general banking business.

ACTS THOROUGHLY BY LAW as and as Executor, Trustee, Administrator, Guardian, Assignee, Receiver, and in all fiduciary capacities, both under court and personal appointment.

TAKES ENTIRE CHARGE of Real and Personal Estates.

RENTS SAFES AND rooms suitable for well-guarded Burglar and Fireproof Vaults.

GUARANTEES TITLES of Real Estate throughout New Jersey.

Acts as Trustee under mortgages, Registrar and Transfer Agent of Stocks and Bonds of Corporations.

OFFICERS:

UZAL H. McCARTER, President
JOHN F. DRYDEN, Vice-President
JEROME TAYLOR, 2d Vice-President and Trust Officer
FREDERICK W. BINNER, Secretary and Treasurer

DIRECTORS:

John F. Dryden, Charles A. Peirce,
Julien W. Alexander, Jerome Taylor,
James H. Hyde, Herbert Ballantine,
Leslie D. Ward, William N. Coler, Jr.
Thomas N. McCarter, Thomas N. McCarter, Jr.
Edgar B. Ward, William H. Staats,
William Schoverer, Forrest F. Dryden,
Schuyler N. Jackson, Henry P. Redmond,
Uzal H. McCarter, Bernard Stratton.

REAL ESTATE TRUST CO.

OF NEW YORK,

No. 20 Nassau Street.

Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits, $900,000.

DESIGNATED LEGAL DEPOSITORY.
Allows interest on deposits.
Acts as Executor, Trustee, Guardian, Trustee Agent, Registrar, &c.

TRUSTEES:

HENRY C. SWORDS, President
H. H. COMMAN, Vice-President

James M. Varnum, Douglas Robinson,
Charles C. Burke, John Bentley,
Horace B. Ely, Charles F. Brown,
Lispenard Stewart, George G. de Witt,
Ebenezer A. Nelson, Henry E. Pierrepont,
Henry Evans Morris, Percy Pyne,
Edwin A. Stevens, Franklin B. Lord,
Charles A. Peabody, Jr., J. Rumsey Hammond,
Charles A. Schermerhorn, Lewis Cass Ledyard,
James J. Hagerman, Harrison B. Worthington,
Joel F. Freeman, Frank S. Witherbee.

HENRY E. PIERREPONT, Secretary.

Letters of Credit

IN

Pounds Sterling

AND Francs

ISSUED BY

BLAIR & CO.,

33 WALL STREET, NEW YORK

HAVEN & STOUT

Members New York Stock Exchange.

1 Nassau Street, Cor. Wall St.,

Members of the New York Stock Exchange.

BONDS, STOCKS, COTTON, GRAIN.

P. J. Goodhart & Co.,

Dealers in

Bank & Trust Co. Stocks

Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.

59 WALL STREET.

William T. Floyd. Frederic P. Moore.

Floyd & Moore

BANKERS AND BROKERS.

Members N. Y. Stock Exchange

71 Broadway.

Stoppani & Hotchkin,

Members New York Consolidated Stock Exchange

68 BROADWAY, N. Y.

Telephone 3678 Cortlandt

Orders executed for investment or on margin.

STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, COTTON

Branch Office, N. E. cor. Broadway and 26th St.

WARNER & CO.

High-Class Investment Bonds 4% and 5%.

Loans made on approved collateral.

Stocks and bonds bought for cash or on margin.

39 Broadway, Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.

TELEPHONE 1314 BROAD.

Road	System
Wilmar & Rum Falls	St. P. M. & M.
Winona & St. Paul	Chicago & N. W.

Miscellaneous Bonds.

Cahaba Coal Min. Co.	Tenn. Coal Iron & R. R.
Chi. Gas Light & Coke Co.	People's Gas Light & Coke
Clearfield Bituminous Coal	N. Y. Central & Hud.
Consumers Gas Co.	Penn. Gas & Fuel Co.
De Bardeleben Coal & Iron Co.	Tenn. Coal Iron & R. R.
Edison El. Ill. N. Y.	N. Y. Gas, El. L. & P.
Edison Ill. Brook.	Mutual Gas, El. L. & P.
Equit. Gas & Fuel	Penn. Gas & Fuel Co.
Mutual Fuel Gas Co.	Penn. Gas & Fuel Co.
Mutual Union Tel. Co.	Western Union

Finances of the Bank of Spain

MADRID, Dec. 29. The report of the Bank of Spain for the week ended yesterday shows the following changes (gold in hand increase, silver in hand decrease, specie notes in circulation increase, loans and specie Issue Travelers' Letters of Credit Available in all Parts of the World.

Buy & Sell Sterling Exchange, Cable and Mail Transfers, Bills and Sight Drafts.

Agreement and Circular Notes bought and sold.

Quotations Furnished for Purchase, Sale or Exchange.

Spencer Trask & Co.,

BANKERS,

27 & 29 PINE ST., NEW YORK,

Transact a general banking business, act as fiscal agents for corporations and negotiate issues of railroad and other corporation securities.

INVESTMENT SECURITIES.

Members of New York Stock Exchange.

BRANCH OFFICE: 47 STATE ST., ALBANY.

VERMILYE & CO.,

BANKERS.

NASSAU AND PINE STREETS, NEW YORK CITY.
53 Congress Street, Boston.

Dealers in U. S. Government Bonds and other Investment Securities.
Deposits Received and Interest Allowed on Balances
Subject to draft at sight.

HURLBUTT, HATCH & CO.,

BANKERS

Members New York Stock Exchange. 71 Broadway, New York City.

Stocks and Bonds bought and sold for cash or on margin.

Interest allowed on deposits subject to check. Cable address, Hurlbutt, New York. Telephone No. 1314 Cortlandt.

BOODY, McLELLAN & CO.,

BANKERS

MEMBERS OF THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

INVESTMENT SECURITIES.

Cable Address, "Boody, New York." Telephone No. 1313 Cortlandt.

H. B. Hollins & Co.,

WALL & BROAD STS., NEW YORK.

Letters of Credit

FOR TRAVELLERS

Available in all parts of the world

Draw Bills of Exchange and make Cable Transfers.

Lincoln, Caswell & Co.,

SUCCESSORS TO

Charles T. Wing & Co.

BONDS

18 Wall St., New York.

7 KILBY ST., BOSTON, MASS.

KOUNTZE BROTHERS,

BANKERS,

Broadway & Cedar St., NEW YORK,

BUY AND SELL

Investment Securities.

Receive accounts of Corporations, Firms and Individuals on favorable terms.

Make loans against approved collateral.

LETTERS OF CREDIT.

A. A. HOUSMAN & CO.,

MEMBERS OF THE

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE,

20 BROAD STREET.

Branch Office, No. 3 Astor Court.

NEW YORK.

Geo. H. Holt & Co.,

10 WALL ST., N. Y.

BANKERS,

Members of New York Stock Exchange.

Dealers in Investment Securities. Purchase bond issues of solvent corporations, and act as Fiscal and Transfer Agents. Execute orders at the New York Stock Exchange, either for cash or on margin. Daily market letter issued. Correspondence solicited.

DOUGLAS & JONES,

Members New York Stock Exchange,

ESTABLISHED 1880.

24 Broad St., New York City.

STOCKS AND BONDS BOUGHT AND SOLD ON COMMISSION AT THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE AND CARRIED ON MARGIN.

Daily Market Letter on Application.

CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.

HENRY CLEWS & CO.,

BANKERS,

11, 13, 15 and 17 Broad St.,

Deposits received subject to check. Interest allowed on balances. Act as Financial Agents for Corporations and Investors. Negotiate Railroad, Government and other Investment Bonds bought and sold.

FOURTH STREET NATIONAL BANK

OF PHILADELPHIA.

Capital $1,500,000
Surplus and Profits, 1,950,000
Deposits 29,000,000

A. M. Kidder & Co.,

BANKERS, 18 WALL ST., N. Y.

Dealers in Investment Securities.

Members of the New York Stock Exchange

Dominick & Dominick,

120 BROADWAY.

Members of the N. Y. Stock Exchange.

Brokers in Stocks, Grain, Investment Securities.

Boston, Louisville, Cincinnati

Curtis & Sanger, Halsey & Halsey, Branch Offices,
53 State St. 205 Fifth Av. 324 Walnut St.

PRIVATE WIRES

George Barclay Moffat, Alexander M. White Jr.

Moffat & White,

BANKERS.

Members N. Y. Stock Exchange.

NO. 1 NASSAU STREET.

I. F. MEAD. T. R. CURTIS.

I. F. MEAD & CO.,

44 & 46 BROADWAY, N. Y.

Twenty five years' membership in N. Y. Stock Exchange.

STOCKS AND BONDS

Bought and sold for Cash or on Margin.

SUNDAY, THREE CENTS. DAILY, ONE CENT.

"All the News That's Fit to Print."

The New York Times.

THE WEATHER. Fair, much colder, fresh northerly winds.

COPYRIGHT, 1901, BY THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPANY.

VOL. L...NO. 15,907. NEW YORK, TUESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1901.—SIXTEEN PAGES. ONE CENT { Greater New York, Jersey City, and Newark. / Elsewhere, TWO CENTS.

MR. ODELL IS READY TO BE INAUGURATED

He Arrives in Albany Unheralded and Ungreeted.

Walks to His Hotel with His Secretary —No Fight for Office in the Legislature.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Dec. 31.—Gov.-elect Odell arrived in Albany this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The simplicity of his entry was a subject of marvel. When he stepped from the train, accompanied only by his private secretary, James G. Graham, there was not a soul to meet or to greet him. It was a nasty day. A drizzling rain was falling and the atmosphere was raw. When Mr. Odell emerged from the railroad station he did not summon a hack. He turned up his coat collar and he and Mr. Graham walked up to the Ten Eyck Hotel, attracting scarcely any attention.

The contrast between Mr. Odell's arrival at the capital and that of Col. Roosevelt when he came to be inaugurated Governor could not but suggest itself. Hours before Col. Roosevelt's arrival men in Rough Rider uniforms dashed up and down State Street on foam-flecked steeds. The blare of trumpets split the air and caused thousands to gather. And when the hero of San Juan was driven through the streets there were cheering multitudes all along the line of his travel.

When Governor-elect Odell reached the Ten Eyck Hotel he was greeted by State Committeeman Dunn, who had arrived on an earlier train; Secretary of the State Committee Reuben L. Fox, and the advance guard of Senators and Assemblymen. Later in the day he walked to the Capitol and went to the Executive Chamber to pay his respects to Gov. Roosevelt. The Governor and the Governor-elect held a short private conference.

This evening Mrs. Odell, her children, the Governor-elect's father, and brothers arrived and were driven to the Executive Mansion.

The Governor's message contains just 13,000 words, which is 10,000 less than the first message of Gov. Roosevelt.

There is a remarkable lack of interest in the Republican caucus which is to be held to-morrow night. The reason is that there is but one contest, and that of no great moment. The single contest is over the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate. The aspirants for this place are Garret J. Benson and Charles Haughtaling. Benson is the choice of a majority of the Senators, but is being strenuously opposed by State Committeeman Barnes of this district, whom he has antagonized in local fights in Albany. The probability is that Benson will win.

Contemplation upon the one-sidedness of the outlook led Col. Reuben L. Fox, Secretary of the State Republican Committee, to become reminiscent yesterday.

"How times have changed and the politics of New York with them!" he remarked. "Here it is but a day before inauguration, and one would scarcely guess from the surface indications that we were on the eve of a legislative session. Everything is cut and dried. The Speaker, the President pro tem. of the Senate, the Chairmen of committees—all the appointees, in fact with the possible exception of the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate—have been agreed upon for weeks. How different it was in the old days! Then the Senators and members of the Legislature were wont to reach the capital at least five days in advance of the opening of the session, and the contests for the various places were carried on spiritedly, and not infrequently with rancor.

"I can recall several contests for Speaker, and for other important places, which were no decided until the vote was taken. There was the contest between Alvord and Sloan for Speaker in 1879. Both sides went to the Capitol with equal confidence. Alvord won by three votes. The bitterness engendered in that fight outlasted the session. As far as patronage was concerned, the men who voted for Sloan were given no more than members belonging to the minority. Alvord and his friends unblushingly hogged everything.

"Then there was the fight between John W. Vrooman and Henry A. Glidden for Clerk of the Senate, back in the old days. Vrooman won by one vote, that of Schroeder of Brooklyn. The Vrooman men, knowing that Schroeder would cast the deciding vote, went down to Poughkeepsie on a special train to meet him, and secured his pledge for Vrooman before he reached Albany. Having won the victory, the Vrooman men proclaimed the doctrine that to the victors belonged the spoils, and did not accord to their opponents a single place.

"While the contests of former years lent a greater interest to politics," continued Col. Fox, reflectively, "I think the methods of the present are an improvement. Such bitter rivalry as existed in the old days, and the plan of no quarter after victory, were not conducive to party harmony. Defeat brought heart burnings and deep resentment in those days, and party measures, which should have received a united support, frequently failed in consequence.

"There is more magnanimity in our State politics nowadays. Even when we have a contest for Speaker, the representatives who support the losing candidate are not ignored in the distribution of patronage. They are treated fairly. It is noteworthy in this connection that Senator Ellsworth, who was the Republican leader in the last Senate, as he will be in the present, secured less patronage than many of his colleagues. The plea which was made to him was: 'Oh, you are the leader, and you can get along with less than the rest of us. Your prestige will carry you through all right with your constituents.'

"And on this plea Senator Ellsworth let other Senators have patronage which he could justly have claimed for himself."

RAINES AND HIS LAW.

Senator Paid 15 Cents for a Sandwich with His Sunday Drink.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Dec. 31.—Senator John Raines, the author of the Raines law, went into the Ten Eyck Hotel barroom a few Sundays ago and called for a drink. When any one is served with a drink at the Ten Eyck bar on Sundays, there is also served an alleged sandwich for which 5 cents is charged. This is done to comply with the law. At least, that is what the waiter says, although there is nothing in the law which compels the obtaining of money under false pretenses. When Senator Raines received his bill there was on it a charge of 15 cents for the small shavings of bread and tongue, dignified by the name of sandwich.

"Do you charge for the sandwich?" asked the Senator.

"Oh, yes," said the waiter, who knew his man. "We have to, on account of the Raines law."

The Senator grumbled a little, but paid the bill.

"I have never seen him in here since," said the waiter who told the story.

GOVERNOR PARDONS CONVICTS.

ALBANY, Dec. 31.—Gov. Roosevelt has pardoned two convicts who were serving life sentences for murder at Auburn. One is Annie Walden, who shot and killed her husband, James Walden, a horse jockey, at the door of the house of a woman who had come between her husband and herself. The murder took place in September, 1891, and Mrs. Walden has been in prison ever since. Her pardon was requested by Mrs. Beekman de Peyster, a State Charities Commissioner, and other prominent women.

The other convict is Pasquale Leonardi. The commutation of his sentence was made on recommendation of Justice Stover of the Supreme Court, before whom Leonardi was tried; of Attorney General Davies, and of prominent citizens of Amsterdam. Leonardi was a traveling musician who, with a brother, was playing in Amsterdam. A number of sporting men induced them to enter a house which proved to be of a disorderly character. The two Italians were given beer, adulterated with whisky, and were subjected to gross indignities while in a half-crazed condition. A man named Conover was stabbed by Leonardi while the latter was laboring under the excitement caused by the liquor and indignities.

Gov. Roosevelt believes that under the circumstances executive clemency should be accorded.

EXPRESS COMPANIES TO MERGE

ALBANY, Dec. 31.—The Metropolitan Express Company of Newburg was incorporated to-day, with a capital of $500,000 to do a general express business. The Directors and stockholders are Frank Platt, who subscribes for 4,996 of the 5,000 shares of the company's stock, and George Sewell Bonner, Francis G. Kimball, Charles L. Kingsley, and James T. Crane, all of New York City, each one share. The company is of Newburg.

When Senator Platt was asked about the matter at the Fifth Avenue Hotel last night he said:

"It is impossible for me to explain at this time. Better see Frank H. Platt."

The latter, when interviewed, remarked:

"Can't say anything about it at this time. Come around later."

Two gentlemen connected with the express business, but who declined to permit the use of their names, last night expressed the opinion that the Metropolitan is an annex of the United States Express Company, of which Senator Platt is President, and that it is a step in the direction of the merging into one company of the United States, the American, and the National Express Companies. The American and the National have practically been one corporation for some time. The merging will enable the making of a large reduction in operating expenses, and to do business in fields not heretofore covered.

They added that it had been the talk of Wall Street for some time that a combination of express companies was under consideration; and in view of this fact the stock of the corporations interested had materially appreciated.

FESTETICS DIVORCE GRANTED.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—Judge Bahrs to-day granted the Countess Festetics, born Ella Haggin of New York, an absolute divorce. Incidentally, the Judge scored the Count severely for his indifference, neglect, and cruelty, and for his evident mendacity in his answer, in which he tried to blacken his wife's reputation.

Judge Bahrs declared that the Count never offered the plaintiff a home except on the little yacht Tolna, which was only 100 feet long and of 100 tons burden. He cites the evidence of one witness, Mrs. Ross-Thompson, who was on board the yacht after she arrived at Yokohama in a disabled condition, and who said of it:

"The cabin in which the Countess lived was a tiny little place, quite unfit for a lady to live in. It was very dirty, and a pig was running around the deck. There were many cockroaches all over the place. The crew was a mixed lot, containing many South Sea Islanders. They were not the kind of men I should want to be left with. I saw no American or English sailors.

"The Count was often away from the yacht at night, in spite of the fact that his wife was in poor health. The Countess frequently expressed a desire to live on shore, and left the yacht whenever she had an opportunity."

Judge Bahrs, in reviewing the Remington episode at Singapore, said the Count evidently magnified a simple social courtesy of his wife, as there was no evidence to support his statement of her flirtations.

The Judge finally declared that a yacht was no fit place for a lady, and as the Count failed to offer her maintenance elsewhere, she had no alternative but to leave him.

The Countess was not present in court. She is now living at her father's country place in Napa County, where she expects to make her home.

The Countess Festetics is the daughter of Louis T. Haggin of New York and granddaughter of J. B. Haggin, the famous mining millionaire and partner of the late Senator Hearst of California. When eighteen years old, in 1892, Ella Haggin married Count Rudolph Festetics de Tolna, in this city.

It was agreed that the couple should choose their honeymoon, and that the father of the bride should pay all the expenses. The Count decided on a six years' cruise on a yacht, and Mr. Haggin had the Tolna built at San Francisco. The bridal couple sailed Oct. 9, 1893, visiting many points in the Pacific and lived for two years in Japan.

The Countess visited her parents here in 1897, but soon rejoined her husband. They sailed for the Indian Ocean, and at Singapore had a quarrel, whereupon the Count left his wife there in April, 1899.

The Count continued on his cruise and the yacht was wrecked off Minicoi Island, north of the Maldive group, early in 1900.

The Countess returned as speedily as possible to the United States and at once commenced proceedings for a divorce, charging desertion, cruelty, and failure to provide for her.

In his answer the Count made countercharges, alleging his wife had been friendly with a British naval officer named Remington. He alleges that, finding his wife with Remington, he broke a bottle on the latter's head. He declares he spent $60,000 on the Countess, and that her parents had refused to pay him 1,000,000., in accordance with the terms of an alleged ante-nuptial agreement. It was because of their refusal to pay that he declined to abandon life on the yacht.

CHICAGO'S NEW GAS SYNDICATE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Another conference was held to-day by the prospective members of the new syndicate which may control the Ogden Gas Company. It was learned and announced, it is said, that the Municipal Gas Company has at present only 300 meters in its territory and that the gas furnished costs the company in the neighborhood of $2 a thousand cubic feet.

The most important question at present to those interested is the disposition of the Municipal Company. It was reported that the Ogden Company would take the business already acquired by the so-called "Dummy Company," but this rumor was denied by the Ogden officials, who suggested that under the circumstances the People's Gas Light and Coke Company would take the business into its office, since an amicable settlement had been arrived at and the rates charged by the two companies was the same.

It is also said that in New York the outcome of the deal is known and that the complexion of the new controlling body is such as will place the bonds in hands favorable to the People's Company.

The People's Gas Company filed a bill to-day in the United States Circuit Court asking that the City of Chicago be restrained from attempting to enforce an ordinance of Oct. 15 regulating and fixing the price of gas. It also asks that the ordinance be declared invalid.

AN "ARMISTICE" FOR CHINA?

May Mean Merely a Suspension of Military Raids.

Minister Conger Confirms the Report of the Acceptance of the Joint Note—Doubt of Its Unconditionality.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Peking, dated Sunday, Dec. 30, says an armistice has been proclaimed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The officials here are puzzled to account for the announcement of this armistice before the Chinese answer, which asked for it, had been received by the Ministers at Peking, for they assume that that answer was not received until last night.

However, it is suggested that the rather vigorous expressions of dissatisfaction by some of the powers at the prosecution of these military raids upon Chinese who are showing no disposition to attack foreigners, may have had some effect at last.

The State Department has sent a strong instruction to Minister Conger directly in line with the Chinese request for a suspension of military excursions.

It is not an "armistice," technically speaking, that is looked for now, but merely a suspension of military activity. Were the powers formally to consent to an "armistice" they thereby would commit themselves to a recognition of the existence of actual war with China, and there are strong reasons why such a committal should be avoided if possible.

THE CHINESE REQUESTS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Minister Conger has confirmed the report that the Chinese Plenipotentiaries have been ordered to accept the joint note, and Prince Ching requests further conference. No confirmation has, however, been received of the report that the Plenipotentiaries have been instructed to secure a modification of certain provisions, including that for the destruction of the forts. As the joint note stated that all these demands were "irrevocable," it is difficult to see how a modification of them can be secured.

The points said to have been objected to by China are among those which were objected to by the United States, and it China really objects to them she will probably have some moral support from this country. It is not believed, however, that the subject can be reopened.

The only demand or request made by the Chinese, so far as the information given by Minister Conger goes, is that the Allies shall put an end to the punitive expeditions. This is exactly in line with the wishes of the United States, and Minister Conger has been instructed to support the Chinese in this position. A dispatch to that effect went to him to-day. The United States Government has viewed the punitive expedition business with increasing disgust.

There is some hope that the British will support the United States in the contention for the abolition of the punitive expeditions which Mr. Conger has been instructed to support. This case has come to a pass where it is the public's duty to step in and relieve the terrible strain under which the Cudahy familily is living. That last letter from the kidnappers puts a serious coloring on the case. It is not right to expect Mr. Cudahy to continue his offer of $25,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the men who stole his boy.

"It is not comfortable for the Cudahy family to be living under a threat that a bullet will end the life of one of their children in case their reward is continued, and law and order demand that an end be brought to such proceedings."

ELY MINE SALE COMPLETED.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—The final payments in completion of the purchase of the Ely-Copperfield Mines, Copperfield, Vt., were made to-day to Robert F. Straine of Boston and his associates by George Westinghouse of Pittsburg and his associates, and the Ely copper mines now pass into the absolute ownership and possession of the Westinghouse Electric Company.

This property was sold by Mr. Straine to Mr. Westinghouse a year ago this month, the purchase being made in the interests of the Westinghouse Electric Company so that the company might be independent as a producer on its own account of all its needed copper supplies, as against any diminution in copper production or an abnormal advance in prices therefor.

The Westinghouse people have had a large force of several hundred men at work on the mines during the past year with most satisfactory results, placing the property on a handsome paying basis. Important and extensive new development work has been done and large ore bodies have been opened. New furnaces have been erected and processes have been successfully adopted for the treatment of the ores on a more economical basis than in the past history of the mines. It is proposed in the Spring to build a railroad from the Ely mines to White River Junction, at which point it is intended large reduction and smelting works will be established for the permanent operation of the mines.

It may be of interest to know that this is practically the oldest copper mine in America; having been successfully and profitably operated during successive periods under different managements since 1820. Its main working shaft is down nearly 5,000 feet on the incline. At one time during an active period in the development of these mines over 1,000 men were employed upon the property.

These mines have produced as high as 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 pounds of refined copper per annum. It is expected that the coming year will show a production of from 7,000,000 to 10,000,000 pounds of refined copper.

Mr. Straine has owned the controlling interest in the property since 1894, but owing to fierce contentions and long-continued litigation the mines were operated only for a brief period of this time, and Mr. Straine finally consented to dispose of the property to settle all litigation and secured Mr. Westinghouse and his associates as purchasers. This means a permanent development of the copper mines in the Copperfield region which will result in important benefits to that locality and the State at large.

BIG COTTON DIVIDENDS.

Special to The New York Times.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 31.—G. M. Haffards & Co., bankers and brokers, have issued their annual statement of dividends paid by thirty-six local cotton corporations. It shows payments of $1,551,000 on a capital of $21,241,000, or an average of 7.25 per cent. Last year the average was 5.72; in 1898, 2.22; 1897, 3.38; 1896, 5.95; 1895, 8.18; 1894, 7.50; 1893, 7; 1892, 11.40; 1891, 4.90, and in 1890, 7.50.

The figures of 1900 given above do not include the bond dividends of the Border City and King Philip Mills, (50 per cent. each,) the bond dividend of the Shove Mills, (25 per cent.,) the stock dividend of 25 per cent. declared by the Osborn Mill, nor the stock dividend of 60 per cent. declared by the Union Mill, supplemented cash dividend of 15 per cent. Were these included they would increase the disbursement $1,850,000, and would more than double the average, making it the largest known since war times.

The Cornell Mill shows a dividend of 13 per cent., and it paid 12½ per cent. last year. It has a comfortable surplus earned on 42,000 spindles. The dividends of 27 per cent. paid by the Troy Mill look large, but the corporation owns centrally located real estate that brings in a large revenue, and the capitalization is but $6 per spindle. The Slade and Fall River were the only two that passed dividends.

AUTOMOBILE LINE IN BOSTON.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—It looks as if the new Back Bay automobile omnibus line were making a hit to-day. After the first trip, which could not have been expected to accommodate many because it was run at 7:30 in the morning, there was a steady increase in patronage, and the forenoon's average on this first regular business day was eleven or twelve passengers on each round trip between the corner of Deerfield and Beacon Streets and the subway station in Scollay Square.

Several times on the down trip the 'buses had their twelve seats occupied before turning out of Beacon Street, and would-be passengers who signaled from the sidewalk had to be left waiting for the next 'bus. Though the street surface was rather trying for the heavy autos, on account of the wet, the rigs got over the route in very good time. Some of the mid-forenoon trips were made between termini in fifteen minutes, most of them took twenty to twenty-five, and a few occupied the full thirty minutes allowed by the schedule. Two 'buses were stalled en route, and a relief 'bus had to be sent down from the central station to give the passengers the remainder of their ride, but, on the whole, things run very smoothly and the 'buses proved popular with the women folks of Beacon Street from the very start.

Duke of York to Visit Canada.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Dec. 31.—The Secretary of State has received a message from her Majesty the Queen stating that their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of York will be pleased to visit Canada in the course of the coming year. This message is an answer to an invitation sent by the Dominion Government.

No Need for Anxiety.

Pennsylvania Railroad trains leaving New York at frequent intervals for the West and Southwest are protected by electric signals.—Adv.

OMAHA OFFERS A REWARD.

City Will Give $25,000 for Conviction of Cudahy Kidnappers—Wants to Relieve Cudahys from Fear.

OMAHA, Dec. 31.—At a specially called meeting of the City Council that body today unanimously adopted a concurrent resolution offering a reward of $25,000 for the apprehension and conviction of the persons who abducted Edward Cudahy, Jr., on the night of Dec. 18. For the arrest and conviction of one, the resolution provides a reward of $8,000, for two $15,000 will be paid, and the whole amount is offered for the three principals. The Council also asked Mr. Cudahy to withdraw his offer of a reward of an equal amount for the capture of the criminals.

The object of the city's offer is largely to relieve Mr. Cudahy and his family of the fear of reprisals from the bandits, and to remove from the police and detectives the restraint they have felt in trailing the bandits on account of the very trying position in which Mr. Cudahy has been placed. The action of the Council is generally commended by the citizens of the city.

Mayor Moore, speaking of the matter, to-day made the following statement:

"This case has come to a pass where it is the public's duty to step in and relieve the terrible strain under which the Cudahy familily is living. That last letter from the kidnappers puts a serious coloring on the case. It is not right to expect Mr. Cudahy to continue his offer of $25,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the men who stole his boy.

"It is not comfortable for the Cudahy family to be living under a threat that a bullet will end the life of one of their children in case their reward is continued, and law and order demand that an end be brought to such proceedings."

MR. PLATT'S POLICE BILL

Provides for One Commissioner with Two Deputies.

DEVERY WOULD BE OUSTED

If the Measure Is Passed His Office Would No Longer Exist.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Dec. 31.—Under the Police bill fathered by Senator Platt, which will be introduced on the opening day of the session, the office of Chief of Police of Greater New York is to be abolished. The bill is to provide for a single Police Commissioner and two Deputy Chiefs, one for Manhattan and the Bronx, and the other for Kings, Richmond, and Queens Counties. This is Senator Platt's plan for getting rid of Devery as it was outlined to-night by an official who said he spoke with knowledge.

The stated programme is to put the bill through with all possible rapidity. If it becomes a law Devery will be out of office, for the office which he now holds will no longer exist. It will then devolve upon the Police Commissioner appointed by the Mayor to name the two Deputy Chiefs. As the Police Commissioner will be subject to removal by the Governor, it is not considered likely that he will make an appointment which will incense the Republican organization.

COMMITTEE OF FIVE MEETS.

Later It May Co-operate with the Committee of Fifteen.

The Tammany Committee of Five, appointed to investigate vice in New York, held a meeting yesterday afternoon behind closed doors, at its headquarters, 192 Bowery. The session took place shortly after 3 o'clock. All of the members except Commissioner Keller, who is ill, were present. M. Warley Platzek, who is still under the weather from an attack of grip, was late in arriving. The anteroom was full of reporters, ready for the bombshell which Mr. Nixon, in an interview, had promised.

At the end of an hour Chairman Nixon came out. In answer to a question, he said:

"I have nothing to give out except that I wish you all a happy new year. The bombshell promised did not materialize. The meeting has been adjourned until next Monday. You must wait until then."

Mr. Nixon declined to answer further questions. The other members of the committee likewise declined to make statements.

There was no meeting of the Committee of Fifteen yesterday. The next meeting of the Committee will take place to-morrow.

At Police Headquarters all was quiet yesterday. Chief Devery declined as usual to discuss any phase of the situation bearing on his removal as the head of the department.

In the afternoon he sent Deputy Chief Clayton of Queens Borough an order to be transmitted to all precinct commanders directing the patrolmen in case of emergency to summon local doctors. The reason for this is because there is only one available hospital in some portions of the Borough of Queens, and that is situated in Jamaica. As Queens is the largest borough territorially in the city, a summons for the ambulance at Jamaica is generally attended by long delay, owing to distances to be traversed, and in the long delay the person needing surgical or medical attendance suffers, and perhaps dies.

When President York's attention was called to the order he said that he realized that there was need of something like this in Queens. He said that he would bring the matter up at the next board meeting and try to have authorized the setting aside of a fund for the summoning of local physicians.

A story was published in an afternoon paper that Chief Devery, even if he resigned voluntarily, would not be eligible to the pension list because charges made against him before he became Chief had been allowed to remain untried. President York, in speaking on this point, said:

"When Devery was Captain he was dismissed on charges of allowing disorderly places to exist in his precinct. He was reinstated by the courts. When Frank Moss was the police board he drew up similar and other charges against Devery's lawyer procured a writ of prohibition from the courts preventing the hearing of these charges on the ground that the law required the board to be bi-partisan, and it was charged that Andrews was not a Democrat. These charges are still pending and could have been tried by the present board. They have been allowed to sleep. Since that time Devery has been promoted a number of times."

TRIED TO ENJOIN BOARD.

Restraining Order to Prevent Appointments of Sergeants Denied.

An unsuccessful attempt to secure a peremptory injunction restraining the Police Commissioners from making appointments of Sergeants was made yesterday morning in Brooklyn. Lawyer Albert E. Moore appeared before Justice Maddox and applied for an order enjoining the Board of Police Commissioners from taking further action in the matter of appointing Sergeants until the case of Roundsman Antonio Vachris had been adjudicated. The application was denied.

It was very general talk in police circles in Brooklyn that Commissioner Abell had something to do with the application for an injunction. According to a story in circulation, Mr. Abell had been given to understand that he was to be left out in the distribution of the appointments, but that Commissioner Hess was to share in them for acting with York and Sexton under promise of reappointment by the Mayor.

MRS. NATION QUARANTINED.

Smallpox in Jail Where Kansas Saloon Wrecker Is Held—Says She Can Stand It.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 31.—The jail of this county, in which Federal prisoners are also kept, was quarantined to-day for smallpox. The Prohibitionists alleged that the quarantine was put on by pressure of saloon interests as an extra punishment of Mrs. Nation, the saloon smasher, who is confined there, but this is denied. No prisoners will be allowed to enter or leave the jail, and the Federal and District Courts, which would open next Monday, are compelled to postpone all trials until April.

Mrs. Nation, in the course of an appeal to women everywhere to aid in the crusade against saloons begun by her in Wichita, says:

"I can stay in jail and eat my bread and gravy in a tin pan and with a spoon. I can stay here and be quarantined from seeing any friends. I can sleep on a bed without a pillow and take the fare of the poor criminals and feel this a small sacrifice. Can you not do something? Take your consecrated rocks, hatchets, and brickbats and anything that comes handy and you can clean this curse out. Don't wait for the ballot.

"I have exhausted every ordinary means and looked into the faces of mothers, wives, daughters who were broken hearted till I have become almost desperate, and I am doing the best I can, the worst I can, and all I can, and expect to continue, if it ends at the stake. I expect to lay my ashes here even if my body shall be cremated by the whisky element."

Mrs. Nation charges Gov. Stanley with being responsible for all the "joints" and "boot-legging" in Kansas.

COLD WAVE COMING.

Temperature Will Fall to 10 Degrees Lower by To-morrow.

The following dispatch was received at the New York Weather Bureau last night from the Washington bureau:

"Cold wave; temperature will fall to 10 degrees or lower by Wednesday morning."

RUINOUS FLOODS IN ENGLAND.

Trains Stopped, Villages Isolated, Buildings Carried Away, and Stock Drowned.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—Abnormal snowstorms, deluging rains, and furious gales have created havoc. In many parts of the country there have been disastrous floods, landslips, and washouts. On all sides much stock has been drowned. The railroads and highways are blocked, buildings and bridges have been carried off, and the overflowing streams have inundated miles of country, while the rains have submerged the streets in some of the towns three to four feet.

At Coventry the devastation is greater than at any time during the last thirty years. A number of factories have been flooded, and hundreds of the inhabitants are imprisoned in their homes.

Many trains on the Midland Railroad have been stopped and their fires extinguished by the floods.

The town of Bath is endangered by the rise of the Avon, which is now ten feet above the normal.

In South Leicestershire this afternoon a well-filled passenger train narrowly escaped destruction, a bridge collapsing just as the train had crossed. The train was derailed on the muddy embankment. Fortunately there were no fatalities.

Immense tracts of land in several counties have been transformed into inland seas, the inhabitants seeking refuge in the upper rooms of their dwellings. Many villages are altogether isolated, and some towns of considerable size are without gas, owing to the works being flooded.

MAYOR HARRISON CENSURED.

He and Other Chicago Officials Severely Rebuked by the December Grand Jury.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—The December Grand Jury made its final report to Judge Gibbons this afternoon. Mayor Harrison, Chief Kipley, six Inspectors of Police, special assessment officials, and other employes of the municipality were severely censured. No indictments were returned.

The jury placed the responsibility for the prevalence of crime and other alleged scandals at the Mayor's door. In doing so the Mayor's own testimony before the jury was elted. He told the jury that he was responsible for the Police Department and whatever violations of law it permitted. They argued that the Mayor should be censured for upholding a force that would not enforce the observance of the statutes.

The six Inspectors, who were styled "Commanders of Divisions," were rebuked in no mild manner. They were charged with knowing the condition of affairs, and with not taking any steps to prevent illegal practices.

In general the report was especially severe upon the Police Department. It recommended that a thorough shaking up take place in that branch of the government. It stated that over 1,000 policemen are indictable under law, but that the jury believed the place to strike was at the head and not at the "small men."

Sufficient evidence, the report said, could not be secured to warrant a conviction or the voting of an indictment in connection with the big officials, but it asserted in forcible language that they are to blame.

LIEUT. CRIMMINS ENGAGED.

Son of John D. Crimmins to Wed in San Francisco.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—Lieut. Crimmins of the Sixth Infantry, who is on his way to the Philippines, became engaged to Miss Margaret Cole of San Francisco just ten days after he first saw her. Miss Cole is the daughter of a prominent local attorney who died about three years ago. Crimmins is the son of a well-known New York contractor. The Lieutenant will form part of the provisional army of the Philippines, and will leave in about two weeks for the islands, carrying his bride. He has already served in the islands, and was invalided home last year.

Martin Crimmins is the son of John D. Crimmins, the well known contractor. At the outset of the Spanish war he disappeared, and there was much conjecture as to his whereabouts, when he was located in the camp of the Rough Riders, in which regiment he had enlisted. He was in ill-health at the time, and Col. Duffy of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, who had located him for his father, reported the fact to Gen. Coppinger, who had him transferred to his headquarters, where he was appointed orderly. Prior to his enlistment Lieut. Crimmins was a student in the medical department of the University of Virginia.

C. H. CHICKERING'S WIDOWS.

Four Women Claim the Estate of a Plainfield (Conn.) Man.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 31.—The question as to how many widows C. H. Chickering, the former proprietor of the Plainfield (Conn.) Hotel leaves is one that is likely to keep the courts busy for some time to come. Chickering was found dead in Albion yesterday, and there are thus far four claimants for his estate from women who show certificates of their marriage to him.

Chickering appeared in Plainfield last Summer and bought the hotel, and, on account of his address and popularity, soon became a leading light in the village. There was a woman with him who he said was his housekeeper. He disappeared on election day just as the Sheriff arrived to attach his person.

His housekeeper claimed to be his wife, and three days later a woman from Springfield, Mass., arrived with the same claim. It was then stated that Chickering was engaged to marry the daughter of a well-known farmer in the district.

Since then two other women have appeared in search of their missing spouse, and there was a general reunion to-day over the body in Albion.

Chickering was killed by a freight train while walking on the railroad track.

OPERATION ON INCUBATOR BABY

Surgeon Tries to Give Sound Body to J. Ogden Armour's Child.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Dr. John Ridlon today performed an operation on Lolita Armour, the three-year-old daughter of J. Ogden Armour, for the purpose of perfectly articulating her thigh bones to the pelvic structure. The work was successful, and the child, who since her birth has been an invalid, is in a fair way to attain a sound frame. Dr. Ridlon devoted months to a study of his little patient's case before he operated on her, and did not apply his instruments until he had exhausted all the information which the surgical world had to offer on the particular disorder under consideration.

For the first year of her life Lolita Armour lived in an incubator, but despite all the care exercised in nursing her, it was found that her femurs were but loosely connected with the pelvic bones. She was therefore unable to walk as she grew older, and she was denied nearly all the pleasures of childhood. It is believed now that she will be able soon to romp and play like other children.

Even the Speed is placed with the mail [illegible] the Pennsylvania Railroad.

TWENTIETH CENTURY'S TRIUMPHANT ENTRY

Welcomed by New York with Tumultuous Rejoicing.

CITY HALL GORGEOUSLY DECKED

Brilliant Illuminations and a Pandemonium of Music, Song, and Noise—Wedding at Midnight—Great Crush Almost Causes Panic.

The Century is dead; long live the Century! Yesterday was the Nineteenth, today the Twentieth. Some time last night the one died and the other was born. Here in New York the event took place at midnight. A moment of darkness at the City Hall, an instant's interlude in the ringing, a hush among the crowd—and the Old Century was buried. The lights flashed, the crowds sang, the sirens of craft in the harbor screeched and roared, bells peeled, bombs thundered, rockets blazed skyward, and the new Century made its triumphant entry.

It was distinctly an electric celebration in which the city indulged. Everywhere the shimmering gleam of electric lights shot their effulgence out over city and river and harbor, lighting up the thoroughfares with a noonday brilliance, throwing their deep reflection against the overhanging sky, making the darkness radiant.

And there was music, and noise that wasn't music, tin horns and trumpets, drums and other din-evolving instruments. The latter were largely manipulated by the small boy; the former came from lips and throats that were of the small boy once but are now more matured.

The centre of attraction was the City Hall. Two thousand flags and more, suspended and draped in knots and groups and singly about the building; 2,000 electric lights studding the exterior in delicate tracery formed by strings of bulbs in red, white and blue; the emblazoned arms of the great metropolis of the western world; a gigantic "WELCOME, 20TH CENTURY" standing in lettering of light across the front, combined to make the civic capitol gorgeous and win the admiration of the immense crowd.

THE OFFICIAL CEREMONIES.

It was 10:45 o'clock when the actual programme of the ceremonies began, an overture by Sousa's Band ushering in the music and song with which the fleeting hours of the dying century were made melodious. Long before then, however, the crowds had been gathering in the open space in front of the Municipal building, overflowing into the adjoining streets east, west, and south, Park Row, Broadway, and the connecting thoroughfare north of the Post Office.

At 10:30 o'clock circulation among the mass was almost impossible, except along the outermost fringe, where an extra force of police, especially detailed for the occasion, struggled to maintain some semblance of open passageway.

Following the overture Randolph Guggenheimer, President of the Council, made his appearance upon the steps and was seen to move his lips as though addressing remarks to the gathering. This was the city's inauguration address, welcoming Century No. 20 to New York., It was in part as follows:

"To-night when the clock strikes 12 the present century will have come to an end. We look back upon it as a cycle of time within which the achievements in science and in civilization are not less than marvelous. The advance of the human race during the past 100 years has not been equaled by the progress of man within any of the preceding ages.

"The possibilities of the future for mankind are the subjects of hope and imagination. We shall soon be not only citizens of a Nation recognized throughout the world as the greatest, of a State pre-eminent among States, and of a city not only the metropolis of the Western world, but of the whole world. Our advance in all directions which make a city great already places our city without a parallel in the Western hemisphere, and the same progress continued will make New York without a peer among the cities of the earth, its citizens unequaled in intelligence, in education, and supplied with all the benefits and advantages that flow from civilization.

"On this occasion, which is one of solemnity, I express the earnest wish that the rights of the individual man shall continue to be regarded as sacred, and that the crowning glory of the coming century shall be the lifting up of the burdens of the poor, the annihilation of all misery and wrong, and that the peace and good-will which the angels proclaimed shall rest on contending nations as the snowflakes upon the land."

Then came a song from 500 picked voices of the united German singing societies of the city. "Der Tag des Herrn" was what they sang. There was no trouble in hearing this time, and the crowd cheered and tooted horns approvingly.

There was another overture by the band, and after that the People's Choral Union, 1,000 strong, held the boards, or rather the steps. First they sang "America," and thousands of enthusiastic throats among the crowd took up the anthem with fervor.

"The Star-Spangled Banner," "Ring Out, Wild Bells," "Hallelujah Chorus," "Sea, Mountain, and Prairie," and "Hymn of Thanks" completed the programme of song by the Choral Union. Between each piece the band played a different overture. "Aus der Heimath," by the united German singing societies, ended the musical portion of the celebrations.

A BRILLIANT SPECTACLE

But it was the spectacular rather than the musical that appealed to the crowds. Just as the hands of the big clock on the City Hall were on the point of marking the midnight hour the lights outside were turned off. For an instant the outlines of the building were dark against the lighted background, then almost immediately the entire front burst into a flood of light. Every electric bulb was re-illumined, and the red, white, and blue globes lit up the building to midday brilliance. "Welcome Twentieth Century" stood forth again in striking prominence, not only across the front of the edifice, but in devices at either side.

Simultaneously with the illuminations, forty lyddite bombs were discharged from the park, while bombshells innumerable shot upward and, careening, meteorlike across the sky, burst into myriad fragments, gyrating and squirming and falling earthward in showers of green and gold and red and blue.

Not only from the City Hall Park did the fireworks crash and sizz and explode, but from the tops of a number of the huge skyscrapers which front on Park Row and vicinity rockets, Roman candles, and bombs made the midnight luminous, noisy, and sulphurous-smelling.

The pyrotechnic display was gorgeous. Novel effects in exploding bombshells, which precipitated showers of fantastically shaped objects; balls of various colors, glittering arrowheads and sprays of silver and gold, red and blue and spikes of prismatic lights, huge bouquets of flowers, like balls of silver foil opening out into blossoms of variegated colors; electric fountains and forests of fire, were a few of the features of this portion of the welcome to 1901.

All work ceased for ten minutes in the composing room of THE NEW YORK TIMES at 11:55 o'clock and more than one hundred employes trooped up to the roof of the building, each carrying an armful of Roman candles and rockets. As the hands of the City Hall clock far below dissolved into one a salute of twenty heavy bombs was fired from the northwest corner of the roof and immediately the other fireworks were set off, each man holding two Roman candles, one in each hand. The cascade of sparks falling down the sides

Faster than Ever to California.

Every day in the year the Overland Limited leaves Chicago 6:30 P. M. via the shortest route, Chicago and Northwestern, Union and Southern Pacific Railways and arrives San Francisco 6:45 P. M. third day. Best of everything. Double drawing room sleeping cars, buffet, library car, (with barber,) and dining cars. Full information at Northwestern Line Office, 461 Broadway.—Adv

INDEX TO DEPARTMENTS.

of the bubbles formed a veritable cataract of fire, while the dazzling fusillade of stars rising overhead added greatly to the general illumination of City Hall Park.

Inside the City Hall the walls and ceilings had been artistically draped with flags and buntings, and the building was brilliantly illuminated. Admission to the interior was by invitation, and only a limited number were permitted to gain entrance.

One of the interesting events which occurred away from the view of the crowd was a marriage, the first marriage in New York of the new century. Charles E. McCue of 79 Tillary Street, Brooklyn, and Miss Maggie Kellegher of 97 Central Park West were the couple who selected the place and the hour for the inauguration of their joint domestic career. They were married by Alderman Ernest J. Seebeck in the Council Chamber at the exact striking of the hour of 12.

OLD TRINITY CHIMES.

While the ceremonies at City Hall were going on enormous and noisy crowds had also assembled about old Trinity Church. At 11:30 the first peals of the bells were heard. Fourteen numbers in all were given at brief intervals by Albert Meislahn, the organist.

With the vanishing of the last rockets and the booming of the final bombs, the crowd, which had packed itself solidly into the vacant spaces of City Hall Park and adjoining streets and far up and down Broadway, began to disperse, and the greatest difficulty was experienced by the police in preventing dangerous crowding along the more congested routes. In one or two instances there was almost a panic, and a number of persons were slightly injured.

The crush was worst along Park Row between THE NEW YORK TIMES Building and the bridge, where the crowds were struggling to reach the elevated trains for Brooklyn and up-town New York. Several women were badly frightened, and two or three fainted. A small boy was also injured by being trampled upon, and was rescued with some difficulty.

The fact that there would be a dangerous crush after the display became apparent at quite an early hour, and at 11:30 o'clock Inspector Grant telephoned to Police Headquarters for an additional force of 150 police to strengthen the 1,500 he already had. These were dispatched to the City Hall without delay.

At 1 o'clock the crowds had greatly thinned out, and all danger was over.

While the principal celebration was down town, great animation also reigned up town. Early in the evening the crowds began to gather in the Tenderloin section of Broadway, and by 11 o'clock they had grown to enormous proportions.

Special arrangements had been made for controlling them, and Capt. Thomas of the West Thirtieth Street Station had his force augmented by the reserves from several of the Bronx stations, the bicycle squad, and a few from Brooklyn.

The police, however, found no difficulty in handling the people except to keep them moving, for they were in high good humor. Many had horns and blew them almost constantly. According to the police, the crowd was one of the largest and best-natured that they have ever been called upon to handle.

When midnight arrived the crowds seemed to stand still and sent up cheer after cheer. The horns were blown continuously for several minutes and the new century was welcomed with the utmost enthusiasm.

WATCH NIGHT SERVICES.

Song and Prayer Mark the New Century's Birth in Protestant Churches.

Watch night services were held in all Methodist Episcopal churches in Brooklyn and in many of the churches of the same and other Protestant denominations in Manhattan. The services varied greatly in the different churches, in some the music being the principal feature, while in others they consisted principally of prayers and addresses. All the congregations were surprisingly large in view of the great demonstration out of doors.

Special interest attached to the meetings in the Methodist churches from the fact that watch-night services were a characteristic of the early days of that Church. Many down-town business men attended the meeting in the old John Street Church, which lasted for more than two hours. Near the altar stood the old oaken clock presented to the church by John Wesley when it was established in 1768 as the first of the denomination in the Western Hemisphere. When the iron hands, forged by an Epworth blacksmith of many generations ago, came together the congregation rose and joined in the Doxology.

At the Old First Presbyterian Church in Fifth Avenue, which also now sees its third century, the hour was marked with twenty strokes on the big bell. The Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield, the pastor, conducted the service, which was principally choral, the elaborate musical programme being rendered under the direction of Prof. William Carl, the organist.

The Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur preached his last sermon of the old century in the Calvary Baptist Church. "The world was never so good as to-night," he said. "The Bible was never so studied as now, and science has become docile and reverent. All discoveries—steamships, railways, telephones, and telegraphs—are ministers of civilization and religion. Early in the twentieth century they will girdle the world, making it a whispering gallery, voiceful with praise and radiant with the glory of God." After the sermon a social reunion was held in the adjoining chapel, at which refreshments were served, and at five minutes before midnight the congregation all knelt and received the century in silent prayer.

The Rev. Dr. John J. Reed conducted the service in the lecture room of the Washington Square Methodist Episcopal Church, the congregational singing being led by John D. Slayback, President of the Board of Trustees and Superintendent of the Sunday-school. The pastor preached on "Spiritual Foresight: So teach us to number our days that we may apply our own hearts unto wisdom." Experiences were told, and a service of prayer continued after the midnight hour.

The first watch night services ever held in Grace Protestant Episcopal Church were but poorly attended, and the passing crowd in Broadway made so much noise that it was hard for those in the rear of the church to pay attention to the service. The Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington officiated, pleading with his auditors to begin life anew with the century and defining the duties of a Christian. The chimes were played by Miss Bertha Thomas, but it was difficult to hear the bells even at the base of the steeple.

WHAT MR. McKINLEY WISHES?

LONDON, Jan. 1.—The Washington correspondent of The Daily Telegraph wires an interview with President McKinley, in the course of which he expresed a wish that the United States and Great Britain might continue in amity during the new century. Mr. McKinley, according to the correspondent, said he hoped for the acceptance of the amended Hay-Pauncefote treaty and expected to see the Nicaragua Canal commenced thoroughly in his second term of office.

CATHOLIC CHURCHES CELEBRATE.

For the second time in the history of the Catholic Church in America midnight mass was celebrated publicly by all the churches throughout the country. The first occasion was on Dec. 31, 1899, when, as the beginning of the last year in the old century, the Pope permitted Pontificial high masses to be celebrated in all the churches. This celebration also marked the opening of a jubilee year. The services of this morning, therefore, marked not only the beginning of the new century, but also the close of the jubilee year.

The services in the principal Catholic churches in this city were most elaborate. At St. Patrick's Cathedral, a Pontifical solemn high mass was celebrated by Archbishop Corrigan in presence of an attendance that filled the immense edifice to overflowing.

By 11 o'clock, when the doors were thrown open to ticket holders, the police estimated that there were 2,000 people in waiting. The crowd at that time extended from the main entrance clear across Fifth Avenue and similarly at the Fiftieth and Fifty-first Street entrances.

The church inside was simply but tastefully decorated. At the base of each pillar was an immense cedar, as there were also in the nooks and corners. Evergreens and potted plants and palms decorated the altar.

Shortly before 12 o'clock, just as horns without were sounding louder than ever and while the elevated railroad engines were shrieking shrill greetings to one another, the Cathedral chimes high in the purple sky pealed forth above the din.

"My Country, 'Tis of Thee," they rang, and hundreds who were still struggling to get in the Cathedral took up the refrain.

Promptly at midnight the procession appeared out of the sacristy. They marched down the southern aisle of the church and up the middle aisle to the altar. The celebrant of the mass was Archbishop Corrigan, and the assistant priest, Father M. J. Lavelle, rector of the Cathedral.

LABOR'S GREETING TO THE NEW CENTURY

Men Representing Many Callings Dine Together.

EDWIN MARKHAM READS POEM

Bishop Potter Among the Speakers of the Evening—A Greeting from the Old World.

Labor's greeting to the twentieth century was given last evening in the Arlington Hall, on Eighth Street. Men who have fought the battle for the rights of the labor unions dined with Bishops, politicians, and leaders of thought—with one poet—all of whom were looked upon as the friends of the laboring class.

The dinner and the series of ten-minute speeches were given "in confidence that the twentieth century will be the century of the people's triumph."

At midnight Edwin Markham, author of "The Man with the Hoe," read an orginal poem called "The Century Poem."

The project was arranged by the Committee of One Hundred, which was organized to call a convention in Cooper Union on Jan. 14, to establish a New York Federation Council of delegates from labor unions which shall demand that legislators frame the will of the people and enact laws in regard to the tenement-house problem, the sweat-shop system, shorter number of hours and other subjects in which organized labor is interested.

Before the 400 guests sat down to the dinner table they assembled in the reception room. Edwin Markham, who came with his wife, was given a hearty cheer. Controller Coler also received an enthusiastic greeting from the labor men.

The dinner served cost 50 cents a plate. It was partaken of by over 200 handsomely dressed women. George McNeil, the labor representative from Boston, addressed the throng as "the 400 of New York." During the dinner a large orchestra played, and the surroundings were much the same as those at the more elaborate feasts of people of wealth.

After the dinner Toastmaster Ernest H. Crosby made a speech telling the object of the gathering. He then introduced John Swinton. The keynote of Mr. Swinton's speech was "that the frecked Caliban of labor was beginning to learn the meaning of the word right."

His speech was received with hearty applause. He said that the laboring man was only able to read words of one syllable, but that he was learning; was thoroughly learned. He said that labor was learning to hunt out rapscallions. "The Triumph of Labor" in the nineteenth century was declared by Mr. Swinton to be the ability to spell two words—"right" and "wrong"—and he predicted that during the twentieth century labor would keep up the march of progress until it was triumphant.

